Mr. Fielding then commented briefly on some of the minor points of the bill, deploring the retention of the lands by the Dominion, which, he said, was desirable for strong reasons. Land was scarce in the older provinces; it was necessary in order to carry on the Government's vigorous immigration policy, which had built up the west in the past eight years, to retain control of lands. If they erred, they erred in good company, for Sir John Macdonald had retained control of the lands of Manitoba, even though the provinces came afterwards and asked that the control be given to it. The financial terms were analyzed by the Finance Minister, who described them as Liberal, and justified them by comparison with the other provinces.

The Overshadowing Question.

"But I know that all these questions, important though they may be, are overshadowed in the public mind by this great question of education. I believe to-day that most of the people of Canada are not thinking very much about the financial terms, the lands, or anything of that sort, but they are very much disturbed in many quarters in consequence of reports that have gone abroad as to the nature and effect of the resolutions proposed in relation to the public schools. Now, this is a class of questions that at any time should be approached with all possible deliberation, especially in a country like Canada, with our diversity of race and creed. He would be a rash man who would plunge into a discussion of that question without a disposition to be reasonable with regard not only to the opinions and convictions, but possibly even to the prejudices, of his fellow men. It is in that spirit that we should approach the question, and should be prepared to listen to all that may be said to make an honest effort to meet the views of those who differ from us in opinion. We should aim as far as possible each of us, to have a system brought about which would come as nearly as possible to our own particular views, but surely each of us must realize that if we are to carry on the Government of the country, we must not insist on our individual views, but must try to meet the views of those who may differ from us, must try to find common ground of action. For myself I do not like the principle of separate schools; I regret that such a large number of my fellow-citizens in Canada are obliged to take a view, conscientiously, as they say, and as I believe, that they cannot support a system of free common schools.

Better for the Country.

"I think it would be a great thing for our country if in the growth that is now coming so rapidly upon us our children of all races and sections and creeds should meet from day to day and mingle together in work and in play, in the school room and on the play-grounds, and if we can happily agree upon such a policy it would do much for the grander upbuilding of the country of which we are so proud. I say unhesitatingly that if I were to have my own way only, if one could afford to insist that his opinion must prevail, regardless of the wishes of his brethren, I would like to see a school law which did not call for this word 'separate,' but we must take things as they are. We have to recognize the fact that forty-one per cent. of this Dominion do not think on that question as I do; do not think as the majority of Protestants think. (Applause.) What then? Shall we say that they are in the minority, and that, therefore, we shall have no regard for them; shall we say that they are but forty-one per cent., and we are fifty-nine per cent., and, therefore, we will be indifferent to them? No, Mr. Speaker, you cannot govern Canada by any such rule as that.

Not in Minority Everywhere.

"Let us do well to remember that the Roman Catholics are not in a minority everywhere; there is one great Province in which our Roman Catholic brethren are in the majority —overwhelmingly in the majority. Suppose we are to insist upon this doctrine of Provincial rights right down to the last point, that was argued to-night, what would be the condition of our Protestant brethren in the Province of Quebec? Suppose that under the sacred name of Provincial rights an effort were made to do away with the separate school system and with the rights of the minority in the Province of Quebec, what would we find? We would find the table of this House and the table of the Greater Parliament at Westminster — because the bill would have to pass the Imperial Parliament—we would find the table of this Parliament and the table of the Imperial Parliament loaded down with petitions, not of the character of so many that come to us now, insisting upon the doctrine of Provincial rights, but with petitions demanding that the name of Provincial rights should not be used for a purpose, demanding that the majority should not have the right to control, demanding that the rights of the Protestant minority in the Province of Quebec shall prevail instead of the wish of the majority. Let us not forget, as my Right Hon. friend the Prime Minister has shown, that in preparing the constitution of confederation the strongest advocates of separate schools were the representatives of the Protestant minority in Quebec. And, sir, it is unnecessary then to make an arrangement to protect the minority in that Province, is it a less dreadful thing that the minority elsewhere may ask to receive consideration? (Applause.) I venture to say that in the minds of the Protestants of Quebec that thought will sink deep to-day, and that they will be influenced by the Golden Rule: 'Do unto others as you would have others do unto you.'"

Three Lines of Thought.

Mr. Fielding went on to say that there were three great lines of thought to-day on the question of public education. One held by a great many people is that the secular system of education is the only system which we should have in the public schools. The second line of thought is that which is held by a large number of the advocates of what may be called national schools. These people hold that with secular education you may associate to a certain degree what may be properly called religious instruction, that you may be able to say to the teacher, "Thou shalt not teach 'ism' of any denomination but you may, and you should, inculcate by precept and example." The third line of thought was that held by our Roman Catholic fellow-citizens, but it was also held by many Protestants: That you cannot have education and religion separated. They said that with them it was a matter of conscience. They said that they must have their children taught by persons of their own faith, who can give instruction in their own creed, and they would be very much pleased if Protestants could adopt their views. They said — and who shall say that there is not much truth in their assertion? — that you cannot rely upon children receiving proper religious instruction in the home. We are living in a very rapid age, and he was afraid there was some room for the contention of our Roman Catholic brethren that religion will not be taught to the children of Canada unless the foundation of it is given to them in the schools. The trouble was that the people cannot be united in any community in an arrangement as to what is religion.

A Moral Obligation.

He took the view that if you will read the whole history of this question, you will come to the conclusion that though, as a matter of law, there may be no binding obligation—though in that sense you may not be able to produce a written contract, signed, sealed and delivered, as the leader of the Opposition had demanded — there might arise out of the whole history of this matter an obligation which the Parliament of Canada should consider, and which many men regarded as a moral obligation, which this House should fulfil.

Dr. Sproule — The Right Hon. the First Minister, went much further than to speak of it as a moral obligation, because he used the expression that the constitution provides that we must do it.

Mr. Fielding — I do not think he said the constitution provides that we must do it. I do not think my Right Hon. colleague is aware of any method by which any member of this Parliament can be compelled to vote in any other way than his intelligence and conscience dictates. But what I understood him to say is that the British constitution created an obligation which we should all consider, and to that extent he will be supported by very many men on both sides of the House.

No Discussion at the Time.

"It is curious," Mr. Fielding pointed out, "in view of the discussion and agitation which is taking place to-day, that when this act of 1875 was passed, there was practically no discussion of it in the House. There was certainly no adverse discussion. It is remarkable that the Parliament of Canada passed that clause, and put it upon the statute book by an unanimous vote of the House of Commons. Again I say, I do not for a moment contend, and I do not understand that my Right Hon. friend contended, that as a matter of constitutional right, fixed by the words of the statute, we are obliged to re-enact that clause. I go further, I do not hesitate to say that in my view at any time since 1875, it was within the power and the right—I don't say the moral right, but undoubtedly within the power—of this parliament to repeal the act of 1875."

Mr. Fielding quoted from the discussion in both Houses on the bill of 1875. Mr. Blake spoke of the great importance of settling the education question, and Hon. R. W. Scott also expressed pleasure at the settlement of the question. Sir Alex. Campbell, the Conservative leader of the Opposition in the Senate, spoke against the amendment by Senator Aikins to strike out the Separate school clause, and said, "It is much to be regretted if the amendment passed. The object of the bill was to establish and perpetuate in the Northwest Territories the same system as prevailed in Ontario and Quebec, and which had worked so well in the interest of peace and harmony in those Provinces. He thought the fairer course and the better one for all was to adopt the suggestion of the Government, and enable the people to establish separate schools in the Territories and thus prevent the introduction of evils from which Ontario and Quebec had suffered, but of which they had wisely rid themselves." Was it possible that meant that Sir Alex. Campbell desired to settle the question by adopting a separate school idea and for all time? Would he settle it up to a certain time and then throw the door open again? Hon. George Brown supported Mr. Aikins' amendment and said:—"The moment this act passed, when the North-west became a part of the union they came under the union and under the provisions with regard to separate schools."

Assurance to Immigrants.

Mr. Fielding continued: "I have no doubt from information that has reached me that many immigrants have come into the North-west Territories upon representations that the schools there would be conducted in accordance with their religious views, and I believe this to be correct. I may mention a little incident bearing on that. I had occasion recently to come into official contact with the representative of one of the continental nations. I was discussing with him the question of immigration, and said we wished to have immigrants come to Canada from this country. In the course of our conversation he said:—'If you are to get immigrants from our country this school question that is coming up becomes one of very great importance to us.' I have no doubt, therefore, that it can be shown that some of the immigrants who have gone into the North-west Territories have gone there because we have many Roman Catholic settlers in that country, and I believe it is true that many have come into that country on the faith of representations that the schools were to be conducted in accordance with the views of the Roman Catholic minority. (Cheers.)

Mr. McCarthy's Opinion.

"I find that not only is there the evidence I have referred to showing the intention at the time this act was passed, but later on there were

MANY ADVANCES IN PRICES TO-DAY

Butter Sold at 30c. to 35c. lb. at the Market—Other Prices.

The attendance at the outside market this morning was small, owing to the condition of the roads, which are reported to be in a state, which renders travelling extremely difficult. An illustration was given by the case of a farmer who this morning stated that 2 1-2 hours had been consumed in a five mile trip.

The inside market was somewhat more largely attended but the supply of some varieties of farm produce was totally inadequate to meet the demand and sold with great rapidity at prices much in advance of those of last week. This was particularly the case with butter, which, though considerable was offered, sold at 30c to 35c per lb. and even 36 to 38c in some cases. Eggs also showed an advancing tendency selling at 17c to 20c. The only poultry offered was chickens which were limited in quantity and brought about 80c pair. Honey was 10c lb. Beef remains 5c and 6c. There was no pork offered. The supply of potatoes was quite large, selling at 30c per bag. Different varieties of apples were offered at 30c. Hay was very limited in quantity and brought as a farmer expressed it "All one could get for it". Owing to the great difficulty in bringing it in. The small quantity in sight sold for $12.00.

ARISTOCRACY OF TURNBULL'S STYLES

Unusually Brilliant Opening of Spring Millinery and Ready-to-Wear Garments.

Formal Presentation of Spring Fashions —Pen Pictures of the Displays— Rich Setting of the Show Windows.

The Turnbull Company has captured the hearts of Peterborough people this season by their brilliant and impressive display of spring millinery and ready-to-wear garments. No one will be surprised with the ladies for having the subject of spring headwear and general dress closely to heart at this season of the year. But that the Turnbull opening should have attracted so much of the attention and admiration of the woman sex is a surprise that redounds to the artistic achievements of the skilful workers of this store.

MILLINERY A LA MODE.

The collection of beautiful ready-to-wear and trimmed hats, bonnets, etc., now on view in this most beautiful show room has been designed as a complete surprise to the ordinary expectations. The head milliners had just returned from the style centres with the latest correct ideas in spring millinery; the city emporiums of repute had been critically inspected, and excellent judgement used in the judicious selection of high-class imported pattern conceptions; in fact, "the best from each and the best from all" were the predominating features of this unrivalled formal opening. Their own workrooms, too, had contributed many beautiful models which vied with the imported gems in grace and becomingness. It was evident that the success of Turnbull's trimmed hat department was because of the faithful portrayal of the styles, not only in accordance with the dictates of fashion, but also in accordance with the desired modifications of their patrons.

Miss Noble, the painstaking modiste in charge, was kept so busy during the opening days, that the rare bits of information obtained were snatched as if by stealth.

Among the smaller hats which promise to be popular this season is a very pretty Corday Toque in old rose, with crown of canvas straw, crushed poppy trim, facing softly draped with white Valenciennes lace and caught at left side with cut jet, which makes a very suitable hat for a young lady.

The Charlotte Corday is a somewhat larger hat, covered in burnt cocos horse hair braid, with violet and foliage facing, simply trimmed on top with light shade of rouched ribbon, and finished at back with exquisite miniature slide.

A Polo, or pill box, Turban, which is to be much in vogue as a semi-dress hat, is shown in a combination of straw, flowers and ribbons in the pastel shades.

For for daintiness and loveliness the Parsifal, a picture hat, is especially suitable for functions. White tulle is used in the making of crown and upper brim, and the under brim has a facing of spangled passementaire outlined with pleated melune and lace. A black velvet ribbon girdle falls gracefully from side, back, and gives the finishing touch to this model.

There is really no limit to variety of materials this season, and, without doubt, it is to be colour season.

The tasteful interior decorations of the millinery parlour evoked many complimentary expressions from the visitors. The well-carpeted floor, the wall decorations, and the combination drapings of mirrors, windows and doorways, blended harmoniously with the exquisite creations and elegance of the milliner's art.

TAILOR-MADE GARMENTS PAR EXCELLENCE.

Speculations as to what will be fashionable this spring in ladies' tailor-made suits, coats, skirts, waits, shirt waist suits, and rain coats, is now replaced with certainty. To see the new creations in these lines at Turnbull's is to become well informed as to what the leaders of styles have evolved. The display comprises both unique and popular models, and is so wide in its variety as to cover the wants and wishes of every customer. Many of the richly-gowned visitors who crowded the rooms, came as if they came for first choice, rather than for mere looking. It has been a long winter, and the spring styles will be worn even earlier than usual — for the holidays of Easter, April 23rd, has caused a general planning of new attire for one long before the end of Lent. Hence these Turnbull beauties are of especial interest, just as they are of abounding loveliness.

Tan Covert Coats are shown, as well as black, in new spring varieties, varying in length, and with all the advanced ideas and "tailor finish" and fit to conform to woman's requirements. The tailor-mades are taking to themselves quite a dressy type.

The Redingote in dark green fabric, with its long umbrella skirt, is a brand new type of garment fresh from Paris. Another of the same in black silk chiffon, beautifully shirred and fitted on a model which which develops its rich and rare features.

Handsome tailored and semi-tailored suits, skirts and outing garments jaunty, metropolitan models in new fabrics and colours.

Ladies' shirt waist suits, beautifully tailored, overflowing with that charming smartness that best dressed women demand. Dainty, shirt waist models, in crepe de chene, light silks, Sicilians, and two toned fancy silk effects, Imported novelties in ladies' cravenette raincoats, in three-quarter and full length styles, dressy and warranted.

An Arrangement Entered into Last Night.

Solicitor for the Company Met the Council in Committee.

Last night the Committee of the Whole Council met to confer with Mr. MacMurchy, solicitor for the C. P. R., with reference to the siding which that company has applied for the right to place at Simcoe street and into the premises of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company.

During the afternoon Mr. MacMurchy with the Mayor and the Town Solicitor, went over the by-laws authorizing these sidings to be laid, and some changes were made at the request of the Solicitor for the Company. An amicable arrangement was arrived at, and last night it was submitted to the Council, which met in Committee, and was accepted by that body.

At the next meeting of the Council the by-laws will be passed, and the work of putting in these sidings will be proceeded with in the near future.

PROPOSED CREAMERY FOR PETERBOROUGH

The Project is Not Abandoned, it is Simply Deferred.

It was announced in the Examiner recently that Mr. Downham, of Toronto, was in town looking over the ground with a view of establishing a city creamery in Peterborough. Mr. Downham has not abandoned the project by any means. Shortly after his return to the city he met with an accident which incapacitated him for active employment. He, however, wrote to a friend in Peterborough that he has not given up the idea, but that he will in a short time return to Iowa to arrange for the opening of a creamery, if not this spring, then certainly next autumn.

We want you to try one of our Blunoz Serge suits this Spring. If you are not living near one of our wardrobes we will send it direct to you by express. The price is $18.00. You will find it the best clothing investment you ever made. Let us tell you why.

By our system of physique types we can guarantee you perfection of fit.

The few measurements which we wish you to supply place you in a certain class of a certain Semi-ready type.

The suit that is made for that type will fit you perfectly. Each seam will fall in its proper place—the collar will fit snugly to the neck—the coat will have just the proper hang.

Semi-ready tailoring is the best in the world—specialization has made it so.

You see. Where the best custom tailors give one man an entire garment to make, we give it to 35 or 40 specialists. Each one of these men has been picked out because he is an expert in some particular point of construction of a suit. Thus we have experts working on collars, sleeves, stitch-moulding shoulders, interior construction, sleeve holes, etc., and these experts do nothing else but their particular speciality. No wonder Semi-Ready tailoring is so perfect.

Blunoz Canadian Serge—of which these suits are made—is manufactured exclusively for us by the only mill in Canada that can turn out such a high quality fabric. We have control of the output, so you can't get this serge in any but Semi-ready tailoring. Blunoz Serge has a cheviot finish, and comes in black and blue, absolutely fast color. We guarantee it.

First of all, if you haven't received one of our beautifully illustrated style books, send for it to-day. It contains illustrations, taken from life, of our spring styles of suits and overcoats—it shows them exactly as they are. This book also contains a self-measurement blank which gives all the particulars of measurements we require to give you perfection of fit.

The book is free, write for it to-day. A post card will do.

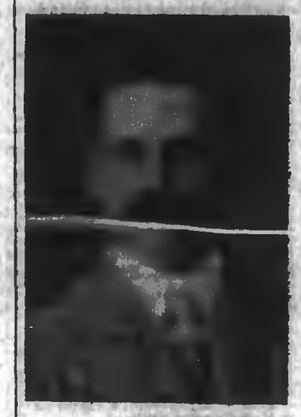
PETERBOROUGH BALL TEAM WILL BE STRONG

Officers of Baseball Club Met Last Night to Discuss Plans--Games Will be Played at Turf Club This Year--Concert in Aid of Club Funds to be Given Next Month--Manager MacEwan Has a Number of Good Men in Sight--Prospects for the Season are Bright.

Last night the officers of the Peterborough Baseball Club met at the Oriental Hotel, when some of the plans for the coming season were discussed and important matters settled.

From information gleaned from those who attended the meeting it is learned that the prospects for this season are very bright indeed, and the manager of the team, Mr. MacEwen promises that he will place a good team on the field in a Peterborough uniform when the season opens.

Probably four outside men will be on the team this year, but the team will be conducted on an amateur basis, and any player who may be secured will come to town to work. MacEwan, it is understood, has three good pitchers to choose from, and from the trio he expects to be able to pick a man who will deliver the goods to the King's taste. Other positions which will probably be filled by men who did not figure on last year's team will probably be those of catcher, third base and short stop. Sheridan will probably play the second bag, and J. Pilling will be at his old post on the initial corner of the diamond.



MR. ROBT. MacEWAN
The Energetic Manager of the Peterborough Baseball Club.

It is understood that at last night's meeting it was decided to play the games this season at the Turf Club's grounds, and the Board of Managers was instructed to complete arrangements with the Turf Club and settle upon the terms.

It was further decided that the club would run a concert at a date to be settled later, but which will probably be after the middle of April to provide funds to start the club as it is not the intention to solicit for subscriptions. The concert will probably be provided by Bert Harvey, the noted entertainer, of Toronto, and the Harmony Male Quartette, of town, and it is expected that the supporters of baseball in town will patronize the concert in large numbers.

The feeling at the meeting was most optimistic and it is believed that the game this year in Peterborough will be more popular than it has been in a good many years.

The team will be in good hands under the management of Mr. MacEwan, and he is in a position to secure good men to fill the positions which will be taken by outside men. He is in close touch with the baseball world, and should be able to land some splendid men.

Arrangements were made last night to purchase suits for the team and Messrs. Ollie and Scott were appointed a committee to do this work.

In the absence of the President last night the chair was taken by the treasurer, in addition to whom there were present absents. Ollie, Connors, Glover, and MacEwan.

Another meeting will be called in the near future when it is expected that the manager will be able to announce his team for the season.

MIDLAND LEAGUE'S SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Annual Meeting of Football League Held This Afternoon--Report of Last Season Shows a Most Satisfactory State of Affairs--League Has a Credit Balance--The Election of Officers for the Year--Affiliation with the Ontario Football Association--President's Address Recommends a Junior Series--Prospects for Coming Season are Good.

The annual meeting of the Midland Football League was held this afternoon in the Y.M.C.A. Board room, when the following were present:—Dr. Morgan, President; A. Noble, Vice-President; M. J. Hutchinson, Secretary-Treasurer; Dr. Devitt, Bowmanville, and Messrs. J. E. Sullivan, and Fitzgerald, of the Quakers; Pearce, of Norwood; Joplin, Bridgenorth.

The President, in opening, gave his annual address which was as follows:—

Gentlemen,—I feel it an honour to address you this morning as President of the Midland Football League. I feel proud of our aggregation. Two years ago this month a few of us met in this building to discuss the advisability of forming a league. There was very little material to work upon, but the half dozen present decided to organize and try our best. Mr. Horace Ayres, Physical Director of the Y.M.C.A., and myself worked faithfully organizing teams and getting them into line until we had sixteen on the list.

Hon. J. R. Stratton presented us with the handsome Stratton Cup, which was to be the emblem of championship, and it proved to be a great stimulus to the competing teams. A number of teams were scarcely prepared for the struggle, and dropped out early, but we had some very exciting games, before the Cup was won by the Y.M.C.A. team.

Mr. Ayres, who was secretary of the league, had a great many tasks to perform, which strained his executive ability to such an extent that he usually needed a nerve tonic when Bridgenorth was going to play the Y.M.C.A.

Having had one year's experience we began business last year feeling that our success would be even greater than the year before. We laid broader plans, were better known as an organization and had to begin with, some very enthusiastic clubs and individuals to help us on. We were too retiring, or at least thought we were too young, to try for provincial honours, but I don't think we stood be backward this year, in taking that step, since our last year's champions came within one of tieing the World's champions on their own ground, a fact of which we should be duly proud.

On behalf of the officers of the league I thank the different clubs and individuals of which they consist, for the manner in which the games have been played. They were all generous to the opposing team, and not in any case was there a complaint of unkind usage or of one trying to get an undue advantage of the other, and the usual remark heard was, "They are good fellows and used as well, though they did beat us, as were beaten," as the case might be. I trust that this condition of things will always be the same.

As President, I thank the officers of the league for the ever willing and able assistance given to make the league a success. I can conscientiously say that each and every one did his duty without fear or favour, and I think special thanks are due our never tiring secretary, who has been ever enthusiastic, and to whom a great deal of the success is due. I will not say more of last year's proceedings than to congratulate Locust Hill upon their success, as our Secretary has prepared something to say on that.

Before concluding I would like to suggest that a junior series be introduced to accomodate teams that are just beginning, or who have not won any games in the league. In this way we will be adding new material, and encouraging those who may not feel equal to the strong teams who have already distinguished themselves.

Hoping that the present year may be even more successful, and that we may win the Ontario championship, I am,

Yours sincerely,

J. A. MORGAN.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted, after which the secretary's report was presented and adopted. The report follows:—

Mr. President,—I have the honour to present the second annual report of the Midland Football League, dealing with the record and operations of the league during the season of 1904, which, I am happy to state, was the most successful in the history of the league, a fact which to those who were familiar with the league during the season mentioned, will require no verification.

Last season the league comprised seven clubs, representing four different equaties, viz:—Peterborough, Hastings, Durham and Ontario, and it is pleasing fact to recall that during the season with a member of the clubs a considerable distance from those with whom they were scheduled to play, there was only one defaulted game, and that was from causes which were beyond the control of the defaulting team.

The Stratton Cup, representing the championship of the league, and donated to it by Hon. J. R. Stratton, was won by the Locust Hill team, after a gallant fight, in which the winning team played and won two games two days in succession. The Cup was presented to the team by the President of the league, Dr. Morgan, who went to Locust Hill for that purpose. A bond was executed by the winners for its safe keeping and guaranteeing delivery to the league, at any time on demand of the proper authorities.

It was felt last season that there was a desirability of some changes being made in the rules of the league, as it was found that in some instances they were not altogether adapted to the requirements of the league, and consequently, some little trouble was experienced in enforcing the rules, as they appeared in the rule book, and at least one protest was entered because of the security of certain parts of the rules. Mr. Stubb, the Vice President of the league, however, was asked, and kindly consented to go over the rules and bring in a report on them, which he will doubtless do at this meeting.

Last year the league executive was singularly fortunate in avoiding trouble, and only two protests were entered during the season. The first was made by the Old Country's against the Bridgenorth team, and was not sustained, while the second, against Cavanhawaga, was dealt with by ordering the protested game played over again.

All the clubs in the league, however, were evidently anxious to promote the best interests of that body, and as a result, the work of the Executive was comparatively light.

The question of affiliation with the Ontario Football Association was one which was brought up at the meeting last year, but a motion to join that organization was defeated. In considering the question, it has appeared to me that it would give the league a better standing in the football world if it were united with what is recognized as the central football body in the Province, and if this affiliation were affected, the winners of this league would have the privilege of playing off with the winners of the Western Association for the Provincial Championship, and, judging by the record of the teams in this league last year, a team which can win the Midland League championship would stand a very good chance of carrying off the Provincial honours. Of course, it must be understood that affiliation with the Ontario Association does not mean that the winners have to play those of the other league, unless they so desire.

You will be glad to learn that last year was a successful one, too, as regards the financial end of it, and, by the secretary's books, which are open to the inspection of anyone, will show, after paying all liabilities there is a credit balance on hand of $9.16, which, compared with last year, is a good record. The receipts have been $71.00, and the expenditures, $61.84, leaving the balance noted above.

For the first time in the history of the league, a league annual was published, following instructions given at the last meeting, and this feature proved most successful. It cost the league practically nothing, and all players were furnished with the book, which contained the rules of the game, the scheduled games for the season, and considerable additional matter of interest. I would recommend that the custom established last year in this respect be followed in 1905.

I have to thank the secretaries of the different clubs for their promptness in remitting the club fees, and would recommend that the fee as fixed last year be maintained this year, for to it, largely the league owes its present satisfactory financial condition. I would like to acknowledge the kindness of Dr. Burnham, who last year donated, unsolicited, the sum of $5 to the funds of the league.

In concluding my report, I wish to thank the President and the other members of the Executive, as well as the officers of the different clubs for the assistance they have rendered me in the discharge of my duties during the last year, duties, which because of the help thus rendered, were very pleasant to me, and I hope that my successor in office will be accorded the same generous treatment at your hands.

I have the honour to be,

Your Servant,

M. J. HUTCHINSON

The election of officers was held and resulted as follows:—

Hon. President—Dr. Morgan.
1st Hon. Vice President—Dr. Burnham.
2nd Hon. Vice-President—W. R. Kelly, Bridgenorth.
President—Dr. Devitt, Bowmanville.
1st Vice-President—J. E. Sullivan.
2nd Vice-President—A. Noble.
3rd Vice-President—Mr. R. Hoover.
Secretary-Treasurer—M. J. Hutchinson.

The additional members of the Executive will be elected at the next meeting, which will be held on April 16th, at 8 o'clock.

The report of Mr. A. Noble, on the revision of the rules was taken up and discussed and the time of going to press the meeting was still in progress.

BOWMANVILLE OUT OF LEAGUE

Baseball Team Will not Enter the Midland League.

Bowmanville will not be in the Midland Baseball League this year. At least this is the general impression. It appears that the team has lost its catcher and first baseman, which will weaken it considerably. A number of the other players are not anxious to play the game this year. They are enthusiastic marksmen and intend to devote their spare time this summer at the rifle range. So that with those who have left town, and the others who do not intend to play, the outlook is none too bright.

The team was pretty well supported last year, but they do not seem to be very anxious to get into the game again this year.

This will put the league down to five teams providing all the others enter.

BASKET-BALL.

The Y.M.C.A. intermediate team would like to arrange a game with a team representing the Collegiate Institute. It is understood that the girls of the Collegiate have expressed a desire to play the winners of this game.

Put New Blood Into Your System

By the Use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and You Will Not Feel the Depressing, Debilitating Effects of Spring.

The blood is thin and watery in the spring.

It is lacking in red corpuscles, wherein are found the life-giving principles which put snap and energy into the body.

The nerves soon become depleted when the blood fails to supply proper nourishment, and there is consequent weakness and sluggish action of the bodily organs.

The lungs lack vigor in their work of oxydizing the blood, the heart becomes feeble in action, the stomach fails to properly digest the food, the liver and kidneys do not perform their great work of filtering the blood, the bowels become sluggish and inactive, and hence the wretched, languid and depressing feelings of spring.

The whole system becomes poisoned and you fall an easy prey to lurking disease.

Put new blood into your system by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and you will not only avoid the dangers of disease but also escape the depressing and debilitating effects of spring.

There are certain elements of nature contained in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food which are absolutely essential to the formation of pure rich red blood.

Symptoms:

Headache.
Indigestion.
Shortness of Breath.
Lack of Energy, Ambition and Strength.
Inability to Concentrate the Mind.
Feelings of Discouragement and Despondency.
Sleeplessness.
Irritability.
Fickle Appetite.
Pains in the Bones and Muscles.

These ingredients are so combined in this great medicine as to act mildly and gently on the system, instilling new vigor and vitality into the blood and nerves, and through these mediums reaching with a beneficial influence every nook and corner of the body.

There is no reason why you should not be strong and well, healthy and happy in the spring, if you will see to it that the blood is made pure, rich and nourishing by means of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is rich blood that builds up new tissue, creates new nerve force, restores the color to the cheeks and snap and energy to the body.

The use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food brings about that condition of the blood which is the very foundation of good health and which enables the system to throw off disease.

Nearly everybody requires just such help in the spring as can be best supplied by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Because it is more blood, purer blood, richer blood that is necessary to the maintenance of good health and vigor during this time of year.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

The great blood-builder and nerve restorative. 50 cents a Box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Dr. Chase's Kidney, Liver Pills act directly on the liver, positively curing biliousness and constipation.

MEN IN THE OSLER AGE

FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF MUNICIPAL CHLOROFORMATORY.

A Pleasant Morning With the Candidates for "Snuffing Out" in 1955, Under the Law Enacted in 1905—A Splendid-Looking Physical Specimen Explains the Beneficent Law While Waiting for His Call Hence.

On the fiftieth anniversary of the enactment of the humane laws providing for the snuffing out of all persons who had reached the age of 60 years, I made my way to the municipal chloroformatory and for a time held pleasant conversation with the useless, but still genial men who were gathered there in the morning awaiting the final call. All were in a pleasant mood. They seemed to feel that even at 60 they had long outlived their usefulness in this world. Some of them had been great men in their early years, had been captains of industry, leaders of science and letters, but by middle-age their intellectual light had grown dim; from the front rank they had at 40 retired to small clerkships, and now, worn out with the drudgery of the office and the tame pleasures of the golf links, they hailed with joy the arrival of the moment when they would pass to conditions in which a few thousand years of age, more or less, would make no difference in their standing. A young man myself, I could not but experience a sense of regret as I wandered among this waiting company, thinking that under our wise Osterian laws, these men, outwardly hale and hearty fellows, bright-eyed and firm-footed, must step aside, though Nature would allow them full twenty years more of life. But, after all, they were really only empty husks. Fifty years ago they would have been selling puts and calls, running our great industrial combines, wearing the judicial gown, or filling some profitable police post. But Dr. Osler had exposed them. For the moment he had turned the world upside down, but after all, in so doing, he had placed it right side up. Even among these octogenarians that was admitted.

Explaining the Law.

One of them, a splendid-looking physical specimen, led me to a bench in a quiet corner of the chloroformatory gardens, and while he awaited the summons, outlined briefly for me the history of the enactment of the law.

"I was 60 years old yesterday," he began, "and according to our custom said good-bye to my family and presented myself here. I must say that I am perfectly satisfied, for I have practically been a dead one for twenty years. You know that previous to the year 1905 the impression prevailed in civilized countries that experience created the something; that a man of 60 was more capable than one of 30, followed an economic revolution. The youth of the country being in the majority, took the reins in their own hands; the Osler laws, named in honor of the Doctor, were enacted, and municipal chloroformatories were established."

Osler Law the Best.

"You think, then, that the present conditions are the best?" I enquired.

"Most certainly," said the old man. "It used to be that a man worked and worked until he was enfeebled by age, always spurred on by the hope that he would do something worth doing, or make something worth having. To many death was terrible because it ended all opportunities to make money. Our few years in this world were of more value than the hereafter, because we lived backwards. Osterian theory changed all this. Now, instead of having to leave behind us the consummation of all our years of labor and ambition, we attain that in early age, every year strips us of something, and by sixty we realize our utter uselessness. By sixty we are bored to death."

"Do you mean to tell me, sir, that formerly the college graduate had to work himself up instead of down?"

"Certainly. People did not realise that a man knows more the day he graduates that at any other time in life. For centuries it had been the custom to take these highly educated, energetic, original creatures and devote years into knocking all the sense out of them. They were made to struggle and grovel for years. Thousands of the most talented succumbed to disappointment. Others struggled on and on to win recognition by the time they were sixty, and then die. Absurd? Of course it was absurd. This waste of youthful intelligence had been one of the crimes of the world's history. But we have been brought to see the light."

The stranger paused a moment to catch his breath.

"You are tired, sir?" said I sympathetically.

Did Great Things When Young.

"Not at all," said he. "I never was in better health. I was just thinking over the great things I did in my early years. You see, I was ten years of age when the Osler laws went into effect, so I was among the first to benefit. When I was graduated from Harvard I was swamped with offers of splendid positions. The world was awakening to the value of college men then, and every corporation in the country was hunting for a young president. Well, I chose the management of the Stove-Lifter Trust, a corporation of $200,000,000 capital, and, naturally, knowing nothing about the business, I was able to do things that no one else would have thought of, and the concern prospered tremendously. It was hard at my 30th year to have to retire into the secretaryship at a salary of only $20,000 annually, but I realized that I was rapidly becoming middle-aged, and must expect to give way to the young and strong. When I was 40 the Board of Directors presented to me an engraved resolution, thanking me for my consequently elderly men were at the head of all our great institutions. The fallacy of this was shown by Dr. Osler in the year 1905. His theory was that by the fortieth year a man had worked himself out; that by sixty he was useless and had better be retired. The idea, though at first scoffed at, quickly gained headway. The young men realised that really they were the brains of the country and had long been held in subjection by a lot of elderly fellows, mere human shells. Naturally there lifetime of service, and also they gave me an unimportant clerkship with a salary of $5 per week. On my 50th birthday I got another engraved resolution, and was made an office boy at a salary of $3 per week. You can readily see, sir, that after having served my employers faithfully these last ten years, and now realising my utter uselessness, I am perfectly contented to appear here this morning. I think, sir, that by your 60th year you, too, will be more than satisfied."

Yellow Journalist's Experience.

"I suppose so," said I. "You have, perhaps, heard of me. I became editor of a leading yellow journal immediately after leaving college. Until recently I had a regular position on the reportorial staff, but being now close to the fatal fortieth year, I do not feel up to it, and am doing some desultory scribbling."

"Can you support yourself that way?" enquired the aged stranger.

"Oh, no," I answered. "You see I live with my youngest son. He is a leading member of the bar. This kind of thing just keeps my mind occupied in my useless age. It lets me earn my own cigars."

"Speaking of cigars," said the stranger, "take these. I shall not need them." He picked one excellent weed from his case and lighted it. Then he handed me the rest, a half-dozen capital ones, and together we walked toward the entrance of the chloroformatory.

"Good-bye," he said, holding out his hand.

"Good-bye," said I.

A moment later, smoking nochalantly, he disappeared from my view.—New York Sun.

MAN 2,000,000 YEARS AGO.

Prof. Macallum Describes the Men of the Stone Age.

There are to-day in Australia some tribes who represent the paleolithic or oldest types of prehistoric man, while later types of the neolithic groups are found in America, declared Prof. Macallum in his lecture Saturday at Toronto University. The former used chipped or flaked stone implements, while the work of the neolithic races was polished. When Athens was at the height of its greatness the shores of the Mediterranean were peopled by men of the neolithic type; and during the Roman climax the Swiss lake dwellers were contemporaneous for 1,000 years. It would be many centuries before neolithic man disappeared, and he would be extinguished rather than transformed.

Remains of these primitive men were found in the pliocene strata, and two million years was a conservative estimate of the age of these remains. Prof. Macallum placed the historic period at 10,000 years. While the adults were found of a distinctly advanced type among the more primitive forms, these instances have been considered by men of science to be pathological exceptions. Prof. Macallum thought it strange that only exceptions should be preserved. The Spy skull, a celebrated discovery, had a brain capacity of 1,700 cubic centimetres, while that of the average Parisian was only 1,663. The oldest human remains were found in 1856, and these were of the neanderthaloid type, the lowest in human development.

A School for Managers.

Over the door of a house in a village in the west of England only a few years ago hung a board with this inscription: "Schooling for little boys and girls at 2d. per week; them as larns manners pays 2d. more."

How They Differ.

Softleigh—What's the difference between a homeopath and an allopath?

Hardhead—A difference of opinion usually.

A BOY AND A GIRL.

I saw them one day in the sunshine,
Out there where the clover blows—
A wee little tiny tow-headed girl
And a boy with a freckled nose.
With an old straw hat without any brim
And galluses holding his clothes—
A wee little girl with a pigtail braid
And a boy with two stubbed toes.

I saw them one even in the twilight,
Down there where the river flows.
The pigtail braid is a big braid now—
How a lad or a lassie grows!
The old straw hat is a new hat now,
And never a freckle shows
On the face of the youth, who, bending his head,
Gives a fair-headed maiden a rose.

I saw them again in the sunshine,
And whatever do you suppose?
Between them and about them there romped,
And ran and clung to their clothes,
A wee little tiny tow head girl
And a boy with two stubbed toes—
A wee little girl with a pigtail braid
And a boy with a freckled nose.

ARE LAWYERS NECESSARY?

Hon. A. B. Aylesworth Would Kill Legal Trades Union.

Suddenly called upon to show cause why their special privileges should not be abolished, the lawyers are rather put to it, says The Toronto Star. Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, speaking at the Bar dinner in Toronto the other night, advocated the abolition of all the compulsory qualifications for practicing at the bar, so that any man could plead his own cause or call in any other man to represent him.

"What," he asked, "is the Law Society of Upper Canada but a great trades union?" When some of our leading lawyers were asked what they thought of Mr. Aylesworth's idea they advanced arguments that, we think, he could controvert. Two prominent lawyers expressed the opinion that the suggested change would increase litigation enormously. Another lawyer thought the change would clean our the courts, for the judgments would be so erratic that people would avoid litigation.

People will at once begin to grow curious to see how the thing really would work out. One prominent lawyer is inclined to think that the courts would merely be courts of arbitration, rendering judgments on the common merits of the case, so that "while one man might win his case, another with a precisely similar case might lose." Although it makes a lawyer shudder to think of such a possibility, there are those who persist in saying they have known this to happen, even with all our lawyers and judges trained in rules and precedents.

The lawyers may as well address themselves seriously to the task of showing cause why they should continue to exist. The reasons so far advanced are so unconvincing as to arouse suspicion that the lawyers have not a leg to stand on. One replies that the disbanding of the legal profession would multiply litigation, another that it would cause all litigation to cease. Would the lawyers resist a change that would have the former effect? Should not the people embrace a change that would have the latter effect. The lawyers of Toronto are nod oubt trembling in their gilded homes to-night. They have been found out. They are to be haled into the court of public opinion and put on trial, and they have no defence ready. They cannot terrify the people by exclaiming that the suggested change would cause courts to revert to the natural laws of justice, where cases would be settled on their common merits. This but recommends the suggestion to the public.

The lawyers should get one story and stick to it. They should draw up a list of their reasons or excuses for existing and file them in reply to Mr. Aylesworth. They should explain why it would be bad for the public to have "natural justice" instead of the unnatural kind served out by the courts at present, and why it would be bad to have cases settled on their "common merits" instead of without regard to these. The people want to know.

E. F. Clarke—An Incident.

She slipped at the corner of College and Yonge Streets, a little old woman, plainly dressed. Her parcels scattered about on the crossing, but the world hurried on for it was raining. Then a man stepped out from the crowd, and, gathering the bundles together, handed them to the unfortunate pedestrian, and, waiting, helped her on the car. Then he turned and disappeared in the vertex of humanity, hurrying along the street.

She did not know the man.

It was E. F. Clarke.

Patriot, citizen, and statesman, he was not too proud to stop in the rain to help this lone old woman, although the world went by unheeding.

And it is for numberless acts such as this that he will be missed, and there is a gap in the forest of men, for a giant has fallen.

And to-day they will honor the dead, the cortege, the flags half-masted, the slow steps to the tomb.

And they will return, and the civic wheels that are stopped will start again, leaving the dead with the dead, but his influence will remain with the living.

And so you and I must yield to the inevitable. It may not be to-day. It may not be to-morrow or the next day or the next year, but we move steadily towards the hour when we will take the long journey.

So let us do our best, and let us not be too large for the small deed that needs the doing.

Let us be kind.

Let us take the moments as they come, and make them count, for they are of the stuff of which the years are made.

Let us think of the one who has gone, who rose from the printer's case to be one of the foremost men of the Dominion.

The hand that picked up those parcels is silent now; the voice that spoke so kindly to that old lady is forever hushed, but no orator can strengthen, no eulogy brighten the true nobility of the man who did the good deed.—Charles F. Raymond in Toronto Star.

The Divining Rod.

Englishmen who write letters to The London Times just to free their minds have engaged in a hot argument over the divining rod. In order to adjudicate the question, The Times has employed a learned gentleman who has studied the rod for fourteen years to marshal his proofs for and against this survival of mediaeval superstition. The rod is still believed in with implicit faith in England, although its field of operations has narrowed down in latter years to simply locating water underground. Formerly buried treasure, mineral veins and even stolen goods were sought for with the rod. Criminals were tracked by it, according to its firmest disciples. In France the masters of the rod gained so much influence in the time of Louis XIV. that they were prohibited from using it in affairs of the moral world.

BLOOD DISEASE CURED,

If you ever contracted any Blood or Private Disease, you are never safe until the virus or poison has been eradicated from the system. Don't be satisfied with a "patch up" by some family doctor. Our New Method is Guaranteed to Cure or No Pay. No Names Used without Written consent.

Cured When all Else Failed

"Could I live my early life over, this testimonial would not be necessary, though I was no more sinful than thousands of other young men. Early indiscretions, later excesses, exposure to contagious diseases all helped to break down my system. When I commenced to realize my condition I was almost frantic. Doctor after doctor treated me but only gave me relief—not a cure. Hot Springs helped me, but did not cure me. The symptoms always returned. Mercury and Potash drove the poison into my system instead of driving it out. I bless the day your New Method Treatment was recommended to me. I investigated who you were first, and finding you had over 25 years' experience and responsible financially, I gave you my case under a guarantee. You cured me permanently, and in six years there has not been a sore, pain, ulcer or any other symptom of the blood disease."

HOW QUEBEC WAS SAVED.

Story of a Gallant Fight Put Up by the French Against the Iroquois Indians.

The early history of Canada tells of many struggles between the settlers and the Indians, but it is doubtful if there is on record a nobler instance of self-sacrifice than that of the band of young Frenchmen who saved Quebec from the Iroquois. The story is told in Sir Gilbert Parker's history of "Old Quebec."

Adam Dualac, or Dollard, Sieur des Ormeaux, was a young man of good family, who had come to the colony three years before at the age of 22. He had held some military rank in France, and it was not long before he set on foot a remarkable Indian enterprise. Sixteen young men caught his spirit, struck hands with him and pledged their word. They bound themselves by oath to accept no quarter, made their wills, confessed, and received the sacrament

Descending the St. Lawrence, they entered the mouth of the Ottawa, crossed the Lake of Two Mountains, and slowly advanced against the current of the river. A few days later they reached the foot of the formidable rapid called "Long Sault," where a tumult of waters foaming among ledges and boulders barred their onward way. Besides, it was useless to go farther. The Iroquois were sure to pass the Sault, and could be fought here as well as elsewhere.

Just below the rapid stood a palisade fort, the work of an Algonquin war party of the preceding autumn. It was a mere enclosure of trunks of small trees planted in a circle, and was already ruinous. Such as it was the Frenchmen took possession. They made their fires and slung their kettles on the neighboring shore. Here they were soon after joined by a small party of friendly Indians, consisting of about forty Hurons from Quebec, under their brave and wily chief, Etienne Annahotaha, and five Algonquins led by Mitvuemeg. Dualac made no objection to their company, and so they bivouacked together.

In a day or two their scouts came in with tidings that two Iroquois canoes were coming down the Sault. Dualac had only time to set his men in ambush before the advance canoes of the enemy swept down the rives. A few of the Iroquois escaped the Frenchmen's volley, and fleeing into the forest, they reported their mischance to their main body, 200 in number, on the river above. Thereupon a fleet of canoes suddenly appeared, bounding down the rapids, filled with warriors eager for revenge. The allies had barely time to escape to their fort, leaving their kettles still slung over the fires. The Iroquois made a hasty attack, but being repulsed, they withdrew and fell to building a rude fort of their own in the neighboring forest. This gave the French breathing time, and they used it for strengthening their defences. They planted a row of stakes within their palisade, to form a double fence, and filled the intervening space with earth and stones to the height of a man, leaving twenty loopholes or more, at each of which three marksmen were stationed.

Their work was still unfinished when the Iroquois were upon them again. They had broken to pieces the birch canoes of the French and their allies, and kindling the bark, rushed up to pile it, blazing, against the palisade; but so brisk and steady a fire met them that they recoiled, and at last gave way. Again and again, however, they came on, each time leaving many of their bravest fighters dead upon the ground. At length, their spirits dashed, the warriors drew back. A canoe was hastily sent down the river to call to their aid five hundred Iroquois, who were mustered near the mouth of the Richelieu.

On the fifth day an uproar of unearthly yells from 700 savage throats mingled with a clattering salute of musketry, told the Frenchmen that the expected reinforcement had come. Soon a crowd of warriors mustered for attack. Cautiously they advanced, screeching, leaping and firing as they came on; but the French were at their posts, and every loophole darted its tongue of fire. Besides muskets, they had heavy musketoons of large calibre, which, scattering scraps of lead and iron among the throng of savages, often maiming several of them at one discharge. The Iroquois, astonished at the persistent vigor of the defence, fell back discomfited. The fire of the French had told upon them with deadly effect. Three days more were away in a series of futile attacks; and during all this time, Dualac and his men, reeling with exhaustion, fought and prayed, sure of a martyr reward.

At length the Iroquois determined upon a grand final assault. Large and heavy shields, four or five feet high, were made by lashing together three split logs with the aid of cross-bars, and covered with these mantelets a chosen band advanced, followed by the motley throng of warriors. In spite of a brisk fire, they reached the palisade, and crouching below the range of shot, hewed furiously with their hatchets to cut their way through. Dualac had crammed a large musketoon with powder, and lighting a fuse, he tried to throw it over the barrier, to burst like a grenade among the savages without; but it struck the ragged top of one of the palisades, fell back among the Frenchmen and exploded, killing and wounding several of them.

In the confusion which followed the Iroquois got possession of the loopholes, and thrusting in their guns, fired on those within. In a moment they had torn a breach in the palisade, then another and another. The brave Dualac was struck dead, but the survivors kept up the new hopeless fight. With sword, hatchet or knife, they threw themselves against the throng of enemies, striking and stabbing with the fury of madmen, till the Iroquois, despairing of taking them alive, fired volley after volley and shot them down. All was over, and a burst of triumphant yells proclaimed the dear-bought victory.

To the colony it proved salvation. The Iroquois had had fighting enough. If seventeen Frenchmen and a handful of Indian allies behind a picket fence could hold several hundred warriors at bay so long, what might they expect from many such, fighting behind walls of stone. For that year they thought no more of capturing Quebec and Ville Marie, but returned to their villages, dejected and amazed to howl over their losses, and nurse their dashed courage for a day of vengeance.

Horse Badly Slashed.

Wiarton, March 24.—A horse was badly slashed with a knife in the hands of some unknown party at the Pacific Hotel stable last night. Its abdomen was ripped open and a deep gash about two feet long cut into the shoulder and down the thigh. The horse belonged to Edward Kyle and was used on the mail service between here and Stokes Bay.

John Meyers Acquitted.

POPULARITY OF ROYALTY.

Now, as Compared With its Absence 70 Years Ago.

The following reference to the Royal Family of England is interesting, more especially as it is from the New York Sun, the principal tail-twister of the British Lion:

In England, at the time of Queen Victoria's accession, the monarchy was less popular than it had been at any time since the latter part of the seventeenth century. George IV. had thoroughly discredited kingship. Although his offences were condoned by the fashionable world of the metropolis, they were never really forgiven by the middle classes or by the masses, by whom, especially since Queen Caroline's trial, the King had been openly and bitterly disliked. How prevalent this feeling was and how little attempt was made to disguise it are shown by the outspoken comment of the London Times when George IV. died. Mr. Low recalls that, without making even a pretence of conventional eulogium, that newspaper said with a frankness which in these days would strike one as almost brutal: "The truth is—and it speaks volumes about the man—that there never was an individual less regretted by his fellow-creatures than this deceased King. What eye has wept for him? What breast has heaved one throb of sorrow? Was there at any time a gorgeous pageant on the stage more completely forgotten than he has been, even from the day on which the heralds proclaimed his successor? If George IV. ever had a friend—a devoted friend—in any rank of life, we protest that the name of him or her has not yet reached us." To William IV. the Times was a little kinder than it had been to his predecessor, but was openly contemptuous. "All is now over. The good old King of England is relieved from earthly trouble—from mental anxiety, domestic and political—from bodily sufferings such as it was terrible to witness. Death has done its worst on what was mortal in King William, and the memory of his inoffensive nature will protect that portion of him which bade defiance to death from the shafts of human envy, vengeance or malignity." In other words, the best that could be said of William IV. was that he had done little harm. This was not exactly the kind of sovereign to increase the prestige of the institution of royalty.

The truth is that, when Queen Victoria came to the throne a large part of the English people were flagrantly anti-monarchical. Of the two great political parties, one was ostentatiously opposed to the court and what it considered the court faction. The Tories were especially disloyal: "They seem not to care one atom for the crown." Greville noted on September 5, 1839. Two years previously he had chronicled that the young Queen proceeded in state from Buckingham House to St. James' "without any cheering." Outside the Whigs and Tories, there was an immense body of unenfranchised, but not inarticulate, opinion in the country which was strongly inclined to Republicanism. By it the ancient constitutional monarchy of Great Britain was treated with unconcealed disrespect.

A MODERN MEDICINE.

Which Reaches and Cures all the Little Ailments of Infants and Children.

Baby's Own Tablets is a modern medicine which replaces barbarous castor oil and poisonous "soothing" stuffs. The Tablets are a sweet, harmless little lozenge, which children take readily, and which may be crushed to a powder, or administered in a spoonful of water, if necessary. This medicine cures all stomach and bowel troubles, breaks up colds, prevents croup, allays the pain of teething and gives healthful sleep. And you have a solemn guarantee that it contains not one particle of opiate or poisonous soothing stuff. Mrs. J. D. Cilly, Heatherton, Que., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for stomach and bowel troubles and have always found them a most satisfactory medicine, and one that keeps my children bright and healthy." You can get the Tablets from any medicine dealer or by mail at 25 cents a box by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, of Brockville, Ont.

Lord George Hamilton's Career.

Lord George Hamilton, who has announced his intention to retire from Parliamentary life at the next general election, has sat continuously in the House of Commons for 34 years, says M. A. P., and he has held office for 21 years. When he first entered Parliament as a very young man, Lord George was a junior ensign in the Guards. He has had a long and notable innings since, having held the post of First Lord of the Admiralty and Secretary of State for India for longer periods than any statesman during the last century. It is easy to understand that he has felt the wear and tear of Parliamentary work, but no doubt his retirement has been hastened by his resignation from Mr. Balfour's Cabinet. The effect of being out of office has in Lord George Hamilton's case been stimulating. His speeches have been prepared with greater care, and he has delivered them with such vigor and sincerity that friends and foes have been surprised. He has had to face hostile audiences whenever he has addressed his constituents, and this has, seemingly, braced him to spirited efforts, for he has displayed unsuspected powers of gentle irony, playful humor, forceful utterance, and clever marshalling of facts.

HATS FOR MEN.

Correct Headgear for Those Who Would Be in the Fashion.

Masculine headgear is the topmost feature in the scheme of apparel. In order to formalize more completely the stipulated evening dress, the tall or crush hat is decreed a component part of it. Thus, also, does the tall hat serve to individualize the semi-formal attire, of which the double-breasted frock coat is the distinguishing factor. As to correct fashions in hats for this spring: The tall hat has considerably more bell than the vogue of fall, and the curl of the brim is lighter. The derby is very shapely, with its fuller round crown and lighter curl of brim than its predecessor. There are three different heights of crown, with conforming brims. Black is dominantly acceptable, brown and nut are the shades. The square-crowned hat, espoused principally by elderly men, is likewise fuller in crown and lighter in curl of brim.

There are four new styles in soft hats. The careless knockabout of round, medium-height crown and slight roll brim, which is turned down in front, while the crown can be telescoped or dented according to whim. It is in black and brown, but the nutria shade in this style will be by odds the most sought for. It is a style that will find immediate favor with collegians.

The sombrero, low-crowned and wide-brimmed, also light in weight and unlined—the costliest of hats—to be worn in the mountains when camping, distinctly a roughing it, outdoor hat, especially apropos when in contiguity with a bronch, lariat in hand. It is in a shade of light tan.

The Alpine, in pearl shade, is an admirable newcomer as the soft crush hat to be worn with the evening sacque coat suit. It has already been preferred to the same style in black and brown, and in summer will have undisputed sway.

Then, what might be termed the utility hat is of helio-tint, low, round crown and turned up brim. It is of fine felt, so that being crushed to pocket size and there deposited, it can issue forth unwrinkled. It is primarily a traveling hat, but is intended for officiating as an outing hat and also worn in practice of any of the outdoor field sports.

The crush tall hat has more of height and less of bell than the silk hat. The only sanctioned version is of rep silk. The imported tall hats have more bell, and the derbys a rounder crown than the same type of domestic hats.

Synonymous in shape, crown drooping on downward peak, are the traveling, golf and steamer caps. The distinction is in the materials. For traveling, heather mixture tweeds. For golf, the clans have precedence. And for steamship, both, with decided leaning to the former.

The polo cap, surfaced with heavy white silk, gossamer-quartered and shaped like a halved muskmelon, pointing down at back, eyeletted on top, inside of peak faced with green cloth—it is built for service as well as sport, and bespeaks the vigor and aristocracy of the game.

The polo helmet of heavy canvas is cork-lined, has head protector inside at back and inner side of brim is faced with green cloth.

The hunting cap of master of the hunt is of black forest, pieced in melon form, crown not so large, but rounder, and has smaller peak than polo cap. Caps of huntsman, similar in shape and in black silk or cloth, according to time of year.

There are two correct yachting caps: Of blue cloth with black patent leather visor, down, 45 degrees, and of white duck, with black leather band, and similar visor, also faced with green silk.

The new automobile cap is of light-weight English buckskin, with flat top, which droops over peak, and without earlaps. Another new style of dark shade cloth has straps across the wider-than-usual top, and is made with earlaps.

The low, round-crowned, turned-up-brim outing hat of white canvas is one, and the same for tennis and cricket. The skating cap is a knitted toque. Those of silk are most redundant of color, and therefore more in keeping with the gaiety superinduced by the most exhilarating of all the sports.

When the Hopper Hitches Out.

Mr. A. J. N. Terrill, formerly of this Province, who is now doing journalistic work out in the Territories, makes the subjoined editorial reference in The Medicine Hat News to western Assiniboia climatic conditions: "There was a time when the good people of Ontario placed considerable confidence in The Globe's first spring robin as a harbinger of warm weather, but when robins began spending the winter in Canada for the sake of getting their names in the paper there was nothing else to do but fall back on the 'bear and his shadow' theory to determine the length of the winter. Now, out here in Medicine Hat we find the members of the Saltatorial Orthoptera family more reliable as weather prophets than the robins. The dignity of his office in this respect leads us to invest the common grasshopper with his scientific patronymic. But whether you call him a grasshopper or the other thing is neither here nor there. What we wish to point out is that there is no chance of these insects weathering a Medicine Hat winter in any other state than in the larvae stage of development; hence, the statement that Michael Quesnelle caught a small bottle full of grasshoppers in the lower end of the town on Thursday, February 23, simply means that the temperature is sufficiently mild to allow the 'hoppers' to hatch. The fact of grasshoppers being found in February should go far to disprove any attempts to deprive the Medicine Hat district of its title to being considered the banana belt of Canada. The farmers in this section began seeding this week, and look forward confidently to harvesting in May."

There are hundreds who are martyrs to Kidney Trouble, having tried everything else without relief. There are dozens in every town who may have Kidney Trouble without knowing it. If you are pale—losing flesh—can't sleep—no appetite—if you constantly desire to urinate—if the urine is scanty, burning or highly colored—if the feet and hands are swollen—if the eyesight is dimmed—if there are frequent pains in the back, through the hips and legs—then you have the most positive symptoms of Kidney Trouble.

These are the people, we hope, who will send in their names that Gin Pills may cure them.

What They Are

Each Gin Pill contains the medicinal properties of one and one-half ounces of best Holland Gin. The harmful substances—and the alcohol—are left out. These medicinal principles are combined with several other remedies of exceptional value—and the whole made up in the form of a small, pleasant pill. These are the famous Gin Pills that have the largest sale—and the greatest number of cures to their credit—of any Kidney and Bladder remedy, ever introduced in Canada.

What They Do

Gin Pills cure "Cold on the Kidneys," Inflammation of the Kidneys, Uric Acid, causing Gout and Rheumatism, Ulceration and Inflammation of the Bladder, Painful and Suppressed Urine, constant desire to urinate, Gravel or Stone in the Bladder, and all other troubles, caused by sick Kidneys and Bladder. They never fail to relieve the sharp, shooting pain, make urination easy, natural and regular, strengthen the organs, and effect a speedy and permanent cure.

Won't you try Gin Pills at our expense? It costs nothing. Simply a post card. Ask us to send a sample box free—say in what paper you saw this advertisement—and sign your name and address. Do it to-day—NOW.

The Heart's Highway

by MARY E. WILKINS

Copyright, 1900, by DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.

CHAPTER VI.

I HAVE always observed with wonder and amusement and a tender gladness the faculty with which young creatures, and particularly young girls, can throw off their minds for the time being the weight of cares and anxieties and bring all of themselves to bear upon those exercises of body or mind to no particular end of serious gain, which we call play and frivolity.

That very next morning after I had learned from Mary Cavendish, supplemented by a sulky silence of assent from Sir Humphrey Hyde, that she had, under pretense of ordering feminine finery from England, spent all her year's income from her crops on powder and shot for the purpose of making a stand in the contemplated destruction of the new tobacco crops, and thereby plunged herself and her family in a danger which were hard to estimate were it discovered, I heard a shrill duet of girlish laughs and merry tongues before the house. Then, on looking forth, whom should I see but Mary Cavendish and Cicely Hyde, her great gossip, and a young colored wench, all washing their faces in the May dew, which lay in a great flood as of diamonds and pearls over everything.

I minded well the superstition, older than I, that if a maid washed her face in the first May dew it would make her skin wondrous fair, and I laughed to myself as I peeped around the shutter to think that Mary Cavendish should think that she stood in need of such amendment of nature. Down she knelt, dragging the hem of her chintz gown, which was as gay with a maze of printed posies as any garden bed, and she thrust her hollowed hands into the dew laden green and brought them over her face and rubbed till sure there was never anything like it for sweet, glowing roaliness.

And Cicely Hyde, who must have come full early to Drake Hill for that purpose, did likewise, and with more need, as I thought, for she was a brown maid, not so fair of feature as some, though she had a merry heart which gave to her such a zest of life and welcome of friends as made her a favorite. Up she scooped the dew and bathed her face, turning over and anon to Mary Cavendish with anxious inquiries, ending in trills of laughter which would not be gainsaid in May time and youth time by aught of so little moment as a brown skin. "How look I now?" she would cry out. "How look I now, sweetheart? Saw you ever a lily as fair as my face?"

Then Mary, with her own face dripping with dew, with that wonderful wet freshness of bloom upon it, would eye her with seriousness as to any improvement, and bid her turn this way and that. Then she would give it as her opinion that she had best persevere, and laugh somewhat doubtfully at first, then in a full peal when Cicely, nothing daunted by such discouragement in her friend's eyes, went bravely to work again, all her slender body shaking with mirth.

But the most curious sight of all, and that which occasioned the two maids the most merriment, though of a covert and even tender and pitying sort, was Mary's black serving wench, Sukey, a half grown girl, who had been bidden to attend her mistress upon this morning frolic. She was seated at a distance, square in the wet greenness, and was plunging both hands into the May dew and scrubbing her face with a fierce zeal as if her heart was in that pretty folly, as no doubt it was. And ever and anon as she rubbed her cheeks, which shone the blacker and glossier for it, she would turn the palms of her hands, which be so curiously pale on a negro's hands, to see if perchance some of the darkness had stirred. And when she saw not, then would she fall to scrubbing again.

Presently up stood Mary and Cicely, and Cicely flashed in the sun a little silver mirror which she had brought and which had lain glittering in the grass a little removed, and looked at herself, and saw that her brown cheeks were as ever, with the exception of the flush caused by rubbing, and tossed it with her undaunted laugh to Mary.

"The more fool be I!" she cried out. "Instead of washing mine own face in the May dew, better had it been had I locked thee in the clothespress, Mary Cavendish, and not let thee add to thy beauty, while I but gave my cheeks the look of fever or the smallpox. I trow the skin be off in spots, and all to no purpose! Look at thyself, Mary

Mary washing her face in the May dew

Cavendish, and blush that thou be so much fairer than one who loves thee!"

And verily Mary Cavendish did for a minute seem to blush as she cast a glance at herself in the mirror and saw her marvelous rose of a face, but the next minute the mirror flashed in the grass and her arms were about Cicely Hyde's neck. "'Tis the dearest face in Virginia, Cicely," said she in her sweet, vehement way, and laid her pink cheek against the other's plain one. And Cicely laughed and took her face in her two hands and held it away that she might see it.

"What matters it to poor Cicely whether her own face be fair or not so long as it is dear to thee and so long as she can see thine!" she cried as passionately as a lad might have done, and I frowned, not with jealousy, but with a curious dislike to such affection from one maid to another, which I could never understand in myself. Had Cicely Hyde had a lover she would have said that fond speech to him instead of Mary Cavendish, but lover she had none.

But all at once the two maids nudged one another and turned their faces, all convulsed with merriment, and I looked and saw that the poor little black lass had crept on hands and knees to where the mirror flashed in the grass and was looking at her face therein with such anxiety as might move one at once to tears and laughter to see if the dew had washed her white.

But Mary Cavendish ceased all in a minute her mirth and went up to the black child and took the mirror from her and said in the sweetest voice of pity I ever heard, "'Tis not in one May dew nor two, nor perchance in the dews of many years, you can wash your face white, but some time it will be."

Then the black wench burst into tears and begged in that thick, sluggishly sweet tongue of hers to know if ever the May dew would wash her black away, and Mistress Mary answered as seriously as if she were in the pulpit on the Sabbath day that it would some time most surely, and she should see her face in the glass as fair as any.

Then the two maids, Mary Cavendish and Cicely Hyde, went into the house, and left me, as I said before, to wonder at that spirit of youth which can all in a minute disregard care and anxiety and risk of death for the play of vanity. But, after all, which be stronger, wars and rumors of wars or vanity? And which be older, and which fathered the other?

After the house door had shut behind the maidens, I too went out, but not to wash my grim man's face in May dew, but rather for a stroll in the morning air and the clearing of my wits for reflection, for much I wondered what course I should take regarding my discovery of the night before. I went down the road toward Jamestown and struck into the path to the wharf the same that we had taken the day before, but there were no masts of the Golden Horn rising among the trees with a surprise of straightness. She had weighed anchor and sailed away over night, and possibly before.

The more I reflected the more I understood that Mistress Mary Cavendish, with her ready wit and supply of money through her inheritance from her mother, might have concocted the scheme of bringing over ammunition from England to enable us to make a stand against the government, but the plot in the first of it could not have been hers alone. Assuredly Ralph Drake was concerned in it, and Sir Humphrey Hyde, and no one knew how many more. The main part for Mistress Mary might well have been the furnishing of the powder and shot, for Ralph Drake was poor, and lived it was said, by his good luck at cards, and as for Sir Humphrey Hyde, his mother held the reins in those soft hands of hers, which would have been sorely bruised had they been withdrawn too roughly.

I sat me down on a glittering ridge of rock near the river bank and watched the blue run of the water and twisted the matter this and that way in my mind, for I was sorely perplexed. Never did I feel as then the hamper of my position, for a man who was held in such esteem as I by some and contempt by others, and while having voice had no authority to maintain it, was neither flesh nor fowl nor slave nor master.

Madam Cavendish treated me in all respects as the equal of herself and her family—nay, more than that, she deferred to me in such fashion as I had never seen in her toward any one—but Catherine treated me ever with iciness of contempt, which I at that time conceived to be but that transference of blame from her own self to a scapegoat of wrongdoing which is a resort of ignoble souls. They will have others not only suffer for their own sin, but even treat them with the scorn due themselves.

And not one man was there in the colony, excepting perhaps Sir Humphrey Hyde and Parson Downe and the brothers Nicholas and Richard Barry, which last were not squeamish, and would have had me as boon companion at Barry Upper Branch, having been drawn to me by a kindred boldness of spirit and some little passages which I had had with the Indians, which be not worth repeating.

I being in such a position in the colony, and considering the fact that Madam Cavendish and Catherine were stanch loyalists and would have sent all their tobacco to the bottom of the salt sea had the king so ordained, and regarded all disaffection from the royal will as a deadly sin against God and the church as well as the throne, and knowing the danger which Mary Cavendish ran, I was in a sore quandary. Could I have but gone to those men whom I conceived to be in the plot and talked with them on an equal footing I would have given my right hand.

But I wondered, and with reason, what hearing they would accord me, and I wondered how to move in the matter at all without doing harm to Mistress Mary, yet feared greatly that the nonmovement would harm her more. As I sat there I fell to marveling anew, as I had marveled many times before, at that yielding on the part of the strong which makes the power of those in authority possible. At the yielding of the weak we marvel not, but when one sees the bending of stanch, true men, with muscles of iron and hearts of oak, to commands which be manifestly against their own best interests, it is verily beyond understanding.

I reasoned it out within myself that one cause might lie in that distrust and suspicion of his neighbor as to his good will and identical interest with himself which is inborn with every man and in most cases strengthens with his growth. When a movement of rebellion against authority is on foot, he eyes all askance and speaks in whispering corners of secrecy, not knowing when he strikes his first blow whether his own brother's hand will be with him against the common tyrant or against himself.

Were it not for this lamentable quality of the human heart, which will prevent forever the perfect concerting of power to one end, such a giant might be made of one people that it could hold all the world and all the nations thereof at its beck and call. But that cannot be, even in England, which had knows and knows now and will know again that division of interest and doubts, every man of his brother's heart, which weaken the arm against the common foe.

But, reflecting in such wise, I came no nearer to the answer to my quandary as to my best course for the protection of Mary Cavendish.

I sat there on that rock glittering like frostwork in the May sunlight and watched the river, and verily it seemed to me that the matter of the tobacco plot and Mary Cavendish's danger was of more moment than aught else in the century.

"Master Wingfield," said a voice so gently and sweetly repellent and forbidding, even while it entreated, that it shivered the air with discord, and I looked around, and there stood Catherine Cavendish. She stood quite near the rock where I sat, but she kept her head turned slightly away as if she could not bear the sight of my face, though she was constrained to speak to me. But I, and I speak the truth, since I held it unworthy a man and a gentleman to feel aught of wrath or contempt when he was sole sufferer by reason of any wrong done by a woman, had nothing but that ever recurrent surprise and unbelief at the sight of her to reconcile what I knew, or thought I knew, with what she seemed.

STOMACHS ON STILTS.

The man who puts on stilts does not increase his actual stature. He only feels taller. Stimulants are the stilts of the stomach. They make a man feel better for the time being, but he feels a great deal worse for them afterward.

The need of the man whose stomach is "weak" is not stimulation but strength. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery perfectly answers that need. It contains no alcohol or whisky. It cures the weak, foul stomach with its attendant bad smelling breath, coated tongue, bad taste, poor appetite and kindred symptoms.

"In the year 1898 I had an attack of indigestion and got so bad that my local doctor said he could not do me any good," writes Mr. G. Trent of Gordonville, Texas. "I wrote to you and you advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, so I bought six bottles, and followed your directions, but I was so weak I hardly walked across the floor. My stomach and bowels were in such a bad condition I could not keep any food on them. I had a bad taste in my mouth all the time, and a coated tongue. I had a bad pain in the middle of my stomach or bowels (I don't know which) as large as a man's two fingers passed and I had a good deal of misery in my stomach and bowels, and also in the region especially. I could not eat anything without having much distress afterward, but by the time I had taken eight bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' I was sound and well, and could eat anything I pleased without suffering in the least. Could also do as much work in a day as I ever could. I have not suffered from the trouble since, and it was four years ago that I was so sick."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make a little more profit. Be glad; you lose. Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Constipation causes and aggravates many serious diseases. It is thoroughly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

No Argument Will Convince a Women that a flour is all right, if she can't make good bread with it. The one argument that wins every woman in favor of ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR is, that it never fails to turn out the most beautiful Bread and Cake and the most crisp and delicious Pastry when used according to the very simple "Royal Household" recipes. That one fact outweighs all the theories of two thousand years.

No other flour has ever made so many intimate friends among Canadian women in so short a time.—Perhaps it's because "Royal Household" is made by the new electrical process—that makes a wonderful difference in flour.

TOOK A SEVERE COLD.

It Settled In The Kidneys.

Pain In The Back The Result.

Catching cold and having it settle in the back is often the cause of Backache—the primary cause of kidney trouble. When the back aches it is a warning that the kidneys are liable to become affected.

Heed the warning: check the Backache, and dispose of any chance of further trouble.

If you don't, serious complications are very apt to arise. Mrs. E. Williams, Hamilton, Ont., caught cold, and it settled in her kidneys. She used and is thankful for the immediate relief they gave her. She writes us as follows:

"It is with pleasure that I add my testimony in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills. Some time ago I took a severe cold, which settled in my kidneys. The soreness and pain in the small of my back bothered me greatly. After suffering for some months, and finding numerous remedies fail, I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, and received immediate relief from my sufferings.

Doan's Kidney Pills may be procured at all dealers, or will be sent direct by mail on receipt of price—

DOUBLE TRACKING DEPENDS ON TOWN

If Council Paves George Street Peterborough Radial Railway Will Place a Double Track on That Street--Will Cost Less to Do it Then Than Later--The General Manager Waiting for the Town to Take First Step.

Whether the Peterborough Radial Railway Company double-tracks its system on George street, or not, this year, depends upon the town. Mr. Larmonth stated to the Examiner this morning that the company had not yet decided, but that they were waiting for the council to move in the matter.

The question therefore resolves itself into this, that if the Board of Works lays a pavement on George street, the street railway will, at the same time, lay a second track, making a double tracked system on that street.

If, however, this is not done, the company will probably defer the laying of a double track until later.

Mr. Larmonth points out that it would be cheaper for the company to lay the second track simultaneously with the paving of the street, because to put it down, after the street had been paved, would be very costly.

Consequently it now rests with the town, and if the council should decide to lay a pavement on George street, as has been agitated for some time, the street railway will then put down their double track.

There is apparently no doubt in the mind of the management of the railway as to the growth of the business in the near future to require the use of a second track, and if it were laid the service would be much improved.

LAST NIGHT'S FINE BAND CONCERT

The Largest Audience of the Winter Season.

An Excellent Programme Excellently Presented—Band Cordially Received.

The concert given in the opera house last night, by the 57th Band, assisted by Mr. Markle, violinist, was a success in both ways — there was a good audience—the best of the band concerts of the winter — and the programme presented was in all respects a most enjoyable one, both in variety and excellence of performance. Large as the audience was, it was far short of what should be present at every appearance of the band. It seems that there are a good many of us, even those who take every opportunity to hear it, who do not fully appreciate what a really first class band we have. Their performance last night was a continuous pleasure to listen to from opening to finale. The numbers of the programme were not new, but heard under more favourable conditions, had a more pleasing effect. To hear an overture played in the park, in the inevitable babble and noise resulting from the presence of unrestrained—and untrained—children, is quite different from hearing it, as last night, amidst the quiet of an opera hall. That the public, who really love harmony, and can distinguish between music and a boiler-explosion, were pleased, was shown by the fact that all the numbers played last night, familiar and new, were heartily applauded, and many of them vigorously re-demanded.

The programme included a march, "Uncle Sammy," by Holtzman, the overture from Flotow's "Martha," "Timbuctoo, an African Idyl," "Reminiscences of Scotland," American sketch, "By the Swanee River," and "A Kansas Dance." This latter delighted the audience immensely, and a repeat was insisted on. This was given, with the added realism of a coon dance, admirably performed by Mr. Joe Guerin, who had to duplicate his clever performance. During the programme Mr. Gilbert Markle performed the second and last of the four movements of De Beriot's seventh Concerto, dealing in a very capable and musicianly manner with the characteristics of this composer—double stopping, staccatto and "pizzicato." He was heartily applauded, and responded with Schubert's Serenade. Miss Roger played his accompaniments with her usual quiet skill. The programme closed with a descriptive fantasia, "A Troopship at Sea." This was admirably performed, the vocal incidents being particularly well given, as were also the several solos. Mention might be made without detracting from the merits of other soloists, of the excellent cornet solo work of Mr. Arthur Seward, perhaps the youngest member of the band. His tone production is especially pure and sweet.

The work of the band is always satisfying, and last night was no exception. Tone, volume and quality, attack, shading and delicate phrasing, were all quite up to the mark. Our band is something that can blow, and that we can "blow" about.

MARRIED

WARD—DISTIN.—In Peterborough, on March 22nd, 1905, at the residence of the bride's parents, by Rev. F. J. Scott, Lillie May Distin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Distin, to George Ward, of Peterboro.

HON. W. S. FIELDING'S SPEECH FROM THE AUTOMONY BILL

it being treated lightly for a single moment, but I venture to say that it will be impossible to repress a smile on both sides of the house when I suggest the picture that would be presented of my hon. friend from East Grey (Dr. Sproule), and my hon. friend from Jacques Cartier (Mr. Monk) and the hon. member from Beauharnois (Mr. Bergeron), and the hon. member from Victoria, and Haliburton (Col. Sam Hughes,) sitting down in harmony to prepare a resolution with respect to separate schools." (Ministerial cheers)

Mr. R. L. Borden — We could not make a much worse mess of it than the Government has up to the present.

A United Government.

Mr. Fielding — I think my hon. friend is mistaken; I think my hon. friend is entirely wrong. He will find when the vote is taken that we have a united Government and a united party—(hear, hear)—and he will find, according to his own confession, that he will not have a united party supporting him. I say deliberately, and every hon. gentleman who listens to me knows it, that if this bill be not passed, if we should be unable to carry a measure on this subject, then my Right Hon. friend will be obliged to retire, and no other Government can be formed which will command the confidence of this Parliament.

Col. Hughes—Is that the reason why the Finance Minister is backing him?

Mr. Fielding—The only way a Government could be formed by honourable gentlemen opposite would be by the honourable member for Victoria and Haliburton (Col. Sam. Hughes) coming forward to sit cheek by jowl with the honourable member for Beauharnois (Mr. Bergeron) as an advocate for separate schools, and I do not think that my honourable friend would care for the combination. (Laughter.) I am speaking in all seriousness. This is no matter for levity. I repeat that there is in a certain sense a crisis. There is no party crisis, but there is a crisis with regard to the administration of public business in Canada by any Government and any party.

A Protestant Government.

"If my right honourable friend should retire on an issue like this, then the only thing that could possibly happen if my honourable friend the leader of the Opposition should agree to form a Government at such a time, would be that he must form a Protestant Government, and he must have a general election. I take the responsibility of saying, and every man opposite knows it, that this question to-day is largely shaping itself as a religious question. We have on the one side the Roman Catholic body, largely united, and on the other side a large portion of the Protestant body, who are agitating against this bill on what may be called religious lines. If the Prime Minister were defeated, a Government would have to be formed on religious lines, and that would be the greatest calamity that could occur to the Dominion of Canada. Surely in the presence of such a condition of things we would all do well to see if it be not possible to find some solution of this great question.

Time of Great Promise.

"This is a time of great promise for Canada. Canada, united, happy and harmonious, will present the picture which will command the admiration and the confidence of the civilised world. Canada in that happy condition may hope to receive immigrants, may hope to go forward with even more rapid strides on that splendid march of progress and prosperity with which she has entered the 20th century. We have had great progress in the Northwest, but after all it is but the beginning of better and greater things. (Cheers.)

"'We hear the tread of pioneers, of nations yet to be,
The first low wash of waves where soon shall roll the human sea.'

"Let it be our happy privilege in this Parliament of Canada to do all we can to hold up that happy picture of the condition of Canada's prosperity. Let us be careful lest by a mistaken step to-day another picture may have to be presented, showing our people divided along religious lines, our country riven and distracted by religious strife. Canada would no longer present that happy picture, the tide of immigration would be turned back, capital would take alarm, business men would lose confidence. We would no longer be able to enjoy the prosperity we are now enjoying, nor would we any longer hope for that magnificent future which to-day opens to our vision."

"Let us realise the danger of religious strife in this matter. Let us try to avoid it. Let us have peace in Canada, if possible, not an ignoble peace, not peace at any price, but peace with honour; peace on the terms of this honourable compromise, which meets the religious prejudices, as some see fit to call them, which meets the religious convictions of two and a half millions of people, and yet at the same time secures to the people of the Northwest Territories, now and forever, every essential element of the system of national schools — peace on the terms of this modified bill, which we submit to the House with the sincere conviction that it offers a measure which high-minded and patriotic men may honourably accept, regardless of party, race, class or creed." (Loud and continued cheers.)

BABY'S TERRIBLE FACE HUMOUR

Would Scratch and Tear Away the Flesh — Neighbours Called it Worse Case Ever Seen — Grew Worse Under Doctors.

CURED BY ONE SET OF CUTICURA REMEDIES

"My baby's face was a mass of sores. The doctor called it eczema, but the child grew worse, the disease eating the flesh away from his nose, and spreading to his body. Neighbours said it was the worst case they had ever seen. His sufferings was terrible, and he would scratch and tear away the flesh. We then used the Cuticura Remedies, one set curing him completely, and healing his face without scar or blemish.—Wm. Cridland, 35 Winchester St. Pentonville Rd., N. London, Eng."

BABY QUIRK'S CURE

Of Torturing, Raw, and Scaly Eczema By Cuticura

"My baby was afflicted with a loathsome running eczema on the face. Two doctors treated him for three months, but he grew worse. We then started to use Cuticura, and noticed an improvement at once. In a fortnight the running had ceased, the scabs nearly all dried off, and in a month his face was perfectly clear.—W. H. Quirk, No. 1 West End Cottages, Haywood Road, N. Southampton."

CUTICURA A BLESSING

To Skin-Tortured Babies

The suffering which Cuticura Soap and Ointment has alleviated among the young, and the comfort they have afforded worn-out and worried parents, have led to their adoption in countless homes as priceless curatives for birth humours, milk crust, scalled head, eczemas, rashes, and every form of skin and scalp humours, with loss of hair, of infancy and age.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 1 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Boston. Sole Props. Our Baby Book free, "How to Care for Baby's Skin."

NORWOOD CASE

The Following Letter From John E. Kelly Will Interest All Who Are Suffering from Kidney Trouble.

Mr. Kelly has been a great sufferer as his intimate friends know, and has tried many remedies, but as he says over his own signature he found Bu-Ju Kidney Pills the best remedy he has ever taken, and has been greatly benefitted. Bu-Ju Kidney Pills are a scientific combination that cure diseases of the kidneys and many painful conditions resulting from their improper action.

Bu-Ju Kidney Pills may be had at any drug store. Read what Mr. Kelly writes:—

Norwood, June 17, 1904.

Claflin Chemical Co., Windsor, Ont.

Gentlemen,—I have taken eight boxes of "Bu-Ju" and have been greatly benefitted by them. My disease is of long standing, but "Bu-Ju" Pills are the best I have taken yet, as they did me more good than any others. Yours truly,

JOHN E. KELLY.

Wall Paper Excitement Continues at Routley's

Never in our history have we had such a clearing. We expect the end of this month will finish up the enormous

1-2 Price and Less

Wall Paper Sale that has engaged our energy and attention.

Our output during the year from March 1st, 1904, to March 1st, 1905, fell little short of forty thousand dollars in the wall paper line. We know the public appreciate our value giving and we intend to push on, and, if possible, be even ahead of our present achievements. We now sell Wall Papers from our Toronto Store from coast to coast, as we have agents in every principal place in the Dominion selling for us.

JAPS' ACTION ONLY A BLIND

The Alleged Jap Turning in Direction of Vladivostoce--To Cover Flank Operations Japanese Main Army Withdraws 35 Miles South From the Immediate Front of the Russian Army--Russia at Home is Seething with Discontent--The Von Nolken Plot Thorough.

St. Petersburg, March 28.—The impression prevalent in some military circles that the Japanese, having removed the possibility of the main army in Manchuria assuming the initiative, will now turn their attention to the next objective point of the war, Vladivostock, is strengthened by an Associated Press despatch from Gunshu Pass, announcing the withdrawal of the Japanese from the immediate front of the Russian army for a distance of 35 miles south. It is realized, of course, that this may be merely a blind, to cover flanking operations, but it is not improbable that the Japanese, having cleared Southern Manchuria of the Russian troops and secured a position whence expulsion would be a long and difficult process may be satisfied to hold the Tie Pass line, without further extension of communications.

Preparations are reported to be making for the mobilization of five corps. The Government is advised that Chinese bandits are appearing in great numbers along the Siberian Railroad and causing interference with the train service.

Internal Situation Ominous.

The internal situation in Russia is becoming daily more ominous. The Polish situation is causing great anxiety, though it is said "intellectuals" and the educated classes disapprove of the revolutionary spirit, which is permeating the peasantry and laborers in Poland. The Crimea is boiling with discontent, and the strong hand of the military force has been invoked to crush the incipient revolution at Yalta, near the Emperor's residence. The authorities of the Government of Saratoff are closing the schools there on account of the peasant disturbances.

Will Conclude Russian Loan,

London, March 28.—The Daily Telegraph this morning says that it is understood that the principal French bank house which opposed the Russian loan has now yielded and that the loan will be concluded.

Plot Was Thorough.

Warsaw, March 28.—Baron Von Nolken is believed to be out of danger. He is suffering intensely.

Further investigation shows the carefulness with which the plans of the conspirators were laid. A number of persons of the poorer class, proceeding on different streets in the direction of the palace, just before the bomb was thrown, were warned by persons evidently posted for that purpose to go in some other direction.

Finnish Demonstration.

Helsingfors, March 28.—To-day was marked by a great demonstration at Abo (former capital of Finland), and Helsingfors, thousands of workingmen, parading with the Finnish national colors, bands playing national airs and the people singing patriotic songs. Resolutions were adopted favoring opposition to conscription. The gatherings were orderly.

Alexis Has Not Fled.

St. Petersburg, March 28.—The report published abroad that Grand Duke Alexis had fled from Russia incognito is untrue. He has not left St. Petersburg.

Watch Refugees in Paris.

Paris, March 28.—The police are exercising extensive surveillance over Russian refugees in Paris owing to reports that they are organising to assist the revolutionary movement in Russia.

Balfour Won't Tell.

London, March 28.—In the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, Swift MacNeill (Irish Nationalist) tried to elicit information regarding the peace negotiations. He asked Premier Balfour if he could make any statement on the subject, but as no previous notice had been given of the question the Premier took no notice of it.

Peace is Prominent.

London, March 28.—It is reported that M. d'Iswolsky, the Russian Minister to Denmark, left St. Petersburg on Saturday for Copenhagen.

A St. Petersburg despatch to the Reuter Telegram Co. states that the majority of the Council of Ministers is agreed on the principle of the opportuneness of initiating steps in the direction of peace, and correspondents in the principal European capitals all report that peace is in the air.

According to The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Kobe, who reports having interviewed the American officers and foreign correspondents captured at Mukden, who have just arrived at Ujin, all were surprised that no armistice or peace proposals had been made. They confirm the previous statements that nobody had the least idea that retreat was imminent until Gen. Kuropatkin's order was suddenly received late on March 9.

Correspondents as Prisoners.

Kobe, Japan, March 27.—Richard H. Little, of The Chicago Daily News, Francis McCullagh, of The New York Herald, M. Nadeau, of The Journal de Paris, and Baron Kriegistein, of The Berlin Lokal Anzeiger, arrived here as prisoners of war on the Awa Maru yesterday. They will probably be kept in quarantine for some days and will be released soon. They say the battle of Mukden was a splendid affair on the Russian side, as well as on the Japanese. Several villages were taken and retaken four times. The newspaper men were surprised to learn the Russians had not asked for an armistice or made peace proposals. They say Russia's position in the field is hopeless; that Kuropatkin lost all his heavy guns and the railway line. Capt. Judson, of the American engineers, Surgeon-Colonel Harvard, also an American officer, and Capt. Byers, of the British army, who was recently attached at Vladivostock, were also captured after the battle of Mukden by the Japanese, and arrived here yesterday morning. Capt. Judson became ill when the Russians left Mukden, and Dr. Harvard did not care to leave him, hence their capture.

PEACE TALK.

Optomistic Correspondent Sees Indications of Peace in Six Weeks.

St. Petersburg, March 28.—The information contained in these despatches for over a week regarding the change in Emperor Nicholas' attitude concerning the advisability of making a pacific proposal to Japan is fully confirmed and in high quarters peace within six weeks is regarded as certain. The positiveness with which this is affirmed would indicate that the Government is already in possession of information as to the Japanese terms, which indicate a basis to which Russia can agree.

The exact situation is shrouded in mystery. The secret of what has been done and what is being done is zealously guarded. The Associated Press hears, however, from a source close to the throne that pourparlers are actually in progress in Paris, but possibly only of a preliminary character, and that Copenhagen may be the scene of the first exchanges between representatives of the two powers.

In this connection importance is being attached to the visit of M. d'Iswolsky, Russian Minister at Copenhagen, and Baron Rosen, former Russian Minister to Japan, to M. Bompard, the French Ambassador to Russia, on Tuesday. The parties to this conference refuse to admit that significance is attached to it. In the meantime the foreign office is silent.

Booth-Tucker Joins Haggard.

New York, March 27.—Commander Booth-Tucker, of the Salvation Army, is expected to arrive here from England on Tuesday next having been directed to join H. Rider Haggard, who is investigating the Salvation Army's colonies in the United States, in which he will make a report to the British Government. Commander Booth-Tucker will meet Mr. Haggard at Amity, Col., the principal Salvation Army colony in the United States, and will accompany him on his visit to Earl Grey, Governor-General of Canada at Ottawa.

Robbers Cut Phone Wires.

Ottawa, March 28.—Three robbers entered the manor house of T. C. Keefer, C. M. G., at Rockliffe last night and held the engineer up at the point of a revolver and made him disgorge his watch and what money he had on his person. The robbers took the precaution of cutting the telephone wires before entering, to prevent an alarm. Chief de la Ronde has put entire detective staff on the case.

Dying of Hunger.

London, March 28.—Starvation threatens Armenia, according to a cable message from Van Ried yesterday by the Bible Lands or Turkish Mission Aid Society to the local agents of the society. The message reads: "Suffering from poverty. General food supply in many villages nearly exhausted. Deaths from hunger beginning."

Confirmed Bishop of Montreal.

Rome, March 28.—The Pope held a secret consistory yesterday without creating any cardinals, merely preconising bishops. Monsignor Zotico Racicot was confirmed as auxiliary bishop of Montreal.

Four Drown in Upset.

Rock Ledge, Fla., March 27.—Several parties went Saturday to Ocean Beach, from Georgiana. Returning, a squall overtook a party of five in one rowboat, containing Mr. and Mrs. Miller, of Chateauguay, New York, Mr. Moore and daughter, Miss Edith, of Holyoke, Mass., and A. Baldwin, of Georgiana, with whom the rest were boarding. The boat was capsized, and all but Miller was drowned.

Farmer Suicides.

Kingston, March 27.—Samuel Richards, a farmer living near Elginburg, committed suicide Friday by cutting his throat. He was a married man, aged 58 years. It is said that he had been dependent for some time past, and the reason given for his rash act is financial trouble.

Dynamite Kills Three.

Wheeling, W. Va., March 27.—A quantity of dynamite was accidentally exploded Saturday afternoon near the camp of Cahill & Parnell, sub-contractors, on the Wabash extension at Okono. Three workmen were killed and four injured.

Landslide's Havoc.

Semlin, Hungary, March 27.—A great landslide occurred here yesterday. A squadron of soldiers who went to the rescue of a buried woman suffered severely, eight of their number being killed and nineteen injured.

Cornwall Man's Success.

Winnipeg, March 27.—F. D. McNaughton, of Cornwall, Ont., has been appointed Deputy Minister of Public Works of Manitoba.

Jack-of-all-Trades is Master of None

One of our tailors couldn't make an entire garment any better than the custom tailor's man does.

We ask him to make only one part of a garment—he is master of that certain part of the tailoring art.

It is his specialty, and he does nothing else in the Semi-ready tailory.

One Semi-ready garment goes through the hands of between 30 and 40 experts, each doing the part he knows best how to do.

Doesn't it stand to reason that they can turn out a better tailored garment than one man who has the whole suit to make?

MRS. CHADWICK GETS 10 YEARS.

Stiff Sentence Given to the Woman With Compelling Eyes.

Cleveland, March 28.—Judge Taylor, in the United States District Court yesterday afternoon, overruled a motion for a new trial in the case of Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick and at once sentenced her to ten years' imprisonment.

Fight San Jose Scale.

Toronto, March 28.—Secretary P. W. Hodgetts, of the Fruit Growers' Association, will continue this week his annual tour of the nurseries of the Niagara peninsula and the Essex fruit districts, with a view to seeing that the fumigating of stock for sale is being properly carried out. He has already completed part of the work, and finds that the nurserymen are living up to the regulations, all being anxious to guard against the San Jose scale. The outlook in this regard is not particularly bright in the Niagara and Essex districts, however. The scale continued to spread in both last season, and nurserymen and fruit growers anticipate a hard fight this year.

Drowned at Brooklin, Ont.

Brooklin, March 28.—A sad drowning accident occurred here yesterday. The victim was the six-year-old daughter of W. H. Elvis, miller, of this village. She and two little companions were returning from school a few minutes before noon. They stopped to play at the edge of the creek, which was swollen. She toppled in and was quickly carried away. Nothing was said by the other children of what happened, and it was not till after school was called more than an hour later that the anxious parents learned of the fate of their child. Search parties immediately set out and spent the remainder of the day patrolling the creek. The body has not yet been found.

West Indies Would Wed Canada.

Toronto, March 28.—"There is a strong feeling throughout the British West Indies for confederation with Canada. We feel that our trade would be much improved. Personally, I hope confederation will soon be an accomplished fact."

This is the opinion of James Cox Fillan, of Dominica, B. W. I., owner of the most profitable plantation there, and known as "The Lime Juice King of the Indies." He is here while on a world tour. Mr. Fillan is a member of the Legislature of Dominica, which is a Crown colony.

LABOUR CONDITIONS DURING FEBRUARY

Ald. Johnston's Report to the Labour Gazette as to Local Situation--Business Expansion the Key-note--No Change in Labour Market--Spring Prospects are Excellent --Details of the Month's Events.

In the Labour Gazette for March, Ald. Johnston reports the labour conditions in Peterborough during the preceeding month. His report follows:—

The cold and stormy weather interfered with industrial activity during February. Freight traffic on the railways in particular was hampered. Some of the manufacturing establishments were also affected. The masonry work of the new shovel factory was under way, and will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible, giving employment to a number of men. A number of carpenters and painters were at work on the Y. W. C. A. building, which is to be completed in the spring.

Business was quiet, especially during the first half of the month. The banks reported a fair local trade, and considerable improvement took place during the closing week of the month. A new branch is being opened by the Bank of Nova Scotia in Peterborough.

The Peterborough Cereal Company, a new corporation, with a capital of $250,000, has completed arrangements for the opening of a factory and elevators. About 150 H. P. will be required to operate the plant, and a large number of men will be employed on construction.

There was no change in wages, and no unrest in the labour market.

CONDITION OF LOCAL INDUSTRIES.

Agriculture.—Dullness prevailed during the first half of the month. The bad roads made it impossible for farmers to get to market. Work in the woods was interrupted by the heavy snowfall. Butter was very scarce, selling at 30 cents per pound. Eggs brought 30 to 35 cents per dozen. Chickens sold at from $1.35 to $1.50 per pair; turkeys at from $2.50 to $3 per pair; potatoes at 80 cents per bag and apples at $1 per bag. Pork was very scarce, bringing from 8 to 9 cents per pound in bulk, but beef was more plentiful, selling at 6 cents per pound. Oats sold at 45 cents per bushel.

Fishing.—A few men were employed in fishing through the ice in the northern part of the county.

Lumbering.—The local saw-mills were very quiet, only a retail trade being done.

Manufacturing.—Certain branches were very well employed. The Hamilton Company was busy, and the three canoe companies were actively engaged in getting out the season's stock of boats. The Auburn Woollen Company reported a steady business. The Central Milling Company worked 24 hours per day to meet demands of the trade. The Peterborough Lock Company and the Ackerman Harness Company worked full staffs on full time. Generally speaking, however, manufacturing is not as active during the winter as at other seasons of the year.

Mining.—Conditions were quiet.

Railway Construction and employment.—The work of snow shovelling was very active, a number of men being housed in boarding cars along the different lines.

Other Industries.—Ice dealers have stored over 8,000 tons of ice for the summer trade, besides having filled other small contracts.

The Machine Telephone Company has finished its underground wiring, and was busy getting the rest of the plant into working order.

CONDITION OF PARTICULAR TRADES.

Building Trades.—A few bricklayers, masons, carpenters, lathers, and plasterers were employed, but the trades were generally quiet. Painters were fairly well employed, and some firms of plumbers were busy. Gasfitters, stonecutters and builders' labourers were dull.

Metal, engineering and shipbuilding trades.—Dullness prevailed for the most part. Electrical workers and metal polishers were fairly active and tinmen were busy. Sheet metal workers and jewellers were fairly well employed.

Woodworking and furnishing trades.—Woodworkers in shops and carriage and wagon makers, varnishers and polishers were fairly busy. Upholsterers, however, were generally quiet, and wood carvers, pattern makers, car workers, and gilders were dull.

Clothing trades.—Tailors and garment workers were fairly active, but hat makers were quiet. Boot and shoe workers were busy on repair work.

Food and tobacco preparation.—Bakers confectioners and ice workers were busy. Butchers and cigarmakers had a fairly good month.

Leather trades.—Conditions were fairly active.

Miscellaneous.—Barbers, clerks, stenographers, hotel employees and laundry workers were generally busy. Delivery employees and furriers were quiet.

Transport.—Railway traffic was interrupted by the snowfall, but trainmen were fairly well employed. Steamboatmen were in idleness. Cabmen, hackmen and carters were quiet, but street railway employees were well employed.

Unskilled labour.—There was a considerable number of unemployed of this class.

DISTRICT NOTES.

The blocking of the roads had an injurious effect on business throughout the district. An early opening of the cheese factories owing to the prevailing scarcity of cheese is anticipated. Stock breeding is an important industry in this district. The Matthews Company have instructed the farmers as to the best class of stock for the home and foreign market. Wood sold at $6 to $7 per cord and hay at $9 to $10 per ton.

BANQUET GIVEN TO THE AGENTS

First District Convention of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

On Saturday the District Officials of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, held their first annual convention here, and it was a pronounced success. It was attended by about thirty assistant superintendents and agents, and the meeting took place at 12.30 in the National Hotel, where a banquet was held.

The following were among those present:

Assistants—Messrs. W. R. Scase and T. E. DeHart, Peterborough; J. D. Martin, Oshawa; W. A. Chisholm, Belleville; and H. H. Gray, Orillia.

Agents—Messrs. F. Walley, A. W. Ray, C. E. Wiley, Peterborough, R. Fice, Cobourg; J. McComb, Port Hope; W. B. Hubbs and W. Howard, Oshawa; H. Burkeley, Belleville; W. H. Bishop, Picton; H. Pennell, Trenton, M. E. Heron, Lindsay; A. Sharp, Belleville; Jas. Dean, Lindsay; T. B. Harker, Orillia; C. E. Lebique, Penetang; A. Portelance, Midland; J. Brown, Campbellford.

The banquet was a most enjoyable affair, and after the excellent menu had been discussed the usual patriotic toasts were honoured, and on the subject, "The Prosperity of Canada," Mr. Rothwell delivered an able address, pointing to the great development which was taking place all over the country, the increase of population by immigration, the prospects held out by the great Northwest, Ontario's opportunities with regard to manufactories, and, finally, the outlook for the insurance business. Particular attention was paid to Peterborough as the head of a district which had formerly been worked from Toronto and Kingston. This change would undoubtedly have the effect of attracting considerable notice to this town from those in which agencies of the company were situated.

Speeches were made by the assistant superintendents, and following the banquet a meeting of agents was held for the purpose of discussing business.

The district offices, which are situated in the Bank of Commerce block, are only temporary, and very shortly the company will open what will undoubtedly prove the most handsome offices in town. Conventions are held three or four times a year, and this practice is one of the business-like methods adopted to keep in touch with the conditions of the country.

Insane After Jump.

St. Thomas, March 25.—While a westbound Wabash train was running rapidly between Aylmer and this city Thursday evening, an Italian, one of a number on their way to Denver, jumped from the train. He was found later wandering about near where he jumped. He was brought to this city severely injured and insane.

ASSAULT CASE AGAIN IN COURT

Albert Crouter Fined $10.00 and Costs.

Large Attendance at Police Court-Conflicting Evidence Offered.

There was an unusually large attendance this morning at the police court, the room being packed to the doors.

The first case heard was that of two young men who were fined $2 and costs or $5.75 altogether, on a charge of drunk and disorderly.

Interest appeared to centre, however, in the case in which a charge of assault was preferred against Albert Crouter by George Gauthier, which was the reverse side of the case held yesterday, in which Crouter was the plaintiff.

The affair took place on Saturday evening at Crouter's house, which place on that evening presented a scene of unwonted brilliancy — a social function being in progress. Owing to the limited space in the front room, which is partitioned off into sleeping apartments for three families and one unmarried man, by means of curtains, the scene of the festivities was transferred to the back kitchen, where dancing was indulged in to the charming music furnished by a phonograph, and a hand organ, played with refined artistic expression by natives of "sunny Italy."

From the conflicting evidence presented it appears that the trouble commenced with the arrival of Gauthier, who boarded with Crouter and who so far forgot himself as to commit a flagrant breach of etiquette by engaging in a dance minus his boots. The immediate cause of the trouble was, however, his emphatic refusal to allow his wife to enter the mazy whirl in company with Italians. When Crouter arrived upon the scene at about 8.30 o'clock, he expressed great confidence in his ability to manage his own household, when informed that Gauthier was making some disturbance. A struggle was indulged in, regarding which the evidence was of a most conflicting nature. Crouter, however, admitting that "as far as he could understand" he had seized Gauthier by his auricular appendages and perforated his nasal organ by a well-placed bite.

The Court in delivering judgment considered the somewhat unsavoury character of the house and its occupants, and held that inasmuch as the assault had been carried to entirely unjustifiable lengths, he found defendant guilty, inflicting a penalty of $10.00 and costs, amounting to $6.85. The case for the defence was conducted by Mr. D. O'Connell.

TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND MEN

Great Growth of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners

Some Interesting Facts Brought out in Address of Mr. J. A. Flett Last Night.

Mr. John A. Flett, general organizer of the American Federation of Labour, addressed a well attended meeting of the Carpenters' Union last evening. It was held in the Orange Hall, Simcoe street, and the President, Mr. Napoleon Trombley, was in the chair. Great interest was manifested in Mr. Flett's advocacy of thorough organization, and the observance of those principles which conduce to the best interests of the Union.

During the course of remarks he referred to the remarkable growth experienced by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America. Founded in Chicago, in 1881, it at first had only twelve local unions and 2,042 members. After 24 years it had grown to a membership of 200,000 in Canada and the United States, and there are 1800 local unions.

There is a movement on foot to amalgamate with it the Society known as the Amalgamated Carpenters, an organization of English origin, and not as strong as the Brotherhood. The latter was organized to protect the carpenter trade from the evil of low prices and botch work, and its aim was to encourage a higher standard of skill and better wages, to re-establish an apprentice system, and to aid and assist the members by mutual protection and benevolent means. It pays a Wife Funeral Benefit of from $25 to $50; Members' Funeral Benefit, $100 to $200, and Disability Benefit, $100 to $400. In these general benefits $316,879.85 has been expended during the past two years, and over $1,140,000 since the year 1883, while about $1,700,000 more was spent in that period for sick benefits by the local unions and over $486,000 donated locally by general office for strike purposes. This is over three and one-half millions for benevolent and charitable purposes.

The Brotherhood is also a protective trade union as well as a benevolent society and it has raised the wages in hundreds of cities, and placed fully six and one half million dollars more wages annually in the pockets of the carpenters in those cities. It reduced the hours of labour to eight hours a day in 480 cities, and nine hours a day in 791 cities, not to speak of many cities which have established the eight and nine-hour system on Saturdays. By this means 30,000 more men have gained employment. This, Mr. Flett pointed out was one result of thorough organization.

Very few strikes had occurred, and very little money had been spent on strikes by the Society. It was not a secret oath-bound organization. All competent carpenters were eligible to join. It has been said by Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labour:—"The Trades Unions are the natural growth of natural laws and from the very nature of their being have stood the test of time and experience. The development of Trades Unions, regarded both from the standpoint of numerical expansion and that of natural working has been marvellously rapid. The Trades Unions have demonstrated their ability to cope with every emergency, economical or political, as it arises. In the work of the organization of labour, the most energetic, wisest and devoted members, when working individually, cannot hope to be successful, but by combining their efforts, all may. The combined action of all the Unions, when exerted in favour of any one union, will certainly be more efficacious than the action of any one union, no matter how powerful it may be, if exerted in favour of an unorganized, or a partially organized mass.

"The rapid and steady growth of the American Federation of Labour, arising from the affiliation of previously isolated, together with newly formed national unions; the establishment of Local Unions of various trades in places where there are two few persons employed at any particular calling to allow the formation of local unions of these trades, thus furnishing valuable bodies of auxiliaries and recruits to various unions upon change of abode; the Central Labour Unions, Trades Assemblies, the citadels of power; the Federation for Legislative Advancement. This steady growth is gratifying evidence of the appreciation of the toilers of a form of general organization, in harmony with their most cherished ambitions, and in which each trade enjoys the most perfect liberty, while fulfilling the fullest advantages of united action."

Mr. Flett's visit to Peterborough has been much appreciated by members of the Labour Unions, and will undoubtedly be productive of a great revival of interest. A vote of thanks was tendered him at last evening's meeting.

REASON No 22
WHY YOU SHOULD USE
Red Rose Tea

Because of the care in Selection and Blending.

My agents in the east are expert tea tasters, and every lot of tea that is sent down from the Gardens has to pass their inspection. They take samples from the chests and carefully taste them, then if the tea is fully up to the Red Rose standard, it is accepted and shipped; if not it is rejected.

The most important test of all, however, is when the tea arrives here, as during the passage through the Red Sea, the very great heat often affects the Tea very seriously. Immediately on arrival, samples are taken from each lot and subjected to the most rigid tests, and only those teas which have retained all their original flavor and strength are used for Red Rose (the balance is jobbed off in bulk).

When blended and ready to be put into sealed packages, it is tested again just to make sure no mistake has been made in the blending; nothing is left to chance.

Will you test us by ordering a package?

THE WONDERS OF AN ELECTRIC POWER HOUSE

A Visit to the Generator Station of the C. G. E. Company and What it Disclosed—One of the Most Complete Power Houses in Existence—Sixteen Water Wheels of One Hundred and Fifty Horse Power Each--Operating Two 1000-Horse Power Generators--An Automatically Working Plant--How the Immense Works of the Company Here Secure the Power to Operate--An Interesting Visit to one of the Power Generating Plants Which are Making Peterborough a Great Industrial Centre.

The advantage which Peterborough enjoys from the possession of cheap, and easily developed electric power, undoubtedly constitutes one of the strongest points in its favour from an industrial standpoint, if not altogether so, and it will be to this fact, perhaps, more than to any other, that Peterborough will owe the place which it will yet attain to among this line, and yet to but a comparatively small number of persons is the process by which this power is obtained, known, at least in a practical sense.

Of course all know in a general way that it is obtained primarily from the Otonabee River, which nature has so generously allowed to flow past our doors, but as to the process made use of in transferring the energy represented by the waters of the river, falling over a rapids or falls, into power, which can be used in a practical way, perhaps, there are but few persons who are familiar with it.

To these, a visit to the power houses lining the river between here and Lakefield, would be full of interest and instruction, as was that paid the power house of the Canadian General Electric Company at Nassau by an Examiner representative a few days ago.

The power house is located practically on the site of what was known for years as the "Red Mills," but of which now nearly all the evidences of their existence have passed away, the hand of time being the great destroyer.

To the uninitiated who first look into the power house mentioned, it seems incredible that the two machines moving practically noiselessly, yet swiftly, could be furnishing power to keep a thousand workmen busy using it in the works of the company four miles away, but such is the fact, and when this is learned, the great capabilities of electric power begin to dawn upon the bewildered beholder.

This magnificent power house was erected in the years 1901-02, and on March 2nd, 1902, the plant was started, and during the three years since that time it has never been stopped for more than ten minutes, except on Sundays.

It is a substantial white brick structure, rising on a concrete foundation, and is equipped in the most thoroughly modern manner, with the most improved types of electric producing machinery.

The power-producing capacity of the plant is nominally 2400 horse power, derived from sixteen water wheels of 150 horse power each, working under a sixteen foot head of water, but since the flow of water water varies with the season, the power generated also varies, and about 2000 horse power is the quantity of power which the plant is supposed to produce.

This is obtained from two 1000 horse power electric generators, made, of course, by the company, at the Peterborough Works, and each generator is driven by six water wheels, connected to it with a shaft 96 feet long, which passed through the wheel pits.

The other four wheels are used to operate two exciters, two wheels being used for each exciter, without which the big 1000 horse power generators would be useless.

Two distinct currents are generators by the two machines, and each current is transmitted to the works in town by different sets of wires and used for different purposes, one being to operate the machinery in the works, and is run to full capacity the greater part of the time, while the other furnishes the current used in the Test Department and is usually not running at full speed.

The electric fluid, when it is generated by the machines described is several thousand volts strong, and is sufficient to cause instant death to one who inadvertently or otherwise comes into contact with the power conductors, but during the three years that the plant has been in operation no one has been injured in this way, and although there is as the power station a complete medical equipment to treat victims of an electric shock, fortunately it has never been required and it is, of course, to be hoped that it never will be needed. The fact that it has been provided, however, is an evidence of two facts first, that there is a possibility that it may be required, and second that the company is anxious to provide its employees with all that can be desired to make the employment safe.

The interior of the building is admirably arranged and it is kept in splendid shape. Every piece of the delicate machinery is kept polished and is as clean as it is possible to make it, while the walls, which are white, lend an added brightness to the interior. At night 90 thirty-two-candle power lamps around the ceiling make the room a blaze of light.

The most interesting feature of the whole plant, perhaps, is the manner in which the operation of the big generators is controlled, and this is little short of marvellous.

By simply pressing a button on the marble switch-board, one or both of the machines can be started or stopped, as desired, by the operator, and the remarkable fact is that all the energy which is required to set the machinery in motion is supplied by a diminutive one-quarter horse power electric motor, which one might put in an overcoat pocket.

Once started the machines operate automatically, and no matter how light or how heavy the load, up to its capacity, of course, it will adjust itself to it.

This is secured by the operation of a Lombard governor, which is an oil compressor working under an oil presure of 1800 pounds to the square inch, and consists of four compression cylinders. As the load on the generators decrease or increase as the case may be the governors open and close the gates correspondingly and it is not necessary for the person in charge of the plant to touch the machines to have them always ready to do just the work required of them and no more nor no less.

An interesting illustration of the practical working of these governors was given on the occasion of the Examiner man's visit to the plant. It was just six o'clock at night and as the big machines in the works at Peterborough were shut off for the night, and the power requirements as a consequence reduced, the governor got in her work, and the wheel gates were gradually closed and the speed of the generator reduced.

An electrically propelled air compressor and water pump form part of the equipment, the former for the purpose of cleaning the generator, and the latter to pump out the wheel pit.

The whole plant is a most complete one, and Mr. R. S. Cotton, who is in charge has everything in splendid condition. He has had charge of the power plant since its inception and possesses a thorough knowledge of the plant and its possibilities and no doubt the fact that it has given such splendid service is due in a considerable degree to his care in the handling of the plant.

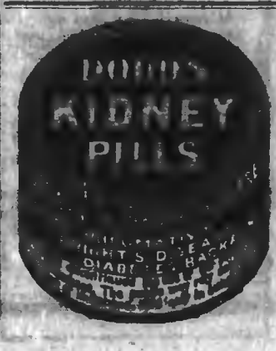
BUBONIC VICTIMS.

India's Death List Exceeds That of War in Far East.

London, March 28.—Replying to questions in the House of Commons last night, Mr. Brodrick, Secretary of State for India, said that the latest figures on the plague in India showed that for the four weeks ending February 28, in the Bombay Presidency there were 18,475 deaths, and that for the four weeks ending March 11 in the rest of India there were 123,500 deaths.

The total number of deaths from the plague in the Bombay Presidency from January 1 to February 28 were 28,721, and in the rest of India from January 1 to March 11, 216,178.

Mr. Brodrick said he had communicated with the Viceroy of India looking to a remedy for this deplorable loss of life, and that it had been decided to send out a scientific expedition to investigate the causes.



THE CAMP MAY BE ABOLISHED.

More Central Location Than Niagara Thought Necessary.

HON. MR. FIELDING'S BUDGET

Announcement Regarding the Tariff Commission—Sale of Railway Bonds—Proceedings in the House—Ottawa Electric Co.'s Bill Passed—Lancaster's Bill Finally Killed—Private Members' Day.

Ottawa, March 28.—It is probable that the historic military camping ground of Niagara-on-the-Lake will soon cease to be used for that purpose. A more central location for the Second Infantry Brigade is desired, and it would not be surprising to see a change made to some place near Lake Simcoe. It may be too late to make the change this season, but military men feel sure a new site more accessible to troops who have to attend will soon be provided. It is about settled that two camps will be held at London this summer instead of one. This will prevent inconvenience arising from overcrowding. The time occupied by the two camps altogether will be 24 days. The northern part of No. 1 District will received their training first. Afterwards regiments from the southern part will go into camp.

Mr. Fielding's Budget.

The Minister of Finance's budget speech will reiterate the Government's intention to appoint a commission to investigate the tariff after the present session. It is taken for granted that Messrs. Fielding, Paterson and Brodeur will be members of the commission. A fourth member will probably be appointed. Another feature of Mr. Fielding's budget will be the announcement of the flotation in London of £3,000,000 sterling Grand Trunk bonds, guaranteed by the Dominion Government at 95. Ninety-five is regarded as a very satisfactory figure, indicating that Canadian credit stands high in the London money market. Some Canadian Northern bonds sold at the same time brought 95. The Grand Trunk Pacific 4 per cent. bonds, guaranteed by the Grand Trunk Co., marketed in February last, brought 99 1-2.

Proceedings in the House.

Private members had yesterday to themselves in the House, and as it was probably their last entire day for the session they made good use of their time. The Ottawa Electric Co.'s bill occupied most of the afternoon, and in the end this most contentious measure was accepted in committee, with an amendment formally framed to protect the city's rights. Some of the discussion was quite bitter, and drifted to the general question of municipal ownership. Mr. Lancaster's bill for better protection at railway crossings was finally killed, after having been condemned by the Railway Committee weeks ago. The order paper still contains a number of public bills and orders, which will likely now receive death like the animals in the lethal chamber.

Rural Telephones Do the Work.

Ottawa, March 28.—Alpheus Hoover, of Green River, Ontario, gave evidence before the special telephone committee yesterday morning. He told how he organized an independent telephone company running from Markham eastward to Locust Hill, thence to Green River and on to Whitevale and Brougham. The company has 14 miles of line. It bought the poles and erected them and gave the contract for stringing the wires and installing the machinery to a company. The fourteen miles cost the twenty subscribers $48 per subscriber, which amount covered the total cost of construction and left no further expense except for maintenance. The line is working well. Among the subscribers are eight farmers, five business men, two doctors, one veterinary and some stock breeders.

Mr. Hoover, in the course of further examination, declared that there was no reason why local or municipal telephone companies should not be successfully established and operated at very moderate rates.

PROPOSED P. E. I. TUNNEL.

Deputation Will See the Government About it on Thursday.

Ottawa, March 28.—Thursday has been fixed by the Government for receiving a deputation from Prince Edward Island to urge the construction of a tunnel between the island and the mainland. Rev. Father Burke, the advance guard, has already arrived.

Nervous, Sick Headache

Mr. O. Barber, Simcoe, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled for a long time with headaches, which would come on about once a week with such violence that I could not eat or do my work. I tried headache powders and quick cures, which did no good. About eight months ago I took six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I have not been troubled with headache since."

Fruit Growing College.

St. Catharines, March 27.—The Niagara Peninsula Fruit Growers are going to the Dominion Government for the establishment of a fruit-growing college and experimental farm in the Niagara fruit belt. This was decided on Saturday at a meeting of the executive committee. At the meeting Dr. Jessop, M. P. P., suggested that it would be a good thing to see the Dominion Government about it. A committee was appointed to form a feasible plan to submit to the Dominion Government at the present session.

Strike Binder Twine Trust.

Lincoln, Neb., March 27.—Following the lead of Kansas in its fight against the Standard Oil Co., Nebraska will fight the binder twine and cordage trust, and to that end the State Legislature Saturday appropriated $250,000 with which to build and equip a factory for the manufacture of binder twine. The plant will be constructed at Lincoln within the walls of the State prison and the convicts of the Penitentiary will do all the work. The finished article, which is used in binding grain, will be sold at cost to farmers of Nebraska.

Lightning Takes Lives.

Guthrie, Okla., March 27.—Violent storms throughout the territory Saturday have resulted in four deaths and numerous injuries to other persons.

Lunatic Cuts Throat.

Brockville, March 28.—Thomas Haggerty, a farmer, about 55 years of age, living in the Township of Bastard, Leeds County, while suffering from mental derangement, died by his own hand. He eluded his relatives and was yesterday found with his throat terribly gashed and blood flowing from the wounds inflicted. He used a sharp jack-knife. He expired before a doctor could be summoned.

Tenders for Canadian Rails.

Ottawa, March 28.—Tenders have been asked, and received by the railway department from the two Canadian rail mills, one at the "Soo," and the other at Sydney, for the supply of 10,000 tons of rails, to be used on the line of the Intercolonial Railway.

Centre Toronto Bye-Election.

Ottawa, March 28.—Orders have been given to print the voters' lists for Centre Toronto to permit of the holding a bye-election in that constituency at an early date. The present expectation is that a successor to the late E. F. Clarke will be had by the fifteenth or eighteenth of next month.

EXPANDING ONTARIO.

In the primest flush of excitement attendant upon a Conservative Government being actually in power in Toronto—the first and only one in a long thirty-five years — Ontario Conservatives may be allowed to lose their heads a little. They are not to be blamed if every act of the new Government, no matter how perfunctory or insignificant, is magnified into a masterstroke of policy, or a triumph of statesmanship. For instance Ontario Conservatives are inclined to exalt Mr Whitney into a place of unique credit in respect of his proposal to extend the boundaries of the Province of Ontario to Hudson's Bay. Not only are Mr. Whitney and his party entitled to little, if any, positive credit, on this score, but they have much to answer for in respect of their hostile attitude towards the territorial rights of Ontario in times past.

If the province obtains this extension of territory the initial credit rests entirely with Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the leader of the Liberal party which stood so staunchly for provincial rights in the days not long since gone by. Sir Wilfrid met the demand of Manitoba for the enlargement of its bounds by the suggestion that the boundaries of Ontario and Quebec as well as those of Manitoba should be extended to Hudson's Bay. Thus encouraged Mr. Whitney and colleagues who could not very well ignore such an invitation, opened up correspondence with the Dominion Government, and at that point their efforts seem to have begun and ended

Mr. Whitney, and his party, are bound to make amends — to make reparation for the part they took in aiding Sir John Macdonald to rob Ontario of 100,000 square miles of territory, contiguous to the territory which Mr. Whitney is so patriotically, according to his admirers, proposing to add to this province.

Mr. Whitney is doing the proper thing, and will receive any reasonable assistance from the Liberal party and members of the Legislature. The time is past when anybody will dispute the value of the northern possessions of Ontario, and no doubt Mr. Whitney, in his retrospective moments, regrets that he permitted himself, in a speech in Massey Hall, to disparagingly refer to New Ontario as "the land of the stunted poplar." The vigorous development policy of the Ross Government, practically leading to the great industries at the Soo, has demonstrated the wealth of resources of our northern territory, and, no doubt, the region to be annexed, has a largely similar value, not to speak of the wealth of the Hudson Bay fisheries, which, in the case of extension, will come to this province. There is hardly a square mile of Canadian territory which does not possess industrial and commercial potentialities.

AN OPERA HOUSE.

A crying civic need is an Opera House. The urgency of this need justifies the recurring newspaper references to this subject. There after time the Examiner has had occasion to refer to the necessity of providing a decent Opera House for the town. With the memory of the past winter before us, with its dearth of good entertainments, due to the lack of an Opera House of Music Hall, it is not a bad time to again call attention to the matter. Peterborough has arrived at the stage of importance, when the humiliation of having to hold entertainments in a sort of superior barn, like the present so-called Opera House, is very keenly felt. A city of fifteen thousand inhabitants, the most important industrial and commercial centre between Montreal and Toronto, without a halt decent Opera House where respectable dramas can be respectably put on or where a respectable concert can be respectably held, is something that does not perhaps exist elsewhere on this continent. There is no place in Peterborough outside the churches where a thousand persons can assemble under decent conditions to listen to addresses on political or other subjects. This is the cause of frequent humiliation. Even the barn-storming dramatic companies that hold forth in the present Opera House make its dilapidated grotesqueness a butt of ridicule by their cheap comic man. When our citizens want to hear a good opera or good concert under tolerable conditions they have to go to the city, spending as much time and money as would cover half a dozen equally good entertainments at home if we had a good Opera House. It is a standing reproach to the enterprise and public spirit of the town, that such a state of things is permitted to continue. When will the public-spirited citizens of the town concert some action to provide an Opera House? It is certain that the venture, would, if properly managed, be made a paying one, not to speak of the removal of the necessity of a citizen of the town blushing every time an Opera House is mentioned by visitors. It's none too early now to begin moving for a new Opera House which can be ready for the opening of next winter's entertainment season.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

No wonder the Czar has a contempt of the common people, his subjects—they have a bomb way of doing things.

March, which "came in like a lamb," must do some mighty quick work if it breeds a lion to go out like, next Friday.

The City Council of Toronto is to present Premier Whitney with an illuminated address. The adjective is well chosen. It would not perhaps be safe to call it an illuminating address.

The old feud seems to hold. It is improbable that the German steamer which apparently deliberately rammed the Allan Liner in Halifax Bay was influenced by the fact that the steamer bore a French name?

The Toronto Sunday World thinks Hon. Mr. Whitney's Speech from the Throne at the opening of the Legislature is without horse sense. There was, it seems no reference in "this somewhat wordy speech to the horse." The World goes on to insinuate that Mr. Whitney has not kept his wordy, pre-election promises to "do the grand" for agriculture. It seems there's a mighty difference between Mr. Whitney's promised "five of six Agricultural Colleges," and no reference in "the speech" to the honest farmer of his acquaintance. The Sunday edition of the World seems to be a safety valve for the daily weekly edition. All through the week the World lays fervent adulation at the statesmanlike feet of Mr. Whitney and his Cabinet, but it takes its revenge in its Sunday edition by touching up his short-comings with a "horse" whip.

A NORWESTER ON NORWEST SCHOOLS

Opinions of a Former Prominent Resident of Peterborough.

The Catholic Register contains the following reference to an interview of the special representative of the Globe with Mr. N. D. Beck, K. C., of Edmonton, N.W.T., son of the late Rev. J. W. R. Beck, Rector of Peterborough. The Register describes Mr. Beck as one who "has paid a great deal of attention to educational matters:—

"Mr. Beck's position is that whatever may be said as to the right of the State to dictate as to how a man shall educate his children, its interference should at least be as little as is consistent with its aim, namely, that primary education shall be universal. So long therefore as the separate schools are doing their duty in educating the children of the people, he thinks they are entitled to the public aids and powers that help them to do this work. In the Northwest Territories provision has been made for certificated teachers, authorized text books and public inspection in all separate schools. If the regular studies are pursued from nine in the morning until 3.30 in the afternoon there can be surely no objection to the teacher imparting some religious or moral instruction after that hour to children whose parents are desirous that they should receive such instruction. Mr. Beck went on to say that he would support the Government very heartily in its resolution to continue to the minority in the new Provinces the rights they had hitherto enjoyed."

"Would you not be willing to leave the question to the Legislatures of the new Provinces?"

"No, I would not," Mr. Beck answered very decisively. "We had our experience with Manitoba. It is not necessary to suspect the majority. The majority of the majority could deprive us of our schools."

In reference to the financial clause Mr. Beck said that that had provided for what was naturally being done. The Territorial Legislature divided the educational funds equitably pro rata between the two sects of schools. It was surely businesslike to provide by statute what it was admitted should be done."

Was Formerly a North Monaghan Farmer—Good Prospects for the West.

Mr. R. L. Campbell, of Franklin, Manitoba, formerly a farmer in North Monaghan, was in town yesterday, and in an interview with the Examiner, gave some decidedly interesting facts relating to the great Canadian West, of which he has been a resident for the past sixteen years, and is one of the most progressive and enterprising business farmers of the district in which he is located.

Mr. Campbell, in addition to conducting his farming operations, is engaged in buying live stock, and is also in the grain business.

His trip to the East was made for the purpose of buying thoroughbred horses, which he will sell to the farmers of the West. There is at present a good demand for high-bred stock of all kinds in Manitoba, and Mr. Campbell states that he can find a ready sale for all the horses he can buy of the right stamp. He finds, however, that there is a scarcity of the right class of animals here and he finds it difficult to secure enough animals. He is buying both roadster and heavy horses, and purchased some Clydesdale stallions near Toronto, which he will also take to the West and sell to the stock raisers of the West.

The district in which Mr. Campbell lives is near Neepawa, which is 90 miles north west of Portage la Prairie, and is one of the best districts in the province. All the land in this section of the country has been taken up, and the farmers are all doing well. Last year the crops were fair, but in some parts the rust did some injury to the crops, but this was the first time in the sixteen years that Mr. Campbell has been in the West that rust has been experienced in that district.

He predicts that this year there will be no rust. The spring will open early, and the fact that last year it was late was the cause of the rust. In a few weeks the spring will be open, and farmers will get on the land.

This year the immigration to the West will be very heavy, and practically all those going into the country from Ontario are farmers who are taking up land, and moving with their families.

A large number are coming in from England, too, but the majority of these will work on farms, or at other occupations, for a few years until they learn more of the country.

The farmers in Manitoba are gradually working into raising thoroughbred stock, and do not depend so much upon grain as was the case in former years, and the result is that the quality of the stock is being gradually raised. Some dairying is also being carried on, but it is not practiced to any appreciable extent, the farmers finding that stock and grain raising pay the better.

Mr. Campbell during his residence in Manitoba, and in his travels through the province, has met a large number of former Peterborough men who are all doing well and are contented and prosperous.

Mr. Campbell will remain here for a few days before going back to the West.

THE STORE THAT NEVER DISAPPOINTS

CREEK ALMOST HAD VICTIMS

Stanley Lewis and Edward Murty had a Narrow Escape

But for Heroic Work of Young Italian Probably Two Lives Would Have Been Lost.

Two boys again had a narrow escape from drowning last night. This time it was not the sewer into which they fell, but the creek, and the scene of the incident was just behind Green's laundry, on McDonel street. A number of boys were playing around the creek, across which there is a dam, and as Stanley Lewis and Edward Murty were walking across it, the latter fell into the water, pulling the former with him. As he was falling, however, a young Italian, familiarly known as Domino, by his young friends in that vicinity, caught Lewis as he was falling, but he could not get young Murty, who was carried to the other end of the dam and through the sluice into the raging waters below.

The young Italian, who proved himself a hero, not daunted by his failure to rescue Murty at the first attempt, ran down along the side of the creek below the dam, and at last succeeded in bringing him to the shore, and to safety.

But for the prompt and well directed action of Domino, it is probable that one, if not two young lives would have been lost.

The four narrow escapes in two days should teach the youngsters the lesson that it is dangerous to play around the water, and if they continue to do so, some one may fall in with nobody possessing presence of mind or Domino at hand to rescue them.

IMPROVEMENTS TO POST OFFICE

Two Entrances will be Provided and Work Will be Begun at Once

Mr. D. Belleghem has the Contract for the Work—Two Extra Wickets.

Mr. R. R. Bell, M.P., has advised the Examiner that the Department of Public Works have awarded to Mr. Daniel Belleghem of Peterborough the contract for the making of the changes in the Peterborough Post Office, and the extension to the building.

These changes involve the putting in of an entirely new and increased number of letter boxes also the establishment of two wickets, at which letters will be delivered, and another wicket at which parcels will be delivered.

Two entrances to the post office will also be provided the present one at the corner will be retained and an entrance from Water street will also be opened up and provided.

The contractor has received instructions to proceed with the work at once and have the changes made at the very earliest possible date and at the same time to make the changes with the least possible inconvenience to the general public.

Acknowledgment of Neighbourly Kindness.

Mrs. R. J. Huffman, 110 Gilmour street, desires to acknowledge the kindness of Mrs. J. S. She very heartily appreciates the thoughtful kindness of Mrs. Kingman, who, after the boy was rescued soaked and dripping, from his peril took him in and changed his wet clothing for dry, gave him hot drinks and placing him on a street car sent him home, thus enforcing again the parable of the good Samaritan. Such little acts of kindness between mothers touch the heart as nothing that does not directly affect their children, can do.

No. 8 Company.

The annual dinner to No. 8 Company, 57th Regiment, tendered by their officers, will be held to-morrow evening, Wednesday, March 29th, at 8 o'clock sharp. All the members of the company of last year, and this year's recruits, are asked to attend.

THE SHOVEL COMPANY'S BUILDING COMPLETED

Roof Practically All on and Machinery Will be Installed Shortly--Orders Placed for Rolling Mill Which Will be Delivered and Erected by May 1st--Manufacturer of Machinery Expresses His Confidence in the Future of the Company--Need Fear No Competition Either in Cost or Quality.

The building of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company is practically completed. The brick work has been finished, and the roof is now almost on, so that the building is nearly ready for the reception of the machinery. The manufacturer of the shovel-making machinery was here this week, arranging for the installation of the plant, and he expressed himself as greatly pleased with the arrangement of the building and its substantial character. He also stated that it was arranged in such a manner that work could be carried on economically, and declared that the special machinery was second to none on the continent and that the Company need have no fear of any competition either on the score of cost or quality of the goods manufactured.

An evidence of the energy shown by this company, and which will doubtless be given scope later in the management of its business, is found in the fact that in the dead of one of the most severe winters that this part of the country has ever seen, plans were prepared, and the work of construction, including the laying of the foundation, was carried on successfully.

The company also believes in encouraging home industry and an indication of this fact is that while the plant for the manufacture of the shovels was bought in the United States, since it could not be purchased in this country, they have placed with the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company, an order for a rolling mill plant, which it is expected will be delivered and erected by May 1st, by which date the directors hope to have the complete plant in operation, and if they succeed in this it will constitute a record for rapid construction in Peterborough for a plant of that size.

The future of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company without probable competition in its line, promises well. The industry is now a practically established fact.

MR. T. DAWSON GIVEN UMBRELLA

On Eve of His Departure, by Friends in St. John's Church.

A Valued Member of Young People's Society—Popular Young Man Honoured

A pleasing event took place last night at St. John's School, when at their regular meeting, the Young People's Society presented one of their most esteemed members, Mr. Thomas Dawson, with a gold-mounted umbrella, on the eve of his departure for Port Arthur, where he has accepted a position. The presentation was made by Miss Maude Roberts, and the following address read by Mr. J. Patte, President of the Society.

Mr. Thos. Dawson,—

Dear Friend,—We, the Young People of St. John's Church, desire to express our sincere regret at losing one of the most popular and valued young men in our parish, both in our societies and church work, in which you have ever taken a most hearty and sincere interest, but knowing that you are going to occupy a much better position, we can say that we hope you will prosper and get along as well in your new position as you have in the one you are leaving, but you are sure, that all those who have known you, will agree with us in saying that there is no doubt of it. Our parting words to you are that you will always have the earnest wishes of the young people of this parish, and our best wishes will be realized, when we hear that you have reached the top of the ladder in your business career.

We wish you to accept this small token of the esteem and fellowship in which you were held by us and again wishing you all kinds of success and a safe journey.

Signed on behalf of the Young People's Society of St. John's Church,

JOHN E PATTE.

Mr. Dawson, who was deeply affected by the spirit of kindness, which had been evidenced in such a material manner, made a suitable reply.

An enjoyable social time was then spent during the balance of the evening, refreshments being served and several pleasing musical numbers being rendered.

Brief addresses were delivered by Rev. J. C. Davidson and Mr. C. G. Graham. These were followed by a recitation, by Mr. Goodacre, vocal solos by Mr. Dawson and an instrumental selection by Mr. Butcher, all of which were well rendered, and added materially to the pleasure of the evening.

Mr. Dawson, who will leave on Monday next was one of the most esteemed members of the society, by whose members he will be much missed. He will be followed by the best wishes of his host of friends in his departure to enter upon his new post of duty.

BASEBALL.

The Quakers Baseball Club met last night in the Y. M. C. A. to discuss the question as to what league, if any, they would play in this year. I was finally decided that they would play independent ball, as it would be difficult for a number of the players to get away to play in City League games.

The team this year will be much stronger, than last year's aggregation. A number of the older players will be found in a Quaker's uniform this season and they should be able to give any local team a good rrun.

At a meeting of St. John's Guild Baseball Club held last night it was decided to enter a team in the Guild League. A meeting will be held next week for organization purposes when officers will be elected and other matters in connection with the team considered. It is expected that a strong aggregation will be placed in the field.

FLOOD TAKES C.P.R. BRIDGE.

Saskatoon Structure Swept Away by Big Ice Jam—Damage by Spring Freshets Elsewhere.

Saskatoon, N. W. T., March 28.—The C. P. R. bridge across the South Saskatchewan River here was swept away yesterday afternoon by a big ice jam. The extraordinarily early spring caused the river to rise at a rapid rate, and the ice coming piling down finally carried away the structure, the piles snapping with thunderous report. The bridge was only a temporary affair built to replace the permanent structure carried away by the heavy floods last spring.

Damage Done Near Fergus.

Fergus, Ont., March 28.—The spring freshet on the Grand River swept away the fine flume belonging to Messrs. Jas. Wilson & Sons at the Broomfield Mills here, with a loss of two thousand dollars. The jam has stuck a short distance below Fergus, but the river is now clear above.

Paris, March 28.—The second of the spring wash-outs occurred yesterday a little to the west of this town, on the Grand Trunk main line. In this case it was not the roadbed that suffered to any material extent, as happened at Tara on Saturday, but the flooding played havoc with the telegraph poles, which were down for about half a mile, the result, of course, being that transmission was out of the question.

Town is Under Water.

Thamesville, March 28.—The river has risen rapidly for 24 hours, and yesterday at noon was within 20 inches of its record-breaking height of last year. The town is almost flooded Business is suspended, the water being in nearly every store. Boating is in order on most every street.

Damage and Perhaps Death.

St. Paul, Minn., March 28.—A report reached this city last night that the Town of Lowlberg, in the western portion of the state, had been practically wiped out by a tornado, and that from two to seven were killed.

In Two Tornado Visitations.

Wichita, Kan., March 28.—At Eldorado a tornado struck the business portion of the city last evening, unroofing several business houses, wrecking an hotel and a schoolhouse. A woman was seriously injured. Loss $30,000.

INVESTIGATE COLLISION.

Orders Received from Hon. Raymond Prefontaine, Minister of Marine.

Halifax, March 28.—Mr. J. F. L. Parsons, agent of the Marine Department, has received a telegram from Hon. Raymond Prefontaine, instructing him to hold an investigation into the collision of the steamers Parisian and Albano off Chebucto Head. Capt. S. R. Hill, Government Inspector of Hulls, will be associated with Mr. Parsons, who will open his inquiry without delay.

Parisian's Captain Given Due.

Montreal, March 28.—Nine hundred passengers who were on board the Parisian when the latter was stove in near the dock at Halifax harbor, arrived in Montreal yesterday afternoon on two special trains. They speak in terms of the warmest praise of the coolness of the Parisian's captain, who they assert was responsible for the absence of any fatalities. Besides the mails, three carloads of baggage were saved before the Parisian sunk at the dock. The passengers tell thrilling tales of the excitement and momentary terror that followed the collision.

Parisian Still Ashore.

Halifax, N. S., March 28.—There was little change yesterday morning in the position of the steamers Parisian and Albano, which were in collision on Saturday evening. The Albano is still afloat, but the Parisian is on the bottom, half her deck being under water. Pumps are at work on the engine room and divers are attempting to patch the hole in her side so that she may be gotten into the dry dock. She has a heavy list to starboard, which has increased four inches last night.

Dr. Nelles Dies in London.

London, March 27.—Dr. John A. Nelles, the oldest practicing physician of the city, died very suddenly Saturday morning, at his residence in London South. He is survived by three daughters and four sons, two of the latter being in business in Montreal and another connected with the Molsons Bank. Dr. H. H. Nelles, of this city, is a brother, the late Principal Nelles, of Victoria University, Toronto, was also a brother. Dr. Nelles was 78 years of age.

Wm. Weir Dead.

Ottawa, March 27.—The death occurred here on Saturday of William Weir, who was at one time general manager of the Ville Marie Bank, the failure of which a few years ago was a sensational incident in Canadian finance. Mr. Weir, who was over 80 years of age, had been living for some time in Ottawa with a married daughter, and was engaged in the preparation of a work on the banking system of the Dominion.

THE STRIKING COMMITTEE

Premier Expresses Hope That it Will Report Early—Notice of Motion in Respect of Companies' Act—Letters Which Passed Between the Premier of Ontario and the Premier of the Dominion.

Toronto, March 28.—In the Legislature yesterday the Premier laid on the table the correspondence between the Government and Sir Wilfrid Laurier with reference to the division of the territory of Keewatin, between the Provinces of Ontario and Manitoba.

The House sat about ten minutes and the only other matters touched upon were the selection of a committee to strike the standing committees, and an announcement by the Premier concerning the funeral of the late Andrew Miscampbell. Mr. Whitney said the death of Mr. Miscampbell, who was a former member of the House, had carried grief to a large number of his acquaintances.

Standing Committees.

The Premier moved that the following be the members of the special standing committee to prepare and report lists of members to compose the select standing committees: Attorney-General, Matheson, Willoughby, Preston (Lanark), Mahaffy, Thompson, (Simcoe), Hoyle, Clarke (Bruce), MacKay, Pense, Graham and Preston (Brant).

The Premier added that on looking over last session's record he found the Striking Committee had not reported for 22 days. He hoped the present committee would do better.

The correspondence with Sir Wilfrid Laurier is as follows:

Whitney to Laurier.

Toronto, March 2, 1905.

My Dear Sir Wilfrid Laurier:

I have noticed several statements in the press of the Province during the past week referring to an alleged proposed division, by the Dominion among the Provinces, of the territory lying to the south and west of James' Bay and Hudson Bay, and known as the territory of Keewatin.

Presumably the Province of Ontario should be entitled to a large portion of this territory, and should be heard with reference to any proposed division of it.

Assuming that such a division is in contemplation, I respectfully and earnestly urge upon you that before the details of such division be decided upon, or even considered, the Province of Ontario be allowed to submit to the Dominion Government for consideration with reference to such division, its claim to that portion of such territory as it may fairly urge should be allotted to it.

Yours faithfully,
(Signed) J. P. Whitney.

The Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Ottawa.

Laurier to Whitney.

Ottawa, March 4, 1905.

My Dear Mr. Whitney:

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your favor of the 2nd of March. You have anticipated the action which I intend to take. The Province of Manitoba has asked us to have its territory extended to Hudson Bay. It seems to me that this is a matter in which the Province of Ontario might have an interest. I will ask the Secretary of State to send you an official copy of the claim of Manitoba. In the meantime, I send you one under cover.

Yours respectfully,
(Signed) Wilfrid Laurier.

Hon. J. P. Whitney, Toronto.

Mr. Hoyle's Bill.

Mr. Hoyle (North Ontario) has given notice of his intention to introduce a bill to amend the Joint Stock Companies' Act, compelling companies to give complete information in their prospectuses of lands and money and also what commission is to be paid agents for soliciting subscriptions, so that investors may know just what the bona fides of the company is. This bill is patterned after the British act, and is designed to protect the public from wild-cat schemes.

HONOR FOR MR. WHITNEY.

Toronto City Council Welcomes Premier and Colleagues in Address.

Hon. J. P. Whitney, Premier of Ontario, was given a flattering reception in the Council chamber of the City Hall yesterday. The finest palms and flowering plants from the Park Commissioner's greenhouses were lavishly used to decorate. There was a large attendance of citizens, in addition to all of the heads of the civic departments, and loud applause greeted the Premier as he entered, escorted by Chairman Graham of the reception committee, and followed by Controller Ward, who preceded Hon. Mr. Foy and Hon. Dr. Pyne, the city's representatives in the Cabinet. Mayor Urquhart received the guests, and, escorting Hon. Mr. Whitney to a seat on his right, at once began the reading of the address.

After the applause had subsided, the Premier said it was with varied sensations that he heard the formal and somewhat elaborate expression of the acquiescence of the people of Toronto in the verdict given by the people of Ontario in regard to the Government of the Province. The function was another evidence of the good old British practice that from time to time the people should express officially their acquiescence in the Government of the day, and their acceptance of the verdict of the people. He hoped the rule in future would be continued as Governments came and went, and the will of the people as to who their rulers should be would be recognized. There was nothing of a party nature in the function. If it were not so, it would not have been as satisfactory to him as it was.

On the conclusion of Mr. Whitney's address, Controller Hubbard moved that the Council adjourn for 15 minutes, and during the interval the members and civic officials, with many representative citizens, were presented to him by the Mayor. The Premier then resumed his seat on the dais and Council concluded the business of the day, after which an informal levee was held in the members' room.

Colds

How often you hear it remarked "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that a cold, however slight, should not be disregarded.

ISSUE OF G. T. P. BONDS.

Rothschilds' Concession re Three Per Cent. Causes Surprise.

London, March 28.—(C. A. P.)—The city is somewhat surprised at the decision of Rothschild & Sons to bring out £3,250,000 of 3 per cent. sterling bonds of the Grand Trunk Pacific at 95, especially after the Canadian Northern fiasco, which offered the same terms. Messrs. Rothschild, however, make a concession in giving a full half year's dividend at the beginning of October, instead of interest on the instalments paid only. It will be very interesting to see how things develop. At one time in the afternoon the issue was offered at 1-4 discount, but it was afterwards supported at par. The Canadian Northern issue stands at 1 1-4 discount.

Motors Affect Horsebreeding.

London, March 27.—(C. A. P.)—At one of the recent spring farm sales in the north of England there was a heavy fall in prices of cart horses. A prominent horse-breeder, asked by the Canadian Press the reason of the drop, replied that he attributed it to the increasing use of motor vehicles for town work. The motors are affecting the horse-breeders in many ways. Canadian breeders, if they have not already felt the effect of the moter invasion, are sure to do so, as the omnibus companies are among their best customers, and very soon the horse-drawn omnibus will be scarcely seen in London streets.

ROYAL WEDDING TO BE.

Marriage Arranged of Spanish King to Princess Victoria Patricia.

New York, March 28.—A Madrid special to The Herald says: In official circles the assurance is given that during the present visit of the Duke of Connaught to the Spanish Court at Madrid the marriage of King Alfonso to the Princess Victoria Patricia has been definitely arranged. The difficulties with regard to the religious question have been settled.

Hon. Mr. Fielding Has a Fall.

Ottawa, March 28.—Hon. W. S. Fielding had a narrow escape from injury last evening. He was driving home from the House of Commons to his home at 6 o'clock in a closed sleigh. On Metcalfe street, near the Windsor Hotel, the snow is mountains high and the sleigh upturned. It looked very grave for a few minutes, but the Minister of Finance got out uninjured and walked the remainder of the way home.

Revolution in Crete.

Canea, Island of Crete, March 27.—A revolutionary band of 500 persons, demanding Greek rule, and which has been active for some days, fired on Cretan gendarmes Saturday, seriously wounding two of them. Crete reinforcements are expected from Candia. Prince George, in a proclamation, urges the people not to encourage the revolutionary movement, which at present appears to be confined to Candia.

To Oppose Gouin.

Montreal, March 27.—Alex. St. Martin, a shorthand writer in the courts here, was chosen yesterday to oppose Premier Gouin in St. James. Mr. St. Martin is a Nationalist Liberal, but his candidature is not serious.

CONSERVATIVE ORGANIZER DEAD

Mr. A. Miscampbell Passed Away in Toronto Saturday

A Prominent Ontario Politician—Was Identified with Transportation Interests.

Toronto, March 27.—Mr. Andrew Miscampbell, a former member of the Local Legislature, and latterly chief organizer for the Conservative party in Ontario, died on Saturday afternoon at his home, 159 Close avenue. He had suffered with stomach trouble for some years, and this assumed an acute form four weeks ago.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday at Barrie. The remains will leave North Parkdale Station on the 8 a. m. train. Kerr Lodge, A. F. & A. M., of Barrie, and the I. O. F. will attend the funeral, deceased having been a member of both orders.

Andrew Miscampbell was born on June 28, 1845, in Simcoe County, Ontario, and was educated at the public school and Barrie High School. He was for a number of years engaged in the lumber business. At the Provincial general election of 1890 he was elected for East Simcoe, and re-elected again for the same constituency at the general election of 1894 and 1898. Shortly after the election of 1898 he became manager of the Northern Navigation Co. and two years thereafter he was appointed manager of the steamships of the Clergue interests at Sault Ste. Marie. At the election of 1902 he was again returned to the Legislature for the Sault Ste. Marie constituency, but he was unseated on petition, and at the bye-election which followed he was defeated by the present member, Mr. C. N. Smith. Shortly after that bye-election Mr. Miscampbell was appointed by Mr. J. P. Whitney chief Conservative organizer for the Provincial Conservative party, and there can be no doubt that his exhaustive work during the recent campaign hastened his end. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church, and at one time purposed entering the ministry. He was a duly appointed catechist and held in high esteem in Presbyterian circles. His widow, formerly Miss Jessie Spooner, survives him, but there are no children.

Premier Whitney, speaking of deceased on Saturday, paid a warm tribute to his worth, and said the results of the recent elections were in no small degree a tribute to the faithful work he performed.

Died While Lover Waited.

Hamilton, March 27.—While her lover waited for her to go for a walk yesterday afternoon, Miss Belle Lyne, daughter of John Lyne, grocer, corner of Wentworth and Barton streets, went upstairs and ended her life, whether by accident or design is not known positively. She was 21 years of age and had been keeping company with Police Constable Hasselfelt for about two years. He called for her yesterday afternoon and she went upstairs to get her things. She was gone so long that other members of the family followed to see what was keeping her. They found her lying unconscious on her bed. She had drunk about two ounces of carbolic acid and was horribly burned. Though Dr. Perry was soon on the spot he was not able to do anything to save her life, and she died a short time after. Coroner Balfe has decided not to hold an inquest.

An Ayr Boy Shot.

Ayr, March 27.—A fatal shooting accident occurred on the C. P. R. bridge spanning the river Saturday, when Percy Babcock was instantly killed by the accidental discharge of his gun. Accompanied by two or three friends, he was out muskrat shooting, and, when crossing the bridge, he remarked how easy it would be for a gun to slip through the bridge. In illustrating this, his gun was discharged, the contents entering his face, almost instantly killing him.

Contracted Bad Cold. Doctor Said, Serious!

Wanted To Send Him Three Hundred Miles To The Winnipeg Hospital.

Bottle and a Half of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup Cured.

Read what Mrs. A. G. Wheeler, Wawawa, Man., has to say about it:—"Please let me thank you for the great good that both my husband and my children have received from Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. One night when my husband came home from work he had contracted very bad cold. He became so bad that he had to go to bed and send for the doctor. When the doctor came he pronounced it a very serious case, and wanted me to send him to the Winnipeg Hospital. This, I would not do, as it is about 300 miles to Winnipeg. I decided to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and got four bottles of it. He only took one-and-a-half bottles before he was all right again and only lost a few days' work. I always keep it in the house for the children. Even the baby, seven months old, takes it and seems to like it, and as for myself I do not know what I would do without it. I think that every good housekeeper should keep a bottle on hand, for I know it will save many a doctor bill."

Price 25 cents. Put up in a yellow wrapper and three pine trees the trade mark. Refuse substitutes.

The Heart's Highway

Copyright, 1900, by DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.

I felt myself white with wrath then and was for blindly wrestling with a great fellow who was among the foremost, shaking with mirth, an oak wreath over his red curls making him look like a satyr, when Mistress Mary rode between us. "Back, Master Wingfield," said she. "I pray thee, stand back." Then she looked at the folk, all smiles and ready understanding of them, until they hurrahed again and rang their bells and blew their horns, and she looked like a blossom tossed on the wave of pandemonium.

I had my hand on her bridle rein, ready to do my best should any rudeness be offered her, when suddenly she raised her hand and made a motion, and to my utter astonishment the brawling throng, save for some on the outskirts, which quieted presently, became still. Then Mistress Mary's voice arose clear and sweet, with a childish note of innocence in it:

"Good people," said she, "fain would I be your Maid Marion, and fain would I be your queen of May if you would hold with me this kingdom of Virginia against tyrants and oppressors."

I question if a dozen there grasped her meaning, but, after a second's gaping stare, such a shout went up that it seemed to make the marshes quiver. I know not what mad scheme was in the maid's head, but I verily believe that throng would have followed her wherever she led, and the tobacco plants might have been that morning cut had she so willed.

But I pulled hard at her bridle, and I forgot my customary manner with her, so full of terror for her I was. "For God's sake, child, have done," I said, and she looked at me, and there came a strange expression, which I had never seen before, into her blue eyes, half of yielding as to some strength which she feared, and half of that high enthusiasm of youth and noble sentiment which threatened to swamp her in its mighty flow as it had done her hero Bacon before her.

I know not if I could have held her, it all passed in a second the while those wild hussas continued, and the crowd pressed closer, all crowned and crested with green, like a tidal wave of spring, but another argument came to me, and that moved her. "'Tis not yourself alone, but your sister and Madam Cavendish to suffer with you," I said. Then she gave a quick glance at Catherine, who was raising her white face and trying to get near enough to speak to her, for her sister's speech had made her frantic with alarm, and hesitated.

Then she laughed and the earnest look faded from her face and she called out with that way of hers which nobody and nothing could withstand. "Nay," she said, "wait till I be older and have as much wisdom in my head as hath the Maid Marion whom you have chosen. The one who hath seen so many Mays can best know how to queen it over them."

So saying, she snatched the wreath with which they had crowned her from her head and cast it with such a sweep of grace as never I saw over the head of flax headed and masked Maid Marion, and reined her horse back, and the crowd, with worshipful eyes of admiration of her and her sweetness and wit and beauty, gave way, and was off down the road toward Jarvis field, with loud clamor of bells and horns and wild dancing and wavings of their gadsticks and green branches.

Mistress Mary rode before us at a gallop, and presently we were all at the breakfast table in the great hall at Drake Hill, with foaming tankards of metheglin and dishes of honey and salmon and game in plenty. For, whatever the scarcity of the king's gold, there was not much lack of food in this rich country.

Madam Cavendish was down that morning, sitting at table with her stick beside her, her head topped with a great tower of snowy cap, her old face now ivory yellow but with a wonderful precision of feature, for she had been a great beauty in her day, so alert and alive with the ready comprehension of her black eyes, under slightly scowling brows, that naught escaped her that was within her reach of vision. Somewhat dull was she of hearing, but that sharpness of eye did much to atone for it. She looked up when we entered with such keenness that for a second my thought was that she knew all.

"What were the sounds of merry-making down the road?" said she.

"'Twas the morris dancers and the maypole. 'Tis the 1st of May, as you know, madam," said Mary in her sweet voice, made clear and loud to reach her grandmother's ear. Then up she went to kiss her, and the old woman eyed her with pride, which she was fain to conceal by chiding. "You will ruin your complexion if you go out in such a wind without your mask," she said, and looked at the maiden's roses and lilies with that rapture of admiration occasioned half by memory of her own charms which had faded and half by understanding of the value of them in coin of love, which one woman can waken only in another.

For Catherine, Madam Cavendish had no glance of admiration nor word, though she had tended her faithfully all the day before and half the night, rubbing her with an effusion of herbs and oil for her rheumatic pains. Yet for her Madam Cavendish had no love and treated her with a stately toleration and no more. Mary understood no cause for it and often looked, as she did then, with a distressful wonder at her grandmother when she seemed to hold her sister so slightingly.

"Here is Catherine, grandmother," said she, "and she has had a narrow escape from being pressed as Maid Marion by the morris dancers." Madam Cavendish made a slight motion and looked not at Catherine, but turned to me with that face of anxious kindness which she wore for me alone. "Saw you aught of the Golden Horn this morning, Master Wingfield?" asked she; and I replied truthfully enough that I had not.

Then, to my dismay, she turned to Mary and inquired what were the goods which she had ordered from England, and, to my greater dismay, the maid, with such a light of daring and mischief in her blue eyes as I never saw, rattled off, the while Catherine and I stared aghast at her, such a list of women's folderols as I never heard, and most of them quite beyond my masculine comprehension.

Madam Cavendish nodded approvingly when she had done. "'Tis a wise choice," said she, "and as soon as the ship comes in have the goods brought here and unpacked, that I may see them." With that she rose stiffly, and, beckoning Catherine, who looked as if she could scarcely stand herself, much less serve as prop for another, went out, tapping her stick heavily on one side, on the other leaning on her granddaughter's shoulder.

CHAPTER VIII.

I LOOKED at Mistress Mary and she at me. We had withdrawn to the deepness of a window, while the black slaves moved in and out, bearing the breakfast dishes, as reasonably unheeded by us as the cupbearers in a picture of a Roman banquet in the time of the Caesars which I saw once. Mistress Mary was pale with dismay, and yet her mouth twitched with laughter at the notion of displaying before the horrified eyes of Madam Cavendish, those grim adornments which had arrived in the Golden Horn.

"La," said she, "when they come a-trundling in a powder cask, and I courtesy and say, 'Madam, here is my furbelowed and gold flowered sacque,' I wonder what will come to pass!" Then she laughed.

"Madam," said I, "why did you give that list?" She laughed again, and her eyes flashed with the very light of mischief.

"I grant 'twas a fib," said she. "But I was taken unawares, and, la, how could I recite to her the true list of my rare finery which came to port yesterday? So I gave the list of goods for which my Lady Culpeper sent to England for the replenishing of her wardrobe and her daughter's, and which is daily expected by ship. I had it from Cicely Hyde, who had it from Cate Culpeper. The ship is due now and may be even now in port, and I so worded what I said that 'twas not, after all, a fib except the hearer chose to make it so. I said, 'Such goods as these are due, madam.'"

Then she gave the list anew, like a parrot, while Catherine, who had returned, stood staring at her, white with terror, though Mary did not see her until she had finished. Then when she turned and caught her keenly anxious eyes she started. "You here, Catherine?" said she. Then, knowing not how much her sister knew already, she tried to cover her confusion like a child denying its raid on the jam pots while its lips and fingers are still sticky with the stolen sweet.

"What think you of my list, sweetheart?" cried she merrily. "A pair of the silk stockings and two of the breastknots and a mask and a flowered apron shall you have." Then out of the room she whisked abruptly, laughing from excess of nervous confusion and not being able to keep up the farce longer.

Then Catherine turned to me. "She has undone herself, for Madam Cavendish will see those goods when the Golden Horn comes in or ferret the mystery to its farthest hole of hiding," said she. Then she wrung her hands and cried out sharply, "Harry Wingfield, what is to be done?"

"Madam Cavendish would surely never betray her own flesh and blood," said I, though doubtfully, when I reflected upon her hardness to Catherine herself, for Madam Judith Cavendish was not one for whom love could change the color of the clear light of justice, and she would see forever her own as they were.

"There is to her no such word as betray except in the service of the king," said Catherine. Then she added in a whisper, "Know you the story of her youngest son, my uncle, Ralph Cavendish, who went over to Cromwell?"

I nodded. I knew it well and had heard it from a lad how Ralph Cavendish's own mother had turned him from the door one night with the king's troops in the neighborhood, though it was afterward argued that she did not know of that, and he had been taken before morning and afterward executed, and she had never said a word nor shed a tear that any one saw.

"When the Golden Horn comes in she will demand to see the goods," Catherine repeated.

"Then—the Golden Horn must not come in," said I.

Catherine looked at me with that flash of ready wit in her eyes which was like to the flash of fire from gunpowder meeting tinder. Then she cried out: "Quick, then, quick, I pray thee, Harry Wingfield, to the wharf! For if ever I saw sail I saw that, and the tide will have turned 'm. Quick, quick!"

She waited not for any headgear, but forth into the May sunlight she rushed, and I with her, and shouted at the top of my lungs to the slaves for my horse, then went myself, having no mind to wait, and hustled the poor beast from his feed bin and was on his back and at a hard gallop to the wharf, with Mistress Catherine following as fast as she was able. Now and then when I turned I saw her slim green shape advancing, looking for all the world to my fancy like some nymph who had been changed into a river reed and had gotten life again.

When I reached the wharf, with my horse all afoam, there was indeed the Golden Horn down the river, coming in. The tide and wind had been against her or she would have reached shore ere now. Then along the bank I urged my horse, and in some parts, where there was no footing and the tangle of woods too close, into the stream we plunged and swam, then up bank again, and so on with a mighty splatter of mire and water and rain of green leaves and blossoms from the low hang of branches through which we tore way, till we came abreast of the Golden Horn. Then I hallooed, first making sure that there was no one lurking near to overhear, and waved my handkerchief, keeping my horse standing to his fetlocks in the current, until over the water came an answering halloo from the Golden Horn and I could plainly see Captain Calvin Tabor on the quarter deck. The ship was not far distant and I could have swam to her, and would have, though the tide was strong, had there been no other way.

"Halloo," shouted Captain Tabor, and two more men came running to the side, then more still, till it was overhung by a whole row of red English faces.

"Halloo!" shouted I.

"What d'ye lack? What's afoot? Halloo!"

"Send a boat!" I shouted back. "News, news! Keep where ye be. Do not land. Send a boat!"

"Is it the convict tutor, Wingfield?" shouted the captain.

I called back yes and repeated my demand that he send a boat.

Then I saw a great running hither and thither, and presently a boat

Harry hallooing to the Golden Horn touched the water from the side of the Golden Horn with a curious lapping dip, and I was off my horse and tied him fast to a tree on the bank with loose rein that he might crop his fill of the sweet spring herbage, and when the boat touched bank was in her and speedily aboard ship.

is offered as a guarantee that neither
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription
NOR
Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

contains alcohol, opium, or any harmful drug. Any one publishing false statements concerning their ingredients will be prosecuted. Doctor Pierce's Family Remedies are compounds of medicinal principles, scientifically extracted from native roots that cure the diseases for which they are recommended. They are medicines which have enjoyed the public confidence for over a third of a century. They are medicines not beverages, made to satisfy a craving for "booze."

"Golden Medical Discovery" regulates and invigorates stomach, liver and bowels, and cures dyspepsia, purifies the blood and tones up the system generally.

"Favorite Prescription" cures female weakness, irregularities, exhausting drains, painful periods and kindred ailments peculiar to women. Accept no substitute for these medicines, each of which has a record of marvelous cures. Substitution means selfishness on the part of the dealer who is looking for the greater profit on an inferior article.

"Our daughter who was attending college became very nervous and we were advised to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription." writes Mrs. M. C. Fox, of 87 E. Leonard St., Grand Rapids, Mich. "We did so and then you advised us to get the 'Golden Medical Discovery' also. She took four bottles of the 'Prescription' and three of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and you never saw such a change in a person. She said she did not feel like the same person. She was about seventeen years old at the time. I will gladly recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to every one. I advise parents who have young daughters who suffer from nervous troubles to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as soon. I am sure it will help them."

Thousands of young and middle-aged men are annually swept to a premature grave through early abuse or later excesses. Chas. Anderson was one of the victims, but was rescued in time. He says: "I learned an evil habit. A change soon came over me. I could feel it; my friends noticed it. I became nervous, despondent, gloomy, had no ambition, easily tired, evil forebodings, poor circulation, pimples on face, back weak, dreams and drains at night, tired and weak mornings, burning sensation. To make matters worse, I became reckless and contracted a blood disease. I tried many doctors and medical firms—all failed till Drs. Kennedy & Kergan took my case. In one week I felt better, and in a few weeks was entirely cured. They are the only reliable and honest Specialists in the country."

Many Women Suffer Untold Agony From Kidney Trouble.

Very often they think it is from so-called "female disease." There is less female trouble than they think. Women suffer from backache, sleeplessness, nervousness, irritability, and a dragging-down feeling in the loins. So do men, and they do not have "female trouble." Why, then, blame all your trouble to female disease? With healthy kidneys, few women will ever have "female disorders." The kidneys are so closely connected with all the internal organs, that when the kidneys go wrong, everything goes wrong. Much distress would be saved if women would only take at stated intervals.

Miss Nellie Clark, Lambeth, Ont., tells of her cure in the following words:—"I suffered for about two years with kidney trouble. I ached all over, especially in the small of my back; not being able to sleep well, no appetite, menstruation irregular, nervous irritability, and brick-dust deposit in urine, were some of my symptoms. I took Doan's Kidney Pills. The pain in my back gradually left me, my appetite returned, I sleep well, and am effectually cured. I can highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all sufferers from kidney trouble."

A GOLD DREDGING COMPANY FORMED

Peterborough Capitalists Interested in Project to Dredge for Gold in the Fraser River--Capital of New Concern $300,000--Will Carry On Operations in British Columbia--Good Prospects for Success.

The last issue of the Ontario Gazette contains notice of the incorporation of the Pittsburg Gold Dredging Co., of Peterbbrough, with an authorized capital of $300,000, and the provisional directors are Messrs. W. Hamilton, of the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company of Peterborough, Matthew Smith of Pittsburg, president of the Star of the East Gold Mining Company, Archie Ottis Kidd, of Peterborough, secretary of the Star of the East Gold Mining Company; John Calvin Smith and William Hamilton Munro, of Peterborough.

The company will conduct dredging for gold on the Fraser River in British Columbia, and, it is expected, that work will be commenced as soon as possible. A number of the provisional directors are connected with the Star of the East Gold Mining Company.

The dredges with which the work will be prosecuted, will be manufactured by the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company of town, a company which has made a number of large gold dredges now at work on the Pacific coast.

SENATOR COX GIVES $50,000

To Endow a Chair in Victoria College in Memory of his Late Wife

Late Mrs. Cox Laid Corner Stone of College in 1891—A Princely Gift.

The banquet of the Methodist Social Union at Victoria Hall last evening was made the occasion for the announcement by Rev. Dr. Potts, Joint Educational Treasurer with Hon. George A. Cox, of the Methodist Church of Canada, that the princely sum of $100,000 had been given by the trustees of the Massey estate towards the $300,000 fund for the augmentation of Victoria College endowment. He further stated that the document stated that on condition the church raised $100,000, an additional $100,000 would be raised to make up the desired sum.

Dr. Potts next made the announcement that in an interview with Chancellor Burwash and himself just before six o'clock last evening, Hon. George A. Cox had handed him $50,000 for the endowment of a chair in memory of Margaret Cox, his late wife, the lady who had laid the corner stone of Victoria College, June 18, 1891. Dr. Potts, with evident joy, said the total gifts towards the $100,000 necessary to complete the amount aimed at, were now in the neighbourhood of $75,000, and it would never do in Toronto, with such names as he had in his pocket book, to stop at $300,000. He would therefore announce the sum to be aimed at as $350,000, and he believed if he asked for it then it would be forthcoming, but refrained from doing so. It is understood, though not yet announced, that E. R. Wood has subscribed $15,000, and J. W. Flavelle, $5,000. — Globe.

A PLEA FOR PATRIOTISM

"English-Canadian" Wants National Anthem Respected

Peterborough,
March 27, 1905.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—I was very much pleased with the report you gave of the Band Concert on Friday evening last, yet there was one thing lacking in that report. While you mentioned the good audience and the programme an excellent one, and while we were not in the park amidst the babble of unrestrained and untrained children, yet I noticed a great similarity in one respect. That is when the first note of our National Anthem was being played, very nearly everybody rushes for home. I think, Mr. Editor, this shows either lack of good breeding or that we possess a very small amount of patriotism. Do we notice when God Save the King is being sung at any of our church concerts, the people pulling on their wraps and walking out? No. Then why not show our respect in the same way when it is being played by the band. I am sure the band would thoroughly appreciate it and we feel none the worse for so doing. The summer is coming and the time for the band in the park will soon be here. Let us take a few lessons by staying until the National Anthem is played. I am satisfied we will feel that we have at least done our duty.

Thanking you for your valuable space,

Yours,

KINDERGARTEN METHOD ON VIEW

The System Demonstrated by Miss Estella Foy and Pupils

Peculiar Proficiency Exhibited by the Youngest Pupils.

The audience which attended the Kindergarten Demonstration given at the Y.M.C.A. Hall last night by the pupils of Miss Estelle Foy of the Conservatory of Music staff, completely overtaxed the capacity of the hall,—standing room even being unavailable. The entertainment which was both unique and charming, captivated everyone, the marvellous skill and proficiency exhibited by the children as a result of Miss Foy's training giving rise to expressions of surprise and pleasure, which were heard on every side. The little ones, during the numerous severe tests, including sight reading, to which they were subjected, acquitted themselves in a manner perfect in every detail. But a feature perhaps more pleasing even than their marvellous proficiency, was the unbounded enthusiasm and interest displayed by the children in their study. This is, perhaps, one of the most excellent results of Miss Foy's training as how often it is the case that children who have failed in the study of music, have simply abandoned it, disappointed and discouraged simply because they were never taught to love the art. The mere mechanism —the dry theory of the art—has been thrust upon the little ones, while its beauty has not been shown to them. One has become a musician while a thousand have remained stiff, uninteresting conventional amateurs, or have abandoned it entirely. That the inexpressibly wearisome nature of the elementary study under the old-time methods have been satisfactorily overcome was amply demonstrated last night,—the drudgery and nerve-racking struggle which accompanied the study of terminology and rudimentary technical knowledge having been replaced by a feeling of enthusiasm and pleasure, which make hard study a delightful recreation and create that sincere and enduring love of music without which no man or woman can hope to be a real musician.

As an illustration of the thoroughness of the musical training imparted by Miss Foy may be mentioned the fact that, though the use of the piano is not included in the early stages of their study, yet when this is introduced they invariably read with an accuracy and rapidity, which is truly marvellous. The study is proceeded with from its initial stages by a means of a system in which the instruction never fails to interest and fill the infantile heart with pleasure, from the initial study—that of the keyboard—throughout the instruction which follows in the scales, staff notation, time, terminology, sight reading, memorizing, audition, history of music, rythm, taste, to its culminating stage, —playing, there is that intelligent understanding of the work done, without which there is no real musical development. The programme rendered last night was as follows:—

Staff Building.

Gillet ....Basse Pied .... Piano
Margaret Edwards, (Kindergarten Graduate.)

Keyboard Game

Notation Work.

The Dancing Lesson (Op. 15) ... ... Piano
Madeline Pearce (Kindergarten Graduate.)

Scale Building Audition.

Stepane Esipoff, Dondola Song, (Op. 15) Piano.
Pearl Foy (Kindergarten Graduate.)

Postman Game.

Haadel ... ...Largo ... ...Violin
Julia Choate

Expression Audition

Selva Swinging (Waltz ... Piano Duet
Madeline and Harold Parker (Kindergarten Graduates.)

Musical History.

R. Lerber ... Little Violet ... ...Piano
Myra White (Kindergarten Graduates).

The only assisting artist was Miss Julia Choate, Miss Gervin, who was announced to take part being unavoidably absent by reason of a most regrettable illness. Both are violin pupils of Mr. Gliddon at the Conservatory and Miss Choate's solo, Handel's "Largo", evidenced a thorough musical training and met with a hearty reception. The numbers by the Kindergarten graduates, Misses Margaret Edwards, Madeline Pearce, Pearl Foy, Madeline Parker, Myra White and Master Harold Parker were all rendered with much artistic expression and thoroughly delighted the audience.

The following took part in last night's entertainment: Helen Sager, Lila Waterman, Herbert Dixon, Lillian Moore, Dorothy Dobbin, Vincent Eastwood, Emma Cox, Sadie Patterson, Willie Patterson, Evelyn Lush, Madeline Parker, Harold Parker, Marion Fife, Myra White, Gladys Lyle, Madeline Pearce, Kathleen Conroy, Gerald Conroy, Lila Howson, Helen Darnley, Gladys Duncan, Etta Hall, Marguerite Edwards, Ray Aitcheson.

The accompanists were Pearl Foy, Miss Ethel Best.

Receipts of live stock at the Junction Market, owing to bad roads in the country, were light, 23 car loads, composed of 640 cattle, 4 hogs and 19 calves.

Prices ranged from $4.50 to $5.12½ per cwt. for steers, the bulk going at $4.75 to $4.90. Export bulls sold all the way from $3.50 to $4.12½ per cwt.

Choice picked lots sold at $4.80 to $4.85 per cwt., but there were few of them, and they were good enough in quality for export; loads of good, $4.35 to $4.45; fair to good, $4 to $4.25; medium, $3.65 to $4; common, $3 to $3.50; cows, $2.50 to $3.25 per cwt.

Prices ranged from $5 to $6 per cwt.

H. P. Kennedy reported prices as follows: Selects $5.15; lights and fats, $5.65; these prices are off cars. Hogs, fed and watered, are as follows: Selects, $5.60; lights and fats, $5.15 per cwt.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, March 27.—(Special.)—Cattle advices came weaker and prices are ¼c to ½c lower for Canadian cattle, with sales in London at 10¼c and in Liverpool at 10c to 10½c. The exports from Portland last week were 1536 cattle, 1400 sheep. The receipts were 300 cattle, 60 sheep and lambs, 100 calves, 800 hogs, 25 milch cows. The small supply helped to make a dull market, as the prices were higher all round and the butchers bought sparingly, preferring to wait for a larger run on Wednesday. Prime beeves sold at 4¾c to 5¼c; good, 3¾c to 4½c; common, 2¼c to 3½c. The milch cows were an ordinary lot and sold at $30 to $45 each. The calves were poor, $1.75 to $4.50 each. Sheep, 4c yearlings, 4½c; spring lambs sold at 6c. The tone of the market for hogs was strong and prices advanced 25c per cwt., owing to the scarcity; the demand was good and selected lots sold at $7 to $7.10, fed and watered.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, March 27.—Cattle—Receipts 3700 head; active and 10c higher; prime steers, $5.60 to $5.85; shipping, $5.15 to $5.50; butchers', $4.50 to $5.10; heifers, $3.50 to $5; cows, $3 to $4.35; bulls, $3 to $4.40; stockers and feeders, $3 to $4.40; stock heifers, $2.25 to $3; good fresh cows and springers, strong to 10 higher; common, steady; good to choice, $45 to $55; medium to good $30 to $42; common, $20 to $25.

Veals—Receipts, 1600; active; $4.50 to $6.25.

A Spring Style Opening in DOUGLAS' SHOE STORE

TUESDAY we give over our Shoe Store to display of Spring Styles in

J. D. KING'S SHOES.

Our long experience in handling nearly every make of shoes has taught us that the Perfect Shoe is a rarity. Some have one good point, others another; but to get them all combined in one shoe, and that shoe a moderate priced one, was beyond our efforts.

To solve the situation we have had a shoe made under our own supervision, according to our own specific instructions, combining all the good points of the many, made of the best leathers by shoe makers who are a credit to the craft, and the result is KING'S SHOES.

The King Shoe is a service shoe. The finest Box Calf Leather for the Uppers, and the best Oak Tanned Leather for the Soles insure that.

The King Shoe is a stylish shoe, it is made over the latest last of the master shoe designers, whose models we reproduce. It's graceful lines and curves make the King one of the most shapely shoes.

The King Shoe is a Comfort Shoe, it fits from the start, easy and comfortable, needs no breaking in for every foot, the perfect fitting boot.

ARE THE JAPANESE BEHIND LINEVITCH?

Fears That Japs May Have Turned Russian Position--Peace May be Practical---Czar Said to Have Settled Line of Negotiations in that Behalf--Outlines Conditions Under Which Russia is Prepared to Negotiate Baron Hayashi Says There Will Be No Intermediary.

London, March 29.—The Times' St. Petersburg correspondent telegraphs as follows:

"The entire absence of private and press telegrams from the front, together with a laconic message from Gen. Linevitch last night, dated Harbin and saying 'No reports from the armies,' evolves fears that communications have been cut and that the Japanese have turned the Russian positions."

Japs Move Forward.

Gunshu Pass, (103 Miles north of Tie Pass), Manchuria, March 29.—The Japanese are again moving forward and the Russian rear guard has fallen back from its position about thirteen miles north of Sipinghai (74 miles north of Tie Pass), to Chaoumisodsi, which is situated 40 miles below Gunshu Pass.

Practically complete reports show that the Russian army sacrificed general commissariat stores to the amount of $1,254,000, and stores for an army corps amounting to $500,000, held at Mukden, most of it being set on fire, the boots and uniforms among the stores, of which the whole army was in need, arriving from Europe four days before the Russian retirement from Mukden. Gen. Kuropatkin ordered the removal of the stores, but orders was not executed. An investigation will be made in order to establish the responsibility.

Tied Linevitch's Hand.

St. Petersburg, March 29.—News has been received here that the Japanese are again forcing matters. Gen. Linevitch's position is regarded as precarious, and is causing extreme anxiety. In official circles in St. Petersburg the possibility of peace is now freely talked of. At both the Foreign Office and the Admiralty yesterday was heard the opinion expressed that it is within sight.

PEACE CONDITIONS.

Outlined by Russia in Event of Immediate Negotiations.

St. Petersburg, March 29.—Russia has outlined the conditions under which she is prepared to negotiate peace.

It was stated last night with every semblance of authority that, thanks to the good offices of the United States and France, the question of peace had assumed practical shape.

London, March 29.—A telegram from a northern European capital received in London yesterday afternoon says:

"I have just learned on reliable authority that Russia has asked Delcasse to act as intermediary and open peace negotiations with Japan.

"Delcasse has signified his willingness, but considers that Lansdowne's co-operation is essential to success."

No Intermediary Needed.

London, March 29.—"When peace negotiations commence it will be between Russia and Japan, and not through any intermediary," was Minister Hayashi's comment to the Associated Press last night, when shown the despatch from a northern European capital, stating that M. Delcasse, the French Foreign Minister, had been asked to act as an intermediary to open peace negotiations. Minister Hayashi said he attached no importance to the statement, but believed that France was trying to influence Russia to open negotiations for peace. "So far as I know," he added, no negotiations have been begun, but when Russia is ready to make terms Japan will be happy to consider them."

Minister Hayashi repeated his previous statements, that Japan is not noticing peace rumors but steadily preparing to prosecute the war to the bitter end.

Sailors Die of Exposure.

Tokio, March 29.—Two of the crew of the British steamer Marsh have died of exposure. The rest of the men rescued have arrived at Hakodate.

Miner State of Siege Declared.

Riga, Russia, March 29.—The Minister of the Interior has ordered the proclamation of a minor state of siege in the Government of Livonia.

IN FLAMES AT WINNIPEG.

J. Y. Griffin & Co.'s Pork Factory in Flames—Loss $200,000.

Winnipeg, March 29.—J. Y. Griffin & Co.'s pork packing establishment, located on the Red River banks, opposite this city, was in flames at midnight, and will be a total loss. The factory is the largest in the west. The loss will be about $200,000.

The entire factory was burned. There was a fierce wind blowing, accompanied by snow and sleet, but the firemen prevented the spread of the flames to the opposite side of the river.

LAURIN'S DEATH INVESTIGATED

No Verdict Yet in the Loney Manslaughter Case.

HOCKEY AT ITS ROUGHEST

Evidence Reveals How Alcide Laurin Was Struck at the Maxville Game by Loney — Laurin Said to Have Threatened Loney — The Blow Struck Was a Hard One —The Defence.

Cornwall, March 29.—The Loney manslaughter case, arising out of the death of Alcide Laurin, of Alexandria, in a hockey match at Maxville, opened at the Assizes yesterday morning before Justice Teetzel and is still in progress. There was considerable difficulty over the selection of a jury, the Crown objecting to eleven and the defence to eight before a full panel was secured.

Contrary to O. H. A. Rules.

Walter H. Dick, of Alexandria, was the first witness. He was cover-point on the Alexandria team. Mr. Dick said that the match was played under the O. H. A. rules, one of which, No. 12, forbids raising the stick above the shoulder. These rules he read. Laurin was rover and captain of the Alexandria team. About 90 or 100 Alexandrians were present at the game. Loney played point for the Maxville team. The match began about 9 p. m. He saw Loney strike Laurin on the head, and Laurin fell.

Laurin had gone up the ice with the puck, passing several Maxville men until he met Loney, who checked him.

In reply to His Lordship, Mr. Dick explained that a legitimate check was striking an opponent's stick so as to get the puck away from him.

Struck Hard Blow.

After breaking Laurin's stick, Loney struck Laurin on the head. This blow was struck after the referee's whistle had been blown to stop the game. Mr. Dick said he was too far away to hear the sound of the blow. He was the first man to reach Laurin, and rubbed his face with snow. He then saw Leo Laurin strike Loney over the face with a hockey stick. It seemed to land on his nose, and there was blood on Loney's face. Referring to the condition of the rink, he said the light was fairly good, but the ice was very uneven. The fatal blow was struck with considerable force, Loney swinging his stick over his shoulder.

Match Was Rough.

Cross-examined by Mr. Pringle, Mr. Dick, the first witness in the Loney case, said that it was a rough match from start to finish. Loney was not ruled off in this match. He did not remember Loney being ruled off in three previous games. Laurin had been ruled off in some previous games. He did not see Laurin ruled off in this game. He was not in a position to see Laurin strike Loney if he did so. According to the rules, if Loney was proceeding to his own goal after shoving the puck up the ice, Laurin should get back to his position also.

Roughest He Had Ever Seen.

W. J. Simpson, of Alexandria, was next called. He was a spectator at the game and saw the fatal blow struck, although he did not see the previous checking. Laurin seemed to have turned slightly stooping as if to pick up something from the ice when Loney raised his stick over his shoulder and struck him. From the witness' position it looked as if the blow struck on the back of the head. It was the roughest game of hockey he had ever seen. Under cross-examination Mr. Simpson said that he had not heard Laurin say he would put Loney out of business. He did not see Laurin ruled off for a scrap with McDougall. To the judge he said the blow was delivered with great force.

Threatened Loney.

A couple of hundred people were unable to gain admission at the afternoon session. The first witness was John A. McMillan, M. P. P., Glengarry. He was subpoenaed at Toronto. He was present at the hockey match in Alexandria. He saw Loney check Laurin heavily. The whole mixup did not take more than six or eight seconds, both men checking. Laurin's stick was broken after the mix-up. Some player, he thought Stiles, of Maxville, took away the puck. When he next looked at Loney and Laurin, the latter made a motion as if to strike Loney with his fist. They were close enough for Laurin to reach Loney. He then illustrated how Loney stood when striking the final blow. He could not hear the sound of the blow. There was at the moment considerable excitement—young partisans shouting encouragement and advice to the players. He saw Leo Laurin after his brother fell strike Loney, it seemed to him, on the neck or shoulders. At the time Loney struck Alcide Laurin the latter was slightly stooping.

Other Witnesses Called.

Other witnesses called by the Crown yesterday were Dr. A. L. MacDonald and Dr. K. McLennan, of Alexandria, who conducted the post-mortem: J. Douglas MacDonald, player on the Alexandria team; D. A. MacDonald and Donald MacPhee, the Alexandria timekeeper and umpire, respectively; W. Forster, G. Sabourin, P. Deprate, J. McLeister, J. Gibbons and Fred Kemp, of Alexandria, and J. R. Moffatt, of Maxville, all supporters.

The substance of the evidence was that Loney had broken Laurin's hockey stick. Laurin turned and threatened him with his fists and Loney struck Laurin on the side of the head with his stick. All the witnesses were severely cross-examined by Mr. Pringle, but while they differed on some essentials the majority were unanimous on the cardinal points.

The doctors said Laurin's death was due to a fracture of the skull, and Dr. MacDonald thought this might possibly have resulted from a fall on an elevated hard substance.

The witnesses for the Crown at the opening session of the Loney trial were the referee of the fatal game, R. O'Connor, and Leo Laurin, a brother of the deceased.

The Defence.

R. A. Pringle, M. P., then opened the case for the defence, and besides Dr. Hamilton, of Cornwall, who testified as to how easily a skull might be fractured, he called George Chalmers, Thos. Johnson, W. Doucett, Cecil Weegar, and J. A. Welsh, all residents of Maxville. The substantial points brought out by their evidence were that Laurin had broken his hockey stick over Loney's leg, had followed up Loney and struck Loney with his fist before the death blow was delivered. A couple of the witnesses believed that this blow came while Loney was recovering his balance after Laurin's attack.

The case will be continued to-day.

THE QUICK MURDER.

Coroner's Jury Says Strangler of Brother is a Lunatic.

Strathroy, March 29.—The inquest into the death of Alfred Quick, strangled by his brother, Robert, in a fit of insanity at the latter's home in Caradoc Township on Saturday afternoon last, was continued for the greater part of yesterday in the Town Hall before Coroner Dr. A. Thompson.

A large number of witnesses who were early on the scene after the murder, and the near neighbors of both the accused and the deceased were examined.

The opinion of the witnesses was that the prisoner was violently insane at the time of the murder and had, in fact, exhibited unmistakeable symptoms of unsound mind for a number of weeks previous.

The principal feature of the proceedings was the evidence given by Drs. A. S. Thompson and McCabe, who conducted the post-mortem examination in Tanton's undertaking rooms on Sunday last. They found that death was due to strangulation.

The result of the inquest yesterday was that the deceased came to his death by strangulation, due to throttling. Robert Quick was pronounced insane.

Western Election Frauds.

Winnipeg, March 29.—Indictments were again drawn up yesterday afternoon against various returning officers and deputies regarding the disfranchisement of voters in the late Dominion elections. Indictments have also been drawn up against R. H. A. Leech, Liberal organiser for the Province, and three concerned in the "thin red line" plot. The Manitoba Attorney-General's department will conduct the prosecutions.

Petition For Referendum.

Toronto, March 29.—The Whitney Government is to be asked to grant another referendum vote on the liquor question. The Temperance Legislation League intend to circulate a petition throughout the Province which will be presented to the Premier as soon as 25,000 names are secured.

SPLENDID MUSIC AT CHORUS CLASS

Mrs. Morrow's Pupils Gave Delightful Programme on Monday Night.

A Professional Singer Expresses Pleasure at Proficiency Attended.

Short musical programmes have their advantages and disadvantages. If the numbers comprised in them are not well executed, their short duration is pleasing to the audience. If, on the contrary, the voice, duets, and other parts, are well rendered, a short programme leaves the audience somewhat dissatisfied.

On Monday night in the T. A. S. hall after the chorus work had been taken up, in Mrs. Morrow's Chorus Class, Miss Bell sang two solos. But, strange to say, those who were present went away feeling quite dissatisfied. Their dissatisfaction, however, may be accounted for by the remarks made above. Her voice so well pleased them that they could not feel satisfied with two short solos.

The two numbers which she contributed were, "What the Chimney Sang" by Griswold, and a sacred solo by Briggs. It is impossible to signal any defect in the manner in which they were given. The tones were full and rich, the expression was good, and the articulation left nothing to be desired.

The bass and tenor voices are making exceptionally good progress. A few more practices will produce the necessary balance among the parts.

One of Toronto's best vocalists was present at the class on Monday evening, and expressed great satisfaction over the work. Hence the pupils have every reason to feel proud of the success which they have accomplished, and should use this appreciation of a professional singer as a further incentive to perseverance in their study.

A SPRING TONIC

Something that will Make Rich, Red Blood and Drive out Disease.

All physicians are agreed that everyone needs a fresh supply of new blood in the spring. The reason is plain—close confinement in overheated, imperfectly ventilated homes and work places, have clogged the blood with impurities. The liver is sluggish; the kidneys fail to perform their work properly. The impure blood is shown in a score of ways. You may only feel a little tired, or easily depressed, but these are mere symptoms from which more serious trouble will follow. In other cases impure blood makes itself manifest in pimples and disfiguring eruptions, occasional headaches, a variable appetite, attacks of indigestion or rheumatism, pains in the back and loins. But whatever the trouble, there is only one sure way to get rid of it, and that is through the rich, red, new blood which comes from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every pill you take makes new, rich blood, braces the nerves, overcomes all weakness, drives the germs of disease from the body and gives you vim and energy to resist the torrid heat of the coming summer. Mr. Charles Saulnier, Corberrie, N. S., says:—"I was very much run down, and so weak I could hardly work. It seemed as though my blood was little better than water. I tried several medicines, but got nothing to help me until I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It was simply astonishing how quickly these pills began to help me, and how much new life and vigour they put into me. They have made me as sound as ever I was."

Good blood is the secret of health and strength. The secret of good blood is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills do not act upon the bowels—their whole mission is to make new, rich, health-giving blood, which strengthens every organ, and every nerve and drives disease from the body. Don't take anything but the genuine pills which have the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" printed on the wrapper around each box. If in doubt, write The Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., and the pills will be sent at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50.

Dominican Finances.

Washington, March 29.—President Roosevelt has decided to accept the proposition of the Dominican Government, made through Minister Dawson, for the control of the finances of the republic for the payment of its debts. The officers who will collect the money and hold it will be appointed by the Dominican Government, but the names of the men selected will be referred to this Government for approval.

Convicts Escape.

Houston, Tex., March 29.—Twenty-eight Texas convicts on the plantation of J. B. S. House, of Houston, have escaped by sawing through the floor of the stockade with case knives.

Floated the Minto.

Halifax, N.S., March 29.—The steamer Stanley succeeded in floating the Minto ashore at Panmer Island yesterday afternoon. It is not yet known how much damage was sustained.

A THEORY PROVED.

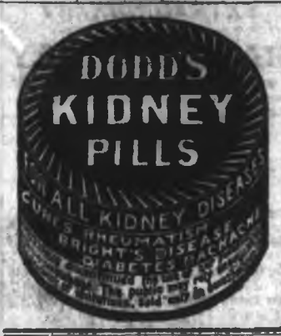
A New Idea Which Means a Great Deal in the Treatment and Cure of Disease.

Dr. Leonhardt, of Lincoln, Neb., the foremost physician of the Western States, has put forward a new theory as to the cause of disease. He says:

"There can be no doubt, from the evidence at hand that the, Stomach is and has always been the first cause of ninety per cent. of all the illness of mankind. The failure of the Stomach to digest the food properly results in fermentation and decomposition, and the poisons arising from the foul and rotting mass get into the blood and tissue and nerves and breed diseases of every kind."

Dr. Leonhardt has found a remedy for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness and Constipation. He has tried it in thousands of cases without a single failure.

He calls it Anti-Pill. It is sold at 50c. by all druggists, or The Wilson Fyfe Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont., sole agents for Canada. Sold by Jas. Lynch, Hunter street. 199



LAST YEAR A GREAT SUCCESS

Annual Meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of All Saint's Church.

Reports Were Most Encouraging—Officers Elected.

Last night the annual meeting of All Saints Women's Auxiliary was held in the church parlours, and was attended by a large representation of the members.

The meeting was a most enthusiastic one, and the reports presented showed that the past year had been the most successful in the history of the Auxiliary.

Miss Chamberlen, the President of the Auxiliary was in the chair, and after the opening exercises called for the report of the secretary, which was presented by Mrs. Latimer and was as follows:—

Thirteenth Annual Meeting of All Saints Woman's Auxiliary.

March 28, 1905.

In reviewing the work of the past year we cannot but feel thankful to a kind Providence for the many blessings we have received in our work. We have fifty members, and twenty-five subscribers to the "Little Leaflet", compared with thirty-two of last year. We have held ten monthly meetings, with an average attendance of nineteen; and thirty-three sewing meetings, the average attendance of which was ten. In October we sent a bale to Moosonee Lake Mission containing quilts, blankets, groceries, medicines, both new and second hand clothing, and dry-goods. The total value of this bale was $48.91, no value being placed on the second-hand articles. Again this year, as for many years past, Mrs. Fitzgerald provided a great deal of the material, for which we trust she will accept our grateful thanks.

In November we sent $5 to the Blackfoot Home; and $5.00 to the Temiskaming Mission. In January we also sent $1.10 to the Chinese Mission in British Columbia.

In November we were pleased to be able to make Mrs. Fitzgerald, who is a very faithful and energetic worker of our branch, a life member of the W. A.

The delegates appointed to attend the annual meeting in April were Miss Chamberlen, Mrs. Gilbert, Mrs. Blois, and Mrs. Molden.

In closing we extend our cordial thanks to all the kind friends who from time to time have assisted us so cheerfully during the year. Again we invite all the women of the congregation to join our band of workers, and help to sustain the work by their prayers and influence.

All of which is duly submitted,

M. E. LATIMER.

The report was adopted, and Mrs. Gilbert, the treasurer, presented the report of the finances of the society for the year. This report was a most encouraging one, and showed that the auxiliary was in a flourishing condition financially, and that at the present time a good cash balance remained in the treasury.

The election of officers then took place, resulting as follows:—

Hon. President—Mrs. Major.
President—Mrs. Chamberlen.
1st Vice-President—Mrs. Hooper.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. Lundy.
Secretary—Mrs. Latimer.
Treasurer—Mrs. Gilbert.
President Junior Auxiliary — Mrs. Blois.

The rector nominated Mrs. Best, Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Blois to the Advisory Board.

The delegates to attend the annual meeting in Toronto were elected as follows:—Mrs. Hooper, Mrs. Dobbin and Mrs. Flewers.

After the election of officers, Mrs. Edwards, of Toronto, who was present gave an address congratulating the ladies on the success they had met with in the past and preferred to the work generally. The junior work was the subject of the greater portion of her remarks, and she advised paying special attention to it.

The rector then addressed the meeting on the subject "Woman's Place in Church Work". He referred to the importance of the work that woman had done for Christianity and showed for in many instances they had taken the initiative.

He pointed out the great difference in the position of women before Christianity became prevalent and at the present time. The speaker also referred to the tendency there is to allow personal interests in church work predominate, and he cautioned his hearers against this. It was seen in nearly all society and organizations, and constituted one of the chief dangers to the church, and was its most general cause of failure.

At the close of the meeting the ladies were served to refreshments.

SPECIAL SERVICES ARE SUCCESSFUL

St. Andrew's Services are Meeting with Marked Success.

The second of a most interesting series of special meetings was held in St. Andrew's Lecture Hall last night. The hearty singing of the selections from the "Songs and Solos" made an exceedingly attractive and helpful meeting. The subject of the evening's address was "The Great Joy of the Christian Church." Mr. Potter read and explained Mark 2: 1—2, and by various incidents showed that the elements that make for a joyous Christianity are. — (1) An intelligent love for the unsaved, a love that will overcome all obstacles and difficulties; (2) That there is a Divine fellowship in such work, for there is joy in the presence of the angels of God over sinners returning; (3) Because it is a triumph over a sinful life—an anxious sigh changed to a joyous festival; (4) It is the inspiring sight of lives that have been dead in sin being transformed. "It is meet that we should make merry and be glad, for this, my son, was dead and is alive again."

The meetings will be continued each night, except Saturday. Song service at 7.45. The subject tonight will be "The Great Obtainment." Come and bring a friend.

HAPPENINGS AT MOUNT IRWIN

The Latest News from that Enterprising Section.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mount Irwin, March 27. — Mr. McGaby and family have moved into the residence formerly occupied by Mr. Jas. Allen. The people of this locality wish him every success in his new home.

Messrs. John and Michael Cain have returned home after spending the winter at Lynch's camp. The other boys have been home for some time.

Miss Minnie Brick, who has been visiting friends here for the past week, left on Saturday for her home in Verulam.

Miss Julia Allen, who spent the winter in Peterborough, arrived home on Saturday.

The sleighing here is almost done.

On Sunday last two young men from Somerville spent the evening in this vicinity. From all appearances the roads are in a very bad condition, as they walked five miles, and rode two.

The school which has been closed during the winter months has opened; the attendance is yet small owing to the condition of the roads.

Mr. Rose and family and Mr. John Beckett, who for some years have been residents of Galway, left on Tuesday last for their future home in Saskatoon.

NEW BOOKS

The following new books have been placed upon the shelves of the Public Library:—

What is Art?—Tolstoy.
The Right Life, and How to Live It—Gunsol.
The White Terror, and the Red—Cahan.
The Rose of Old St. Louis—Dillon.
The Marriage of William Ashe (2nd copy)—Ward.
The Vicissitudes of Evangeline—Glynn.
A Selfmade Man's Wife—Merriman.

FRASERVILLE.

From our Own Correspondent.

Fraserville, March 29.—Mr. W. Wood and Mrs. Wood left for the West on Tuesday, March 28th.

A number of friends of the community gathered at the home of Mr. James Walker on Monday evening last and presented Mr. and Mrs. Walker with an address and two chairs. Mr. Walker has rented his farm and is moving to Peterborough.

DR. MACKAY'S SPECIFIC
For the Treatment of
Alcoholism
Used in Connection with the Province of Quebec Probation System with Unvarying Success.

The City Council of Montreal has endorsed this marvellous discovery. The Finance Committee of Montreal recently voted $500 to defray the expense of placing the medicine in each of the city Police Stations, as prompt application of the Treatment to bad cases will prevent the fatalities continually occurring in the cells.

No Sanitarium is required. The treatment can be taken at home. No special diet required. The desire to reform is simply necessary and spirits avoided for a few days.

This medicine is now within the reach of all, the price having been reduced. The wonderful results obtained with the worst class of drunkards coming before the Judges of the Recorders' Courts in Quebec and Montreal warrants the statement that the disease of Drunkenness can be cured—readily and surely—under ordinary circumstances and with the reasonable desire upon the part of an inebriate.

This treatment is simply the medicine of the medical profession—the only secret is as to its administration.

Dr. Mackay's discovery is the result of 25 years of practice as specialist and expert. He is a member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of the Province of Quebec.

The Government of Quebec through the Judges ordered over 800 boxes of the medicine for prisoners appearing in the Courts in 1904—Official Reports establish 80 per cent. of cures with these cases.

With the public and official endorsation and the record of results published it is unnecessary to waste money experimenting further. All communications private.

SYSTEMIC CATARRH SO LITTLE UNDERSTOOD

Claims Many Thousands. A Tragedian's Thanks to Peruna.

ROBERT DOWNING, THE FAMOUS TRAGEDIAN.

In speaking of Peruna, Robert Downing, the famous tragedian, says:

"I find Peruna a preventative against all sudden summer ills that sweep upon one in changing climates and water. It is the finest traveling companion and safeguard against malarial influences.

"You may notice that persons in poor health always find the heat most intolerable; this I avoid by using Peruna. I know by the thermometer that the weather is hot, yet I have felt the heat less this summer than ever.

"The cooling action of Peruna on the mucous membrane makes it invaluable to actors and singers, as it does away with that tendency to sudden hoarseness so apt to overtake one on emerging from a hot dressing [room] to a draughty stage."

"To sum it up, Peruna has done me more good than any tonic I have ever taken."—Robert Downing.

Dr. Hartman was the first physician in the United States to accurately describe systemic catarrh. His remedy Peruna, the only systemic catarrh remedy yet devised, is now known all over the civilized world. A person having need it once can never be persuaded to be without it when in need of such a remedy.

Write for a copy of Dr. Hartman's latest book entitled "Summer Catarrh." Address Dr. Hartman, Columbus, O.

READ THREE GOOD SPEECHES

In three issues of the Evening Examiner have been printed three notable speeches on the second reading of the Northwest Autonomy Bill, now before Parliament. As there is a very great deal of popular misconception of the true character and meaning of the educational clauses of the bill in their relation to the so-called separate schools now in existence in the Northwest, as constituted by the Territories themselves, a reading of these speeches will be instructive, and tend to remove much misunderstanding. A careful perusal of them is invited, so that our readers will clearly understand the subject in all its bearings. It will be found that the situation is simply this: In 1875 the Dominion Parliament passed an act establishing a system of separate schools for the Territories, schools which were under church control. From time to time the Territorial Legislature amended this separate school legislation, till it practically legislated it out of existence, as to separate schools, as popularly known. A reference to Hon. Mr. Sifton's speech will show that the system of schools now in force in the Northwest are public schools to all intents and purposes, and are such as the people of the provinces themselves want, which they have created, and which the Bill now before the House simply perpetuates as a part of the constitution of the new provinces. There is, as has been said, a great deal of misunderstanding, not to speak of misleading statement in the matter, and the reader who wishes to be seized of the facts, is advised to read carefully the speeches of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and Hon. Messrs. Fielding and Sifton, to be found in the Daily and Weekly Examiner.

THE FARMER'S INNINGS.

The good old earth has rolled round to the sunny side of the ecliptic and all the world is arousing itself to new activity. This season is especially pregnant of admiration to the honest farmer—who feeds us all—on whom the entire world depends for bread and butter and therefore everybody has an interest in having the farmer do his best to supply our needs. And to do his best he must be on the alert now. To the farmer directly and to all others indirectly the period of preparation is most important. As far back as the Noachic freshet "seed time and harvest" were promised. Seed time at it best was only promised to the farmer who takes advantage of it. No exception was made in favour of the slow-coach farmer, who would give the Creator the trouble of providing a special seed time for the sluggard farmer, who is always behind. Now is the time when the good farmer makes all preparations for an early seed time. His horses are looked after, harness overhauled and repaired, agricultural implements are looked over and missing bolts and nuts replaced. All other business is looked after so that when the first possible opportunity of seeding comes it can be taken full advantage of. Of course the fields intended for spring seeding were thoroughly surface-drained last autumn, so that a week or ten day's gain in time is made. Mr. R. M. Campbell, formerly of North Monaghan, now of Manitoba, in an interview with the Examiner stated that one cause of the rust that produced a loss of thousands of dollars to Northwest farmers was late seeding. As a rule, early seeding is the best, and the wide-awake farmer is always ready to get upon his land, with his horses, harrows, seed drills, etc., the moment the land is ready. He imitates the early bird that catches the worm, and he comes out successfully, as a rule, with full crops, where others fail. The others are the go-as-you-please farmer, who drives to town, or the "corner store," and hangs around talking politics, or discussing the "Ottonabee" Bill, when he should be getting ready for his spring seeding. He thus starts in the race with a handicap, and is behind at harvest, and behind when the threshing mills knock out several bushels to the acre less than he would have got, if he had got his seed into the ground in good time, and had applied the same principle of prompt action to his farming operations the season through. Farmers may consider it impertinent for townspeople to thus suggest advice, but we depend upon the farmer to feed us, and we want him to do his part, for his best is best for him, for the town dwellers and the world at large. The grain fields, the dairy meadows, and the sheep runs of Canada, give a yield scores of times in excess of value of all the gold, silver, and other mines of the country.

MODEST TORONTO.

The Globe refers very nicely to the civic welcome extended Premier Whitney, by the City Council of Toronto, as an oasis in a desert of party antagonisms. One does not grudge Mr. Whitney the honour the occasion suggests, but if one did not know Toronto so well, the Vergilian line—"Look sharp for the Greeks even when bringing gifts," would not so readily suggest itself. It is very timidly suggested that while the city council may sincerely wished to extend a graceful welcome to the Provincial Premier, there was a little corner of the civic eye directed to the importance of conciliatory the powers that be. The city of Toronto has not in the past been over modest in its demands upon the Legislature for special favours—demands that have not always been realized. There have been these base enough to hint that Toronto failed in realizing its modest requests, because it had placed itself in political antagonism to the Government of the day by persisting in the bad taste of sending representative opponents of the Government to Parliament. Of course there was nothing in this, but Toronto seemed to feel that way, and perhaps the memory of some few turn-downs remaining may have been a very slight element in determining the presentation of an address of welcome to Mr. Whitney. A friend at court is not a bad thing when a little "graft" is to be worked.

The national insolence of our neighbours to the south is continually cropping out. Now they are claiming Dr. Osler as an "American" and discussing his actions with a proprietary interest which is certainly not characterized by any excess of modesty. There may be little in a name, and Dr. Osler is just as much a distinguished Canadian as if the Yankees had not claimed him as an American.

CONDENSED FACTS RE NORTHWEST SCHOOLS

The Case in a Nutshell Regarding Character of Present Northwest Schools--Perfect Religious Equality and Equal Rights Provided For--The System the Territories Themselves Created as Representing What They Want.

Is there one man in the Province of Ontario who reads no other newspapers than the Mail and Empire, the News, the Telegram, the World, and similar journalistic firebrand flourishers, who knows the following facts about the school question in Alberta and Saskatchewan, and the settlement arrived at in the amended clauses which are as follows:—

1. That where Protestants are in a minority a separate school may be stabilished; and where Roman Catholics are in a minority a separate school may be established.

2. That there is perfect equality in regard to religious instruction; in both or either schools religious instruction may be given only after 3.30 o'clock, and at no other time in either case.

3. That in the so-called separate schools there shall be no religious emblems and no religious teaching during school hours.

4. That no person shall teach in the so-called separate schools of the new Provinces except those who hold Provincial certificates.

5. That the public school inspectors shall have in every respect the same authority over the so-called separate schools that they have over the public schools.

6. That in these so-called separate schools there shall be no tuition except from the same books as are in use in the public schools.

7. That where any so-called separate school does not conform with the laws of the province concerning public schools and meet the demands of the public school inspectors as to efficiency, they shall be deprived of their public school grant, and the Provincial authorities are to judge of the matter.

8. That the only privilege Roman Catholics have in the new Provinces is, that in any public school section where they are in a majority or in any district where they are numerous enough and so inclined, they can elect Roman Catholic trustees, who may, if they choose, engage a Roman Catholic teacher — properly certificated, of course — and conforming with all the rules and regulations of the Educational Department of the Province, conduct a secular school open to all comers until 3.30 o'clock each day, after which there follows a half hour of religious instruction, which no pupil need attend except at the desire of the parents.

9—That the giving of this half hour of religious instruction is as much the privilege of any Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist, Anglican or any other denomination, as it is of the much-talked-of hierarchy.

It is impossible that any reader of the Mail and Empire, World, News, Telegram, or any of the other journalistic firebrand flourishers, should know that the above facts describe the schools contemplated for the new Provinces, under the amended clauses of the Autonomy Bills. Not one of these newspapers has published anything permitting its readers to know the real purport of the amended autonomy legislation. They have practically sought to conceal these facts, and to inflame popular passion, by giving the educational clauses a character that they do not possess. They will not let their readers know that the proposed school system of the new provinces is more truly a Public school system than that which resulted in Manitoba, after a great upheaval, and after the abolition of Separate schools had been accomplished as the result of a great disturbance. They will not let their readers know that ecclesiastical authority over any and every school, was overthrown in the West in 1892, and that the amended clauses of the Autonomy Bills makes it impossible for that authority to be again established, except by the deliberate act of the Legislatures of the new Provinces, if, in fact, the Provinces will have the power to restore the Separate school system imposed by the Dominion Act of 1875.

Nor will any of the newspapers named publish the points from one to nine enumerated above. If any one of them replies at all, it will be done in such a way as not to lay before its readers the statement of the case here given. Some day when civilization is more fully perfected the crime of mis-informing the honest and well-meaning public with false information concerning such a question as this will be made punishable, as it ought to be. In the meantime, the people will have to learn to seek full and fair information on such matters where they can find it.—Toronto Star.

SOLOIST'S SERVICES ARE ENGAGED

Miss Mamie Clark of Sarnia to Sing at Park Street Church.

Miss Mamie V. Clark, Sarnia's popular soloist, is to sing for two weeks at the services in the Park street Baptist church, and a telegram was received last night saying she would be here for to-night's service.

The church regards it as a great favour to have the services of Miss Clark for two weeks. Rev. W. C. Wier, B. A., says, "It was my privilege to do the preaching while Miss Mamie V. Clarke did the special singing, rendering with great impressiveness two Gospel solos at each service. It seems to me a preacher could scarcely preach more earnestly, or self-forgetfully, or joyfully, than she sings the Gospel to the lost. The result of nineteen days services were 89 clear cases of conversion."

The mission is fairly well under way and the congregations are increasing. Rev. A. W. Torrie's work with the McMaster Band in Western Ontario last year has enriched his experience and his addresses are well illustrated and full of point and pathos. Last night's service was fruitful and gave great encouragement to the workers.

1904 BUSINESS WAS DOUBLED

First Two Months of the Year Far Exceed Those of 1904

Striking Evidences of Unprecedent Prosperity Which Peterboro' Industries now Enjoy.

Peterborough industries, as a whole, were never as prosperous as they are at the present time, and, as far as they are concerned, all thought of the approach of hard times amounts to nothing.

At the annual meeting of the Canadian General Electric Company, held in Toronto last week, it was stated that the two months of 1905, had been the best in the history of the company, and it is a fact that at the present time the works here are crowded to their utmost capacity to fill the orders which are literally pouring in upon them. The position of this company is not an isolated one by any means, either.

The Examiner learned yesterday that another large industry of a different nature, was experiencing a season of unparalleled prosperity, and that the business for the first two months in 1905 was more than double that of the same two months last years.

These definite reports, coming from the large industrial concerns, are most encouraging, and doubtless but indications of the general prosperity which all the local industries are meeting with, although such definite statements cannot be made with reference to the others.

Of construction, or to be erected in the near future, Peterborough seems to have awakened to a new life, and from an industrial stand-point things have never been as bright.

The amount of capital invested was put at $6,000,000 of which 75 per cent. was said to be in immediate danger of being lost if immediate help was not forthcoming. The request was for 5 cents more duty per hundred pounds, or 17 1-7 cents per barrel. The case was urged by several speakers, and the Minister promised the usual consideration.

THE PRESENT SCHOOLS SUIT WESTERNERS

Indigenous Evidence That the Present System is Neither Objectionable nor Detrimental.

The separate school question in respect to the new Northwest provinces, continues to exercise politicians in the East, and to read some of the articles published, one would be led to conceive the idea that the people in the West were violently opposed to a continuation of the system that has been in existence since the opening up of the country, which in fact has given such general satisfaction that but few people have ever been induced to enquire into the basis on which separate schools in the West were founded. These people in the East who are doing their best to stir up religious strife are no friends of the West, which is wide enough in area, aspirations, and religious toleration, to permit a system of schools which are a concession to religious views without being a detriment to the educational standard adopted for the country and afflicting no injustice on anyone in the community.

In our town—Lethbridge—we have one of these separate schools, but we do not recollect having ever heard any complaint on the score of injustice to any one in the community in connection with its establishment or conduct. On the contrary, advantage of its teaching has been taken by several parents of Protestant faith, whose children have or are attending the school, and paying school fees to do so which would not be required were they attending the public school.

It is claimed that the clauses as submitted in the Autonomy Bill conferred powers beyond those now enjoyed by separate schools, although the Premier has denied this and stated that the intention was only to secure the present order of things. If there was any possibility whatever of a quibble arising in the future as to the meaning of the clause, it is most important that the matter should be thoroughly threshed out now, and the Western members are earnestly working to secure this end, and will submit a clause the purport of which will be unassailable on enforcement. It is stated that the Northwest members will give unanimous support to a clause continuing the present privileges, but no more, and by taking this stand we believe they are fairly representing the feelings of the people as a whole.—Lethbridge News.

DEATH OF LATE REEVE

Mr. Matthew Doran of Ennismore Died on Wednesday

Was Reeve of That Township for three Years and Councillor for Eight Years.

The death of one of the most prominent men in Ennismore occurred this morning, when Mr. Matthew Doran passed away at the age of 70 years. Deceased was from the years 1900 to 1903 reeve of the township, and for about eight years prior to that time was a councillor. He was also a member of St. Martin's T.A.S.

Deceased, who had been ailing for about eight months came to St. Joseph's Hospital and had his leg amputated in an endeavour to arrest gangrene from which he was suffering. Death resulted from this cause this morning at 10 o'clock.

The late Mr. Doran was born in Emily, Victoria County, and lived there for a number of years before removing to Ennismore, where he has, during his residence, been a highly respected citizen. His wife, whose maiden name was Margaret Fitzpatrick, three sons and four daughters survive him. The sons are Messrs. William, Joseph and Matthew J., and the daughters, Miss Mary Ann, Mrs. Thos. Harrington of Ennismore, and Mrs. Wm. Pearce, of Toronto.

The funeral will take place on Friday morning from his late residence, lot 7, concession 4, Ennismore, to Ennismore Cemetery for interment.

MR. DUNSLOW GOT SUIT CASE

Presentation from Members of Paint Dept. of C. G. E. Works.

Popular Young Man Leaving for England Honoured on Eve of Departure.

On Tuesday night a pleasant affair took place at the boarding house of Mr. Jas. Dunslow, who is leaving shortly on a trip to England, to visit his mother and sister.

Mr. Dunslow, during his residence in Peterborough has been employed with the Canadian General Electric Company, being a member of the staff in the paint shop, and worked under Mr. R. E. Harding. On Saturday he will start for England, sailing by the steamer Corinthian, and on Tuesday night the members of the department with which he was identified at the works, to the number of about twenty, gathered at his boarding house to say farewell, and he was presented with a handsome leather suit case by Mr. Harding, on behalf of the employees of the Department.

In making the presentation, Mr. Harding referred to the regret which the associates of Mr. Dunslow felt at parting with him. He had been a popular young man and had made himself greatly liked by the members of the department.

They all joined in wishing him "bon voyage," and hoped it would not be long before he would be back in their midst again.

Mr. Dunslow replied in a brief speech and expressed his deep appreciation of the kindness of his friends for the handsome gift, and assured them that he would always look back with pleasure to his association with the members of the department, and he severed those associations with deep regret.

Mr. Dunslow will probably return to Canada again after he has spent some time at his home visiting his friends. He is a brother of Mr. H. Dunslow of the Framery.

THE AUTONOMY DEBATE.

Speeches by Solicitor-General Lemieux and Mr. Bourassa Kindled Enthusiasm of Government Supporters.

Ottawa, March 29.—The House yesterday listened to four speeches upon Mr. Borden's amendment to the motion of the Premier for the second reading of the autonomy bill. Only two of the 37 members of the Opposition who have expressed their intention to address the House upon the question spoke, but the fact that Mr. Clements (West Kent) moved the adjournment of the debate, following another Opposition member, would indicate the the debate might not be so protracted as would be at first supposed from the number of Conservative speakers on the list. It is understood that Hon. Mr. Foster will speak to-day.

Brilliant Efforts.

The speeches of Hon. Mr. Lemieux and Mr. Henri Bourassa yesterday were brilliant efforts, which kindled the enthusiasm of the Government supporters. The Solicitor-General presented an able argument upon the legal aspects of the case, and quoted Hon. Mr. Gladstone and Lord Salisbury as advocate of a separte school system. Mr. Bourassa made a powerful and eloquent appeal to English-speaking Canadians to open the Northwest to French-Canadians and to trust them as the oldest Canadians and a force which would resist American absorption and the adoption of foreign ideals, and prove a bulwark of the British constitution.

Mr. Blain (Peel) and Mr. McCarthy (Calgary), Opposition speakers, opposed the educational and land clauses of the bill.

Centre Toronto Vacancy.

Before the orders of the day were called, Mr. Foster asked as to the Government's intention regarding the filling of the vacancy in Centre Toronto, caused by the death of Mr. E. F. Clarke. Sir Wilfrid Laurier promised further information to-day, and in the meantime he stated that there would necessarily be a new registration of manhood suffrage voters.

In the Senate.

Ottawa, March 29.—The action of the Imperial authorities in withdrawing the Imperial naval forces from Halifax and Esquimalt was discussed from various standpoints in the Senate yesterday. The prevailing opinion expressed was that Britain's admirals knew best how the fleet could be most effectively disposed of, and, furthermore, that even if the new arrangement was unwise, Canada, having contributed nothing to naval establishment, had no right to pose as a critic.

PORT HOPE HOPES FOR STRONG TEAM

Annual Meeting of Baseball Club Held on Tuesday.

The organization meeting of the Port Hope Baseball Club was held in the Y. M. C. A. parlours on Tuesday evening and the attendance was rather small. Mr. T. J. O'Neill acted as Chairman and after the adoption of the Secretary-Treasurer's report the election of officers took place, resulting as follows:—

Hon. President—H. M. Thurbur and H. T. Bush.

President—H. A. Ward, M.P.

1st Vice-President—E. V. Dyer.

2nd Vice-President—H. P. Dill.

Managing Committee—J. Walters, A. Orton and T. J. O'Neill; the first mentioned to act as manager.

Secretary-Treasurer—W. Giddy.

Delegates to the annual meeting of the Midland League—A. Orton and S. Lockington.

It is the intention this year of putting a strong team in the field. It is probable that a Benefit Concert will be given shortly if the local talent will consent to give their services gratis.

FOOTBALL.

Deseronto Juniors will probably enter the Midland League. They have written the secretary to this effect. The junior series to be inaugurated this year in the league promises to be very successful.

Last night the T. A. S. Baseball Club met and discussed the plans for this season. The club will in all probability enter the City League and the secretary was instructed to write to secretary of the Auburns with reference to the formation of a league.

FELL FROM MOVING TRAIN

Arthur W. Murton of the Canada Life Found Dead.

A HAMILTON GIRL'S DEATH

Unfortunate and Fatal Result of infatuation for Man Well Known in the City. Several Years Her Senior—She Took Carbolic Acid—Was in Bad Health as Well.

Toronto, March 29.—Dead and mangled, the body of Arthur W. Murton, 129 Isabella street, was found early yesterday morning lying a few feet from the railroad tracks, near the entrance to High Park.

By what means the fatality occurred is not known, but the theory is that he fell off a train bound for Hamilton on Monday night, after falling he became unconscious and laid on the track, and that another train struck and killed him. On Monday deceased notified his family he was going to Hamilton on the 10.30 p. m. train.

The late Mr. Murton was one of the best known and popular insurance men in Canada. He had been connected with the Canada Life Assurance Co. for nearly twenty years, and only severed his connection with the company a few days ago. Before coming to Toronto he was manager of the Ontario Bank in Newmarket. He was born in Guelph 50 years ago. He leaves a widow, son and daughter.

Coroner Orr will hold an inquest this morning at 10 o'clock at No. 3 police station.

Result of Love Affair.

Hamilton, March 29.—The body of Miss Edith Jenkins, the 18-year-old daughter of G. Parry Jenkins, F. R. A. S., 35 South Macnab street, was found in a barn near Fort Nelson yesterday. Beside her was a bottle that had contained carbolic acid. It is said that the unfortunate girl was infatuated with a man well known in the city several years her senior, and things did not run smoothly. In addition to that, she did not enjoy good health, and had lately expressed a wish to die. She disappeared Monday afternoon, rode to Burlington and tramped about three miles to the barn where she ended her life. Coroner Watson, Burlington, held an inquest last evening.

Suffocated in Own Home.

Winnipeg, March 29.—John Thompson, a C. P. R. machinist, aged 64, was suffocated at his home, Pacific avenue, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Thompson attempted to start a fire with coal oil. There was an explosion and the house took fire. Thompson was asleep upstairs and was dead when found. The woman was taken to the general hospital badly burned and will probably die.

Was Struck by a Train.

Buffalo, March 29.—John Zetter, 28 years old, who lives near Stevensville, Ont., was found unconscious in a pool of blood near the Michigan Central tracks at Bridgeburg, Ont., yesterday. His skull was crushed and his body bruised. It is thought he was struck by a train. He is in a serious condition in the General Hospital, Buffalo.

MACEDONIA'S TROUBLES.

Lord Lansdowne Gives Some Interesting Information in the House of Lords on the Question.

London, March 29.—The House of Lords discussed the Macedonian situation last night. Lord Lytton (Conservative) called attention to the condition of affairs in that part of the world. He said that the Austro-Russian reform scheme was a failure and it was hopeless to expect anything from Russia or Austria. The rule of Turkey was an anomaly in civilized Europe and a perpetual menace to peace.

Foreign Secretary Lansdowne said some progress had been made, but he realized that action was urgent on the grounds of humanity and because the existing conditions menaced the peace of Europe. Great Britain, however, had less responsibility than any of the powers, and however desirable it was impossible for Great Britain to send a fleet to Constantinople or any army of invasion into Macedonia. It was hardly likely that Russia and Austria would stand aside to find room for the western powers.

Financial Reforms.

The Foreign Secretary also said the British Government approved the latest scheme for financial reform. The Turkish Government proposed to raise the custom dues. Great Britain would not accept a proposition so injurious until convinced of its necessity. The Government of Great Britain had made certain propositions in connection with the scheme for reforms, but the Foreign Secretary asked that he be not required to give the details at present. He assured the House that the powers were presenting a united front in connection with Macedonia, and he believed the outcome of the present negotiations would be satisfactory.

Lord Lansdowne further remarked that as a general indication of the manner in which the Government regarded the situation he might say that it was of the opinion that the question had reached a stage when all the powers had the right to make themselves heard. The finances of Macedonia must be so arranged as to provide adequately for the administration of Macedonia, guarantees must be provided that not any of the revenues, earmarked for the special benefit of Macedonia, can be diverted for other purposes, and, finally, the finances of Macedonia must be placed under international control.

The statement of Lord Lansdowne was greeted with cheers.

Jules Verne Laid to Rest.

Amiens, France, March 29.—The funeral of Jules Verne, who died March 24, took place yesterday in the Church of St. Martin, and was attended by representatives of the literary, scientific and geographical societies, and many school children. Military honors were accorded the deceased as he was a member of the Legion of Honor.

Opened in Ten Days.

Detroit, Mich., March 29.—The report on ice conditions is the great lakes published yesterday by Inspecter Conger of the United States Weather Bureau, says that ten days of warm weather and rain will eat the ice so that there will be little difficulty in opening navigation on the chain of lakes.

The Heart's Highway

by MARY E. WILKINS

Copyright, 1900, by DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.

Captain Tabor was leaning over the bulwarks, and his ruddy face was pale and his look of devil-may-care gayety somewhat subdued.

When I gained the deck forward he came and grasped me by the arm and led me into his own cabin, having first shouted forth to his mate an order to drop anchor and keep the ship in midstream.

"Now, in the name of all the fiends, what is afoot?" he cried out, though with a cautious cock of his eyes toward the deck, for English sailors are most Black slaves when it comes to discussing matters of weight.

"There is a plot afoot against his majesty King Charles, and you but yesterday, that being also a day on which it is unlawful to unload a ship, discharged a portion of your cargo toward its furtherance and abetting," said I.

"When I trust a woman's tongue again may I swing from my own yardarms!" he cried out. "What brought that fair faced devil into it, anyway? Be there not men enough in this colony?"

"An you keep not a civil tongue in your head when you speak of Mistress Mary Cavendish you will find of a surety that there be one man in this colony, sir," said I.

He laughed in that mocking fashion of his, which incensed me still further. Then he spoke civilly enough and said that he meant no disrespect to one of the fairest ladies whom he had ever had the good fortune to see, but that it was so well known as to be no more slight in mentioning than the paint and powder wherewith a woman enhance her beauty that a woman's tongue could not be trusted like a man's, and that it were a pity that money, which were much better spent by her for pretty follies, should be put to such grim uses, and where were the gallants of Virginia that they suffered it, but did not rather empty their own purses?

I explained, being somewhat mollified and also somewhat of his way of thinking, that men there were, but there was little gold since the navigation act. And I informed Captain Tabor how Mistress Mary Cavendish, having an estate not so heavily charged with expenses as some, and being her own mistress with regard to the disposal of its revenues, had the means which the men lacked.

"But what was the news which brought you thither, sir?" demanded Captain Tabor.

"You know of the plot"—I began, but he broke in upon me fiercely.

"May the fiends take me, but what know I of a plot?" he cried.

"Can I not bring over gowns and kerchiefs and silken ribbons for a pretty maid without a plot? How knew you that? There is the woman's tongue again. But can I not bring over goods even of such sort? Might I not with good reason suppose them to be for the defense of the cause of his most gracious majesty, King Charles, against the savages or any malcontents in his colonies? What plot, sirrah?"

THE REAL QUESTION.

The real question of disease is "Can I be cured?" If you or anyone dear to you is losing strength, flesh, energy and vitality, if you are wise you will not spend time trying to figure out just what name to call the disease by.

It is almost impossible to draw the line where debility and weakness merge into consumption. Your trouble may not be consumption to-day, but you don't know what it may become to-morrow. Hundreds of people have been restored to robust health by Dr. Pierce's marvelous "Golden Medical Discovery" after reputable physicians had pronounced them consumptive beyond hope.

Were they in consumption? Nobody can ever know. The important point is that they were hopelessly ill but this matchless "Discovery" restored and saved them.

"I was not able to do hardly any work at all," says Miss Ellen Blossom, of Washington, Fulton Co., Illinois, in a letter addressed to Dr. Pierce. "I was in bed most of the time. I tried your medicine and it helped me. I used seven bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and one bottle of 'Favorite Prescription' and I am now enjoying good health. I was troubled with consumption. I consulted me to see a doctor, but I told him if it was consumption they could not help me. I wrote you and you told me to use your medicine. I have taken your 'Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription' and the cough was stopped, and I have had no pain in my left side since. Your medicine is the best I have taken."

Write to Dr. R. V. Pierce. He will grant you good, fatherly, professional advice, in a plain sealed envelope, absolutely free. His nearly 40 years experience as chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel, at Buffalo, N. Y., has made him an expert in chronic diseases.

Constipation causes and aggravates many serious diseases. It is thoroughly cured by Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

"The plot for the cutting down of the young tobacco plants, Captain Tabor," said I.

His eyes blazed at me, while his face was pale and grim.

"How many know of the goods I discharged from the Golden Horn yesterday?" he asked.

"Three men, and I know not how many more, and two women," said I.

"Two women!" he groaned out. "Pestilence on these tide waters which hold a ship like a trap! Two women!"

"But the concern is lest a third woman know," said I.

"If three women know, then heaven save us all, for their triple tongues will carry as far as the last trump!" cried Captain Tabor. Perturbed as he was, he never lost that air of reckless daring which compelled me to a sort of liking for him. "Out with the rest of it, sir," he said.

Then I told my story, to which he listened, scowling, yet with that ready laugh at his mouth. "'Tis a scurvy trick to serve a woman, both for her sake and the rest of us, to let her meddle with such matters," he said, "and so I told that cousin of hers, Master Drake, who came with her to give the order ere I sailed for England."

"Came any man save Ralph Drake with her then?" I asked.

"The saints forbid," he replied. "A secret is a secret only when in the keeping of one; with two it findeth legs, but with three it unfoldeth the swiftest wings of flight in all creation and is everywhere with no alighting. Had three come to me with that mad order to bring powder and shot in the stead of silk stockings and garters and cambric shifts and kerchiefs I would have clapped full sail on the Golden Horn, though"—he hesitated, then spoke in a whisper—"my mind is against tyranny, to speak you true, though I care not a farthing whether men pray on their knees or their feet, or in gowns or the fashion of Eden. And I care not if they pray at all, nor would I for the sake of that ever have forsaken, had I stood in my grandfather's shoes, the fleshpots of old England for that howling wilderness of Plymouth. But for the sake of doing as I willed, and not as any other man, would I have sailed or swam the seas had they been blood instead of water. And so am I now with a due regard to the wind and the trim of my sails and the ears of talebearers, for a man hath but one head to lose with you of Virginia. But, the Lord, to make a little maid like that run the risk of imprisonment or worse—knew you aught of this, sir?"

I shook my head.

Captain Tabor laughed. "And yet she rode straight to the wharf with you yesterday," said he. "Lord, what hidden springs move a woman! I'll warrant, sir, had you known, you might have battened down the hatches fast enough on her will, convict though you be, and, faith, sir, but you look to me like one who is convict or master at his own choosing and not by the will of any other." So saying, he gave me a look so sharp that for a second I half surmised that he guessed my secret, but knew better at once, and said that our business was to deal not with what had been, but with what might be.

"Well," said he, "and what may that be, Master Wingfield, in your opinion? You surely do not mean to hold the Golden Horn in midstream with her cargo undischarged until the day of doom lest yon old beldame offer up her fair granddaughter on the altar of her loyalty, with me and my heartier for kindling, to say naught of yourself and a few of the best gentlemen of Virginia. I forfeit my head if I set sail for England; naught is left for me that I see that shall save my neck but to turn pirate and king it over the high seas. Having swallowed a small morsel of my Puritan misgivings, what is to hinder my bolting the whole, like an exceeding bitter pill, to my complete purging of danger? What say you, Master Wingfield? Small reputation have you to lose, and sure thy reckoning with powers that be leaves thee large creditor. Will you sail with me? My first lieutenant shall you be, and we will share the booty."

He laughed, and I stared at him that he should stoop to jest, yet having a ready leap of comradeship toward him for it. Then suddenly his mood changed. Close to me he edged and began talking with a serious shrewdness which showed his mind brought fully to bear upon the situation. "You say, sir," said he, "that Mistress Mary Cavendish, in a spirit of youthful daring and levity, gave her grandmother a list of the goods which my Lady Culpeper ordered from England, and which even now is due?" I nodded.

"Know you by what ship?"

"The Earl of Fairfax," I replied, and recalled as I spoke a rumor that my Lord Culpeper designed his daughter Cate for the eldest son of the earl and had so named his ship in honor of [illegible].

"You say that the Earl of Fairfax is even now due?" said Captain Tabor.

I replied that she was hourly expected by what I had learned. Then Captain Tabor, sitting loosely hunched with that utter abandon of all the muscles which one sees in some when they are undergoing a fierce strain of thought, remained silent for a space, his brows knitted. Then suddenly my shoulder tingled with the clap which he gave it and the cabin rang and rang again with a laugh so loud and gay that it seemed a very note of the May day. "You are merry," I said. But I laughed myself, though somewhat doubtfully, when he unfolded his scheme to me, which was indeed both bold and humorous. He knew well the captain of the Earl of Fairfax, who had been shipmate with him.

"Many a lark ashore have we had together," said Calvin Tabor, "and, faith, but I know things about him now which compel him to my turn—the devil's mess have we both been in—but I need not use such means of persuasion if I know honest Dick Watson."

The scheme of which Captain Tabor delivered himself with bursts of laughter enough to wake the ship was, to speak briefly, that he should go with a boat, rowing against the current by keeping close to bank and taking advantage of eddies, and meet the Earl of Fairfax before she reached Jamestown, board her and persuade her captain to send the cases of my Lady Culpeper's goods under cover of night to the Golden Horn, whence he would unload them next morning, and Mistress Mary could show them to her grandmother, and then they were to be reshipped with all possible speed and secrecy, the Earl of Fairfax meanwhile lying at anchor at the mouth of the river, and then delivered to my Lady Culpeper.

There was but one doubt as to the success of this curious scheme in my mind, and that was that Mistress Mary might not easily lend herself to such deception. However, Captain Tabor, with a skill of devising concerning which I have often wondered whether it may be more common in the descendants of those who settled in New England, who were in such sore straits to get their own wills, than with us of Virginia, provided a way through that difficulty.

"'Tis full easy," said he. "You say that the maid's sister will say naught against it—and you?"

"I will say naught against her safety," said I. "What think you I care for any little quibbles of the truth when that be in question?"

"Well," said Captain Tabor, "then must you and Mistress Catherine Cav-

Catherine anxiously waiting on the bank of the stream

endish show the goods to the maid and say naught as to the means by which you came by them; tell her they are landed from the Golden Horn, as indeed they will be; let her think aught she chooses, that they are indeed her own, purchased for her by her sister or her lovers, if she choose to think so, and bid her display them with no ado to Madam Cavendish if she value the safety of the others who are concerned in this. Betwixt the mystery and the fright and the sight of the trinkets, if she be aught on the pattern of any other maid, show them she will and hold her tongue till she be out of her grandmother's presence."

"It can be but tried," said I.

Then the captain sprang out on deck and ordered a boat lowered and presently had set me ashore and was himself, with a half dozen sailors, fighting way down stream.

I found my horse on the bank where I had left him, and by him, waiting anxiously, Catherine Cavendish. She listened with deepening eyes while I told her Captain Tabor's scheme, and when I had done looked at me with her beautiful mouth set and her face as white as a white flower on a bush beside her. "Mary shall show the goods," said she. "Such a story will I tell her as will make her innocent of aught save bewilderment, and as for you and me, we are both of us ready to burn for a lie for the sake of her."

CAPITALIST PROMISES TO ORGANIZE COMPANY

Statement Made at Meeting of Sugar Company Creditors This Morning That if Property was Saved Until November First, He Would Then Form a Company to Operate the Factory in Peterborough—Alderman Adams was Appointed Liquidator—A Largely Attended Meeting to Wind up the Affairs of the Peterborough Sugar Company, Limited.

This morning at the Court House a meeting of creditors and stockholders of the Peterborough Sugar Company was held for the purpose of hearing the application to wind up the affairs of the Company.

His Honour Judge Weller presided, and Mr. R. E. Wood appeared for the liquidation, and a number of the creditors, while Messrs. Bennet and Kerr were present to represent other interests.

The net result of the meeting was the appointment of Ald. F. Adams to the position of Liquidator of the Company, and he will proceed to administer its affairs for the benefit of the creditors.

The action taken to-day was the sequel to the order passed by Chief Justice Meredith ordering that if the amount due the Messrs. Howden Brothers was not paid by May 1st, the property could be sold and the amount received applied to the liquidation of the mortgage held by Howden Brothers for $9,000, the amount of the balance yet unpaid on the purchase price of $10,000.

The meeting was attended by a large number of persons, principally shareholders, though there were a great many farmer creditors who had raised beets and who had not yet received the money for them.

There was a feeling of dissatisfaction evidenced by those present, and after the meeting one stockholder sized up the feelings of the others in the same position when he said:—"Well, I have been soaked to such an extent that the next agent who comes on my place will be kicked off."

After the appointment of Ald. Adams to act as Liquidator had been made, Mr. Garvin addressed the gathering, and made a plea to save the property. He said that for a year [now] the Company had been fighting the Messrs. Howden in the Courts and if on May 1st the $9,000 was not raised, the whole property, which, he said, was actually worth $40,000 would revert to the Messrs. Howden on the terms of their mortgage, and the order of Chief Justice Meredith.

Mr. Garvin in a spirited speech referred to the situation of the company and recalled the effort to have the town guarantee the bonds of the company for $100,000 in order that the work on the plant might be proceeded with. This had failed, and the company had had to go into the courts to save the property to the stockholders.

He made an important announcement to the effect that yesterday he had had a four hours' conference with a gentleman prominent in beet sugar industry, and the capitalist who was to have become interested in the factory here, if the $100,000 bylaw had passed, and that gentleman had given him a letter which he would hand to the liquidator. The letter was read to the meeting and stated that if the property could be held until the first of November, he, with his Michigan associates in the sugar business would form a company and operate a sugar factory in Peterborough.

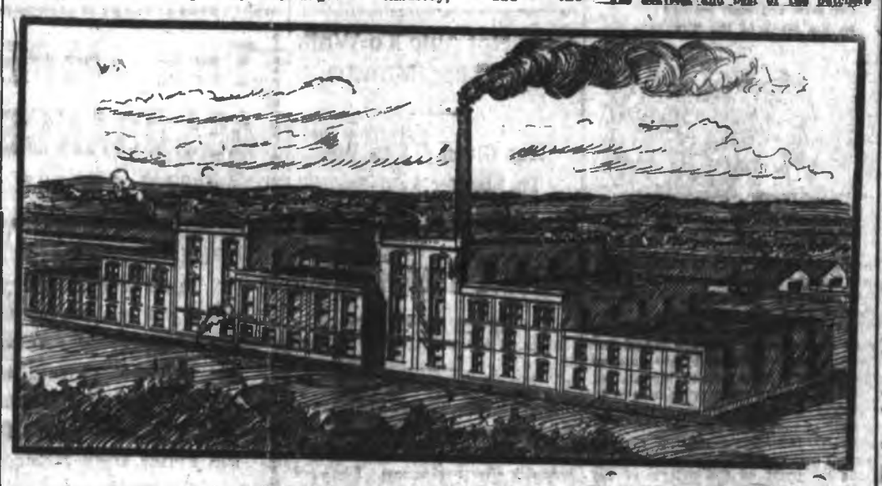
On the strength of that assertion, Mr. Garvin will ask the liquidator to make an effort to hold for the company the property until that date.

The reason this gentleman could not come to the help of the concern until Nov. 1st, Mr. Garvin explained, was because last year only, the sugar business was put upon its feet, and to use that gentleman's words, it was redeemed, and he wanted to wait until the season was over before he would ask his Michigan capitalists to join him in the Peterborough enterprise.

Mr. Garvin stated that last year the Wallaceburg and Berlin factories paid 20 per cent. profits, and the price of sugar has increased two cents per pound.

He again expressed his utmost confidence in the prospects of the industry here, if the property could be saved by raising the $9,000 necessary to take it off the former owners' hands.

Mr. Garvin was asked some questions by a number of the shareholders concerning the affairs of the company.



Proposed Plant of the Sugar Company, which a Capitalist promises to erect if property is held until Nov. 1st.

London, March 28.—Live cattle are quoted at 10½c to 11½c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 9¼c to 9½c per lb.; sheep, 12c to 13c per pound.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock were light at the city market, 36 carloads all told, composed of 530 cattle, 320 hogs, 127 sheep and lambs and 200 calves.

There were not enough exporters to supply the demand. This caused dealers to buy the best butchers' for export purposes. Prices ranged from $4.90 to $5 per cwt., with one lot at $5.15. Bulls sold at $3.25 to $4 per cwt., with one extra thereabout sold at $4.35 per cwt.

The bestiest and best of the butchers' cattle, being bought for export purposes, caused a shortage in the supply, and prices advanced accordingly. Picked lots of choice butchers' sold at $4.60 to $4.80 per cwt.; loads of good $4.30 to $4.40; fair to good at $4 to $4.15; medium at $3.80 to $3.75; common, $3 to $3.25; inferior at $2.50 to $3 per cwt.

Good quality steers of all weights find ready sale at firm prices. Short-keep feeders, 1,150 to 1,200 lbs each, sold at $4.40 to $4.70 per cwt; feeders, 1,000 to 1,100 lbs, at $4 to $4.40 cwt; steers, 800 to 900 lbs each, at $3.60 to $4 cwt. Stockers are not in as good demand as feeders. Those of good quality sold at $3 to $3.50; common at $2.25 to $2.75.

About 25 milch cows and springers sold at $35 to $45 each.

The demand for veal calves of good quality is as great as ever, and prices are firm at $6.50 per cwt for inferior to $6.60 for medium, and $6 to $6.25 per cwt for good.

The run of sheep and lambs was light, and all offered were readily bought up at firm prices. Export ewes sold at $4.75 to $5.00 per cwt; bucks at $3.50 to $4.25 cwt; choice ewes and wether yearling lambs sold at $6.75 to $7.25; common yearling lambs at $5.50 to $6.50 cwt; spring lambs at $4 to $6 each, according to size and quality.

Deliveries were not large, about 400, which were bought by Mr. Harris who reported the market steady at $6.25 for selects and $6 for lights and fats, per cwt. These prices are for hogs fed and watered.

J. D. KING'S SHOES.

Our long experience in handling nearly every make of shoes has taught us that the Perfect Shoe is a rarity. Some have one good point, others another; but to get them all combined in one shoe, and that shoe a moderate priced one, was beyond our efforts.

To solve the situation we have had a shoe made under our own supervision, according to our own specific instructions, combining all the good points of the many, made of the best leathers by shoe makers who are a credit to the craft, and the result is KING'S SHOES.

The King Shoe is a service shoe. The finest Box Calf Leather for the Uppers, and the best Oak Tanned Leather for the Soles insure that.

The King Shoe is a stylish shoe, it is made over the latest last of the master shoe designers, whose models we reproduce. Its graceful lines and curves make the King one of the most shapely shoes.

LATE DEVELOPMENTS IN WAR PROGRAMME

Opposing Armies in Manchuria May Fight Within Week--Japs to Cut a Supply Base --The Ussuri District Objective of the Japanese Efforts, With Kirin in the Distance--What is Being Done for Peace --Russia Arrogantly Says What She Will Not Do.

St. Petersburg, March 30.—Another duel between the two opposing armies in Manchuria may be on the program for the coming week. The Russians, according to the Associated Press' Harbin correspondent, are now strongly fortifying their positions at Sipinghai, against which the Japanese are reported to be gathering in force. The reported Russian retirement from Sipinghai to Chaoumiaodzi was incorrect, due to a telegraphic error in the confusion of similar names, Chaoumiaodzi with Shuamnyaotzsi, south of Sipinghai, from whence the Russians' advanced force retired to the fortified line at Sipinghai. The Japanese followed to some extent, but a border of twenty miles of detached ground still remains between the two armies, over which the Japanese probably will not advance until they are ready to attack.

Moving Against Kirin.

Equally important news is that a column of Japanese is moving against Kirin, perhaps with the intention of turning the position eastward and striking at the Vladivostock line of communication with the double purpose of isolating the fortress and separating Gen. Linevitch's army from a valuable base of supplies, the Ussuri district.

There has been no fighting of importance latterly. Reconnaissances establish the fact that the Japanese are gathering in heavy force twenty miles south of Sipinghai, evidently intending to attack the Russian position at Sipinghai. The Russans are strongly fortified there and apparently expect to make a stand. The country between is comparatively clear of Japanese.

In Harbin April 10.

The number of Chinese bandits is constantly augmenting. Chinese continue to report that Field Marshal Oyama has issued proclamations fixing the date for the occupation of Harbin as April 10, but this prediction seems apparently improbable of fulfilment.

Japs Lost 57,000.

Tokio, March 30.—Twenty thousand Russian prisoners, captured in the battle of Mukden, have already arrived in Japan.

A revised unofficial estimate of the Japanese casualties in the battles of Makden and Tie Pass place the number at 57,000. Flags captured at Mukden have been presented to the Emperor.

NO PEACE IN THIS.

What Russia Will Do to Gain Peace—No Concession of Territory.

St. Petersburg, March 30.—The Associated Press is in a position to announce that a step in the direction of peace has actually been made.

Russia has indirectly made known to Japan the negative conditions upon which peace may be concluded, viz., no concession of territory and no indemnity, leaving Japan to determine whether negotiations can be begun upon that basis.

No reply from Japan has yet reached the Russian Government.

The above report presents practically all the facts obtainable.

Denials Which Really Are Not.

Officially the authorities continue to deny stoutly that Russia has made any proposals to Japan.

This is literally true, as Russia has only made known the negative conditions, leaving the intermediary to convey these conditions on its own responsibility to Japan.

Diplomats in St. Petersburg are convinced that some thing is in progress, but none of those in a position to know will acknowledge that they are aware what has actually or is being done.

Tried to Commit Suicide.

Paris, March 30.—An unconfirmed rumor from St. Petersburg is published here this morning to the effect that Emperor Nichoias made an attempt to commit suicide and wounded himself in the hand. The rumor further says that the Emperor's design was frustrated by the intervention of his mother, the Empress Dowager.

St. Petersburg, March 30.—Gen. Hatjanoff, the new commander of the 3rd Manchurian army, is one of the old school of the Russian army, having commenced his military career in 1853. He served with distinction in the Crimean war and in the Russo-Turkish war of 1878.

Stopped by Japs.

Seattle, Wash., March 30.—Japanese cruisers twice stopped and boarded the British tramp steamer Ocean Monarch, which arrived here yesterday, twenty-six days out, while she was in the Japan Sea, on her voyage to this port from Kobe. After examining the vessel and her papers, the boarding officers allowed her to proceed. Her officers say the coast of Northern Japan and Siberia is so thoroughly guarded that it would be impossible for a successful attempt at blockade running.

Reforms for Poland.

St. Petersburg, March 30.—Emperor Nicholas has instructed M. Maximovitch, Governor-General of Warsaw, to elaborate the reforms necessary for the prosperity of Poland.

Over a Hundred Wounds.

St. Petersburg, March 30.—Baron Von Nolken, the chief of police, who was wounded by the explosion of a bomb on Sunday, is improving. He received 120 separate wounds, cuts and scratches.

Socialist Demonstration.

St. Petersburg, March 30.—The funeral yesterday of a student named Yakovleff, who on his liberation from eight months' solitary imprisonment for circulating propagandist literature, hanged himself, his mind being unhinged, was the occasion of a stirring revolutionary demonstration. Disregarding police warnings crowds of students followed the funeral cortege, singing revolutionary songs and scattering pamphlets. The coffin was covered with wreaths from Socialists, revolutionaries and workmen.

JURY WAS OUT FOUR HOURS

Brings in Verdict Acquitting Loney, the Hockey Player.

CHARGE WAS MANSLAUGHTER

Evidence For the Defence Was in the Nature of Proving the Killing of Alcide Laurin to Have Been Accidental — Loney Testified in His Own Behalf— Press is Scored.

Cornwall, March 30.—The first witness for the defence in the hockey manslaughter case yesterday was George Chalmers, of Maxville. He was at the hockey match on February 24, and was behind the Maxville goal. When Loney and Laurin met Loney got the puck and shot it up the ice. Laurin hit Loney across the legs with his stick. Laurin turned and put up his fists. They separated, Loney returned to his position, followed by Laurin. Loney's stick was up over Laurin's head. When the latter made a quick move Loney's stick struck him one the head. Loney was at one time working with the witness, and he believed that he was one of the finest young men in Maxville.

Laurin Struck Loney.

Edward Burke, of Maxville, an employe of the Bank of Ottawa, was next. He said Loney took the puck from Laurin, who then struck Loney twice in the face, pushing his head back two feet. Loney then struck Laurin on the head. When his stick was broken Laurin should have returned to his position, instead of following up Loney. Cross-examined witness said that Loney was still facing Laurin, and was only turning to return to his position. When struck, Loney seemed to lose his balance.

Loney Was Followed.

Cecil Weegar, of Maxville, corroborated the two previous witnesses, and added that when Laurin followed Loney he struck at the latter with the broken handle of his stick. When Loney turned around after Laurin fell he had his hands on his face.

Cross-examined, the witness, although only 16 years of age, said he had on three or four occasions seen men knocked down and out with a hockey stick.

J. A. Welsh, cheese buyer, Maxville, was next called. His version was much like that of previous defence witnesses. Loney's head, when first struck in the face, went back about three feet. Loney seemed to be unsteady on his feet, and while balancing himself he brought his stick down on Laurin's head. Afterwards some one came up and struck Loney twice from behind.

Laurin Broke His Stick.

Thomas Johnson, section foreman on the C. A. R., said that Laurin broke his stick over Loney's leg, afterwards following up the Maxville player and striking him in the face. While recovering himself Loney struck Laurin, and the latter fell. Then Leo Laurin came up and struck Loney on the back. Loney skated backwards 18 or 20 feet, followed by Alcide Laurin, before the fatal blow.

Dr. C. J. Hamilton, of Cornwall, said that he had listened to the evidence of Drs. Macdonald and McLennan and said that the part of the skull fractured would be very thin and unprotected. A fall on a hard projection or a hard blow from a fist on this part of the head might cause a fracture. Cross-examined, Dr. Hamilton said he did not purpose contradicting the doctors who had performed the post-mortem. He was simply stating what had happened in other cases.

Was It An Accident?

Wm. Doucett, merchant, Maxville, saw Laurin break his stick on Loney's leg and followed this with a blow in the face. Loney's head went back and when he recovered himself his stick struck Laurin. Loney then swung around and put his hand to his face. He thought that the blow struck by Loney was accidental.

Lorne McLean was called by the defence. He was just opposite the spot where Laurin met his death. Loney having taken the puck from Laurin, the latter struck Loney with his stick and followed him up hitting Loney three times in the face with his fist. After the third blow Loney struck Laurin.

Cross-examined witness said that Laurin struck Loney twice in the face, Laurin, after the fatal blow, fell full length. To His Lordship he could not account for Laurin's failure to ward off the blow, although he had his hands up.

Prisoner's Sister in Box.

Miss Loney, sister of the prisoner, saw blood on her brother's face just before Laurin struck Loney on the back; at this time her brother was stooping and his nose was bleeding.

Laurin's Hands Were Up.

R. A. Rothwell, of Maxville, the Government cheese instructor, prepared the plan of the Maxville rink produced as an exhibit, and he also saw Laurin break his stick on Loney and strike Loney with his fist; as he recovered his balance Loney's stick struck Laurin.

Cross-examined, witness saw Loney stagger, but did not see Laurin's blows land on Loney, neither did he see Loney's stick when it fell on Laurin's head. The latter, in his opinion, was a quick blow, but not heavy or with a great deal of force. Laurin still had his hands up when Loney struck him.

In His Own Defence.

At the afternoon session Loney was put in the box and swore he had never been ruled off and never struck a man with the purpose of hurting him. He received a blow on the face from Laurin which dazed him and he remained in that condition until some time later when he was struck on the back by some one.

His Lordship addressed the jury at considerable length, explaining the law in regard to manslaughter. He held that the only excusable homicide was what was purely accidental or what was done to protect life or prevent grievous bodily harm. His charge to the jury seemed to be unfavorable to the prisoner.

Verdict is "Not Guilty."

The jury, after being out about four hours brought in a verdict of not guilty.

The grand jury in their report strongly condemned the tendency to rough play and brutal tactics in hockey, lacrosse and football, which frequently resulted in painful and permanent injuries and sometimes death to the participants. They criticised the press for giving so much prominence to sporting news, and held that the press was largely responsible, in a moral sense, for the results, as the reports fired the imagination of hot-headed spectators, who encouraged and incited excitable players to deeds of violence.

The lionizing of rough players had reached such a stage that unless there there was a change made it might be necessary to have such sports prohibited by legislation and placed in the class with bull fights and cocking mains.

It Takes 35 Tailors to Make one Semi-ready Garment...

Each Semi-ready garment is made by a group of specialists, each one working on that particular part at which he excels.

Our tailors who are specialists in collar-making do nothing else in the Semi-ready tailory. The same applies to sleeve-making, stitch-moulding shoulders, interior workmanship and every other point in the making.

The result is that Semi-ready tailors are perfect at their particular work, and the completed Semi-ready garment is in each detail the highest product of the tailor's art.

COUNCIL REJECTS THE GENERAL TAX SYSTEM

Will Not Ask Legislation to Allow Granolythic Walks to be Paid for by General Tax--Ald. Adams Severely Criticises Action of the Council in Failing to Carry Out Wishes of Ratepayers--New Fire Hall By-Law Given Two Readings--Ratepayers Will Vote on it on May 4th--Proposal to Spend $25,000 in Improvement of Fire Fighting System--Many By-Laws Passed at Last Night's Special Meeting of the Town Council--Question with Reference to Plumbing Inspector Receives No Answer--Tax Rate of 18 Mills Receives Confirmation of Council.

Ald. Johnston had his innings last night at the Council meeting, and a bylaw introduced by him providing for raising $25,000 to pay for the site for and to erect and equip a new fire hall for the town was passed its first two readings and the ratepayers will be asked to vote on it on May 4th. The bylaw went through the Council practically without opposition, the only Alderman to offer any objection being Ald. Crowe, who found fault with the general scheme on the ground that too much money was being centralized in one place, by the erection of a new hall. He wanted substations built, and thought that there was no necessity for a new engine at present. Outside of this, however, the by-law passed unchallenged, and on May 4th the ratepayers will be given another opportunity of voting on the proposal to provide a new fire hall and equipment for the town.

Ten bylaws in all were passed last night, a number of them, however, being unimportant, but each occasioned some discussion and the result was that the limit of time was reached just as the business was concluded.

The three bylaws authorizing the C.P.R. to place siddings on Rink, Wolfe and George streets were passed, as were also those for numerous other purposes.

During the evening Ald. Johnston took occasion to ask the Council whether it was the intention to introduce a plumbing inspector bylaw, in the near future, which question was received with a solemn silence, save for the remark of the Mayor that Ald. Mason could probably answer the question, but Ald. Mason did not choose to enlighten the Council nor the public on the matter.

Nearly all the Aldermen had some grievance which they wished aired, some personal and others on behalf of others, and it was rather a significant fact that in almost every case a complaint as to the condition of the streets was made. In all instances the Board of Works was instructed to "consider" the matters.

The report of the Committee of the Whole was the occasion for the only serious difference of opinion among the Aldermen being expressed, and the first clause of the report, which was presented by Ald. Adams, but which he objected to, advised that in the application which the Town would make to the Legislature for special legislation, the clause providing that granolithic walks shall be paid for by general tax should be omitted. To this clause Ald. Adams objected on the ground that the electors, having been asked to express an opinion on the matter, had declared in favour of the adoption of a general tax, and he thought that this council had no right, after having been elected to serve the people, to over-ride their wishes in this respect. He moved that the report be adopted with the exception of that part of the clause, to which Ald. Hall moved an amendment that the report as it read be adopted. Six aldermen voted each way, and Mayor Best broke the tie by supporting the amendment, making the remark that the people did not know what they were voting on when they declared in favour of the general tax. He inferred that Ald. Adams was actuated by a desire to secure cheap walks for Ashburnham, in his efforts to have application made for power to pay for the walks by a general tax, to which that gentlemen replied, denying the imputation.

The vote on the amendment stood,

Yeas — Ald. Begley, Mason, Crowe, Leary, Hall and Tovey.

Nays — Ald. Johnston, Hicks, McIntyre, Batten, Scott and Adams.

Ald. Adams explained his position, by stating that while he was in favour of a general tax for walks, he did not believe in the council reversing its decision, and he would stand by the report as it was presented.

The rate of taxes caused some discussion, too, Ald. Hall thinking that it was too low, and he wanted to increase it one half of a mill and spend the extra money thus raised on the streets, which, he said, were in some places in very bad condition.

There were present at the meeting His Worship Mayor Best, Aldermen Adams, Scott, Tovey, McIntyre, Begley, Batten and Johnston.

The minutes of the last meeting were confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the Secretary of the Railway Commission, stating that a hearing would be granted on Friday at the City Hall, Toronto, regarding the C.P.R.'s application to cross George-st.—Received.

From W. H. Moore, notifying the Corporation that Chas. H. Amys, M. D. Charlotte-st., was seeking re-imbursement to the extent of $200 for damage done to his premises by flooding on March 25th, caused by overflow of water from the streets.—Legal Committee.

From R. Hicks & Co., calling the attention of the Engineer to the fact that their yards had been flooded with water on the 25th inst. by water backing up on McDonnel-st, and that the covering of the drain on Bethune-st. was unsafe.—Board of Works.

From Henry Trollope, 650 Water-st., asking that a crossing be placed on Water-st., south of Victoria Avenue.—Board of Works.

From J. J. McCabe, asking that a portion of the annual street scrapings be dumped on his lot, 293 Burnham-st., at the customary charge.—Board of Works.

From Auditors George K. Martin and T. Q. Quartermaine, submitting that the Town's Financial books, as audited by them were, as a general rule, found to be entirely satisfactory. —Received.

From property owners, praying that a granolithic sidewalk be constructed inside the tree line, on the north side of Weller-st., from Park-st. to the Monaghan Road, the same to be charged for as a local improvement.—Board of Works.

From the County Clerk's office, St. Thomas, stating that a Provincial deputation would wait upon the Government on Thursday, April 13, at 11 a.m., to urge the amendment of the Municipal Act so that municipal corporations would not be entirely responsible for damages in respect of mere non-feasance, by repealing section 606 and substituting the following:—"Every public road, street, bridge and highway shall be kept in repair by the corporation, and in default of the corporation so to keep in repair, the corporation shall be liable to punishment provided by law." Peterborough was asked to send representatives on the deputation, and the Mayor and Town Solicitor were appointed to attend.

From the Central Milling Co, complaining that their property is assessed much too high in comparison with other similar industries in Peterborough and asking that the necessary steps be taken to have the same adjusted.—Manufacturers' Committee.

From the Town Solicitor, saying that Mr. Cameron wishes to be paid for his survey of the river front from Wolfe to Hunter streets, on completion of the work. He objects to waiting for a confirmation of the survey before being paid.—Received.

From the Auburn Power Co., applying for a franchise and right to use the streets for the transmission of electric power and light.— Franchise Committee.

From property owners on Edinburgh-st. asking that a hydrant for fire protection purposes be furnished at the corner of Edinburgh and Union-sts.—Fire, Water and Light Committee.

From John Corkery, Secretary Separate School Board, notifying the town that $6,045 will be required to be levied for Separate School purposes.—Received.

From A. Stevenson, Secretary of the Town Trust Commissioners, drawing attention to the fact that some arrangements should be made to meet the deficiency in the Town's Sinking Fund, under by-law 173, passed in 1889.—Finance Committee.

From W. A. Littlejohn, City Clerk, Toronto, asking the town's assistance in securing legislation in conformity with the following resolution passed by the City Council of Toronto: "That application be made for legislation providing that the names of married women on the assessment roll be placed on the municipal voters' lists and lists used in voting on money by-laws on the same terms and conditions as are the names of single women, and that such married women shall be entitled to vote on the same terms as single women; and that the Councils of other municipalities be communicated with and asked to co-operate in applying for such legislation.—Received."

From property owners praying for the construction of a granolithic walk on the north side of Sherbrooke-st. from the junction of Park and Reid-sts. west to the Monaghan road. —Board of Works.

From the Forest City Paving Co., London, saying they are well equipped for laying cement sidewalks this year at exceptionally reasonable rates.—Received.

From George K. Martin and T. Q. Quartermaine, asking that they be paid more than the sum agreed upon —$110 each—for auditing the town's books. The auditors claim that the accounts for the past year have dealt with much larger transactions in amount than in the year 1903, for which Messrs. Blatch and Jackson were paid $150 and asked the Council to give this matter their earnest consideration. — Referred to Finance Committee to report.

From D. W. Dennis making the following proposition—"I will give the town free the land required to continue Cambridge-st. south to Elm-st., provided they take it on the following terms—The new street to be graded and rolled on or before June 1st., 1905. All rough stone raised in grading to be left on the side of the street for him, and to be removed by him before July 1st.—Board of Works.

From the National Sanitarium Association, asking financial aid for the Muskoka Tree Hospital for Consumptives.—Finance Committee.

From Leonardo Minicola, asking a rebate on his pedlar's license of $30, should a general rebate to ratepayer pedlars be decided on by the Council.—Referred to License Committee.

Re the opening of George-st. south Messrs. Dennistoun, Peck, Kerr and Stevenson write to say that under no circumstances will their client Mrs McMahon consent to occupy a house on the highway or any part of it. The house in question must be moved on to the lot and turned round to face George-st. Should the town increase their offer by $600 to enable her to remove her house and make the necessary repairs and improvements, she will accept their offer.—Received.

From T. A. S. Hay, town engineer, saying that the telephone in his new offices will require an extension. This would mean an addition of $2.00 to the present rent.—Finance Committee.

From J. H. Yelland and others asking for a pipe sewer on Harvey and Water-sts. from Smith to Antrim-sts.—Board of Works.

BYLAWS.

The order of business reading of bylaws, was then taken up, and that referring to the C. P. R. siding at Rink street, to reach the Shovel Company's works, was given its several readings, and passed.

Ald. Adams moved the first reading of the bylaw to consent to the C. P. R. constructing siddings on George and Wolfe streets, which was passed.

NEW FIRE HALL.

Ald. Johnston introduced a bylaw to authorize the execution of a contract with the Gutta Percha and Rubber Company, of Toronto, for the purchase of fire hose. The purchase includes 500 feet of hose and the price is 90 cents per foot. The bylaw was passed.

A FIRE HALL.

The first reading of the bylaw to provide for the raising of $25,000 to pay for the site and the erection and equipment of a fire hall, to install a fire alarm system, purchase a chemical engine, fire steamer, extension ladders and other apparatus, was given on motion of Ald. Johnston, who introduced the bylaw. It provides that the third reading of the bylaw should not be given until the ratepayers have voted on it, and this vote should be taken on May 4th, and the cost should be raised by 20-year debentures.

The bylaw was given its first two readings and its final reading will be given after it has been voted upon by the ratepayers.

The Mayor suggested that the council should send to the Underwriters' Association, a list of the improvements contemplated, and find out what reduction in insurance rates the installation of these equipments would give. This suggestion was endorsed by the majority of the aldermen.

Ald. Crowe took objection to the bylaw on the ground that there was too much money centralized in one building and suggested that substations should be established in other parts of the town, as they would serve to fight a fire in the outskirts of the town. He also said there was no necessity for a new fire engine, for the Chief told him that the present engine had only been used once in seven years; to which Ald. Leary retorted that on that occasion it would not work.

Ald. Hicks supported the bylaw as it stood, and said that the place to start with the equipment of the system, was at the Central Fire Hall, because the sub-stations would be no use unless they were manned, which would greatly increase the expenditure.

Ald. Crowe prophesied the defeat of the bylaw if it was submitted as it stood.

Ald. Johnston replying, said he had studied the question seriously and he had come to the decision that the present plan was the best. A new fire hall was a necessity, as was also a new fire engine.

Ald. Leary advocated submitting the bylaw as soon as possible, and that the aldermen should take steps to educate the ratepayers as to the necessity for passing it. Unless this were done the probabilities were that it would not be passed.

PEDLERS' LICENSES.

A bylaw to license and regulate pedlers and hawkers was introduced by Ald. Mason.

The bylaw defines what constitutes a hawker as understood by the bylaw, and the licenses for pedlers were fixed as follows—$50 for wagon or sleigh, with horse attached; $40 for push cart, $20 for foot pedlers. The bylaw was passed.

TAX RATE FOR 1905.

Ald. Mason introduced a bylaw to fix the rate of taxation on the assessment for the year 1905, and to authorize the raising of taxes. The bylaw provides that the rate for the year shall be 18 mills on the dollar upon property paying public school rates, and one-half mill extra for those whose property is on streets served by street watering. The Separate school rate shall be 19 4-10 mills.

TOWN ARBITRATOR.

A bylaw to appoint Mr. John Carnegie as arbitrator to ascertain the amount to be paid by the Town of Peterborough to the County of Peterborough on the account of the administration of justice and other matters was introduced by Ald. Adams and passed.

STREET WATERING.

Ald. Adams moved the first reading of a bylaw to provide for watering certain streets, and raise the cost therefor from the property adjoining the streets so watered. The streets to be watered this year will be the same as last year. The bylaw was passed.

Ald. Johnston asked the Council if it was the intention to deal with the proposed plumbing bylaw, to which question he received no answer.

The following report of the Committee of the Whole was presented by Ald. Adams:—

1—We examined the draft of the Bill prepared by the Town Solicitor for presentation to the Legislature and approved of it except that by order of this Committee the clause asking for authority to change the method of paying for granolithic walks from the frontage system to that of the general tax was struck out.

2—We authorized the Solicitor to prepare a by-law to authorize the watering of the streets in the same districts as last year and to levy a rate of 1-2 mill on the dollar on the property in the districts.

3—We recommend that the Treasurer be authorized to issue a cheque to the Town Solicitor for $100 required to be sent with the private bill the Town is asking the Legislature to pass.

4—We recommend that new fixtures for part of the space in the Town Clerk's Office be purchased from the Canada Cabinet Co. at a cost of $135.00 as recommended by Ald. Adams and Mason in a report to this Committee which is attached to this report.

5—We recommend that the Town Solicitor be authorized to tender Miss B. McMahon $1,000 for part of her land required for widening George street, south of Lake street, according to Cameron's plan, Miss McMahon to be allowed to use her house during the term of her life, and that the Treasurer be authorized to issue a cheque to the Town Solicitor for that sum for the purpose named.

6—We recommend that a by-law be passed to fix the license fee for pedlars at $40 for a foot pedlar, $40 for pedlars with push carts and $30 when an animal is used.

7—We recommend that the Treasurer be instructed to send accounts to those for whom private concrete walks were built last year, in accordance with a statement of the Town Engineer, amounting in all to $338.64.

8—We recommend that Ald. Hicks be added to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

9—We recommend that all Committee meetings be open to the reporters of the papers.

10—We authorized the Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee and the Chief of the Fire Brigade, to go to Toronto to purchase supplies for the Fire Department and the Treasurer to pay their expenses and we recommend that this be confirmed.

11—Your Committee examined the estimated receipts and expenditures for this year as submitted by the Chairman of the Finance Committee and recommend that the rate of taxation be 18 mills on the dollar in accordance with them, with the understanding that work on the bridges be paid for by issuing debentures under a by-law that has been passed for that purpose.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

FIREMEN'S SALARIES.

Ald. Hall presented the following report which was referred to Committee of the Whole Council.

Your Supervision Committee begs leave to report and recommend that Constable Adams, Stewart and McGinty be given an increase of salary of $100 each and Chief Reazel of $150.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

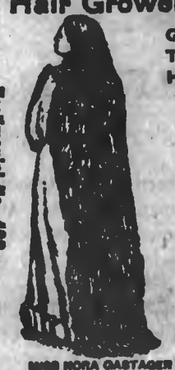
7 Sutherland Sisters Hair Grower



GREW THIS HAIR

Testimonial No. 432

MISS NORA GASTAGER

2108 Centre Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.

When the scalp throws off either dandruff or a greasy substance, it is an evidence of scalp disease, and no time should be lost in correcting it. You certainly could not hesitate to take treatment were you to look at this matter through a magnifying glass. When highly magnified it resembles a working mass of insects. These creatures absorb the nutriment or life-sap of the scalp causing the scalp to become dry and feverish, resulting in the loss of hair and finally baldness. Seven Sutherland Sisters' Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner works wonders in all such cases. It thoroughly eradicates all trace of scalp bacteria and makes the hair grow unusually long, strong and beautiful. One recent bottle is enough to show you that it will do all this and even more. NOW at all druggists, two sizes, 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

NO. 8 COMPANY'S ANNUAL DINNER

Officers of Crack Company Entertain Their Men Last Night

A Pleasant Military Gathering at Long's Palm Parlours Last Night.

The annual dinner of No. 8 Company was held last evening in Long's Palm Parlours, and if the gathering is an augury of the interest the members will take in the company this season, No. 8 should be about the best company in the Regiment.

Some thirty-five young men sat down, as well as Col. Miller, Adjt. Walker, and Sergt.-Major Brittain. After partaking of dinner, a pleasing toast list was carried out, with Lieut. Hamilton, officer in command of the company, in the chair.

After drinking liberally to the toast of the King, Mr. Geo. Lynch gave one of his songs, which was well received.

THE 57TH REGIMENT.

In proposing the toast of the 57th Regiment, Adjt. Walker took occasion to refer to to the benefits a young man derived from being a member of a military organization. He complimented the company on its showing, and wished it a very prosperous season.

In responding, Col. Miller instanced the fact that he first turned out with a red coat in 1864 as a private, and from that time to this he had always been proud of it. That the Regiment stands well in military matters is shown by the fact that the District Officer Commanding reports very highly of it. The Regiment had also received words of praise from that great soldier, Lord Dundonald, on the occasion of his visit here. The efficiency of the Regiment can only be maintained by the men taking an interest in the drill and taking advantage of all the opportunities for comradeship and physical development that are to be found within its ranks. He had been supported splendidly by the officers and men since taking charge, and greatly appreciated the work done.

The privilege of serving one's country should be taken advantage of, he said, by every young man.

NEW DRILL HALL.

In referring to the new drill hall, Col. Miller stated that in a short time matters would be so far advanced as to permit of the calling of tenders for the building, which, when built would be a home for the young men of the town, both winter and summer. In it would be installed shooting galleries and a gymnasium, which would tend to promote the moral and physical development of the members. He was glad to see so many of No. 8 Company at their annual dinner and hoped that the enthusiasm with which they had just commenced the season would be continued throughout the drill year, and while regular at drill he would like to see more of the men turn out at night practices, as no matter how efficient a man might be at drill he was not as good a man in active service as a man who could shoot as well.

He called on those present to take an earnest interest in the welfare of the company, and they would have a company to be proud of, as they had in the past.

After a capital recitation by Sgt.-Major Brittain, and songs by Mr. George Lynch's inimitable stories, Sergt-Major Brittain proposed the health of the "Non-Coms." of "H" Company, and spoke of the kindly relations between himself and these men, and of the important position they hold in the regiment. For young sergeants those of No. 8 did their work exceedingly well and greatly assisted in the success of the Company.

The toast was responded to by Col.-Sergts. Hartley, Cavanah and Dodds, in turn spoke of the pleasure it gave them to act in No. 8 Company, and each felt that his respective section would be the banner one of the regiment this season.

Adjt. Walker gave as a recitation "My Own Canadian Home," followed by another from Sergt.-Major Brittain.

Pte. Smith then assisted in the evening's entertainment by a well rendered mouth organ solo.

THE LADIES.

The toast to the ladies was proposed by Col.-Sergeant Hartley, who referred to the good time the regiment had in Barrie.

Sergeant Cavanah, Corporal Johnston and Private Sawers responded for the fair sex in well chosen words.

The press was eloquently proposed by Lieut. Clarke, and acknowledged by representatives present.

OFFICERS OF NO. 8.

Colonel Miller then proposed the toast of the "Officers of No. 8 Company," referring to the fact that the officers and men must work harmoniously together, be understood by each other and take an interest in the Company's success in order that it be efficient.

Lieut. Hamilton, commanding the Company spoke of the organization work done by Capt. Macpherson, who had put the Company on such a good foundation as to make it, when all worked together, a matter of not work, but pleasure, to look after the interests of No. 8.

Lieut. Clarke spoke of the enthusiastic manner in which all the men of the Company did what they possibly could to make it successful and hoped that they would enter into the drill in the same spirit as formerly.

Lieut. Glover spoke on similar lines and hoped that the gathering was an indication of the way in which all would look after the interests of the Company in the coming season.

After another recitation by Colonel Miller which received an encore, three cheers were called for the enthusiastic and capable Commanding Officer, and were heartily given, which the Colonel acknowledged in a few words.

Pte. Smith gave another solo, receiving a merited encore, and George Lynch favoured the Company with another capital recitation. His selections went a long way towards the evening's enjoyment.

The singing of Auld Lang Syne and God Save the King brought to a close one of the most pleasing annual Company dinners in the history of the regiment.

A MAIL CARRIER'S EXPERIENCE.

CURED OF KIDNEY TROUBLE AND PAIN IN THE BACK, FROM WHICH HE SUFFERED MANY YEARS, BY

Dr. Pitcher's Backache-Kidney Tablets.

Mr. James Taggart, mail carrier for the past eighteen years, Palmerston, Ont., gives the history of his case as follows: "For a good many years I have had kidney trouble and pain in the back. It is so many years ago that I can hardly say what it came from, but I think it came from a heavy lift; after that the back grew weaker and weaker. I tried everything, and never got a bit of relief until I got a bottle of Dr. Pitcher's Backache-Kidney Tablets. They cleared up the pain, soreness and kidney trouble, and strengthened the back."

The action of Dr. Pitcher's Backache-Kidney Tablets is rapid and positive, curing backache, eruptions, blood humours, dropsical swellings, gravel, smarting and scalding of the urine, frequently rising at night, rheumatic pains and all kidney troubles of young and old. Price 50c. a bottle at druggists or by mail, The Dr. Ezra Pitcher Co., Toronto.

SILVER AND COBALT ORES IN POOR MAN'S DIGGINGS

Provincial Geologist Miller Talks to Canadian Institute on Temiskaming Mines.

A lecture of much interest to mineralogists and prospectors for precious metals was delivered at the Canadian Institute on Saturday night by Willet G. Miller, provincial geologist, on "Silver and Cobalt Ores of Temiskaming." The lecture was well illustrated with lantern slides, showing maps, views, rock exposures and the general topography of the districts, also specimens of rocks showing the presence of these metals. The veins from which these ores were taken were discovered during of the building of the Temiskaming and Northern Railway in the early summer of 1903; but the workmen engaged in construction work did not recognize them as valuable, it was not until October that the bureau of mines received samples, when their value as a provincial asset was at once recognized. The samples sent were of nickel, the colour of copper, and from their nature it became evident to Mr. Miller, that associated with this deposit would no doubt be silver and cobalt. He visited the locality and found just what he anticipated, silver cobalt and arsenic. There were four deposits, but until he went there no silver had been discovered. A station has since been built there, which is known as Cobalt. It lies 103 miles north of North Bay.

Some samples for the St. Louis Exhibition were taken out and have since been bought by the Dominion government for $5,000, for a permanent exhibit. A few tons for test purposes were also taken out.

MAPS READY FOR PROSPECTORS.

Last May Mr. Miller went to the district with the object of mapping it and making a closer examination of the deposits. The map is to be ready for prospectors in April. A number of prospectors from British Columbia and the United States went in last year and at the present time there are a great number of prospectors staying at the hotels, waiting for the snow to clear away so that they can continue their explorations. The prospectors last year found a number of veins, among them the mine of W. G. Tathewey, of Toronto, who immediately began operations. This lies within half a mile of Cobalt Station. He has made shipments of some six car loads or ore to New York. His first shipment of 20 tons gave him a return of $38,000. When it is considered that gold can be worked at a profit of $5 to the ton, it will be understood what Mr. Tethewey's mine means. He showed up over $20,000 worth in a short time and three others of the original veins have been worked at a handsome profit.

Recently the bureau has received reports of discoveries twenty-five miles North on the railway, also another deposit considerably farther north over the height of land. The Department has no details, but it is thought the discoveries are authentic, as the same rocks occur over a wide range in that part of the province. The rock is a characteristic slate and conglomerate. These deposits are only about eighty miles from one of the oldest known mineral deposits in North America, which is known as the Wright mine, and was discovered by the jesuits or early explorers on Lake Temiskaming in the very earliest days of Canada.

There have been rich deposits of silver discovered in Ontario in the past, but these were about 550 miles west of the cobalt deposits in the vicinity of Thunder Bay, Lake Superior. The best known of these was the Silver Islet Mine, from which over three million dollars in silver was taken.

POOR MAN'S DIGGINGS.

These Temiskaming deposits are what are termed poor man's diggings. No plant is necessary. The ore is near the surface, and all that is needed is to dig it out. Where there are two sets of deposits so wide apart as these at Haileybury and Thunder Bay, it is reasonable to suppose that there are other deposits in the intervening territory which has never been prospected. Cobalt is used largely in staining glass, especially for producing deep blue. Even the ancient Egyptians and Trojans used it for this purpose. It is also used for colouring pottery and porcelain. The metal is similar to nickel and can be used in steel the same as nickel. Its price, however, is so much higher than that of nickel, being five or six times as great, that at present it is not used in metallic form.

THE METAL OF DEFENCE.

Ontario is one of the two producers of nickel in the world, the other being the French penal colony of New Caledonia, but the industry at Sudbury is on a much sounder basis than that of Caledonia. This nickel may be called the metal of defence, since it is used in the alloy known as nickel steel for armor plate in all the navies of the world. Steel of this kind is also being employed where strength, wearing power and non-oxidizing steel is required. It is being used in certain parts of machinery where great strength is required, and in railroad rails in curves. There are also the older uses of it in plating and coinage. Nickel is used in the coinage of the United States, France, Austria, Belgium, Germany and Switzerland, and, now that Canada is to establish a mint, Mr. Miller thinks that we ought to have a nickel coin as a token of our wealth in this mineral. To within two or three years ago, Ontario was the only producer of refined arsenic in North America, and these later discoveries showed that we have large resources in this rare substance. Arsenic is used as an insecticide, in paints, and of late years it has been much used in the manufacture of plate glass. The old deposits in Europe are dying out, and these Ontario deposits will soon be very valuable. Associated with the arsenic, nickel, cobalt, and silver, is the rare metal bismuth, which is used in type metal.

and the rent of the offices of the Town Engineer and Tax Collector.

The report, which was accepted by the estimates of the year, was passed.

LEGAL COMMITTEE.

Ald. Scott presented the following report, which was adopted:—

Your Legal Committee beg leave to report that they considered the claim made by Messrs. Dennistoun, Peck, Kerr and Stevenson on behalf of Mrs. Jennie Armour for damages for injuries received by falling at the northeast corner of Hunter and Water Streets, on February 10th and recommend that no action be taken in the matter.

Since your Committee considered the matter a writ has been issued by the Plaintiff in this case which has been handed to the Town Solicitor to protect the Town's interests.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

NEW FIRE HALL.

Ald. Johnston presented the following report:—

Your Fire, Water and Light Committee beg leave to report and recommend as follows:—

1.—That a by-law by submitted to the qualified electors to authorize the issue of debentures for $25,000 to pay for the purchase of a site for and the erection of a Fire Hall and to pay for the improvement of the Fire Department by adding a fire alarm telegraph, a chemical engine, a new fire steamer, extension ladders and other appliances.

2.—That three incandescent lamps of 32 candle power in each be ordered to be placed on Euclid Ave., to be paid for at the rate of $12.00 a year each on the same terms as the arc lights, and also an arc light at the corner of Dalhousie and Stewart streets, and that the arc light at the corner of Rubidge and Dalhousie streets, be moved to the corner of Rubidge and Wolfe streets, and that the order be given for these to the Peterborough Light and Power Co., the lamps to be placed as directed by the Town Engineer.

3.—That the Peterborough Light and Power Co. be directed to place an arc street light in the vicinity of the corner of Reid and Smith streets at a point to be decided upon by the Chairman of this Committee and the Town Engineer.

4.—That the engagement of John Montgomery as driver in the Fire Hall be terminated on April 1st next, and that he be paid on that date and that the Chairman of this Committee be given authority to fill his place temporarily until an appointment is made.

The report was adopted.

Ald. Johnston called the attention of the Council to the state of the drain on Aylmer street and also Reid street from London north, where the surface water was doing considerable damage. He wanted the matter referred to the Board of Works, and moved in that direction, which was carried.

Ald. Tovey also called the attention of the Council to the condition of Rubidge street, which was at present almost impassable, rendered so partially by the construction of the sewer which made that street in such a condition that use of bicycles was impossible. He also referred to the necessity for a sidewalk south of the C.G.E. Works, and asked that the matter be taken up.

Ald. Begley stated that the box drain on Downie street was in a dangerous condition and should be attended to.

Ald. Hall moved that the Council advertise for tenders for a refuse ground, and that such a ground be secured.

The condition of the sidewalk on Park street near McDonel street railway track was referred to and the engineer will be instructed to have the matter attended to.

Ald. Mason moved that the Town Trust Commissioners be authorized to extinguish the balance owing by the town to the Commissioners in respect of two sums, of $3076.47, and $2081.76, in all $5758.43, by a credit and application of the same amount from the principal money in the hands of the Commissioners received from the Railway Mortgage dated 13th November 1857. It was carried.

Ald. Mason moved that the town solicitor be instructed to inquire into the authority under which the railway crossing on Lansdowne street was laid, and if it was laid without authority, to notify the railway company to remove it. This also was carried, after which the Council adjourned.

SPECIAL VESTRY MEETING RE RECTORY SITE

An Adjournment Till Next Wednesday Night.

Last night after the mid-week Lenten service at St. John's a special vestry meeting was held in the school house. The meeting, which was large, heard the report of the special committee appointed to consider the question of a site for the proposed new rectory. Two sites were discussed, but as the meeting did not seem to have a clear understanding of the topical nature of the matter it was decided to adjourn the meeting until next Wednesday evening in the same place and time—after the Wednesday evening service.

PETERBOROUGH'S NEW FIRE HALL BUILDING.

The Examiner Presents First Illustrations of the Proposed New Hall, Which Will Be Erected if the By-Law to be Voted on by the Ratepayers on May 4th is Carried --A Well-Equipped Building for Accommodation of Fire-Fighting Apparatus--Building and New Appliances to Cost $25,000---Stalls for Eight Horses and Quarters for Men Upstairs--New Steamer and Chemical Engine Proposed.

On this page the Examiner is able to present to its readers the first views of the Fire Hall which it is proposed to erect in Peterborough, and upon the bylaw to authorize the erection of which the ratepayers will vote on May 4th next..

It is probable that during the interval between now and May 4th, a public meeting will be held at which this question will be discussed and the citizens will be given an opportunity of informing themselves thoroughly upon the subject, so that they will be able to vote intelligently upon the bylaw.

It will be remembered that during 1904, the then chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, with the Chief of the Fire Department, and the Town Engineer, made a tour of inspection of the western cities with a view of ascertaining what would be the most practicable means of increasing the efficiency of the fire service.

RESULT OF INVESTIGATION.

As a result of their investigation, the Town Engineer prepared a plan of a fire hall which it was proposed to erect here, and in the preparation of this plan he was aided by the information which had been gained during their tour, in which they learned many valuable points with reference to fire hall construction and equipment.

The plans prepared at that time were not used because the bylaw authorizing the erection of the fire hall was defeated by the ratepayers, and as a matter of fact the matter has lain dormant until revived by Ald. Johnston, the energetic chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, who has been actively engaged in an effort to solve the problem of better fire protection.

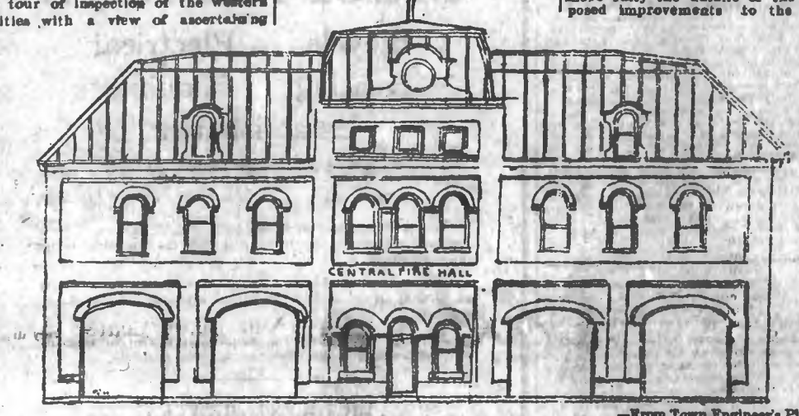
Recently the committee of which he is chairman, sanctioned the proposal to ask for the erection of a new fire hall, and after carefully going over the plans prepared last year it was thought that they could not be improved upon, and as a consequence the illustrations given on this page to-day are representations of the fire hall which will be erected, if the bylaw is carried on May 4th next.

A SUPERIOR BUILDING.

It is believed that this building will, in many points, be superior to that of any city visited by the deputation last year, for in each building they saw there were some good points, which were adopted, and some disadvantages, which were avoided in these plans, so that the committee feels that the proposed building is almost perfect.

Instead of being located at the corner of Aylmer and Hunter streets, as was the intention last year, it will be some distance below Hunter, on Aylmer, and will have 81 feet frontage on Aylmer street. It will be a two story structure with an attic, and, as the illustration shows, will be a handsome building and a credit to the town. At the rear a hose tower will be erected, which is not shown in the elevation illustrated here.

On the ground floor entrance to which will be obtained through four large double doors, as well as one single door, will be space for steam and chemical engines, hose wagon and ladder truck. In the centre on this floor will be an office for the Chief, and immediately to the rear of this will be room for the installation of the fire alarm system which it is proposed to purchase.



—From Town Engineer's Plans

Front Elevation of the Proposed New Fire Hall Facing on Aylmer Street.

INTERIOR ARRANGEMENTS.

Behind the engines and trucks, there will be eight horse stalls, with doors opening into the first hall, so that with the ringing of the alarm the doors will open automatically, and the horses will at once spring to their places.

The hose tower will be at the centre in the rear and will be entered through doors at the rear of the hall, so that the hose wagon will drive in to the hall, and stop in the tower, allowing the hose to be drawn up by a windlass, this arrangement being exclusive to Peterborough, and the wagon will then be taken to its proper place in the hall. This will do away with the necessity and inconvenience of backing the engines and wagons into the hall, as all of them may on returning from a fire, enter by the rear doors.

FIREMEN'S QUARTERS.

On the second floor will be quarters for the firemen, each in a separate room, with doors opening to a large hall, and the poles, upon which they can reach the hall below, is located just outside the doors of the rooms. The quarters for the firemen are fitted up very comfortably. Over the stable there is space for the storing of fodder for the horses.

The whole arrangement of the proposed building is one which those who have been instrumental in the preparation of the plans, believe is well adapted to the requirements of a fire hall, and it is confidently believed that it will commend itself to the ratepayers.

DIVISION OF THE MONEY.

The total amount asked for by the bylaw is $25,000 of which $12,100 is for the purchase of the lot, and the erection of the building, $10,000 being provided for the latter purpose, $3,000 for the purchase of a chemical engine and ladder, a similar amount for a fire alarm, and $5,000 for a new steam fire engine, which will leave a sufficient amount for emergency purposes, and still keep within the limit of $25,000. It is proposed to dispose of the present steam engine, as it is thought that it is not capable of doing the hard work which would be required of it if a big fire broke out here.

It is probable that at the public meeting to be held in the near future, Ald. Johnston will explain more fully the details of the proposed improvements to the fire-fighting equipment as represented by the new hall and its equipment.

The erection of the fire hall, if the ratepayers approve of the proposal, will probably be placed in charge of an architect, as Mr. Hay, the Town Engineer, is so busily engaged with other town business that it will be impossible for him to give the time necessary to superintend its construction.

Mr. Blackwell has been consulted by Ald. Johnston with reference to the plans and it is probable that to him will be entrusted the supervision of the new structure.

It is the intention to commence construction work as soon as the bylaw has been passed, and it is expected that it will be ready for occupancy by this fall.

REV. H. B. A. KETCHEN DECIDES TO REMAIN

Will Stay in Peterborough as Assistant Pastor of St. Paul's Church--A Telegram was Received Yesterday Afternoon Conveying the Acceptance of the Offer--Now Permanently Engaged at St. Paul's Church--Statement Published on the Authority of Rev. Dr. Torrance.

A telegram was received from Rev. H. B. A. Ketchen, B.A., yesterday from London, Ont., where he has been for the last few days, stating that he had decided to remain in Peterborough, as assistant pastor of St. Paul's Church.

The committee in charge of the matter of procuring an assistant pastor has been waiting for some days for Mr. Ketchen's final answer, which he promised them a few days

On Tuesday he wired, asking one more day in which to decide, and yesterday afternoon the pleasing word was received that he would accept as a permanent engagement the assistant pastorate of St. Paul's.

The committee held a session this morning, but at its conclusion stated that they had nothing for publication.

It was learned from Rev. Dr. Torrance, however, that the message which was received yesterday was one accepting the position offered.

IS THE PLUMBING BY-LAW SHELVED?

The council seems to persist in trifling with the matter of a plumbing bylaw. Following on the action in passing a bylaw to appoint an inspector in plumbing, and the rescinding of this bylaw, comes — what? Absolute silence. Ald. Johnston last night very naturally asked what was being done about a plumbing bylaw, and received no answer. A proper plumbing bylaw and the appointment of a competent inspector, are the most important matters, which can engage the attention of the council, and should receive prompt attention. There promises to be a brisk building season in Peterborough. As an example, one local architect could not promise to have a plan prepared for a certain date, because he had commissions for thirty-five other plans in advance. Is the plumbing in all these buildings, in addition to that in charge of other architects, to be done without proper inspection? Why should there be this delay? The matter has been too long postponed already and the lives and health of citizens imperilled by the neglect of their civic representatives.

MR. CAMERON'S NARROW ESCAPE

Was Almost Asphyxiated Yesterday Afternoon.

Gas Escaping From the Stove Pipes. Was Almost Cause of Death.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Duncan Cameron, the tailor, whose rooms are situated in the Oak Hall, had a very narrow escape from death by asphyxiation and it was only by an accident that fatal results were averted.

Mr. Cameron was sitting at work in his rooms as usual yesterday, with his window open, and the transom over the door also open.

He commenced to cough, and, thinking the draught made by the two openings was causing him to catch cold, he closed both windows. He still continued to feel very ill and as if he were suffocating. A desire to lie down seized him, and just as he was about to collapse Mrs. Geo. Hall happened to enter the room and at once saw that Mr. Cameron was very ill. She also noticed a strong odor of coal gas, and guessed the cause of his illness. She helped him out of the door into the hall and went to Nugent's drug store for restoratives. After considerable time Mr. Cameron was able to be conveyed to his home, where he is now confined, and is still very weak. It will be some days before he will have fully recovered.

The coal gas, the escape of which was responsible for Mr. Cameron's serious condition, presumably came from the pipes in the room in which Mr. Cameron was working, as it is said they were not tight. Mr. Cameron was so busily engaged with his work that he did not notice the gas escaping, and did not know what was the cause of his feeling so ill.

It is an extremely circumstance that Mrs. Hall happened to come in when she did, or the result would undoubtedly have been fatal.

An Evening with Dickens—Rev. Mr. Ketchen and Sheriff Hall at St. Paul's Mission, Thursday, March 30th. Mrs. E. Kardley Wilmot and Mr. Jos. Legg will sing. Tickets 15 cents, on sale at Madill's Drug Store.

VERY PRETTY SOCIAL EVENT

Miss Lillie Armstrong Married to Mr. R. A. Garbutt

"Cherry Grove" the Scene of a Most Interesting Wedding.

Yesterday afternoon, at "Cherry Grove," the residence of Mr. James G. Armstrong, a very pretty wedding ceremony took place, when his only daughter, Lillie, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Robert A. Garbutt, youngest son of Mr. John Garbutt, in the presence of about forty friends of the bride and groom.

The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. J. W. Burner, pastor of the Bridgenorth Methodist church church, in the beautifully decorated drawing room.

The bride, who was attended by Miss Carrie Trembeth, of Port Hope, was very tastefully attired in a handsomely made gown of champagne voile trimmed with silk applique and medallions, and carried white roses. She wore the conventional bridal veil.

The bridesmaid was dressed in brown silk and carried pink roses.

Mr. H. C. Mann, of Fenelon Falls, cousin of the groom, was best man.

After the wedding a dainty dinner was served to the guests by Mr. H. Long of Peterborough, and the health of the bride was proposed by Rev. W. J. Burner in a happy speech and responded to by the groom.

The presents to the bride were handsome and in almost endless variety, among them being a cheque from her father for $500.

It is an interesting fact to recall that among the numerous guests present was the grandfather of the bride, Mr. Wm. Armstrong, of Otonabee, who 52 years ago, on April 2nd, was married in the same room. He would have liked to have had his granddaughter's wedding on the anniversary of his own wedding day, but of course since it came on Sunday, that was impossible.

Mr. and Mrs. Garbutt left yesterday afternoon on the 5.10 train for a trip to Toronto, Buffalo, Detroit, and New York, and on their return will reside at "Brookside," lot 18, con. 3, Smith. Both young persons are well known in Smith as well as in Peterborough, and start out on their married life with the best wishes of their numerous friends.

Miss Charlotte English, cousin of the bride, of Peterborough, was among the guests.

The Coming Visit of the English Opera Singers.

Among the artists comprising these opera singers is Miss Edith Serpell. She is reported as possessing one of the richest and purest voices of the English concert singers. Her numbers are rendered with a daintiness and charm that make her a prime favourite on all occasions. She has contributed to the programmes of the St. James' Hall ballad concerts regularly since 1891, and will not therefore be unknown in name. The motto of this excellent combination reads — "Let us have fun with music, but both must be good." Good music well done, good fun properly handled, pretty costumes to colour both, certainly seem to be a very inviting entertainment. Plan opens at Ormond & Walsh's on Monday morning, April 3rd, at ten o'clock. 1d

MR. KINGDON WILL REBUILD

Has Made a Satisfactory Settlement With Insurance Companies

Cheese Box Factory Will Soon be in Operation Again—Mr. Kingdon Encouraged by Sympathy.

It is a pleasure to be able to state that Mr. George Kingdon, whose factory was destroyed by fire a few days ago, has made satisfactory settlements with the insurance companies and is now at work clearing the way for a new factory, which he will put up without delay.

Mr. Kingdon though hit hard, has been so encouraged by the prompt and satisfactory settlement with the insurance companies and by the sympathy and encouragement of the community that he feels justified in making a strong effort to hold his business which has been constantly growing. He thanks his old patrons and assures them that they will not be long kept out of his goods for he has stock now at the station and will get his machinery and hands at work forthwith.

LANG AND MAHER WERE THE HOSTS

T. A. S. Team Banquetted at McCallum's Last Night

Event was Most Enjoyable—Oratorical Fireworks Indulged in.

Twenty-two delighted guests graced the festive "mahogany" at McCallum's restaurant last night at the oyster supper tendered the T. A. S. hockey team, winners in the City League, by Messrs. Lang & Maher. The memory of the pleasant evening spent will not soon fade from the minds of those who enjoyed the hospitality and kindness of their hosts.

The affair was the culmination of a proposal made by Messrs. Lang & Maher, at the commencement of the season, at the time of the formation of the League, when they made a most generous offer to donate the supper to the winning team. Too much cannot be said in commendation of the spirit displayed by the firm in their effort to encourage true sport by adding a stimulus to the development of material amongst the younger players throughout the town. Their generous public spirit, and without expectation of recompense, will, however, be at least partially rewarded by the deep feeling of appreciation which their kindness has aroused amongst the boys. In the whole realm of sport, the donors could not perhaps have chosen a more worthy object for their assistance than that of the work of the City League, which has amply justified its existence, if for no other reason than the bringing out of the excellent new material amongst the younger players, which, as was remarked by a speaker last night, can fall at a later day to find a place amongst the fastest.

The following guests were present last night: G. Maher, Wm. Martin, F. Clancy, Wm. Meagher, J. Kenealley, L. Derocher, T. McGrath, W. Rose, G. Stark, J. E. Sullivan, Jos. Maher, J. Aagleney, M. Brand, F. O'Connor, W. Gross, J. T. C. Lang, J. A. Sharp, D. Holland, T. DeForge, A. Doris, and the representatives of the press.

The supper was a most excellent one and reflected great credit upon the caterer, Mr. W. J. McCallum.

After the feast of material good things, followed a "feast of reason and a flow of soul," the short informal toast list which was proceeded with bringing out some oratorical flights which were truly Demosthenean.

Mr. J. T. C. Lang filled the somewhat arduous position of toast master in a most creditable manner. The toast to the King was honoured in the usual manner, and was followed by a song given with splendid effect by Mr. F. Clancy.

The toast to the City League brought responses from Messrs. Sharp and Holland. Mr. Sharp in a few happy remarks spoke of the excellent work which had been accomplished during the past season by the City League, and referred briefly to the spirit of good-will which prevailed amongst the several teams in the League. Mr. Holland expressed his gratification at being able to avail himself of the hospitality of Messrs. Lang & Maher, and also commented upon many excellent features of the past season's work in the City League.

The "T.A.S. Hockey Team," brought Mr. Meagher to his feet. The speaker referred to the admirable and pleasant relations existing between the competing teams. He closed by proposing an additional toast that to "Our Sister Teams," which after being honoured in a most hearty manner, was responded to by Mr. Aagleeye, of the Colonials; Mr. O'Connor, of the Farriers; Mr. Gross, of the Kerrons, and Mr. Brand, of the Earl Greys.

To Messrs. Doris, Sullivan and Martin fell the pleasant duty of responding to "The Ladies." Mr. Doris made a most felicitous reply, illustrated by several happy allusions, and anecdotes narrated in his inimitable style, which brought down the house. Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Martin referred to the large attendance of the fair sex at the games throughout the season, and of the added enthusiasm and charm lent by their presence.

"Our Hosts" brought a most happy reply from Mr. Jas. Maher, who spoke of the great pleasure it afforded him to assist in furthering the cause of clean sport, and expressed his pleasure at the most excellent and sportsmanlike character of the hockey played in the city league in the past season, observing that the boys had learned to prefer an honourable defeat to an unclean victory. This spirit was most commendable, and would, he trusted, be evinced in future as in the past season. Mr. J. T. C. Lang also added a few words expressing his pleasure at the satisfactory termination of the season's play. He thought it much better to develop amateurs in all lines of sport than to lend assistance to professionalism.

"The Press" was responded to by the representatives present.

The toast list was pleasingly interspersed with songs and anecdotes by Messrs. Rose, Derocher, Meagher, Brand and others. An evening, for the pleasures of which, Messrs. Lang & Maher will be long and gratefully remembered, was brought to a close by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

BUSINESS MEN 'S GYMNASIUM CLASS

Close of Season Luncheon Will be Held Tonight.

The Business Men's Gymnasium Class at the Y.M.C.A. closes its season's work this evening with a luncheon at Long's Palm Garden. Some twenty of the most prominent business and professional men will gather together. Reminiscences and impromptu addresses will be the order of the evening. Mr. K. Eardley-Wilmot will preside. This will be a very fitting way to close the season's successful work, and it will also act as a stimulus for reorganization again next year.

MULOCK REPLIES TO G. A. FOSTER

Keen Debate On the Autonomy Bills At Ottawa.

SIR WILLIAM'S ARGUMENT.

The Dominion Creates the Rights of Provinces, and the Invariable Rule is to Perpetuate Conditions Existing When Provincial Status is Granted—Some Very Personal References.

Ottawa, March 30.—Two more of the leaders of Parliamentary debate addressed the House yesterday on the autonomy bills, Hon. Geo. E. Foster for the Opposition and Sir William Mulock for the Government, and presented some new material from the standpoint of each side. It was in a sense a duel, for Mr. Foster, who spoke first, paid his respects to the Postmaster-General and to the other Ministers, while Sir William took full advantage of his opportunity and laid Mr. Foster's record bare in a few unfinished spots.

Foster Keen and Critical.

Mr. Foster was in a distinctly keen, critical mood and touched the case generally with a light hand. He unhesitatingly opposed the educational clause of the bill on the ground of Provincial rights, and defended his own support of the remedial bill in 1896 as a measure in accordance with the constitution and one which had to be supported, even though the Conservative party took their political lives in their hands.

An Abandoning Politician.

Sir William Mulock, replying to Mr. Foster in kind, accused him of having abandoned his political principles—first, his political independence to get into the Cabinet; second, prohibition, in order to stay there; and later he had abandoned his loyalty to his chief. He told Mr. Foster he should discard his hypocritical garb and cease to give lectures on principles of political morality. On the constitutional ground he argued at length that the new Provinces had no Provincial rights except what they got from the Dominion when they were created, therefore the act of the Dominion was not an invasion of their rights. Mr. Lancaster also spoke. Mr. L. P. Demers moved the adjournment of the debate.

Mr. Gervais introduced a bill to amend the Canada Temperance act by providing for an appeal from a conviction under that act.

Government Taking Mondays.

The motion standing in the Premier's name, that from this date to the end of the session Government orders should have precedence on Mondays immediately after private bills and questions by members, was carried.

Mr. Bourassa asked if the Prime Minister could give any information respecting the filling of the vacant portfolio of the Interior.

"Not to-day," replied Sir Wilfrid.

"To-morrow?" persisted Mr. Bourassa.

"Some time," the Premier replied, smiling.

Drowsiness After Meals

A PERSISTENT SYMPTOM OF NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA—CURE IS OBTAINED BY USE OF

Dr. Chases Nerve Food

Many a sufferer from chronic dyspepsia dates his ailment from the time he began to feel drowsiness after meals."

The blood is weak and there is not sufficient nerve force to carry on the work of digestion and supply the vital force required for mental and physical activity.

Headache, dizzy spells, defective memory, inability to concentrate the mind, brain fag, irritability of temper, nervousness and sleeplessness are the resulting symptoms.

Owing to defective digestion the body is not deriving proper nourishment from the food, and some other method of obtaining strength must be employed.

In Dr. Chase's Nerve Food the most effective blood building and nerve restoring elements of nature are contained in condensed form, so as to be easily taken into the blood.

Under this treatment you soon find that the appetite is sharpened, digestion improved and the vitality of mind and body greatly increased.

It takes time to thoroughly cure dyspepsia and its accompanying symptoms, but you can be certain that each dose of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is of some benefit to you, and that the cure will be complete and lasting.

Mr. William Lee, retired carpenter, 710 George street, Peterborough, Ont., says:

"For many months I was not in good health. My system seemed to be run down. I was troubled a good deal with indigestion, and suffered from headache and liver disorders. I have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and am pleased to state that I found both of these preparations exceedingly beneficial. In fact I can confidently say that they have done me a lasting good, and I cannot praise them too highly."

MR. PRESTON'S SPEECH.

Demonstrates That the Old Government Was on Guard Respecting Ontario Boundary Extension.

Toronto, March 30.—The session of the Legislature was quite brief yesterday afternoon, the debate on the address being continued by one speaker on either side of the House. Mr. Preston, for the Opposition, would not permit the Government to claim credit for the proposed boundary extension of Ontario, a matter which had been taken up by Mr. Hardy and continued by Mr. Ross. He thought the Government should at least make a trial of the policy of keeping new Ontario free of liquor licenses.

Favors Woman Suffrage.

Dr. Smellie was not very well heard. He criticised the educational policy, which neglected essentials for accomplishments. Woman's suffrage found its earliest exponent this session in Dr. Smellie, whose address was marked with a pleasant humor and possessed a literary flavor.

Minor Amendments to Liquor Act.

Hon. Mr. Hanna, in reply to Mr. Harcourt, said: "It is the intention of the Government to introduce at this session some minor amendments to the act respecting the sale of fermented and spirituous liquors."

An American Expert.

Hon. Mr. Hanna, replying to Mr. Smith (Sault Ste. Marie), said: "The services of L. E. Thorne have been engaged for a temporary period for special work for which he is specially qualified. It includes a report on the various industries carried on at the Central Prison, and the installment of a system of accounting by the various institutions in the Provincial Secretary's Department, whereby the Minister in charge will have a comparative monthly statement covering the work of the department, and the cost thereof classified under the various heads of expenditure. Mr. Thorne resides at the City of Port Huron. He is auditor for the Port Huron Engine & Thresher Co. of Winnipeg, and other companies associated with them in the manufacture and sale of agricultural implements and threshing machinery. The system that is being installed can readily be carried on by the present staff."

Mr. Hanna added, for the benefit of some newspapers which were disturbed about the matter, that Mr. Thorne was not and never had been in the employment of the Standard Oil Co.

Want Free Land.

A deputation from Widdifield, Nipissing District, asked Hon. J. J. Foy yesterday that the land of that township be handed out by free grants, instead of at 50 cents per acre, as formerly. This method, they thought, would stimulate immigration. The usual promise of consideration was given.

Natives Kill Eleven Germans.

Berlin, March 30.—An official despatch from Windhoek (German Southwest Africa) yesterday announced that 11 men of Kerchner's detachment were killed and 22 were wounded in a fight with insurgent natives March 11, at Keetmanshoop.

Disorder in Spain.

Madrid, March 30.—A Socialist demonstration at the funeral of a woman who was accidentally killed led to serious disorder's yesterday, in which a lieutenant and several members of a municipal guard were wounded.

Queen Visits Gibraltar.

Gibraltar, March 29.—The British Royal yacht Victoria and Albert, with Queen Alexandra and party on board, entered the bay here yesterday amid the thunder of salutes from the Atlantic fleet, all the vessels of which were dressed with flags and manned with cheering blue jackets. This is the first time a Queen of England has visited Gibraltar in the history of the famous rock. The Queen returned to the Royal yacht at 6.30 p. m. A state banquet was given last night aboard the yacht.

Dates of the Nominations and Election in Centre Toronto.

Ottawa, March 29.—(Globe special).—The writ for Centre Toronto was issued last night. Nominations are on April 11th and polling a week later. Mr. Peter Ryan is the returning officer. The Liberal Executive will meet this evening to receive Mr. T. C. Robinette's reply to the invitation to run as a Liberal candidate. Mr. Edmund Bristol will probably be the Conservative standard-bearer. Mr. Robinette was in the city yesterday, and said he had not made up his mind. There is little doubt, however, but that he will accept.

True Bill Against Loney.

Cornwall, March 28.—The grand jury at the spring Assizes in session here yesterday brought in a "true bill" against Allan Loney, the Maxville hockey player, on a charge of manslaughter. Loney is the young man who is held for the death of Alcide Laurin in a hockey match at Maxville on February 24. At the preliminary investigation Loney was committed on a charge of "murder," but the Crown Attorney determined to change the charge to "manslaughter." Loney was arraigned last evening and pleaded not guilty. His trial will open at 9 a. m. to-day.

Jury Cannot Agree.

Ottawa, March 28.—The jury in the murder trial in Hull, in which Hugh McMillan, shantyman, is charged with killing Oscar Lauzon, retired yesterday afternoon and returned in 40 minutes with the announcement that they could not agree. Judge Rochon sent them back again, and locked them up for the night. If they do not agree by morning, McMillan will likely be liberated on bail to await a new trial.

Threw Switch to Wreck Train.

Clarksville, Tenn., March 28.—Four men were killed yesterday when a string of freight cars running wild on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad crashed into a freight train near here. It is thought by railroad men that the switch had been thrown for the purpose of wrecking a fast passenger train.

Government Steamer Ashore.

Halifax, March 28.—The Dominion Government steamer Minto ran ashore four miles from Georgetown, P. E. I., Sunday. The Stanley, at Pictou, was ordered to her assistance and left without unloading cargo. No particulars have been received as to her chances of getting off.

Found Guilty.

Toronto, March 28.—Yesterday afternoon Fred McAllister was found guilty of shooting at Roy Isbister with intent to do grievous bodily harm, and he will be sentenced to-day by Chief Justice Meredith.

Local Option Defeated.

Southampton, March 28.—The local option bylaw for the Town of Southampton was voted on yesterday with the following results: For 197; against 212. Majority against the bylaw 15.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

contains all the lung-healing virtues of the pine tree, and is a sure cure for Coughs, Colds, and all throat and lung troubles. Miss Bertha E. Craig, Almont, Ont., says:—"Last fall, for over two months, I had a very bad cold, and although I tried several remedies, it seemed as if I was getting worse instead of better. While looking over the Burdock Blood Bitters Almanac, I read about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and decided to give it a trial. When I had used about half a bottle, I found it was doing me good, so kept on until I had taken two bottles. It is the best cure for a cold I ever heard of."

CHAPTER IX.

I KNOW not how Captain Calvin Tabor managed his part to transship those goods without discovery, but he had a shrewd head, and no doubt the captain of the Earl of Fairfax mother, and by 8 o'clock that May day the Golden Horn lay at her wharf discharging her cargo right lustily with such openness of zeal and shouts of encouragement and groans of labor 'twas enough to acquaint all the colony. And straightway to the great house they brought my Lady Culpeper's fallals and clamped them in the hall where we were all at supper. Mistress Mary sprang to her feet and ran to them and bent over them. "What are these?" she said, all in a quiver.

"The goods which you ordered, madam," spoke up one of the sailors, with a grin which he had copied from Captain Tabor, and pulled a forelock and ducked his head.

"The goods," said she, speaking faintly, for hers was rather the headlong course of enthusiasm than the secret windings of diplomacy.

"Art thou gone daft, sweetheart? The goods of which you gave the list this morning, which have but now come in on the Golden Horn," spake up Catherine sharply.

Madam Cavendish was at table that night, though moving with grimaces from the stiffness of her rheumatic joints, and she ordered that the sailors be given cider, the which they drank with some haste and were gone. Then Madam Cavendish asked Mistress Mary, with her wonderful keenness of gaze, which I never saw excelled, "Are those the goods which you ordered by the Golden Horn?" But I answered for her, knowing that Madam Cavendish would pardon such presumption from me. "Madam, those are the goods. I have it from Captain Calvin Tabor himself."

Mistress Mary gave a little gasp and looked at me and looked at her sister Catherine, and well I knew it was on the tip of her tongue to out with the whole to her grandmother. And so she would doubtless have done had not her wonderment and suspicion that maybe in some wise Catherine had conspired to buy for her in England the goods of which she had cheated herself and the terror of doing harm to her sister and me. But never saw I a maid go so white and red and make the strife within her so evident.

We were well nigh through supper when the goods arrived, and Madam Cavendish ordered some of the slaves to open the cases, which they did forthwith, and all my Lady Culpeper's finery was displayed.

Never saw I such a rich assortment, and, calling to mind my Lady Culpeper's thin and sour visage, I wondered within myself whether such fine feathers might in her case suffice to make a fine bird, though some of them were for her daughter Cate, who was fair enough. Nothing would do but Mistress Mary, with her lovely face still strange to see with her consternation of puzzlement, should severally display every piece to her grandmother and hold against her complexion the rich stuffs to see if the colors suited her.

Madam Cavendish was pleased to express her satisfaction with them all, though with some demur at the extravagance. "'Tis rich enough a wardrobe for my Lady Culpeper," said she, at which innocent shrewdness I was driven to hard straits to keep my face grave, but Mistress Catherine was looking on with a countenance as calm as the moon which was just then rising.

Madam Cavendish was pleased especially with one gown of a sky color, shot with silver threads, and ordered that Mistress Mary should wear it to the ball which was to be given at the governor's house the next night.

When I heard that I started, and Catherine shot a pale glance of consternation at me, but Mistress Mary flushed rosy red with rebellion.

"I have no desire to attend my Lord Culpeper's ball, madam," said she.

"Lord Culpeper is the representative of his majesty here in Virginia," said Madam Cavendish, with a high head, "and no granddaughter of mine absents herself with my approval. To the ball you go, madam, and in that sky colored gown, and no more words. Things have come to a pretty pass." So saying, she arose and, leaning heavily on her stick, with her black maid propping her, she went out. Then turned Mistress Mary imperiously to us and demanded to know the meaning of it all. "Whence came these goods?" said she to Catherine.

"On the Golden Horn, sweetheart; 'tis the list you gave this morning," replied Catherine, without a change in the fair resolve of her face.

"Pish!" cried Mary Cavendish. "The list I gave this morning was my Lady Culpeper's, and you know it. Whence came these?" And she spurned at a heap of the rich gleaming things with the toe of her tiny foot.

"I tell you, sweetheart, on the Golden Horn," replied Catherine. Then Mary turned to me in a rage. "The truth I will have," she cried out. "Whence came these goods?"

"On the Golden Horn, madam," I said.

She stamped her foot, and her voice rang so shrill that the black slaves, carrying out the dishes, rolled alarmed eyes at her. "Think you I will be treated like a child?" she cried out. "What means all this?"

Then close to her went Catherine and flung an arm around her and leaned her smooth fair head against her sister's tossing golden one. "For the sake of those you love and who love thee, sweetheart," she whispered.

But Mistress Mary pushed her away and looked at her angrily. "Well, what am I to do for their sakes?" she demanded.

"Seek to know no more than this. The goods came on the Golden Horn but now, and 'tis the list you gave this morning."

"But it was not my list, and I deceived my grandmother, and I will go to her now and out with the truth. Think you I will have such a falsehood on my soul?"

Catherine leaned closer to her and whispered, and Mary gave a quick, wild glance at me, but I knew not what she said. "I pray thee seek to know no more than that the goods came but now in a boat from the Golden Horn, and 'tis the list you gave this morning," said Catherine aloud.

"They are not mine by right, and well you know it." Then a thought struck me, and I said, with emphasis, "Madam, yours by right they are and shall be, and I pray you to have no more concern in the matter."

Then, so saying, I hastened out and went through the moonlight to the wharf to seek Captain Tabor and the captain of the Earl of Fairfax, who had come with his goods to see to their safety. Both men were pacing back and forth, smoking long pipes, and Captain Watson of the Earl of Fairfax, a small and eager spoken man, turned on me the minute I came within hearing. "Where be my Lady Culpeper's goods?" said he. "'Tis time they were here and I on my way to the ship. Devil take me if I run such a risk again for any man."

Then I made my errand known. I had some fifty pounds saved up from the wreck of my fortunes; 'twas a third more than the goods were worth. Would he but take it, pay the London merchant who had furnished them, and have the remainder for his trouble?

"Trouble, trouble!" he shouted out. "Trouble! By all the foul fiends, man, what am I to say to my Lady Culpeper? Have you ever had speech with her that you propose such a game with her?"

Captain Tabor burst out with a loud guffaw of laughter. "You have not seen the maid for whom you run the risk, Dick," said he. "'Tis the fairest"—

"What care I for fair maids?" demanded the other. "Have I not a wife and seven little ones in old England? What think you a dimple or a bright eye hath of weight with me?"

"Time was, Dick," laughed Captain Tabor.

"Time that was no longer is," answered the other crossly; then to me "Send down my goods by some of the black fellows, and no more parleying, sir."

"But, sir," I said, "'twill be a good fifteen pounds for Mistress Watson and the little ones when the merchant be paid."

"Go to," he growled out, "what will that avail if I be put in prison? What am I to say to my Lady Culpeper for the nondeliverment of her goods? Answer me that." Then came Captain Tabor to my aid with his merry shrewdness. "'Tis as easy as the nose on thy face, Dick," said he. "Say but to my lady that you have searched and the goods be not in the hold of the Earl of Fairfax, and must have miscarried, as faith they have, and say that next voyage you will deliver them and hold thyself responsible for the cost, as you well can afford with Master Wingfield's money."

"Hast ever heard my Lady Culpeper's tongue?" demanded the other. "'Tis easy to advise. Would you face her thyself without the goods in hand, Calvin Tabor?"

"Faith, and I'd face a dozen like her for fifteen pounds," declared Captain Tabor. Then, with another great laugh, "I have it; send thy mate, send thy deaf mate, Jack Tarbox, man."

"But she will demand to see the captain."

"Faith, and the captain will be on board the Earl of Fairfax seeing to a leak which she hath sprung and cannot leave her," said Tabor.

"But in two days' time the governor sails in my ship for England."

"Think ye the governor will concern himself about my lady's adornments when he be headed for England and out of reach of her complaints?"

"But how to dodge her for so long?"

"Dick," said the other solemnly, "much I have it in mind that a case of fever will break out upon the Earl of Fairfax by tomorrow or next day."

"Then think you that my lady will allow her lord the governor to sail?"

"Dick," laughed Captain Tabor, "governors be great men and you but a poor sailor, but when it comes to coin in wifely value thy weight in the heart of thy good Bridget would send the governor of Virginia higher than thy masthead. None but my Lady Culpeper need have hint of the fever."

"I have a sailor ailing," said the other doubtfully, "but he hath no sign of fever."

"'Tis enough," cried the other gayly. "His fever will rage in twelve hours enough to beat the 'tween decks."

"But," cried Captain Watson, speaking angrily and yet with a certain timidity, as men will do before a scoffing friend and their own accusing conscience, "you ask me to forswear myself."

"Nay, that I will not," cried the other. "By the Lord, I forgot thy conscience, good Dick. Well, I have enough from my ancestors of Plymouth to forswear and forswear again and yet have some to spare. I—I will go to my Lady Culpeper with the tale and save thy soul thy scruples and thy ears the melody of her tongue. I will acquaint her with the miscarriage of the goods and whisper of the sick sailor, and all thou hast to do is to loiter about Jamestown, keeping thy Bridget well in mind the while, and load thy ship with the produce of the soil which the beggars of Virginia give of their loyalty to his majesty King Charles, and then to take on board my Lord Culpeper and set sail."

"'Tis a fearful risk," groaned the other. "Though I am a poor man, and I will admit that my Bridget"—

"'Tis a fearful risk for you, Captain Tabor, and through you for my mistress," I interrupted, for I did not half like the plan.

"Our ships lay alongside, and I am hailed by a brother mariner in distress both at the prospect of the displeasure of a great and noble lady and the suspicion of his honesty, but for that latter will I vouch with my own and if needs be will give surety that the list of goods which she offered shall be delivered next voyage," said Calvin Tabor.

"Her tongue, you know not her tongue," groaned the other.

"Even that will I dare for thee, Dick, for thee and that fair little maid who is dabbling her pretty fingers in that steaming pudding with which only the tough ones of a man should meddle," said Captain Tabor. "And as for risk for me, my sailor men be as much in the toils for Sabbath breaking as their captain, should yesterday's work leak out, and not a man of them knoweth the contents of those cases, though, faith, and I heard them marveling among themselves at the weight of feathers and silken petticoats, and I made port in the nighttime before, and not a soul knew of it nor the unlading save those which be bound to keep the secret for their own necks, and, and—well, Captain Tabor be not averse to somewhat of risk. It gives a savor to life." So saying he rolled his bright blue eyes at me and Captain Watson with such utter good nature and daredevilry as I have never seen equaled.

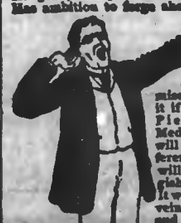
DO YOU FEEL THIS WAY.

Do you feel all tired out? Do you sometimes think you just can't work away at your profession or trade any longer? Do you have a poor appetite, and lay awake at nights unable to sleep? Are your nerves all gone, and your stomach too? Has ambition to forge ahead left you? If so, you might as well put a stop to your misery. You can do it if you will. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will make you a different individual. It will set your sluggish liver to work. It will get into every vein in your body and purify your blood. It will set things right in your stomach, and your appetite will come back. If there is any tendency in your family toward consumption, it will keep that dread destroyer away. Even after consumption has almost gained a foothold in the form of a lingering cough, bronchitis, or bleeding at the lungs, it will bring about speedy cure in 98 per cent. of all cases. It is a remedy prepared by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., whose advice is given free to all who wish to write him. His great success has come from his wide experience and varied practice.



C. A. Copenhaver, Esq., of Mount Union, Huntingdon Co., Pa. (Box 22), writes: "About twelve years ago I was suddenly taken with a pain in the pit of the stomach which was so violent I could not walk straight. It would grow more severe until it caused vomiting and vomiting of a slimy yellow water. A physician told me I had a form of dyspepsia and treated me for about six months with but little benefit. Another physician told me my liver was out of order and that I had indigestion. He gave me a treatment and I got some better but only for a short time. I then tried another one, who said I had chronic indigestion, ulceration of the lining of the stomach, torpid liver and kidney affection. He treated me for more than a year and I felt much better, but it did not last. I then took to using several widely advertised patent medicines, but received no more than temporary relief. I then tried Dr. Pierce's medicines, using his 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and the 'Pleasant Pellets,' and in two months' time I was feeling better than I had for years before."

Don't be wheedled by a penny-grabbing dealer into taking inferior substitutes for Dr. Pierce's medicines, recommended to be "just as good."

ONE BOX OF DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED DROPSY.

Dropsy is not a disease in itself, as many people believe, but is an evidence of very severe kidney trouble. Dropsy is caused by watery particles oozing through the walls of the arteries when they are distended by unusual pressure, which can only be caused by obstructions in the kidneys. The symptoms of Dropsy are puffiness under the eyes, swelling of the feet and ankles, urine changed in character and appearance, smothering feeling from exertion or excitement. The only rational method of treating this disease is to reach the kidneys and restore them to a healthy condition.

The most successful remedy for this purpose is Doan's Kidney Pills. Read what Miss Agnes Crealman, Upper Smithville, N.S., says of them:—"I caught a cold, which settled in my kidneys, and turned to dropsy. My face, limbs, and feet became bloated, and if I pressed my finger on them it would make a white impression that would last fully a minute before the flesh regained its natural color. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and found by their use that I was cured in a very short time. I have never had any trouble with it since.

LENTEN LECTURES IN TWO CHURCHES

Rev. J. A. Fidler Jr. M.A. at St John's Last Night

Rev. W. R. Tandy, M. A. Speaks in St. Luke's.

ST. JOHN'S.

Rev. J. A. Fidler, Jr., M.A., of Cobourg delivered the third Lenten lecture in St. John's last night, before a large congregation. His subject was "The Power of an Individual." She did what she could." In the words chosen to illustrate her loving devotion of the body of her Saviour. These words referred to the unknown woman whose ointment, were a comparatively small sum which could be applied to the wants of the great ones of earth for the performance of great deeds, great in the eyes of men and angels. This incident suggests a question whether we were content with our individual lives, were individually doing all in our power for the welfare of those around us, were doing what we can to make the world the beauty spot it might be. Are we doing our duty in the midst of temptation and opposition to refrain from it? Are we doing all we can in this world for the glory of God and for the benefit of our fellowmen? Were parents doing their very best to hand down to their children the highest heritage—a good example? Are we making the most of our powers, our opportunities, our influence? We are not living up to the standard of the home of Bethany, because we are not doing all that as we could do, and ended by doing only what we could do, and beyond that we have no responsibilities. Our aspirations and good intentions avail with God unless they result in a life of good deeds day by day and week by week. John Howard made a great work of prison reform and is quoted as an example of one who lifted himself up to the level of the Bethany woman—"She did what she could." The power of the immortal soul was incarnate in the Son of God, who gave us the perfect example of doing all in the power. Look at the opportunities to do the best we can in the midst of the great deficiencies of the present day—there was no excuse for being decided that Mary was right in refraining from doing the right thing because the greatest gifts of unselfishness were by nothing to the deeds done by many in humble life, who did what they can in a humble way. The church would be gloriously beautified if every member of the church and church organization followed the example of Mary of Bethany, who did what she could, and thus set forth a typical example of the power of the individual soul.

ST. LUKE'S.

Rev. W. R. Tandy delivered the address at St. Luke's, which is in type, but has to be held till to-morrow's issue for lack of space.

BILLIARDS IS DESIRABLE GAME

So the Debating Society of the Y.M.C.A. Decides

Interesting Programme at Last Night's Meeting of the Society.

Recognizing the need of many indoor sports for senior members of the Y. M. C. A. the subject for last night's debate at the meeting of the Debating Society was, Resolved, "That Billiards is Beneficial to the Social Life of Religious Institutions."

The roll call was responded to by quotations—and some gems of thought were elicited.

"Current Events" was ably treated by Mr. P. K. Holmes, and it was wished that the improvements which was spoken of at the Post Office would have been included.

Mr. George Armstrong gave a short talk on his "Favourite Author". Dickens was his favourite and that much-loved author was appreciatively spoken of.

After an impromptu address by Mr. Doucett, the feature of the evening was announced—the debate. Messrs. W. C. Downie and Chas. Coleman for the affirmative and Messrs. Maurice Rosenburg and Chas. H. Reid for the negative.

Though the speakers on the negative handled the subject very ably, they were overwhelmed by the onslaught of the gentlemen on the affirmative who received the decision of the judges.

Billiards in England was mentioned as being in connection with reading rooms of villages, under the patronage of the clergy of different denominations and as played in the United States, billiard parlours, unaccompanied by drinking, also in religious institutions there.

"Playing marbles with a stick was the game the good woman surprised her better half at when she thought he was taking a glass—or three.

The game was shown to be a gentleman's one—not of chance, but one requiring sound judgment and a clear eye, and was not to be confounded with pool.

But for the expense and the erroneously supposed associations of the game with gambling, one of the speakers thought the game would be in the "first" and thereby increase largely the membership of the Association.

The critic's address is always considered the most valuable feature of the meetings, and in the services of a man of Mr. Kenner's calibre, the society is fortunate.

He congratulated the speakers on the debate, especially the seconder of the affirmative.

At the next meeting of the society which will be held on April 11th, the subject of debate will be, Resolved, "That Party Politics Should be Kept out of the Pulpit."

PRESENTATION TO REV. MR. TANDY

His Church at Havelock Expresses Regret at his Departure

Gave him Purse of Gold on Tuesday—His Farewell Service.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Havelock, March 30th.—Yesterday Rev. William Rochab Tandy, M. A., who has since May, 1902, been incumbent of Havelock and Belmont, left for Peterborough, where he will enter upon his new duties as assistant priest and director of the choir of St. John's church.

Rev. Mr. Tandy's zealous enthusiasm and whole-souled energy in his high calling, is such that his departure represents a distinct loss to the church in Havelock, and consequently a gain to the clerical forces of the electric city.

Mr. and Mrs. Tandy have won the hearts of this community during their regime in Havelock and though all regret the change, yet all wish them God speed and prosperity in the larger field of work and usefulness.

The conclusion of the Rev. W. R. Tandy's ministry on Sunday last was marked by very large congregations. One could not but be struck by the difference that three years have made in the esprit de corps of the congregation and in the spirit of devotion which marks their worship.

At 7 p. m., St. John's was crowded to the doors, the congregation being fully representative of all creeds and classes in the community. The incumbent's final sermon was based upon the parting commission of our Lord to His Church, "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptising them . . . . and lo I am with you always, even unto the end of the world".

He said in part:—

"There is a certain solemnity that attaches to the doing of even the most insignificant thing for the last time. And if this is true of the simpler things of life, how much the truer is it when one is fulfilling for the last time under this holy roof the pastoral duties of the sacred ministry. For the last time as your pastor, I have celebrated in this place the Divine mysteries of the Holy Communion, and have dispensed to you the Bread of Life. For the last time my voice has reminded you of the purposes for which we come hither—purposes of confession, of instruction, at prayer and praise. For the last time, as God's ambassador and Christ's vicar, to you, I have declared in your hearing the forgiveness of the sins of the penitent. For the last time, as pastor and people, we've joined hearts and voices in the heavenly worship of Holy Church".

"And now, we said, "we must part. We have known joy and sorrow together here. People are drawn together by their joys—but they really get to know each other only in their sorrow. Let both consecrate our parting."

The preacher closed by asking his people to remember him and his future work in their intercessions at the Holy Communion.

It is learned that Mr. Tandy is presenting to the church, as a thank offering, a small brass altar-cross, of simple but chaste design. It is hoped that it will be in place by Friday night, when the Rev. G. Warren, B. A., Rector of Lakefield, is to conduct the Lenten service.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

On Tuesday evening a large number of St. John's congregation assembled in the basement of the church, when the occasion was taken advantage of to present Mr. and Mrs. Tandy with the following address accompanied with a purse of gold.

To the Rev. W. R. Tandy, M. A., Incumbent of St. John's church, Havelock.

Dear Mr. Tandy,—It is with very many and sincere regrets that your friends in the congregation, choir and Sunday School of our beloved church, have learned that you, as our clergyman and friend are about to leave us for a neighbouring and larger field, but, nevertheless, still to continue your good work in the service of the Master.

Your services as our Pastor and Spiritual instructor have been greatly appreciated by us all, and have won for you also, the praise and esteem of all classes and creeds.

During your incumbency here, extending over a period of three years, you have, by your boundless zeal and indefatigable labours, and with the help of the Almighty Power, accomplished a very great work in all branches of our Church life, bringing it from a languishing condition to one of earnest and thoughtful devotion and well attended services both at Church and Sunday School.

We regret to think, but still we fear, that the work necessary to be done in this Parish often meant exposure and physical hardships on your part, and probably also too trying on your strength.

Ere the New Year set in, the debt standing against our Church edifice since its infancy, for nearly fifteen years, was discharged—another result of your good work—and witnessed a happy event in the consecration of the building by the Lord Bishop.

In your call to your new field of St. John's Church, Peterborough, as assistant Priest, we recognize your conscientious convictions in leaving us, but feel sure that the work, so thoroughly and earnestly done by you here, will be continued by you with equal enthusiasm to the great gain of those you minister to and to the glory of Him who said, "Feed My Lambs."

We deplore the loss we suffer through you and your beloved mother who has been a kindly and thoughtful companion to you during your incumbency here and of great assistance to you in your good work and also on her own account, of invaluable service to the church and its cause, and you both take with you our manifold, sincere, and good wishes and prayers for your welfare and happiness, spiritual and temporal, and as a small token of our appreciation and regard, we present you, Mr. Tandy, with this purse, and you, Mrs. Tandy, with this bon-bon dish.

Given on behalf of your parishioners at Havelock, the twenty-eighth day of March, A. D., 1905, by

MISS ANNIE BRYANS,
MISS MAUD WAGAR.

Mr. Tandy, in responding for his mother and himself, was deeply affected by the evidence of the spirit of love and esteem shown them, and made a very graceful and suitable reply.

After a brief social intercourse, the parishioners dispersed with earnest and heartfelt farewell salutations.

THE ANNUAL ROLL CALL AT MURRAY ST. CHURCH

Solemn and Impressive Ceremony Performed Last Night.

Last night at the Murray street Baptist church, the annual roll call was made. After appropriate religious service, brief and appropriate to the occasion, the call of the roll of church members took place. As each name was called it was responded to by the owner rising in his or her place; and in the case of church officials the response was represented by a few brief and pertinent remarks. A solemn feature of the ceremony supervened when the name was mentioned of some member of the congregation who had departed to answer the heavenly roll call. The total membership of the church is over 300, and last night some 250 answered to their names in person, or, in the case of families, by proxy.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, March 29.—(Special.)—The receipts of live stock to-day were 400 cattle, 50 milch cows, 25 sheep and lambs, 2000 calves and 400 hogs. A feature of the market was the strong feeling in good to choice cattle, and prices advanced ¼c per lb., which was due to the limited supply of such. The attendance of buyers was large and the demand was good. Choice beeves sold at 5¼c; good at 5c to 5¼c; fairly good at 4½c to 4¾c; fair at 3½c to 4c; common at 2¾c to 3¼c, and inferior at 2c to 2½c. An active trade was done in calves, but the bulk of the offerings consisted of poor stock, which sold at $1.50 to $2.50, while good to choice calves brought from $5 to $10 each. The demand for sheep and lambs was good. Sheep sold at $5.50 to 6¼, and spring lambs at $5 to $7 each. The trade in milch cows was fair at prices ranging from $35 to $50 each. The supply of hogs was small, for which the demand from packers was not so keen as on Monday, as they state at the present high prices the consumption was falling off. The market was easier and prices 15c to 20c lower, at $7 weighed off cars, for selects, and at $6.75 for mixed lots.

SWALLOWED HER ENGAGEMENT RING

A Misfortune Which a Peterborough Lady Met With.

A young lady in the northern part of the town this morning met with a misfortune. She had taken off her engagement ring to wash her hands, and during the process placed her engagement ring in her mouth, when in some, at present, unexplainable way, she swallowed the jewellery to her great discomfiture. It has been suggested, however, that this was perhaps in keeping with the order of things, since she had previously swallowed all the love stories which the donor of the ring had told her.

SPECIAL MEETING AT PARK STREET

Rev. A. W. Torrie Gave Stirring Address Last Night.

At the Park street Baptist festival meeting, Miss Minnie V. Clark made her first appearance before a Peterborough audience last night. She sang only one solo, "They Crucified Him". The large congregation was visibly affected every word is distinct and falls with tenderness and power. The great difficulty now is in finding room to seat the people. The Rev. A. W. Torrie, who was to finish on Friday, has been pressed to remain over Sunday, and a supply will be sent to fill his pulpit in Midland. Last night's service was a memorable one. Mr. Torrie was at his best and in response to his appeal thirteen anxious persons went into the inquiry room. Miss Clark will sing again this evening.—Com.

To make your money travel far is Fair's way. Here's a case in point that's without a parallel or precedent in Peterborough.

On Friday and Saturday

500 yards of highest quality, pure, all-wool

Scotch, Irish and Canadian Suiting Tweeds

FABRICS FOR TAILOR MADE SUITS

REGULAR PRICES $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00 and $2.25, will go on sale at the startling price of 50c per yard

for a positive clearance. Not a single yard to be reserved or held back.

Up to date these fabrics have been the most popular for neat, dressy designs of Suits, Separate Coats, Walking Skirts, etc., as well as for Boys' Clothing. They were made specially for ladies' high-class tailoring trade and guaranteed pure wool.

The startling feature of this offer is the remarkable low price at which the whole lot of 500 yards will be offered—50c per yard for double width goods, 54 to 58 inches wide, saving 50c, 75c, $1.00 and $1.75 on each yard.

MEDIATOR HAS BEEN NAMED

Russia and Japan Have Selected President Roosevelt—Peace Negotiations are on—Suspension of Hostilities May Be Shortly Expected, Although it May Be Presumptuous to Expect the Early Conclusion of Any Treaty—Russian People May Yet Decide Question.

London, March 31.—The correspondent at St. Petersburg of The Times cables:—"My repeated announcements of the proximity of peace are confirmed to-day by information from unimpeachable sources, showing that Russia and Japan have selected President Roosevelt as a mediator, that negotiations are already in progress, and that the suspension of hostilities may be shortly expected.

"The Russian Government this morning issued a categorical denial of the reports published abroad that it had formulated conditions upon which it would be possible to conclude peace. This is literally and technically true, but I can assert upon the best authority that Russia has stated the conditions that she cannot accept, namely, a war indemnity and the cession of territory.

"The decision upon this point was reached at a private council at Tsarskoe-Selo, attended by Count Lamsdorff and M. Witte. The council was the result of a meeting of the Advisory Council of War, consisting of Generals Grodekoff and Komoroff, under the presidency of Grand Duke Nicholas Nicolaivitch, which, being requested by the Emperor to report upon the prospects of the war, declared that a successful issue was not to be expected.

"Count Lamsdorff communicated what may be called Russia's negative proposals to the French Government a day or two ago. To France, indeed, belongs the credit of prompting her ally to enter into peace negotiations, and, in spite of the indignant outcry of several Russian newspapers, there is no denying the powerful influence of the peace campaign opened in the French press following the failure of the French loan.

"The Russians, of course, are still unaware of the commencement of peace negotiations, but, notwithstanding the official denial published this morning, and the boastful assertion of the war party, the conviction that peace is near is steadily growing. It would, however, be presumptuous to expect an early conclusion of any treaty. It is the opinion of the highest and most influential Russians that the question of peace is altogether dependent upon internal conditions.

"If the unrest grows peace may be hastened, but if contrary to general expectation, the disorders subside, the negotiations at Washington will likely be retarded. If, again, as is most likely, the Japanese demands prove incompatible with dynastic considerations, the Government will have to resort to a National Assembly to decide the question of peace or war. Personally, I believe this is the only rational solution. It is rumored to-day that the manifesto convening the Zemski Sobor will be issued on April 7th, on which date falls the festival of the Annunciation.

"Diplomatic circles express the greatest praise for Count Lamsdorff's astuteness in opening the negotiations with a statement of negative conditions, as thereby he reserves a field for compromise. For instance, should the Japanese insist upon an indemnity Russia may be able to offer to retrocede the southern portion of Sakhalien.

"It is believed that Russia is preparing to draft troops to the Siberian frontier, and keep Admiral Rojestvensky cruising in eastern waters, so as to demonstrate her readiness and ability to prolong the campaign. The selection of President Roosevelt as a mediator, which was due to Japanese initiative, is regarded here as evidence of the excellent discrimination of the Japanese, who thereby secure a firm friend, who at the same time will make it a point of honor to bring the negotiations to a successful close, and who, therefore, is not likely to have accepted the difficult post of mediator if the Japanese intended to present exorbitant demands."

Linevitch to the Army.

St. Petersburg, March 31.—Gen. Linevitch has issued this address to his troops: "The Emperor has been pleased to appoint me commander-in-chief of the Manchurian armies. In many battles, those of the Shakhe and Hun Rivers, at Pautiloff and Novegord Hills, at the front at Kanduliaan and Gengu Passes, and on the Mukden positions, you have most bravely repulsed most serious attacks by the enemy and dealt enormous losses. Let every man accomplish manfully his sacred duty to the Emperor and the fatherland. The enemy cannot hold out before Russian valor, and reinforcements are coming unceasingly from Russia. May God help you in the coming battle."

A Jap Flank Movement.

St. Petersburg, March 31.—A telegram from Sitjaza, Manchuria, under yesterday's date, says: "The Chinese report that a Japanese column, which is probably carrying out a flanking movement, has been seen twenty-seven miles northeast of Sipinghai (74 miles north of Tie Pass).

"Snow has fallen heavily here."

Steamer Broke in Two.

Tokio, March 31.—The British steamer Mars, which was stranded off Rural Promontory on March 17, while attempting the passage of Soya Strait, has broken in two under her engines. Her bow and stern are both submerged. Her captain and nine of the crew have been rescued. Her mate died from exposure.

The steamer Industry, whose nationality has not been ascertained, was seized by the Japanese on March 18. She was presumably bound for Vladivostock.

Sure He Saw Torpedo Boats.

Paris, March 31.—Admiral Rojestvensky received a telegraphic summary of the decision of the International commission of inquiry into the North Sea incident, and said, in an authorised interview with The Matin correspondent at Nossa-Be, March 4: "I am glad the admirals approved of my conduct, but owing to doubts concerning the incident I shall always feel a certain measure of moral responsibility. However, torpedo boats were certainly there, my ships were unmolested. I was obliged to save the flagship and I succeeded."

Canadians Took $12,000,000.

Montreal, March 31.—It was said yesterday that Canadian subscriptions to the new Japanese loan may amount to $12,000,000.

Russian Oil Works Ablaze.

St. Petersburg, March 31.—The distilling department of the Zhukoff Oil Works was destroyed by fire, which is believed to have been of incendiary origin. The damage is $250,000.

A TERMINAL OF G. T. P.

Reasons Why Fort William is Preferred to Port Arthur.

Port Arthur, March 31.—Fort William gets the Grand Trunk Pacific terminal. General Manager Morse makes the statement that Fort William affords a better point for terminals on account of the large amount of lands available, which would allow room for expansion for the next 100 years. It is believed that the Canadian Pacific influenced the G. T. P. in the selection, as with two companies at that point large dredging concessions can be procured from the Government, besides making the Mission River navigable. A branch line will be run into this place.

The site chosen for the terminals is on the Indian reserve property, south of the Kaministiquia. Work will commence at once. There are about 2,000 acres involved, about half being level, and, the remainder being taken up by Mount McKay. The limits of Fort William will be extended to take in the territory and a bridge connection made. The G. T. P. will enter Fort William midway between the C. P. R. and C. N. R. The town will pay the railway company $300,000, the final payment of $100,000 when the company has spent $900,000.

A MANITOBA CRISIS.

Robin Government Talking of Resigning As a Protest.

Winnipeg, March 31.—The Tribune last night says, in part, under black headline, in an evidently inspired article:—

"There is a crisis on in local politics, and most substantial developments may be looked for any day. It will not surprise anyone to see the members of the Local Government hand in their resignations, through the Premier, and vacate their offices.

"It is no secret that the Government, in keeping with universal public opinion, have been deeply aggrieved at the treatment received from the Ottawa authorities with regard to the extension of the boundaries of the Province."

ALLEGED SEAL POACHERS.

Captain and Crew of Sealing Schooner Seized at Montevideo.

Victoria, B. C., March 31.—Advices have been received here that Capt. Mattrian and crew of the sealing schooner Agnes G. Donahue, owned by Capt. Balcom, of Victoria, have been imprisoned at Montevideo by the Uruguayan Government which seized the vessel for alleged poaching on the shore rookeries.

The captain was sentenced to five years' imprisonment and the members of the crew to two years. Capt. Balcom has protested and claims $85,000 damages. The Ottawa Government has taken up the case through Great Britain with Uruguay.

West Canada Embargo Removed.

London, March 31.—(C. A. P.)—A largely-attended meeting of agriculturists belonging to the northern counties was held yesterday at Invernpss to consider steps to be taken to secure the removal of restrictions against the importation of Canadian cattle. The chairman proposed that they form themselves into an association for securing the removal of restrictions, and this was agreed to. The members of Parliament representing the northern counties and the Inverness district of burghs will be called upon to support any motion introduced in the House in support of this object.

Gen. Benson Dined.

St. Catharines, March 31.—Last evening a number of friends here gave a complimentary dinner at the new Murray House to Gen. F. W. Benson, C. B., chief of the remount department of the British War Office, who is paying a visit to his native city. There were only two toasts, "The King" and "Our Guest," and Gen. Benson replied to the latter. Gen. Benson is a veteran of '66 and wears the medal he received for service with the 19th St. Catharines Regiment. He was a son of the late Senator Benson, who represented this county. Gen. Benson is in Canada on official business.

Accepts Britain's Offer.

Berlin, March 31.—The Reichstag's petition committee yesterday voted to accept the offer of Great Britain and the United States to pay $40,000 each as indemnity to the Samoans and to pay the balance of the claims, which are estimated at from $30,000 to $50,000, from the Imperial treasury.

India's Afghan Mission.

London, March 31.—The Indian Office in London announces that the Louis Dane mission to Afghanistan has completed its business, concluded an agreement with the Ameer and is now returning to India.

Axle Grease Factory Burns.

Albany, N. Y., March 31.—The axle grease factory of Kingan Bros., on the outskirts of the city was entirely destroyed by fire yesterday. The loss is about $75,000, with $17,000 insurance.

Leprosy Case in New York.

New York, March 31.—A patient whose illness is diagnosed as leprosy has been received at Bellevue Hospital. The man was hurried off to an isolated ward on Blackwell's Island.

Georgian Bay Clear.

Meaford, March 31.—Meaford Harbor is now reported free of ice and open for navigation. Georgian Bay is clear as far as can be seen from Meaford, which is about 20 miles.

ELEVEN O'CLOCK CLOSING GIVEN UP

Barber Shops Will Not Close at 11 on Saturdays.

Effort Will Be Made to Have all Shops Close at Eight O'clock on Week Nights

Last night the Barbers' Union held a special meeting to discuss the 11 o'clock Saturday night closing.

It was found that the necessary two-thirds of the boss barbers had not signed the requisition, and, as a consequence, it will not be possible to have the council pass the bylaw making closing at that hour obligatory.

It was decided, however, to ask that a bylaw be passed compelling all the shops in town to close at 8 o'clock on each night, except Saturdays and the nights before holidays. At present all the union shops close at that hour, but there are two non-union shops which do not close. The effort will now be directed towards getting the necessary legislation from the council to have all the shops close at eight o'clock on the nights mentioned.

WAS ALTERED IN TRANSMISSION

Telegram from Rev. Mr. McKetchen Was Misunderstood by Some

Since Mr. Ketchen's return it transpires that his telegram to the Committee of St. Paul's church here, in reference to the acceptance of the assistant pastorate, had been slightly, but significantly, altered in transmission, and was not intended, as read by some, to be an acceptance of the assistant pastorate.

For reasons personal to himself, Mr. Ketchen's decision, if given now, would have to be an adverse one, and the committee have preferred to keep the matter open for a short time longer.

Closing Sale of Groceries.

The balance of the well selected stock of choice fancy groceries in the store formerly known as the Co-operative Grocery, corner George and Brock streets must be sold out soon. The store has been leased, so that a quick clearance is imperative. All day Saturday and Saturday night until all is sold, everything will be offered at the very lowest cut prices known for groceries. The stock may be sold en bloc, if desired. d76

INDEPENDENCE IN JOURNALISM

This Subject Cleverly Dealt With by J. S. Willison, Editor of the The Toronto News, Before the Fortnightly Club--Function of Journalism Set Forth--The Evils of Partizan Press Practically Contrasted With the Merits of Independent Journalism--Mr. Willison's Idea of the Ideal Newspaper--Large Audience Gave an Appreciative Hearing to a Lecture Lagre in its Treatment of the Subject.

There was a large audience of the Fortnightly Club, and its friends, assembled in the Y.M.C.A. Hall last night to listen to the clever lecture of Mr. J. S. Willison, of Toronto, editor of the News, on "Independence in Journalism." Mr. Hampden Burnham occupied the chair, and introduced the lecturer, who was very cordially received, and most appreciatively listened to. The full report given below makes even a brief reference to its character, unnecessary. Mr. Willison's clever treatment of his subject, and the high literary quality of his style and language can only be appreciated by hearing, or, in default of that, reading, what he had to say upon the subject. After a few playful introductory remarks, he said:

"There are probably few journals published which do not advance the claim to independence, and as few whose independence is generally admitted outside the office of publication. Even the unoffending and unfathered journal with which I am connected is denounced as the spokesman of the ancient and not to honourable association of soreheads, as the organ of the pharisees as the propagator of religious rancor, as a wolf in sheep's clothing, as a sham Tory sheet, as a bundle of misrepresentations, as a scourge, a wobbler, a filth-gatherer, and the personal mouthpiece of Judas Iscariot. As in the days of old, the innocent suffer and the people imagine a vain thing. "I don't want no better market," said Uncle Mingo, "than a fus-class garbage bar'l with 'scrimination." It is, indeed, impossible to hope that any existing Canadian publication will be generally accepted as meeting all the tests and fulfilling all the functions of an independent journal, and it thus becomes necessary to present the ideals of independence rather than to argue from living illustrations.

Independent Journalist Lonesome.

Sir John Macdonald held that he was under no particular obligation to the elector who supported him when he was right, but that the voter who remained staunch and faithful when he was wrong had his high regard and his lasting gratitude. If this natural sentiment is associated only with the name of Sir John Macdonald in Canadian politics it is probably because other public men in this country have been less frank than his old Conservative leader. It was said of George the Third that he had the true Treasury whip's eye for a division and contempt for a debate, and that is generally the spirit of the governing politician. It is, therefore, the fortune of the independent journalist to plough a lonely furrow, and to ponder over the doubtful financial sagacity of that man who in the momentary fervor of a mis-leading rhetoric declared that virtue was its own reward. It is, however, not my purpose to lecture the Canadian press generally, to censure the so-called party journal, nor to exult that wing of the press to which I belong. There is a veteran journalist who has said, and has deserved, the confidence of more than one set of Canadian politicians, and with the changing circumstances of our politics, has written for old parties, for new parties, for either party, and for no party, and he is in the habit of saying that "honesty is the better policy," and of claiming that he speaks with authority because he has tried them both. It is impossible to challenge the wisdom of his conclusion, even though we may be reluctant to admit that our judgment rests also upon personal experience. There is a vagrant saying, now passing through the exchanges, the authorship of which I know not, but to which I subscribe without reserve. It is in effect that, "There is so much good in the worst of us and so much bad in the best of us that it does not become any of us to throw stones at the rest of us." Or as the old rhyme says:—

In men whom men condemn as ill,
I find so much of goodness still,
In men whom men pronounce divine,
I find so much of sin and blot,
I hesitate to draw the line
Between the two, where God has not.

Functions of Journalism.

It may be interesting to consider what are the true functions of journalism, and what are the obligations of the journalist to the public whom he serves and upon whom he subsists. For a century or more The London Times has been the most powerful organ of opinion, and the most complete newspaper in the world. Nowhere else shall we find more profound or more comprehensive treatment of world issues, more of the finished material of history, more of the ripe fruit of human culture, more of the virile leadership which makes "great in human destiny luminous." And through all the changing processes of the generations its authority has not been greatly diminished nor its position amongst its contemporaries seriously challenged. In the history of The Times we shall find the faults and errors, the miscalculations and misjudgments which disfigure all human institutions, but still the sum of solid achievement for mankind is mighty and distinguished by noble sanity and splendid integrity. The aims of such a publication should afford us an instructive definition of the true functions of journalism, and they were thus described in its own columns:—"To recognise commerce and industry as the true source of the greatness of England; to uphold the cause of humanity and freedom; to spare no efforts in the collection of intelligence and no pains in securing its accuracy and authenticity; to discuss public affairs with moderation, good sense and a single-minded regard for the welfare of the country, the stability of its institutions and the maintenance of its position among the great Powers of the world—in a word, to look at all public affairs, and all matters which concern or interest the public, with the eyes of an English citizen of virtue, good sense and intelligence, and to express judgments upon them in a style not unworthy of our noble English tongue." We have there a revelation of privileges and responsibilities, a suggestion of power and a conception of service which cannot be reconciled with party subservience, and which conflict with any lower ideal than simple and ungrudging devotion to the paramount interests of the Commonwealth.

Objects of Journalism.

But it will be said that the objects of the journalist, like the objects of the journalist, are rooted in concern for the public well-being, and that loyalty to a group of statesmen, representing a great national party, is, therefore, not distinguished from loyalty to the nation. This view was well stated by Garfield, one of the martyred Presidents of the United States. He said: "Let the journalist defend the doctrines of the party which he approves, let him criticise and condemn the party which he does not approve, always reserving the right to applaud his opponents or censure his friends, as the truth may require, and he will be independent enough for a free country." But new issues arise, old issues return, political leaders compete for the favour of particular elements of the community, party exigencies intervene, solid votes menace, fluid votes dissolve, the winds blow off strange shores, "and when it was day they knew not the land, but they discovered a certain creek with a shore, into which they were minded, if it were possible, to thrust the ship." It is times like these that test the public journalist, and reveal the essential limitations of the whole theory and practice of party organship. "Judge Wriggle," said Colonel Lumpkin, "may have soiled his judicial ermine, but he will keep his party record as white as snow." Would it be carrying coals to Newcastle to introduce here the story of the shoemaker belonging to this good town of Peterborough, which I have told more than once, on the authority of the late Rev. D. J. Macdonnell? This shoemaker was a Conservative, who under no circumstances would be reconstructed, and for many years he would not admit the Globe into his shop. But as time passed he was found reading the Globe occasionally, and when questioned he said "that now and then he found a statement in the Mail which he could hardly accept, and at such times he turned to the Globe, and if he found the statement there also, then he knew that it was a lie. That is not a bad illustration of the political temper of a great mass of the Canadian people, and of the type of service which many politicians would exact from the party journal.

Initial Journalistic Ideals.

In the original conception of journalism, the party press, as it has developed, had no recognition. Wilkes with the North Briton, scurrilous and vulgar figure as he was, still as Mr. Gladstone has said, must be enrolled among the great champions of British freedom. Garrison's Liberator, which the genial Oliver Wendell Holmes described as the "organ of the fanatics," gave heroic purpose and invincible energy to the final assault upon the system of black slavery in the United States. Hamilton's Federalist was enormously influential in fashioning the structure of the American Republic. The "Anti-Corn Law Circular," and the "League," established by Bright and Cobden, contributed mightily to the overthrow of the protectionist system in Great Britain. These were organs of great causes, energized with the high spirit of the old pamphleteers, touched with the stern zeal of the prophets, reckless of the fortunes of parties, and loyal only to conscience and to commonwealth. It is impossible to suppose that these men or these journals could have been tempted by place or power to be disloyal to the great movements to which they gave inspiration and direction. Garrison could not have accepted a Douglas compromise or have paltered with the great treachery of Webster. The allurements of office, the bait of personal advantage, the exigencies of party, were shadowy and very secondary considerations with Bright and Cobden. It may be that Garrison was extreme, impetuous and inflammatory, and that Bright and Cobden in their evangelical enthusiasm and unconscious arrogance, saw more than an economical creed. But they were sustained by enthusiasm, conviction and high purpose, and these, after all, are the essential qualifications for public service. "Where there is no vision the people perish." It may be that such men have in lesser degree the practical capacity for affairs, but they stand in noble contrast to the common brood of politicians, who serve as the attorneys of corporations, the agents of organized votes, the champions of sectional interests, the apologists for party rascalities, and with whom to be practical means to be cunning, unscrupulous, and insincere, and to whom statesmanship means vacillation, skulking and submission to any wave of opinion or any menace of sectional or corporate interest which threatens the stability of the party structure. There is much of this shifting, tumbling and compromising in politics the world over, and even in Canada it would be hard to find a single garment on the political clothes-reel which has not been worn by both of the great parties, and which each does not claim to have constituted part of its original uniform. If this be true, how can the party journals maintain a definite party allegiance, and yet be staunch to its own conception of the public interest?

A Journalist's Choice.

With the growth of the caucus, the increasing power of the executive, and the more rigid organization of party there seems to be only two positions open to the public journal. Either it must wear the party livery and submit to the dictation of a group of party leaders, or else assert and maintain a resolute independence, know no obligations, and avoid all social, personal, political entanglements which are inimical to blunt speech, faithful counsel and single-minded zeal for the public welfare. Sir George Trevelyan, in his Early History of Charles James Fox tells us that a colleague of Sir Robert Walpole said to him in the House of Commons, while a young Lord was speaking, "That young dog promised that he would always stand by us." "I advise my young man never to use 'always,'" was Walpole's quiet reply. Party service for the journalist is hard service. Politicians are exacting masters. Too often their estimate of the journalist's zeal, worth and efficiency is determined by his success in defending the thing which is not defensible. "They who love you for your political service," said John Wesley, "love you less than their dinner, and they who hate you hate you worse than teh devil." There is an inevitable conflict between a free press and a partizan press, and hardly any less happy employment for any man of character and conviction than to serve as the instructed advocate of a Cabinet or a group of Opposition leaders, who reach their conclusions in secret council, convey their demands to the party writers, and bestow praise or censure according as the writers handle the brief in the preparation of which they were not consulted, and upon the moral or national aspects of which they may pass no individual judgment. This is the service which the mass of politicians demand, which many journalists refuse to give, which fewer still will give as the press regains its freedom and becomes again the organ of great causes, and the ally, rather than the slave of the reformer and the statesman. An Englishman across the border asked Bill Nye what he should do to become a naturalized citizen of the United States, and Nye advised the questioner to write to Queen Victoria and tell her that henceforth she could regard him only as a friend. That attitude is all that the politician may demand of the public journalist, and if he yields more he circumbes his personal freedom and abridges his power to give the best measure of service to the nation. A press which is the champion of official rascality, the apologist for public abuses, the watch dog in leash to a corporation, the docile oracle of a party, is a poor and sordid thing, but infinite in capacity for mischief and dangerous to the liberty of the people.

"The Scholar in Politics."

George William Curtis, one of that fine type of American publicists, who have been described as "the scholar in politics," has declared the power of a free press in a free country, and emphasized its profound obligations to the people in language of rare fervour and eloquence.

"This servility to party opinion," he says, "is the abdication of that moral leadership of opinion which is the great function of the political press. It is a subserviency which destroys the independence of the paper, but it does not save the party. There is not a party in the history of this country which has been utterly overthrown, not the Federal nor the Whig nor the Democratic party, that might not have survived long and victoriously if its press had been courageously independent. The press submits to be led by party leaders, while its duty is to lead leaders. They dare to disgrace their party, to expose it to humiliation and defeat, because they count upon the slavery of the party press. The leaders dare to praise rascals and to justify wrong because they confidently expect their party press to prolong their words in one vast sustained echo of approval from Katahdin to Santa Barbara. The press is never a more beneficent power than when it disappoints the malign expectation and shows the country that, while loyal to a party and its policy, it is more loyal to honour and patriotism. It is the palladium of liberty because it is the only power in a free country which can alone withstand and overthrow the crafty conspiracy of political demagogues. If it does not lead it is because it chooses to follow; it is because it does not know that no office is so great as that of moulding the opinion which makes parties and presidents; that no patronage is so powerful as the just fear of an unfailing criticism brought home in every words and every act of every public man, and recommending its judgment to the intelligence and conscience of every citizen. The political press of this country does not fulfill its true function until party chiefs in caucuses and conventions and congress learn that there is a power mightier than all of them combined, which will not come merely at their call, which will not be content merely with the regular party trademark, but which for the sake of the cause of its party and despite congress and conventions, will advocate only worthy measures and support only fitting candidates. Thus, and thus alone can the press of any colour save its own party from decay, by forcing leaders to depend for support, not upon party spirit and party patronage, but upon the essential excellence of the party policy and the character of the party candidates. When leaders know that their own party press, which goes into every house and reasons with every voter, will ask first of all whether the candidate nominated ought to have been nominated, and whether the policy proposed is a sound policy, and whether those who propose to lead are worthy and honourable and faithful leaders, the first care of those leaders will be to provide a body of sound doctrine, and to present candidates like the old chevalier of France, without fear and without reproach. It is not by prostituting itself blindly to a party, nor by exasperating party spirit, nor by distorting the news and perverting the truth for a

CANAL SCHEME WAS DECISIVELY DEFEATED

Proposition to Construct a Waterway from Lake Ontario to Georgian Bay Turned Down at Ottawa—Municipalities Interested Were Opposed to the Scheme—Canal was to Have Depth of 22 Feet and Accommodate Large Craft.

Ottawa, March 28.—When the Commons Railway Committee met this morning, the first bill considered was that for the incorporation of the Canadian Canals Corporation. The promoters of this enterprise are Henry C. Spalding of New York, John I. Davidson, Peleg Howland, Richard C. Steele, and Andrew H. Drummond, all of Toronto; Trevanion W. Hugo, of Duluth, and Telford Burnham, of Chicago. The capital asked is $15,000,000, and the bonding power $30,000,000.

The company submitted two alternative routes for a waterway connecting Georgian Bay with Lake Ontario. The easterly route runs from the point on Lake Ontario where Scarboro Township touches Pickering, north to the southern extremity of Lake Simcoe. From the latter, connection is proposed either with Nottawasaga Bay or with Matchedash Bay, on Georgian Bay. The western route extends from Nottawasaga Bay is almost a straight line to Etobicoke, west of Toronto.

The bill specifically states that the proposed waterway is not to be constructed within the limits of Toronto.

The bill asks for power to construct basins and dams for the storage of water; to expropriate what lands it requires for its purposes; to build harbours, elevators, etc. The intention is to use a marine railway to connect with the various levels of the proposed waterway. This would take the place of locks. The patents for this railway are held by Mr. Spalding, who was not able to attend the committee, owing to sickness.

THE PLAN ENDORSED.

Mr. Bell of Toronto explained, on behalf of the promoters, that his scheme was endorsed by the Toronto Board of Trade. The proposal was to have a canal of 22 feet depth, which would be capable of handling boats larger than now used in the Welland Canal. Mr. Hoskins, C.E., explained the device patented by Mr. Spalding.

BILL REJECTED.

Petitions against the bill were received from the York County Council, the Townships of Stouffville and Whitchurch. Mayor Urquhart was present also, to oppose the measure, on behalf of Toronto City Council. The latter, however, was not even heard, as the bill was rejected without a vote in its favour.

Four Facts For Sick Women To Consider

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has an Unequalled Record of Cures—Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Is Confidential, Free, and always Helpful

FIRST.—That almost every operation in our hospitals performed upon women becomes necessary through neglect of such symptoms as backache, irregular and painful menstruation, leucorrhœa, displacements of the uterus, pain in the side, burning sensation in the stomach, bearing-down pains, nervousness, dizziness and sleeplessness.

SECOND.—The medicine that holds the record for the largest number of absolute cures of female ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It regulates, strengthens and cures diseases of the female organism as nothing else can.

For thirty years it has been helping women to be strong, curing backache, nervousness, kidney troubles, all uterine and ovarian inflammation, weakness and displacements, regulating menstruation perfectly and overcoming its pains. It has also proved itself invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the change of life.

THIRD.—The great volume of unsolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time published by permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

FOURTH.—Every ailing woman in Canada is asked to accept the following invitation. It is free, will bring you health and may save your life.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women.—Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. From symptoms given, your trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised. Out of the vast volume of experience in treating female ills Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowledge that will help your case. Surely, any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

INDEPENDENCE IN JOURNALISM.

party purpose, that it can properly exercise its great function in the State; but by making itself the voice of the particular intelligence and public spirit which even while accepting a party name rejects a party collar, which no bluster can dismay nor ridicule dishearten nor flattery cajole, the independent citizenship which is the great conservative element in popular government, the arbiter of American destinies. This is the independence of the press. It is not non-partisanship nor impotent neutrality. It is not the free lance of the Italian bravo or soldier of fortune, the sword of a Sforza or of a Gonzaga at the disposal of the master who pays the best. It is not the unprincipled indifference which cries to-day "Good Lord," and to-morrow, "Good Devil," as the Lord or the devil seems to be prevailing. Nor is it a daily guess how the wind is going to blow, and a dexterous conformity to what it believes to be public opinion. No paper and no man who fears to be in the minority has the power to create a majority. It is the unqualified advocacy of its own principles which it stands alone, and honourable support of a party when a party proclaims them; it is scorn of falsehood and baseness and bribery in sustaining them; it is manly justice to opponents, and unsparing exposure of offenders and offences which disgracing its party, tend to weaken and destroy it; it is austere to high ideals of public virtue and perfect reliance upon the ultimate justice of the people—it is all this which makes an independent press the greatest power in Christendom.

Violence Defeats Itself.

In political controversy there will always be temper and vigour; but vigour need not degenerate into virulence and hard blows, so long as they are not delivered below the belt, give spirit to public debate and vitality to free institutions. One must have a stout heart if he would go into politics. But after all, there is a spirit of fair play in Anglo-Saxon communities, and a point at which malicious and unworthy pursuit of a public man turns to his advantage and brings chivalrous souls to his side. Except in seasons of unusual popular passion the people are quick to know where fair and legitimate criticism ends and vindictive pursuit begins, and once that point is reached the blows of the assailant fall harmless and the cause of the victim is promoted. In politics as in the prize ring the rules of the game must be observed, foul play wins no permanent advantage, and misrepresentation and falsehood gain no enduring success.

Improved Press Tone.

Under the softening influence of these more gracious times there is less of violence and of ferocity in the political press than there was a quarter or half a century ago, while there is a common respect for the sanctities of private life, and a reluctant aversion to painful personal attack which is beyond reproach. Horace Greely used a blunt and naked language, often wholly unredeemed by considerations of taste and delicacy. He denounced one of his contemporaries as "the slimy and venomous instruments of loco-localism, jesuitical and deadly in politics, and grovelling in morals." He told Major Noah, the editor of a journal which asserted that Greely had taken his breakfast with two negroes that "we choose our own company in all things, and that of our own race, but cherish little of that spirit which for eighteen centuries had held the kindred of Noah accused of God and man, outlawed and outcast, and unfit to be the associates of Christians, Mussulmans, or even self-respecting pagans. That he is a knave, we think much to his discredit; that he is a Jew nothing, however unfortunate it may be for their luckless people." He described one of his critics as "a superannuated renegade from all parties and all principles." Charged still another with "deliberate falsehood, and called him "an unqualified villain," and generally exercised as wide a measure of freedom as even the free Republic secures to its militant citizens.

In "Dizzy's" Early Days.

So the "Letters of Runnymede," which Disraeli contributed to The London Times in 1836 are at least as vigourous and as expressive as even the editorial utterances of Horace Greeley. Disraeli in this series of letters, told Lord Melbourne that he "should cease to saunter over the destinies of a nation, and lounge away the glories of an Empire." He said to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, "Rest assured, sir, your career draws rapidly to a close. Providence, that for our sins, and the arrogance of our flush prosperity has visited this once great and glorious Empire with five years of Whig Government, is not implacable. Our God is a God of mercy as well as of justice. We may have erred, but we have been chastened." He thus addressed himself to Lord John Russell, "A miniature Mokanna, you are now exhaling upon the constitution of our country, which you once eulogized, and its great fortunes, of which you once were proud, all that long-hoarded venom, and all those distempered humours, that have for years accumulated in your petty heart, and tainted the current of your mortified life." Again, "A Prime Minister in an easy chair, reading a French novel. What think you of that lot? Three Secretaries of State, one odious, the other contemptible, the third both. They have their price, yet I would not be their purchaser." He described O'Connell as "a systematic liar and a beggarly cheat, a swindler, and a poltroon." "He does," said Disraeli, "committ'd every crime that does not require courage; the man who plunders the peasant can also starve his child." If we remember that these letters were written by a future Prime Minister of Great Britain, addressed to great figures in British history, and printed in the London Times seventy years ago, we cannot doubt but that we have gone far in gentleness of speech, in dignity of language, and in general mitigation of partisan rascour, and journalists at least may reflect with satisfaction that in earlier as in later times the tone of the press has seldom contrasted unfavourably with that of the party pamphleteer, and the party platform.

Hard Blows Justified.

Lincoln described the Georgia costume, as "a shirt, collar, and a pair of spurs," and it is inevitable that in all political controversy the fighting spirit must obtain, and the Georgia costume become the controversialist. Indeed, Alexander Russel, of the Edinburgh Scotsman, an outstanding figure in British journalism, once said, "We hold and deliberately act upon the doctrine that if a blow is not foul, the harder it is put in the better." Besides, nothing is more certain, than that the press never killed a public man who deserved to live, or ever long maintained in any great place of influence and leadership a public man of pecuniary, mean character and infirm capacity. It may be that the public man is at a grave disadvantage in any conflict with a public journal. But, as has been said, the people are a fair, wise and tolerant jury. Moreover, it is seldom after all that the attack is inspired by unworthy motives, or is not associated with some great public issue which constitutes the real ground of the appeal to the community. In truth attack upon an individual, except as he is related to a public issue, is rare in these days, and it is seldom refused, that a journal assails personal character, except with grave reluctance and under a profound sense of public duty. Charles Dickens used to tell this story: A clergyman who was recognized as a leader of the Liberal party for the district in which his parish was situated was called to officiate at the funeral of one of the relatives of the local Conservative editor. Many times had the editor had crossed swords in the party conflict, but it was seldom that the clergyman had had the opportunity to deliver a blow without chance of parry or reply. But at last he had the position of advantage, and at the coffin of the deceased, besides which the editor and the other mourners knelt together, the clergyman made this appeal, "Lord, over-rule this affliction to the welfare of all assembled, including the reptile now sprawling in Thy presence, who has frequently abused Thy servant in the columns of his beastly publication." But it is seldom indeed that the editor fails to have the last word in any public controversy, and in that very advantage are reasons for charity, and courtesy, and moderation, and discretion.

The Canadian Press.

The press of Canada conducts political debate upon a higher level perhaps than does that of the United States, but we still fall distinctly below the standard which prevails in Great Britain. It is probably true that we often make a tremendous clamour over small issues, and often deal with large issues in a small way. Too often, it may be, we are more ready to misrepresent an opponent than to meet his argument, more ready to appeal to the meanar prejudices than to the higher sentiment of the community, more ready to run at the heels of popular clamour than to stand steadfast for the principles and policies which our inner conviction and sober judgment approve. We sometimes forget that free speech is the inalienable birthright of the British citizen, and that the great pioneers of British freedom were men who would not conform to the temper and conditions of the times in which they lived. We demand an absolute submission to every passing wave of passion and every outbreak of popular prejudice. This is a servitude to which none of us can afford to submit. There could be no greater treason to free institutions and the moral progress of the world. The qualities of courage and public spirit are none too common, and a sincere view, come from what source it may, has a right to be uttered.

A Real Peril to the Press.

Ominous and dangerous is the growing power of corporations and the influence of great aggregations of capital in few hands, which is the most sinister development in modern industrial conditions. Here is a danger to the press and a real peril to popular government, for the press can have no mission in the world worth filling except as the articulate voice of the plain, unorganized and unsubsidized public. But, notwithstanding all that may be said, we have as yet no reason to conclude that the corporations have a dominating voice in the press or in the public life of Canada. It is, perhaps, doubtful if they can win any enduring victory in a free country. The very suspicion that is bred by the obby of the corporation in Parliament, may perhaps lead to a condition of the public mind under which the corporation may get less than justice, and capital become an object of unjust suspicion and a subject for unrighteous dealing. At least this is true, that no public journal can be influential as the mere mouthpiece of a corporation, and perhaps we could have no better evidence of this than the efforts of party controversialists upon the one side or the other to convict public men and public journals of compromising relations with corporations, which probably do not exist. In Canada the people are still supreme, and their free suffrage is the best franchise of newspapers and the best refuge for Governments.

The Personal Element.

The late Principal Grant, in one of the sparkling and sweeping judgments, aspiring to the authority of a court of last resort, for which he was distinguished, declared that, after all, the editorial page represented only the opinion of one man—or boy. That type of criticism is well answered by Mr. Charles A. Cooper, of The Edinburgh Scotsman, in a volume which he calls "An Editor's Retrospect," which covers fifty years of newspaper work, and which deals mainly with his great predecessor, Russell. He says: "It is not an uncommon cry of the shallow-pated or the angry, that the views expressed in a newspaper are only one man's opinions, and ought to have no more weight in a newspaper than if he had spoken them. These are the critics who condemn what they call the anonymous press. "There is one good thing to the credit of the wit of Professor Wilson, of the Edinburg University—there may be more; if there are, I never heard them of heard of them. He was delivering the address to the students at a dropping ceremonial, and he fell foul of the press, nobody could ever clearly make out for what reason. 'The anonymous press,' he said, 'was the pestilence that walketh in darkness.' It was clever, and it embodied the old Tory view of the press. Many of those who talk of an article in a newspaper as conveying only one man's opinion would, so far, agree with Professor Wilson. That the idea is foolishness. An article in a newspaper may be written by one man, though sometimes it is written by more than one. But behind it is the newspaper itself, an entity which must be taken into account. It is sometimes said that newspaper men write what they do not believe. I have some reason to think there may be newspaper men who do this thing. But they are not many, and no editor would employ them if he were wise. Unfortunately, they are employed. Why do they write against their beliefs? Is it not because the paper for which they write advocates principles or opinions with which they do not agree? The illustration shows the foolishness of the 'one man's opinion' theory. A newspaper is something apart from the newspaper writer, and no editor with a grain of commonsense would dream of making his paper the vehicle of his own opinions without regard to its responsibility and its reputation for consistency."

Effect on the Press.

That is the view of journalism which generally prevails in Great Britain, in the United States and in Canada, and while to my mind it is inconsistent with absolute devotion to a political party, it still gives even to the party press sincerity, dignity and purpose, except during the desperate struggles of political leaders for office at the expense of consistency and principle, in which splendid traditions and the faith and pride of unnumbered ancestors worshippers of familiar and beloved altars go down in a sea mon ruin. But we may not forget that the field of party is only a half-circle in the wide sphere of journalism, and that outside that heated area of passion and conflict the journalist in an eager work for the wider diffusion of social blessings, for surcease of poverty, for the betterment of life, for the emancipation of the race from the baneful legacies of less happier times. It is his supreme privilege to develop public opinion, to liberalize and energize the moral and intellectual forces, to utter the voice of the masses and go on his way stoutly stumbling often as he will, rash often as he may be, but always in the surest confidence that good will come out of free discussion that "the common sense of most" will hold even a "fretful realm in awe," and settle firm as hills of granite the old and great eastedness of morals.—

YOUNG PEOPLES' OFFICERS ELECTED

Annual Meeting of Keene Presbyterian Y.P.S.C.E.

News From the Lively Village on the Lake—New Business Opening Up.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Keene, March 29.—Miss May Nixon, Toronto, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. (Dr.) Harrison, for a few weeks.

Mr. A. St. A. Smith, manager of the Keene branch of the Bank of Toronto, spent Sunday at his home in Millbrook.

Mr. Wm. Weddick was in Toronto last week.

Mr. J. C. Read attended the opening of the Legislature at Toronto on Wednesday last. Mr. Read was present at the parliament buildings on the day that the John Sandfield MoDonald Government was defeated, 32 years ago, being a student at Upper Canada College. Until Wednesday he has not since honoured the parliament buildings with his presence.

Mr. M. Keanesally was in Peterborough on business on Wednesday last.

Mr. James Stubbs, of Peterborough, will give one of his popular kinetoscope entertainments in the Town Hall, on Friday evening, April 8th. The entertainment is in connection with the Methodist Sunday School.

The snow has almost all disappeared except on some side lines which have never been broken since the big snowstorms.

Mr. J. Stillman, of Campbellford, has opened a harness shop in the building formerly used by Mr. Kirby as a tinker shop. There is no doubt he will be well patronized, as a harness maker was badly needed in Keene.

Mr. Frank Staples who has quit farming, will dispose of his stock, implements, etc., by auction on Thursday, April 6th.

Miss M. Bell, of Port Hope, is the guest of her brother, Mr. C. Bell Sr.

Mr. J. Chatten has moved into the village, having rented the house lately occupied by Mr. Wm. Cleary.

Rev. David McCamus, of Windsor, is visiting his brother, Mr. R. D. McCamus.

Miss Jennie Eason, of Westwood, is spending a few weeks with her cousin, Miss Maud Eason.

Mr. J. Coyle Brown, County Public School Inspector, paid a visit to Keene school on Tuesday.

Mr. Amos Shearer was the last man to drive across Rice Lake this spring, having been over on Sunday.

Mr. Henry Reid, of Bliwatha, has moved into Mr. McCamus' residence.

Mr. Wm. D. Laing left for his home in Toronto on Friday last.

Mr. Wm. Andrews, an old Keene boy, who is studying for the Presbyterian Ministry at Knox College, will be sent as a missionary to Silbow, Assiniboia, during the summer.

At a meeting of the Y.P.S.C.E., in connection with the Presbyterian church, on Sunday, March 26, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term:—

President—Miss Jennie Pickett.
1st Vice-President—Miss J. Humphries.
2nd Vice-President—Miss Bessie Read.
Treasurer—Miss M. McIntyre.
Secretary—Miss Maud Campbell.
Observers.
Prayer Meeting Committee—Margaret Campbell.
Social Committee—Mrs. (Rev.) McDonald.
Missionary Committee—Miss Maud Campbell.
Flower and Visiting Committee—Miss Bella Newton.
Lookout Committee—Miss Clara Campbell.
Sunday School Committee—Mr. R. McCamus.
Music Committee—Miss M. Bryce.

Permanent Cure for Bronchitis

"My second daughter was troubled with bronchitis from the age of three weeks. Oftentimes I thought that she would choke to death. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine brought relief and further treatment made a thorough cure. This trouble used to come back from time to time, but the cure is now permanent." — Mrs. Richmond Withrow, Shubenacadie, Hants County, N. S.

Death Rate 70 Per Cent.

New York, March 30.—Thirty-two cases of cerebro-spinal meningitis have been reported during one day in the borough of Greater New York. Several cases are also reported at Passaic, N. J., where one of the public schools will be closed, two deaths having already resulted among the pupils. The death rate in well defined cases amounts to more than 70 per cent.

Furniture Company By-law Will Probably Carry—Other News from Lakefield.

(From our own Correspondent)

Lakefield, March 29th.—The members of the Methodist choir were entertained in the church on Friday evening last by Mr. Cornish.

Mr. Lane, of Apsley, who is moving to Arcola, Assa., is in the village loading a car preparatory to his leaving for the west.

Mr. Knox, formerly of Apsley, has purchased Mr. Wm. Adams' farm in Smith for $10,000.

Mr. Avery, who has been in Peterborough for the winter has returned home.

Mr. H. G. Fitzgerald has purchased the hardware business of Mr. W. H. Casement. It is understood that Mr. Casement will continue to conduct the Post Office. Mr. Casement has been 42 years connected with the business.

A great deal of house building is looked forward to when the spring opens. Houses at present are very scarce and rents at a premium.

Mr. Frank Gray has purchased the property formerly occupied by Mr. David Edwards.

Mr. Robert Clifford has purchased the residence of Mr. W. Bates.

Mr. J. W. Kilbourn, of Owen Sound, is in the village for a few days.

Mr. H. Bravender, of Warners, N. Y., is spending a short time in the village.

Miss Violet Billings, of Peterborough, was the guest of Mrs. Leonard last week.

Miss McIntyre, of Keene, is the guest of Miss Morton, Bridge street.

Mr. J. Nelson, who has been farming in Essex County for the past four years, has returned and is about to start work on the old homestead.

Mrs. E. A. Tanner has returned from Port Hope, where she has been visiting friends for the past week.

Miss Morrison, of Toronto, who has been the guest of Mrs. E. R. Tate, at Bendevis for the past couple of weeks has returned to her home.

Miss Nordheimer, of Toronto, is the guest of Mrs. E. R. Tate.

The property owners are getting enthused over the by-law upon which they are asked to vote on April 11th.

As the terms of the agreement have become thoroughly known and readily understood, people are beginning to realize what a good bargain the council has made with the Lakefield Furniture and manufacturing Company, which by the way is to be the style name of the new firm. They agree to employ at least 60 hands the year round and pay out $25,000.00 per year in wages, exclusive the directors' salaries. There is now no doubt but that the by-law will be carried.

This is, indeed, the growing time for Lakefield. There is talk of many new houses going up this summer, as well as the new factory, which is to be brick or stone 80 x 180 feet, two stories high, and built on the most modern fireproof plan, with sprinkler system and the latest fire-fighting appliances. The capital stock of the company will be $125,000.00.

The Lakefield preparatory school held their closing exercises for Easter term on Monday evening, March 27th.

Rev. Mr. Langfeldt, of Peterborough, was present and addressed the gathering.

Mr. Tuffield Morin, the popular mate on the Str. Empress, is back to the village after spending the winter at the chantles.

Capt. W. H. White, who has been in the north during the winter has returned to the village.

Mr. S. J. T. Brown, of London, was in the village Tuesday in the interests of the Bell Telephone Company.

POLICE COURT NOTES

At the police court yesterday morning a local hotel keeper was fined $2 and costs, amounting to $6.15, on a charge of assault.

The affair was the result of a quarrel between the defendant and the plaintiff, who is a drygoods merchant, over some boxes in the latter's back yard, which he claimed defendant had transferred to his own yard, which adjoins it. The boxes, it appear, had been smashed by the defendant, and when plaintiff remonstrated with him in regard to his action some hot words ensued and defendant assaulted him, striking him on the head with a stick. Mr. O. Laplante conducted the case for the plaintiff.

"INDEPENDENT JOURNALISM"

In a case like that of the Toronto News of which Mr. J. S. Willison is the well known editor-in-chief, it is impossible to preserve the fiction of impersonal journalism. Therefore it is not perhaps unfair to permit the the eloquent lecture, which he delivered last night, reported very fully in this issue, on the subject of "Independent Journalism," to suggest some reference to the attitude of the Toronto News upon a certain subject. In one part of his able address in contrasting Canadian journalism with that of the United States, Mr. Willison acknowledges the rather higher standard of the former, and adds that "we often make a tremendous clamour over small issues and deal with large issues in a small way." This may be true in many cases, and perhaps the most pertinent illustration of the truth of this statement is furnished by the Toronto News itself. In its treatment of the questions of the educational clauses of the Northwest Autonomy Bill, the News cannot be said to have held the judicial poise and shown the freedom from inflammatory appeal and pandering to prejudice which should influence the really independent, or even the decent, party journal. Across the front page of the News is flaunted day after day a fac-type legend—"A Free West, A Common School, Provincial Rights and Religious Equality." This is tantamount to saying that all these desirable things are marked for destruction by the terms of the Autonomy Bill. It is beyond the point at present to here argue the question, but it may be said that there is no indication that the people of the North-west feel themselves to be the threatened victims of all the calamities so flamboyantly insisted upon from day to day. "A Free Northwest," as placarded and interpreted by the News suggests chains and slavery. "Public Schools"—that's what they have now in the North-west, as an article in the News itself of March 29th, practically admits. "Provincial Rights"—the system of school such as exists at present and which the Autonomy Bill will simply perpetuate, is the result of the exercise of "Provincial Rights," by the Territories themselves—the very laws which the Territories, acting in their independent sovereign capacity, substituted for the system of Separate Schools, based upon the Act of 1875. "Religious Equality"—Here we have only to refer to the News of March 28th to learn that perfect religious equality exists under the present school system as between Protestants and Roman Catholics—"No religious teaching," the News admits, "except between 3.30 and 4 o'clock and that this privilege of religious teaching is open to Protestants as well as Catholics." In all this, it is perhaps not claiming too much to say that the truth of Mr. Willison's words, as applied to the News, is illustrated — a "tremendous clamour over small issues." This would not be so far amiss, if it were not associated with what many consider the object, or, if not the object, the effect, of the general journalistic policy and tactics of the News, to arouse ill-feeling between the two great creeds of the country, who form respectively 59 and 41 per cent. of our population. It is barely possible that the News may not intend that such effects should attend its plan of campaign, but it will not be seriously denied that such are its tendency and, indeed, result. This may not be susceptible of proof by concrete examples, but that it is true is widely claimed, and acknowledged.

Every agency of this journal seems to be enlisted in the glorious cause of arousing sectarian feeling — its editorial, news and cartoon departments. The Liberal Government is represented as being in the hands of the hierarchy in regard to the educational clauses, and this fact is asserted as plainly as can be done by the means adopted, and with no proof beyond assumption; and with doubtless as little truth as was associated with the "tremendous clamour over small issues," when it was represented by the News that the hierarchy suggested the Sturgeon Falls legislation and agitation, which the News knows, or can know, if it seeks the truth, existent in documentary form, to show how utterly amide from the truth this claim was, and is.

In regard to the News, its independence is sui generis. There are professed independent journals, which in—possibly—rarely lucid intervals, comport themselves in conformity with the idea that there is something good in both parties. But ever since its passing under its present editorial management, it may be safely asserted that on no large issue, except perhaps in regard to some features of the Redistribution Bill, has the News ever been able to discover any political or administrative virtue, or space for commendation in the Liberal party. This may be a far-reaching statement, and, if over-drawn, is open to correction, but it is still largely in harmony with a considerable element of public opinion. The Examiner has no desire to violate the canons of impersonal journalism, by contrasting Mr Willison offensively with the attitude and policy of the News, which he is supposed to control. But with the prominence he has assumed, his personality is largely absorbed in his journalistic capacity. Besides a gentleman who assumes, and quite warrantably, on the grounds of literary ability, and knowledge of the subject, the function of discoursing authoritively on independent journalism, will not reasonably object to temperate reference to the interdependence between his journalistic relations and his journalistic obiter dicta — for eloquent, able and interesting as his lecture on independent journalism was, it seems to be a mere pastime compared to the serious purpose of his life, in ignoring in practice to the extent pointed out the principles he preaches.

Independence in journalism, is no a mere name, it is a quality, and a mere name, without the practice has no more significance than labelling a bit of quartz a diamond.

RUN DOWN BY STREET CAR

John Latchford Struck on George Street This Afternoon.

Was Crossing Street and Was Struck by Fender—Not Seriously Injured

This afternoon John Latchford, of Bridgenorth, was run down by a street car on George street, near the corner of Hunter street.

He was walking across the street from the west to the east side, and when he reached the centre of the street he stopped between the rails and was struck on the legs from behind by the fender of the car, which covered about fifty feet before it was stopped, and the conductor and motorman ran and picked the unfortunate man off the fender.

Latchford was slightly under the influence of liquor, and probably did not notice the car approaching.

He stated that the bell was not rung at the crossing at Fair's, but others who saw the occurance stated that it was sounded.

Luckily the man was not seriously injured, bruises on his legs being about the extent of his injuries.

He is a resident of Bridgenorth, having been employed at Brown's Hotel there.

It is not likely that any legal steps will be taken, since the street railway employees did their duty by ringing the bell.

MORE MID-WEEK LENTEN SERVICES

Rev. Mr. Major Continues His Series of Sermons.

Rev. W. R. Tandy's Wednesday Lecture at St. Luke's

A large congregation attended the regular Lenten service at All Saints last night. Rev. Mr. Major continued his series of addresses on "God's Call to His People", taking for his text the "Burning Bush", Exodus III. and II. Verse. God's call to us is for service. The manner in which we are to perform that service, causes us to realize that God's ways are not our ways. The power of God alone enables us to work for him in an acceptable way,—"Work out your own salvation, for it is God that worketh in you."

In the vision of the burning bush, we have an illustration of the man whom God uses. Forty years before this Moses tried to deliver Israel and failed because he tried to do it in his own strength. He fled to Midian and was there in God's training school. The call came to him in this vision, and from the fact that after the vision he was fitted for the work, we infer that there was a means to his fitness. He learned something that he needed to know. What was it? Common interpretation of the vision is that it means that God's people will survive the fire of persecution. A glance at details shows this to be wrong. The fire is in the bush, not the bush in the fire. The fire is the manifestation of God's presence and the vision means therefore, that God is in the midst of His people, which ensures their deliverance. Both the Old and the New Testaments speak of God as fire. There are three effects of fire—consuming, cleansing and illuminating, and these three effects of God's presence are found in His servants. destroying what is contrary to His will, purifying and illuminating. Are we ready to serve under these conditions? The bush referred to is a thornbush. It bears no fruit, and is typical of God's people—"There is no good thing in us". Are we ready to acknowledge this? It is necessary to the call to service. The fire is in the bush, burning, but the bush is not consumed. God is in the midst and we are called upon to be "burning" and "shining" lights. St. Paul said, "When I am weak, (weak in himself) then am I strong." His prayer is that Christ may dwell in our hearts by faith." Ephesians III.

ST. LUKES.

The special preacher at the Lenten service in St. Lukes on Wednesday night, was the Rev. W. R. Tandy, M.A., who is just entering upon his duties as assistant priest at St. John's. Short Evensong was said by the Rev. E. J. Langfeldt, M. A., the congregation joining heartily in the hymns and responses.

Taking as his text the words, "Jesus of Nazareth Passeth by." Mr. Tandy spoke on the healing of the two blind men at Jericho, on our Lord's last journey to Jerusalem. Blindness, he said, was, and is, especially frequent in the East. While in Northern Europe there is only one blind in a thousand, in Egypt, for instance, even at the present day, there is one in every hundred. The great changes in temperature at different times of the day and night, cause inflammation of the eyes; while neglect and stupid prejudice, refusing or slighting remedies in the earlier stages, lead to blindness in many cases that otherwise might have been cured.

There was, therefore, nothing exceptional in the misfortune which had overtaken the two blind men on the Jericho road. What singled them out for mention in the Gospel story was the fact that they received their sight.

After a simple but vivid description of the miraculous incident, the preacher asked what bearing it might have upon modern life. There was, he said, a spiritual blindness, a darkness of the heart, that was worse than bodily blindness. If it were not so, then why the prayer, "Lighten our Darkness"?

But the least desire for better things in the sin-blinded heart was a star of hope in the gathering gloom. The blind men, though they were sightless, still had the power of speech, and could cry for help. And, "the cry of a believing penitent", as an old writer had said, "was sufficient to stop the most merciful Jesus, were He going to make a new Heaven and a new earth."

The days of miracles were not past. To open the sin-blinded soul of the soul was a greater work than to give sight to the physically blind. If it were only as the Son of God that the Healer called us to Himself, we might hesitate to come. But it was Jesus, "of Nazareth" who was passing by—He Who lived in the humble home, Who wrought in the little carpenter shop, Who ran the whole gamut of human experience, Who was man as well as God. "Jesus of Nazareth was passing by; and thou art passing too," added the preacher—"passing into eternity". Every Lord's Day, every Lent, every Confirmation time, every Sacramental occasion, Jesus was passing by. And, who knows? Perhaps, for the last time. "It may be that He will never pass along the high road of your life—He may pass by, indeed, and we remain unblessed in our darkness; never again to meet Him as Saviour, but one day to stand before Him when He cometh to judge."

DORMITORY PLANS ARE CONFIRMED

Peterborough Y. M. C. A. Will Establish the Dormitory System Already Referred to by the Examiner.

The Plan Contemplates a System of Forty Rooms, but at Present Ten Will be Provided.

Work Will be Started at Once --Will Supply a Pressing Need of the Association Here.

A confirmation of the report, published in the Examiner some months ago, to the effect that the Y.M.C.A. building would be equipped with dormitories, is now forthcoming from official sources, and it is expected that in the course of a few days work will be commenced on the erection of these dormitories.

The impulse which set this project on foot was started last year, when in the spring the association officers were fairly overwhelmed with young men looking for rooms, and the great difficulty experienced in finding places for these young men, who were strangers to town, led the officers of the association to consider the question of providing rooms for young men similarly situated, in the building.

The matter was brought to the attention of the Board of Directors at a meeting held last year, and they showed their usual deep interest in, and sympathy with, the aims and objects of the association, a sympathetic interest which has been evidenced in many ways during the development period of the association here.

A committee composed of Messrs. Harding, Knapman and J. W. Bennet, was appointed and after going into the matter carefully and thoroughly, they reported to the trustees and directors, recommending that the plan, since it appeared possible, be adopted.

The original plan, which is a comprehensive one, includes the establishment of a system of about forty dormitories, and embraces the raising of the present roof of the gymnasium two stories, in which bed rooms are to be placed, as well as the finishing up of the fourth story in the main building, and including a number of rooms there.

The scheme, as presented, was entirely approved of, but it was decided that in the meantime a somewhat modest start would be made, and if the experiment proves as successful, as it is expected it will be, the larger and more pretentious plan will be carried out.

At present ten rooms will be made, which, it is expected, will meet the demand to a considerable degree. Those rooms will be placed on the third story, and to provide for them, it will be necessary only to build partitions in rooms which are already finished.

In the north-west corner of the building a class room will be divided in the centre, making two good rooms, while across the hall, a larger class room will be made into four rooms. Three alcoves will be made in this room to give light, and they will be very comfortable and conveniently laid out.

A large double room at the south side of the building will be converted into three rooms, which, with another room in the same part of the building which will be fitted up for emergency purposes will give ten rooms all of which will be furnished in splendid fashion, and the occupants will be very comfortable, as far as it is in the power of the Association to make them so.

Aid. W. J. Johnston has the contract for this work, which will be commenced at once. Mr. Blackwell has prepared the plans, which are most comprehensive.

Since the report the Examiner some time ago that these dormitories were to be established, the secretary has received a large number of applications for rooms, and it is expected that there will be no difficulty experienced in filling the rooms with Association members.

The improvements contemplated will cost in the neighbourhood of $1500, which will be met largely by a loan which has been negotiated, and which will be repaid by revenue to be derived from the rent of the rooms.

GYMNASIUM CLASS DINED AT LONG'S

Business Men Close The Season in a Fitting Manner.

Excellent Impromtu Addresses Delivered--Many Interesting Reminiscences.

A most enjoyable event, indeed, was the luncheon of the Business Men's Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium Class held last evening in the Palm room at Long's, when around the board were gathered fourteen of the members of that athletic body. Reminiscences of athletic events, both ancient and modern formed the chief subject of discussion, and most fittingly so, as the pleasant event of last night marked the closing of a most pleasant and beneficial season.

That the institution of a business men's class at the Y.M.C.A. has been an excellent and popular feature of the work of physical instruction given there was amply evidenced by the many commendatory references made in the speeches of last night, which were of a short impromptu nature and sparkled with allusions and bright sallies.

The menu was up to the usual "Long" standard which is a sufficient guarantee of its excellence.

The following members of the Class were present:—

P. K. Holmes, F. D. Kerr, G. H. Williamson, D. W. Walker, J. W. Kelly, E. H. D. Hall, K. Eardley-Wilmot, D. Hughes Charles, R. M. Dennistoun, R. Fair, D. H. Moore, H. R. H. Kenner, John Crane, Prof. Davies, and the representatives of the press.

Mr. K. Eardley-Wilmot who fulfilled the duties of chairman in a most satisfactory manner, proposed the toast "The King", which was honoured in the usual manner. He then called upon Mr. Holmes, physical director of the Y.M.C.A.

Mr. Holmes expressed the pleasure he felt that such a body of gentlemen as those present had united in forming a class, and gave in a few words, some of the impressions he had received during the season. Its success was due to the manner in which every member had assisted. He then referred to some of the difficulties which confront the physical director in his work, speaking of the great advance which had been made in the work of the physical culture in the past few years. It is a necessary part of a man's education to improve himself physically in order to make a success in life, and in order to give beneficial instruction a scientific study of the question is necessary, in order to acquire a knowledge of the kind of exercise most beneficial to different physical conditions. The speaker also commented upon the universal recognition of the necessity for physical training from the students in the colleges, to the employees in the large manufacturing concerns.

MR. P. K. HOLMES,

Mr. E. H. D. Hall then added a few remarks, referring in a happy manner to the experiences of Mr. Dennistoun and himself in aquatic sports in younger days. Prof. Davies followed, remarking upon the enjoyment which the classes had furnished him, and upon the benefits which he had received from them. He hoped to be a regular attendant at the classes of next season. Mr. Robt. Fair spoke in his usual happy manner illustrating his remarks by an anecdote told in his own irresistible style. Mr. R. M. Dennistoun completed the story of a boat race mentioned by Mr. Hall, which had occurred just thirty years ago. The race arose from a challenge issued by the Bankers of the town, who were, at that time, had the same vain-glorious opinion of their athletic prowess as they have to-day. Representatives of the legal profession accepted the challenge with alacrity and after a summer's training, met and defeated their opponents and carried off the trophy, which has been a much-prized one. The crew consisted of, besides Mr. Hall and the speaker, Messrs. Edwards, Roger and Beck. Speaking as to the present class, Mr. Dennistoun remarked that he had attended the first business men's class at the Y. M. C. A. eight years ago; Mr. Hall and Mr. Moore were also in the class. He had found it a great benefit and the only thing he regretted was his irregularity. He congratulated Mr. Holmes on the success attained under his direction. He had been particularly struck by the never-failing courtesy which had been extended to everyone. Mr. H. D. Moore also referred to the benefits which he had derived from the classes and spoke of the prowess of some of the members in the game of basket-ball. Mr. G. H. Williamson said that as an official of the association, he had been deeply gratified at the large attendance of business men during the past season. He thought that the class compared favourably with those to be found in any city and that so far as the personnel of the class goes, it will eclipse them all. Mr. Holmes' work had borne out his reputation as one of the best physical directors on the continent. He also felt gratified at the general interest taken by the gentlemen of whom the class was composed. Mr. D. Hughes Charles, commented upon the pleasant nature of every afternoon he had been in attendance and warmly complimented Mr. Holmes upon the excellence of his instruction. He had used great judgment in the selection of the training required for different members. Personally, he had been greatly benefited. Mr. John Crane made a few happily chosen remarks expressive of the pleasure which it had given him to be present at the class. Messrs. F. D. Kerr, H. R. H. Kenner, D. Walker, and J. W. Kelly also added their experiences which had been of a most enjoyable nature. The press representatives also added a few words after which a most enjoyable dinner was brought to a fitting close by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

PRESENTATION TO MR. R. GLIDDON

St. John's Choir Gave Him Handsome Candelabrum

An Appreciative Address by Mr. Morphet—His Services Remembered.

Last night at the Peterborough Conservatory of Music, a pleasing event took place when the members of St. John's choir, of which Mr. Rupert Gliddon has been leader for the last four years, gathered to spend the evening with their late leader, and to give a practical evidence of their appreciation of his services on their behalf, during the years in which he has acted as their leader.

During the evening, on behalf of the choir, Mr. H. Morphett made an appreciative address in which he referred to the able manner in which Mr. Gliddon had performed the duties of his position. Every member of the choir had benefitted by Mr. Gliddon's instruction, and it was with deep regret that they severed their official connection with him.

Mr. Morphet spoke of the friendly relations which had always existed between the members of the choir and their leader, and congratulated the George street choir upon securing the services of such an excellent choir-master, as Mr. Gliddon had proved himself to be. He asked Miss Sawers to present Mr. Gliddon with a handsome silver candelabram on behalf of the members of the choir.

In acknowledging the gift, Mr. Gliddon expressed his deep appreciation of the kindness of the members of his late choir. He had thoroughly enjoyed his association with the choir, and he should always cherish a warm memory of the years he had spent with St. John's choir, which he was now leaving. He wished them success and progress in the future.

Appreciative remarks were made by Rev. Mr. Davidson, rector, and Mr. H. Cluxton, church warden. After the little ceremony a pleasant social hour was spent, enlivened by music, Miss Alice Roger performing the Bethoven number she is to give at her forthcoming recital at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, and Mr. Gilbert Markle giving two movements of a DeBeriot concerto.

FIELD HOCKEY A POPULAR GAME

Will be Introduced by The Y. M. C. A. Here This Season.

A Description of This Interesting and New Pastime—How it is Played.

The Y.M.C.A. will endeavour this year to introduce in Peterborough, the popular English game of field hockey. This is an evolution of the old game of shinny, which was played with a broomhandle or any rough stick. One of the important steps in the development of the game is the introduction of a striking circle. This circle, or rather semicircle, is drawn on a radius of 15 yards around the goal posts. A goal cannot be scored unless driven while in the striking circle. This necessarily does away with rough play and heavy striking from a distance and encourages passing and dribbling the ball. This is a game in which the light man has equal advantage with the heavy man.

The game is very vigorous, greatly developing the wind the legs and in fact the whole body. The danger of getting hurt is very small. Barked shins or cracked knuckles are generally the most serious injuries incurred.

The game calls for quickness, agility and skill. A knowledge of the game is easily mastered. The four points to remember are, hit the ball towards your opponents' goal; don't raise the stick higher than your shoulder; strike from right to left and you will always be on side.

The game is played in a large field about the same outside dimensions as a football gridiron. There is a bullying circle in the centre; 25 yards lines at each end and striking circles of 15 yards radius at each goal.

Field hockey is one of the most popular and most extensively played games in the British Isles. Great enthusiasm is shown each year in the international games between England and Ireland. Equally as great crowds gather to see these events as do to witness the great football battle between Yale and Harvard Universities in the United States. Field hockey has been enthusiastically played at the Y.M.C.A. Training School Springfield, Mass., for the last six years, and the associations all over the States are playing it.

This is a game that the ladies also can play. It is very interesting to see the ladies teams playing together. This is a common and pretty sight in England.

Mr. Holmes, the physical director, will endeavour to introduce the game among the young men of the Y.M.C.A. of Peterborough. A meeting will be called next week.

MILBROOK CRICKET CLUB ORGANIZED

Games Will be Played With Peterboro —Prosperous Season Expected.

Special to The Examiner

Millbrook, March 30th.—A large and most enthusiastic bunch of cricketers met on Saturday evening last for the purpose of organizing and after a short speech from the chairman the election of officers commenced. The club will be under the direction of the following:—

Patrons and Patronesses — Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kells, Mr. and Mrs. R. Ruddy, Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Allen and Mr. E. W. Lamphrey.

Hon. President—Mr. Chas. Needler.
President—Mr. A. A. Smith.
Vice-President—Mr. W. T. Wood.
Captain—W. Mitchell.
Secretary—H. Given.
Treasurer—W. Wedlock.
Executive—A. Leach, R. Dawson, S. Johnston and R. Cochrane.

Although many of the boys have left the vicinity it is expected that the eleven which will appear this season will be superior to previous ones and all are looking forward to the most successful season on record.

Games will be arranged with Port Hope, Peterborough, Omemee, and Lindsay, and practise will commence as soon as weather permits.

BASEBALL.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Peterborough Baseball Club was held on Wednesday night at the Examiner office, when some very important business came up for discussion. The prospects for a team of winners are decidedly bright and the coming season should prove a memorable one in the history of baseball in Peterborough.

It has been decided in addition to the team which will be placed in the Midland Baseball League, to also enter one in the City League. This is a most commendable policy on the part of the Club as it will lend an added stimulus to the game as played amongst the younger players, and should have an excellent effect in the strengthening of the team by the development of new players.

The arrangements with reference to the concert which the club purpose holding on Monday, April 25th, have been concluded and it promises to be a most successful affair. Mr. Bert Harvey and the Harmony Male Quartette are both strong favourites with Peterborough audiences and should draw a bumper house.

The fans will regret to learn of the retirement of Mr. Chris. Graham from the baseball arena. The generous assistance lent by Mr. Graham in former years has been of invaluable service in baseball matters, and his loss will be keenly felt by the boys. The true sportsmanlike interest which he has taken has always been of a most useful nature and is much appreciated by all devotes of the game in town. It is hoped that Mr. Graham may reconsider his decision and once again don a Peterborough uniform.

The Crescents, the Park Nine and St. Mary's have written to secure a game with the Peterboro's on May 24th, so a good game on that date is an assured fact.

The members of the Quakers Baseball team are asked to hand in their suits to Mr. F. Pilling, the manager, as they are to be sold. New suits have been ordered and will be issued as soon as they arrive.

MISCELLANEOUS.

There will be teams of out-of-door basketball, baseball, field hockey, and quoits organized this summer at the Y. M. C. A. Lists for players will be found on the office counter. Look for date of meetings next week.

DEBATE ON THE ADDRESS.

Opposition Speaker Warmly Applauded —Several Bright Speeches Made— Debate to Conclude To-day.

Toronto, March 30.—There were several bright addresses in the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the Throne during yesterday afternoon's session of the Legislature. Dr. Lewis, who resumed for the Government, has a not unpleasant conversational method of making a speech, and his remarks, like those of the other Ministerialist benchers who spoke, were free from the restraint usually noticeable in members addressing the House for the first time.

Only Opposition Speaker.

The only speaker for the Opposition was Mr. Smith of Sault Ste. Marie, and his address was markedly interesting, particularly in his references to the development of New Ontario, with the needs of which he is thoroughly acquainted and whose interests he ably championed last session, and in his allusion to the prosperity of the Soo industries. His address was warmly applauded by the Opposition, and the Government members heartened their speakers in the same manner.

Debate to Conclude To-day.

The debate will be continued this afternoon by Mr. Pattinson (North Waterloo), and will, it is expected, be concluded before adjournment at 6 o'clock, the understanding being that Mr. Harcourt will wind up for the Opposition and that Premier Whitney will close the debate.

The following committee was appointed, on motion of the Premier and Mr. Foy, to assist the Speaker in the care of the library: Messrs. Whitney, Foy, Matheson, Pyne, Hendrie, Hanna, Lucas, Ross, Harcourt, Graham, Preston (Brant).

Opposition Caucus.

A caucus of the Opposition members was held yesterday, Mr. Harcourt presiding. C. M. Bowman was elected chief whip and J. B. Tudhope assistant. Matters of policy were discussed in a general way, but no action was taken.

Private Hospitals Get No Aid.

Hon. Mr. Hanna has decided that none other but public hospitals may share in the grants made by the Province toward hospitals. The rule will be strictly adhered to, he says.

The grant has been $110,000 per year, divided amongst the hospitals on the basis of the aggregate number of days spent in hospitals by patients. Sixty public hospitals are now partaking of the grant. Only half a dozen private hospitals will be affected by the new rule.

Enforcement of Fisheries Act.

The Commissioner of Public Works received a deputation from Collingwood and Meaford asking for the better enforcement of fishing regulations in Georgian Bay, beset by poachers to a large extent. Consideration was promised by Hon. Dr. Reaume.

The Speaker will give the first of the sessional dinner this evening in the Speaker's apartments.

Cured Kidney Disease

Mrs. Fred Hills, Walton street, Port Hope, Ont., states:—"I was troubled for some time with kidney disease, and though I tried a great many different medicines never succeeded in obtaining relief until I began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. By the regular use of this preparation for a time I was completely cured of kidney disease."

Millionaire Must Go to Jail.

San Francisco, March 31.—Griffith J. Griffith, the Los Angeles millionaire, who three years ago attempted to kill his wife, must spend two years in State prison and pay a fine of $5,000, according to the decision of the State Supreme Court, which has affirmed the sentence of the lower court. Griffith gave a park of 3,000 acres to Los Angeles.

Swallowed Carbolic Acid.

Toronto, March 31.—William Gundlay, 467 Preston avenue, died yesterday from the effects of carbolic acid poisoning. He was a painter and has not been in the best of health. A widow and three adult children survive.

Bill to Kill Bucket Shops.

Albany, March 31.—A bill proposing to prohibit all "bucket shops and bucket shooping" in New York State was introduced in the Assembly yesterday.

Monkey Brand Soap cleans kitchen utensils, steel, iron and tinware, knives and forks, and all kinds of cookery.

45,000 Miners to Quit.

Altoona, Pa., March 30.—The operators and miners of the Central Bituminous District of Pennsylvania, after being in conference here almost continuously since March 16, endeavoring to agree upon a wage scale to go into effect on April 1, adjourned finally yesterday without coming to an agreement. The failure to agree means a suspension of work by the 45,000 organized miners of the district at the end of the present month.

Pleads Guilty.

Brantford, March 30.—Harold Bamphilon, who was brought here from Toronto last night, yesterday pleaded guilty to forgery. His case was adjourned. The offences were committed in January, 1903.

Dr. Mills Very Ill.

Ottawa, March 30.—Dr. Mills, of the Canadian Railway Commission, is seriously ill with kidney trouble. He was low Monday and Tuesday, but was reported to be improved last night.

WHOLE TRAIN RAN OVER HIM.

W. H. Hoyt, G. T. R. Brakeman, of Toronto, Met Horrible Death.

Hamilton, March 30.—Yesterday morning W. H. Hoyt, of Toronto, a G. T. R. brakeman, met a horrible death on Hamilton Beach. While running along the top of his train he fell between the cars and the rest of the train passed over him. He was 33 years of age. The remains were taken to Dyne's Hotel, where an inquest was opened last night by Coroner Thompson and adjourned till next Monday. The dead man's friends have been notified, but they have not claimed the body yet.

Mrs. Thompson Died Also.

Winnipeg, March 30.—Mrs. John Thompson, whose husband was suffocated and she herself badly burned as the result of the explosion of kerosene with which she was attempting to light the kitchen fire Tuesday afternoon, died of her injuries shortly after 11 p. m. She was severely burned in all parts of her body.

Skull Fractured by Pulley.

Toronto, March 30.—A falling pulley fractured the skull of William Jenkins, a farmer, while he was working at the Cosgrave Brewery yesterday. He was taken to the Western Hospital.

Will Likely Get Better.

Toronto, March 30.—Lily Mulvaney, the young woman who was struck by a street car on Thursday last, has a fair chance of recovering. She is conscious now and her doctors say that the fracture of the skull is not as serious as they at first thought.

Proper Treatment of Pneumonia.

Pneumonia is too dangerous a disease for anyone to attempt to doctor himself, although he may have the proper remedies at hand. A physician should always be called. It should be borne in mind, however, that pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of the grip, and by the proper treatment of these diseases a threatened attack of pneumonia may be warded off. There is no question whatever about this, as during the thirty years or more that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been used, we have yet to learn of a single case of cold or attack of the grip having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used. It is also used by physicians in the treatment of pneumonia with the best results. Dr. W. J. Smith, of Sanders, Ala., who is also a druggist, says of it: "I have been selling Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and prescribing it in my practice for the past six years. I use it in cases of pneumonia and have always gotten the best results." For sale by all druggists.

HELD IN NEW YORK.

Capt. Salmon and a Doctor Accused by Capt. Spain, of Ottawa.

New York, March 30.—Capt. O. G. V. Spain, of the British navy, stationed as a harbor wrecker at Ottawa, Canada, appeared in the Jefferson Market Court yesterday afternoon as complainant against Capt. Reginald Salmon, a captain in the British army, who is charged jointly with Dr. Andrew Fulton, of No. 370 Fiftieth street, Brooklyn, with causing the serious illness of the wife of Capt. Spain two weeks ago.

It is alleged that Capt. Salmon and Mrs. Spain left Canada at the same time and that Capt. Spain learned through his fifteen year old son, who corresponded with his mother, that the latter was in this city.

Capt. Salmon and Dr. Fulton were arrested yesterday morning where Capt. Salmon lived for some time, and where, it was said, he was known as Capt. Spain. Mrs. Spain was in court. Both prisoners were held in $2,000 bail for a further examination to-day.

PARISIAN AT A STANDSTILL.

When Crash Occurred, So Witnesses Say—Enquiry Has Begun.

Halifax, March 30.—The preliminary investigation into the Parisian-Albano collision commenced Tuesday. Four witnesses were called—Capt. Johnston, First Officer Collins, Third Officer Griffiths and Rev. Dr. Kirkpatrick, of Cambridge University. The gist of the evidence was that the ship was at a standstill at the time of the collision.

The condition of the Parisian is unchanged, except that she has become slightly bogged. The agent of the German steamer libelled her yesterday for $60,000.

The hull of the Allan boat has been made tight and the pumps will be started towards morning.

Invites Nations of Earth.

Washington, March 30.—President Roosevelt last night issued a proclamation inviting the nations of the earth to be represented by their military organizations and naval vessels at the celebration of the birth of the American nation to be held in the vicinity of Jamestown, Virginia, from May 18 until November, 1907.

New Transvaal Constitution.

London, March 30.—A new constitution for the Transvaal has just been signed in London, and will shortly be presented to Parliament for its deliberation.

RIDGETOWN'S SENSATION.

Insane Farmhand Tries to Kill His Former Employer.

Ridgetown, March 30.—Frustrated in an attempt to burn the barn of Geo. M. Eastlake, a well-known Oxford farmer, for whom he worked last summer, Percy McIntyre, a young Englishman, made a desperate but unsuccessful attempt on the life of his former employer.

McIntyre, who is said to be insane, bore a grudge against Eastlake, and when the latter saw him crossing the yard toward the barn he ordered the Englishman off his grounds. McIntyre then turned toward the house and entered at the kitchen door. Eastlake followed. When Eastlake crossed the threshold McIntyre stood with a sledge hammer, ready to strike, but taking advantage of the weight of the weapon Eastlake rushed in upon him and the two went down.

Shouted to Wife to Get Aid.

Eastlake was uppermost, but was unable to hold his assailant, and shouted to his wife to get aid. Mrs. Eastlake returned after a few minutes with a neighbor, and the prisoner was bound hand and foot.

McIntyre was locked up and appeared before G. A. Watson, J. P., yesterday afternoon. He will be taken to Chatham for trial.

McIntyre admitted that he had intended to burn down the barn, but felt that it was a shame to burn the cattle. The prisoner has recently caused considerable trouble to the police in Windsor and Chatham.

DEATH OF LORD NORTON.

Under Secretary for the Colonies Under Lord Derby.

London, March 30.—Lord Norton, who as Sir Charles Adderley, took an active part in the establishment of colonial self-government, is dead, aged 90 years.

Lord Norton, the Rt. Hon. Sir Charles Bowyer Adderley, K. C. M. G., the eldest son of the late Charles Clement Adderley, of Harris Hall, Warwickshire, and Norton, Staffordshire, was born in August, 1814. He graduated as B. A. from Christ Church in 1835, and was elected to the House of Commons as a Conservative in 1841 to represent the northern division of Staffordshire, which seat he retained 37 years. He became Under Secretary for the Colonies under Lord Derby, and was made K. C. M. G. in 1869. In 1874 he was appointed President of the Board of Trade. He took an active part in the establishment of colonial self-government and in the introduction of reformatory institutions, and was the author of works on education and penal discipline, and other subjects connected with colonial interests. He was raised to the Peerage in 1878, and took his title from Norton-on-the-Moors in Staffordshire.

MURTON WAS IN TROUBLE.

Was Wanted in Berlin on a Charge of Fraud.

Toronto, March 30.—Coroner Orr yesterday held an inquest on Arthur W. Murton, whose body was found near the railroad tracks at High Park on Tuesday morning. As there was no evidence to show how the fatality occurred, and nothing to indicate foul play, the jury brought in a verdict of accidental death.

There is no doubt that deceased was in a worried state of mind, and was in financial difficulties of some kind, as the following Berlin despatch shows:

"A. W. Murton was wanted here by High Constable Huber on a charge of obtaining $100 under false pretences from Jacob Hespeler, manager of the Molsons Bank at Waterloo. A warrant for his arrest had been issued, and the authorities at Guelph, Toronto and other points notified."

GRAND RIVERS RAMPAGE.

Big Hole Torn in Dam at Hespeler—A Sawmill Burned.

Guelph, March 30.—R. Harwood's sawmill near Speedside was burned out on Monday night and a large quantity of lumber in the yard was destroyed. The loss will be over $3,000. No insurance.

Wm. A. Kribs, ex-M. P. P., Hespeler, was in the city yesterday. He states that the ice above the dam of the Canadian woollen mills went off Tuesday night and tore out a hole in the stone work thirty feet wide and twelve feet high within a couple of feet of the dam, which is fourteen feet high. There are fears that the dam will break. If it does some ten bridges between there and Galt will likely be swept from the speed into the Grand River.

Doctors Said That Lumps and External Swellings Would Turn to Running Sores.

Mrs. Jacob Kachler, Zurich, Ont., says that

Burdock Blood Bitters

Saved Her from Many Years of Suffering.

She writes:—"Now imagine how joyous and great was my surprise when a friend of mine told me that Burdock Blood Bitters would cure me, so that the lumps and external swellings, which the doctors told me would turn to running sores, would disappear. I took her advice, and can say that I have no doubt but that Burdock Blood Bitters has saved me from years of suffering. It is with the greatest of pleasure and with a thankful heart that I give this testimonial, knowing that Burdock Blood Bitters has done so much for me, and you are at perfect liberty to use this for the benefit of others similarly afflicted."

Burdock Blood Bitters is the best blood medicine on the market to-day, and is composed entirely of roots, herbs, barks and berries.

BAD COMPLEXIONS

Can be Covered up With Lotions, Washes and Powders Containing Arsenic, Lead and Mineral Poisons. But These Always Make a Bad Matter Worse. How to Obtain a Good Complexion in Nature's Way.

It is rank nonsense to attempt to cover up or hide a bad complexion or a sallow, mottled skin by cosmetics, face powders or skin foods, many of which contain zinc, lead or arsenic, and all of which in the end make bad matters worse. The only safe and sure way to improve the complexion is by purifying and enriching the blood, by keeping the bowels regular and the liver healthy and active. Bad blood is responsible for a bad complexion, and in turn bad blood is a direct result of bad bowels. An antiseptic and resolvent is needed as well as an alterative and evacuant. Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills possess all these properties in a remarkable degree. They act directly on the liver and bowels, cleanse and enrich the blood and in this way quickly improve the complexion. When you consider that pineapple is a most efficient intestinal antiseptic and that butternut is unequalled as a liver regulator, you can quite understand why Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills are used by so many ladies to keep their blood pure and their skin rosy and clear of pimples, blotches and sallowness. These little health promoters are purely vegetable, never gripe or weaken, and always cure sick headache, constipation and biliousness in one night. 25 cents. All dealers.

The Heart's Highway

Copyright, 1900, by DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.

It was finally agreed that Captain Tabor's plan should be carried out, and I wended my way back to Drake Hill with a feeling of triumph to which I of late years had been a stranger. I know of nothing in the poor life of a man equal to that great delight of being of service to one beloved.

I reflected with such ever increasing joy that it finally became an ecstasy, and I could almost, it seemed, see the colors of it in my path; how, had it not been for me, Mary Cavendish might have been in sore straits, and I verily believe I was as happy for the time as if she had been my promised sweetheart and was as proud of myself.

When about half way to Drake Hill I heard afar off a great din of bells and horns and voices, which presently came nearer. Then the road was filled up with the dancing May revelers, and verily I wondered not so much at those decrees against such practices before the Restoration, for it was as if the savages which they do say are underneath the outer gloss of the best of us had broke loose, and I wondered if it might not be like those mad and unlawful orgies which it was said the god Pan led himself in person through Thessalian groves.

Those honest country maids, who in the morning had advanced with rustic but innocent freedom, with their glossy heads crowned with flowers, and those lusty youths, who were indeed something boisterous, yet still held in a tight rein by decency, had seemingly changed their very natures, or rather, perhaps, had come to that pass when their natures could be no longer concealed. Along the road in the white moonlight they stamped as wantonly as any herd of kine; youths and maids with arms about each other and all with faces flushed with ale drinking, and the maids with tossing hair and draggled coats, and all the fresh garlands withered or scattered.

And the old graybeard who was Maid Marion was riotously drunk and borne aloft with mad and feeble gesturings on the shoulders of two staggering young men, and after him came the aged morris dancers, only upheld from collapse in the mire by mutual upholdings, until they seemed like some monstrous animal moving with uncouth sprawls of legs as multifold as a centipede, and wavering drunkenly from one side of the road to the other, lurching into the dewy bushes, then recovering by the joint effort of the whole.

I stood well back to let them pass being in that mood of self importance, by reason of my love and the service rendered by it, that I could have seen the whole posse led to the whipping block with a relish, when suddenly, from their tipsy throats, came a shout of such import that my heart stood still. "Down with the king," hallooed one mad reveler, in a voice of such thickness that the whole sentence seemed one word; then the others took it up, until verily it seemed to me that their heads were not worth a farthing. Then, "Down with the governor! Down with Lord Culpeper!" shouted that same thick voice of the man who was leading the wild crew like a bellwether. He forged ahead, something more steady on his legs, but all the madder of his wits for that, with an arm around the waist of a buxom lass on either side, and all three dancing in time. Then all the rest echoed that shout of "Down with the governor!" Then out he burst again with, "Down, down with the tobacco, down with the tobacco!"

But the volley of that echo was cut short by five horsemen galloping after the throng and scattering them to the right and left. Then a great voice of authority, set out with the strangest oaths which ever an imagination of evil compassed, called out to them to be still if they valued their heads and cursed them all for drunken fools, and as he spoke lashed with his whip from side to side, and his face gleamed with wrath like a demon's in the full light, and I saw he was Captain Noel Jaynes, and well understood how he had made a name for himself on the high seas.

After him rode the brothers, Nicholas and Richard Barry, two great men, sticking to their saddles like rocks, with fair locks alike on the head of each flung out on the wind, and then came Ralph Drake, rising in his stirrups and laughing wildly, and last Parson Downs, but only last because the road was blocked, for verily I thought his plunging horse would have all before him under his feet.

They were all past me in a trice like a dream, the May revelers scattering and hastening forward with shrieks of terror and shouts of rage and peals of defiant laughter, and Captain Jaynes' voice, like a trumpet, overbearing everything, and shouts from the Barry brothers echoing him, and now and then coming the deep rumble of expostulations from the parson's great chest, and Ralph Drake's peals of horse laughter, and I was left to consider what a tinder box this colony of Virginia was, and how ready to leap to flame at a spark even when seemingly most at peace, and to regard with more and more anxiety Mary Cavendish's part in this brewing tumult.

After the shouting and hallooing throng had passed I walked along slowly, reflecting, as I have said, when I saw in the road before me two advancing—a woman and a man leading a horse by the bridle—and it was Mary Cavendish and Sir Humphrey Hyde.

And when I came up with them they stopped, and Humphrey addressed me rudely enough, but as one gentleman might another when he was angered with him, and not contemptuously, for that was never the lad's way with me. "Master Wingfield," he said, standing before me and holding his champing horse hard by the bits, "I pray you have the grace to explain this matter of the goods."

I saw that Mistress Mary had been acquainting him with what had passed and her puzzlement over it.

"There is naught to explain, Sir Humphrey," said I. "'Tis very simple. Mistress Mary hath the goods for which she sent to England."

"Master Wingfield, you know those are my Lady Culpeper's goods, and I have no right to them!" cried Mary. But I bowed and said, "Madam, the goods are yours and not Lady Culpeper's."

"But I—I lied when I gave the list to my grandmother!" she cried out, half sobbing, for she was after all little more than a child tiptoed to womanhood by enthusiasm.

"Madam," said I, and I bowed again, "you mistake yourself. Mistress Mary Cavendish cannot lie, and the goods are in truth yours."

She and Sir Humphrey looked at each other. Then Humphrey made a stride forward and, forcing back his horse with one hand, grasped me with the other. "Harry, Harry," he said in a whisper, "tell me, for God's sake, what have you done?"

"The goods are Mistress Mary Cavendish's," said I. They looked at me as I have seen folk look at a page of Virgil.

"Were they, after all, not my Lady Culpeper's?" asked Sir Humphrey.

"They are Mistress Mary Cavendish's," said I.

Mary turned suddenly to Sir Humphrey. "'Tis time you were gone now, Humphrey," she said softly. "'Twas only last night you were here, and there is need of caution, and your mother"—

"But Humphrey was loth to go. "'Tis not late," he said, "and I would know more of this matter."

"You will never know more of Master Wingfield, if that is what you wait for," she returned, with a half laugh, "and, Humphrey, your sister Cicely said but this morning that your mother was overcurious. I pray you go, and Master Wingfield will take me home. I pray you go!"

Sir Humphrey took her hand and bent low over it and murmured something. Then before he sprang to his saddle he came close to me again. "Harry," he whispered, "she should not be in this business, and I would have not had it so could I have helped it, and, I pray you, have a care to her safety." This he spoke so low that Mary could not hear, and moreover she, with one of those sudden turns of hers that made her have as many faces of delight as a diamond in the sun, had thrown an arm around the neck of Sir Humphrey's mare and was talking to her in such dulcet tones as her lovers would have died for the sake of hearing in their ears.

"Have no fears for her safety," I whispered back. "So far as the goods go, there is no more danger."

"What did you, Harry?"

"Sir Humphrey," I whispered back, while Mary's sweet voice in the mare's delicate ear sounded like a song, "sometimes an unguessed riddle hath less weight than a guessed one, and some fish of knowledge had best be left in the stream. I tell thee she is safe." So saying I looked him full in his honest, boyish face, which was good to see, though sometime I wished, for the maid's sake, that it had more shrewdness of wit in it. Then he gave me a great grasp of the hand and whispered something hoarsely. "Thou art a good fellow, Harry, in spite of—in spite of"—then he bent low over Mary's hand for the second time and sprang to his saddle and was off toward Jamestown on his white mare, flashing along the moonlit road like a whiter moonbeam.

Then Mary came close to me and did what she had never before done since she was a child. She laid her little hand on my arm of her own accord. "Master Wingfield," said she softly, "what about the goods?"

"The goods for which you sent to England are yours and in the great house," said I, and I heard my voice tremble.

She drew her hand away and stood looking at me, and her sweet forehead under her golden curls was all knitted with perplexity.

"You know—you know I—lied?" she whispered like a guilty child.

"You cannot lie," I answered, "and the goods are yours."

"And not my Lady Culpeper's?"

"And not my Lady Culpeper's."

Mary continued looking at me, then all at once her forehead cleared.

"Catherine, 'twas Catherine," she cried out. "She said not, but well I know her; she would not own to it—the sweetheart. Sure a falsehood to hide a loving deed is the best truth of the world. 'Twas Catherine, 'twas Catherine, the sweetheart, the darling. She sent for naught for herself, and hath been saving for a year's time and maybe sold a ring or two. Somehow she discovered about the plot, what I had done. And she hath heard me say, that I know well, that I thought 'twas a noble list of Lady Culpeper's and I wished I were a governor's wife or daughter that I could have fine things. I remember me well that I told her thus before ever the Golden Horn sailed for England, that time after Cicely Hyde slept with me and told me what she had from Cate Culpeper. A goodly portion of the goods were for Cate. 'Twas Catherine. Oh, the sweetheart, the darling! Was there ever sister like her?"

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN.

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write to Dr. Pierce and receive free the advice of a physician of over forty years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many sensitively modest women write fully to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce thinks that these distasteful examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment cures in the privacy of your home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands of bad cases. It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. Some unscrupulous medicine dealers may offer you a substitute. Don't take it. Don't trifle with your health. Write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.—take his advice and be well.

Mrs. R. D. Monfort, of Lebanon, Warren Co., O., writes: "I have received the 'Medical Adviser.' A crisp, new five dollar bill could not tempt me to part with it."

On receipt of 21 one-cent stamps, to pay cost of mailing only, we will send to any address a paper-bound copy of Dr. Pierce's great 1000-page book, "The Common Sense Medical Adviser." Or, for 50 stamps the same in cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

CENTRE TORONTO VACANCY.

Robinette Declines Liberal Nomination—Conservative by Acclamation.

Toronto, March 30.—The Liberal executive of Centre Toronto met last night and tendered a unanimous nomination to T. C. Robinette, but he declined.

"Will the nomination be offered to anyone else?" he was asked.

"I think not," said Mr. Robinette. "That ends the matter as far as we are concerned."

"Then the nomination will go by acclamation?"

"Yes; unless the Toronto Reform Association decides to call a convention."

Secretary Hay's Health.

Gibraltar, March 30.—The White Star Line steamer Cretic, from New York March 18 for Naples, with Secretary of State Hay and Mrs. Hay on board, arrived here yesterday morning. Although Secretary Hay has improved he has by no means recovered his health.

Demers is Dying.

Quebec, March 30.—L. J. Demers, M. P. for Levis, who has been severely ill for some time at Levis, is in a critical condition. He made a slight rally last week, but yesterday suffered a relapse, and his physician holds out little hope of his recovery.

Prohibition of Cigarettes.

Madison, Wis., March 30.—The Wisconsin Senate yesterday, after a long debate, passed the Evans anti-cigarette bill. The bill, which absolutely prohibits the sale or manufacture of cigarettes or cigarette paper, now goes to the Governor.

Powers Will Intervene.

Canea, Island of Crete, March 28.—Prince George has issued a proclamation declaring that the powers had ordered foreign troops to participate in the restoration of order. The British cruiser Juno has arrived at Suda Bay.

Could Not Walk Ten Yards Without Resting.

Mrs. D. Herkimer, Hall's Bridge, Ont., was Troubled with Weak Heart and Sleeplessness.

How many women are troubled with a weak heart? How many lie, night after night, trying to sleep, and can't? Perhaps you are one of them? If so, read what Mrs. Herkimer says. It may save you years of suffering if you take her advice:—

"I am now enjoying the best of health, after having used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I was troubled with a weak heart, and was afraid to draw a long breath, for the pain it would cause me. I could not sleep at night, and it was impossible for me to walk ten yards without resting myself. I cannot speak too highly of your Heart and Nerve Pills; they are the greatest pill I have ever used, and can recommend them to all sufferers."

The price of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills is 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25. For sale by all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price.

Khan's Palace Besieged.

Askhabad, Caucasus, March 29.—Refugees from Kuchan, Persia, report that the Palace of the Khan is besieged by an armed mob. The popular resentment against him is intense in consequence of allegation that he has been exploiting the people. The refugees charge that Mohammedans from Baku are responsible for exciting the population against the Christians.

Another Paul Kruger Appears.

Pittsburg, March 29.—Charles Turner, aged 30 years, a convict in the Western Pennsylvania Penitentiary, was murdered at that institution yesterday by Paul Kruger, another convict, during an altercation while at work.

COURT CHEMONG OPEN MEETING

An Enjoyable Evening Under Auspices of Independent Foresters

Mock Trial an Interesting Feature — Presentation to Mr. Brown.

It was open night with Court Chemong No. 820, I. O. F. last evening, and they entertained their friends in the S.O.E. Hall with a delightful concert. It was a success in every way, there being a large attendance and the programme being varied and of superior order. The Foresters fully upheld the reputations they have attained to give successful entertainments. Bro. D. Wallace, V. C. R. occupied the chair.

Several selections given by Bro. E. Grey's gramophone were well received. Miss Bessie Powell followed it a recitation, "How Mickey got Killed in the War", which was met with warm applause. A piano selection by Miss Jennie Buyers was exceedingly well executed. She was compelled to respond to an encore. Miss Bessie Powell then contributed another recitation and was heartily encored. The gramophone gave another selection after which Miss Mabel Rickey was heard to advantage in a vocal solo which was received warmly and an encore demanded.

A comic solo by Mr. C. J. Coleman was one of the features of the evening. His costumes were good and his songs new, and well rendered. Messrs. Peters and Richards were heard to advantage in an instrumental duet and had to respond to an encore. A vocal solo, "In dear old Fairyland", was given in excellent voice and Mr. W. Williams also favoured the audience with a solo. Miss Mary Coster's solo was well received. Mr. W. J. Coleman showed that the art of comic singing was as well known to him as to his brother. His selections created much merriment. A very enjoyable part of the programme was a mock trial. Mr. G. N. Brown, of Belleville, High Court Organiser, was the prisoner and the charge against him was "that he was a member of a secret society. Bro. A. Allison made a very dignified judge and his rulings were much admired. Bros. W. Buyers conducted the prosecution while Bro. G. W. Powell looked after the prisoner's interests. The case provoked much amusement. The defence did not deny that the prisoner belonged to a secret society but attempted to prove that the society was a beneficial one. The judge, however, said that they were trying, not the society, but the prisoner.

The jury, without retiring, found the prisoner guilty, with a strong recommendation to mercy." The judge then sentenced the prisoner to wear an emblem of the order all his life, so that people might know him for a member of a secret society. The emblem was then presented to Mr. Brown, by Court Chemong. It consisted of a very handsome gold locket, suitably inscribed with the emblems of the order. Mrs. Brown, who was declared to be an accomplice of her husband was also found guilty, and was presented with a beautiful crescent pin.

Mr. Brown, on behalf of his wife and himself thanked the Order for the kindness they had shown them and for the beautiful gifts which they had just received.

At the conclusion of the programme refreshments were served by the ladies and an half hour socially spent.

GUARDS HELD ANNUAL MEETING

Young Men of St. Andrew's Church Decide to Hold Concert With Owen Smiley as Artist.

St. Andrew's Guards held their annual meeting last night. The following are the officers for the ensuing year.

Hon. President—Rev. J. G. Potter.
President—Miss L. O. Richardson.
Vice-President—Mr. Harvey Mc Cullough.
Secretary—Mr. Frate Reid.
Treasurer—Mr. Murray Miller.
Councillors—Mr. Fred. Richardson, Mr. Elsie Curry and Mr. John Logan.

The representatives to the Junior Guild are, John Evans, Gordon Stark, and Allan VanEvery.

The Guards intend holding their annual concert on Tuesday evening, April 25th and have secured Mr. Owen A. Smiley, the ever-popular humourist and entertainer of Toronto, and, with local talent this should prove a great success. The proceeds of the concert will go to support a cot in the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto.

Nervous, Sick Headache

Mr. O. Barber, Simcoe, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled for a long time with headaches, which would come on about once a week with such violence that I could not eat or do my work. I tried headache powders and quick cures, which did no good. About eight months ago I took six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I have not been troubled with headache since."

FORGERY OF MR. DUMBLE'S NAME

A Threatening Letter Which on Account of Mis-Direction Was Not Delivered and Mr. Dumble Received It From The Dead Letter Office---An Interesting Specimen of Penmanship and Spelling--Alleged Solid Scandal in Which Peterborough Persons are Thereby Implicated.

Yesterday Mr. D. W. Dumble received from the Dead Letter Office, a letter which evidently had been misdirected, and was signed by a forgery of Mr. Dumble's name. The letter, a reduced fac-simile of which appears on this page was written to a person in town, and both his name and that of the woman mentioned are well known, but for obvious reasons, both names are suppressed. Mr. Dumble was naturally greatly surprised to receive the letter, which, of course, he never wrote, and knew nothing about. Evidently the intention the forging writer of the letter had in mind was to frighten the person to whom it was addressed.

The epistle is an extremely difficult one to decipher, but after considerable trouble it was found to be as follows:—

Peterborough.
March 8, 1905.

Dear Sir,—Mr. O.— L——, I got notes that you was liven with Mrs. M——, without be marries if you dont leave there at once we can prosetute you and give you sentenl prisen.

Dear sir pay a tenshen to my notes From Mr. D. Dumbll.

Township of Peterborough.

It was posted on March 8th, 1905, at 1.30 p. m., and was sent to the Dead Letter Office endorsed "Not Called for", the reason for its non-delivery being doubtless the fact that it was misdirected.

The letter is now in the hands of the police and if the writer is discovered the law will be put into operation to deal with him.

AN EVENING WITH DICKENS

Enjoyable Entertainment at St. Paul's Missjon Last Night.

Splendid Addresses by Rev. Mr Ketchen and Sheriff Hall—Musical Numbers

A delightful evening was that spent in St. Paul's Mission last night when a large number of persons, the limit of the building's capacity, in fact, enjoyed "An Evening with Dickens," the principal speakers being Rev. H. B. A. Ketchen, and Sheriff Hall, the former dealing with his life, and the latter speaking of his work. Both addresses were intensely interesting to everyone, and to lovers of Dickens, especially, and those who attended were amply repaid for the time spent.

In view of the other strong counter attractions, the attendance was remarkably large, and as a consequence the funds of the Mission Band of St. Paul's Mission, under the auspices of which the entertainment was given, were increased satisfactorily, and money, in plenty, will be available for the objects of the Band, viz., that of providing clothing for the children, on the Canadian mission fields.

In addition to the literary numbers on the programme, two delightful voice solos were given, the artists being Mrs. K. Eardley-Wilmot and Mr. Jos. Legg, both of whom were in excellent voice, and their selections were highly appreciated by the audience, as was evidenced by the applause with which their numbers were received.

Preceding the address of Rev. Mr. Ketchen, Mrs. Eardley-Wilmot favoured the audience with the first solo, and Mr. Legg sang after Mr. Hall's lecture, and was recalled.

The chair was taken by Mr. J. W. Bennat, who congratulated the young ladies of the Mission Band upon the success of the evening, viewed from the standpoint of attendance, and predicted that it would be equally as successful in point of enjoyment to the audience, which prophecy was entirely fulfilled.

In his address on the life of Dickens, Rev. Mr. Ketchen referred to the characteristic features of the man, and said that while his writings were not brilliant, they gave evidence of the fact that he was able to appreciate the humorous side of life, and that he was gifted with an unusually keen perception of human character, the result of which was that his writings, dealing, as they did, with everyday life, were, and are, intensely interesting to the reader.

The speaker reviewed the incidents in the life of the great English novelist, from his birth, in which he gave the lie to superstition, by making his advent into the world on a Friday, and at midnight.

The first nine years of his life, which were spent in a careless and happy fashion, but because of the possession of a not rugged constitution, not in the enjoyment of the usual English pastimes, were referred to by the speaker, who also spoke of the hardships which a reverse of fortune brought him, and which were his companion until he had reached the age of 19 years, when he became a gentlementary reporter, in which capacity he learned many lessons which were valuable to him in his life's work. Mr Ketchen also believed that Dickens' early misfortunes had proved of great benefit to him, since through them he was given an insight into a side of life of which he would otherwise have known but little.

His successful career was traced by the speaker in an interesting manner and a number of his books were referred to appreciatively. The works of Dickens, were the subject of a most interesting and instructive hour's talk by Sheriff Hall, who is well known as an ardent student of Dickens. An interesting feature of Mr. Hall's address, was the reading of a number of selections from his different works, which illustrated points he wished to emphasize.

In 1837 he said, the Pickwick papers made their first appearance with no plot, no connected story, no beginning or middle or end, but from the first it took entire possession of the reading public, and with the appearance of the number in which the celebrated Sam Weller appears the hitherto almost unknown author became at once the most popular writer of his age. Mr. Hall quoted Justin McCarthy's tribute to the influence of Dickens upon popular speech and thought. His wit and humour coloured the language of the street, and people unconsciously quoted him in their social gatherings. The speaker said that the terms "The Dickens," "The Douce," used as the Scotch lady said, who did not want to be disrespectful to a personage of such commanding influence, "the other gentleman," were almost synonymous terms 40 years ago.

No other English writer has peopled our imaginations with such a medley of characters of whom we are constantly talking as if they were personal acquaintances. The most striking quality in Dickens' writings is his humour, for he is the greatest master of humour that perhaps our language has produced. The laughter he causes is innocent laughter, and the tears are wholesome tears. One great element in the power which Dickens exercised over so many thousands of readers was his thorough acquaintance and sympathy with the characters with whom he peopled his books. The scenes he painted were from life, and studied with the minutest care. His great task seemed to be to cast the sunshine of pathos, and genial smiles over the humblest and most uninviting of your fellow creatures. The purity of the writings of Dickens was another quality which Mr. Hall referred to and quoted Thackeray, who said, "I am grateful for the innocent laughter and the sweet, unsullied page which the author of David Copperfield gives my children."

The address of Mr. Hall, of which only the briefest outline is given here, was listened to with deep interest from beginning to end, and the opinion was that those who were fortunate enough to hear it heard a treat, which is rarely enjoyed.

At the conclusion of the programme the chairman expressed on behalf of the members of the Board their deep appreciation of the services of those who had assisted in the evening's entertainment.

English Opera Singers.

The local management of the English Operatic Company, which appears here on April 5th, have received very favourable notices from Windsor Hall, Montreal, and Brockville, stating that this is the finest entertainment that has ever visited these cities, and a deputation has waited upon the company requesting their return. Plan opens at Ormond and Walsh's on Monday morning at ten o'clock. 1t

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Unchanged—Cattle 10c, Hogs 5c Higher at Chicago.

London, March 30.—Live cattle are quoted at 10¾c to 11½c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 8¾c to 9½c per lb.; sheep, 12c to 13c per pound.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the City Cattle Market, as reported by the two railways since Tuesday last, were 77 car loads, composed of 1255 cattle, 2020 hogs, 169 sheep and lambs, with about 120 calves.

There was an excellent demand for shipping cattle at firmer prices. The reasons for this are that several of the dealers had space to fill and prices were higher at Chicago, where some of these same dealers have been in the habit of getting their supplies. One dealer stated that he expected to lose from $6 to $10 per head on all the cattle he had bought, unless the British markets should advance. Prices for export steers ranged from $4.60 to $5.00 per cwt., but the latter price was paid for one load only, which were bought off cars, sniffed and unwatered, which is equal to 15c per cwt. less. The bulk of the exporters sold at $4.75 to $5 per cwt. Bulls at $3.50 to $4.15.

Butchers' cattle sold readily at firm quotations, which, when quality is taken into consideration, were higher than for some time. The main reason for this was that prices were higher in Montreal and outside points. There was about a dozen outside buyers, six of whom came from Montreal. Picked lots sold from $4.60 to $4.65 and for one or two lots a little more was paid. Loads of good sold at $4.15 to $4.30; fair to good at $3.90 to $4.15; medium, at $3.60 to $3.85; common, at $3 to $3.30; inferior, at $2.80 to $2.90 per cwt.

Short-keep feeders, 1150 to 1250 lbs. each, are in excellent demand, and many farmers as well as dealers, were short of getting a supply. Prices for steers, 1150 to 1250 lbs. each, ranged from $4.00 to $4.25 per cwt.; steers, 1000 to 1100 lbs. each, $4 to $4.25; steers, 900 to 1000 lbs. each, at $3.80 to $4 per cwt.; stockers, at $3.25 to $3.75 per cwt.

About 20 milch cows and springers, for which there was a fair demand, sold at $30 to $55 each.

About 100 veal calves were offered for sale, the bulk of which should be in the farmer's stable. But prices for butcher are high, as well as for veal calves, and this is one of the reasons for so many inferior "bobs" being offered. Prices for calves ranged from $2 to $12 each, and $3.30 to $6.25 per cwt. A real choice well-fed new milch cow would bring $6.50 to $7 per cwt.

The run of sheep and yearling lambs was again short of the demand and prices were again firmer. Export ewes sold at $4.75 to $5.50 per cwt.; bucks, $4 to $4.25 per cwt.; choice yearling lambs, $6.15 to $7.35 per cwt., and one load at a little more money, the price not being made public.

Receipts of hogs since Tuesday were about 3000, which were bought by Mr. Harris, who stated that the market was steady. Selects are quoted at $6.25 and lights and fats at $6 per cwt., for fed and watered.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, March 30.—Cattle—Receipts light; good demand and firm; prices unchanged.

Veals—Receipts, 250 head; active and steady, $4.50 to $8.

Hogs—Receipts, 3200 head; pigs, slow, 5c lower; others, firm to 10c higher; heavy, $6.00 to $6.05; a few $6.10; mixed, $6.05 to $6.00; yorkers, $6.00 to $6.05; pigs, $5.90 to $5.95; roughs, $4.75 to $5.25; stags, $3 to $3.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 5000 head; active and firm; native lambs, $6.50 to $6.60; western, $6.25 to $6.40; yearlings, $7.35 to $7.60; wethers, $6.50 to $6.65; ewes, $5.75 to $6.25; sheep, mixed, $6.00 to $6.25.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, March 30.—Beeves—Receipts, none; feeling steady. Exports, 291 cattle.

WEST ACCEPTS THE AUTONOMY BILL

Argument by Mr. Walter Scott on the Autonomy Bills—Only One Clause is Wrong—He May Move an Amendment to C. P. R. Exemption—Mr. Scott Quotes the Orange Sentinel, and Elicits an Admission From Mr. Bergeron—Sir Wilfrid on Cabinet Vacancies

Ottawa, April 1.—The House yesterday listened with great evident satisfaction to western Liberal opinion on the autonomy bills as expressed by Mr. Walter Scott, West Assiniboia. In the most frank and emphatic manner Mr. Scott endorsed the main features of the bills. He said the school clause was no compromise to him, but was just what he wanted, and that the great majority of the people of the west were satisfied. For three hours he dealt exhaustively with the subject, and presented an imposing mass of facts and quotations to support his argument, not the least effective being an article from The Orange Sentinel of February, saying if the western people were satisfied it was the duty of the eastern members to remain silent. One of his achievements was to draw from Mr. Bergeron, a front bench Opposition member, the statement that there are really no separate schools in the west at present. Mr. Scott commended the financial and land clauses, but reserved the right to move an amendment to the clause perpetuating the C. P. R. exemption. When he resumed his seat Mr. Scott was surrounded by the entire body of Liberal members present, and heartily congratulated on his speech.

The Vacant Portfolios.

When the orders of the day were reached R. L. Borden called attention to the unprecedented state of affairs at present in connection with the Dominion Cabinet. The Minister of Public Works had been absent from his duties for some time. Mr. Borden quoted English precedents to show that the position should be filled by a permanent head instead of being left, as it has been, to an acting Minister. He also referred to the vacant portfolio of the Interior, and the Premier's conduct in withholding the knowledge from Parliament that his colleagues had not been consulted with regard to the autonomy bill. The Premier's conduct in this respect was "an insult to this Parliament." Moreover, it had been stated in the press that the assigned cause for Mr. Sifton's resignation was not the true cause.

Mr. Borden moved the adjournment of the House.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier described Mr. Borden's speech as "Another little joke." The reason why Mr. Sutherland was not in his seat was from a cause which should arouse sympathy. The Minister of Public Works had not placed his resignation in his hands. He had informed Mr. Sutherland that his work would be done during his absence, and every man in the House would be glad when his health was restored.

School Issue and Nothing Else.

The only thing which had passed between himself and Mr. Sifton was that Mr. Sifton had resigned on account of the school question and nothing else. As to not filling the position, perhaps it was that the Government was suffering from to great abundance of material, instead of not having enough.

"Make two Ministers," suggested Mr. Borden.

Sir Wilfrid replied that if the Government were to suggest an appropriation for an extra Minister Mr. Borden would be the first to object. He promised that the portfolio would not be vacant for as much as three months, and he declared that in due time and before long a new Minister would be named.

Mr. Foster said that the Premier would have ample time before the autonomy bills passed to appoint a Minister in the west and hold an election, thus for once giving the people a chance to pronounce upon his policy.

The debate was continued by Mr. Stockton (Conservative), St. John, N. B., Mr. Kennedy (Liberal), New Westminster, Mr. Ingram (Conservative), of East Elgin, Mr. Bennett (Conservative), East Simcoe, Dr. Sproule (Conservative), East Grey, and Col. Hughes (Conservative), Victoria, Haliburton. The motion to adjourn was declared lost.

Mr. Barker (Conservative) of West Hamilton asked the Prime Minister if the Government were in possession of correspondence carried on between them and G. W. Ross, late Premier of Ontario, respecting the extension northward of the boundaries of that Province. The Prime Minister replied that he was not aware of such correspondence, but if there were any it would be brought down.

MINISTRY SILENT.

Premier Roblin Will Hand Out Boundary Statement Soon.

Winnipeg, April 1.—Nothing positive transpired yesterday regarding the sensational rumors of an early dissolution, beyond the announcement by Premier, after the Cabinet meeting, that the statement on the boundary question would be handed out in a few days.

The Free Press yesterday afternoon publishes a telegraphed interview from Hon. Mr. Greenway at Ottawa, in which he declares Ontario responsible for the delay in the granting of Manitoba's claims, saying that Premier Whitney's action in putting forward the claims of that Province have tied up the whole matter. But the west is not to be deceived into transferring its righteous anger from Ottawa to Queen's Park, for people are well aware that Mr. Whitney was practically forced into that course by the explicit invitation given Ontario by Mr. Laurier when introducing the autonomy bill.

Arm Severed by Saw.

Langton, April 1.—A painful accident happened on the farm of Mr. Chutes, Walsingham, Thursday, when J. Laforge, son of Mrs. Peter Laforge, had his arm taken off above the elbow. He was assisting Mr. Chute in cutting wood with steam saw when his arm came in contact with the saw.

MAY MARK AN EPOCH

History of Morocco May Feel Effects of Kaiser's Visit.

A POLITICAL DEMONSTRATION

Minister Delcasse, However, in the French Senate Lets the World Know Just Where France Stands Regarding Morocco—He Claims Special Standing in Morocco for His Country.

London, April 1.—The Times' Tangier correspondent says: "It is impossible to deny that the Emperor's visit, which the world wished to consider as that of an Imperial tourist, has been an immense political demonstration. Nobody who saw Tangier to-day garlanded with flowers and bedagged until the very houses were scarcely distinguishable could doubt that such expenditure meant more than merely a courteous welcome to an Emperor desirous of seeing the curiosities of Tangier.

"I was able to watch the Emperor during all his interviews, and noticed the forcible manner in which he spoke, and especially to the Sultan's uncle, and the brief two hours he spent there may prove to have marked an epoch in the history of Morocco. He is reported to have spoken most emphatically to German subjects at the legation, but no official account of his remarks is obtainable."

INTEGRITY OF MOROCCO.

Kaiser Says, in Speech at Tangier, it Will Be Maintained.

Tangier, Morocco, April 1.—The Hamburg, with the German Emperor on board, arrived here yesterday morning from Lisbon. His Majesty was welcomed on landing by the representative of the Sultan, the diplomatic corps and a large crowd of people. The usual salutes were exchanged. The town presented a most picturesque spectacle.

The Germans delivered to His Majesty an address of welcome, to which he replied:

"I am happy to recognize in you devoted pioneers of German industry and commerce, who are helping me in the task of always upholding in a free country the interests of the motherland. The sovereignty and integrity of Morocco will be maintained."

A SIGNIFICANT SPEECH.

Minister Delcasse States France's Position in Morocco.

Paris, April 1.—Foreign Minister Delcasse made a significant speech in the Senate yesterday. "France's Moroccan policy," Minister Delcasse said, "continues on the same conditions as it was begun. The Sultan's weakness and the anarchy resulting therefrom were prejudicing to everybody, and especially to France, in Algeria. We had to seek a remedy for the intolerable situation without allowing our action to awaken the suspicions of other nations. France does not pretend to base her interests on disregard for the interests of others.

France Has Special Standing.

"Thence arose negotiations resulting in agreements proclaiming that France possesses a special standing in Morocco. The Anglo-French treaty recognizes that it is France's task to assist in opening Morocco to civilization, and also that from the economic point of view all nations have an equal footing there. The Franco-Spanish agreement confirms these views. The terms of the Anglo-French treaty were immediately communicated to the Sultan, of this fact the issue of Moroccan loan by France is proof. If France sought a pretext for intervention one existed in the disturbed state of the Algerian frontier. However, from friendship for Morocco and a clear conception of her own interests, France merely pointed on the necessity for establishing order.

Will Not Modify Order.

"That position we still hold. The resistance of parties interested in maintaining the present anarchial condition of affairs leaves no room for illusion, but that will not modify our policy. Morocco is aware both of our good will and our strength, and also that we do not seek to expand a naturally thought-out program of Moroccan policy. It, therefore, appears that France will succeed in assuring its future in the western Mediterranean without offending any right or clashing with any interest."

EVIDENCE WITHHELD.

German Captain Left Court and the Investigation Suddenly Stopped.

Halifax, April 1.—Yesterday three officers from the Parisian, including two engineers, were called, their evidence showing that the steamer had been at a dead stop for four or five minutes previous to the collision. Counsel for the Parisian then rested their case.

The court called for "the captain of the Albano," when his counsel instructed him to leave the room, which he did, accompanied by the steamer's agent, William Roche, M. P. Counsel explained his action by saying that he questioned the authority of the court over any one on board the German ship, and while he was arguing the captain was taken away from the building.

Finally, when the court over-ruled the objection, the captain could not be found. No other witness from the Albano being forthcoming, an adjournment was at once made.

Parisian Again Full.

Halifax, March 31.—Pumps were started on the Parisian yesterday morning and at 10 o'clock had lowered the water six feet. Then the immense pressure caused something to give way, and she again filled. Divers are down trying to locate the leak.

OXFORD SCULLERS WERE VICTORIOUS

Defeated Cambridge To-day Before 100,000 Spectators.

Special to the Examiner.

London, April 1.—Oxford defeated Cambridge to-day on the Thames by three lengths, time 20.30. Forty 100,000 spectators gathered at Putney and along the banks of the river, and enthusiasm was at a high pitch.

JAP GENERAL OYAMA.

Begins Genuine Advance of His Main Army With Vigor Not Estimated. But There's Not Fighting.

St. Petersburg, April 1.—The news from the front yesterday indicates that Field Marshall Oyama has begun a genuine advance of his main army with wings far extended. Heavy reconnaissances are being made against the Russian centre with the object of developing the Russian position.

A despatch from Chefoo, dated March 30 says: "There is no change in the situation. The enemy is displaying activity east of the railroad. Heavy snow fell during the night."

Would Sever Church from State.

St. Petersburg, April 1.—The movement for severing the traditional bonds between church and state, and giving to the Holy Orthodox Church independence and self-rule, which will increase its influence among the people of Russia, has found favor with an important group of the clergy at the capital, and a noteworthy document is published which demands the summoning of a general council of the church to consider means of attaining the greater freedom required.

A WATCH FOR MR. E. CHESNEY

Presented With One by Employees of McAllister Milling Co.

A Popular Member of the Staff Leaving for the North West

On Thursday the employees of the McAllister Milling Company gathered at the office to bid farewell to Mr. E. Chesney, of the office staff, who is leaving for the North West in a short time. An evidence of Mr. Chesney's popularity is found in the fact that he was presented with a gold watch by Mr. Geo. C. Carruthers, on behalf of the employees of the Company and the following address was read by Mr. J. J. Cunningham.

Peterborough, March 27, 1905.

To Mr. E. Chesney,

We, the employees of the McAllister Milling Co., having learned of your intended departure for the West, wish to convey to you our esteem of your many excellent qualities, and also our appreciation of you as a most cherished friend and a model citizen.

We can assure you that we regret very much losing you, but our loss will be another's gain, and we all join in wishing you, health, wealth and prosperity in your new home.

As a slight token of our respect we ask you to accept this watch, and we hope that you will live many long and happy years to wear it, and in after years, when looking at the time, you will remember the employees of The McAllister Milling Co.

Signed, C. B. McAllister, D. Holland, C. Lynch, Geo. C. Carruthers, Don Downie J. W. McCarthy, J. J. Cunningham, Wm. H. Cunningham, L. Hamilton, A. Finney, Jas. Ballantyne, R. J. Morrison, F. Fitzgerald, Albert Inkpin, R. Henderson, John Duncan.

Mr. Chesney, who was taken wholly by surprise made a suitable reply, thanking them for their kind words and nice present, assuring them that he would always remember them.

MONAGHAN'S PROTEST RE GARBAGE GROUNDS

A Correspondent Present and Discusses the Situation

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Please allow me a small space in your paper to explain to the public a nuisance that the ratepayers of (North Monaghan have to contend with, that is, the dumping ground to the south of the city and a short distance from May's school house, where 30 to 50 pupils are attending. Now, Mr. Editor, is it proper to have that part of the township, or any other part, polluted with the filth to accomodate the city? Well, Douro or Otonabee wouldn't have it in their townships and I don't see why North Monaghan allows it to come into the township. The Township Council appoints a Sanitary Inspector and four men on the Board of Health and they are supposed to be backed up by the council in any action taken. Why don't these men act and do their duty in the matter? A few nights ago a load of night soil was making its way along the boundary near the R. C. Cemetery and part of it had to be unloaded and when it was removed again a short distance the horse dropped dead and this state of affairs was covered up with some snow and was found like this in the morning. Now, Mr. Editor, is this healthy for the ratepayers. Well, I don't think so or anybody with any sense. Now the City of Peterborough does not ask for tenders nor for a dumping ground. I suppose they are under the impression that North Monaghan is going to receive its filth for all time to come. I hope our Council and Board of Health will look after this business before it is too late and get it out of the township. It is not only injurious to the health, but depreciates the value of property.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain,

A RESIDENT OF THE TOWNSHIP.

Permanent Cure for Bronchitis

"My second daughter was troubled with bronchitis from the age of three weeks. Oftentimes I thought that she would choke to death. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine brought relief and further treatment made a thorough cure. This trouble used to come back from time to time, but the cure is now permanent." — Mrs. Richmond Withrow, Shubenacadie, Hants County, N. S.

HEAVY PENALTY WAS IMPOSED

George Steven's Case Heard Yesterday at County Police Court.

Convicted of Breach of Health Act—Fined $20 and Costs.

The case of George Stevens, who was charged with committing a breach of the Public Health Act, was dealt with yesterday at County Police Court before Police Magistrate Edmison.

Mr. Stevens, it appears, owns a tract of land in North Monaghan, a short distance from the Roman Catholic Cemetery upon which is deposited the garbage and offal from the scavenger car's of the town, and there is also kept there a number of hogs, which have been in charge of an employee named Wescott.

The charge against Mr. Stevens, which was laid by the Board of Health of the township, was that the animals had been fed "blood offal and the flesh of animals which had not been previously boiled, when fresh."

The evidence of the first two witnesses went to show that on Saturday last a horse which had died from senility, had been removed on Monday by Henry Truesdale to what is known as "the dump," which is situated upon Mr. Stevens' property. Mr. Truesdale stated that the dead animal had been skinned and afterwards dissected and upon arrival at "the dump" he was told by Wescott to throw it off by the fence.

Dr. Greer, the Medical Health Officer of the township, gave testimony regarding an official visit paid to the scene on Monday, and was making an inspection of the premises when Truesdale arrived with the democrat containing the dead horse. The latter had unloaded the remains about 100 yards from the building. While making the inspection he had seen the carcase of a dead dog, and also several horse carcases to which the hogs had access while roaming at large. The carcases had not been previously boiled. Wescott had informed him that there was no other food upon the premises except that picked up in this way. To Mr. Wood, Counsel for the defence, witness stated his opinion as a medical man that even a period of several months would not render the hogs immune from contagion, in case the carcases were tuberculous or otherwise diseased. A local butcher who had negotiated a purchase of the hogs, arrived at the time of his visit for the purpose of removing them, but he had ordered that this should not be done.

Mr. George Cochrane gave testimony regarding a visit to the premises, producing a plan showing the location of the different buildings upon the premises, etc. During his visit he had seen the bodies of one pig, two dogs, one cat and several horses, which he concluded could not have been boiled owing to the covering of skin and hair upon the legs. About twenty pigs were at large about the yard.

Mr. Stevens in giving his testimony stated that he had installed upon the premises last fall an iron tank, 12 x 5 1-2 x 3 1-2 feet in its dimensions, for use in boiling refuse for hog feed. He had sold the hogs and had intended retiring from this branch of the business. The hogs were sold for brood sows. He had also provided about fifteen cords of wood. He did not affirm that the horse carcases were boiled.

Evidence was then taken from the butcher who had negotiated the purchase, who stated that a number of the animals were brood sows. Some, in his opinion, could have been prepared for market by several months feeding. His intention was to withdraw from contract in case the hogs were diseased.

Mr. Wescott, when sworn, stated that the fodder given the hogs was principally garbage from the kitchens, etc. He had thrown out three dead animals as they could not be handled. To Mr. Denistoun, counsel for the prosecution, witness admitted that the hogs had been at large for about six weeks.

The Court, after summing up the evidence, found prisoner guilty, and fined him $20 and costs, which is the maximum penalty in such a case.

The question as to the disposal of the hogs was discussed, the Medical Health Officer deciding that they shall be placed in quarantine for a period of three months when they will be subjected to an examination, upon the results of which further action will be deferred.

A MUDDLE IN MATRIMONIALS

A Revived Romance of The Police Court

Incident in Connection with Marriage Solemnized There Seven Years Ago.

An incident which will be recollected by the habitues of the Police Court, of about seven or eight years ago, was again brought up by a letter recently received by the Chief. The incident referred to, which at the time aroused considerable interest, was a marriage which was solemnized in the police court under peculiar circumstances, the principals being a young man, who at that time resided in town, and a lady resident on Lake street.

The course of true love, however, under such conditions, apparently did not run with the smoothness of an Auburn car, as immediately after the ceremony a separation ensued, the groom departing on a journey which ended not till the Pacific Coast was reached.

Here, it appears, he again became entangled by the wiles of the fair sex and was most assidious in his attentions to a young lady in British Columbia. What might have been the result is hard to determine, had it not been for the intervention of a most untoward circumstance. This was the discovery of his marriage here, the letter received by the Chief being a request for information regarding it. The discovery, it appears, was made by a British Columbia detective, whose prompt action prevented consequences which would have been deplorable.

APRIL FIRST THE DAY OF THE JOKES

A Readers Advice to Those Who Would be Inquisitive.

A reader has sent the following communication for publication with reference to All Fools' Day:—

We would remind our readers for their own sakes that this is the day of the joker. The practice of making April fools of our neighbors is looked upon with leniency on this one day of the year. The origin of the practice is unknown, but is claimed by some to be a relic of Paganism. However, it is not here intended to write an article upon the subject, but just a word to our readers to be careful to-day, not to be too inquisitive, nor too obliging, in order that they be not too generously reminded before the close the day that this is the 1st of April. The whole matter is summed up in a few words by referring to the 23rd chapter of the 1st Book of Kings and the 18th verse.

WHAT A BRUCE MINES MAN SAID

That he Could find no Cure for his Dyspepsia Till he tried Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets—They are condensed comfort.

"I have been a great sufferer from Dyspepsia for ten years," says Mr. Edward Rousseau, of Bruce Mines, Ont., in an interview. "I doctored almost continually and used almost everything I could hear of but got little benefit until I began to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"I have taken two boxes and words cannot express the great good they have done me, as I am now feeling like a new man, better than I have felt for years.

"I have proved that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure Indigestion and Dyspepsia where other medicines fail.

If you would eat what you like when you like you must remember that you often entail extra work on your stomach and to avoid trouble you must give the stomach the help it needs.

That help is found in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They will digest the food themselves if necessary and are always sure to give the stomach sufficient help to ensure perfect digestion.

Perfect digestion means strength, energy and comfort. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are condensed comfort.

A RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE

Court Stanley, A. O. F. Passes one to Mr. Record.

At the regular meeting of Court Stanley A. O. F. held on Tuesday night the following resolution of condolence was ordered sent to Mr. Record, who recently was called to mourn the decease of his father:—

Peterborough, Ont.,
March 28, 1905.

Bro. Record,—On behalf of the members of Court Stanley No. 7680 Ancient Order of Foresters, we, the undersigned, desire to express to you, our worthy secretary, our deepest sympathy in this, your hour of trial. We feel that, in the loss of your dear father, you have sustained a severe blow. Knowing that you have had his only welfare at heart for the past number of years, and that may God in His infinite goodness give you strength to bear this your greatest trial.

Signed on behalf of the members of the Court,

W. Tighe, Chief Ranger; W. Ball, Sub. Chief Ranger; H. McWha, Past Chief Ranger; S. Adlum, Sub. Secretary; R. J. McWilliams, Treasurer; H. J. Hanwell, Sr. Woodward; T. Hendry, Jr. Woodward; D. Hamilton, Chaplain.

After Ten Years.

Mr. G. L. Stephenson of Peterborough, says: "For over ten years I suffered constantly with piles, first itching, then bleeding; pain almost unbearable; life a burden; tried everything in vain till I used Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid.

"I had taken but a few boxes when I began to notice an improvement. I decided to keep on and now after using three boxes I am glad to say I am completly cured. My general health has also greatly improved. It gives me great pleasure to recommend Hem-Roid to all sufferers with Piles, and I feel convinced that what it has done for me it will surely do for them."

A $1.000 guarantee goes with every box of Hem-Roid. Price, $1, all druggists, or the Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont.

The Woman who Would And The Grocer who wouldn't.

Every day from five to fifteen letters are received by The Ogilvie Flour Mills Co. from women living in the smaller towns throughout Canada, saying they have asked their grocer for Royal Household Flour but can't get it. One writes—"I told my grocer, Mr.----, that I would buy 'Royal Household' regularly if he would always keep it on hand, but he said he wouldn't take on another brand of flour until he was obliged to." Another says—"My grocer is an 'old fogie' and never gets the newest or the best things until the year after." A third says—"We haven't an enterprising grocer in our town and are obliged to send to-------for 'Royal Household' or take a poorer flour."

Write direct to Ogilvie's.

If you can't get "Royal Household" from your grocer, write to us direct—we will immediately give you the name of the nearest grocer who keeps "Royal Household" and send you also the "Royal Household" recipes. There is no good reason why your grocer should compel you to use inferior flour—no first class grocer will hesitate to order "Royal Household" for you, and even the smallest dealer will get it if you insist upon it.

A GALAXY OF S. A. OFFICERS

Special Gathering on Sunday and Monday at Barracks.

Brigadier W. J. B. Turner and Captain McMillen, of Montreal, will conduct special meetings in the Salvation Army Barracks to-morrow and Monday. Captain McMillen is a good singer and he will assist in all the meetings. Brigadier Turner has been in charge of the army work in East Ontario and Quebec for about four years, and has had good success, he is well liked in Peterborough. The soldiers and friends are looking forward to his meetings with great pleasure. The following officers will take part in the meeting Monday night: Ensign J. Slater, Lieut. J. Davis, of Campbellford; Captain M. Lang, Lieut. Meer, of Cobourg; Ensign Gammaidge, of Port Hope; Captain Marshall, of Millbrook. The Army Brass Band will play selections in all the meetings.

SONG SERVICE A DECIDED SUCCESS

Interesting Meeting at the S. A. Barracks Thursday Night.

The service-of-song entitled "The Beautiful City" given in the Salvation Army Barracks Thursday night, by the members of the Sunday School, was a decided success. Sergt. Major Vincent, who was in charge had the children well trained, each one playing their part splendidly. The singing was much enjoyed especially the solo by Elsie Northcott, the little six year old daughter of the deputy bandmaster. The attendance was large and showed their appreciation by giving a good collection.

THE ILLS OF THE AGED.

Mrs. Stacy, of Hamilton, Tells how they May be Lessened.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stacy, of 172 Hunter street west, Hamilton, says:—

"I was very much troubled with Headache, Dizziness and Constipation. I am in my eighty-first year, and I grew worse and worse till I was so weak and faint that I could hardly keep from falling.

"Since using Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill I am very much better; in fact, I may say I am very well compared to what I was before using Anti-Pill.

"I am so thankful for the improvement at my advanced age that I think I should write and tell you about it. I will always recommend Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill to any one suffering as I was."

Anti-Pill is positively the best medicine for aged men and women.

Manager Gives Miners Three Months Instead of One to Consider.

Halifax, N. S., March 31.—Manager Cowans of the Springhill Collieries informed the men last night that he had acceded to their request to give the coal cutters three months to consider the proposed cut of 12 per cent. in their wages instead of the one month, as he had announced. In consequence of this the proposed strike has been declared off and there is great rejoicing in Springhill in consequence. The proposed cut would have meant $4,576 loss to the miners in wages every month.

NEW MANAGER OF PEOPLE'S LIFE

Mr. J. K. McCutcheon Appointed to General Managership

A Man of Wide Insurance Experience—Formerly Superintendent of Agencies of Federal Life

Mr. J. K. McCutcheon, recently Superintendent of Agencies of the Federal Life Assurance Company, has been appointed to the position of General Manager of the Peoples Life Insurance Company, and has assumed the duties of his new position.

Mr. McCutcheon has been associated with the life insurance business for over twenty-five years and has been one of the most successful business producers in the Dominion, and his association with the People's Life will still further strengthen this Company, which is gradually becoming one of the most successful of the newer life insurance companies of the Dominion.

DEATH OCCURRED AT UNTIMELY AGE

Wm. Wellington Campbell Passed Away Last Night at his Home in Douro Township

Particularly sad was the death at his home, lot 5, concession 9, Douro, of William Wellington Campbell, who last night succumbed at the early age of twenty, to tuberculosis, from which malady he has been a patient sufferer for several months.

Deceased was one of the most highly respected young men in the township in which he resided, his kind and amiable nature having endeared him to a large circle of friends, who will be deeply pained to learn of his most untimely demise.

The late Mr. Campbell, who was born in Douro township, was the son of Mr. Robert Campbell, and resided all his life on the homestead, which is situated about one mile east of Nassau. His mother died seventeen years ago. Mr. Campbell afterwards re-married and his three small children of this union, survive the deceased. These are Vernon, Roland and Lottie.

The funeral will leave the family residence, lot 5, concession 9, Douro township, on Monday, April 3, at two o'clock p.m., and proceed to Little Lake Cemetery for interment. The services will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Torrance.

DIED AT HOUSE OF PROVIDENCE

Mrs. Mary McCarthy Passed Away Yesterday from Senility.

The funeral took place Friday morning, to St. Peter's Cemetery, of Mrs. Mary McCarthy, who died at the House of Providence.

Deceased, who was 80 years of age, formerly resided in Cobourg. Her demise occurred from senility.

BASE BALL CLUB GAVE CONCERT

Delightful Evening Spent at Charlotte Street Church

The Bon Bon Social a Great Success—A Good Programme.

Last night the Charlotte street Young Men's Guild Baseball Club conducted a most successful and enjoyable Bon Bon Social in the Sunday school room of the church, which was very tastefully decorated for the occasion with bunting and flags, and presented a very inviting appearance, and was crowded to the doors with the supporters of the baseball team, and others. The Examiner Trophy, presented to the baseball team last season by Hon. J. R. Stratton, occupied a prominent position on the platform. Hanging on the wall was a large picture of the baseball team.

On entering the room each lady was presented with a box of bon bons and each gentleman with a box of love candies.

Mr. C. B. McAllister ably officiated as chairman, and announced a pleasing programme, the first number on which was a selection given by the Y.M.C.A. orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Jones. This was followed by a delightful vocal solo, well rendered, by Miss Clara Bellegham, her selection being "Forebodings." Little Miss Christie followed with a recitation entitled, "The Dolls' Bazaar," which was thoroughly appreciated by the audience, and encored, as was every number on the programme.

Mrs. C. B. McAllister favoured the audience with a vocal solo, "Time's Roses," which was well received. Messrs. Peters and Richards followed with an instrumental duet, the rendition of which met with distinct popular favour.

Master Herbert Mowat was heard in a splendidly rendered vocal solo, "If you'll be mine, mine," and as an encore he gave "He was a Sailor."

The first number in the second half was a selection by the orchestra, after which a mixed quartette by Misses Bellegham and Grey and Messrs. Miller and Jones rendered with splendid effect "Gentle Lassie of Killarney," and this was followed by a vocal solo, "Afterwards," by Miss Bertha Purnell, who was encored, rendering "When Love was Young."

A pleasing number was a violin solo by Mr. G. W. Jones, after which Mr. R. P. Dormer sang "The Skipper" in good voice. Mr. J. Miller gave a cornet solo, after which Mr. A. McLaren was heard in a humorous solo, and a delightful evening was brought to a close by a second instrumental duet by Messrs. Peters and Richards.

After the first part of the programme an intermission of fifteen minutes was given during which the boys of the audience were treated to the balance of the candy; this, of course, created some excitement.

The accompanists for the evening were Miss Mabel Clarvy, Miss Florence Butcher, and Mrs. Mowat, their work being artistically excellent.

HELENIC SWEETS WITH THE OLYMPIAN BRAND

The New Greek Confectionery Firm of Demetrie Bros'. Opened To-day

The Olympian Candy Works, corner George and Charlotte street, opened for business to-day at noon.

The work of installing the fixtures and making the necessary improvements, which has been in progress for several weeks is now completed and the premises, both as to exterior and to interior are now amongst the most attractive ever seen in town. The firm, Demetre Bros., which has branches in Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec, is most progressive, in its policy and ample evidence of this is shown in the manner in which the Peterborough branch has been fitted up.

The most prominent features is, perhaps, the immense onyx soda fountain which was manufactured expressly for the firm and is most beautiful in design and workmanship. It contains a range of 24 pure fruit flavours.

The room is finished almost entirely of oak, and is surrounded by large and expensive mirrors, which are dazzling in their brilliancy. The furniture and show cases are also very handsome in design, the woodwork being of oak. The confectionery display, which is beautifully arranged, is most tempting indeed.

The firm manufactures all confectionary which they sell, and have a special line which they are making a feature of, and which should become a most popular one with our young — ladies, known as "love candy." Many new and exquisite variations of bon bons are also shown. The ice cream parlour is fitted up in a manner which will ensure the comfort of their patrons.

The exterior of the building has been painted a pure and immaculate white and has also been otherwise improved, and is most attractive in appearance.

The new enterprise will undoubtedly be awarded a large place in popular favour, and most deservedly so, on account of the firm's splendid facilities for catering to the requirements of their patrons.

DEATH OCCURRED AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Matthew Fleming Passed Away Last Night at the age of 59 Years.

The death occurred last night in Peterborough of Matthew Fleming after an extended illness.

Deceased was 59 years of age and resided in Smith Township between Young's Point and Buckhorn, and was a highly respected resident of that township.

The funeral will leave St. Paul's church on Monday, April 3rd, at 11 o'clock and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery for interment.

QUEEN OF ACTRESSES PRAISES PE-RU-NA.

MISS JULIA MARLOWE.

In a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., Miss Julia Marlowe of New York City, has the following to say of Peruna:

"I am glad to write my endorsement of the great remedy, Peruna, as a nerve tonic. I do so most heartily."—Julia Marlowe.

Nervousness is very common among women. This condition is due to anemic nerve centers. The nerve centers are the reservoirs of nervous vitality. These centers become bloodless for want of proper nutrition. This is especially true in the spring season. Every spring a host of invalids are produced as the direct result of weak nerves.

This could be easily obviated by the use of Peruna. Peruna strikes at the root of the difficulty by correcting the digestion. Digestion furnishes nutrition for the nerve centers. Properly digested food furnishes these reservoirs of life with vitality which leads to strong, steady nerves, and thus nourishes life.

Peruna is in great favor among women, especially those who have vocations that are trying to the nervous system. Peruna furnishes the lasting invigoration for the nerves that such people so much need. Thousands of testimonials from women in all parts of the United States are being received every year. Such unsolicited evidence surely proves that Peruna is without an equal as a nerve tonic and a vital invigorator.

Buy a bottle of Peruna today. If you do not receive all the benefits from Peruna that you expected, write to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio.

$10,000 forfeit if we cannot produce the original letter and signature of above testimonial which will demonstrates its full genuineness.

RUN DOWN BY STREET CAR

John Latchford Struck on George Street Friday Afternoon.

Was Crossing Street and Was Struck by Fender—Not Seriously Injured

(From Friday's last edition)

Friday afternoon John Latchford, Bridgenorth, was run down by a street car on George street, near the corner of Hunter street.

He was walking across the street from the west to the east side, and when he reached the centre of the street he stopped between the rails and was struck on the legs from behind by the fender of the car, which covered about fifty feet before it was stopped, and the conductor and motorman ran and picked the unfortunate man off the fender.

Latchford was slightly under the influence of liquor, and probably did not notice the car approaching.

He stated that the bell was not rung at the crossing at Fair's, but others who saw the occurance stated that it was sounded.

Luckily the man was not seriously injured, bruises on his legs being about the extent of his injuries.

He is a resident of Bridgenorth, having been employed at Brown's Hotel there.

It is not likely that any legal steps will be taken, since the street railway employees did their duty by ringing the bell.

CAPT. O. G. V. SPAIN.

Invokes Old Law and Capt. Salmon, Alleged to Have Posed as Capt. Spain, is Held.

New York, April 1.—There was an unusual turn at a private hearing before Magistrate Barlow in the Jefferson Market Police Court, Thursday, in the case of Capt. Reginald Salmon, formerly of the British army, who was recently arrested charged with causing the illness of the wife of Capt. O. G. V. Spain, who was discovered ill in a boarding house in Second avenue by the husband, who came here from their home, in Ottawa, Canada. Capt. Salmon was held in $1,000 bonds, adjournment was taken to April 13, and Champe Andrews, counsel for the County Medical Society, who is conducting the prosecution, asked that the former soldier be held until a new charge could be made.

Held on Old Statutes.

Mr. Andrews drew up a complaint under section 562 of the Penal Code, which makes the impersonation by any party as a husband guilty of a felony, and subject to a possible sentence of ten years in the penitentiary. The statute, which is an old one, provides that the real husband is the aggrieved party, and alone can prosecute. Capt. Salmon, it is alleged, posed as the husband of Mrs. Spain, and so represented himself to Dr. Andrew Fulton, who was arrested with him. He was held on the additional charge.

Old court attendants said that it was the first prosecution they had ever heard of under the law, and Champe Andrews declared he had failed to find that the law had been similarly invoked for many years.

Capt. Spain, who is the wreck master for the British Crown for the Dominion of Canada, had to return at once to sit on the case of the recent collision of the Parisian and the Albano off the harbor of Halifax.

Capt. Spain Devoted to Wife.

Mr. Andrews said that, despite the unpleasant turn of affairs, Capt. Spain is devoted to his wife. According to Mr. Andrews, Capt. Spain, who is a retired British naval officer, first met Capt. Salmon in Prince Edward Island, when the latter needed a friend. Capt. Spain not only furnished his new found acquaintance with employment, but took him to his home. Then, a few months later, Mrs. Spain disappeared and so did Capt. Salmon, and the whereabouts of the former was learned by the husband in a letter written to their sixteen-year-old son.

JUG-HANDLED FREIGHT RATES

The other day there was exhibited before a sub-committee of the House of Commons, a map intended for the guidance of freight officers in fixing freight rates, from Chicago and intervening points, to the seaboard. The Weekly Sun thus refers to the map:

Taking Chicago, as a starting point, the maximum freight rate—100 per cent.—is charged from that point to the sea. On the lines leading from Chicago through Michigan, the rate to the seaboard is gradually reduced to 92 per cent. at Jackson, and 78 at all points along the St. Clair and Detroit frontiers. As soon as this line crosses into Ontario, an arbitrary rate is established of 78 per cent of the Chicago rate from all points along and south of the main line of the Grand Trunk between Sarnia and Lancaster, at the lower end of the Ottawa Valley, to the sea. On points north of the Grand Trunk main line, the rates vary from 80 per cent. of the Chicago rate, which is charged about Fergus and Stratford, to the full Chicago rate, which is imposed in Muskoka. At points about Owen Sound, 89 per cent. of the Chicago rate to the sea is charged, or 1 per cent. higher than the rate imposed on Michigan farmers living along the St. Clair. At points south of Lake Erie in the United States, there is a gradual reduction as the distance from the sea is lessened, until about Cleveland the rate to the seaboard is 71 per cent of the Chicago rate, while from about Buffalo, 60 per cent. or 18 per cent. lower than the rate from Toronto, which is directly north of Buffalo."

There seems to be something unfair and unbusinesslike in this arrangement. It will be noted that on the main lines in the United States there is a gradual reduction from 100 at Chicago to 78 at Detroit. After Canadian soil is reached, the reduction ceases and all Ontario is made to pay the Michigan rate, 78 per cent. There is in the 300 odd miles between Chicago and Michigan a reduction of 22 per cent., but in the 500 miles between Windsor and Ottawa there is no reduction whatever. Thus a shipper—farmer or otherwise—living fifty miles from the Ottawa River, has to pay the same rate as a shipper at Windsor, 500 miles from the Ottawa River. This applies to the main line of railway, but on the branch lines it is worse. Thus in the Stratford District the rate goes up to 80, at Owen Sound and vicinity, it advances to 89, and from Bracebridge to 93 — these points being generally 100 miles nearer Ottawa than the western sections of the province, which enjoys a rate of 78. This discrimination seems to be not only unfair, but a direct obstacle to the development of the country along the route. That a mill or factory situated, say, in Peterborough, should be compelled to pay the same rate on its productions as a mill or factory, 200 miles further west seems to be indefensible. Convenience and facility of transportation are the primary conditions of successful commercial and industrial development and material progress and prosperity.

LICENSE LAW ENFORCEMENT.

Among the many loud boasts of his good intentions, Premier Whitney declared his intention of freeing the administration of the license law from political influence. He may be following out this policy but it is somewhat difficult to see how he is gaining this end. He is apparently making a clean sweep of the license officials appointed by the previous Government. As these were perhaps "gentlemen primarily of Liberal leanings," they were from Mr. Whitney's point of view objectionable and doubtless the political character of the officials will be utterly destroyed by substituting thoroughgoing "Tories" to fill the places of the decapitated "Grit" officials. Mr. Whitney certainly has the courage of his convictions in this matter. His convictions seem to be that "to the victors belong the spoils." It seems to be good to him to make, on this principle a pretty clean sweep of existing officials. This may be done in heroic application of the lofty principle mentioned above. Another reason may be that his course is in reproof of the flabby policy of the late Government in this regard, which, in deplorable disregard of its decapitating powers, left in office "Tory" officials from the date of the distant days of the first Conservative administration of the province. When the election returns came in on January 25th, there were officials in the Parliament Buildings appointed in the days of Sandfield McDonald, who had grown grey in the public service under a "Grit" Government, who yet recalled enough energy to dance hornpipes of joy, because the "King had come to his own again," — a "Tory" Government had come to power, the bated days of slavery under "Grit" rule were past. They could now sit under their own vine and fig-tree, and draw their salaries with self respect—they would not be paid by a "Grit" Government. Mr. Whitney is certainly making good his promise to free license law administration from political influence. He will have the task completed by the time of the arrival of the Greek Kalends. No statesman of less gigantic intellect than Hon. Mr. Whitney could have conceived so great a plan for removing the taint of political influence from license law administration.

AGAIN IN A FRENZY.

Robert Quick, Who Strangled His Brother, in Court at London.

London, March 31.—Robert Quick, the Caradoc farmer, who strangled his brother Alfred, while in a religious frenzy on Saturday night last, had his preliminary trial here yesterday morning, the hearing not being concluded, however.

William D. Bolton, a neighbor, gave evidence indicating that the prisoner was insane previous to the tragedy, and the prisoner's ten-year-old son told a graphic story of the crime. His father, he declared, had told him immediately following the death of his uncle, that he knew he had done wrong and would be hung.

The prisoner raved like a madman during the sitting of the court.

John Folinsbee, for the defence, has written the Attorney-General, asking whether the legal proceedings cannot be cut short in order that the prisoner may be placed in the asylum.

Mr. McKillop, crown prosecutor, says that, according to law, Quick will have to face the jury in April.

Cured Kidney Disease

Mrs. Fred Mills, Walton street, Port Hope, Ont., states:— "I was troubled for some time with kidney disease, and though I tried a great many different medicines never succeeded in obtaining relief until I began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. By the regular use of this preparation for a time I was completely cured of kidney disease."

Victorian Not Sighted.

Halifax, N. S., March 31.—At midnight the turbine steamer Victorian had not been sighted. All day long hundreds have been visiting the wharves in anticipation of her arrival. Hugh Allan gave out that she was not due until 7 last evening, but the great fields of ice compelled her to take the southern course, which would make her 12 hours later.

Fire at Elmira Reformatory.

Elmira, N. Y., March 31.—The fire at Elmira Reformatory Wednesday night totally destroyed the tailor shop, storehouse, laundry, bathroom, number 1 engine-room, shoe shop, bookbindery, upholstery, blacksmith shop, photograph gallery and broom shop and entailed a loss of $75,000.

CANADIAN PACIFIC TRAIN DITCHED

Home-Seekers in a Wreck On Main Line Near Dryden, Ont.

TWO WOMEN SERIOUSLY HURT

Mrs. Wm. Desan, Aged 69, of Dundalk, Ont., Had Right Leg Broken, and Miss Clara Bailey, of Madoc, Had Chest Seriously Bruised — Four Cars Went Over the Embankment.

Fort William, March 31.—The westbound C. P. R. colonist train was derailed at Dryden yesterday morning, owing to a broken rail.

It was running at 25 miles an hour, and four out of the twelve cars went over a 15-foot embankment. Many of the passengers were cut and bruised, and two were seriously injured.

They are: Clara Bailey, of Madoc, Ont., seriously bruised in chest, and Mrs. William Desan, aged 69, Dundalk, Ont., right leg broken.

Others hurt are: Miss Lily Boughard, Talbotville; John and Allan Bailey, Madoc; Daniel Mackay, Whitechurch; James Morris, Kalidar; D. F. Stuart, Ailsa Craig; Mrs. Stuart, Ailsa Craig; William Thom, Sunbridge; R. J. Huff, Wellington; Thos. Calderwood, Brougham; John Langin, Waverton; Edward Lennox, Cornwall; John Bold, Morrisburg; Annie Gibson, Wiarton; Frank Jacobs, Brussels, and T. J. O'Leary, Hastings. The injured are being attended to at Dryden by the local doctor and aid was also sent from Rat Portage.

Girl's Life Crushed Out.

Toronto, March 31.—Marie Gorasco, 117 Edward street, two and a half years old, was killed while playing in the street yesterday afternoon. The child is supposed to have been struck by one of McGill's coal carts. The driver got away quickly, before his name could be taken. The police will locate him to-day. The dead child's little companions could not tell how the fatality occurred.

Fatal Fall of Benjamin Miller.

Toronto, March 31.—Benjamin Miller, who had his skull fractured by fall from the fourth storey of the Gutta Percha and Rubber Co.'s building on O'Hara avenue, yesterday afternoon, died at Grace Hospital at 2.30 yesterday morning.

Lily Mulvaney is Dead.

Toronto, March 31.—Miss Lily Mulvaney, the nineteen-year-old daughter of Alexander Mulvaney, who was terribly injured by being struck by a Queen street car last Thursday evening, died at the Emergency Hospital at 1.35 yesterday afternoon.

Bell Lineman Killed.

Niagara Falls, March 31.—Daniel McKinnon, lineman for the Bell Telephone Co. in this city, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon while engaged in stringing a telephone line into a house on Ferry street.

Her Narrow Escape.

Peterboro, March 31.—Miss Minnie Wilkins, while employed at a loom in the Colonial Weaving Co.'s factory, had her hair accidentally caught in a loom, and but for the breaking of a belt her scalp would have been torn off. She was painfully injured.

Nearly Lost His Life.

Toronto, March 31.—George Clarke, a farmer living at Concord, York Township, while trying to drive across a branch of the Humber River, near Smithfield, in Etobicoke Township, nearly lost his life on Tuesday night. The stream was flooded and the force overturned the buggy. The horse was drowned, but Clarke managed to reach the bank, where he lay unconscious 16 hours before he was found. He is in a serious condition at the home of Colin Cameron.

Killed But Saved Comrade.

New York, March 31.—Fireman Samuel Lillie and several other firemen were injured by a cave-in in the subway at the 168th street station, which was burned yesterday. Lillie and four others had been sent into the tunnel to wet down the smouldering embers of the fire when a portion of the roof fell. Lillie lost his life in saving the life of one of his companions.

Three Men Killed in Explosion.

Huntington, W. Va., March 31.—Three men were killed and one fatally injured by the explosion of a boiler at a sawmill near Matwan yesterday.

IN THE NURSERY.

Every mother should be able to treat the minor ailments of her little ones. Prompt action may prevent serious illness—perhaps save a child's life. A simple remedy in the home is therefore an absolute necessity, and for this purpose there is nothing else so good as Baby"s Own Tablets. These Tablets promptly cure all stomach and bowel troubles, break up colds, allay fevers, destroy worms, aid teething and make little ones healthy and cheerful. Guaranteed to contain no opiate or poisonous soothing stuff. Mrs. John N. Pringle, Forest Falls, Ont, says: "I think I can thank Baby"s Own Tablets for my baby"s life. He was badly constipated but after giving him the Tablets he was relieved at once. I also find them good when he is at all restless, and feel I cannot say too much in their favour." Sold by all druggists or sent by mail at 25 cents a box, by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Miners Are Waiting.

Altoona, Pa., March 31.—The miners who are members of the joint scale committee have sent to the operators a communication offering to continue work up to April 5 in any mine where the employer will agree to pay the present scale of prices. They say they do not desire to complicate the situation in view of the meeting of the operators on Saturday next, and in the hope that an amicable settlement of the new scale question will soon be reached.

Gen. McMullen Dies.

Montreal, March 31.—A well-known citizen and soldier of the American republic died here yesterday, in the person of Gen. Edgar McMullen. He was president of the Ottawa Valley Electric Railway. It was Mr. McMullen's brigade that saved the day for Union in the field of Gettysburg. Gen. McMullen came to Montreal at the end of the war and established the Adams Tobacco Co.

BORDEN LOSES MR. BERGERON

Another Member Goes Back on Conservative Leader.

ROUSED MR. BORDEN'S ANGER

Mr. Belcourt's Criticism of the Amendment and the Position of Mr. Foster Cause Latter and the Conservative Leader Annoyance — Mr. L. P. Demers in Favor of the Bill.

Ottawa, March 31.—The feature of the debate on the autonomy bill yesterday was the defection of Mr. J. G. H. Bergeron, of Beauharnois, Que., who following the example of Mr. F. D. Monk, declared his intention of voting against Mr. R. L. Borden's amendment. Mr. Bergeron's speech was listened to with deep interest by a well-filled House. He took a position differing somewhat from Mr. Monk, inasmuch as he not only approved of the land clauses and justified the financial clauses, but, while accepting the modified educational clauses, of which the Premier has given notice, declared that clause 16 as originally introduced was satisfactory.

Roused Borden's Anger.

Mr. N. A. Belcourt, who followed Mr. Bergeron, succeeded in arousing the anger of Mr. R. L. Borden and Hon. Geo. E. Foster by his criticism of the amendment and the position of the member for North Toronto. For a time the exchange of courtesies between these gentlemen and Mr. Belcourt was exceedingly interesting, and the intervention of the Speaker was invoked. Other speakers were Mr. Demers (St. John and Iberville), who in his mother tongue made an eloquent appeal for toleration and harmony, and Mr. Lake (Qu' Appelle), who supported the amendment moved by his leader. Mr. Walter Scott has the floor to-day.

Mr. Foster renewed his question with reference to filling the vacant portfolio of Minister of the Interior, but Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that he had no information to give upon the subject.

Never Took His Seat.

Ottawa, March 31.—The eccentricities of Rufus Curry, of Windsor, N. S., led to a long discussion in the Senate yesterday. Mr. Curry was appointed to the Senate two years ago, but he refused to take his seat, and yesterday the committee on privileges declared the seat vacant. A request was made of Mr. Curry to explain his conduct, but he answered that never having taken the oath of office he had no explanations to make. Sir Mackenzie Bowell argued that Senators are summoned, not appointed, that it was an authoritative invitation. The seat, therefore, became vacant thirty days after the appointment and could have been filled any day after that time. The report of the committee on privileges was finally accepted.

NEEPAWA'S EXPERIMENT.

Municipal System of Phones a Profitable One—Another Successful Rural Scheme—Company Sold Out.

Ottawa, March 31.—The special committee on telephones heard a good deal of interesting information yesterday morning regarding the working of a rural system in the vicinity of Beaverton, and of a municipal system in Neepawa, Manitoba. Mr. Angus Cameron, who financed the Beaverton system, told the story of its establishment and subsequent absorption by the Bell Co. This system, which went under the name of "the Independent Telephone Co.," was established in August, 1902, and, after being operated eight months, was bought by the Bell Co. They had 11 miles of poles, 20 or 25 miles of wire, and 33 subscribers. The system was owned by a partnership, who expended about $6,000 in its construction and equipment, or about $50 per phone. They rented the system to subscribers at $15 or $18 nearly all the subscribers living in the rural districts. After the Bell Co. bought the line they raised the rate from $15 to $20 for new subscribers. Mr. Cameron said the system was a paying one before being sold to the Bell Co. They sold because they were without capital to carry on a war with the Bell.

The Neepawa Experience.

Mr. John Crawford, M. P., gave an account of the municipal telephone system in his own town of Neepawa. The system was established five or six years ago in opposition to a then local system of the Bell Co., and local pride succeeded in driving out the Bell Co. and giving the municipal company a monopoly of the business. A short time ago the Bell Co. in extending their long-distance system in the west returned to Neepawa. They are, however, not received with much favor, and have only 12 subscribers in the town, while the town system has 200. The town system's rate is $10 for private and $20 for business 'phones, while the Bell Co. charges $25 and gives long-distance connection at the usual rates. Those who patronize the Bell system usually have the local system also.

The system cost $6,000 to $8,000 originally and considerable improvements have been made. The system had brought a profit to the town which, he thought, amounted to almost $2,000 a year. The townspeople favored the municipal system and would not be inclined to give it up.

Another Rural System.

The chairman, Sir Wm. Mulock, presented the city of Toronto's resolution favoring Government ownership of long-distance lines, also a letter from Alex. D. Bruce, of Gormley, Ont., giving some particulars of a local rural system between Stouffville and Markham, covering twenty-five miles, comprising forty phones and costing the farmer subscribers $12 per year, while the Bell Co. charged the farmers in the same district $20. They are now considering the advisability of extending to Aurora without extra charge, that is $12 for private and $15 for business phones. They hope thereby to add twenty subscribers. "By all means let us have public ownership," concluded Mr. Bruce.

The committee will meet again on Tuesday.

For Fruit College.

St. Catharines, March 30.—Yesterday afternoon a special committee appointed Saturday by the executive of the Niagara Peninsula Fruit Growers' Association passed a resolution urging the Dominion Government to establish an experimental fruit farm and college in the Niagara peninsula, and suggesting that the Dominion Government put up the initial cost of the institution and then hand it over to the Ontario Government to equip and manage in connection with the O. A. C.

Poison-Laden Blood Cause of Spring's Ills.

By Awakening the Action of the Liver Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Ensure the Purifying of the Blood and Prevent Disease.

The blood is the great fluid medium which conveys nutrition to the tissues of the body and carries away the waste matter or ashes produced by the fire of life.

But the blood is only laden with nutrition when the digestive system performs its duty of extracting it from the blood.

And the blood can only be freed of the poisonous waste matter when the liver is properly doing its work as a filter of the blood.

The tendency to overeating and the lack of fresh air and exercise during the winter season are the conditions which most frequently cause the breaking down of the liver and the consequent loading of the blood with impurities in the spring.

There is no means in the world whereby the blood can be made pure except through the filtering process carried on by the liver and kidneys.

There is no more effective means of insuring the healthful and vigorous action of these organs than Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Torpid, sluggish action of the liver is sure to be accompanied by clogging of the kidneys and bowels, the upsetting of the digestive system, and the rise of such dreadfully painful and fatal diseases as Bright's Disease, Appendicitis, Rheumatism and Diabetes.

Symptoms:

- Biliousness.
- Pains in the Back.
- Muddy Complexion.
- Constipation.
- Deposits in the Urine.
- Feelings of Weight and Oppression.
- Wind in the Stomach and Bowels.
- Headache and Indigestion.
- Tired Feelings.
- Pains Under Left Shoulder Blade.
- Despondency.
- Bad Temper.

To begin with, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cleanse the kidneys and intestines thoroughly and well.

Then, by their direct and specific action on the liver, they insure the purification of the blood and cause a healthful flow of new bile, the only means by which constipation is actually cured.

If you would be cured of indigestion, biliousness, constipation and avoid all the dangers which lie in wait for those whose blood is loaded with poison, we say to you, without fear of contradiction, that these results can best be accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

You are not experimenting when you use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, for their action on the liver is certain and definite.

Few medicines have been so thoroughly tested and so enthusiastically endorsed by the great public of this continent.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Dr. Chase's Ointment is a positive cure for every form of itching skin disease such as eczema, salt rheum, tetter, psoriasis, poisoned skin, chil blains, etc.

A simple remedy in the home is therefore an absolute necessity, and for this purpose there is nothing else so good as Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets promptly cure all stomach and bowel troubles, break up colds, allay fevers, destroy worms, aid teething and make little ones healthy and cheerful. Guaranteed to contain no opiate or poisonous soothing stuff. Mrs. John N. Pringle, Forest Falls, Ont., says: "I think I can thank Baby's Own Tablets for my baby's life. He was badly constipated but after giving him the Tablets he was relieved at once. I also find them good when he is at all restless, and feel I cannot say too much in their favour." Sold by all druggists or sent by mail at 25 cents a box, by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Miners Are Waiting.

Altoona, Pa., March 31.—The miners who are members of the joint scale committee have sent to the operators a communication offering to continue work up to April 5 in any mine where the employer will agree to pay the present scale of prices. They say they do not desire to complicate the situation in view of the meeting of the operators on Saturday next, and in the hope that an amicable settlement of the new scale question will soon be reached.

Gen. McMullen Dies.

Montreal, March 31.—A well-known citizen and soldier of the American republic died here yesterday, in the person of Gen. Edgar McMullen. He was president of the Ottawa Valley Electric Railway. It was Mr. McMullen's brigade that saved the day for Union in the field of Gettysburg. Gen. McMullen came to Montreal at the end of the war and established the Adams Tobacco Co.

BORDEN LOSES MR. BERGERON

Another Member Goes Back on Conservative Leader.

ROUSED MR. BORDEN'S ANGER

Mr. Belcourt's Criticism of the Amendment and the Position of Mr. Foster Cause Latter and the Conservative Leader Annoyance — Mr. L. P. Demers in Favor of the Bill.

Ottawa, March 31.—The feature of the debate on the autonomy bill yesterday was the defection of Mr. J. G. H. Bergeron, of Beauharnois, Que., who following the example of Mr. F. D. Monk, declared his intention of voting against Mr. R. L. Borden's amendment. Mr. Bergeron's speech was listened to with deep interest by a well-filled House. He took a position differing somewhat from Mr. Monk, inasmuch as he not only approved of the land clauses and justified the financial clauses, but, while accepting the modified educational clauses, of which the Premier has given notice, declared that clause 16 as originally introduced was satisfactory.

Roused Borden's Anger.

Mr. N. A. Belcourt, who followed Mr. Bergeron, succeeded in arousing the anger of Mr. R. L. Borden and Hon. Geo. E. Foster by his criticism of the amendment and the position of the member for North Toronto. For a time the exchange of courtesies between these gentlemen and Mr. Belcourt was exceedingly interesting, and the intervention of the Speaker was invoked. Other speakers were Mr. Demers (St. John and Iberville), who in his mother tongue made an eloquent appeal for toleration and harmony, and Mr. Lake (Qu' Appelle), who supported the amendment moved by his leader. Mr. Walter Scott has the floor to-day.

Mr. Foster renewed his question with reference to filling the vacant portfolio of Minister of the Interior, but Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that he had no information to give upon the subject.

Never Took His Seat.

Ottawa, March 31.—The eccentricities of Rufus Curry, of Windsor, N. S., led to a long discussion in the Senate yesterday. Mr. Curry was appointed to the Senate two years ago, but he refused to take his seat, and yesterday the committee on privileges declared the seat vacant. A request was made of Mr. Curry to explain his conduct, but he answered that never having taken the oath of office he had no explanations to make. Sir Mackenzie Bowell argued that Senators are summoned, not appointed, that it was an authoritative invitation. The seat, therefore, became vacant thirty days after the appointment and could have been filled any day after that time. The report of the committee on privileges was finally accepted.

NEEPAWA'S EXPERIMENT.

Municipal System of Phones a Profitable One—Another Successful Rural Scheme—Company Sold Out.

Ottawa, March 31.—The special committee on telephones heard a good deal of interesting information yesterday morning regarding the working of a rural system in the vicinity of Beaverton, and of a municipal system in Neepawa, Manitoba. Mr. Angus Cameron, who financed the Beaverton system, told the story of its establishment and subsequent absorption by the Bell Co. This system, which went under the name of "the Independent Telephone Co.," was established in August, 1902, and, after being operated eight months, was bought by the Bell Co. They had 13 miles of poles, 30 or 35 miles of wire, and 33 subscribers. The system was owned by a partnership, who expended about $6,000 in its construction and equipment, or about $50 per phone. They rented the system to subscribers at $15 or $18 nearly all the subscribers living in the rural districts. After the Bell Co. bought the line they raised the rate from $15 to $20 for new subscribers. Mr. Cameron said the system was a paying one before being sold to the Bell Co. They sold because they were without capital to carry on a war with the Bell.

The Neepawa Experience.

Mr. John Crawford, M. P., gave an account of the municipal telephone system in his own town of Neepawa. The system was established five or six years ago in opposition to a then local system of the Bell Co., and local pride succeeded in driving out the Bell Co. and giving the municipal company a monopoly of the business. A short time ago the Bell Co. in extending their long-distance system in the west returned to Neepawa. They are, however, not received with much favor, and have only 12 subscribers in the town, while the town system has 200. The town system's rate is $10 for private and $20 for business 'phones, while the Bell Co. charges $35 and gives long-distance connection at the usual rates. Those who patronize the Bell system usually have the local system also.

The system cost $6,000 to $8,000 originally and considerable improvements have been made. The system had brought a profit to the town which, he thought, amounted to almost $2,000 a year. The townspeople favored the municipal system and would not be inclined to give it up.

Another Rural System.

The chairman, Sir Wm. Mulock, presented the city of Toronto's resolution favoring Government ownership of long-distance lines, also a letter from Alex. D. Bruce, of Gormley, Ont., giving some particulars of a local rural system between Stouffville and Markham, covering twenty-five miles, comprising forty phones and costing the farmer subscribers $12 per year, while the Bell Co. charged the farmers in the same district $26. They are now considering the advisability of extending to Aurora without extra charge, that is $12 for private and $16 for business phones. They hope thereby to add twenty subscribers. "By all means let us have public ownership," concluded Mr. Bruce.

The committee will meet again on Tuesday.

For Fruit College.

St. Catharines, March 30.—Yesterday afternoon a special committee appointed Saturday by the executive of the Niagara Peninsula Fruit Growers' Association passed a resolution urging the Dominion Government to establish an experimental fruit farm and college in the Niagara peninsula, and suggesting that the Dominion Government put up the initial cost of the institution and then hand it over to the Ontario Government to equip and manage in connection with the O. A. C.

Poison-Laden Blood Cause of Spring's Ills.

By Awakening the Action of the Liver Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Ensure the Purifying of the Blood and Prevent Disease.

The blood is the great fluid medium which conveys nutrition to the tissues of the body and carries away the waste matter or ashes produced by the fire of life.

But the blood is only laden with nutrition when the digestive system performs its duty of extracting it from the blood.

And the blood can only be freed of the poisonous waste matter when the liver is properly doing its work as a filter of the blood.

The tendency to overeating and the lack of fresh air and exercise during the winter season are the conditions which most frequently cause the breaking down of the liver and the consequent loading of the blood with impurities in the spring.

There is no means in the world whereby the blood can be made pure except through the filtering process carried on by the liver and kidneys.

There is no more effective means of insuring the healthful and vigorous action of these organs than Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Torpid, sluggish action of the liver is sure to be accompanied by clogging of the kidneys and bowels, the upsetting of the digestive system, and the rise of such dreadfully painful and fatal diseases as Bright's Disease, Appendicitis, Rheumatism and Diabetes.

Symptoms:

- Biliousness.
- Pains in the Back.
- Muddy Complexion.
- Constipation.
- Deposits in the Urine.
- Feelings of Weight and Oppression.
- Wind in the Stomach and Bowels.
- Headache and Indigestion.
- Tired Feelings.
- Pains Under Left Shoulder Blade.
- Despondency.
- Bad Temper.

To begin with, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cleanse the kidneys and intestines thoroughly and well.

Then, by their direct and specific action on the liver, they insure the purification of the blood and cause a healthful flow of new bile, the only means by which constipation is actually cured.

If you would be cured of indigestion, biliousness, constipation and avoid all the dangers which lie in wait for those whose blood is loaded with poison, we say to you, without fear of contradiction, that these results can best be accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

You are not experimenting when you use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, for their action on the liver is certain and definite.

Few medicines have been so thoroughly tested and so enthusiastically endorsed by the great public of this continent.

One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Dr. Chase's Ointment is a positive cure for every form of itching skin disease such as eczema and salt rheum, tetter, psoriasis, poisoned skin, chil blains, etc.

What Fruit-a-tives are

"Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in tablet form. They are the laxative, tonic and curative principles of fruit—combined into pleasant tasting pellets. They contain all the virtues of fruit—but by the secret process of making them, their action on the human system is many times intensified.

What "Fruit-a-tives" are for

"Fruit-a-tives" are the natural and logical cure for all Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles. Their action is that of fresh fruit, only very much surer and more effective. Then too, they are free of fruit acids, sugar and woody fibre which often prevent fresh fruit being beneficial.

Try "Fruit-a-tives" and see how quickly they cure you of Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bilious Headache, Loss of Appetite and Kidney troubles.

The History of the Country Must Be Preserved—Let the Facts Speak.

"If in Canada we had less to say about our illimitable resources, and worked with steadfast purpose to have the most irreproachable politics in the world, our patriotism would not be slumbering the while," said Dr. C. W. Colby, Professor of History at McGill University, in the course of an address on "Patriotism and History" at a recent Toronto Canadian Club luncheon.

Dr. Colby remarked that it had been urged more than once that the rank and file of Canadians would be more loyal citizens if patriotism were more carefully taught as a lesson in the days of boyhood. They were also not infrequently reminded of the efforts which were being made throughout the United States to instil love of country at the same moment with the elements of spelling. The whole argument resolved itself into: First, that a somewhat militant spirit of patriotism was desirable, and, second, that the historical manual should be used as a means of setting forth in picturesque and convincing fashion the facts which helped to glorify the national past or the arguments which went to defend the national cause. Those who repeated with unction the sentiment, "Our country, right or wrong," would doubtless be content to have a colored, one-sided version of the national annals presented to children in Public Schools through the medium of the elementary manual.

"What is the attitude of the professional historian toward this state of mind, and toward this form of patriotism?" asked Dr. Colby. He said that during the past two generations an attempt had been made by leading students to render the investigation and the writing of history impartial, colorless and scientific. Truth was the ideal, not patriotism, nor even religion. Under modern conditions, therefore, it would be difficult to find a decent historian who would undertake to write a school manual with the fixed intent of justifying the national cause, or so to speak, of presenting part of the truth as though it were the whole truth, against which nothing could be urged.

"We all recognize, I imagine, the existence of patriotism under two forms, the lower form of beating the big drum or waving the bloody flag, and the higher form of doing something for one's country," said Dr. Colby, and neither was the connection of history with the higher patriotism less close than it was with the screaming of the eagle or the roaring of the lion. He referred to Switzerland's sound type of patriotism, and gave some of the characteristics of the people. So far as Canada was concerned, history, Dr. Colby thought, ought to have a large part in the national life. There was certainly a history worth honoring, and the great pity was that so far so little had been done to exploit it. Instead of talking grandiloquently about the past, the truer patriotism would seem to point toward a closer investigation of it. But, speaking frankly in the case of Canada, the materials upon which a good co-operative history could alone be founded did not exist.

A few weeks ago he had a conversation with Dr. Doughty, the Dominion Archivist, regarding a project for a co-operative history of Canada, to be brought out in connection with the Champlain celebration in Quebec in 1908. Whether such a work would be attempted was another question, but Dr. Colby thought most experts would agree with Dr. Doughty in thinking that anything at present done on these lines would be of a purely provisional character. It would be a tentative nature for the simple reason that the monograph stage had not, with Canada, as yet been passed through. It would, he said, be ridiculous to deny that the literature of Canadian history was wholly lacking in good monographs. Books like Rochemontetx's "Jesuits," Lovin's "Frontenac," Doughty's "Siege of Quebec," and Biggar's "Early Trading Companies," spoke eloquently to the contrary. Still, an enormous amount of pioneer work must be done before a bibliography of Canadian history could show any such results as were represented by a little book like Channing & Hart's "Guide to American History."

"We need to have at Ottawa a well-endowed and creditable Archives Department," urged Dr. Colby. In the past an important duty had been neglected by treating the archives in a purely incidental fashion. For many years the main affiliation had been agricultural. The time had come to render it cultural in a broad and national sense. Theoretically, at least, all desired that there should be sound and learned histories of Canada, but those could not be prepared until a large number of special topics had been investigated with minute care. Owing to the present limitation of the National Archives, the work of preparing good monographs was extremely difficult and costly. Therefore, it must be concluded that the only sound policy was to collect and arrange those original materials without recourse to which the historian would be wasting his time in writing at all on Canadian subjects.

Dr. Colby said that the question hinged less on the task of holding our own than on the more difficult one of making up lost time. He did not wish to be regarded as adopting the tone of a pessimist, or as disparaging the best contributions already made to Canadian history. He only desired to go to the bottom of the matter and insist on the need of laying a solid foundation. Special studies, based on a first-hand knowledge of the sources, were the solid pedestal upon which the work of art, the great national history, must stand. Materials for local history should be looked to with particular care, as they were so perishable, and already it was difficult, and often impossible, to make up files of local newspapers from the beginning, whilst domestic correspondence, even where most valuable as among the members of leading families, tended to disappear after a generation or so. Indeed, the proper custody of historical materials was among the chief duties which each age owed to its successors.

SOLDIERS' ANECDOTES.

From Dr. Goldie's New Book, Just Published by Methuen & Co.—Determination of Edward the Crusader.

When he became King of England, on the death of his father, Edward I., the greatest warrior Sovereign who has ever ruled over these fortunate isles was away in the Holy Land conducting a crusade.

Though beset with many difficulties and though his small force of soldiers seemed to melt away through disease and desertion, Edward still marched on against the Saracens. When his nobles wished him to turn back, he airily said, "I will go on, if I go on with no other follower than my servant!"

Oldest Regiment.

"Pontius Pilate's Body Guard", used to be the extraordinary nickname given to the 1st Foot—now the Royal Scots—which has the distinction of being the oldest regiment in the Army. The name originated during a dispute between the regiment (then known as the "Regiment de Douglas," or "Douglas Ecossais"), when in the French service in 1637, and the Picardy Regiment, as to the antiquity of the two corps.

The Picardy Regiment laid claim to having been on duty on the night after the Crucifixion. To this the 1st Foot wittily rejoined, "Had we been on duty, we should not have slept at our post!"

A Better Joke.

When General Oglethrope was in Holland in his youthful days serving with the army of Prince Eugene, a prince of Wurtemburg, at an entertainment, filliped some wine into Oglethrope's face.

The latter turned his eye on him and remarked, "That was a good joke, but we do it better in England," and thereupon threw a glassful of wine into the face of the prince!

Witty Reply.

In the days of Marlborough, one of his generals, on a short holiday in England, was dining at the Mansion House one day, when an alderman sitting next to him remarked, "Yours, sir, must be a very laborious profession?"

"Oh, no," replied the warrior, airily; "we fight for four hours in the morning and two or three hours after dinner, and then we have the rest of the day to ourselves!"

Badajos Storied.

At the siege of Badajos a cannon-shot, fired by the French, struck the ground first, and then hit one of the British artillerymen on the back, felling him to the ground. He was thought to have been killed on the spot, but in a moment, to the surprise of his comrades, he jumped up unhurt, the shot having glanced off his knapsack. It is recorded that the fortunate soldier was afterwards known as "the bomb-proof man."

In the same engagement a British soldier, having fired at one of the enemy without orders, was reprimanded by his colonel, who asked the man why he had so offended. "Why, zur," replied the soldier, scratching his head at the same time, "I arn't nought to eat this 'ere two days, and I thought as how I might find summat in his knapsack!"

Puzzled Russians.

In connection with the 93rd Regiment at Balaclava a rather amusing story is recorded. The odd appearance of the Highlanders in their national kilt attracted the attention of the Russians who came into the camp under a flag of truce.

After discussing the matter among themselves for a little time, one of the Russian officers asked, "What sort of soldiers are those in the petticoats?"

"These," replied a waggish British officer, "are the wives of the soldiers who ride on the grey horses!"

The allusion, of course, was to the Scots Greys, who were in the vicinity.

Useful Bullet.

There is an admixture of comedy and tragedy in the following incident which took place at Elandslaagte: Major W. Sampson, of the Imperial Light Horse, observed a man lying down, and ordered him to go on. The poor fellow retorted that he was perfectly willing to go on, but at that moment was too paralysed with fear.

Major Sampson galloped on, but shortly afterwards was surprised to see the trooper charging past him. "What's the matter?" shouted the major. The trooper showed that his moustache and part of his upper lip had been carried away by a Boer bullet, and yelled fiercely, "Where are the devils? Let me get at them!" With that he galloped on, and was in the front of the charge the whole way.

One Dickens Used to Tell.

Charles Dickens used to tell this story about a clergyman: "This preacher had been called to officiate at the funeral of a relative of a Conservative editor, and as the preacher himself aimed to be a Liberal leader in the district he and the editor had often crossed swords. This time the chance came to deliver a home thrust without a chance for either parry or reply. At the coffin of the deceased, beside which the editor and other mourners knelt together, the preacher made this appeal: 'Lord, overrule this affliction to the welfare of all assembled, including the reptile now sprawling in Thy presence, who has frequently abused Thy servant in the columns of his beastly publication.'"

Fried Crumbs.

Fried breadcrumbs make a most attractive garnish when scattered over a rib roast or fried fish? To have them as they should be—crisp, golden brown and absolutely free from grease—the crumbs should be thoroughly dried, then rolled and sifted through a coarse sieve to remove the finer ones that may be saved for breading or other purposes. Melt a tablespoonful of butter in the spider or use the same amount of olive oil and when smoking hot put in the crumbs that remain in the sieve. Stir and shake continually over the fire, and as soon as they color take them up. Dried crumbs toasted a golden brown in the oven and eaten hot in milk make a delicious and easily digested bedtime luncheon.

DR. MACKAY'S SPECIFIC

For the Treatment of

Alcoholism

Used in Connection with the Province of Quebec Probation System with Unvarying Success.

The City Council of Montreal has endorsed this marvellous discovery. The Finance Committee of Montreal recently voted $500 to defray the expense of placing the medicine in each of the city Police Stations, as prompt application of the Treatment to bad cases will prevent the fatalities continually occurring in the cells.

No Sanitarium is required. The treatment can be taken at home. No special diet required. The desire to reform is simply necessary and spirits avoided for a few days.

This medicine is now within the reach of all, the price having been reduced. The wonderful results obtained with the worst class of drunkards coming before the Judges of the Recorders' Courts in Quebec and Montreal warrants the statement that the disease of Drunkenness can be cured—readily and surely—under ordinary circumstances and with the reasonable desire upon the part of an inebriate.

This treatment is simply the medicine of the medical profession—the only secret is as to its administration.

Dr. Mackay's discovery is the result of 25 years of practice as a specialist and expert. He is a member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of the Province of Quebec.

The Government of Quebec through the Judges ordered over 500 boxes of the medicine for prisoners appearing in the Courts in 1904—Official Reports establish 80 per cent. of cures with these cases.

With the public and official endorsation and the record of results published it is unnecessary to waste money experimenting further. All communications private.

NEEDLEBOOKS.

Convenience Which Will Prove a Blessing in Time of Need.

A convenient needlebook can be made of linen and felt. Take a strip of green linen the desired length. Cut another strip six inches shorter. Point one end of the longer strip, and about an inch from the end fit on lengthwise the shorter linen strip. The strips are of the same width. Baste the two together and buttonhole around the edge with holly red working cotton. This forms a sort of pocket, though neither end of the short strip is fastened to the long one. Roll the unpointed end of the long strip so that it will be a little larger around than a spool of thread. Into this pocket run a tape upon which are strung two spools of thread, end to end. Then on to the shorter strip set a needle holder of red felt (Fig. 1) and fill it with needles of many kinds and sizes. At the point of the strip sew red ribbons. The case can then be rolled up and tied. It is convenient in traveling.

A darning book is made of two pieces of cardboard covered inside and out with linen. On the cover paint a figure or a flower (Fig. 2). On one inside cover set two horizontal bands of ribbon. Under them fasten a pinked piece of white felt for the darning needles. On the other side (Fig. 3) set two diagonal bands of ribbon. To one tie a pair of tiny scissors. Under the other band slip a card of darning cotton. Ribbon ties are set on. This is easily slipped into a suit case and is a blessing in a time of need.—Brooklyn Citizen.

An Invalid's Bed.

This is something that every woman should understand. If the sick person's clothing is to be changed attend to that first and then allow a few minutes' rest. Then place her on one side of the bed, covered by a light blanket, and then make the other side of the bed, putting on a clean sheet and removing the soiled lower sheet. The clean sheet should be folded lengthwise in the middle of the bed and the pillowcase removed. Now move the patient carefully to the fresh side of the bed and, drawing out the folded sheet, proceed to make the other. Take the clean sheet and spread it over the covering already on the mattress. If the patient is not too ill she can hold the upper part of the sheet; if so, pin the upper corners to the bed and from the foot draw out the loosened soiled sheet or other covering and replace it with the fresh.

Get Gay Once In Awhile.

"I am afraid we women are so terribly in earnest most of the time that we forget that it is our bounden duty now and then to be frivolous," says Mrs. Margaret Sangster. "There are people who seem at a loss when there is nothing but fun on the carpet, when there are no wrongs to right, no sinners to reform and no untidiness to clear away. When an American matron has finished every single thing her conscience dictates there is sure to be one thing left that she has not done. She has not left a margin for her own enjoyment."

Opposes Capital Punishment.

Sheriff Mowat, who presided at the recent hanging of Martin the child murderer, said to a Telegram reporter: "This is a barbarous business anyway, the taking of human life, and I am utterly opposed to it, but if it has to be done it should be inside the prison. Why should the condemned man have to walk in the freezing atmosphere of to-day for two hundred feet, forced to be more uncomfortable than is necessary. Executions should take place in the jail building. There is a nook on the first floor at the end of a corridor inside the walls which could be fitted up at little expense as a permanent location. In that case the body would drop into the cellar. I am in favor of electrocution for the infliction of the death penalty, if the law must kill men."

BLOOD POISON

On account of its terrible effects, blood disease is called the king of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted; so while it may not be a crime to have the disease, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrofula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, itchiness of the skin, eruptions or blotches, ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, disordered stomach, and a general depression of the system. If you have any of these symptoms don't neglect yourself. You have no time to lose. Beware of "old form" treatment—beware of mineral poisons—beware of Quacks and Fakirs. OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure this disease, never to return. Bank Bonds will protect you. Our treatment is not injurious in any way, but reaches the very root of the disease and eliminates all poison from the system. The symptoms of disease gradually disappear. The blood becomes pure and enriched, the whole system is cleansed and purified, and the patient feels and looks prepared anew for the duties and the pleasures of life. CURES GUARANTEED OR NO PAY. 25 Years in Detroit. 250,000 Cured.

COLLEGIATE TENDERS WERE TOO HIGH

Tenders Which Were Opened Yesterday Were Several Thousand Dollars Above the Amount Estimated and the Result is that the Board of Education Will have to Ask for Additional Money Before Contract Can be Let—A Large List of Tenders and all Were Close—Committee Will Report to the Board on Monday Night.

Yesterday was the last day for receiving tenders for the erection of the new Collegiate Institute, and it is understood, though the members of the Property Committee of the Board of Education are as dumb as the proverbial oyster, that there were a large number of tenders received, and that they were all very close in their figures.

It is also learned on good authority that the prices quoted on the building were considerably above the prices provided for in the minds of the members of the Board, and the result may be no contract will be made.

The committee will report on Monday night to the members of the Board, when it is expected that the town will be asked to give an additional amount of money to provide for the erection of the building.

Cost of building has increased to such an extent that to erect the building proposed would run several thousands of dollars above the estimate.

No definite information is available, and the public, which has to pay for the building, will just have to possess its soul in patience until the next meeting of the Board.

THREE YEARS OF SUCCESSES

Enterprising Business House Celebrates Third Anniversary

Best Stove Company's Rapid Growth During Last Three Years.

One of the most progressive and prosperous of the Peterborough business firms is to-day celebrating the third anniversary of its opening business in this town. This firm is the Best Stove Company, of 134 Hunter street, and the progress of the development of this enterprising firm is considered of sufficient public interest to warrant some little reference being made to it.

Three years ago Mr. E. M. Best, who had previously spent five years with the Wm. Buck Stove Company, of Brantford, learning the stove business, came to Peterborough and opened up in the present stand under the name of the Best Stove Company, and took the sole agency for the Happy Thought Stoves and Ranges.

From the very first, due, Mr. Best believes, to the splendid reputation of the Happy Thought Stoves, a reputation which he also believes is warranted by the record, the business was a success and grew rapidly.

During the first year only stoves and tinware were handled, but the success which these branches met with influenced the proprietor in branching out the second year, and he added a tinsmithing department to the establishment, and a year ago an important departure was made in the addition of a stock of hardware and a plumbing department, and during the past year the wisdom of this course has been amply demonstrated. The tinshop was opened up with Mr. E. Kemp in charge, but it is now directed by Mr. Stanley Johnston, who is a master of his trade. In connection with the tinshop roofing and eavestroughing and general repairing are carried on, as well as the other branches, including the installation of furnaces, the Pease and Busk furnaces being handled by this firm.

The plumbing department which has grown to be a most important one, is in charge of Mr. Alex. Archibald, and the strong point in this department is the quality of the work performed. Particular attention is paid to the performance of the work in a thoroughly workmanlike manner, and that the quality of the jobs done by this firm has been satisfactory is evidenced by the fact that not only have a large number of contracts in town been filled with complete satisfaction, but also in other places, and one of the largest of these was the entire plumbing equipment of the Lakefield Preparatory School, which was recently greatly enlarged.

Mr. Ray P. Best, brother of the proprietor, will arrive from Winnipeg in a short time and will have charge of the hardware department. He has spent some years in one of the best hardware stores in that city and is a practical man.

At the time the business was opened here one man with the proprietor constituted the staff, while at the present time there are nine employees.

The prospects for the coming year are very bright. The firm has a large number of contracts on hand in its different departments and the sales are growing rapidly.

MICHAEL GREER FELL ON A CIRCULAR SAW

Terrible Accident Which Occurred Yesterday Afternoon at White's Saw Mill, Lakefield—Unfortunate Man Fell on Revolving Saw and Badly Injured—Skull was Cut and Jaw Bone Severed—Unfortunate Man Was a Stranger in Lakefield and Has Two Sisters Living on Sherbrooke Street, Peterborough—Is Now at the St. Joseph's Hospital Here.

A terrible accident occurred in Lakefield yesterday afternoon at 5.30, at Mr. Z. White's saw mill, when Mr. Michael Greer received very severe injuries from which he may not recover.

Mr. Greer, who is a stranger to Lakefield, having lived there for only about a month, during which time he has been employed in the saw mill mentioned, was crossing in front of a rapidly revolving circular saw, when he stumbled against the carriage, which, it is supposed, was moving slowly, and fell with his head and face against the saw with the result that he was horribly cut.

A gash was cut in his skull, exposing the brain, while his jaw was also cut in two, the gash extending half way up the cheek.

His horrified fellow-employees immediatly stopped the saw and ran to his assistance. He was bleeding profusely and great difficulty was experienced in preventing him from bleeding to death until the doctors, who were at once summoned, could reach him.

The attending physicians were, Doctors J. R. Fraser and Baker, and they were on the scene of the accident as soon as it was possible for them to arrive, and they did their best for the unfortunate man; working with him for over an hour.

His wounds were dressed, and he was made as comfortable as it was possible to make him there, and this morning he was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital here, where he is at present lying in a very weak condition.

Mr. Greer is not known well in Lakefield, only having lived there a short time. He has two sisters living in town, Mrs. Judd and Mrs. O'Connor, both living on Sherbrooke street.

He is a man past middle age, and it is not known whether he is married or not.

THE SUBMERGED "SOVEREIGN"

Passenger Steamer Lies at the Bottom of Otonabee River

Water Overflowing ice got into Hull Sending her to the Bottom.

The steamer Sovereign is lying on the bottom of the Otonabee River. This steamer, which was launched last season, and which ran during the summer between Peterborough and Rice Lake points, with only a moderate degree of success, on account of a series of misfortunes which the boat met with, will probably not be running out of this port this season.

It is not definitely known what the causes were which sent the Sovereign to the bottom, but it is supposed that the ice which had formed closely around the hull of the steamer during the winter, had not been cut before the thaw came to allow the boat to rise with the water in the spring, and the result was that it is supposed the water coming in on top of the ice, ran into the boat, with the result that she went to the bottom.

The boat is for sale now, but at present it looks as if she would not find a purchaser. Mr. Carnegie, who is the principal owner of the steamer, offered her to Mr. A. McDonald, but that gentleman did not accept the offer. It was at first thought that she might be bought by some Lakefield parties, and taken there and rebuilt, but this also had to be abandoned.

During the last season the Sovereign met with some unfortunate accidents, which seriously affected the financial success of the venture, and the boat did not pay very big returns to the owners.

This season there will be only two excursion steamers on the Otonabee River, those of the Calcutt Line, and the prospects are that this popular line of steamers will have a record season's business. Already a large number of excursions have been booked, and the only fear the management of the company have is that the Locks repairs may not be completed in time to allow the big steamer, "City of Peterborough," to get below the Locks to start the season on July 1st, for which date she has been booked already.

The Rainbow will probably be the only other steamer sailing on the river this season below the Locks.

CANADIAN MACHINE TELEPHONE CO.

Work Has Been Quietly and Steadily Going Forward all Winter

The System Approaching Completion and Probability of Telephones in Operation Some-time in May.

Observant persons notice these days that the buds are swelling on the elm twigs, and reflect on the mighty, but silent and unseen, forces of nature, under the bosom of the frozen earth, that bring such results. Unseen but effective forces have been in operation during the past two or three months, bringing the Peterborough system of the Canadian Machine Telephone Company step by step steadily nearer the goal of operative achievement.

Persons are often heard to wonder what the company is doing, or if it has ceased doing anything. Since the work of installing under our streets the conduits for the conducting cables, there has been little outward and visible evidence of active operations. Yet all winter the work has been steadily going on of connecting the cables on the pole system with the system of protectors or lightning arresters at some 25 or 30 different points, and with the central station. This is slow work, compared with throwing out trenches for underground conduits, where progress is limited only by the number of men engaged, but with the work mentioned only one man can be employed—the work having to be carefully done.

The widely distributed aerial and subterranean wires have to be individually connected with the distributing rack at the central station. This work will soon be completed, and by the time it is done, the central switch board will be on hand. The first instalment of the generating and electric motor apparatus for the central station, has arrived, and the rest, being past due, is expected daily.

The central station building is completed, and it has been made as thoroughly fireproof as brick and stone, steel window frames and sash, and concrete flooring, can make it. Originally the floor was of maple, but this was replaced with a floor of concrete laid on expanded metal, supported by steel joists. As soon as this floor can be used the distributing rack will be installed and connected with the system of wires, the generating apparatus will be put in, and the Canadian Machine Telephone Company will be next-door to giving a commercial telephone service, which will probably be in successful commercial operation some time during next month—May.

The company has not been idle, as many have seemed to think, but the work of preparation has been going steadily forward, and if within the next thirty, or even sixty, days, the new system—new in principle as well as material—is in operation, a new record for such work will have been established — for a full year would have represented rapid work; and the company began operations in Peterborough only last August.

—The Red and Blue banquet will be held on Monday evening at 7 o'clock. The Blues are now about 40 ahead, and its no April fool either.

REASON No 23

WHY YOU SHOULD USE

Red Rose Tea

Because it is put up in sealed packages.

These packages protect the flavor of the tea and protect you in weight and guarantee of quality.

No article of food is so easily tainted as tea—it absorbs the flavor of everything it comes in contact with. Place an orange beside some tea for an hour, and then taste or smell the tea—orange too.

Very few tea bins are tight enough to prevent tea from absorbing the odors of fruit, vegetables, cheese, etc., etc., usually mixed together in a grocery—and the ordinary tea chest is very little protection.

The Red Rose Tea sealed lead package preserves all the original flavor and freshness of the tea—open a package and smell its fresh fragrant aroma.

Packages of Red Rose Tea are always full weight and uniform in quality.

"POEMS AND SONGS"

An Appreciative Review of an Important Addition to Canadian Literature

It is only in the compass of a book that a poet can show the varied nature of his talent, and give his readers the opportunity to feel and value his art, as exhibited in his full range of verse. This little volume, "Poems and Songs by Rev. R. Newell, Markdale, Ont.", brings into prominence some traits of Mr. Newell's mind, which are certain to win public recognition.

That which especially distinguishes the collection is the sentiment of loyalty—fervently expressed in the poems inspired by love of country, worshipfully uttered in the religious verse, and warm with the hues of the heart when the son of a loved leader lies dead. Mr. Newell's spiritual attitude is one of upward-gazing affection. He celebrates the doings and sufferings of "the great," not with conscious literary effort, but with the spontaneous fervor which makes him a natural poet laureate. Note the unforced grace and pathetic charm of this elegy on Lord Ava:

The man whose name stands highest in th' esteem
Of those o'er whom he ruled in days gone by,
Is not forgotten, now that death's dark stream
Hath quenched the hopes which once burnt proud and high.

Ah! who shall say how much the father thought—
How oft the mother prayed as days sped on,
And boyhood from that loftier manhood caught,
The fire Promethean, passed from sire to son.

And when at length the cry to arms was heard,
And valiant deeds succeeded boasting words,
Brave Ava rushed to battle, did and dared
The hero's part against unequal hordes!

As now the illustrious father bows his head
In manly quiet grief beside that honoured bier,
We too would sorrow for the noble dead
And mourn his loss with those whom we revere."

Simple tenderness and manly sympathy could scarcely find worthier expression. They are equalled in sorrowful charm of phrase by the final verses of a later poem, also addressed to the Marquis of Dufferin and Ava,

"Oh! What a desolate domain
Has life's fair garden ground become;
And few the roses that remain,
To tell of love and peace and home,

Still love abides and o'er the scene
Of desolation sheds a light,
Which consecrates what'er has been,
And gilds the gathering clouds of night.

Friend of my country, far away
We turn our gaze across the sea,
While hope and memory day by day

Are still with thee—we still with thee!"

This, we think, is the particular sort of writing in which the author's success is distinct. There are other directions in which he is not felicitous. The verses called Oddities, at the end of the book, are calculated to make the judicious grieve that they were ever included. They can shed no lustre on the poet's name, and it is difficult to understand why they were considered worthy of a place in the collection. Of the rest, it is only just to say that Mr. Newell has consistently refused all sensationalism in his methods; his workmanship is smooth, and few indeed, are the lines that show jar or friction in their syllables. There are dignity, simplicity, and sincerity in the poems addressed to his children, and to his friends. A kindly and generous heart is shown in nearly everything that comes from his pen, and if the poet's regard for distinguished men is great, it is based upon a genuine love for that larger humanity who must fall of distinction.

Facility, is perhaps the chief weakness against which we should wish this writer to be on his guard. For everyone who writes there is always the easiest phrase, and there is always the best phrase. The former is invariably on hand and slips into place with the slightest twirl of the pen; the latter is hidden, like a precious jewel, in the bosom of the muse and few there be that find it. But it is worth looking for, worth working for, and its finding is matter for exultation.

Give Mr. Newell a great subject—one after his own heart—and he can be strong, eloquent and felicitous. Let the third part of his Coronation Ode attest to the truth of this statement. Here are three verses of it—

"Bright are the footsteps behind her, where Kings of her Line are to tread,
And he who is throned as her Heir has a hope and a God overhead,—
A hope and a God to uplift him to heights where no monarch e'er stood
In the waves of an ultimate glory, which beat on the Throne like a flood.

Predestined of old o'er the nations to hold the Dominion of Might,
Till freedom shall shatter the fetters which bar the dominion of Right,
Till Truth and Morality flourish and war and its tumults shall cease,
And the dove, with the olive branch hovering shall come with the message of Peace.

Honour and glory and might rest on the head of the King,
Peace and good will unto men, angels in unision sing;
Long may he live until the darkness is swallowed in fulness of light,
And Law shall forever have triumphed, and Right be the standard of Might,

Pain Across the Kidneys For Three Years.

Suffered Great Agony. Could Not Stoop or Bend.

No disease is so quiet and stealthy in its approach as kidney disease. That is why it is so dangerous. It may become deep-seated before you realize the danger.

It is therefore of great importance to recognize the early warning symptoms, because in its early stage kidney disease is easily curable. Pain or dull ache in the back is one of the first signs. So are bladder pains, bearing-down pains, smarting sensation when urinating, frequent or suppressed urinations, and gravel or sediment in the urine, etc. You cannot be well if your kidneys are not performing their functions properly. In all ordinary cases of any derangement of the kidneys, a few doses of will put the patient right; in old or chronic cases, the treatment should be persisted in.

Mr. Michael A. Melanie, Woodbine, Marion Bridge, N.S., tells of his experience: "For the last three years I suffered great agony with pain across my kidneys, and was so bad that I could not stoop or bend. I consulted and had several doctors treat me, but I got none the better. On the advice of a friend I procured a box of that valuable life-giving remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, and to my surprise and benefit I immediately became better. In my opinion Doan's Kidney Pills have no equal as a cure for any form of Kidney disease.

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25. All dealers, or direct by mail.

THE DOAN KIDNEY PILL CO.,

HE WAS LAID UP FOR OVER A YEAR

Till Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured his Kidney Troubles

Now He's Perfectly Healthy and Able to Work—Gives all the Credit to the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Wapella, Assa., N.W.T., March 31—(Special.)—Cured of Kidney Disease that had laid him up for over a year, Mr. Geo. Bartleman, a well known man here, is loud in his praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills, for to them and nothing else he claims he owes his cure.

"Yes, I had Kidney Trouble," Mr. Bartleman says. "I had pains in my back and in other parts of my body and though the doctor did what he could for me, I grew worse till I was unable to work.

"Then I started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I took them all winter and summer while I was unable to work. I took in all twelve boxes, and now I am perfectly healthy. My pains are all gone and I am able to work. I heartily recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to all sufferers from Kidney Disease."

Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure the Kidneys. Healthy Kidneys strain all impurities, all seeds of disease, out of the blood. That's why Dodd's Kidney Pills cure such a wide range of diseases including Bright's Disease, Rheumatism and Urinary Troubles.

OTTAWA CITY MOVES.

Will Serve Notice of Expropriation on Consumers' Electric Co.

Ottawa, April 1.—The City Council last night, at a special meeting, unanimously decided to serve notice of expropriation on the Consumers' Electric Co., a privilege enjoyed under the charter.

This move is the city's answer to the action of the House of Commons in passing the Ottawa Electric Co.'s bill, empowering it to buy out competing companies.

The Council takes the position that this will result in a monopoly and largely increased prices to the consumers. To offset this, the city will go into the lighting business.

Anthony Decker Dead.

Toronto, April 1.—Anthony Decker, the one-time counterfeiter, is dead from an overdose of paregoric, which he took yesterday afternoon. Decker died as he was being carried into the Emergency. His wife and daughter live at 671 City Hall place, Montreal. It is supposed he received some help from them at times. He was 62 years of age. Decker has had a checkered career, and was one of the most expert engravers in America.

"Manitou" Has Accident.

Falmouth, Eng., April 1.—The Atlantic Transport Line steamer Manitou, which sailed from London March 17 for New York, put back here yesterday with her thrust shaft fractured. The accident to the Manitou occurred when the vessel was 1,200 miles out. Her captain deemed it advisable to return, as the steamer had experienced terrible weather.

CHATHAM'S HEAVY FIRE LOSS.

Loss of $64,000 — Family Narrowly Escapes and Corpse is Burned.

Chatham, April 1.—Two business blocks in Chatham were destroyed by fire at an early hour yesterday morning. The loss will approximate $64,000, made up as follows: St. Jahnke & Sons, $21,000; J. C. Wanless, hardware, $15,000; A. H. Patterson, hardware, $17,000; A. H. Vongunten, jeweller, $2,500; W. S. Richards, confectionner and baker, $8,000.

The fire was discovered about 3 a. m., by Wm Jahnke, who had just returned from Detroit. He found the Jahnke family, who lived over the block occupied by themselves and J. C. Wanless' hardware, all asleep. In attempting to rouse the family he was overcome by smoke and is in a serious condition. The family escaped by jumping from the windows. Owing to the high insurance rates the firms all had small insurance except A. H. Patterson.

The corpse of the late Mrs. Mellady was charred beyond recognition before it was rescued. It was in Jahnke's undertaking rooms awaiting interment.

Put Off Train, Loses Leg.

Cornwall, April 1.—A young man giving his name as Victor Archambault and stating that he is a resident of Montreal was found lying alongside the westbound track one and a half miles west of Summerstown Station by Thomas Clifton, section foreman. He was brought to the general hospital, where it was found necessary to amputate one of his legs. The man says he was put off a train.

Demented Man Drowns.

Port Dalhousie, April 1.—John McKenzie, a demented farmer, was found drowned here about 4 p. m. yesterday. Thursday night his boys went from the house to the barn to do up the chores when he said he would be along with them soon. Instead he wandered towards the canal and jumped in. He leaves a wife and six children.

Pere Marquette Releases Men.

Detroit, April 1.—A general order will be posted to-day all over the Pere Marquette system calling for a reduction of from 15 to 20 per cent. in the entire mechanical force. Perhaps 500 men will lose their positions. The explanation is that there is no work for the men.

Will Sue for Schoolhouse.

Vankleek Hill, April 1.—Samuel Presley will sue the Curran Village separate school board for restoration of a public school building, taken possession of by them. The case comes up next Thursday before Judge Textpel.

Newfoundland's Prosperity.

St. John's Nfld., April 1.—The Colonial Legislature opened yesterday. Governor MacGregor, in the speech from the Throne, said that for the last four years the colony's favorable balance of trade had averaged over a million and a quarter dollars annually. Everything indicated the continuance of prosperity. The Governor also announced a surplus of revenue over last fiscal year, and also in the current year, despite the reduction of $200,000 in taxation last session.

Falling Limb Kills Farmer.

Chesley, April 1.—Joseph Maxwell, a farmer, on the fourth concession of Elderslie Township, near Chesley, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon by a limb falling on him from a tree that he was chopping down.

THE ADDRESS PASSED.

Mr. Harcourt Delivers an Earnest and Thoughtful Contribution to the Debate—Premier Whitney's Remarks.

Toronto, March 31.—The debate on the address in reply to the speech from the Throne was concluded in the Legislature yesterday afternoon, and the address was unanimously adopted, no amendment being offered by the Opposition. Premier Whitney, who closed the debate, stated in the course of his remarks that there was no correspondence on file between the preceding Governments and the Dominion Government as to the extension of the Provincial boundaries, and that he had authority to say that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had no recollection of any conversation with Premier Ross on the subject. The remainder of his speech was a vigorous reply to various criticisms. Mr. Harcourt's address was a thoughtful and earnest contribution to the debate, well and logically delivered. Mr. Pattinson's address was very brief.

Estimates and Public Accounts.

Mr. Harcourt asked the treasurer what progress had been made in the preparation of the public accounts and estimates.

Hon. Col. Matheson replied that the public accounts would be down on the morrow. There had been some difficulty in getting the estimates through council owing to the pressure of other business, but possibly they would be ready by Thursday.

Hon. Col. Matheson presented the report of the special committee appointed to select the standing committees.

Read a First Time.

The following bills were read a first time:

Mr. Hoyle—To amend the Ontario Companies' Act.

Mr. Preston (Brant)—Respecting convict-made goods.

The Railway Taxation Commission will hold its final meeting on Saturday morning. The report has been prepared ready for signatures.

Deputations from Addington, Frontenac and Nipissing saw the Minister of Public Works yesterday. A suggestion was made that the regulations be changed placing colonization roads under commissioners.

A. G. MacKay Victim of Trolley.

A. G. MacKay, M. P. P., for North Grey and Minister of Crown Lands in the last Ross Cabinet, was the victim of a trolley accident at 9.40 last night. He was unconscious for about 20 minutes and sustained a nasty scalp wound. Those who picked him from the pavement at first thought he had been killed. It was while driving across Yonge street, at Grosvenor, that Mr. MacKay's carriage became entangled in the movements of two trolleys, north and southbound. The car going north struck the carriage and upset it, and Mr. MacKay was thrown to the asphalt roadway. Dr. Hargreaves attended to the injured man, who afterwards left in the company of friends for his rooms at the Rossin House, where it was stated that his injuries were not serious.

Tenth and Last.

Toronto, March 31.—A. C. Pratt, M. P. P., has filed a cross-petition in the South Norfolk election against his opponent, W. A. Charlton. The time for filing protests has expired. There are now 10 constituencies protested, with cross-petitions in three.

CHAPTER X.

It was an industrious household at Drake Hill both as to men and women folk. The fields were full of ebony backs and plying arms of toil at sunrise, and the hum and whir of loom and spinning wheels were to be heard in the negro cabins and the great house as soon as the birds.

Madam Judith Cavendish was a stern taskmistress, and especially for these latter duties. Had it not been for the stress of favor in which she held me I question if my vocation as tutor to Mistress Mary would have had much scope for the last year, since her grandmother esteemed so highly the importance of a maid's being versed in all domestic arts, such as the spinning and weaving of flax and wool and preserving and distilling and fine needlework. She set but small store by Latin and arithmetic for a maid, not even if she were naturally quick at them, as was Mistress Mary, and had it not been that she was bent on keeping me in her service at Drake Hill I doubt not that she would have clapped together the maid's books, whether or no, and set her to her wheel. As it was, a goodly part of every day was passed by her in such wise, but so fond was my pupil of her book that often I have seen her with it propped open for her reference on a chair at her side.

It was thus the next morning, the morning of the day of my Lord Culpeper's ball. It was a warm morning, and the doors and windows of the hall were set wide open and all the spring wind and scent coming in and dimity curtains flying like flags, and the gold of Mistress Mary's hair tossing now and then in a stronger gust, and she and Catherine cramming down their flax baskets, lest the flax take wings to itself and fly away. Both Mary and Catherine were at their flax wheels, but Madam Cavendish was in the loom room with some of the black women. Mary had her Latin book open, as I have said before, on a chair at her side, but Catherine span with her fair face set to some steady course of thought, though she, too, was fond of books.

Never a lesson had she taken of me, holding me in such scorn, but I questioned much at the time, and know now, that she was well acquainted with whatever knowledge her sister had got, having been taught by her mother and then keeping on by herself with her tasks. When I entered the hall, having been to Jamestown after breakfast and just returned, both maids looked up, and suddenly one of the wheels ceased its part in the duet and Catherine was on her feet and her thread fallen whither it would. "Master Wingfield," said she, "I would speak with you."

"Madam, at your service," said I, and followed her, leading out on the green before the house. "What means this—what means this, sir?" she began when she was scarcely out of hearing of her sister.

"What did you about the goods? Did you—did you"—

She gasped for further speech and looked at me with such a haughtiness of scorn as never I had seen. It is hard for any man to be attacked in such wise by a woman and be under the necessity of keeping his weapons sheathed, though he knoweth full well the exceeding convincing of them and their fine point to the case in hand.

"Did you—did you"—she went on—"did you purchase those goods yourself for my sister? Did you?"

I bowed again. "Madam," said I, "whatever I have, and my poor flesh and blood and soul also, are at the service of not only your sister, but her family."

I marveled much as I spoke thus to see no flush of shameful consciousness overspread the maid's face, but none did, and she continued speaking with that sharpness of hers, both as to pale look and voice, which wounded like cold steel, which leaves an additional sting because of the frost in it. "Know you not, sir," said she, "that we cannot suffer a man in your position, a—a—to purchase my sister's wardrobe?" Then, before I knew what she was about to do, in went her hand to a broidered pocket which hung at her girdle and out she drew a flashing store of rings and brooches and one long necklace flashing with green stones. "Here, take these," she cried out. "I have no money, but such an insult I will not suffer that my sister goes clad at your expense to the ball tonight. Take these. They are five times the value of the goods."

I would in that minute have given ten years of my life had Mistress Catherine Cavendish been a man and I could have felled her to the ground, and no man knowing what I believed I knew could have blamed me. The flashes of red and green from those rings and gewgaws which she held out seemed to pass my eyes to my very soul.

"Take them," she said. "Why do you not take them, sir?"

"I have no need of jewels, madam," I said, "and whatever the servant hath is his master's by right, and his master doth but take his own and no discredit to him."

She fairly wrung her hands in her helpless wrath, and the gems glittered anew. "But—but," she stammered out, "know you the full result of this, Harry Wingfield? She, my sister Mary, thinks that I—I—sent to England for the goods for her. She knows that I have some acquaintance with what she hath done, and she—she is blessing me for it, and I cannot deny what she thinks. I—I—cannot tell her what you—you have done, lest—lest"—

To my great astonishment she stopped short with such a flame of blushes as I had never seen on her face before, and I was at a loss to know what she might mean, but supposed that she considered that the shame of Mistress Mary's wearing finery which had been paid for out of a convict's purse would be more than she could put upon her and yet that she dared not inform her lest she refuse to wear the sky blue robe to the governor's ball and so anger Madam Cavendish.

"Madam," I said, "your sister is but blessing you for what you would have done, and wherefore need you fret?"

"God knows I would," she broke out passionately. "Every jewel I possess, the very gown from my back, would I have sold to save her this had I but known. Why did she not tell me? Why did not she tell me? Oh, Harry, I pray you to take these jewels!"

"I cannot take them, madam," I said. Yet such was her distress I was sorry

Catherine offering her jewels to pay for Mary's wardrobe

for her, though I believed it to be rooted and grounded in falsity and that she had no need to regard with such disapprobation her sister's being indebted to an English gentleman who gave her in all honor the best he had. Yet could I not yield and take those jewels for more reasons than one; not only should I have lost the dear delight of having served Mary Cavendish, but I had a memory of wrong which would not suffer me to touch those rings nor to allow that innocent maid to be benefited by them since I cannot say what dark auspicions seized me when I looked at them.

"My God," she said, "was ever such a web of falsehood as this? Here must I hear my sister's blessings upon me for what I have done, and I knowing all the time that 'twas you, and yet she must not know." Then again that flame of red overspread her face and neck to the meet of her muslin kerchief, and I knew not why.

"Madam," I said, "one deception opens the way for a whole flock." And I spoke with something of a double meaning, but she only cried out, with apparently no understanding of it, that things had come to a cruel pass, and back to the house she went, and I presently followed her to get my gun, having a mind to shoot a few wild fowl, since my pupil was at her wheel.

And there the two sat, keeping up that gentle drone of industry which I have come to think of as a note of womanhood, like the hum of a bee or the purr of a cat or the call of a bird. They sat erect, the delicate napes of their necks showing above their muslin kerchiefs under their high twists of hair, for even Mary had her golden curls caught up that morning on account of the flax lint, and from their fair, attentive faces nobody would have gathered what stress of mind both were in. Of a surety there must be a quieting and calming power in some of the feminine industries which be a boon to the soul.

But as I passed through the hall up looked Mary, and her beautiful face flashed out of peace into a sunlight of love and enthusiasm.

"Oh," she cried out, "oh, was there ever any one like my sweetheart Catherine? To think what she hath done for me—to think, to think! And she, dear heart, loving the king! But better she loves her little sister and will stand by her in her disloyalty for the love of her. Was there ever any one like her, Master Wingfield?"

I knew not what I said. Truly not much, for the mockery of it all was past my power of dealing with and keeping my respect of self.

I got my fowling piece from the peg on the wall and was forth and ranging the wooded shores, with my eyes intent on the whirring flight of the birds and my mind on that problem of the times which always hath and doth and always will encounter a man who lives with any understanding of what is about him, but not always as sorely as in my case, who faced, as it were, an army of difficulties, bound hand and foot. But after awhile the sport, in which I was fairly skilled, and that sense of power which cometh to one from the proving of his superiority over the life and death of some weaker creation, and the salt air in my nostrils, gave me, as it were, a glimpse of a farther horizon than the present one of Virginia in 1682 and mine own little place in it. Then verily I could seem to see and scent like some keen hound a smoothness which should later come from the tangled web of circumstances and a greatness which should encompass mine own smallness of perplexity.

Harry taking his fowling piece from the peg

When I was wending my way back to Drake Hill, with my gun over shoulder and some fine birds in hand, I met Sir Humphrey Hyde.

We were near Laurel Creek, and the great house stood still and white in the sunlight, and there was no life around it except for the distant crawl of toil over the green of the broad tobacco fields and the great hum of the bees in the flowering honey locusts. Sir Humphrey was coming from the direction of the house, riding slowly, stooping in the saddle as if with thought, and I guessed that he had been to see to the safety of contraband goods. When he saw me he halted and shouted in his hearty, boyish way, "Hallоо, hallоо, Harry, and what luck?" as if all there was of moment in the whole world, and Virginia in particular, was the shooting of birds on a May morning. "Harry, Harry," he said in a whisper, though there was no life nearer than the bees and they no bearers of secrets, except those of the flowers, "I pray thee, come back to the hall with me and let us consult together."

I followed him back to the house, and he sprang from his saddle, had a shutter unhasped in a twinkling, knowing evidently the secret of it, and we were inside, standing among the litter of casks and cases in the great silent desertion of the hall of Laurel Creek. Then he grasped me hard by both hands and cried out: "Harry, Harry Wingfield, come to thee I must, for, convict though thou be, thou art a man with a head packed with wit, and Ralph Drake is half the time in his cups, and Parson Downs riding his own will at such a hard gallop that 'twill surprise me not if he leave his head behind, and as for Dick and Nick Barry and Captain Dickson and—and Major Robert Beverly and all the others, what is it to them about this one matter which is more to me than the whole broth?"

"You mean?" I said and pointed to the litter on the hall floor.

"Yes," and then, with a great show of passion, "My God, Harry Wingfield, why—why did we gentlemen and cavaliers of Virginia allow a woman to be mixed in this matter? If—if these goods be traced to her"—

A rich man died the other day. He died in the very midsummer of life, and he left his family $1,000,000. The doctor's certificate showed that death resulted from typhoid fever. The doctor himself said to a friend: "That man was a suicide. He had a splendid constitution. I could have pulled him through if his stomach had been sound. But he ruined his stomach by hasty meals, snatched in intervals of business and by neglect of symptoms which have been warning him a year past, that his stomach was failing in its duties."

The symptoms of a disordered stomach are, among others, variable appetite, sour risings, heartburn, undue fullness after eating, dull headache, dingy complexion, discolored eye, fluctuations in physical strength, nervousness, sleeplessness, despondency. No person will have all these symptoms at once.

The restoration of the stomach to sound health, begins with the first dose of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The cure progresses until the functions of the stomach are in healthy operation. Then the nerves are quiet and strong, the appetite healthful, the sleep restful, the eye bright, the complexion clear.

"Please accept my thanks for the benefit which my child received from your medicine," writes Mrs. W. A. Morgan, of Silica, Ala. "He had been troubled for nearly a year with liver complaint, indigestion and constipation. I gave him your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets,' and they did him great good. I gave him the 'Discovery' about eight months, and several vials of the 'Pellets.' He seems to be perfectly well now."

If you want a cure accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets These ORIGINAL Little Liver Pills, first put up by old Dr. R. V. Pierce over 40 years ago, have been sold ever since, but never equalled. Dr. Pitcher takes this means of giving you an opportunity of proving to your own satisfaction that what he says and what others say about his remedy can be verified in your own experience.

Here are some of the diseases and symptoms of disease that the Tablets cure. Read them over carefully.

Backache, headache, lame or weak back, pain in the back or between the shoulders, swelling of the feet and legs, bloating, paffiness under the eyes, puffy and pasty appearance of the face, dropsy, Bright's disease, and diabetes (except in the last stages), gravel, stone in the bladder, brick dust deposits in the urine, scalding or irritation of the urine, frequent calls during the day or night, inflammation of the bladder or cystitis, catarrh of the bladder, milky colour of the urine, high coloured or foul smelling urine, sudden stoppage of the flow of the urine, scanty flow of urine, dribbling, rheumatism, neuralgia, pains in the joints or hips, uric acid in the blood, heavy feeling or pain in the head, drowsiness, blood humors, skin diseases rapid loss of flesh, great thirst, excessive quantity of urine, specks floating before the eyes, bad taste in the mouth (especially in the mornings), constipation, torpid liver, dragging pain in the lions, sense of weight or pressure in the region of the bladder, kidney trouble of old people, bed wetting of children, kidney troubles of women, and all symptomatic indications of kidney or livar derangement.

If any of the above-mentioned troubles are afflicting you and you have never tried Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets, don't hesitate to write to The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., 82 Church St., Toronto, Ont., enclosing stamp for postage, and obtain trial treatment free.

LAUNDRY LINES.

Frequent rubbing on sandpaper will keep irons from sticking.

Tubs will not warp or crack if the precaution is taken to put a pail of water into each directly after use.

A lump of alum the size of a hickory nut added to each pint of starch will keep the colors of calicoes and ginghams bright a long time.

Don't wash dainty, perishable needlework with ordinary soap. Make suds of the white sort and when washed iron wet upon wrong side.

Before using the rope you have bought for a new clothesline boil it and let it dry. In this way it is properly shrunk and it is also made more durable.

A little pipeclay dissolved in the water used in washing linen saves a great deal of labor and soap and cleans the dirtiest linen thoroughly. This method is specially useful in towns where outdoor bleaching is generally an impossibility.

You can't cure a cough or cold from the outside. You must cure it through the blood.

VALUABLE MINING PROPERTY SECURED BY NEW COMPANY

Organization Meeting of Big Dipper Mining and Milling Company To-day

Mr. S. Sager, President of the Company, Which Will be Capitalized at $2,500,000, and Owns 1934 Acres of Valuable Mineral Land—Development Work Will be Pushed.

For some time great interest has centred in the proposed formation of the Big Dipper Mining and Milling Company, of Ontario, and the meeting for that purpose is taking place to-day. Application has been made to the Legislature for a charter, the authorized capital being $2,500,000, the shares having a par value of $1.00 each, fully paid and non-assessable. Mr. S. Sager of town, one of the extensive shareholders in the Star of the East Gold Mining Co., will act as president, and Mr. J. S. Waldron, of Jackson, Pa., as secretary; Mr. John M. Fletcher, of Buffalo, as vice-president; Mr. J. A. Jamieson, formerly of Colorado, now of Myers' Cave, Ont., an expert mining man, as superintendent, and the other directors are Mr. C. Keller, of Kaladar, Ont., Mr. T. N. Rogers, of Oil City, Pa., and Mr. C. B. McAllister, of Peterborough.

The company proposes to carry on development work in Barrie Township, Frontenac county, and are already pushing the enterprise. The property which they have purchased adjoins, and is considered to be equally as valuable as the Star of the East Gold Mine, on which there is a five stamp mill at present in successful operation. The company will also devote considerable attention to iron mining, as that section of the country contains some very rich deposits. Mr. Sager when interviewed to-day, made the following statement:

LOCATION AND AREA.

The Big Dipper Mining and Milling Company, of Ontario, Canada, owns and controls lots 6, 7, 11, 12, and the south halves of 8, 9 and 10, all purchased from Wm. McAllister, and lying in the township of Barrie, County of Frontenac, 10th concession, containing in all 566 acres of land. The gold vein matter crosses 360 acres of land. They have also secured lots 14, 15, 16, 17, 18 and 19, south part, containing 620 acres, vein matter crossing 600 acres, and also lots 20,21, 22 and 23, south part, containing 220 acres, vein matter crossing 400 acres. These lots are also in the 10th concession of Barrie and join the Star of the East mine. The vein shows, or has been traced, across the entire property of 6 1-2 miles in length. Gold has been found on the surface on lots 18, 19, 12, 11 and 10. Assays from lot 18 (taken from surface of rock have yielded an average of $10 per ton.

We are now building a boarding house on lot 10 and expect to commence operations at once. From what we know of the richness of the ore on the Star of the East property we feel sure that there will be no doubt whatever but that the "Big Dipper" mine will turn out very rich. The Star of the East went far beyond our expectations and we feel sure that the present property will do the same. Further, we are including in this company lots Nos. 42, 41 and 40 in the 10th and 17th concessions of Barrie.

Above Dr. Price's Park on the Mazinaw Lake, we have about 1-2 or 3-4 of a mile of the finest lake front in all that part of the country, also across these lots there is to be found a heavy mineral vein which we expect to open up. We have also 128 acres in the 9th concession, lot 33, which the Star of the East vein has been traced across. In all, the company owns 1934 acres of mineral land which is well watered and timbered.

ACCESSIBILITY.

As far as accessibility is concerned the mine is reached on the C.P.R. to Kaladar Station and from there by a good waggon road to Myers Cave, a distance of about twenty miles east and three miles by water.

TWO VEINS.

There are two distinct veins found on these properties, on almost every lot, running parallel across the property. No. 1 vein has been tapped in several places, as stated above, and found to be from 12 to 15 feet wide. Persons wishing to take interest should avail themselves of the first opportunity to visit the property and with an expert carefully inspect the same, as a block of the stock is to be placed on the market at 25c. per share.

Mr Sager and Mr. Geo. H. Stevens paid a visit to the mine this week. They fully expected to encounter some difficulties after leaving the C.P.R., but their experience over bad roads and swollen streams was rather trying. However, they reached their property by canoes, and found the preliminary work well advanced. The new bunk house had been erected capable of accommodating 15 men, and preliminary operations are going ahead rapidly.

Mr. Sager has moved his office to 416 Water street.

IMPROVEMENTS TO G. T. R. TRACKS

Culvert Will Probably be Added at Lily Lake

Extensive repairs to the sink-hole at Lily Lake on the G.T.R. tracks have been completed, forty cars of cinders brought from Lindsay, having been deposited there. The double-header trains, which on account of the heavy spring freshets, have been running via Port Hope instead of connecting with the main line at Belleville, are now running as usual. It is understood that still further repairs at Lily Lake are under consideration. These will probably include the addition of a new culvert which will be of material assistance in remedying the difficulties which arise in the spring.

—Mr. A. McDonald's cutters, Messrs. J. Dwyre and W. Scollard, were around Stony Lake this week finishing up their measurements and booming the stuff. They have bought all kinds of logs and all kinds of wood this winter and everyone seems well satisfied with their measurements and settlement.

RECEIPTS MORE THAN DOUBLE

Customs Returns for March 1905 Show Great Increase

Are $26,853.31 in Excess of Same Month Last Year.

Peterborough's custom receipts will not stop increasing and the returns for March show that the receipts at the local clearing house were more than double those of the same month in 1904, the figures being—the increase for the month being $26,856.31.

March, 1905—$54,012 83.
March, 1904—$26,584 52.

It is doubtful if any other place in Canada shows such good returns as those of the local office, in point of proportionate increase, and as has been frequently pointed out in these columns it is an indication of the growth and prosperity of the town.

PRICES AT THE MARKET TO-DAY

Decline in Price of Butter—Exceptionally Large Attendance.

The attendance at the market this morning was exceptionally large, and the heavy supply of farm produce, particularly butter and eggs, was in marked contrast to that of last week. This had the effect of causing a decline in the price of some of these commodities. Butter, which last week, reached 35 cents, was today offered in large quantities at 23c. Eggs of which also there was a large offering, sold at 15c and 16c. Chickens were quite plentiful, the usual price being about 80c a pair. Honey was 10c a pound.

On the outside market potatoes and apples were most in evidence, the former selling at 75c and 80c per bag and the latter at 60c. Pork, which has been advancing steadily for some weeks went at 9c and 10c, instead of 8 and 9c, the price which has been ruling for some weeks. A number of loads of hay were offered, the price being $10.

Nervous, Sick Headache

Mr. O. Barber, Simcoe, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled for a long time with headaches, which would come on about once a week with such violence that I could not eat or do my work. I tried headache powders and quick cures, which did no good. About eight months ago I took six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I have not been troubled with headache since."

—What might have been a terrible tragedy, and which indeed nearly proved to be the case, occurred at Havelock on Friday morning, when Mr. and Mrs. O'Hara and three children, Miss Gorman and Miss J. Carnrite, who are living with Mrs. O'Hara, were all taken violently ill after the breakfast hour. Although emetics and antidotes were promptly administered it was extremely doubtful for some time whether Mrs. O'Hara and the baby would recover, but eventually all turned out well.

MARVELOUS CURE OF SORE EYES

Baby Treated at Two Hospitals Over a Year—Eyes Grew Worse—Doctor Said They Might Be Bad for Years.

ONE BOX OF CUTICURA MAKES COMPLETE CURE

"When my little girl was a few months old, her eyes began to get bad; thinking it was from her teeth, I lived in hopes of them getting better, but as they did not improve I decided to get medical advice. I took her to the ——— Hospital several times, and subsequently to the Children's Hospital at ———, to which institution I took her for twelve months. The doctors were most kind and attentive, and did all they could for her, but her eyes seemed to be growing worse. One doctor told me they might be bad for years; I was very miserable at such a prospect. I was one day stopped in the street by a Mrs. Todd who told me that Cuticura Ointment had cured her boy, and advised me to try it. I commenced using it that very night. The cure has been marvelous. The eyes soon commenced to get strong, and they are now as healthy as if there had never been anything the matter with them. The cure was completed with less than one box of Cuticura Ointment. You are at liberty to publish this letter, and I trust it may be the means of others being cured as my little girl has been.—Mrs. H. Phillips, Grafton St., Waverly, Sydney, N. S. W." I. D. C. CLUB CLOSE SOCIAL SEASON

Pleasing Event Last Night at Long's

Euchre Party Held in Parlours—Followed by Supper.

The parlours at Long's were last night the scene of a most enjoyable event, when the members of the I. D. C. Club and their gentlemen friends to the number of twenty-six were entertained by the latter.

A euchre party was held in the parlours above the store, after which a most delightful supper was served in the rooms below. During the progress of the evening an informal toast list was run off. Mr. E. M. Best performing the duties of toast-master in a highly satisfactory manner.

The first toast, that to the I. D. C., was proposed by Mr. R. S. Merrell and Dr. Bagshaw and responded to on behalf of the members in a happy manner by Mr. J. Watt and Mr. Donald Foster.

In acknowledgment of this a toast was proposed to the entertainers by Miss Gumpricht and Miss Foote, who acquitted themselves well in these, their "Maiden" speeches. This, of course, brought a large number of young men to their feet, who made most felicitous replies.

This was followed by a toast to Mr. Weekes, one of the club's most popular members who is to leave town shortly, proposed by Mr. L. V. Ramsden. Mr. Weekes in reply spoke of the pleasure he had experienced in his associations with the I. D. C. and their friends during the winter. While he would be leaving town in a short time he would always carry with him pleasant memories of the social evenings spent in this way.

The final toast, that to "Our Host" was proposed by Mr. William Armstrong—and in the absence of Mr. Long was responded to by Mr. B. Boomer.

During the progress of the euchre party a number of pleasing musical selections were rendered.

AGAIN IN A FRENZY.

Robert Quick, Who Strangled His Brother, in Court at London.

London, March 31.—Robert Quick, the Caradoc farmer, who strangled his brother Alfred, while in a religious frenzy on Saturday night last, had his preliminary trial here yesterday morning, the hearing not being concluded, however.

William D. Bolton, a neighbor, gave evidence indicating that the prisoner was insane previous to the tragedy, and the prisoner's ten-year-old son told a graphic story of the crime. His father, he declared, had told him immediately following the death of his uncle, that he knew he had done wrong and would be hung.

The prisoner raved like a madman during the sitting of the court.

John Folinsbee, for the defence, has written the Attorney-General, asking whether the legal proceedings cannot be cut short in order that the prisoner may be placed in the asylum.

Mr. McKillop, crown prosecutor, says that, according to law, Quick will have to face the jury in April.

Fort William, March 31.—The westbound C. P. R. colonist train was derailed at Dryden yesterday morning, owing to a broken rail.

It was running at 25 miles an hour, and four out of the twelve cars went over a 15-foot embankment. Many of the passengers were cut and bruised, and two were seriously injured.

They are: Clara Bailey, of Madoc, Ont., seriously bruised in chest, and Mrs. William Desan, aged 69, Dundalk, Ont., right leg broken.

Others hurt are: Miss Lily Boughard, Talbotville; John and Allan Bailey, Madoc; Daniel Mackay, Whitechurch; James Morris, Kaltdar; D. F. Stuart, Alisa Craig; Mrs. Stuart, Alisa Craig; William Thom, Sunbridge; R. J. Huff, Wellington; Thos. Calderwood, Brougham; John Langin, Waverton; Edward Lennox, Cornwall; John Bold, Morrisburg; Annie Gibson, Wiarton; Frank Jacobs, Brussels, and T. J. O'Leary, Hastings. The injured are being attended to at Dryden by the local doctor and aid was also sent from Rat Portage.

Girl's Life Crushed Out.

Toronto, March 31.—Marie Goussee, 117 Edward street, two and a half years old, was killed while playing in the street yesterday afternoon. The child is supposed to have been struck by one of McGill's coal carts. The driver got away quickly, before his name could be taken. The police will locate him to-day. The dead child's little companions could not tell how the fatality occurred.

Fatal Fall of Benjamin Miller.

Toronto, March 31.—Benjamin Miller, who had his skull fractured by fall from the fourth storey of the Gutta Percha and Rubber Co.'s building on O'Hara avenue, yesterday afternoon, died at Grace Hospital at 3.30 yesterday morning.

Lily Mulvaney is Dead.

Toronto, March 31.—Miss Lily Mulvaney, the nineteen-year-old daughter of Alexander Mulvaney, who was terribly injured by being struck by a Queen street car last Thursday evening, died at the Emergency Hospital at 1.35 yesterday afternoon.

Bell Lineman Killed.

Niagara Falls, March 31.—Daniel McKinnon, lineman for the Bell Telephone Co. in this city, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon while engaged in stringing a telephone line into a house on Ferry street.

Her Narrow Escape.

Peterboro, March 31.—Miss Minnie Wilkins, while employed at a loom in the Colonial Weaving Co.'s factory, had her hair accidentally caught in a loom, and but for the breaking of a belt her scalp would have been torn off. She was painfully injured.

Nearly Lost His Life.

Toronto, March 31.—George Clarke, a farmer living at Concord, York Township, while trying to drive across a branch of the Humber River, near Smithfield, in Etobicoke Township, nearly lost his life on Tuesday night. The stream was flooded and the force overturned the buggy. The horse was drowned, but Clarke managed to reach the bank, where he lay unconscious 16 hours before he was found. He is in a serious condition at the home of Colin Cameron.

Killed But Saved Comrade.

New York, March 31.—Fireman Samuel Lillie and several other firemen were injured by a cave-in in the subway at the 165th street station, which was burned yesterday. Lillie and four others had been sent into the tunnel to wet down the smouldering embers of the fire when a portion of the roof fell. Lillie lost his life in saving the life of one of his companions.

Three Men Killed in Explosion.

Huntington, W. Va., March 31.—Three men were killed and one fatally injured by the explosion of a boiler at a sawmill near Matwan yesterday.

IN THE NURSERY.

Every mother should be able to treat the minor ailments of her little ones. Prompt action may prevent serious illness—perhaps save a child's life. A simple remedy in the home is therefore an absolute necessity, and for this purpose there is nothing else so good as Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets promptly cure all stomach and bowel troubles, break up colds, allay fever, destroy worms, aid teething and make little ones healthy and cheerful. Guaranteed to contain no opiate or poisonous soothing stuff. Mrs. John N. Pringle, Forest Falls, Ont., says: "I think I can thank Baby's Own Tablets for my baby's life. He was badly constipated but after giving him the Tablets he was relieved at once. I also find them good when he is at all restless, and feel I cannot say too much in their favour." Sold by all druggists or sent by mail at 25 cents a box, by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Miners Are Waiting.

Altoona, Pa., March 31.—The miners who are members of the joint scale committee have sent to the operators a communication offering to continue work up to April 6 in any mine where the employer will agree to pay the present scale of prices. They say they do not desire to complicate the situation in view of the meeting of the operators on Saturday next, and in the hope that an amicable settlement of the new scale question will soon be reached.

Gen. McMullen Dies.

Montreal, March 31.—A well-known citizen and soldier of the American republic died here yesterday, in the person of Gen. Edgar McMullen. He was president of the Ottawa Valley Electric Railway. It was Mr. McMullen's brigade that saved the day for Union in the field of Gettysburg. Gen. McMullen came to Montreal at the end of the war and established the Adams Tobacco Co.

BORDEN LOSES MR. BERGERON

Another Member Goes Back on Conservative Leader.

ROUSED MR. BORDEN'S ANGER

Mr. Belcourt's Criticism of the Amendment and the Position of Mr. Foster Caues Latter and the Conservative Leader Annoyance — Mr. L. P. Demers in Favor of the Bill.

Ottawa, March 31.—The feature of the debate on the autonomy bill yesterday was the defection of Mr. J. G. H. Bergeron, of Beauharnois, Que., who following the example of Mr. F. D. Monk, declared his intention of voting against Mr. R. L. Borden's amendment. Mr. Bergeron's speech was listened to with deep interest by a well-filled House. He took a position differing somewhat from Mr. Monk, inasmuch as he not only approved of the land clauses and justified the financial clauses, but, while accepting the modified educational clauses, of which the Premier has given notice, declared that clause 16 as originally introduced was satisfactory.

Roused Borden's Anger.

Mr. N. A. Belcourt, who followed Mr. Bergeron, succeeded in arousing the anger of Mr. R. L. Borden and Hon. Geo. E. Foster by his criticism of the amendment and the position of the member for North Toronto. For a time the exchange of courtesies between these gentlemen and Mr. Belcourt was exceedingly interesting, and the intervention of the Speaker was invoked. Other speakers were Mr. Demers (St. John and Iberville), who in his mother tongue made an eloquent appeal for toleration and harmony, and Mr. Lake (Qu' Appelle), who supported the amendment moved by his leader. Mr. Walter Scott has the floor to-day.

Mr. Foster renewed his question with reference to filling the vacant portfolio of Minister of the Interior, but Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that he had no information to give upon the subject.

Never Took His Seat.

Ottawa, March 31.—The eccentricities of Rufus Curry, of Windsor, N. S., led to a long discussion in the Senate yesterday. Mr. Curry was appointed to the Senate two years ago, but he refused to take his seat, and yesterday the committee on privileges declared the seat vacant. A request was made of Mr. Curry to explain his conduct, but he answered that never having taken the oath of office he had no explanations to make. Sir Mackenzie Bowell argued that Senators are summoned, not appointed, that it was an authoritative invitation. The seat, therefore, became vacant thirty days after the appointment and could have been filled any day after that time. The report of the committee on privileges was finally accepted.

NEEPAWA'S EXPERIMENT.

Municipal System of Phones a Profitable One—Another Successful Rural Scheme—Company Sold Out.

Ottawa, March 31.—The special committee on telephones heard a good deal of interesting information yesterday morning regarding the working of a rural system in the vicinity of Beaverton, and of a municipal system in Neepawa, Manitoba. Mr. Angus Cameron, who financed the Beaverton system, told the story of its establishment and subsequent absorption by the Bell Co. This system, which went under the name of "the Independent Telephone Co.," was established in August, 1902, and, after being operated eight months, was bought by the Bell Co. They had 11 miles of poles, 30 or 35 miles of wire, and 32 subscribers. The system was owned by a partnership, who expended about $6,000 in its construction and equipment, or about $50 per phone. They rented the system to subscribers at $15 or $18 nearly all the subscribers living in the rural districts. After the Bell Co. bought the line they raised the rate from $15 to $20 for new subscribers. Mr. Cameron said the system was a paying one before being sold to the Bell Co. They sold because they were without capital to carry on a war with the Bell.

The Neepawa Experience.

Mr. John Crawford, M. P., gave an account of the municipal telephone system in his own town of Neepawa. The system was established five or six years ago in opposition to a then local system of the Bell Co., and local pride succeeded in driving out the Bell Co. and giving the municipal company a monopoly of the business. A short time ago the Bell Co. in extending their long-distance system in the west returned to Neepawa. They are, however, not received with much favor, and have only 13 subscribers in the town, while the town system has 200. The town system's rate is $16 for private and $20 for business 'phones, while the Bell Co. charges $25 and gives long-distance connection at the usual rates. Those who patronize the Bell system usually have the local system also.

The system cost $6,000 to $8,000 originally and considerable improvements have been made. The system had brought a profit to the town which, he thought, amounted to almost $3,000 a year. The townspeople favored the municipal system and would not be inclined to give it up.

Another Rural System.

The chairman, Sir Wm. Mulock, presented the city of Toronto's resolution favoring Government ownership of long-distance lines, also a letter from Alex. D. Bruce, of Gormley, Ont., giving some particulars of a local rural system between Stouffville and Markham, covering twenty-five miles, comprising forty phones and costing the farmer subscribers $12 per year, while the Bell Co. charged the farmers in the same district $20. They are now considering the advisability of extending to Aurora without extra charge, that is $12 for private and $15 for business phones. They hope thereby to add twenty subscribers. "By all means let us have public ownership," concluded Mr. Bruce.

The committee will meet again on Tuesday.

For Fruit College.

St. Catharines, March 30.—Yesterday afternoon a special committee appointed Saturday by the executive of the Niagara Peninsula Fruit Growers' Association passed a resolution urging the Dominion Government to establish an experimental fruit farm and college in the Niagara peninsula, and suggesting that the Dominion Government put up the initial cost of the institution and then hand it over to the Ontario Government to equip and manage in connection with the O. A. C.

Poison-Laden Blood Cause of Spring's Ills.

By Awakening the Action of the Liver Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Ensure the Purifying of the Blood and Prevent Disease.

The blood is the great fluid medium which conveys nutrition to the tissues of the body and carries away the waste matter or ashes produced by the fire of life.

But the blood is only laden with nutrition when the digestive system performs its duty of extracting it from the blood.

And the blood can only be freed of the poisonous waste matter when the liver is properly doing its work as a filter of the blood.

The tendency to overeating and the lack of fresh air and exercise during the winter season are the conditions which most frequently cause the breaking down of the liver and the consequent loading of the blood with impurities in the spring.

There is no means in the world whereby the blood can be made pure except through the filtering process carried on by the liver and kidneys.

There is no more effective means of insuring the healthful and vigorous action of these organs than Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Torpid, sluggish action of the liver is sure to be accompanied by clogging of the kidneys and bowels, the upsetting of the digestive system, and the rise of such dreadfully painful and fatal diseases as Bright's Disease, Appendicitis, Rheumatism and Diabetes.

Symptoms:

- Biliousness.
- Pains in the Back.
- Muddy Complexion.
- Constipation.
- Deposits in the Urine.
- Feelings of Weight and Oppression.
- Wind in the Stomach and Bowels.
- Headache and Indigestion.
- Tired Feelings.
- Pains Under Left Shoulder Blade.
- Despondency.
- Bad Temper.

To begin with, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cleanse the kidneys and intestines thoroughly and well.

Then, by their direct and specific action on the liver, they insure the purification of the blood and cause a healthful flow of new bile, the only means by which constipation is actually cured.

If you would be cured of indigestion, biliousness, constipation and avoid all the dangers which lie in wait for those whose blood is loaded with poison, we say to you, without fear of contradiction, that these results can best be accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

You are not experimenting when you use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, for their action on the liver is certain and definite.

Few medicines have been so thoroughly tested and so enthusiastically endorsed by the great public of this continent.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Dr. Chase's Ointment is a positive cure for every form of itching skin disease such as eczema and salt rheum, tetter, psoriasis, poisoned skin, chil blains, etc.

What Fruit-a-tives are

"Fruit-a-tives" are fruit juices in tablet form. They are the laxative, tonic and curative principles of fruit—combined into pleasant tasting pellets. They contain all the virtues of fruit—but by the secret process of making them, their action on the human system is many times intensified.

What "Fruit-a-tives" are for

"Fruit-a-tives" are the natural and logical cure for all Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles. Their action is that of fresh fruit, only very much surer and more effective. Then too, they are free of fruit acids, sugar and woody fibre which often prevent fresh fruit being beneficial.

Try "Fruit-a-tives" and see how quickly they cure you of Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bilious Headache, Loss of Appetite and Kidney troubles.

The History of the Country Must Be Preserved—Let the Facts Speak.

"If in Canada we had less to say about our illimitable resources, and worked with steadfast purpose to have the most irreproachable politics in the world, our patriotism would not be slumbering the while," said Dr. C. W. Colby, Professor of History at McGill University, in the course of an address on "Patriotism and History" at a recent Toronto Canadian Club luncheon.

Dr. Colby remarked that it had been urged more than once that the rank and file of Canadians would be more loyal citizens if patriotism were more carefully taught as a lesson in the days of boyhood. They were also not infrequently reminded of the efforts which were being made throughout the United States to instil love of country at the same moment with the elements of spelling. The whole argument resolved itself into: First, that a somewhat militant spirit of patriotism was desirable, and, second, that the historical manual should be used as a means of setting forth in picturesque and convincing fashion the facts which helped to glorify the national past or the arguments which went to defend the national cause. Those who repeated with unction the sentiment, "Our country, right or wrong," would doubtless be content to have a colored, one-sided version of the national annals presented to children in Public Schools through the medium of the elementary manual.

"What is the attitude of the professional historian toward this state of mind, and toward this form of patriotism?" asked Dr. Colby. He said that during the past two generations an attempt had been made by leading students to render the investigation and the writing of history impartial, colorless and scientific. Truth was the ideal, not patriotism, nor even religion. Under modern conditions, therefore, it would be difficult to find a decent historian who would undertake to write a school manual with the fixed intent of justifying the national cause, or so to speak, of presenting part of the truth as though it were the whole truth, against which nothing could be urged.

"We all recognise, I imagine, the existence of patriotism under two forms, the lower form of beating the big drum or waving the bloody flag, and the higher form of doing something for one's country," said Dr. Colby, and neither was the connection of history with the higher patriotism less close than it was with the screaming of the eagle or the warmth of the lion. He referred to Switzerland's sound type of patriotism, and gave some of the characteristics of the people. So far as Canada was concerned, history, Dr. Colby thought, ought to have a large part in the national life. There was certainly a history worth honoring, and the great pity was that so far so little had been done to exploit it. Instead of talking grandiloquently about the past, the truer patriotism would seem to point toward a closer investigation of it. But, speaking frankly in the case of Canada, the materials upon which a good co-operative history could alone be founded did not exist.

A few weeks ago he had a conversation with Dr. Doughty, the Dominion Archivist, regarding a project for a co-operative history of Canada, to be brought out in connection with the Champlain celebration in Quebec in 1908. Whether such a work would be attempted was another question, but Dr. Colby thought most experts would agree with Dr. Doughty in thinking that anything at present done on these lines would be of a purely provisional character. It would be a tentative nature for the simple reason that the monograph stage had not, with Canada, as yet been passed through. It would, he said, be ridiculous to deny that the literature of Canadian history was wholly lacking in good monographs. Books like Rochemonteix's "Jesuits," Lovin's "Frontenac," Doughty's "Siege of Quebec," and Biggar's "Early Trading Companies," spoke eloquently to the contrary. Still, an enormous amount of pioneer work must be done before a bibliography of Canadian history could show any such results as were represented by a little book like Channing & Hart's "Guide to American History."

"We need to have at Ottawa a well-endowed and creditable Archives Department," urged Dr. Colby. In the past an important duty had been neglected by treating the archives in a purely incidental fashion. For many years the main affiliation had been agricultural. The time had come to render it cultural in a broad and national sense. Theoretically, at least, all desired that there should be sound and learned histories of Canada, but those could not be prepared until a large number of special topics had been investigated with minute care. Owing to the present limitation of the National Archives, the work of preparing good monographs was extremely difficult and costly. Therefore, it must be concluded that the only sound policy was to collect and arrange those original materials without recourse to which the historian would be wasting his time in writing at all on Canadian subjects.

Dr. Colby said that the question hinged less on the task of holding our own than on the more difficult one of making up lost time. He did not wish to be regarded as adopting the tone of a pessimist, or as disparaging the best contributions already made to Canadian history. He only desired to go to the bottom of the matter and insist on the need of laying a solid foundation. Special studies, based on a first-hand knowledge of the sources, were the solid pedestal upon which the work of art, the great national history, must stand. Materials for local history should be looked to with particular care, as they were so perishable, and already it was difficult, and often impossible, to make up files of local newspapers from the beginning, whilst domestic correspondence, even where most valuable as among the members of leading families, tended to disappear after a generation or so. Indeed, the proper custody of historical materials was among the chief duties which each age owed to its successors.

SOLDIERS' ANECDOTES.

From Mr. Settle's New Book, Just Published by Methuen & Co.—Determination of Edward the Crusader.

When he became King of England, on the death of his father, Edward I., the greatest warrior Sovereign who has ever ruled over these fortunate isles was away in the Holy Land conducting a crusade.

Though beset with many difficulties and though his small force of soldiers seemed to melt away through disease and desertion, Edward still marched on against the Saracens. When his nobles wished him to turn back, he airily said, "I will go on, if I go on with no other follower than my servant!"

Oldest Regiment.

"Pontius Pilate's Body Guard" used to be the extraordinary nickname given to the 1st Foot—now the Royal Scots—which has the distinction of being the oldest regiment in the Army. The name originated during a dispute between the regiment (then known as the "Regiment de Douglas," or "Douglas Ecossais"), when in the French service in 1687, and the Picardy Regiment, as to the antiquity of the two corps.

The Picardy Regiment laid claim to having been on duty on the night after the Crucifixion. To this the 1st Foot wittily rejoined, "Had we been on duty, we should not have slept at our post!"

A Better Joke.

When General Oglethrope was in Holland in his youthful days serving with the army of Prince Eugene, a prince of Wurtemburg, at an entertainment, filliped some wine into Oglethrope's face.

The latter turned his eye on him and remarked, "That was a good joke, but we do it better in England," and thereupon threw a glassful of wine into the face of the prince!

Witty Reply.

In the days of Marlborough, one of his generals, on a short holiday in England, was dining at the Mansion House one day, when an alderman sitting next to him remarked, "Yours, sir, must be a very laborious profession?"

"Oh, no," replied the warrior, airily; "we fight for four hours in the morning and two or three hours after dinner, and then we have the rest of the day to ourselves!"

Badajos Stories.

At the siege of Badajos a cannon-shot, fired by the French, struck the ground first, and then hit one of the British artillerymen on the back, felling him to the ground. He was thought to have been killed on the spot, but in a moment, to the surprise of his comrades, he jumped up unhurt, the shot having glanced off his knapsack. It is recorded that the fortunate soldier was afterwards known as "the bomb-proof man."

In the same engagement a British soldier, having fired at one of the enemy without orders, was reprimanded by his colonel, who asked the man why he had so offended. "Why, zur," replied the soldier, scratching his head at the same time, "I arn't nought to eat this 'ere two days, and I thought as how I might find summat in his knapsack!"

Puzzled Russians.

In connection with the 93rd Regiment at Balaclava a rather amusing story is recorded. The odd appearance of the Highlanders in their national kilt attracted the attention of the Russians who came into the camp under a flag of truce.

After discussing the matter among themselves for a little time, one of the Russian officers asked, "What sort of soldiers are those in the petticoats?"

"These," replied a waggish British officer, "are the wives of the soldiers who ride on the grey horse!"

The allusion, of course, was to the Scots Greys, who were in the vicinity.

Useful Bullet.

There is an admixture of comedy and tragedy in the following incident which took place at Elandslaagte: Major W. Sampson, of the Imperial Light Horse, observed a man lying down, and ordered him to go on. The poor fellow retorted that he was perfectly willing to go on, but at that moment was too paralysed with fear.

Major Sampson galloped on, but shortly afterwards was surprised to see the trooper charging past him. "What's the matter?" shouted the major. The trooper showed that his moustache and part of his upper lip had been carried away by a Boer bullet, and yelled fiercely, "Where are the devils? Let me get at them!" With that he galloped on, and was in the front of the charge the whole way.

One Dickens Used to Tell.

Charles Dickens used to tell this story about a clergyman: "This preacher had been called to officiate at the funeral of a relative of a Conservative editor, and as the preacher himself aimed to be a Liberal leader in the district he and the editor had often crossed swords. This time the chance came to deliver a home thrust without a chance for either parry or reply. At the coffin of the deceased, beside which the editor and other mourners knelt together, the preacher made this appeal: 'Lord, overrule this affliction to the welfare of all assembled, including the reptile now sprawling in Thy presence, who has frequently abused Thy servant in the columns of his beastly publication.'"

Fried Crumbs.

Fried breadcrumbs make a most attractive garnish when scattered over a rib roast or fried fish? To have them as they should be—crisp, golden brown and absolutely free from grease—the crumbs should be thoroughly dried, then rolled and sifted through a coarse sieve to remove the finer ones that may be saved for breading or other purposes. Melt a tablespoonful of butter in the spider or use the same amount of olive oil and when smoking hot put in the crumbs that remain in the sieve. Stir and shake continually over the fire, and as soon as they color take them up. Dried crumbs toasted a golden brown in the oven and eaten hot in milk make a delicious and easily digested bedtime luncheon.

DR. MACKAY'S SPECIFIC

For the Treatment of

Alcoholism

Used in Connection with the Province of Quebec Probation System with Unvarying Success.

The City Council of Montreal has endorsed this marvellous discovery. The Finance Committee of Montreal recently voted $500 to defray the expense of placing the medicine in each of the city Police Stations, as prompt application of the Treatment to bad cases will prevent the fatalities continually occurring in the cells.

No Sanitarium is required. The treatment can be taken at home. No special diet required. The desire to reform is simply necessary and spirits avoided for a few days.

This medicine is now within the reach of all, the price having been reduced. The wonderful results obtained with the worst class of drunkards coming before the Judges of the Recorders' Courts in Quebec and Montreal warrants the statement that the disease of Drunkenness can be cured—readily and surely—under ordinary circumstances and with the reasonable desire upon the part of an inebriate.

This treatment is simply the medicine of the medical profession—the only secret is as to its administration.

Dr. Mackay's discovery is the result of 25 years of practice as a specialist and expert. He is a member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of the Province of Quebec.

The Government of Quebec through the Judges ordered over 500 boxes of the medicine for prisoners appearing in the Courts in 1904—Official Reports establish 80 per cent. of cures with these cases.

With the public and official endorsation and the record of results published it is unnecessary to waste money experimenting further. All communications private.

forms a sort of pocket, though neither end of the short strip is fastened to the long one. Roll the unpointed end of the long strip so that it will be a little larger around than a spool of thread. Into this pocket run a tape upon which are strung two spools of thread, end to end. Then on to the shorter strip set a needle holder of red felt (Fig. 1) and fill it with needles of many kinds and sizes. At the point of the strip sew real ribbons. The case can then be rolled up and tied. It is convenient in traveling.

A darning book is made of two pieces of cardboard covered inside and out with linen. On the cover paint a figure or a flower (Fig. 2). On one inside cover set two horizontal bands of ribbon. Under them fasten a plaked piece of white felt for the darning needles. On the other side (Fig. 3) set two diagonal bands of ribbon. To one tie a pair of tiny scissors. Under the other band slip a card of darning cotton. Ribbon ties are set on. This is easily slipped into a suit case and is a blessing in a time of need.—Brooklyn Citizen.

An Invalid's Bed.

This is something that every woman should understand. If the sick person's clothing is to be changed attend to that first and then allow a few minutes' rest. Then place her on one side of the bed, covered by a light blanket, and then make the other side of the bed, putting on a clean sheet and removing the soiled lower sheet. The clean sheet should be folded lengthwise in the middle of the bed and the pillowcase removed. Now move the patient carefully to the fresh side of the bed and, drawing out the folded sheet, proceed to make the other. Take the clean sheet and spread it over the covering already on the mattress. If the patient is not too ill she can hold the upper part of the sheet; if so, pin the upper corners to the bed and from the foot draw out the loosened soiled sheet or other covering and replace it with the fresh.

Get Gay Once In Awhile.

"I am afraid we women are so terribly in earnest most of the time that we forget that it is our bounden duty now and then to be frivolous," says Mrs. Margaret Sangster. "There are people who seem at a loss when there is nothing but fun on the carpet, when there are no wrongs to right, no sinners to reform and no untidiness to clear away. When an American matron has finished every single thing her conscience dictates there is sure to be one thing left that she has not done. She has not left a margin for her own enjoyment."

Opposes Capital Punishment.

Sheriff Mowat, who presided at the recent hanging of Martin the child murderer, said to a Telegram reporter: "This is a barbarous business anyway, the taking of human life, and I am utterly opposed to it, but if it has to be done it should be inside the prison. Why should the condemned man have to walk in the freezing atmosphere of to-day for two hundred feet, forced to be more uncomfortable than is necessary. Executions should take place in the jail building. There is a nook on the first floor at the end of a corridor inside the walls which could be fitted up at little expense as a permanent location. In that case the body would drop into the cellar. I am in favor of electrocution for the infliction of the death penalty, if the law must kill men."

THEY AVOID YOUR COMPANY

not because you lack ability to please and entertain, but for the foul, sickening breath that you discharge in their presence. We never realize what a severe case of Catarrh we really have, until our breath offends and our nostrils become clogged.

DR. AGNEW'S CATARRHAL POWDER can clear your throat and purify your breath—it relieves in ten minutes and cures permanently after short treatment. No one should force their company upon others and discomfort them with offensive breath and annoying discharges. The sooner you rid yourself of Catarrh the better it will be for you.

"I have been troubled with chronic Catarrh, colds and headache for 15 years and have used most all remedies, but never derived much benefit until I tried Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. This remedy acted like magic, one bottle entirely curing me.—P. S. FORREST, Amherst, N. S. —11

DON'T SCRATCH an itching skin—Dr. Agnew's Ointment—and cure it—It relieves and cures all skin troubles.—Price 35 cents.

You are Judge & Jury

We present our case to you in all fairness. Our arguments are born out by facts. Our testimony is confirmed by unimpeachable witnesses. We know that Gin Pills cure all Kidney Troubles. We know that Gin Pills cured hundreds whom nothing else could relieve.

Canadians are our judge and jury. Such confidence have we in the strength of our case, that we make this sweeping offer:

Money Back if GIN PILLS Fail.

If you have sharp, shooting pains in the back and through the hips—if the hands and feet swell—if the urine is highly colored and offensive, scanty or too profuse—if you are compelled to get up during the night—if the stomach is bad, the bowels irregular, and the appetite poor—get GIN PILLS. They will cure the sick kidneys, take away the pain, make you eat and sleep, and build up the whole system.

Remember our guarantee: GIN PILLS CURE or your money back.

BLOOD POISON

On account of its terrible effects, blood disease is called the king of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted; so while it may not be a crime to have the disease, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrofula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, itchiness of the skin, eruptions or blotches, ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, disordered stomach, and a general depression of the system. If you have any of these symptoms don't neglect yourself. You have no time to lose. Beware of "old fogy" treatment—beware of mineral poisons—beware of Quacks and Fakirs. OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure this disease, never to return. Bank Bonds will protect you. Our treatment is not injurious in any way, but reaches the very root of the disease and eliminates all poison from the system. The symptoms of disease gradually disappear. The blood becomes pure and enriched, the whole system is cleansed and purified, and the patient feels prepared anew for the duties and the pleasures of life. JAPANESE NOW NEARING KIRIN

Alarmist Reports of Movements of Japanese Columns--Russians Destroy Railway--Japs Moving on Vladivostock--Linevitch Concentrating Around Kirin--Jap Scouts Have a Brush--Daring Expedition by Japanese Scouts--Penetrate Russian Lines Visit Kirin and Explore that Place.

London, April 3.—The correspondent of The Times at St. Petersburg cables: Alarmist reports of Japanese columns approaching Kirin and Betuna continue to be telegraphed by Russian correspondents, but the General Staff declares that nothing serious is to be expected for several weeks.

Russians Destroying the Railway.

London, April 3.—The correspondent at Tokio of The Times says:

"Reports from Manchuria show that the Russians are destroying the railway much more thoroughly than hitherto. The evident inference is that they do not contemplate recovering the situation."

Japs' Big Undertaking.

Gunshu Pass (168 miles north of Tie Pass), April 3.—The situation here is unchanged. Gen. Mistchenko has moved forward into close touch with the Japanese and keeps up constant skirmishing. Elsewhere everything is quiet.

Native reports, which may be taken for what they are worth, state that the Japanese are leaving the Russian front, only a screen, capable, with the help of the Mukden and Tie Pass fortifications and garrisons, of holding in check Gen. Linevitch, and are transferring the bulk of their five armies to Vladivostock by means of a wide movement through Mongolia to Taitsihar. Considering the great distance involved, the plan appears too bold and almost impracticable; but Japanese intoxication from continual success, bold initiative and determined perseverance must be regarded. The situation affords an opportunity for Russian cavalry, which thus far has played an insignificant role, to distinguish itself by penetrating the Japanese intentions.

Gen. Linevitch has ordered the resumption of drills, keeping the soldiers occupied in the daytime, and music in the blouvacs at night. An energetic regime is being instituted.

Tokio, April 3.—The following official advices have been received from army headquarters in Manchuria:

"Our scouts advanced toward Hailung and collided with 300 of the enemy's cavalry at Shauciengtz, 30 miles southwest of Seilung, on the morning of March 28. The enemy, 4,000 men strong, retreated to Hailung, leaving 2,000 troopers. There are large stores of cereals at various points between Yingacheng and Sanchengtzu. The situation is unchanged in the Changchun and Kirin directions."

Dangerous Scouting Feat.

With Gen. Kuroki's army in the field, April 1, via Fusan, April 3.—Two detachments of Japanese cavalry have returned to the army after the most extensive and dangerous scouting exploit of the war. The detachments were sent north early in January under the leadership of Col. Naganuma and Major Sasegawa and each numbered 150 men. Only 100 men of each detachment returned. They explored the Russian positions west of Mukden. They encountered and eluded many forces of Russian cavalry and penetrated Gen. Mistchenko's lines. Then going northward they crossed the railroad, cutting the road and the telegraph lines during the battle. Afterwards they visited Kirin and explored that place and finally returned to the army north of Kaiyuan.

Linevitch Reports No Change.

St. Petersburg, April 3.—A despatch from Gen. Linevitch dated March 31 said no change had then taken place in the situation at the front.

WHERE ARMIES ARE.

No Fighting is Reported From Four Japanese Forces.

Tokio, April 3.—The following report, dated April 1, has been received from the headquarters of the Japanese armies in the front:

"Our force in the direction of Singking (about 80 miles east of Mukden) reports that, according to information received from the natives, a force of Russians and mounted bandits, under Col. Madolitoff, which has been assembling at Hailung, has returned to the north. According to other natives, Kirin seems to be the place elected by the enemy for assembling.

"Our force at Weihuanpomen (35 miles northeast of Tie Pass) reports that there has been no change in the enemy's positions in the vicinity of Menhuachieh. There are some Russian infantry and cavalry about 32 miles northeast of Kaiyuan (35 miles from Tie Pass).

"Our force at Changtu (40 miles above Tie Pass) reports that the enemy's cavalry outposts retreated 25 miles north of Changtu after burning the railroad station at Sousaotsu.

"Our force at Fakoman (30 miles north of Tie Pass) reports that cavalry outposts of the enemy have been observed 30 miles northeast of that place and that mixed forces of the enemy occupy Fenghau (55 miles northeast of Fakoman), Pamienchen (about 15 miles west of Fenghau) and their vicinities.

Homesick Jap Suicided.

St. Petersburg, April 3.—At the bureau established to look after the Japanese prisoners the story of the suicide of a number of Japanese imprisoned at Medvid is officially declared to be entirely misrepresented. One of a batch of 135 new arrivals who was invalided became very homesick and took his life. No complaints of ill-treatment have been received.

Russia Gets More Cars.

Paris, April 3.—The Russian Government has ordered 2,000 cars and 170 locomotives of the St. Etienne Iron Works. It is understood that they are intended for increasing the military equipment of the trans-Siberian Railroad.

Supplies for Vladivostock.

St. Petersburg, April 3.—More than 20 trains stocked with provisions and war materials are leaving St. Petersburg daily for Vladivostock.

TWO FISHERMEN WERE DROWNED.

Their Dog Team Found in a Hole Near the Ice.

EN ROUTE TO THEIR HOME

Frank Daigle and James Bobbas Believed to Have Perished Off Point Aux Pins, Lake Superior—Men Heard Shouting on Thursday at Point Aux Pins but Could Not Locate Its Source.

Sault Ste. Marie, April 3.—Word was brought in to town Saturday night of the believed drowning in Lake Superior of Frank Daigle and Jas. Bobbas. They are supposed to have gone through ice on Thursday night near Point Aux Pins while en route from the Soo to their home at Gros Cap Point, where they lived as fishermen.

Thursday night some men at Point Aux Pins heard shouting, but were unable to locate its source. Saturday morning they discovered a dog, team and sleigh near a hole in the ice. Daigle is a half-breed, about 30 years of age, married and with a family. His brother George Daigle and Joseph Mackay have gone to get the bodies.

United in Life and Death.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, April 3.—Cornelius Murphy, a gardener, about 50 years of age, and his wife, Margaret, who occupied a small cottage near the dock, were both found dead in their bed about noon yesterday.

The last seen of the couple alive was when Murphy went home on Wednesday evening with a loaf of bread, which was found on a table in their room.

From the condition of the bodies death must have taken place several days ago, and was pronounced to be due to asphyxiation, caused by escaping coal gas.

No inquest was deemed necessary. The deceased had lived here all their lives and were well known in this vicinity.

Little Boy Badly Burned.

Toronto, April 3.—Leo Cameron, four years of age, who lives with his grandmother at 65 Niagara street, was admitted to the Sick Children's Hospital at 12.30 yesterday, suffering from severe burns. It is not known how the accident occurred, but it is thought the little fellow was playing with matches and ignited his nightclothes. He was heard screaming and the flames were extinguished, but too late, it is feared, to avoid a fatal termination.

Indian Chief Killed.

Caledonia, April 3.—Mike Smoke, a chief of the Six Nation Indians, was instantly killed by a Grand Trunk passenger train running from Goderich to Buffalo Saturday night, about 100 yards from Caledonia Station. He fell between the cars.

Found in Canal.

St. Catharines, April 3.—The body of C. H. Storms, of Merritton, who has been missing for several months, was found Saturday afternoon at Lock 17 in the canal. He was 55 years of age.

DUE TO A LANDSLIDE.

Engine Plunges Forty Feet Into Canal and Crew Drown.

Utica, N. Y., April 3.—Train No. 6, on the West Shore, was derailed at Dievendorf Hill, three miles west of Fort Plain, shortly after 8 o'clock Saturday morning.

The locomotive broke its coupling with the tender and plunged into the canal, about 40 feet below the track. The engineer and fireman were carried down with the engine, and are under the machine in about five feet of water. The tender, a deadhead passenger coach and the baggage and express car were pulled from the track, but the empty coach plowed into the soft earth and held the others back, so they went but half way down the embankment. Two passenger coaches were not tipped from the rails.

In the opinion of railroad men, a landslide occurred just as the locomotive took the track at that point, for a watchman had been over the spot less than a half-hour before and saw nothing wrong.

Buried in Snowslide.

Ouray, Colo., April 3.—Three men have been buried by a snowslide, which carried away the building and bankhouses of the Bankers' National Mine. It is supposed they have perished.

Two Killed by Train.

Jamestown, N. Y., April 3.—While walking along the Erie Railroad tracks yesterday, Amel Lundquist and Orren Wright were struck by a switch engine at the Windsor street bridge and instantly killed. Both men left families.

Five Mexicans Buried.

Tucson, Ariz., April 3.—At Silver Bell, 35 miles from Tucson, a cave-in at shaft No. 3 of the Imperial Copper Co., resulted in death of five Mexican miners and the severe injury of four others.

CALGARY HAS HEAVY BLIZZARD.

Fears for Sheep and Even Cattle Entertained.

Calgary, April 3.—A very heavy blizzard is now raging and considerable anxiety is expressed for sheep and even cattle. The past month has been almost summerlike and seeding is actually completed, so the snow will supply moisture badly needed.

But a bad omen for the immediate future is the fact that prairie dog has not yet put off his winter furs of grey, nor donned the dark habit of spring, without which no old-timer considers permanent summer assured.

Must Pay For Confiscation.

Paris, April 3.—Official advices from Caracas, Venezuela, say the decision of the Venezuelan Supreme Court, canceling the French cable company's concession, was accompanied by a recognition of the principle of paying an indemnity for the canceled interests.

2,000 DIE IN MASSACRES.

Those at Baku Planned by Blood-Guilty Originators of the Terrible Butchery at Kishineff.

London, April 3.—The true story of the Baku massacres as told in the Caucasian newspapers is a tragedy with which the atrocity of Kishineff alone of recent years may be compared, Armenians at Baku taking the place of the Jews at Kishineff.

"For four days," in the words of the Bakinskia Isvestia, "a savage bacchanalia raged in which the passions of homicide, outrage, arson and plunder were let loose."

2,000 People Killed.

The paper goes on to say that during those days no less than 2,000 people lost their lives as victims of the cold blooded machinations of the St. Petersburg authorities. The latter attributed the outbreak to the sudden development of an internecine feud between the Mussulman and Armenian inhabitants, but those acquainted with the relations of the Christians and Mussulmans there knew this to be false. The truth is boldly asserted by the Bakinskia Isvestia, which, it must be remembered, like all Russian papers, is published under the supervision of the censor.

The Isvestia says that it has not the slightest doubt that the massacre was organised by the same blood guilty persons who planned the butchery at Kishineff. Then it proceeds and tells the blood-curdling tale in detail.

Victims of Rare Disease.

New York, April 3.—President Wm. F. Potter, of the Long Island Railroad, who has been ill about one month of cerebro-spinal meningitis, died yesterday.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 3.—Five deaths from cerebro-spinal meningitis have occurred here during the past week.

Jockey Wonderly Dead.

Memphis, Tenn., April 3.—Jockey Wonderly, the London rider, was taken to a hospital Saturday suffering from a supposed concussion of the brain. While schooling a two-year-old Saturday morning he was thrown into a fence, and his head struck a post. Latest Wonderly's injuries proved fatal.

World's Highest Bridge Complete.

London, April 3.—The British South Africa Co. here has received a cablegram from Victoria Falls, announcing that the bridge over the Zambesi River, the highest in the world, was linked up at 7 o'clock Saturday morning, thus completing another link in the chain of Cape to Cairo Railway.

MINISTERS WANT BEWER LICENSES

Ministerial Association Prepared to Advocate for Re-Reduced Number of Licenses.

Paper Read by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt on "Political Aspect of Roman Catholicism".

The monthly meeting of the Ministerial Association was held this morning in the Y. M. C. A. Hall. The following members were present:—Revs. J. C. Davidson, Dr. Torrance, F. J. Scott, J. G. Potter, A. H. Brace, W. Bennett, Dr. Crothers, E. A. Langfeldt, J. G. Lewis. The following members will visit Nicholl's Hospital during this month:—Revs. Lewis, Scott, Langfeldt, and Dr. Crothers.

In reply to a communication received the Association expressed itself as prepared to strongly advocate a reduction of the number of liquor licenses in our town so far as law and equity permit and to co-operate with others to gain this end.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt read a graceful paper on "The Political Aspect of Roman Catholicism in English Speaking Countries". He evinced a very full knowledge of the subject and presented many important phases of it. General approval was expressed by favourable comment and a unanimous vote of thanks.

The Association expressed its appreciation of the services of Rev. W. Bennett as Chaplain of the Protestant Home and released him from the duty at his request. Rev. J. G. Potter was appointed visitor for this month.

MEETINGS ARE SUCCESSFUL

Special Revival Services at Park Street Awakening Interest.

In the special revival services being conducted at the Park street church, the church is receiving a gracious awakening. The interest in the services yesterday exceeded anything in the past. Miss Mamie V. Clarke is indeed a ministry of song.

In the morning the church was full, and although a stock of new chairs was provided to increase the seating accommodation, the church and school room were crowded at the evening service and a number had to stand.

The sermons during the day were most impressive. The morning text was Mark 14, 8, "She hath done what she could," and was a call to holiness of heart and life, and to practical Christian activities.

The evening discourse was built on Matt. 27, 36, "And sitting down they watched Him there." It was a night spent around the cross, and deep conviction rested upon the congregation. A most successful week's work has been recorded.

Meetings will be continued every night this week. Rev. O. C. Elliott, an old pastor of the Park street church, will preach, and Miss Mamie V. Clarke will sing at each service. Strangers are made welcome; hymn books are provided.

SERVICES WERE OF SPECIAL INTEREST

Those in the S. A. Barracks Yesterday Largely Attended.

The services at the Salvation Army yesterday were of more than usual interest, the occasion being the visit of Brigadier Turner, of Montreal, (who is the Provincial officer for this part of the country). Large audiences were present at each gathering, and considerable interest was manifested in the services.

The Brigadier's subject at 11.00 a.m. was "Mental Gymnastics", and was much appreciated by all. At the afternoon service, Ensign Owens spoke on "What is the Unpardonable Sin". Brigadier Turner gave a very able address at 7.00 p. m. to a large audience on "Following Christ". The practical applications were timely and will doubtless do much good. Ensign Owen and Captain McMillan ably assisted in the services.

Private meetings for the officers of the District were held this morning and afternoon. To-night at 8 o'clock Brigadier Turner assisted by a number of visiting officers will conduct a public demonstration in the hall. The Band will also assist in the gathering. The public are cordially invited to this meeting.

DURHAM WILL NOT SEPARATE

Decides to Remain in Union With Northumberland.

A Conference Between Both Counties Results Satisfactorily.

The Port Hope Guide says that the all-important question of the separation of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham, which has occupied the attention of the men of this county for years, was settled on Wednesday, and the bonds of love which tie these two counties together were so strong that we could not tear away, or at least Northumberland would not give us a bill of divorce. Nevertheless the request of the Durham delegation was granted in every particular, and while this will not bring about separation, it will meet with the approval of the Durham people as a whole. The sum and substance of the meeting was that Durham wished Northumberland to assume her own bridges or they would separate, and rather than lose her bosom friend, Northumberland agreed to pay for all her own bridges.

MOTHERHOOD

Actual Sterility in Women is Very Rare—Healthy Mothers and Children Make Happy Homes.

Many women long for a child to bless their homes, but because of some debility or displacement of the female organs they are barren.

Preparation for healthy maternity is accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound more successfully than by any other medicine, because it gives tone and strength to the entire female organism, curing all displacements, ulceration and inflammation.

A woman who is in good physical condition transmits to her children the blessings of a good constitution. Is not that an inceptive to prepare for a healthy maternity?

If expectant mothers would fortify themselves with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for thirty years has sustained thousands of women in this condition, there would be a great decrease in miscarriages, in suffering, and in disappointments at birth.

The following letters to Mrs. Pinkham demonstrate the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in such cases.

Mrs. M. Keener, Hebron, Yarmouth, N. S., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Before my baby was born I was in very poor health, hardly able to get out of bed in the morning, and often so dizzy that all would look black to me and life really did not seem worth the living, but as soon as I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began to get better, in fact I feel that this medicine really saved my life and the life of my child, for it helped me give birth to my boy and also made me strong after the child came. I am, therefore, very glad to recommend your Vegetable Compound to all expectant mothers, and feel sure that it will help them as it did me."

Mrs. Mae P. Wharry, Secretary of the North Shore Oratorical Society, The Norman, Milwaukee, Wis., writes.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I was married for five years and gave birth to two premature children. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me, and I am so glad I took it, for it changed me from a weak, nervous woman to a strong, happy and healthy one within seven months. Within two years a lovely little girl was born, which is the pride and joy of our household. Every day I bless Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for the light, health and happiness it brought to our home."

If any woman thinks she is sterile, or has doubts about her ability to carry a child to a mature birth let her write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., whose advice is free to all expectant or would-be mothers. She has helped thousands of women through this anxious period.

Women suffering with irregular or painful menstruation, leucorrhœa, displacement, ulceration or inflammation of the womb, that bearing down feeling or ovarian trouble, backache, bloating or nervous prostration, should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound holds the record for the greatest number of actual cures of woman's ills, and accept no substitute.

Many Women Have Been Benefited by Mrs. Pinkham's Advice and Medicine.

THE SPOILS DOCTRINE IN LICENSE DEPARTMENT?

Report Credits the Government With an Intention to Make a Wholesale Change in Inspectors—A New Chief.

The indications are that there is to be a clean sweep of the license inspectors throughout the Province. It is to reach right from top to bottom, commencing probably with Mr. Eudo Saunders, the Chief Inspector. The man mentioned for the place is Mr. George E. Merrison, who has been recently appointed to the Department. Mr. Morrison comes from Sarnia, but formerly lived in Toronto, where he was very prominent in Orange circles. He was well known as the man who introduced the first resolution in the McKinley Lodge against the Jesuit Estates' Act.

Mr. C. C. Pearce, of Owen Sound, who has been license inspector in that district for the last 25 years, has been notified that his services had been dispensed with. Matthew C. Ricket, a prominent local Conservative, has been appointed in his place.

CHANGES IN TORONTO.

There is no reason to believe that the changes will stop here. In conversation with a Star reporter this morning, a prominent Conservative admitted that there would be changes in the Toronto inspectors. The reason he gave for the changes was that the Government desired to secure the services of men who would be sympathetic with its determination to enforce the liquor laws. The men who are mentioned as having the requisite sympathy are for the most part prominent Conservatives.

It is stated on good authority that Mr. Robert Burrows, Mr. Wm. Eastwood, and Mr. Hugh Kelly have been appointed inspectors for Toronto.

THE KIND THEY WANTED.

In the House yesterday Mr. Hanna's instructions to those whose duty it was to select the License Commissioners were called into question. Mr. Hanna promised to make his instructions public, and this morning gave out the following circular letter, which was sent to all the ridings:—

"Referring to the enclosed circular, asking you to recommend a Board of License Commissioners for your district, I thought it advisable to privately call your attention to the fact that it is of the first importance, in view of the pronounced agitation in favour of a stricter enforcement of the Liquor License Act, that the persons recommended should, as far as possible, be men the very mention of whose names in your community would carry with it the assurance that the Act will be strictly enforced."—Toronto Star

LOCAL COMPANY TO ERECT OFFICES

Central Canada Savings and Loan Company Building in Toronto

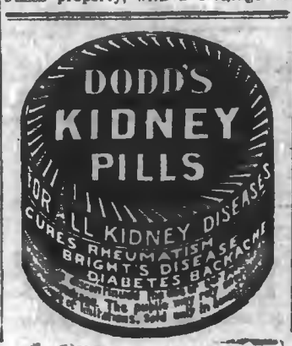
Structure Will Cost $150,000 and Will be 32 by 208 Feet.

The Central Canada Loan and Savings Company, with offices in Peterborough, and practically controlled by Peterborough capitalists, have bought 80 feet of land, on Victoria street, Toronto, beginning at No. 14, and going back to No. 24, from S. H. Janes, for $80,000.

The company intends to put up a building to cost about $150,000. The frontage will be 32 feet, with a depth of 208 feet on Victoria street. The Janes property, with a frontage of 80 feet, has a depth of 88 feet. The two top floors of the building will be for the Imperial Life Insurance Company. Back of the block, at the corner of King and Victoria streets, which is the property of the Central Canada Company, are a number of real estate and financial offices.

The Central Canada already owns 90 feet on Victoria street, the depth of its present offices, and 38 feet back of that occupied by the Dominion Securities Company and H. H. Williams. The Janes property extends right back from there.

The property is assessed at $450 per foot, or $36,000. It is 88 feet deep and the new building will cover all the area indicated.



BOVRIL ERECTS LARGE SIGNS

A 15x20 Foot Pictorial Sign at Charlotte and George Streets.

Last week Mr. Walter Stocker erected for the Bovril Company, the largest sign of its kind ever erected in Peterborough. It is a handsomely gotten up advertisement, 15 by 20 feet, and is located at what is considered the best stand in Peterborough, at the corner of Charlotte and George streets.

It is a touching sight to see a cretan ox weeping to see his bulk reduced to the size of a lady's wing cigarette.

Beauty Versus Democracy.

The president of the Ontario Association of Architects, Mr. John Gemmell, said in his annual address:

"Is it not too apparent that the standard of architecture is endangered by the democracy of our age, which may be working out the happiness of the greatest number, but which fosters a self-sufficiency impatient of higher culture and alien to an aristocracy part, making only for a dead level of creature comforts."

T. A. S. EXCURSION CONTEMPLATED

Plans for Trip to Wilkesbarre, Pa., Under Consideration

Society's Annual Convention to be held in That City in August—Thirty New Members Enrolled.

A movement is on foot in T. A. S. circles to run a special excursion to Wilkesbarrie, Pa., for the annual convention of the society, to be held in that city in the second week in August next. The plans have not assumed a definite shape, and action in the matter will depend upon the wish of the members, whose decision in the matter will be secured at a later date.

Additional interest is lent to the convention by reason of the fact that President Roosevelt has promised to be present at one of the meetings and deliver an address.

The society at present, it may be stated, is in a particularly flourishing condition, and the fact that 30 new members were added during the past week, gives ample evidence of the enthusiasm and undiminished interest prevailing amongst the members.

C. P. R. HOTEL CHANGES HANDS

Messrs Rickerby Brothers Take Charge To-day.

To-day the C. P. R. Hotel on Simcoe street, changed proprietors, and Messrs. Rickerby Brothers have taken the business over from Mr. Jas. Allen, who has conducted it for some time.

The new proprietors will make extensive improvements to the building and will conduct a first-class hotel.

Both members of the firm, who are practical business men, will give their whole time to the business, and there is little doubt as to its success. Every department of the hotel will be given strict attention to, and under the new regime it should become a popular hostelry.

One Lady's Recommendation Sold Fifty Boxes of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets.

I have, I believe, sold fifty boxes of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets on the recommendation of one lady here, who first bought a box of them about a year ago. She never tires of telling her neighbours and friends about the good qualities of these Tablets.—P. M. Shore, Druggist, Rochester, Ind. The pleasant purgative effect of these Tablets makes them a favourite with ladies everywhere. For sale by all druggists.

DUCHESS OF ABERCORN DEAD.

Deceased Was Mother of the Marchioness of Lansdowne.

London, April 1.—Louisa Jane Russell, Dowager Duchess of Abercorn, and daughter of the sixth Duke of Bedford, died at Coates Castle, Fittleworth, Sussex, yesterday at the age of 92.

She married the first Duke of Abercorn in 1832, and among her children are: The present Duchess of Buccleuch, the Marchioness of Lansdowne, whose husband was Governor-General of Canada from 1883 to 1888; Lord George Hamilton, late Secretary of State for India, and the Marchioness of Blandford, whose son is now Duke of Marlborough.

The late Duchess was an intimate personal friend of the late Queen Victoria, and was related either by blood or marriage to most of the great English families.

Booth to Equal Eddy.

Ottawa, April 3.—John R. Booth has under consideration plans for the erection of an immense paper mill equal to the Eddy establishment. The pulp mill is now in operation and he intends manufacturing its product.

Gives $100,000.

New York, April 3.—Ralph Verbeck, of New Jersey, has donated $100,000 to the American Tract Society.

Treated by Three Doctors for a Severe Attack of Dyspepsia,

Got No Relief From Medicines, But Found It At Last In

Burdock Blood Bitters.

Mrs. Frank Hutt, Morrisburg, Ont., was one of those troubled with this most common of stomach troubles. She writes:—"After being treated by three doctors, and using many advertised medicines, for a severe attack of Dyspepsia, and receiving no benefit, I gave up all hope of ever being cured. Hearing Burdock Blood Bitters so highly spoken of, I decided to get a bottle, and give it a trial. Before I had taken it I began to feel better, and by the time I had taken the second one I was completely cured. I cannot recommend Burdock Blood Bitters too highly, and would advise all sufferers from dyspepsia to give it a trial."

There is nothing like Sunlight Soap for Household Utensils.

When you have to use hard water it is not an easy matter to wash household utensils. To do good washing you should have good soap and soft water (rain water). If you use hard water you must have good soap, and the best soap you can get is Sunlight Soap because it softens the hard water and makes a copious creamy lather. Use Sunlight Soap for all household purposes and the results will surprise you.

RECORD BUSINESS OF CEREAL CO'Y

Sending out a Train Load of Product per Day.

Hundreds of Cars of Oats Being Imported—A Good Revival.

Advices from the railways state that never in the history of the American Cereal Company have they done as much business over the railways as they are doing at the present time. Hundreds of cars of oats are being received at the works here from Chicago, and other American market centres, and the finished product is being shipped out in correspondingly large proportions.

This remarkable increase in business has been brought about by the resumption of the export business, made necessary by the destruction of the Cedar Rapids plant of the company.

At the present time about 22,000 to 25,000 bushels of oats per day are being handled at the works here, and in the neighbourhood of a trainload of finished product is being shipped out each day.

This establishes a record for the works here, and, of course, it is to be devoutly hoped that the present satisfactory state of affairs will long continue.

—Perhaps the largest tree in Seymour township was cut on the farm of Mr. Jas. Thompson, Polmont. It contained 1177 cubic feet, or 9 cords and 25 cubic feet of wood. Its diameter at the trunk was five feet and one of the limbs contained over two cords of wood.

CHILD WANDERED AWAY YESTERDAY

Four Year old Son of Mr. Samuel Bebee Caused Considerable Anxiety.

The little four year old son of Mr. Samuel Bebee caused considerable anxiety yesterday by wandering away from his home on Antrim street. His father was very much alarmed as to his safety for several hours, but this gave place to a feeling of thankfulness when it was found that the little fellow had been picked up by a gentleman who had found him crying on Water street, near the National Hotel, and had kindly taken him to the Police Station. An announcement was made in the churches last night and the many friends of Mr. Bebee, who shared his feeling of anxiety, will be pleased to learn of the child's recovery.

YE EDITOR'S NEEDS

The Enid (Oklahoma) Daily Wave thus delivers its cry for bread:—It is reported, says an exchange, that one of our newly married ladies kneads bread with her gloves on. The incident may be peculiar, but there are others. The editor of this paper needs bread with his shoes on; he needs bread with his shirt on; he needs bread with his pants on; and unless some of the delinquent subscribers of this paper pay up before long he will need bread without so much as anything on—and this is no Garden of Eden, either, in the winter time.

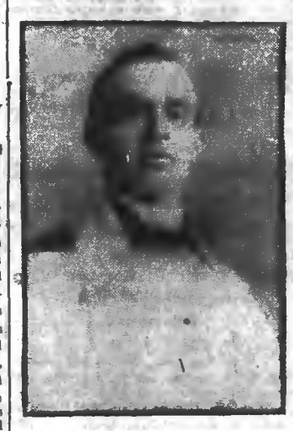
CURATE ENTERS UPON DUTIES

Rev. W. R. Tandy, M. A., Creates an Excellent Impression.

New Assistant Priest at St. John's Church—Preached Two Good Sermons.

Yesterday Rev. W. R. Tandy, M. A., late of Havelock, entered upon his duties as assistant priest of St. John's church, and preached at both morning and evening services to large and delighted congregations.

Rev. Mr. Tandy, who is not unknown here, since he has frequently visited Peterborough and preached here during his residence in Havelock is a young man possessing energy, and is an earnest speaker. He uses choice diction in the delivery of his sermons, and in those delivered yesterday, created an excellent impression upon those who heard him. He will take charge of the choir, and commences auspiciously a career which promises to be characterized by great usefulness to the church.



REV. W. R. TANDY, M. A.
Who Yesterday, Entered Upon the Assistant Pastorate, of St. John's Church.

The morning sermon was one dealing with the meaning of the Holy Communion, the text being Luke XXII. 19th verse, "and He took bread, and gave thanks, and brake it, and gave unto them, saying, This is my body, which is given for you; this do in remembrance of me." Mr. Tandy said in part "I would speak to you for a little while this morning about the meaning of the great service in which we are engaged, the service of the Holy Communion, not that it is possible in any one address or in any number of addresses to exhaust its significance, for indeed the oldest saint, waiting the call to Paradise, after a life-time of communion, would feel more and more deeply the mystery and beauty of this holy service and the impossibility of sounding completely its depths of blessedness. Let me call your attention first, to the variety of names by which we know it. It is called the Sacrament of the Lord's supper because our Divine Lord instituted it on the night of his betrayal, when for the last time He shared with His disciples the sacred meal of the pas over. It is also called the Eucharcst, a word which means thanksgiving and praise to God. It is called the Lord's Service in a special sense, because with one exception it is the only service which He commanded, and set us the example of observing. It is called the Holy Communion, because when we approach God's altar, He comes near us and we share His grey Life. When we meet to celebrate Communion, we are nearer than at any other time on earth to those who have gone before. It is our highest act of worship and comes nearest to that perfect worship which they shall have with the saints of Paradise. A communion means simply something shared in common. We all partake of the same bread and drink of the same cup, and our souls are refreshed and strengthened. There is the feeling that we all belong to the same family, a feeling of kinship that broadens out like a river, as we remember that the very words of our holy service are not on our lips only, but also on the lips of millions and millions of other English-speaking Christians at the same moment.

The words of the text gave another name to the service. He called it a remembrance. First of all He took the bread in the hands that so soon were to be pierced for us. He gave thanks, thus asserting the sacrament feature as our greatest act of thanksgiving. Then He expressed its deep mystery in these solemn words, "This is my body," and, finally, He said, "do this for a remembrance (or a reminder) of Me." The meaning of this in the opinion of the speaker, was that it was much the same as if a father, on his dying bed should call his children around him, and ask them to think of him when they sat down together at the table. It is a reminder, too, not only to those who meet to celebrate the service, but also to the world, busy with its getting and spending, and careless of the things of God.

World's conquerors have tried in various ways to perpetuate their names and their ideas to after ages, but all their efforts have in time failed, but our Lord had promised a reminder of a more enduring kind. He said, "Here is a picture of My death for the world. I want you to show it forth continuously to the world."

If all the Bibles in the world could be destroyed to-morrow, the Holy Communion would still continue to set forth to all men the central truth of salvation.

But the remembrance has a still greater side. It is something not only offered to man, but offered to God. It is a sacrifice of praise and thanksgiving, which we pray God to accept.

The sacraments are not sources of grace, they are means of grace, the channels by which His life flows down into the hearts of men.

In conclusion the reverend gentleman counselled his hearers to come remembering the sin that would keep them from the Holy Communion, and they would surely find that the Holy Communion, by the power of Him who comes to meet us here, will keep us from sin.

THE EVENING SERVICE.

There was a large congregation present at Evensong. The sermon was preached by Rev. Mr. Tandy, who took the text of his sermon from the 12th and 13th verses of the third chapter of the Book of Ezra, referring to the mingled rejoicing and mourning at the laying of the corner stone of the second temple after their return from captivity. There was rejoicing because a new temple was to be raised, and there was weeping by the elders, who remembered the glory of the Solomonic temple. This very mourning, and in itself, was described as the golden link that united the new temple with the glories of the past, a symbol of the mingled joy and mourning of daily life, which unify the church and society. At the laying of the corner stone the old wept at the memories of past glories and the young rejoiced at the present. This pointed the lesson that youth, with its spirit of progress and reform, needed to be modified by the conservatism of old age. The position of Dr. Osler was referred to, and the remark made that he failed to appreciate the contribution of age to a fully rounded society. His theory tended to pessimism in an age which needed a larger optimism. The poet Wordsworth's blind beggar of Cumberland was considered an example of utter worthlessness and inutility, but he at least served one useful purpose—to arouse charitable feelings in hearts that might otherwise be untouched. So that vigorous old age has something to do, to learn to suffer. The course of schooling which we call life, was progressive, and the lessons lasted to the end.

Speak Out, Mr. Rogers!

Winnipeg, April 3.—Winnipeggers and other Manitobans are anxiously awaiting a declaration from Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of Public Works, on the Cabinet situation. The Ministers decline to say more at present, but as Mr. Rogers has promised to state Manitoba's position more clearly within a few days they hope he may soon declare himself.

Stabbed in Barroom.

Toronto, April 3.—Dan Sharp, who gave the police his address as 55 Cherry street, was arrested Saturday night on a charge of stabbing. The row took place in a barroom. The wounded man, Tom Quinn, received two severe gashes in the neck. Sharp has a wounded leg and was getting the worst of it in a fight, when he drew the knife.

FIRES IN MONTREAL.

Three Firemen Injured in Two Fires at Montreal.

Montreal, April 3.—The warehouse of Joseph Ward & Co., on the north side of Youville square, is a ruin this morning. A fire started there Saturday night, and the loss, mostly to the building, is roughly valued at $50,000. Three firms occupied the building.

A second fire was in Craig street, in a building owned by D. A. McCaskill, now in Italy, and the following firms suffered losses as follows: Canada Truss Factory, $1,000; Buntin, Gillis & Co., wholesale paper dealers, $5,000; J. Cohen & Co., wholesale clothing, $500; Abbey Effervescent Salt Co., Limited, $10,000, fully insured; G. W. Dawson, die sinker and engraver, $2,000; N. Tourangeau & Co., manufacturers of trusses, $3,500; L. E. & A. F. Waters, printers, $7,000; Royal Dye Works, $300; Rice, Johnston & Gladwish, photo supplies, $2,500; Carters' Ink Co., $2,000.

Firemen Charbonneaux, Cultey, Thorn and Metloyer were injured, but will recover.

STABBED BY REQUEST.

Girl's Anger and Youth's Folly Lead to a Tragedy.

Lancaster, Pa., April 3.—Ralph W. Kline, aged 16 years, an artist, was fatally stabbed yesterday by Jennie Good, aged 16.

Kline and Miss Good were members of a party who were fishing in the Little Conestoga, near Long Park. Kline and the girl had a quarrel, during which Miss Good threatened to cut out his heart. Thinking that she would not execute her threat, Kline threw out his chest and told her to stab. She did, plunging a knife into his breast near the heart. He is at a hospital, unconscious. The girl fled and has not yet been arrested.

STRIKE OF CHINESE MINERS.

Serious Disturbances in Krugersdorp Results in Many Injured.

Johannesburg, April 3.—There was a serious disturbance near Krugersdorp on Saturday, arising out of a strike of Chinese miners. The police were called upon to restore order and in the conflict which followed several of the police and many Chinamen were injured. Numerous arrests were made.

Shoots Wife and Kills Self.

Howells, Neb., April 3.—After shooting his wife as she sat in her pew in the church, cowing the other worshippers by the brandishing of the smoking revolver in their faces, E. D. Novak coolly marched up the main street of the town and finally shot himself in the kitchen of his home, dying instantly. The woman will recover.

A Problem Solved

Ozone is ozone and in buying it the problem is to get the purest form. "Solution of Ozone (the coupon kind)" is the purest form in which Ozone is put up. In addition each bottle contains a coupon entitling you to a package of "Celery King" free, and it is well known that you should take "Celery King" along with Ozone.

We put "Celery King" coupons in our Ozone bottles because no other firm can give "Celery King" with Ozone. By buying "Solution of Ozone (the coupon kind)" you get the purest and most concentrated form of Ozone, and in addition, you save the expense of buying "Celery King" to use with it.

No other kind of Ozone offers this advantage. Ask your druggist for it, and if he hasn't it, write to the Public Drug Company, Bridgeburg, Ont. Sold by W. B. WARNE, Druggist.

TOO TIRED TO STIR!

ARE YOU ONE OF THE WEAK WOMEN
To Become Bright, Happy and Healthy?—Use Ferrozone.

Modern life makes demands on every woman's strength that seem impossible to meet. Only the robust and strong can stand the strain. The weak, with their delicately balanced organisms, must fail. Blood gets thin, it's innutritious. Nerves go to smash, vitality declines, and then follows misery and suffering caused by interference with certain functions upon which the very existence of every female depends.

Don't let your condition grow worse. Check the decline of vital force before it is too late! The one sure remedy is Ferrozone—not a temporary stimulant—but an uplifting nutritive tonic that contains the kind of building material a weak body requires.

FERROZONE revitalizes the system by putting new life into the blood. Not only does it nourish the ordinary blood supply—it does more, it makes new blood, the rich, red kind that denotes health.

Energy is reinforced, strength is steadily and surely rebuilt. Keen appetite, strong nerves, more restful sleep, buoyant feelings, all tell of the enormous good Ferrozone invariably accomplishes. For restoring the weak, the pale, the despondent, there is no treatment so instant and permanent in effect as Ferrozone. A trial proves this. Won't you use Ferrozone yourself? It will surely make you well—its effect is instant.

BUILT UP HER STRENGTH

Mrs. M. E. Etherington, a well known merchant's wife, of Troy, writes: "I am quite willing to give a public testimonial for Ferrozone, believing it to be a tonic of superior excellence, and one that will rapidly build up strength and supply new energy to anyone not feeling well. Last Spring I was in a very poor condition of health. I was nervous, felt tired and completely worn out. No doubt it is quite a common complaint with ladies of my age, but I placed great reliance in Ferrozone, and took it for several weeks. It made me quite strong, and, in fact, I have been in better health ever since. I can heartily recommend Ferrozone."

Ferrozone Assures Good Health!

WARNING! Beware of the substitute who urges you to accept something "just as good." Only FERROZONE can cure satisfactorily—see you get it, and nothing else. Price 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50 at all reliable dealers, or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., or Kingston, Ontario.

THE BOMB THROWERS.

The political bomb-throwers, the Toronto News, World, et al., Dr. Sproule, Hon. G. E. Foster, and others of like kidney, are having more light thrown on their plan of campaign every day. Discord among the diverse races and religious affiliations of Canada, would be a calamity only less serious than civil war, in relation to retarding progress and paralysing the co-operative activities of our people; and it follows that those who take a course inevitably productive of discord, are guilty of a crime against Canada, guilty of unpatriotic mischief-breeding, guilty of sacrificing the highest interests of the state to the promotion of partizan political ends. These incendiaries, who seem to wish to kindle the fires of religious and race prejudice by creating friction between different creeds, after the manner of savages, who produce fire by rubbing two sticks together, are taking their course gratuitously. If there were any peril to the interests of the Northwest, it is the assumption of impudence for Ontario persons to thrust themselves uninvited into a matter, under the conditions, of purely domestic concern. Thrusting themselves, uninvited, into the affairs of the Northwest, in a matter relative to a state to which the people of the Northwest do not object, seems to be an intrusion. The people of the Northwest have no objected to fixing by Dominion legislation, the school system, which has worked satisfactorily, and without friction, for fifteen years. They are not raving, tearing their hair, or rending their garments over the educational clauses of the Autonomy Bill, which provides for a perpetuation of the school system which the Northwest Territories, by laws and ordinances passed by themselves have brought to a condition which pleases themselves — the chief persons to be pleased. There has been no agitation in the Northwest, except that excited in isolated cases by some of the Ontario firebrand flourishers mentioned. It must not be forgotten that the Ontario bomb-throwers who are doing such energetic work stirring up strife, are exciting themselves, and imperilling the national harmony, over the adoption of a school system for the Northwest which the latter created. Let this fact, which is an indisputable fact, be remembered, and set against the odious campaign of the schismatic and their true attitude will come to be recognized in its true character.

ROBINS AND OTHER BIRDS COME TO BOBCAYGEON

Mr. Smiff in a Sentimental Mood Drops Into Prose Poetry.

The robins came again last week and numbers of them are about. The black birds are also here, and on Sunday the air once more resounded with the joyous songs of birds. It sounded good, for it was the harbinger of a resurrection, of a birth the beginning of something to be done, something to be accomplished something to raise us nearer to the higher realms, even if that something did include the setting of the ash barrel for the spring boil of soap. Yes, there was a good Sunday sermon in the twitter and the song of the birds. It spoke of a confiding trust in Providence, of happy thankfulness for all the blessings of nature, and awakened many thoughts of the mysterious, invisible hand that silently but unerringly transforms the seasons, and sets us hustling with the old wheelbarrow clearing the yard of its cans, hoops, useless boxes, and the multitudinous bric-a-brac of winter. The robins are here. May their nests be undisturbed, and their summer be one sweet song of domestic happiness and unlimited wums.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

Nervous, Sick Headache

Mr. O. Barber, Simcoe, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled for a long time with headaches, which would come on about once a week with such violence that I could not eat or do my work. I tried headache powders and quick cures, which did no good. About eight months ago I took six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I have not been troubled with headache since."

A WESTERN MEMBER SUPPORTS THE BILL

Mr. Walter Scott, Assiniboia, Says the West Accepts the Autonomy Bill--Educational Clauses Satisfactory--The Orange Sentinel Quoted

During the debate on the second reading of the autonomy bill, on Friday night, Mr. Walter Scott, member for West Assiniboia, spoke on the bill, which he generally approved with the exception of the clause relating to C. P. R. exemption. Upon the educational clauses of the bill, he spoke as reported below:

He said that attention should be given to what was naturally a question of vast importance to every province—that of education. Who were chiefly responsible for teh provision in the country of protection for the rights of the minority? The impression which it was sought by a certain element to create was that it was the Roman Catholic hierarchy he had caused the insertion of this clause in the British North America Act. It had come as a shock to him on investigation to learn that in the first instance it was not the Roman Catholic hierarchy, but the Protestants, who asked for that protection. The protection was given in the first place to the Protestant minority in Quebec. Mr. Scott said, amid cheers, that he would be ashamed of the Protestant majority of this country if they could say now: 'We have power; we will use that power to deny to the Roman Catholic citizens that protection upon which we insisted when we were in the minority." In reply to the charge that the Liberal party are taking a position now contrary to that which they occupied in 1896, Mr. Scott asserted that the party had not changed positions, and that the Premier on this measure was standing for established rights. He criticized the inflammatory cartoons and headings which were published in a Toronto paper, crying out for "a free west, a common school, provincial rights, and religious equality," and pointed out that the opposite of the Government were in strict accord with the mottoes appearing on that paper every day.

PROTESTANT MINORITIES IN THE WEST.

No religious inequality was to be found in the Government's proposals. Roman Catholics were not singled out, but the same provisions were to be there for Protestants. True, in the aggregate, Roman Catholics were in a minority in the Northwest as there were probably as many Protestant minorities to be found here and there in different localities, as there are Catholics. The bill provided for a non-sectarian school, a school absolutely under State and public control all through the west. The test was just as free as Ontario. The proposition that the educational clauses would not be productive of record was to be found in the fact that, although the system did not exist under the bill has been in force for the past fourteen years, there is no record there.

AGITATION STIRRED UP IN ONTARIO.

There had been no agitation in the Northwest Territories on the educational question until Dr. Sproule's speech, on his circulars.

Dr. Sproule denied that he had taken any action until he had received letters from the people here.

Mr. Scott accepted the explanation, but insisted that there were men in Ontario who in January last, before the bills were introduced, were writing to people in the Northwest Territories endeavouring to rouse the people up there, and the matter became so public that a newspaper there published an editorial advising those people to mind their own business. If there was no discussion on the educational question between representatives of the Northwest Territories and the Dominion Government at the conference which took place on the autonomy question, whose was the fault? Was there any prohibition in Mr. Haultain bringing up the question? For years Mr. Haultain had been discussing autonomy; it had been discussed all through the territories, and yet he had made no reference to the educational question. Mr. Haultain and his colleagues, if any blame there was, were as much to blame as members of the Dominion Government. As a matter of fact Mr. Haultain's own draft bill, had it been accepted, would have perpetually fixed denominational separate schools upon the Northwest provinces.

MR. HAULTAIN'S MISREPRESENTATIONS.

Mr. Haultain's letter was characterized as one of the rankest and most partizan misrepresentations ever witnessed in the Dominion of Canada. Mr. Scott insisted he had personal knowledge that if Mr. Haultain called the Legislature now he would be found in a minority, and had if the by-elections were held he would still be in a minority. Proceeding, Mr. Scott said the form of the bill was exactly what he wanted, and what the people of the Northwest wanted, as expressed by them several times. To say it was coercion was a deliberate attempt to mislead the people. Would it not be ridiculous if he, as a Northwest representative, came here and asked for power which in the same breath he said he would not exercise? This Mr. Haultain had done. (Applause.) No one from the west had ever complained of the nature of the separate schools now existing.

"What kind of separate schools have you?" asked Mr. Bergeron.

Mr. Scott explained that a minority had the right to establish a school by themselves under the same regulations, books, etc., as the public schools.

"They are the same thing; that is what you call separate schools," Mr. Bergeron replied, while the Liberals smiled at the admission.

Mr. Scott agreed that they were not separate schools in the sense understood by Mr. Bergeron, and they were separate only in the sense of being apart. He went on to say that the people of the west had not taken any interest in the school question, and it had not been an issue at all in the last election.

THE WEST IS SATISFIED.

Mr. Scott quoted from the Orange Sentinel, edited by the late E. F. Clarke, M. P., which in the issue of February 9, 1905, spoke of the probability of "separate schools being fastened on the Northwest," and added that if the people of the Northwest were satisfied the duty of the Ontario members was to remain silent. He also quoted from the Calgary Herald (Conservative), from portions of Mr. Ewan's letters to The Globe, from the Lethbridge News, Re. Dr. Chown's statement, and other sources, to show the people of the west were satisfied, and added that the people of the Territories had the most satisfactory solution for that most difficult question to be found anywhere in Canada. Therefore why should they do away with it? Two men in Canada could now settle the whole agitation—Mr. Haultain and Mr. R. L. Borden—if they would get together and rise to the plane taken by Mr. Monk, above party politics. Mr. Scott concluded with a hopeful reference to the future of the new Provinces.

DR. CHOWN ON COMMISSIONERS

Commends Late Provincial Secretary's Action in Enforcing License Laws

Present Provincial Secretary Might Take a Lesson—The License Department.

Rev. Dr. Chown, writes:—

"The temperance people of Ontario should know, and they cannot know too soon, that matters are afoot in the province, which, if successful, will rivet the claims of the liquor trade more firmly upon our people than ever before.

"We have unshaken confidence in the good faith and strong intentions of the Provincial Secretary to enforce the law and to carry out the declared policy of the Government; and we have no specific reason to suppose that the Premier is not in sympathy with this purpose. We notice with pleasure that in many instances the Boards of License Commissioners recently appointed are superior to their predecessors; but it remains to be said that the Department of the Provincial Secretary is being very badly advised in respect to many of these appointments.

"It has also come to our knowledge that a movement is on foot, how widespread we cannot say at present, which aims at the submission of all applications for license, as well as all appointments to office, to the Patronage Committee of the Conservative party in the riding.

"It will appear at once that if this be carried into effect, the license commissioners will be mere figure-heads the license inspector will be a puppet of the Patronage Committee, and the way is open for the party managers to exact any toll they wish from license holders, the proceeds to be used for party purposes.

"The late Provincial Secretary saw his way clear to have an intimation given to certain license commissioners, who did not feel their responsibility to the temperance interests, that their resignations would be accepted. It may not be too late for the present Provincial Secretary to give similar intimation to such commissioners as would make the license law a force in the community.

"It surely lies within the limits of the whole power of the Government to take a step of this sort."

APPOINTED PARISH PRIEST OF STURGEON FALLS

Rev. Father John O'Brien Will Leave the Peterborough Diocese to Take an Important Charge in the New Diocese of Sault Ste. Marie--A Popular Priest Leaving Town --Active in the A. O. H.--Well Qualified to Successfully Prosecute the Work in New Ontario--Was Born in Peterborough and Ordained Here Six Years Ago--Brief Sketch of a Successful Career.

The many friends made by Rev. J. O'Brien, during his life in Peterborough where he was born, and during the three years of his priesthood in Peterborough town and county, will learn with feelings of regret and pleasure of his departure to the Diocese of Sault Ste. Marie, to enter upon new and more responsible duties. He has been appointed to the position of parish priest of Sturgeon Falls, Ontario, and will leave on Thursday for that town to enter upon his duties under the direction of His Lordship Bishop Scollard.

REV. FATHER JOHN O'BRIEN, Of St. Peter's Cathedral, who Will Leave Shortly for Sturgeon Falls, Sault Ste. Marie Diocese.

There is a scarcity of priests in the new diocese, on account of the rapid development of the country, and the new bishop has requested Bishop Scollard to allow Rev. John O'Brien to be translated to his new diocese.

Sturgeon Falls is one of the most important towns in the whole of New Ontario, and during the last five years has made great advancement industrially. There are large pulp and paper mills there and with the power advantages which the town possesses, it should continue to grow.

The church there is a new one and one of the largest in that diocese outside of the large towns, and the position of parish priest will be one of great responsibility.

Rev. Father O'Brien will be well qualified to perform these duties, because of his knowledge of the work there. Up to three years ago he was stationed in New Ontario and is therefore well acquainted with the country and the people.

During the last three years he has been attached to the cathedral staff, and has been very active in the work of the church here. He took an especial interest in the local division of the A. O. H. since its formation, and at the present time occupies the position of chaplain of the division. He was also connected with the Sacred Heart Society.

For the past year he has served Keene every second Sunday.

Rev. Father John O'Brien was born in Peterborough and took his college course in Toronto and his theological course in the Montreal Seminary. He was ordained here six years ago last Christmas.

He will go to his new parish carrying with him the best wishes of his very large circle of friends in this community.

A BEAUTIFUL TOWN RESIDENCE

Mr. William Irwin Will Sell "Highland Hill" and Move to British Columbia.

Extensive Business Interests There, Influence him in this Decision.

As will be observed by reference to the Examiner's advertising columns, Mr. Wm. Irwin, has decided to offer for immediate sale his magnificent home, "Highland Hall", which is situated on the outskirts of Peterborough.

Mr. Irwin's reasons for parting with this beautiful piece of property are that his business interests are now more largely situated in British Columbia than in Ontario and require his close attention. As it is, Mr. Irwin is compelled to make frequent trips to the Pacific coast during the year and it would be more satisfactory to his business associates and more beneficial to his own interests to be a permanent resident of the Province in which those interests are so largely located. Should Mr. Irwin be successful in disposing of his property, he will remove immediately to the West.

Citizen's generally will regret to hear of Mr. Irwin's contemplated removal from Peterborough, where she has so prominently identified in various business interests.

"Highland Hall" which has been owned by Mr. Irwin for some years was formerly the property of Mr. John Ludgate, and is situated on a beautiful elevation to the east of the town, at all times commanding a splendid view of Peterborough. It comprises eighteen acres of beautiful land, four of which are devoted to a thriving orchard and several more acres devoted to large and neatly kept lawns. Many tall and stately pines (few of which remain in this locality) together with shrubbery, and trees of other variety, combine to make "Highland Hall" an ideal residential spot. The house is a very large and commodious structure with all modern conveniences and has undergone many improvements since coming into Mr. Irwin's possession.

Were it not in Mr. Irwin's business interests Peterborough people would prefer to see him unable to sell his property in order that he might remain a citizen of Peterborough.

CARLYLE POTTER'S LEG BROKEN

Another Misfortune Which Befel son of Rev. J. G. Potter.

Carlyle, the young son of Rev. J. G. Potter, has been confined for the last eight weeks to the Mitchell Hospital, where was taken as a result of a broken leg which he sustained. He had recovered from that accident, and two weeks ago was walking around, when he sustained what is known in medical technology as a "green stick fracture" of the other leg. Since then he has suffered severely, but it was thought that it was caused by a contraction of the muscles.

On Saturday chloroform was administered and it was found that the leg was fractured above the knee.

The bone has been set and it is hoped that he will soon recover.

IMPROVEMENTS ARE IN PROGRESS

Steamers "Stony Lake" and "Majestic" Will Present an Attractive Appearance.

Dining-room Being Added--New and Progressive Features.

Mr. Pat. Young, the popular captain of the steamer Majestic, and Mr. J. Welsh of Young's Point, were in town a day or two ago.

Mr. Young states that in preparation for the heavy traffic anticipated during the coming season, extensive improvements are at present being made to both the Majestic and the Stony Lake. A handsome dining room is being added to the latter. This new feature will add materially to the comfort of the travelling public, and no doubt will be one which will meet with much popular favour. The interior of the boat, which owing to the pressure of business last season, was not completed, is being handsomely finished and will present a very attractive appearance.

The Majestic is undergoing a thorough overhauling, by which she will be greatly improved in many respects. An entirely new upper deck will replace the present one, and the sides of the vessel extensively repaired.

The outlook for a busy season on the Kawartha waters is unusually bright and the opening of navigation is being looked forward to anxiously.

Closing Sale of Groceries.

The balance of the well selected stock of choice family groceries in the store formerly known as the Co-operative Grocery, corner George and Brock streets must be sold out at once. The store has been leased, so that a quick clearance is imperative. To-night and for a few days, until all is sold, everything will be offered at the very lowest cut prices known for groceries. The stock may be sold en bloc, if desired.

Lenten Fare.

FIRE ON RUSS MOBS

Jews Killed and Wounded in a Riot At Warsaw.

MAIMED BY BOMB AT LODZ

Police Commissioner's Feet Blown Off —Would-Be Assassin Was Disguised as Poorly-Clad Man and Concealed His Deadly Missle in a Basket—Dying From Sword Cuts.

Warsaw, April 3.—A serious conflict occurred at 7.30 o'clock last night in Dzika street, where a Jewish Socialist society known as the Bund had organized a demonstration. The troops which came to disperse the gathering fired into the crowd, killing four persons and wounding 40 others.

The trouble began when, under the pretext of holding a memorial meeting for the late Jewish Socialist leader, a crowd of over 1,000, mostly Jews, carrying red flags, marched into Dzika street and was met by a mixed police and military patrol of 30 men. The police declare the Socialists fired revolvers at them, the leaders inciting the mob to attack the patrol, which thereupon, fired several volleys into the crowd. The crowd removed all but nine of the wounded, two of whom were women. These were taken to the hospital. It is expected that two or more of the wounded will die. The police made many arrests.

To Blow Up Schools.

Conditions here are causing much uneasiness and nervousness. Hand-printed proclamations have been found in the streets warning the public against walking near Government buildings and other places, as bombs would be thrown in these quarters. Several parents whose children are attending school in defiance of the school strike have been warned by letter to withdraw their children, as the school buildings would be blown up.

MAIMED BY A BOMB.

Police Commissioner at Lodz Has Feet Blown Off.

Lods, Russian Poland, April 3.—Police Commissioner Szabalovics of the second district was seriously injured Saturday by a bomb, which was thrown at him in the street.

The Police Commissioner had been summoned by telephone to come to the office of the chief of police and started on foot, followed by a policeman. The former noticed at Konstantinowsk and Zawarski streets a poorly clad man carrying a basket. As Szabalovics approached the man suddenly hurled a bomb, which exploded with terrific force, blowing off the commissioner's feet and severely wounding him in the breast. It is feared his injuries will prove fatal.

The force of the explosion tore a hole in the ground two feet deep and twelve feet in circumference. The accompanying policeman drew his sword and wounded the commissioner's assailant on the head. When the prisoner was searched a loaded revolver and some cartridges were found in his pockets. He is reported to be dying from the sword cuts received.

The explosion was heard about five miles away. All the windows in the neighborhood were shattered. People in adjoining houses were thrown to the floor. Szabalovics is hated by the Socialists. He is charged with killing a Socialist during the disturbances here in December last.

Peasant Terrorize Lithuania.

St. Petersburg, April 3.—The latest outbreak of peasant disorders officially reported is in the Werra district of Lithuania. Regular mobs of peasants are marching through the country, pillaging estates and demolishing the houses of the land-owners. One proprietor was shot. The peasants entered Werra, wrecked the vodka shops, became drunk and terrorized the inhabitants. Troops were called for. The telegraph and telephone wires are cut, and communication with the outside world is severed.

Overshadows the War.

New York, April 3.—A St. Petersburg despatch to The Herald says that agrarian risings throughout Russia are assuming such serious proportions that they overshadow the war. These organised disorders are the result of the spread of revolutionary literature, urging that such risings are the only means of preventing the bread-winners being sent to the war. As a matter of fact, the troubles render the proposed mobilization impossible.

Forbids Cholera Congress.

Moscow, April 3.—The Assistant Minister of the Interior has forbidden the assemblage of congress to deal with the cholera epidemic because, according to official information, the promoters of the congress intended to give it the form of a demonstration against the Government.

KAISER GETS QUICK RESULTS.

Sultan of Morocco Declines to Accept Whole of Reform Program.

London, April 3.—A despatch from Tangier to a news agency gives a report that the Sultan already has communicated to the French Minister to Morocco his reply to the French proposals by expressing regret at his inability to accept the whole of the reform program. The Sultan, the despatch adds, agrees to institute reforms at coast ports, but claims the right to raise loans wherever it is most convenient for the country's interest.

Delights Russian Press.

St. Petersburg, April 3.—Emperor William's speech at Tangier and prospective developments therefrom engross the attention of the Russian newspapers almost to the exclusion of peace discussions. Decided pleasure is expressed at the rocks encountered by the new Anglo-French entente. The Russ terms the visit of the German Emperor to Tangier a demonstraton against the entente and points out that refusal of Emperor William to recognize French pretensions must deeply impress the Moroccans to the disadvantage of both France and Great Britain.

Recognition of Independence.

Berlin, April 3.—The Emperor's significant words have produced a strong impression here.

The Lokal Anseiger, in a despatch from Tangier, says that in replying to the members of the German colony Emperor William said he would make it his business to promote this trade, which was only possible on the assumption of the equality of all the powers, and the independence of the land. His (the Emperor's) visit was a recognition of this independence.

Taking Desparate Chances.

It is true that many contract colds and recover from them without taking any precaution or treatment, and a knowledge of this fact leads others to take their chances instead of giving their colds the needed attention. It should be borne in mind that every cold weakens the lungs, lowers the vitality, makes the system less able to withstand each succeeding cold and paves the way for more serious diseases. Can you afford to take such desprate chances when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds can be had for a trifle? For sale by all druggists.

Mexican Congress Opens.

Mexico City, April 3.—The spring session of Congress opened Saturday evening and President Diaz read his message in the presence of a large audience of senators, deputies, representatives and distinguished visitors.

Suffered Intense Pain Around The Heart For Four Years.

Was Very Dizzy.

Four Boxes of

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills

Effected a Complete Cure.

They are a specific for all troubles arising from a weak condition of the heart or from the nervous system. For troubles such as Palpitation of the Heart, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Faint or Dizzy Spells, Shortness of Breath, Starting in the Sleep; Cold, Clammy Hands or Feet, Brain Fag, etc., we would strongly advise the early use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, as this remedy, taken in time, has been the means of saving many a life, and restoring strength to those who were weak, nervous, health-shattered invalids.

Mrs. E. Kilmer, Humberstone, Ont., writes:—"Allow me to tell you of the great results I have derived from Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. For four years I suffered intense pain around the heart, and was very dizzy. After using four boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I was completely cured."

THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Hon. Mr. Foy Tells of Application For Land Grants.

A PROVINCIAL DEFICIT (?)

New Provincial Treasurer Discovers It —Question as to Method of Keeping Accounts—Liabilities Loom Large Over Assets, and Provincial Treasurer Finds Current Account Deficit as Well.

Toronto, April 1.—There was a very brief session of the Legislature yesterday afternoon. The Provincial Secretary presented a number of reports, and several Ministers disposed of questions on the order paper. It is not expected that the budget speech will be delivered until Tuesday or Wednesday of the second week of this month.

Mr. Preston (Brant) introduced a bill to amend the Municipal Act by reducing the qualifications for Mayor and Aldermen to $500 freehold and $1,000 leasehold.

The standing orders committee met yesterday morning and elected Mr. Hoyle (North Ontario) chairman. It was decided to extend for two weeks the time for the introduction of bills.

Hon. Mr. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, presented the following reports: The Thirty-fourth Annual Report of the Deaf and Dumb, the Report of the Commission of Public Works, the Twenty-third annual Report of the Board of Health, the Nineteenth Report of the Niagara Falls Park, Return of Convictions for Violation of the License Act, Report of Birth, Marriages and Deaths for 1903, the Public Accounts for 1904.

Land Grants and Locations.

Hon. J. J. Foy informed Col. Munro that 2,000 applications were made in 1904 under the act respecting land grants to volunteers; that the total number of applications for land grants was between 30,000 and 40,000; that 11,800 certificates for land grants were issued, and that about 4,000 locations had been made and 1,000 more applications for locations received.

Mr. Bowyer (East Kent) was told by Hon. Mr. Monteith that $5,000 was appropriated by the Government at the last session towards compensating the farmers and fruit growers for the destruction of their trees and orchards by the San Jose scale inspectors some years ago.

Mr. Haroput moved for a return of correspondence between the late Government and the Dominion Government with reference to the extension of the boundaries of the Province, and the Premier said there was no record of such correspondence.

It is understood that one of the amendments to be added to the License Act will provide for the total exclusion of miners from bar-rooms. The present law permits children to secure liquor upon presentation of an order from a parent, guardian or master.

The Ross Government granted the Sturgeon Falls Pulp and Paper Co. permission to dam Lake Temagami. Yesterday a deputation, headed by Rev. Father Paradis, waited upon Hon. Mr. Reaume to protest such action.

The Government has decided to issue bonds for $6,000,000, to meet the loan negotiated by the Ross administration for the construction of the Temiskaming Railway, and which falls due on May 1. A conference between the Government and the officials of the G. T. P. will be held shortly, to ascertain how far the Government road will have to be projected to make connection with the Grand Trunk transcontinental.

Fighting For the Railway.

The route of the James Bay Railway was the subject of consideration between the Cabinet and large deputations from Orillia and Northern Ontario yesterday. Each party was one hundred strong. Premier Whitney received both deputations, and with Hon. Messrs. J. J. Foy, W. J. Hanna, gave both sides ample latitude. A decision will be given later on by the Cabinet.

THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS.

The New Provincial Treasurer Discovers an Ontario Deficit (?)

Toronto, April 1.—According to Hon. Col. Matheson's view of the manner in which the accounts should be kept, Ontario is at last in possession of a deficit on current account, and it totals $476,596.31. The Provincial Treasurer presented the public accounts for the year ending December 31 last to the House yesterday. Naturally, owing to the fact that the present Government's access to power followed after the preparation of the accounts was well under way, the system of accounting of the former administration was largely continued to the end. This is an abstract of the public accounts as presented without comment to the House:

There is to be added to the receipts the amount withdrawn from special deposits, $4,022,061, making receipts from all sources $10,807,613.57.

Add to expenditures special deposits, $4,897,878.59, and the balance on hand is shown to be $142,282.96.

The assets and liabilities are set down in a special statement as follows:

LIABILITIES.

Debts due Dominion, settled by arbitration, with the exception of claim under Indian treaty No. 3, in dispute	$1,737,199 72
Treasury bills due May 15, on account Temiskaming Railway	5,840,004 00

Annuities outstanding Dec. 31, 1904	1,600,253 23
Common school fund collections	7,692 67
Total direct liabilities	$11,708,650 87

Indirect liabilities amount to $2,600,000, made up of the Algoma Central (known as the Soo) loan of $2,000,000, and Niagara Falls Park bonds of $600,000.

ASSETS.

Current account	$ 142,238 96
Special deposits	2,713,295 59
Drainage debentures	53,111 73
Tile drainage coupons	75,869 30

Land improvement fund	134,695 18
Common school fund	1,465,179 33
Total	$3,973,024 96

According to these figures the total liabilities of the province are $11,708,650.87, and total assets $7,741,871.70, leaving a balance against the province of $3,967,979.17.

Against the item of $5,840,004, for Temiskaming Railway treasury bills is the road itself, which is an asset of the province. Of this amount there is yet available for construction $1,364,696.03. Then among the assets are two items, the Upper Canada grammar school fund and the common school fund, on which we cannot realize, and the treasurer figures that they should not be placed in this column. Leaving the figures out of the calculation, the assets and liabilities show:

Liabilities	$5,868,646 87
Assets	4,900,687 31
Deficit	$1,240,959 56

As compared with 1903, both receipts and expenditures show a considerable increase. In 1903 the receipts were $5,406,653.13, and the expenditures $4,886,-263.57. The receipts from woods and forests in 1903 were $2,307,266.13, that being the year of the last big timber sale, while last year the receipts from this source were $2,650,722.55. There was an increase also in the succession duties from $336,943.24 in 1903 to $468,-630.60 in 1904.

WHY DOES A BABY CRY?

Because it is either hungry or in pain. Properly nourished it will usually grow up right and be comfortable—that's the principal thing for a baby. If its food lacks strength and nourishment add Scott's Emulsion at feeding time. A few drops will show surprising results. If a baby is plump it is reasonably safe. Scott's Emulsion makes babies plump.

The Heart's Highway

by MARY E. WILKINS

Copyright, 1900, by DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.

"And, faith, and I see no reason why they should not be, with a whole colony in the secret of it," I said coldly.

"Nay, none but me and Nick and Dick Barry, and the parson since yesterday, and Major Beverly and Captain Noel Jaynes and you and the captain and sailors on the Golden Horn, who value their own necks. As God is my witness, none beside, Harry."

I could scarcely help laughing at the length of the list and the innocence of the lad. "Her sister Catherine, Sir Humphrey," said I.

"Hath she told her, Harry?"

"And the captain of the Earl of Fairfax."

"The governor's ship? Well, then, let us go through Jamestown proclaiming it with a horn," he gasped out, and made more of the two last than his own long list.

"Nay, the two last are as safe as we," said I. "Mistress Catherine holds her sister dearer than herself, and as for the captain of the governor's ship, lock a man's tongue with the key of his own interest if you wish it not to wag. But these goods must be moved from here."

"That is what I well know, Harry," he said eagerly. "All night did I toss and study the matter. But where?"

Not in any place on Madam Cavendish's plantation," I said, and did not say, as I might have, for 'twas the truth, that I had also tossed and studied, but as yet to no result.

"No, nor on mine, though I swear to thee, were I the only one to consider, I would have them there in a twinkling, but I cannot put my mother and sister in jeopardy even for"—

"Barry Upper Branch?"

"Nick and Dick swear they will not run the risk; that they have but too lately escaped with their lives and are too close watched, and as for the parson, 'tis out of the question, and Ralph Drake hath no hiding place, and as for the others, they one and all refuse and say this is the safest place in the colony, it being a household of women, and Madam Cavendish well known for her loyalty."

He looked at me and I at him, and again the old consideration, as I saw his handsome, gallant young face, that perchance Mary Cavendish might love him and do worse than to wed him, came over me.

"I will find a place for the goods," said I.

"You, Harry?"

"Yes, I," I said.

"But where, Harry?"

"Wait till the need for them come, lad." Then I added, for often in my perplexity the wish that the whole lot were at the bottom of the river had seized me, "There is need of them, I suppose?"

But Sir Humphrey said yes, with a great emphasis to that.

"There is sure to be fighting," he said, "and never were powder and shot so scarce. 'Tis well the Indians are quiet. This poor colony of Virginia hath not enough powder to guard her borders nor, were it not for her rich soil, enough of food to feed her children since the navigation act. Oh, Harry, if but Nathaniel Bacon had lived!"

"Amen," I said, and felt as I said it that if indeed that hero were alive this plot for the destroying of the young tobacco plants might be the earthquake which threw off a new empire, but as it were, remembering the men concerned, who had none of the stuff of Bacon in them, I wondered if it would prove aught more than a wedge in the scheme of liberty.

"There are those who would be ready to say that we gentlemen of Virginia, like Bacon, are all ready to shelter ourselves behind women's aprons," said Sir Humphrey Hyde, with a shamed glance at the goods, referring to that stationing of the ladies of the Berkeley faction, all arrayed in white aprons, on the earthworks before the advance of the sons and husbands and brothers in the Bacon uprising.

"And if you hear any man say that, shoot him dead, Sir Humphrey Hyde," I said, for, through liking not that story about Bacon, I was fiercer in defense of it.

"Faith, and I will, Harry," cried Sir Humphrey, "and Bacon was a greater man than the king if I were to swing for it; but, Harry, you cannot by yourself move these. What will you do?"

But I begged him to say no more and started toward the window, the door being fast locked as Mistress Mary had left it, when suddenly the boy stopped me and caught me by the hand, and begged me to tell him if I thought there might be any hope for him with Mary Cavendish, being moved to do so by her sending him away so peremptorily the night before, which had put him in sore doubt. "Tell me, Harry," he pleaded, and the great lad seemed like a child, with his honest outlook of blue eyes, "tell me what you think, I pray thee, Harry; look at me, and tell me, if you were a maid, what would you think of me?"

Loving Mary Cavendish as I did, and striving to look at him with her eyes, a sort of tenderness crept into my heart for this simple lover, who was as brave as he was simple, and I clapped a hand on his fair curls, for though he was so tall I was taller, and laughed and said, "If I were a maid, though 'tis a fancy to rack the brain, but, if I were a maid, I would love thee well, lad."

"My mother thinketh none like me, and so tells me every day, and says that I am like my father, who was the handsomest man in England, but then mothers be all so, and I know not how much of it to trust, and my sister Cicely loves Mary so well herself that she is jealous, and often tells me"— then the lad stopped and stared at me, and I at him, perplexed, not dreaming what was in his mind.

"Tells you what, Sir Humphrey?" said I.

"That, that—oh, confound it, Harry, there is no harm in saying it, for you as well as I know the folly of it and that 'tis but the jealous fancy of a girl. Faith, but I think my sister Cicely is as much in love with Mary Cavendish as I. 'Tis but—my sister Cicely, when she will tease me, tells me 'tis not I but you that Mary Cavendish hath set her heart upon, Harry."

I felt myself growing pale at that, and I could not speak because of a curious stiffness of my lips, and I heard my heart beat like a clock in the deserted house. Sir Humphrey was looking at me with an anxiety which was sharpening into suspicion. "Harry," he said, "you do not think"—

"'Tis sheer folly, lad," I burst out then, "and let us have no more of it. 'Tis but the idle prating of a lovesick girl, who should have a lover, ere she try to steal a nest in the heart of one of her own sex. 'Tis folly, Sir Humphrey Hyde."

"So said I to Cicely," Sir Humphrey cried eagerly, too interested in his own cause to heed my slighting words for his sister. "'Tis the rankest folly, I told her. Here is Harry Wingfield, old enough to be Mary's father, and beside—beside— Oh, confound it, Harry," the generous lad burst out, "I would not like you for a rival, for you are a good half foot taller than I, and you have that about you which would make a woman run to you and think herself safe were all the Indians in Virginia up, and you are a dark man—I have heard say they like that—but, but— Oh, I say, Harry, 'tis a shame that you are here as you are, and not as a gentleman and a cavalier with the rest of us, for all the evidence to the contrary and all the government to the contrary, 'tis, 'tis the way you should be, and not a word of that charge do I believe. May the fiends take me if I do, Harry!"

So saying, the lad looked at me, and verily the tears were in his blue eyes, and out he thrust his honest hand for me to grasp, which I did with more of comfort than I had had for many a day, though it was the hand of a rival, and the next minute forth he burst again: "Say, Harry, if it be true that thou art out of the running, and I believe it must be so, for how could—say, Harry, think you there is any chance for me?"

"I know of no reason why there should not be, Sir Humphrey," I said.

"Only, only—that she is what she is, and I but myself. Oh, Harry, was there ever one like that girl? All the spirit of daring of a man she has, and yet is she full of all the sweet ways of a maid. Faith, she would draw sword one minute and tie a ribbon the next. She would have followed Bacon to the death and sat up all night to broider herself a kerchief. Comrade and sweetheart both she is, and was there ever one like her for beauty? Harry, Harry, saw you ever such a beauty as Mary Cavendish?"

"No, and never will," cried I, so fervently and so echoing to the full his youthful enthusiasm that again that keen look flashed into his eyes. "Harry," he stammered out, "you do not say, for God's sake, Harry, you are a man if you are a—a—and every day have you seen that angel, and and—Harry, may the devil take me if I would go against thee if she—you know I would not, Harry, for I remember well how you taught me to shoot, and —and—I love thee, Harry, not in such fool fashion as my sister loveth Mary, but I love thee, and never would I cross thee."

"Sir Humphrey," said I, "it is not what you would, nor what I would, nor what any other man would, but what be best for Mary Cavendish, and her true happiness of life, that is to consider, whether you love her, or I love her, or any other man love her."

"Faith, and a score do," he said gloomily. "There be my Lord Estes and her cousin Ralph, and I know not how many more. Faith, I would not have her less fair, but sometimes I would that a few were color blind. But 'tis different when it comes to thee, Harry. If she"—

"Sir Humphrey," said I, "were Mary Cavendish thy sister and I myself, and loving her and she me, and you having that affection which you say you have for me, would you yet give her to me in marriage and think it for her good?"

Then the poor lad colored and stammered, and could not look me in the face, but it was enough. "Let there be no more talk betwixt you and me as to that matter, Sir Humphrey," I said. "There is never now nor at any other time any question of marriage betwixt Mistress Mary Cavendish and her convict tutor, and if he perchance had been not color blind and had learned to appraise her at her rare worth, the more bad be been set against such. And all that he can do for thee, lad, he will do."

Sir Humphrey was easily pacified, having been accustomed from his babyhood to masterly soothing of his mother into her own ways of thought. Again, in spite of his great stature, he looked up at me like a very child. "Harry," he whispered, "heard you her ever say anything pleasant concerning me?"

"Many a time," I answered quite seriously, though I was inwardly laughing and could not for the life of me remember any special favor which she had paid him in her speech. But I have ever held that a bold lover hath the best chance, and, knowing that boldness depends upon assurance of favor, I set about giving it to Sir Humphrey, even at some small expense of truth.

"When, when, Harry?"

"Oh, many a time, Sir Humphrey."

"But what? I pray thee, tell me what she said, Harry."

"I have not charged my mind, lad."

"But think of something. I pray thee, think of something, Harry." He looked at me with such exceeding wistfulness that I was forced to cudgel my brains for something which, having a slight savor of truth, might be seasoned to pungency at fancy. "Often have I heard her say that she liked a fair man," I replied, and indeed I had, and believed her to have said it because I was dark and seemingly inattentive to some new grace of hers as to the tying of her hair or fastening of her kerchief.

Sir Humphrey blushing like a girl

"Did she indeed say that, Harry, and do you think she had me in mind?" cried Sir Humphrey.

"Are you not a fair man?"

"Yes, yes, I am a fair man, am I not, Harry? What else? Sure you have heard her say more than that."

"I have heard her say she liked a hearty laugh and one who counted not costs when his mind were set on aught, but rode straight for it though all the bars were up."

"That sure is I, Harry, unless my mother stand in the way. A man cannot bring his mother's head low, Harry, but sure if she forbid nor know not, as in this case of this tobacco plot, I stop for naught. Sure she meant me then, Harry."

"And I have heard her say that she liked a young man, a man no older than she."

"Sure, sure she meant me by that, Harry, for I am the youngest of them all—not yet twenty. Oh, dear Harry, she had me in mind by that. Do you not think so?"

"I know of no one else whom she could have had in mind," I answered.

The lad was blushing with delight and confusion like a girl. He cast down his eyes before me; he stammered when he spoke. "Harry, if she but love me, I swear I could do as brave deeds as Bacon," he said. "I would die would she but carry about a lock of my hair on her bosom as she does his. I would, Harry. And you think I have some chance?"

My heart smote me lest I had misled him, for I knew with no certainty the maid's mind. "As much chance as any, and more than many, lad," I said, "and I will do what I can for thee."

"But at all odds," said he, "whether it be me or you or any other man, see to it that these goods be moved and she not be drawn into this which is hatching, for it may be as big a blaze as Bacon started before we be done with it. But shall I not help thee, Harry, and when will you move them and where?"

"I want no help, lad," I said, and was indeed firmly set in my mind that he should know nothing about the disposal of the goods lest Mistress Mary come to grief through her love for him, and reasoning that ignorance was his best safeguard and hers.

We went forth from Laurel Creek, I having promised that I would do all that I could to further his suit with Mary Cavendish, and when we reached the bend of the road, he having walked beside me, hitherto leading his horse, he was in his saddle and away, having first acquainted me anxiously with the fact that he was to wear that night to the governor's ball a suit of blue velvet with silver buttons and asking me if I considered that it would become him in Mistress Mary's eyes.

No joy or pleasure on this earth quite equals that which comes into the home when baby arrives. Who can describe the happiness of man and woman, joined in wedlock, as they look upon the fragile, delicate mite that is blood of their blood and flesh of their flesh? And who can depict the hopelessness and dejection that hover about the house where the wife is incapable of becoming a mother? Barrenness proceeds from some derangement of the distinctly feminine organs. Many of the common ailments known as "female troubles" cause it. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription overcomes barrenness by stamping out diseases of women, and by healing and curing ulceration. It tones up the system, stops drains, and restores strength. During gestation it modifies morning sickness, gives elasticity to the overstrained parts concerned, makes the hour of baby's coming short and almost painless, and gives wonderful recuperative power to the patient. By making the mother strong and cheerful, it makes the little one healthy, vigorous and good natured. Insist upon the medicine dealer giving you Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription when you ask for it. Substitutes are often dangerous.

Mrs. James W. Blecher, of 609 Catherine St., Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "Your medicines have done wonders for me. For years my health was very poor; I had four miscarriages, but since taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription' I have much better health, and now I have a fine healthy baby."

Nine Nations

Now Use Liquozone. Won't You Try It—Free?

Millions of people, of nine different nations, are constant users of Liquozone. Some are using it to get well; some to keep well. Some to cure germ diseases; some as a tonic. No medicine was ever so widely employed. These users are everywhere; your neighbors and friends are among them. And half the people you meet—wherever you are—know some-one whom Liquozone has cured.

If you need help, please ask some of these users what Liquozone does. Don't blindly take medicine for what medicine cannot do. Drugs never kill germs. For your own sake, ask about Liquozone; then let us buy you a full-size bottle to try.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving, in thousands of different cases, that Liquozone destroys the cause of any germ disease.

Liquozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs, nor with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissue, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

Asthma, Abscess—Anemia, Bronchitis, Blood Poison, Bright's Disease, Bowel Troubles, Coughs—Colds, Consumption, Colic—Croup, Constipation, Catarrh—Cancer, Dysentery—Diarrhea, Dandruff—Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Eczema—Erysipelas, Hay Fever—Influenza, Kidney Diseases, La Grippe, Leucorrhea, Liver Troubles, Malaria—Neuralgia, Many Heart Troubles, Piles—Pneumonia, Scarlet—Quinsy, Rheumatism, Scrofula—Syphilis, Skin Diseases, Stomach Troubles, Throat Troubles, Tuberculosis, Tumors—Ulcers, Tapeworm, Varicocele, Women's Diseases.

All diseases that begin with fever—all inflammation—all catarrh—all contagious diseases—all the results of impure or poisoned blood.

In nervous debility Liquozone acts as a vitalizer, accomplishing what no drugs can do.

50c. Bottle Free.

If you need Liquozone, and have never tried it, please send us this coupon. We will then mail you an order on a local druggist for a full-size bottle, and we will pay the druggist ourselves for it. This is our free gift, made to convince you; to show you what Liquozone is, and what it can do. In justice to yourself, please, accept it to-day, for it places you under no obligation whatever.

Liquozone costs 50c. and $1.

FORMER PETERBOROUGH MAN'S SUPPOSED SUICIDE

Andrew McNail Who is Said to Have Formerly Lived Here Believed to Have Committed Suicide in Rochester—Coat and Hat Found on Bank of Rochester River—Note in Coat Pocket Said "When Recovered Please Bury in Potter's Field"—Body Has Not Yet Been Found—An Investigation is Being Conducted by Coroner Kleindienst.

Word has been received in town of the supposed suicide of a former Peterborough man, "A McNail," supposed to be a typographic error for A. McNail, who, if that be the case, for a number of years lived here and conducted a tailoring business.

He left here and went to Rochester, N.Y., from which city news of his disappearance and supposed suicide, comes. The Rochester Post-Express, dated March 30, says—

The attention of Coroner Kleindienst was called this morning to evidence found in the river a few feet below the Court street dam, which may be a clue to the suicide of a man believed to be a. McNail, who formerly lived at 3 Marshall street, and whose whereabouts have been unknown for several months. The coroner is investigating the case, and the police are keeping a look out for the body.

As he was passing Court street bridge shortly after 5 o'clock this morning Officer Toomey was told by an Erie railroad man of an object lodged on the west bank of the river near the bridge. The officer made an investigation and found a man's frock coat and derby hat. In the pockets of the coat were papers that seemed to indicate the name of their owner. There were also found evidences tending to show that the man who had worn them contemplated suicide.

"When recovered, please bury in the Potter's Field," was found scrawled on a thin sheet of paper, evidently torn from a note book, and upon this farewell missive the police and the coroner base their theory of suicide. The man had apparently written the note just before jumping into the river and in his haste neglected to give any reason for wishing to take his own life.

After finding the coat and hat, Officer Toomey turned the articles over to Captain Zimmerman at police headquarters and further investigation of the case was made. The hat was found to be No. 9, an unusually large size, but as McNail, from descriptions obtained from persons who knew him on Marshall street, was a man weighing about 250 pounds, the hat would fit him. The coat was dark gray and also of large size, while in the pockets were found papers bearing the name, "A. McNail, 3 Marshall street."

Among the papers was one from the Williams' Soap Company, Buffalo, advising McNail that he had been authorized to collect for that firm in Rochester. It was signed by Manager Loeb and indicated that McNail was to act for the company. It was dated January 30th, 1905, and addressed to 3 Marshall street. There were also in the pockets blanks for the appointment of agents for an encyclopedia.

Inquiry by the police at the Marshall street house failed to get any information as to McNail's whereabouts. It was learned that he had lived there, but had not been seen in the neighbourhood since last November. He left no word when he went away and no one know what became of him. It is probable that he went elsewhere to room and remained in the city at least until a month ago, as the letters found in his pockets indicate as much.

The police have not been notified of the disappearance of anyone named McNail, and outside of the papers found in the coat pockets they have no evidence that McNail is not living. The size of the coat and hat correspond so well with descriptions of McNail, however, that they are inclined to believe the articles at least belong to him, even if he has not suicided.

Capt. Zimmerman turned the coat and hat over to Coroner Kleindienst and if an unidentified body turns up at the morgue they may lead to its identity. The coroner knows nothing of the case outside of what he obtained from the police and he will probably not attempt to solve the mystery until a body is found in the river. If the coat did not belong to McNail he will probably report to the coroner. Whoever the suicide was, if there was one, apparently carefully planned suicide, hastily wrote the note and after discarding his coat leaped into the river.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

CORRECT NEWS OF THE WAR

Difficult to Obtain Owing to Gen. Linevitch's Brevity—Japs March into Mongolia—Gen. Linevitch Records Only Flanking Movements East of the Russian Position in Manchuria—Renewal of Fighting is Expected Soon---Russian Hopes, However, Centre in Admiral Rojestvensky.

London, April 4.—The correspondent of The Times at St. Petersburg cables: The brevity of Gen. Linevitch's telegrams and the contradictory reports of Russian correspondents render it difficult to obtain a correct version of what is occurring in Manchuria. Some of the correspondents telegraph that the army is retreating to Sungari, others that it intends accepting an engagement near Sipinghai.

Marching Through Mongolia.

The representative of The Novoe Vremya telegraph that there are rumors that the Japanese are marching through Mongolia. Gen. Linevitch's records flanking movements only on the east, and mentions a skirmish between Madritoff's scouts and Japanese cavalry south of Kirin.

Temporary Check to Peace.

The belief is gaining ground that the prospects of peace have suffered a temporary check, although in the opinion of leading diplomats here a certain interval was bound to follow the first exchange of proposals, and it would be premature to say the negotiations had failed. The Foreign Office yesterday declared with special emphasis that the war will continue. This is the first time we have heard bellicose language from this ministry, though such assurances would naturally be given by the Foreign Office during the preliminary stages of negotiations.

Wives of Reservists Starving.

According to The Rassvet, the wives of reservists who have been drawing relief from the Zemstre of Nijni Novgorod are now starving the Zemstro's funds being exhausted.

Expect Renewal of Fighting.

Gunshu Pass (108 miles north of Tie Pass), Manchuria, April 4.—A renewal of fighting is expected shortly. The concentration of the Russian army is complete, with its advance lines south of the station of Sipinghai (74 miles north of Tie Pass). The Japanese are screening their movements well by means of cavalry, and it is difficult to locate the bulk of their army. A heavy movement seems to be in progress on the Russian flanks. The railroad station at Changtufu (40 or 50 miles above Tie Pass), is occupied by Japanese artillery, but so far as ascertainable it does not cover large body of troops.

Japs Capture Heights.

Tokio, April 4.—A part of the Kaiyuan force drove the Russians from Mienhuachieh and occupied the village and northern heights March 31. The situation in other directions is unchanged.

100,000 Chinese Homeless.

Gen. Oku's headquarters in the field, April 4.—There is much suffering among the Chinese in the vicinity of Mukden.

Scores of villages were destroyed in the recent fighting and 100,000 persons are homeless and destitute.

The Chinese Government is now feeding and housing 60,000 refugees at Mukden and also furnishing seed grain.

There is little prospect for good crops this season, owing to a lack of farm animals and implements.

The Japanese are employing thousands of Chinese and paying them liberally.

On to Vladivostock.

St. Petersburg, April 4.—A letter from Vice Admiral Rojestvensky to his wife, just received here, indicates that the departure of the second Pacific squadron from Madagascar waters is final and that now it is on the way to Vladivostock.

Russia Leans on Rojestvensky.

St. Petersburg, April 4.—The statements concerning the prospect of peace sent from St. Petersburg should be regarded with the utmost suspicion. The truth is Russia has the fullest confidence in the ability of Vice Admiral Rojestvensky to inflict defeat upon the enemy, thus completely turning the tide of events.

Temporarily Repealed.

St. Petersburg, April 4.—An Imperial manifesto was published in The Finland Gazette yesterday, directing that, in compliance with the request of the Finnish estates, the military service law for Finland, issued July, 1901, be temporarily repealed pending legislative settlement of the question.

Bomb Thrower Dead.

Lods, Russian Poland, April 4.—The would-be assassin of Police Commissioner Szabalovics of the second district, who was seriously injured Saturday afternoon by a bomb which was thrown at him in the street, is dead. He never regained consciousness after being shot down by the policeman who arrested him.

Considerable excitement was caused at midnight by two Cossacks, who attacked four pedestrians, killing two and wounding the others.

The Governor-General has prohibited the sale of revolvers. The gun dealers have been ordered to enclose all the revolvers in sealed cases and to hand them over to the police.

Russians Driven From Village.

Tokio, April 4.—A part of the Kaiyuan force drove the Russians from Mienhuachieh and occupied the village and northern heights March 31. The situation in other directions is unchanged.

Kaiser Almost Reaches Limit.

Paris, April 4.—The Temps last night says the authoritative version of Emperor William's remarks at Tangier makes it useless to deny the disobliging character of such words, which "constitute almost the maximums short of openly quarreling with France, that William II. could attempt in order to be disagreeable."

THIRTY MINERS MEET DEATH

Terrific Explosion of Accumulated Gas in Illinois Mine.

FIFTY MEN WERE BURIED

Benton, 12 Miles North-East of Zeigler, Where the Leiter Mine is Situated, Felt Explosion — As Main Shaft Was Demolished Only a Few Bodies Have Yet Been Recovered.

Benton, Ill., April 4.—Some 50 miners were entombed yesterday in Joseph Leiter's mine at Zeigler by a terrific explosion of gas, and it is probable that 30 or more of the buried men are dead.

Thus far four bodies have been found.

The explosion, it is said, was due to the fact that the Leiter mines are not worked on Sunday, thus allowing gas to accumulate in the lower workings.

When between 35 and 45 miners had descended into the mine yesterday to resume work a terrific explosion blew the mouth of the mine high into the air. One of the steel cages was blown to the surface from the bottom of a 500-foot shaft. The shock of the explosion was felt at Benton 12 miles northeast of Zeigler.

Main Shaft Demolished.

One miner was killed and four were severely injured at the mouth of the shaft in which the explosion occurred. The main shaft was demolished so that rescue work has to be carried on through the airshaft. This has hindered the work of aiding the entombed men to such an extent that when darkness fell last night only three bodies and one injured man had been brought to the surface. These bodies were found 40 feet from the bottom of the shaft and this is as far as the rescuers had been able to penetrate the shaft.

Dead Unrecognizable.

A committee of the union miners from Duquoen and other mining towns came to Zeigler soon after the explosion occurred, and offered their aid. The bodies of the dead are so burned that they are unrecognizable.

There was much excitement among miners because there had been a strike of long duration and many conflicts occurred between strikers and non-union miners.

An all day investigation tends to show that the catastrophe was due to the accidental explosion of accumulated gas.

Caught in Wheel Shaft.

Kingston, April 4.—Yesterday morning, Edward Randall, of Gananoque, was brought to the General Hospital in a badly smashed condition. He is an employe in the hinge factory of Cowan & Britton, and was caught in a wheel shaft. His injuries consist of a broken right leg, broken left arm and several broken ribs, besides cuts and bruises. The young man has no relatives in this country.

Woman's Injuries May Be Fatal.

London, April 4.—Yesterday, Miss Ward, whose brother-in-law is J. F. Prettie, bridge foreman of a constructing gang near Paris, was returning home after driving Prettie to the depot. The horse became frightened at a street car and ran away. Miss Ward was thrown against a telegraph pole. She was rendered unconscious for several hours, and now lies in a very critical condition at the Victoria Hospital.

Dies From Sprained Spine.

Walkerville, April 4.—Nine-year-old Alfred Robinson died yesterday as the result of a peculiar accident. A month ago, while trying to keep a loaded wheelbarrow from tipping he sprained his spine so severely that his brain became affected. Nothing that could be done could save his life.

Lineman Electrocuted.

Ottawa, April 4.—Philip Forcault, aged 42 years, for many years a lineman, was electrocuted at Aylmer yesterday by touching a live wire. He was an employe of the Hull Electric Co., and was an experienced man.

Proper Care Lacking.

Toronto, April 4.—"We find that Lillian Mulvaney came to her death by having been run down by a street car at Soho and Queen streets, on March 23, and we find that the proper care had not been taken by the railroad company." This was the verdict brought in by the coroner's jury last night. Coroner Wilson conducted the inquest.

DEATH OF JOHN R. MARTIN.

Former County Crown Attorney of Haldimand Dies in Windsor.

Windsor, April 4.—John R. Martin, for the past ten years a resident of this city, is dead. He was a prominent member of the Ontario bar, and for 18 years was Crown Attorney for Haldimand County. Mr. Martin was born in Ireland 62 years ago. He was a grandson of the celebrated Col. Richard Martin of Connemara, who represented Galway before the union of the Irish and English Parliaments.

Operated on Prince of Wales.

London, April 4.—The Prince of Wales underwent an operation yesterday morning at Marlborough House, the nature of which was not divulged in the official statement subsequently issued, as follows:—"Owing to a slight operation this morning the Prince of Wales will be confined to his room for a few days. As his condition gives rise to no uneasiness, no bulletins will be issued."

Castro is Satisfied.

Caracas, April 4.—President Castro yesterday said that he is well satisfied with the turn of American-Venezuelan affairs and feels sure that there will be no difficulty between the two nations.

Style for Sunny Days and Protection for Rainy Ones

The Semi-ready rain coat is a revelation to those who follow style. The style and fabric are those that would be used in any good light overcoat.

To looks and feeling that is all it is.

By a special process, this stylish fabric has been made absolutely impervious to the rain.

It's a coat for rain or shine.

There is only one way of knowing how good these coats are, and that is to see them and try them on. You can do that any day without being pressed to buy.

Deseronto Milling Co's Plant Also Suffers.

Special to the Examiner.

Tweed, April 4. — The electric light company's dam was badly damaged by high water and ice last night. The centre pier and part of the cement dam belonging to the Deseronto Milling Company, are also greatly injured.

BANK CLERK TRIES SUICIDE

Mr. Bert Bowman a Molson's Bank Clerk Shot Himself.

Special to The Examiner

Frankford, April 4. — Mr. Bert Bowman, a Molsons Bank clerk, in this village, between eight and ten this morning, while yet in bed, and while Mr. Collins, the manager, was, out, shot himself twice over the heart and twice in the head. He still lives but cannot recover. He says he does not know why he shot himself.

THE PRECIS DELAYED.

Manitoba Government Documents Not Quite Ready for Publication.

Winnipeg, April 4.—The precis of the Manitoba Government's documents relating to the Provincial claims for extension of boundaries was not in a sufficiently forward state for publication yesterday, and the public which was on the tiptoe of expectancy, will have to wait till this afternoon, when, according to official assurances, the document will be given out.

ST. ANTOINE PROTEST.

Election of Mr. H. B. Ames M. P., Contested at Montreal.

Montreal, April 4.—The petition to annul the election of Ald. Ames, M. P. for the St. Antoine division of Montreal, came up before Judge Curran in the Superior Court yesterday, when a number of witnesses were examined. Mr. Prefontaine, Minister of Marine, who was examined, admitted that the Liberal party had furnished the deposit money for the petitions. The case was enlarged.

SCHOLARSHIP REPORT.

To the chairman and members of the Board of Education:

At the examinations last July, Miss L. Smithson obtained the highest marks in Junior Leaving and Stanley Fife in Pass Matriculation, and hence are entitled to $15 each from Mrs. Nicholls' bequest.

The scholarship of $50 awarded on the results of the Senior Leaving and the Honour Matriculation, lies between two candidates. One wrote on both parts of Senior Leaving, passing in Part I, and failing in Part II. The other wrote for Honour Matriculation, taking honours in all subjects on which he wrote. The first obtained more marks altogether than the second, but the second obtained more marks than the first obtained in that part of the Senior Leaving in which he passed. Your obedient servant,

C. Fessenden.

The matter was on motion referred to the principal to consult with the Department, and report to the Board.

BUILDING COMMITTEE.

The report of the Building Committee was received as follows, and, on motion, adopted:

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:—

Gentlemen.—Your committee begs leave to report as follows:—

The plans and specifications for a new Collegiate Institute which we had prepared, were submitted for tenders in the early part of February, local contractors only being asked for tenders.

These were opened at our meeting on March 3rd, and of the four submitted, the lowest was for $69,700.

As this sum was very considerably in excess of the appropriation at the disposal of the Board we deemed it advisable before making any report to take every step possible to secure lower tenders. The time for receiving tenders was therefore extended to March 31st and the Secretary was directed to advertise in the Toronto papers as well as in the local papers that we might have the benefit of the widest competition.

On Friday, March 31st the tenders received were opened, but it was found that no material change from the figures of former tenders had been secured. (Copies of all tenders are herewith attached).

In submitting this report your Committee desire to say that they have put forth every effort to secure the best possible plans for a Collegiate Institute that would be worthy in every respect of so prosperous and growing a City as Peterborough.

We have submitted the plans for criticism and suggestions to our Collegiate Institute staff and to the Provincial Authorities, and have had our architect carry out as far as practicable all valuable suggestions received.

We have had, moreover, the most expert advice on heating, ventilating and sanitation, so that we feel the plans now submitted are in keeping with, not only present needs, but the needs of a future city such as all progressive citizens of Peterborough hope to see, a city second to no one in Eastern Ontario, with a population very much greater than we now have, and a population in that will not care to be saddled with a school that was built with no thought for the future.

The plans here submitted, we feel, are in harmony with progressive educational ideals of school architecture, and school accomodation. To recommend plans of which this could not be said would be a retrograde step and altogether out of harmony with every other progressive movement in our progressive city.

We, believing, therefore, that while the lowest tender is considerably above the appropriation of $50,000, A building suitable in every respect and worthy of its surroundings can hardly be erected at any very material reduction of cost, without such an alteration in plans, as would sacrifice much of the beauty, convenience and efficiency of the building, and render changes and alterations as very possible necessity in the not very distant future.

It is well for our citizens to understand that a very excellent feature of these plans is the provision for a large auditorium, for the holding of public addition to the large and well-equipped gymnasium. These are features now found in all up-to-date High Schools and Collegiate Institutes.

In submitting this report, your committee unanimously recommend that this Board take, at the earliest date possible, such steps as are necessary, for the securing of sufficient additional funds for the carrying out of these plans.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

H. P. KENNEDY,
Chairman of Building Committee

The Board will confer with the council, at the earliest date possible with reference to future action in the matter.

Considerable discussion arose in connection with the adoption of the report, Mr. V. Eastwood thought it advisable that the purchase of the Separate School property be completed, and that Mr. Belcher be paid for work done. He didn't think it best to go to the council this year, owing to the other large expenditures which that body would shortly submit to the electors.

Mr. H. Morgan believed a good substantial building could be erected for $50,000.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy expressed his opinion that the plans could not be satisfactorily re-modelled.

Mr. L. M. Hayes favoured the proposition to confer with the town council.

Dr. M. A. Morrison, as a new member of the board, thought that a mistake had been made in the beginning in figuring on $50,000, point to the large expenditures for site, plumbing, heating, furnishing, inspection and architect's fees, which approximated $33,500, leaving a balance of only $16,000 to be devoted to the building. He favoured submitting the matter to the people, as a building which would be satisfactory could not be erected for the amount of money estimated. He did not think the public would be satisfied with a cheap building.

Mr. Eastwood thought it imperative that action with reference to the South Ward School should be taken by the board.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Mabel B. Harding, tendering her resignation as second assistant of the South Central Kindergarten, to take effect 25th of March, 1905. The resignation of Miss Harding was accepted and Miss Bell recommended for the position.

From Jessie Lightfoot, of the Toronto Normal School, applying for a situation on the public school teaching staff. Received.

From Alfred B. Owen, General Superintendent of Dr. Barnardo Home Association, asking the co-operation of the board in reference to having the town construct a sewer 450 feet in length on Barnardo ave. Referred to the Property Committee.

From the Provincial Association of School Trustees of Ontario, enclosing copies of the proceedings of the above named association at its 18th Annual Convention and asking the board to send a delegation to the Convention at the University of Toronto, April 25th, 1905. The following gentlemen were on motion appointed as a delegation to attend the convention,—W. G. Ferguson, Inspector Walker, W. H. Hill, R. Fair and H. P. Kennedy.

Mr. Davidson was heard requesting that the members of the board attend the meeting of the Philomathian Society, to be held at the Y. M. C. A. on April 18th. Moved by Mr. W. H. Hill, seconded by Mr. Hartley, that the invitation be accepted, and that the board attend.

DESTRUCTION OF THE FINNY TRIBE

"Common-sense" Protests Against Emptying Canal in the Fall.

To the Editor of the Examiner.—

Dear Sir,—I wish, through your valuable paper, to call the attention of the proper authorities of the wanton distruction of fish in that portion of the Trent Valley Canal between Smith street and Nassau and more especially in that part above the "Puddle Dam" and in Thompson's Bay. The cause of this shameful waste is due to the emptying of the canal, or very nearly so, in the fall, so that what water is left is frozen to the bottom thus destroying the fish.

I personally viewed this portion of the canal, and was somewhat disgusted to see thousands of dead fish rising to the surface along the edge of the canal, the odor of which is anything but pleasant, and the numerous gulls were having a gorgeous repast.

It seems to me that this could be avoided by raising the gates on the canal at Smith street and at the high level bridge and thus allow the water to remain and save the lives of thousands of the finny tribe.

COMMON SENSE.

THESE Tablets act on the three great blood purifying organs of the body—the kidneys, liver and bowels, and clear away the bile, uric acid and all other poisons and impurities. They positively cure blood humors, skin diseases, headache, backache, dropsy, gravel, rheumatism, all "kidney and urinary troubles, liver torpor, constipation—and give sick, disheartened men and women a new lease of life.

J. Williams, telegraph operator, Port Hope, says "Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are the only thing I have found in the last four or five years that has done any good and they certainly are marvelous in their rapid and good effects. I suffered from backache, kidney, and liver trouble, with loss of appetite and strength, but these conditions are entirely gone, and I feel generally better and stronger every way."

"POP" WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Interesting Evening's Entertainment at Y.M.C.A.

Mr. Kenner's Lecture on "City of the Seven Hill's"—A Good Programme.

All previous records were again broken at the Pop on Saturday night at the Y. M. C. A., when the hall and adjoining rooms were filled with a deeply interested audience. Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M. P. P., presided in a most capable and happy manner and expressed his appreciation of the work of the Association of which he has already been a strong supporter.

Miss M. Robertson and Miss Gladys Crane showed marked musical ability at the piano.

The Coleman Brothers sang several comic selections and were warmly applauded.

Prof. Milner gave a piano selection and also played accompaniments.

The lecture by Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, B. A., on "The City of the Seven Hills" was indeed a treat and Mr. Kenner handled it in a most masterly style. During the hour and a half occupied in giving it the audience listened with rapt attention.

The stereopticon views were works of art, this part of the programme being operated by Mr. Jas. A. Fife, B. A., Science Master of the Collegiate.

At the 5th Pop on Saturday night Mr. P. K. Holmes will give a lecture on "Physical Culture" and there will be a good musical programme as well.

Pain Across the Kidneys For Three Years.

Suffered Great Agony. Could Not Stoop or Bend.

No disease is so quiet and stealthy in its approach as kidney disease. That is why it is so dangerous. It may become deep-seated before you realize the danger.

It is therefore of great importance to recognize the early warning symptoms, because in its early stage kidney disease is easily curable. Pain or dull ache in the back is one of the first signs. So are bladder pains, bearing-down pains, smarting sensation when urinating, frequent or suppressed urination, and gravel or sediment in the urine, etc. You cannot be well if your kidneys are not performing their functions properly. In all ordinary cases of any derangement of the kidneys, a few doses of will put the patient right; in old or chronic cases, the treatment should be persisted in.

Mr. Michael A. McInnis, Woodbine, Marion Bridge, N.S., tells of his experience: "For the last three years I suffered great agony with pain across my kidneys, and was so bad that I could not stoop or bend. I consulted and had several doctors treat me, but I got none the better. On the advice of a friend I procured a box of that valuable life-giving remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, and to my surprise and benefit I immediately became better. In my opinion Doan's Kidney Pills have no equal as a cure for any form of Kidney disease.

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25. All dealers, or direct by mail.

THEFT CHARGE WAS WITHDRAWN

Charge Against Boy Arrested Saturday Settled by Payment of Costs.

The charge of theft of $5½ against the 12 year old boy who was arrested in Saturday evening was withdrawn this morning at Police Court. The complainant, who is prisoner's brother, did not wish to proceed with case. The Magistrate consented to this arrangement, on payment of costs, which amounted to $16.12. On account of the prisoner's minority, Mr. R. M. Dennistoun appeared for the Children's Aid Society, who are looking after the case.

The Magistrate administered some sound advice to prisoner, pointing to the tendency with which so many an offence had been treated in the desire to give him a chance to reform, and spoke of the serious consequences which would follow a second offence.

Mr. Dennistoun also added a few remarks as to the policy of the society in sending out incorrigibles for a period of hard labour at farm work.

Gordon Long was fined $2 for riding on the sidewalk.

An information was laid by a local shoe-maker regarding the theft of a pair of boots on Saturday by an Ennismore man. The offender will be allowed a chance to return the stolen property before further action is taken.

GUILD MEETING HELD LAST NIGHT

Much Business Transacted at St. Andrew's Guild Meeting Last Night.

The semi-annual meeting of the St. Andrew's Young People's Guild was held last night. At the request of the retiring president, Mr. J. S. Fergusson, the pastor occupied the chair. After devotional exercises the election of officers was proceeded with, when Miss L. Curry, who has been an interested member of the society was, unanimously, elected President for the ensuing six months. A Nominating Committee was then appointed for the nominating of Vice-Presidents, who shall have charge of the various departments of the Young People's work and for the selection of members of the various committees. The committee will report on April 16th which completed its labours last night.

VISIT OF C. P. R. SUPERINTENDENT

Mr. Timmerman Arrived in Town Last Night in Private Car.

Mr. Timmerman, General Superintendent of the C. P. R. arrived in town last night from Montreal in his private car, remaining till this morning, when he left about 9.30 for Toronto.

Mr. Timmerman was seen in his car by an Examiner representative, and stated that nothing of local importance attached to his visit, which was more in the nature of a trip of inspection. He had found local conditions extremely satisfactory.

The hind legs of the freak, which is technically known as schistosoma reflexum are situated in the place usually occupied by the fore legs and vice-versa. The case is an extremely rare one, and will doubtless arouse much interest in veterinary circles.

—At St. Andrew's Church, Sunday, Miss Margaret Bryce, of Keene, assisted at both services in the singing. At the morning service, she sang in splendid voice "He Leadeth Me" and in the evening she took a prominent part in the anthem "The Radiant Morn," while after the sermon she sang the solo "He That Dwelleth in the Secret Places of the Most High." Miss Bryce's singing was much appreciated by the large congregation which gathered at the church Sunday.

ST. JOHN'S Y. P. S. MET LAST NIGHT

Many Interesting Papers Read by Members

An exceptionally large attendance was present at the regular meeting of St. John's Young People's Society held in the school room last night, President, J. Pattie, occupied the chair.

The programme which was pleasingly interspersed with musical selections, was largely composed of papers upon the different aspects of congregational worship. Excellent papers were read on "The Value of Congregational Worship", by J. Bell; "How to Improve It", by J. Pattie; "Reverence" by Miss C. Morris, and "Fellowship", by Miss L. Pratt. Rev. Mr. Tandy also gave a short talk and was given a most cordial and hearty welcome by the Young People. Two pleasing solos were also rendered by Miss D. Sawers. The meeting proved to be one of the most enjoyable in the history of the society since its inception. The next meeting will be held on April 17th, when an address will be delivered by Mr. F. D. Kerr.

RED AND BLUE NIGHT AT Y.M.C.A

Victorious Blues Entertained at Dinner

Fitting Close to Successful Contest—New Members Have Been Added

The Y.M.C.A. membership contest had an auspicious close last night, when those who had been successful in bringing in one or more members, were entertained at dinner at the building.

The score left the Blues the victors by a lead of 40 points. The total being, Blues 156 1-2; Reds 116 1-2. Altogether 96 new memberships and renewals came in through the contest, the Reds bringing in 54 and the Blues 41; so that while the Blues won because their's included more senior men, yet the Reds, after all, had a moral victory in the number brought in.

The part the boys played in the contest is worthy of note, Donald Snook securing over 30 points for his side. Others stood well in the total.

The men and boys sat down to the tables at 7.15, which were very prettily decorated with Red and Blue and flowers. The bill-of-fare was tasty and of a high order and was appreciated by all—not only by action but by word as well.

After the feast short speeches were made by Messrs. Dormer, W. D. Campbell, W. McLaren, Fred. Hall, for the Blues and Messrs. Art. Hall and Rob. Dutton for the Reds.

An amusing feature of the evening was the passing around of the "Red Herring".

The gathering concluded with a vote of thanks to the officers and the National Anthem.

DEATH OCCURRED AT UNTIMELY AGE

Gertrude V. King Passed Away Last Night at Home in Douro Township.

The death occurred at six o'clock Sunday night, at the family residence, Douro township, of Gertrude Victoria King, second daughter of the late William King.

The deceased, who was nineteen years of age, has been confined to the house for about a month from nervous prostration, which was responsible for her demise. Surviving her, besides her mother, are three sisters, Jennie, Violet and Frances, and two brothers, William and Samuel, all of whom reside at home.

The late Miss King was a Presbyterian in religion and was a member of St. Paul's church.

The funeral will leave the family residence, Douro township, a short distance from Auburn, on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery for interment.

DEATH OCCURRED IN ENNISMORE

Mrs. Daniel Shanahan Passes Away, After a Lingering Illness.

After about a year's illness from tubercular trouble, the death occurred at her home in Ennismore, of Mrs. Daniel Shanahan, one of the most respected residents of that township.

The deceased was 36 years of age, and leaves many friends and relatives who will be deeply pained to learn of her demise. Her mother, who resides in Ennismore, survives her. Her husband, one brother, William, and three sisters, are also left to mourn her loss. The sisters are Lillie, and Annie Cavanagh, and Mrs Jas. Kearney. Mrs. Jeffries, Mrs. Wood, and Miss Shanahan are sisters-in-law, and Jos. Shanahan of Pittsburg, and John Shanahan of Ennismore, are brothers-in-law.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock from the family residence to the Lower Lake cemetery.

THE RESULTS OF SOMEBODY'S CARELESSNESS

What Consequences Thoughtlessness can Bring.

The numerous friends of Mrs. Thomas Duncan, 11 St. Joseph st. will be pained to learn of the serious results of an apparently trifling accident. A day or two ago she had occasion to be in the back yard of her residence. She stepped with her whole weight upon an unturned nail which pierced the leather of her boot and penetrated the ball of of her foot. As a result serious inflammation was set up and Mrs. Duncan has to move, when she can move, on crutches.

This incident points a moral. When we remember the serious results that have come from nails in boards being left pointed upwards so that they can be stepped upon and inflict wounds painful in themselves and capable of producing serious results, it would be thought that more care would be exercised. Who has not seen men in ripping up old walks, leave the planks with the sharp points of nails projecting upwards? The passing citizen may easily and without being careless, step upon one of these nails and receive a wound which will result in serious trouble, if not, as has not infrequently happened, loss of life from such mishaps.

Child Had Eczema.

'My daughter, 13 years old, suffered from eczema for three years. She was treated by our family physician and used other ointments without benefit. By using Dr. Chase's Ointment she has been completely cured. This is the only Ointment I feel like recommending."—Mr. Jas. H. Patriquin, 176 Rockdale Avenue, Sydney, C. B.

FORMER PASTOR ADDRESSED MEETING

Special Service at Park Street Baptist Church Last Night.

In the revival services at the Park Street Baptist Church, last night, the Rev. O. C. Elliott's first sermon for the week was well received, as was revealed in the fruitfulness of the after-meeting. His theme was Heb. 12.25, "See that ye refuse not Him that speaketh for if they escaped not who refused Him that spake on earth, much more shall not we escape if we turn away from Him that speaketh from Heaven".

God speaks in three ways,—first, in discouragement of sin and sinful practices; secondly, He speaks encouragement to the seeking sinner,—"Come now, let us reason together, though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow."; thirdly, He speaks in warning to the impenitent sinner, "He that hath been reproved and hardeneth his neck shall suddenly be destroyed and that without remedy."

These truths were enforced and applied with great tenderness.

Miss Mamie V. Curry sang two numbers in good voice and with much effect.

Services continued every night this week, conducted by Mr. Elliott and Miss Clark.—Com.

CARNEGIE LIBRARY WILL BE DISCUSSED

At To-night's Board of Trade Meeting.

To-night the Board of Trade will hold a meeting, when the proposal to establish a Carnegie Library here will be discussed.

The meeting will be a public one, and all citizens are invited to be present and give their views on the question under discussion. This is a question upon which there appears to be a difference of opinion in town, and those who favour the project will doubtless have some opposition at to-night's meeting.

Sweet Peas and Nasturtium Seeds.

LAWN TENNIS.

To-morrow night the annual meeting of the Hiawatha Tennis Club will be held in the Y. M. C. A. hall, when the election of officers will take place and plans for the season discussed.

FOOTBALL.

A meeting of the Old Country Wanderers' will be held at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 p. m., sharp, on Wednesday, April 5th. All young men interested will be welcome.

A despatch from Galt says that the Football team of that town will take a trip this spring, visiting Bowmanville, Peterborough, Kingston and Montreal. This is the team which won the World's Championship at the St. Louis fair, and their visit here should create great interest.

A Problem Solved
Ozone is ozone and in buying it the problem is to get the purest form. "Solution of Ozone (the coupon kind)" is the purest form in which Ozone is put up. In addition each bottle contains a coupon entitling you to a package of "Celery King" free, and it is well known that you should take "Celery King" along with Ozone.
We put "Celery King" coupons in our Ozone bottles because no other firm can give "Celery King" with Ozone. By buying "Solution of Ozone (the coupon kind)" you get the purest and most concentrated form of Ozone, and in addition, you save the expense of buying "Celery King" to use with it.
No other kind of Ozone offers this advantage. Ask your druggist for it, and if he hasn't it, write to the Public Drug Company, Bridgeburg, Ont. Sold by W. B. WARNE, Druggist.

REASON No 24
WHY YOU SHOULD USE
Red Rose Tea
Because it is full weight.
You get a full pound of tea inside the package. The lead wrapping is not included in the weight.
It is weighed by automatic electric machines—machines that never make mistakes (clerks sometimes do), and the tea is poured into the packages after being weighed.
Put a pound package of Red Rose Tea on a scale and it will weigh 19 to 20 ounces, according to the thickness of the lead wrapper; or the tea, poured out, will weigh 16 ounces.
Everything about Red Rose Tea is always full measure—weight, quality, purity, and cleanliness—and your satisfaction will be full and complete when you use it.

THE HARVEST OF WAR.

The horrors of war, as demonstrated by the frightful carnage in the East, can hardly be appreciated at this distance. In Peterborough, if a citizen meets death by violence, or accident, the entire community is stirred to its innermost part, the calamity forms the subject of general conversation, and words cannot be found to express the feelings the circumstances arouse. But we read in the despatches of thousands of soldiers wiped out by shot and shell, or miserably dying from neglected wounds, exposure or starvation; the despatch is read, and there is an end of the matter — cruel suffering is regarded as a matter of course; it is what is to be expected from war. It is impossible to conceive of any person in this community so neglected as to be denied treatment for wounds. If there were the slightest neglect on the part of the friends, or even neighbours of such a person, public indignation would be sternly aroused. It is estimated that in the series of battles which raged around Mukden in the East, there were placed hors de combat over 200,000 men. This number represents the wiping out of the City of Toronto, without leaving enough living to bury the dead. This number is greater than the population of British Columbia; almost equal to the population of Manitoba at the last census, and equal to the average population of ten Ontario counties. Yet, in this twentieth century of grace, the civilized nations of the world not only stand by and see this ruthless slaughter continue, without lifting a finger to prevent, or put a stop to it, but they are busy spending millions upon millions of money to prepare for like slaughter, and withdrawing, in the form of soldiers, millions of men from the ranks of industry, commerce and productive occupations. It is quite evident that civilisation is only skin deep, and can more be said of Christianity?

ELECTION EXPENSES.

In last night's Review is printed, in displayed form, the items of the respective election expenses of Messrs W. Anderson and H. A. Moore, of East Peterborough. By these statements it is made to appear that the election expenses of Mr. Anderson were $656.81, and of Mr. Moore, $26.45. The remark was made that Mr. Anderson's majority was costly, an insinuation that it was the result of undue expenditure. All the items in the statement of Mr. Anderson's expenses are legitimate. For instance, his printing bill was $241, while the printing bill of Mr. Moore was only $2.80. It is apparent that Mr. Moore's expenses have been minimized. He held, it is true, only two meetings, one at Havelock, and one at Keene. Now, the rent of the Havelock hall is not less than $10, and that of the Keene hall $4 or $5. These meetings would require two sets of bills, which would cost more than his entire printing bill, as returned. Yet we have his entire election expenses, outside his personal expenses, only $2.80. If the items mentioned were left out, why not others? Mr. Moore's address was printed in the Review, and this added to his expenses. So that it comes to this, that either Mr. Moore's expenses were unduly minimized, or he practised the dead-head system to an extent unprecedented in the annals of "graft." Mr. Moore's personal expenses are placed at $26.45. This is possible only on the assumption that he sponged on his fellow farmers for his meals and horse keep during his several months of canvass. If he did not do this he must have lived very sparingly when away from home. Mr Anderson's personal expenses were $125, not an unusually large figure, if he paid his way like a man in his canvass of one of the largest ridings in the province. The Review contends that the plea that an election contest cannot be run for less than $500, is knocked out by the fact that Mr. Moore's election expenses amounted to only $26.45. But Mr. Moore was not elected. There's a happy medium between meanness and lavishness in even legitimate election expenditure. A candidate must use reasonable effort to make his personality and his platform known to the electors. If he puts $25 in his pocket and runs his campaign on that basis, he must expect defeat. However well disposed an elector may be to the cause the candidate represents he has some little prejudice against voting for a man he does not know. The Review's mountain in labour brought forth a very weakly mouse.

FOWLER'S CORNERS.

(From our own Correspondent)

Fowler's Corners, April 3. — The sleighing is done around the village.

Some of the farmers in this neighbourhood are already ploughing.

Mr. Thos. Tindle's sawing machine is in great demand at present.

Mr. Thos. Johnston and Mr. John Lintick have returned from the woods.

We hear that the young people of the Gilmour Memorial church have enjoyed a series of very pleasant social evenings at the homes of their friends during the past winter.

Mr. Moncrief reports very tough sleighing on Wednesday last. He says he had great difficulty in reaching Matthews Packing House, with a load of hogs.

Mr. John Wright has bought a house and lot in Omemee.

Mr. Jas. Gallagher of Bobcaygeon passed through the village on Thursday.

Rev. Mr. Whitelaw, of Omemee, succeeded in reaching our church on Sunday, but was disappointed at seeing such a small congregation.

PROGRESSIVE RURAL QUEBEC

The Sister Province Probably Leads in Production of Cheese and Butter

Ontario is somewhat inclined to put on superior airs in reference to Quebec, the general opinion being that in progressive activities the province of Quebec is primitive in its methods and generally behind the times. However the following from the Montreal Witness puts a different face on the matter, especially as regards dairy products:—

Before the Select Committee of Agriculture and Colonization, Mr. J. A. Ruddick, dairy commissioner, paid the province of Quebec a very high compliment. He said that the Province of Quebec probably leads in the production of cheese and butter. Not only has Quebec been for many years a larger producer of creamery butter than any other province, but, says the commissioner, it must be conceded that parts of the province have a reputation of supplying the finest creamery butter in Canada." This is a very proud position to hold among the provinces and one that by every exertion we must strive to keep. Ontario, we know, and that young giant, the west, are apt to regard our province as a sort of what among men is sometimes called a "hayseed." In the primitive methods of some of our agriculturalists, their rude and out-of-date implements and their tolerance of mustard, chicory, mullet and other pestiferous weeds, there may be some justification for the sneer, but, to quote from an American humourist, "there are no flies on our butter." Our cheese, on the other hand is not up to the quality of the Ottawa Valley cheese, and that of the Brockville centre, which always fetches about a cent more a pound than ours. It should be our ambition to strive for the premier position in cheese as well as in butter. In the Maritime Provinces, Prince Edward Island, at present, takes first pace, but the other Maritime Provinces are beginning to take more interest in the manufacture of dairy products, as there is a profitable and growing trade in them with the West Indies. Northern Alberta, Mr. Ruddick considered a very promising district; indeed, he says there are indications that it will be one of the great dairying centres of Canada in the future. There is plenty of room for expansion in butter-making, as, while we supply Great Britain with about three-fifths, or sixty per cent, of all the cheese she buys, our sales of butter to her are a very small fraction of her total purchases.

OFFICIALS HAVE BEEN DISMISSED

Many Appointments of License Inspectors.

The following Liberal License Inspectors have been dismissed by the Ontario Government from their positions, and have been succeeded by the persons on the following list:—

W. C. Cunningham, Sault Ste. Marie, vice James Bassingthwaighte; E. A. Pearson, Fort Francis, vice G. Webster; E. P. Foster, of Dundela, Dundas, vice A. D. Hunter; W. C. Beckett, of Owen Sound, North Grey, vice C. C. Pearce; J. King, of St. Catharines, for Lincoln and St. Catharines, vice R. Powlie; J. Williams, of Arden, Addington, vice F. S. Wartman; F. W. Powers; Hugh Walker, Belleville, West Hastings, vice Jas. St. Charles; W. J. Campbell, of Metcalfe, Russell, vice R. Dow; W. R. Andrews, of Bayham, East Elgin, vice G. E. Harp; A. S. Fetterley, of Aultsville, Cornwall, and Storm st. P. P. Pettit, to be Provincial officer, under the provision of the Liquor license act, for the village of Frankford and Sydney township; R. J. Peterson, to a similar position in Trenton town, vice M. L. Parks; and J. M. McDonald, in the town of Cornwall.

Strangers' Fellowship Meeting.

—The Strangers' Fellowship Club of the Y. M. C. A., held their monthly gathering of strangers at the close of the Men's Meeting. The testimony of a young Englishman voiced pretty well the good effect of the club's work. He said "In all my travels I have not met with such hospitality as that shown by the Y. M. C. A. of Peterborough. I purpose becoming one of you." Other strangers from different parts gave similar expressions.

A REVIVAL IN PETERBORO'

Evidences that it has Reached This Town

Great Meeting at S. A. Barracks Last Night—25 Converts.

Last night there were evidences that the revival which had its origin in Wales during the past winter, had spread to this town, as there have also been evidences in other towns, that revivals were in progress there.

On Sunday in a number of Toronto churches there were signs of a revival, and the indications are that it has spread to Peterborough.

In the Salvation Army barracks last night there was a more than usually interesting time, even for that proverbially demonstrative organization. Brigadier Turner, the Provincial Officer, was present, and in addition a number of other officers, who each addressed the meeting. During the meeting a number of musical numbers were rendered by the band and Captain McMillan.

The prayer meeting which followed, was a lengthy one, continuing until nearly midnight, and the result was that twenty-five persons came forward as evidence of the fact that they were seekers after salvation and holiness.

This marks an epoch in the local corps, and the officers in charge, as well as those officers here visiting, were delighted with the result of the meeting.

A MISTATEMENT IS CORRECTED

Government Will not Pay Cost of Raising Sovereign.

To the Editor of the Examiner.—

Dear Sir,—I wish to correct the misstatements of the Review and Morning Times. The Government have nothing to do with the raising of the Sovereign and we have several offers to raise the boat and pump her out for one hundred dollars and put her in a good condition as ever she was. Hoping you will insert this correction, I am,

Yours, etc.,

ANOTHER CHEQUE COMES TO Y.W.C.A.

Mr. Robert Stuart, of American Cereal Company Gives $2,000.

Opening of New Building Will be Announced in Short Time—Yesterday's Board Meeting.

In addition to the handsome cheque sent by Mr. Nicholls on Saturday, the treasurer of the Building Fund has received one for $2000 from Mr. Stuart, secretary of the American Cereal Company, for which the ladies take this opportunity of publicly expressing their thanks.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board, yesterday afternoon, there was an unusually large attendance, and a great deal of business relating to the new building was transacted. It was decided to have a dedicatory service on a Sunday afternoon at 4.15, and the formal opening on the Tuesday evening following, the exact dates to be given shortly. Throughout the meeting the feeling of the ladies was that it should be a season of thankfulness for the wonderful way in which they have been prospered in their undertaking.

The House Committee report a very generous response from the public towards the building; but still more is needed, and will be very gratefully received.

The telephone has already been installed in the new building, and the office will be ready in a few days. The office has been removed from the Bank of Commerce Building, and anyone wishing to interview the secretary should go to the new building. Miss Lough, the former general secretary, has returned, and will be glad to meet any young women desiring rooms. It is suggested that they make their selection as soon as possible in order to have the better choice.

WILL BUILD A NEW CHURCH THIS SUMMER

Plans for New Church for All Saints' Congregation are in Course of Formation--New Structure will be a Handsome Building--Mr. Belcher Has Charge of Plans for the Church--Present Church Building Will Be Used as Chancel.

The congregation of All Saints' church, having decided to erect a new church building, placed the matter in the hands of Mr. J. E. Belcher, C. E., who has been at work preparing the plans, which at present are in course of formation, and the Examiner saw the draft of the plan this morning.

It is seen by them that the church will be a very handsome structure, and will be a credit to the congregation and to the town.

The present church building will be utilised as a part of the new structure, which will extend along Rubidge, the present building forming the chancel.

The entrance will be at the lower end of the building on Rubidge, and it is only necessary to see the plans even in their present incomplete stage, to learn that the building, when it is finished, will be a decided acquisition to the already numerous and beautiful church edifices.

Work will be commenced on the building as soon as possible, and it is expected that it will be completed this summer.

This is but one of many large buildings which Mr. Belcher is preparing plans for this season. He is working on a number of new residences as well as factory buildings.

HOW NEW FIRE HALL WILL AFFECT RATES

Ald. Johnson, Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee Gives Some Interesting Facts Concerning the Necessity of Improved Fire Fighting Appliances and Shows the Benefit which will Accrue to the Town by Providing These Improvements--The Present Key Rate and How it is Arrived At--The Standard Building the Basis of the Calculation of Rates.

The proposal to erect a new fire hall and provide extra equipment for it in the way of new engines, etc., is one which is arousing considerable interest among the ratepayers of the town, and the present prospects are that when the vote is taken on the bylaw on May 4th, the ratepayers will give their endorsation to the scheme to provide better fire protection for the town.

Ald. Johnston, who as chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, introduced the matter into the council and has since been active in supporting it, was interviewed by the Examiner this morning with reference to the necessity of the new hall. In the other improvements contemplated, Ald. Johnston said:—

"This has been a matter that has engaged the attention of councils in former years, especially last year, when Alderman Edgcumbe was chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee. He took a deep interest in trying to promote the plan of securing a site and a new fire hall. The matter has been taken up at an early stage this year with greater enthusiasm, and with the present council unanimous in presenting the great necessity to the people of having better equipment for the preservation of our property. The present state of stabling for the horses is anything but good, the room for stalls too small, ventilation and the sanitary conditions are very poor."

"It is hoped that the people will give the matter their careful consideration and look upon it as one of the right moves in the direction of getting better rates of insurance, which rates we all feel at the present time are exhorbitant for a town of this size, and the whole thing is blamed on our fire appliances by the underwriters."

"The water commissioners are installing new mains, which will give increased flow of water and consequently make the new fire equipment more effective."

"The present fire hall can be used for purposes which will bring in to the town a good revenue, for $300 or $400 per year can be obtained from it for stores, with a small initial expenditure for fitting it up."

"The direct benefit to the town by having a new hall and the equipment proposed, will be the reduction of the rate of insurance in force in town, and it is believed that this benefit will be considerable. The present key rate for Peterborough is sixty cents, which is the rate for a standard building. This rate is directly influenced by the efficiency or otherwise of the fire-fighting appliances, and in Peterborough is arrived at as follows:—

Basis, .25, to which is added the undermentioned amounts representing deficiencies and representing in the view of the Underwriters Association, a justification for adding to the rates.

Bylaw for storage of coal oil, etc. does not limit bonuse, adds, .01.

Electric trolley lines throughout the business centres. The system at present not used, 01.

Waterworks system is direct pressure, without reservoir or standpipe, water power in duplicate, 02.

Pumps are 2,250,000 each per 24 hours or 4,500,000 total; the standrequires 3,500,000 in duplicate or 7,000,000 gallons total, 02.

Supply mains is single for about 9,400 feet, about 4,400 feet of it only 12 inches in diameter and too small, 02.

Mains—A single 8 inch main is laid through the river bed into Ashburnham, 01.

Hydrants 200 to 500 feet apart in business section instead of not exceeding 250 feet, six in other parts have only one 2 1-2 inch port, 01.

Hose—Only 2900 feet of first-class hose. The standard requires 4,000 feet, 03.

Ladders—The longest ladder, only 65 feet, is too short to enable the firemen to get immediately and easily on top of four storey buildings, 03.

Chemical engine, none, 03.

Salvage equipment, none, 03.

Runners, none for engine, 01.

Fire station, one only—the standard requires another, 01.

Brigade—Steamer engineer and 2 drivers are fully paid men. Standard requires 5 in addition to steam engineer, 03.

Brigade—It can only be called a volunteer brigade, one of the two drivers on street duty by day, 04.

Chief, not fully paid, 01.

Horses not always in readiness in fire hall, two there by day, 4 at night, 01.

Alarm—No fire alarm, telegraph, no automatic general alarm, 8 magneto alarm boxes on streets, no approved system, 04.

These figures bring the key rate rate of Peterborough up to 60 cents while the rate in Ashburnham is 75 cents.

"It will be seen by consulting this table that to carry out the improvements contemplated, will result in the key rate being materially reduced though it will be impossible to tell just what that reduction will be until the Fire Underwriters have been communicated with.

"It may be interesting to know just what, in the estimation of the Underwriters constitutes a standard building, and the following paragraph from the pamphlet issued by the Association will enlighten those who do not understand the meaning of the term:

A standard building is one having walls of brick or stone, (brick preferred) not less than 12 inches thick at top story, (16 inches if stone) extending through and 36 inches above roof, in parapet, and coped, and increasing four inches in thickness for each story below to the ground — the increased thickness of each story to be utilised for beam ledges. Ground floor area not over 2500 square feet, (say 25 x 100), height not over three stories, or forty feet, floors of two inch plank, (three inches better) covered by seven-eighth or one inch flooring, crossing diagonally, with waterproof paper or approved fire resisting material between (if tin or sheet iron between see deductions,) wooden beams, girders and wooden story posts and pillars, 12 inches thick or protected iron columns; elevators, stairways, etc., cut off by brick walls or by plaster on metallic studs or lathing; communication at each floor, protected with approved tin covered doors, and fire proof sills; windows and doors on exposed sides protected by approved tin covered doors and shutters; walls of flues not less than eight inches in thickness, to be lined with fire brick, well-burned clay or cast iron, and throat capacity not less than 96 square inches, if steam boilers are used; all floor timbers to be trimmed, at least four inches from outside of flue; heated by steam, lighted by gas; cornices of incombustible materials; roof of slate, metal or tile; if partitions are hollow or walls are furred off there must be fire stops at each floor.

"It need scarcely be said that no buildings in town comply in every respect with the requirements of this standard building specification, consequently in no building is the rate as low as 60 cents. The other items which go to increase the cost of insurance above the key rate, however, are largely, if not altogether, in the hands of the owners and tenants to remedy, and the only responsibility the town has is with reference to the key rate, which can be reduced if the equipment for fire protection is increased in efficiency.

"It is to be hoped in view of the great importance to the town, that the ratepayers will recognise the necessity for providing better protection and vote for the bylaw on May 4th."

THREE TEAMS FOR THE CITY LEAGUE

Peterborough H. T. A. S. and Auburns Ready to Enter.

It looks now as if the proposed City Baseball League would be a "go". Three teams have already organized and are prepared to enter, viz.—T. A. S., Peterborough H., and Auburns. The proposal is to form a four-team league and another nine is needed to complete it. With four good teams in the league it should prove a success, and there should be no difficulty in picking up enough players to form another team and make it as assured success. The T. A. S. and Auburns are not very highly satisfied with their treatment in the Kawartha League last year, and are anxious to form the City League, while Manager McKiwan, of the Midland League team will have a good bunch of players left after he has chosen his first team, and will place them in the City League.

In the past, City Baseball Leagues have proven to be successful and the prospects look bright for a successful season in 1905.

It is probable that a meeting will be held in the near future to discuss the formation of the league, when it is expected that the different teams desiring to enter the league will be represented.

BOWLING-ON-THE-GREEN.

This evening the annual meeting of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club will be held in the Ontario Bank chambers, when the election of officers will take place. All bowlers are asked to be present.

BASEBALL.

The Port Hope Guide says:—"Bowmanville have not yet decided to enter the Midland League. They are thinking of playing independent ball, but chances are that Eddie Weeks and Pethick will both be on hand on Good Friday to apply for admission.

• • • •

Oshawa will be in the game hot this season, but Cobourg is still worrying over that jolt that the executive handed them out last year, and President Crawford may be called upon to administer a little taffy to the easterners as kind of an inducement.

• • • •

The Port Hope umpires will ask for $4 and hotel expenses for games in the frontier towns and $3 and hotel expenses for games in Peterborough and Lindsay.

• • • •

The Lindsay Post says:—"Reddy" Lamont, who last year played shortstop for the Peterborough team, has signed with the St. Mary's team, of Toronto, and will be found on their line-up for the season.

• • • •

The Lindsay team are evidently a hard lot to get along with, even their manager has trouble with them, as is evidenced by the following from the Lindsay Post:—

The Lindsay seniors will do business again this season—that much was definitely settled at a meeting of baseball lovers held in the Y.M.C.A. last Friday night. About 35 were present, but many who should have made it a point to be on hand were absent.

Dr. White was voted to the chair and in his introductory remarks he alluded to the successful career of Lindsay's crack team last season, which culminated in the capture of the district pennant. He saw no good reason why the same feat might not be repeated this season. All had not been plain sailing last year, as a number of players had given no little trouble by refusing to turn out to practise at times and he hoped this would not occur again. It was the duty of players to be courteous to the management at all times and under all circumstances.

Mr. W. H. Simpson, last year's manager, expressed surprise at the absence of a number of last year's team and added, "That's the way they play ball." He would like to see a good team take the field again for Lindsay, but the "kicking" indulged in last year by some of the players would have to be cut out entirely. Players must be on hand and the games begin on time.

DECIDE ON MERITS OF CASE

Decision Arrived At By Dominion On Manitoba's Boundaries.

NO OUTSIDE INFLUENCES

The Order in Council Submitted to Parliament—Report Recommends the Extension Northward — Running Rights for the Intercolonial Over the C. A. R.—Three Speeches in Autonomy Bill Debate.

Ottawa, April 4.—It is quite evident from the documents which were submitted to Parliament yesterday that the Dominion Government reached a conclusion in the matter of Manitoba's boundaries irrespective of any outside influences, and solely upon the merits of the case. The papers in question consist of a copy of the memorial of the Manitoba Government and the reply of Sir Wilfrid and his colleagues thereto. The Manitoba Executive asked for an extension of the boundaries of the Province, so as to comprise a portion of the territory to the west of Manitoba and northwest to Hudson's Bay. To this the reply of the Dominion Government and there reasons therefore are embodied in an order-in-council, dated 21st March, 1905.

The People Against It.

The committee of the Privy Council observe that the ministry of the day declared themselves unable to assent to this proposal. Their reasons are embodied in a minute of the Privy Council, dated 1st April, 1884, and the committee further submit that all the information in their hands or available indicates that the people occupying the strip of territory in question may be said to be unanimously and determinedly opposed to being united with the Province of Manitoba. But the committee proposes a conference at a later date re extending the boundaries of Manitoba northward, to which the objections of a westerly extension do not seem to apply, and the committee recommends such extension northward.

I. C. R. and C. A. R.

By way of preface to the autonomy debate, Sir Wilfrid Laurier informed the House yesterday that the Government would this session introduce legislation to give the Intercolonial running rights over the Canada Atlantic Railway, which extends from Coteau to the Georgian Bay. The Government's intention to make it the subject of a general act rather suggests that running rights will not be confined to one railway.

The Autonomy Debate.

The debate on the Alberta bill was participated in by three members, Dr. Roche of Marquette and Mr. GeorgeH. Perley of Argenteuil, for the Opposition, and Mr. D. D. McKenzie of Cape Breton for the Government. The event of the day's discussion was Mr. Perley's approval of the present Northwest schools and his declaration that the present educational clause is fair and equitable. He tempered this defection, however, with the statement that the bill should be held over a year, until the Dominion's powers were defined. Mr. McKenzie, who is one of the excellent new members from the east, made a constitutional argument in favor of the Government's proposal. Dr. Roche opposed the bill from the Opposition standing.

Other Bills in Committee.

A lengthy discussion took place in committee on the bill to incorporate the Trusts Guarantee & Trust Co., Mr. Foster and Mr. Borden criticising it and offering several suggestions. A number of minor amendments were made and progress reported.

The bill giving an extension of time to the Richmond & Drummond Fire Insurance Co. was carried after Hon. Mr. Fielding had uttered a warning against too liberal treatment for companies that had not capital at hand when they were granted charters.

The bill to incorporate the Crown Casualty Co. of Canada was passed through the final stages.

Pepper is Adulterated.

Ottawa, April 4.—The Inland Revenue Department has been inspecting some flour samples and found no adulteration. A report just issued by the Department shows great adulteration of black and white pepper. The adulteration of black pepper is greater than white pepper. Out of 60 samples of black pepper, 31 were adulterated, 7 doubtful and 22 genuine. Of 26 samples of white pepper, 10 were adulterated, 13 genuine, and three doubtful.

Kidney Disease for Twenty Years.

Mrs. Caswell Reid, Orrville, Muskoka, Ont., writes:—"For nearly 20 years I was troubled with kidney disease, and have recently been completely cured by using three boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I have tried a great many remedies, but never seemed to get anything to do me so much good until I used these pills."

Have Got the Money, Too.

St. Petersburg, April 3.—It is announced that the internal loan has been so largely subscribed that applicants will be allotted only 40 per cent.

To Examine British Claims.

St. Petersburg, April 3.—M. De Martens, recently a member of the International Conference on the status of hospital ships, has been appointed to examine claims for compensation growing out of the sinking of the British ship Nipsang.

Favors Canada's Proposals.

London, April 4.—(C. A. P.)—Hon. Mr. Deakin, late Premier of Australia, asking to give his views on a preference, in replying to the question whether he was prepared to advocate a preference to the United Kingdom without waiting for any return, said he favored action similar to that of Canada. He also said he did not favor any general reduction of duties upon British goods unless they occur on the Canadian plan.

Three Out of Four Unopposed.

Montreal, April 4.—The Gouin ministry got a pretty good send-off yesterday three out of the four ministers having been returned by acclamation. Hon. Messrs. Tessier in Rimouski, Roy in Kamouraska and Tourgeon in Bellechasse were returned unopposed. Premier Gouin in St. James has Albert St. Martin, a court stenographer, as his opponent.

J. W. Baumann Dead.

Hamilton, Ont., April 4.—Prof. J. W. Baumann, the well-known violinist and musician, died of paralysis at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday morning. He had been ill for some time. He was 56 years of age and unmarried. Deceased was a native of Germany but had lived in Canada many years.

Mr. Sifton in Toronto.

Toronto, April 4.—Hon. Clifford Sifton spoke for half an hour at the Canadian Club luncheon yesterday upon the advantages possessed by Canada and the possibilities of the next five years.

Colds

How often you hear it remarked "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that a cold, however slight, should not be disregarded.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

has gained its great popularity and extensive sale by its prompt cures of this most common ailment. It always cures and is pleasant to take. It counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia.

43 HORSES MEET DEATH.

Toronto City Dairy Company's Loss is Over $10,000.

Toronto, April 4.—Probably the most destructive fire in the history of Toronto, in so far as the loss of horses is concerned, was that which visited the City Dairy Co.'s stables in the rear of 8 Russell street, last night. No less than 41 animals succumbed either to flames or pungent smoke, while of the four rescued, two had to be afterwards despatched, making a loss of 43, all told. The value of the animals is estimated to have been about $8,000. There will be a further property loss of over $2,000.

Nova Scotia's Estimates.

Halifax, N. S., April 4.—Premier Murray, in the Legislature yesterday brought down the estimates. The revenue is placed at $1,299,477, and the expenditures at $1,293,955, making an estimated surplus of $5.52, as against an actual surplus last year amounting to more than $22,000. The revenue from mines is estimated at $490,000, which together with the Dominion subsidy of $320,000, makes up the bulk of the revenue. The chief items of expenditure are education $275,000, and debenture interest $272,598. The next largest item is public charities $166,000. The capital expenditure is placed at $113,400; $103,000 of that amount is put down to highway bridges.

Aged Woman Cremates Herself.

Portland, Ore., April 4.—After building a bonfire of magazines and papers in a cabbage patch near her home, Mrs. Charles Hemmers saturated her clothing with kerosene, and igniting them from the fire, deliberately burned herself to death. Mrs. Hemmers was the aged wife of a farmer living at Orient, a small place a few miles east of this city. Mrs. Hemmers made a previous attempt to kill herself a few years ago in the Sutro Baths at San Francisco, after having been deserted by a former husband. Ever since that event she is said to have been a sufferer from melancholia.

New Panama Commission.

Washington, April 4.—The personnel of the new Isthmian Canal Commission is as follows: Theodore P. Shonts, chairman; Charles E. Magoon, Governor of canal zone; John F. Wallace, chief engineer; Rear Admiral M. T. Endicott, U. S. N.; Brigadier General Peter C. Hains, U. S. A., retired; Col. Oswald M Ernst, corps engineers, U. S. A.; Benjamin M. Harrod. The president has made an order allowing a salary of $7,500, with traveling expenses, to each, and to the chairman the additional compensation of $22,500; to the chief engineer, $10,000.

Death of Capt. Chartrand.

Kingston, April 4.—Capt. Chartrand, professor of French in Royal Military College, and whose anti-Japanese letters last year caused much discussion died early yesterday morning in the Hotel Dieu, where he had been ill with Bright's disease. He was born at St. Vincent de Paul in 1853. He was in the Red River expedition in the seventies. He was a newspaper writer, and in 1877 joined the French army, serving 12 years. He was the only French-Canadian to attain rank of officer in the French army. He has been on the R. M. C. staff for years.

Calls It a Farce.

London, April 4.—In an article in The Daily Chronicle on "Canada and Chamberlainism" Prof. Adam Shortt of Kingston, discussing the attitude of Canadian manufacturers, calls it all a huge sotsenn farce enacted in the midst of a fairly intelligent people. What Chamberlain really expects to get from Canada as a result of his bribe of a duty in food passes comprehension. It will not make Canada more loyal.

Insane Woman Hangs Herself.

Hamilton, April 4.—Mrs. Sarah Campbell, a patient at the Hamilton Asylum, committed suicide yesterday morning. While the attendant was absent, the woman tore a strip off the bottom of her skirt and swung herself from a steam pipe. She was dead when cut down. An inquest will be held. She had only been in the institution two days.

Four Years for Clarke.

Toronto, April 4.—John Clarke, who had a number of convictions for housebreaking and stealing, was sent to the penitentiary for four years by Magistrate Denison. His pal, Edward Wardhough, got off with six months in the Central.

That G. T. P. Flotation.

London, April 4.—(C. A. P.)—The Daily Mail's financial correspondent says the underwriters of the Grand Trunk Pacific guaranteed loan have apparently been mulcted with 75 per cent. of the amount underwritten.

MAIDEN TRIP OF VICTORIAN.

Arrived Halifax Saturday Having Averaged 13.23 Knots Under Stress.

Halifax, April 3.—The new turbine steamer Victorian, which has been awaited with so much interest, arrived Saturday morning, docking at 11.30 o'clock. As she came up the harbor the wharves were thronged with thousands of spectators. She was boarded immediately by officials and newspaper men, and, after a hurried inspection trip, Capt. McNicol called them into the salon and told the story of the trip. He said the ship had encountered bad weather, and had left Moville in the teeth of a strong westerly gale. Approaching the Newfoundland coast, ice was encountered, in about latitude 47, and the ship was compelled to take a southerly route, going south as far as latitude 42, the track of the steamers bound to New York. She logged, 2508 between Moville and Halifax, and was 7 days 22 hours and 50 minutes on the voyage. The average speed was 13.23 knots per hour, and the best hour's run was 16 1-2 knots.

Wonders of the Wireless.

The Marconi system worked well, and through it the ship was kept constantly supplied with the news of the world. The system worked directly for about 120 miles, and by using the steamer Campania as a medium to reach the Lucania, a distance of over 300 miles was had. They were in conversation with the Celtic and St. Paul for two days, and it was from the former that all details of the Parisian accident were heard, and this was later verified from the Tunisian. When they picked up the Tunisian that steamer was about 19 miles south of them, and they kept in touch for a distance of 167 miles.

The steamer brought 1,470 passengers, of which 92 were first and 470 were second cabin passengers, the remainder being third-class.

Kept Home From School

WITH COUGHS AND COLDS, AND PARENTS ARE PROVING THE WONDERFUL CURATIVE POWER OF

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

When grown people neglect their ailments and allow them to develop into serious diseases they have no one to blame but themselves.

With children it is different, because they do not realize the seriousness of a neglected cold nor the means of obtaining a cure, and many a child as he grows older and finds himself a victim of pneumonia, consumption, bronchitis, asthma or throat trouble, cannot but see that his parents were responsible for neglecting treatment when his ailment began in the form of a cold.

To-day the schools have many a vacant seat on account of coughs and colds, and many children who are there should be at home. What treatment are those children getting? Do their parents realize the seriousness of neglecting to cure a cold? Have they proved the merits of Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for coughs and colds, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, and all kindred ills?

Very many have, for there is no preparation for throat and lung diseases that has anything like the sale of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

Mrs. Wm. Ball, Bracebridge, Ont., writes: "I can heartily recommend Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for all forms of colds, and I think that if every family would use it for their little ones it would save lots of worry and expense, as I find it prompt and lasting in its effects.

"My three youngest boys had whooping cough this winter and we could get nothing to help them until I sent for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It arrested the coughs at once and they kept on improving until they were cured, at a cost of one dollar. That was not a large bill for so dangerous and distressing an ailment."

Be careful when you buy to see that the portrait and signature of Dr. Chase is on the wrapper. If you send the children to the store warn them not to accept any imitation or substitute. Children like to take Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and there is no remedy so prompt and effective; 25 cents a bottle; family size, three times as much, 60 cents; at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

NOT JUST AS GOOD

Did you ever inquire at a store for certain articles and get for a reply "We have something just as good"? Did it ever occur to you that "Something just as good" is something the dealer has been able to buy much cheaper than the articles you inquire for? This is true in drugs, fabrics, groceries, hardware, and in fact every line, including silver-plated ware. If you inquire for 1847 Rogers Bros.' Knives, Forks or Spoons, don't accept any bogus Rogers' stamp because your dealer tells you it's just as good.

CHAPTER XI.

I HAVE seen many beautiful things in my life, as happens to every one living in a world which hath little fault as to its appearance, if one can outlook the shadow which his own selfishness of sorrow and disappointment may cast before him, but it seemed that evening, when I saw Mary Cavendish dressed for the governor's ball, that she was the crown of all.

I verily believe that never since the world was made, not even that beautiful first woman who comprehended in herself all those witcheries of her sex which have been ever since to our rapture and undoing, not even Eve when Adam first saw her in paradise, nor Helen, nor Cleopatra, nor any of those women whose faces have made powers of them and given them niches in history, were as beautiful as Mary Cavendish that night. And I doubt if it were because she was beheld by the eyes of a lover.

I verily believe that I saw aright and gave her beauty no glamour because of my fondness for her, for not one whit more did I love her in that splendor than in her plainest gown. But, oh, when she stood before her grandmother and me and a concourse of slaves all in a ferment of awe and admiration, with flashings of white teeth and upheavals of eyes and flingings aloft of hands in half savage gesticulation, and courtesied and turned herself about in innocent delight at her own loveliness, and yet with the sweetest modesty and apology that she was knowing to it! That stuff which had been sent to my Lady Culpeper and which had been intercepted ere it reached her was of a most rich and wonderful kind.

The blue of it was like the sky, and through it ran the gleam of silver in a flower pattern, and a great string of pearls gleamed on her bosom, and never was anything like that mixture of triumph in and abashedness before her own exceeding beauty and her perception of it in our eyes in her dear and lovely face. She looked at us and actually shrank a little, as if our admiration were something of an affront to her maiden modesty, and blushed, and then she laughed to cover it and swept a courtesy in her circling shimmer of blue and tossed her head and flirted a little fan, which looked like the wing of a butterfly, before her face.

Mary flirting a fan

"Well, how do you like me, madam?" said she to her grandmother. "And am I fine enough for the governor's ball?"

Madam Cavendish gazed at her with that rapture of admiration in a beloved object which can almost glorify age to youth. She called Mary to her and stroked the rich folds of her gown; she straightened a flutter of ribbon. "'Tis a fine stuff of the gown," she said, "and blue was always my color. I was married in it. 'Tis fine enough for the governor's wife, or the queen, for that matter."

She pulled out a fold so that a long trail of silver flowers caught the light and gleamed like frost. No misgivings and no suspicions she had, and none by that time had Mary, believing as she did that her sister had bought all that bravery for her and that it was hers by right, and only troubled by the necessity of secrecy with her grandmother lest she discover for what purpose her own money had been spent. But Catherine eyed her with such exceedingly worshipful love, admiration and yet distress that even I pitied her.

Catherine herself that night did no discredit to her beauty, her dress being, though it was an old one, as rich as Mary's, of her favorite green with a rose pattern broidered on the front of it, and a twist of green gauze in her fair hair, and that same necklace of green stones which she had shown me in the morning around her long throat, and her long, milky white arms hanging at her sides in the green folds of her gown, and that pale radiance of perfection in her every feature that made many call her the pearl of Virginia, though, as I have said before, she had no lovers. She and Mary were going to the ball, and a company of black servants with them. As for me, balls were out of the question for a convict tutor, and I knew it, and so did they. But suddenly, to my great amazement, Madam Cavendish turned to me: "And wherefore are you not dressed for the ball, Master Wingfield?" she said.

I stared at her, as did also Catherine and Mary, almost as if they suspected she had gone demented. "Madam," I stammered, scarce thinking I had understood her rightly.

"Why are you not dressed for the ball?" she repeated.

"Madam," I said, "pardon me, but you are well acquainted with the fact that I am not a welcome guest at the governor's ball."

"And wherefore?" cried she impetuously.

"Wherefore, madam?"

Mary and Catherine both looked palely at their grandmother, not knowing what had come to her.

"Madam," I said, "do you forget?"

"I forget not that you are the oldest son and heir of one of the best families in England and as good a gentleman as the best of them," she cried out. "That I do not forget, and I would have you go to the ball with my granddaughters. Put on thy plum colored velvet suit, Harry, and order thy horse saddled."

For the first time I seemed to understand that Madam Judith Cavendish had, in spite of her wonderful powers of body and mind, somewhat of the childishness of age, for as she looked at me the tears were in her stern eyes, and a flush was on the ivory white of her face, and her tone had that querulousness in it which we associate with childhood which cannot have its own will.

"Madam," I said gently, "you know that it is not possible for me to do as you wish, and also that my days of gayeties are past, though not to my regret, and that I am looking forward to an evening with my books, which, when a man gets beyond his youth, yield him often more pleasure than the society of his kind."

"But, Harry," she said piteously and still like a child, "you are young, and I would not have"— Then imperiously again, "Get into thy plum colored velvet suit, Master Wingfield, and accompany my granddaughters."

But then I affected not to hear her, under pretense of seeing that the sedan chairs were ready, and hallooed to the slaves with such zeal that Madam Cavendish's voice was drowned, though with no seeming rudeness, and Mary and Catherine came forth in their rustling spreads of blue and green, and the black bearers stood grinning whitely out of the darkness, for the moon was not up yet, and I aided them both into the chairs, and they were off. I stood a few moments watching the retreating flare of flambeaux, for runners carrying them were necessary on those rough roads when dark, and the breath of the dewy spring night fanned my face like a wing of peace, and I regretted nothing very much which had happened in this world, so that I could come between that beloved girl and the troubles starting up like poisonous weeds on her path.

But when I entered the hall Madam Cavendish, having sent away the slaves even to the little wench who had been fanning her, with verily, I believe, no more of consciousness as to what was going on about her than a jimson weed by the highway, called me to her in a voice so tremulous that I scarce knew it for hers.

"Harry, Harry," she said, "I pray thee, come here." Then, when I approached, hesitating, for I had a shrinking before some outburst of feminine earnestness, which has always intimidated me by its fire of helplessness and futility playing against some resolve of mine which I could not, on account of my masculine understanding of the requirements of circumstances, allow to melt, she reached up one hand like a little nervous claw of ivory and caught me by the sleeve and pulled me down to a stool by her side.

Then she looked at me, and such love and even adoration were in her face as I never saw surpassed in it, even when she regarded her granddaughter Mary, yet withal a cruel distress and self upbraiding and wrath at herself and me. "Harry, Harry," she said, "I can bear no more of this." Then, to my consternation, up went her silken apron with a fling to her old face, and she was weeping under it as unrestrainedly as any child.

I did not know what to do or say. "Madam," I ventured firmly, "if you distress yourself in such wise for my sake, 'tis needless, I assure, 'tis needless, and with as much truth as were you my own mother."

"Oh, Harry, Harry," she sobbed out, "know you not that is why I cannot bear it longer, because you yourself bear it with no complaint?" Then she sobbed and even wailed with that piteousness of the grief of age exceeding that of infancy, inasmuch as the weight of all past griefs of a lifetime go to swell it and it is enchanced by memory as well as by the present and an unknown future. I knew not what to do, but laid a hand somewhat timidly on one of her thin silken arms and strove to draw it gently from her face. "Madam Cavendish," I said, "indeed you mistake if you weep for me. At this moment I would change places with no man in Virginia."

"But I would have—I would have you!" she cried out, with the ardor of a girl, and down went her apron, and her face, like an aged mask of tragedy, not discolored by her tears, as would have happened with the tender skin of a maid, confronted me. "I would have you the governor himself, Harry. I would have you—I would have"— Then she stopped and looked at me with a nod showing through the yellow whiteness of her cheeks. "You know what I would have, and I know what you would have, and all the rest of my old life would I give could it be so, Harry," she said, and I saw that she knew of my love for her granddaughter Mary.

Then suddenly she cried out vehemently: "Not one word have I said to you about it since that dreadful time, Harry Wingfield, for shame and that pride as to my name, which is a fetter on the tongue, hath kept me still, but at last I will speak, for I can bear it no longer. Harry, Harry, I know that you are what you are, a convict and an exile, to shield Catherine, to shield a granddaughter of mine, who should be in your place. Harry Wingfield, I know that Catherine Cavendish is guilty of the crime for which you are in punishment, and, woe is me, such is my pride, such is my wicked pride, that I have let you suffer and said never one word."

I put her hand to my lips. "Madam," I said, "you mistake; I do not suffer. That which you think of as my suffering and my disgrace is my glory and happiness."

"Yes, and why, and why? Oh, Harry, 'tis that which is breaking my heart. 'Tis because you love Mary, 'tis because, I verily believe, you have loved her from the first minute you set eyes on her, though she was but a baby in arms. At first I thought it was Catherine, in spite of her fault, but now I know it was for the sake of Mary that you sacrificed yourself—for her sister, Harry, I know, I know, and I would that I could give you your heart's desire, for 'tis mine also!"

Harry kissing Madam Cavendish's hand

Then, so saying, this old woman, who had in her such a majesty of character and pride that it held folk aloof at a farther distance than loud swaggerings of importance of men high in office, drew down my head to her withered shoulder and touched my cheek with a hand of compassionate pity and blessing, as if I had been in truth her son, and caught her breath again and again with a sobbing sigh.

All that I could say to comfort her I said, assuring her, as was indeed the truth, that no woman could justly estimate the view which a man might take of such a condition as mine, and how the power of service to love might be enough to content one, and he stand in no need of pity, but she was not much consoled.

A CLEAN MAN.

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues and fibers in every organ of the body. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh. It doesn't make the flabby fat of corpulency, but the firm flesh of health. It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol to inebriate or create craving for injurious stimulants.

Mr. John L. Coughenour, of Glen Savage, Somerset Co., Pa., writes: "My appetite was unusually poor, and I was as weak and nervous as though I had been starved to nourish. My heart kept throbbing continually and I was short of breath. Finally I wrote to you for advice and you informed me that I had indigestion and a torpid liver. I did not think your diagnosis was right, but I ordered six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' from you and began to use. After using three bottles I began to improve slowly and soon went to work, and I have been working ever since."

"Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe.

ST. JOHN'S RECTORY SITE QUESTION

The Claims and Advantages of the Two Proposed Sites Presented in Brief---Sketch Plan of the "Original" and the "Alternative" Sites and their Relations to the Church Grounds---The Matter to be Considered at the Adjourned Vestry Meeting on Wednesday Night.

The matter of the building of a rectory for St. John's, has been in mind, more or less mistily, for a quarter of a century, but within the past three or four years it has taken more definite form — funds have been collected to an amount that would justify the beginning of construction, and for a long time the question of a site has been under consideration, and also in the hands of a committee.

For a long time the site on the corner of Brock street and Sheridan Terrace has been regarded as the proper place, but the fact that it would cost—including the expense of the removal of the existing house to a vacant lot on Sheridan Terrace, $1500, led to the suggestion of an alternative site, facing on Brock street, and taken partly out of the church grounds. This alternative site would cost nothing, but those who stand for the corner lot argue that the erection of a good building on this site, will enhance the value of the property facing on Sheridan Terrace, and that altogether the advantages would far outweigh the disadvantages.

THE BROCK STREET, OR ALTERNATIVE SITE.

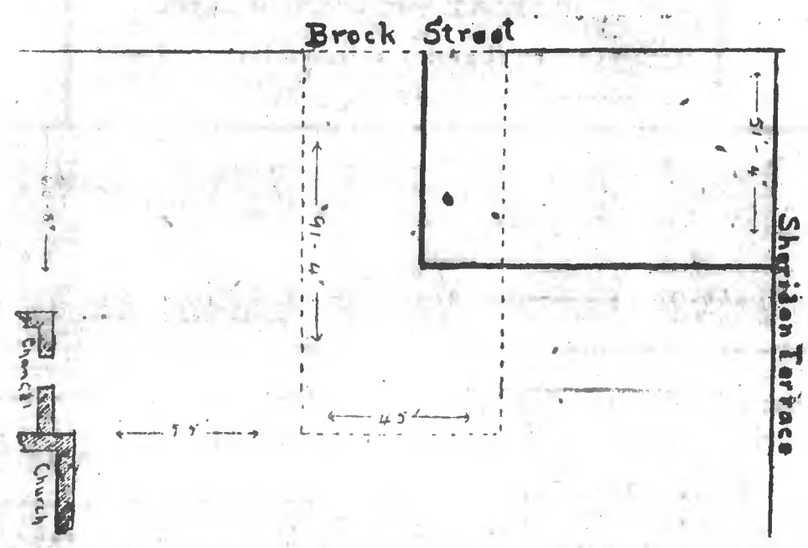
This site is free to the congregation for building purposes; it has, or can be given, a frontage of 45 or 50 feet, on Brock street, by a depth of 91.4, which will bring its south boundary on a line with the rear corner of the church. This site is recommended by the committee, in preference to the corner site. They claim that the advantages of the latter are not sufficient to justify the expense involved in its acquirement. They also point out that the rectory building will be 40 or 50 feet distant from the church, which is a greater distance than the rectories or parsonages of St. Luke's, St. Andrew's or the George street Methodist from their respective churches. It is also claimed that the house will be on the crest of the hill, which will improve the church yard, and remove the present unsightly row of sheds which form the present eastern boundary of the grounds.

If this site is adopted, the windows of the rectory on the north will command, from a lofty viewpoint, one of the most beautiful outlooks in town — Victoria Park. There will also be a fine view from the rectory to the south and west, and if the plan is so arranged, there can be provided two entrances, and if the carriage drive from the western entrance of the church grounds were extended in rear of the church, the drive could be brought to the western entrance and return in a circle. The enclosed circular space might have a central flower plot or fountain, which would add greatly to the beauty of the grounds. If this site is used, the rectory building will be situated altogether north of the north wall of the church proper, and will only occupy 25 or 30 feet in width of the present church grounds.

Reference to the sketch plan given above will give an intelligible idea of the relation of the two sites to each other, to the church grounds and to the church.

The house on the corner of Brock and Sheridan streets will be left standing for the present. It is an old house, and will be replaced in time by a new building. This proposition leaves the whole of the Sheridan street frontage for future building operations, and does not encroach upon the rector's ground rents. Both these sites are good, and apart from the cost, it is only a matter of opinion as to which is the more desirable. As soon as the site is selected the plans will be prepared, and tenders asked for. If they fall within the estimates it is expected that the building will be erected during the summer and will be ready for occupation in the autumn.

A special adjourned meeting of the vestry will be held in the school house at the close of the mid-week Lenten service on Wednesday evening.



Plan Showing Situation and Relations of Proposed Rectory Sites.

The above sketch plan is intended to show the relative situation of the proposed sites for the new Rectory for St. John's. In the upper right-hand corner the heavy enclosing lines show the lot at first proposed, and whose acquisition will cost $1500. The dotted lines show the proposed alternative. It is to be formed by taking 20 feet off the rear of the Sheridan Terrace range of lots for a distance of 91 feet 4 inches, which is the depth of the lot from Brock street. Adding 25 or 30 feet (as may be decided) on the west, and taken from the church grounds will give the lot an area of 45 or 50 ft x 91 feet4 inches. The south boundary of the lot will be in line with the rear end of the church, and the west boundary will be a distance of 50 or 55 feet from the church. The figures and lines of the plan are self-explanatory.

MIDNIGHT BURGLARY ON AYLMER STREET

Mr. Stephen R. Percy's Grocery Visited by Daring Marauders--Gained Entrance by Breaking Glass in Front Door--Store Thoroughly Ransacked -- Much Booty Secured Including Entire Contents of One Show Case--No Clue to Perpetrators has Yet Been Discovered--Matter Now Being Investigated by Police--Believed to be the Work of Organized Gang.

Another of a series of burglaries committed in different parts of the town during the past few weeks occurred last night, when Mr. Stephen R. Percy's grocery at the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer streets, was broken into and goods to the value of $25.00 extracted.

From the succession of burglaries which have been reported from different parts of the town of late, there can be but little doubt that an organized gang is conducting the operations, and it has given rise to no little apprehension amongst citizens as to the safety of their property.

No clue has yet been discovered as to the perpetrators of the affair of last night.

The marauders gained admittance by breaking one of the large panes of glass in the front door and crawling through the aperture. The premises were thoroughly ransacked, the entire contents of one show case having been taken. Amongst other goods taken were cigars, cigarettes, canned salmon, sardines, catsup, cakes and cheese. The evidences left, point to the fact that the perpetrators were disturbed during their operations, as a large box of tobacco which they evidently intended to take, was dropped, apparently as if in course of flight. Left inside the broken door, on the floor, were several large stones. Mr. Percy estimates the total value of the property stolen at $25.00.

The fact that a burglary had been committed was not discovered till this morning, when Mr. Percy paid his first visit to his store at six o'clock. He closed at about 10.30 last night, and left everything in its usual condition. The store was the scene of similar operations about three years ago.

The matter is now in the hands of the police.

SMART DRESSERS
Young men are as a general thing the smartest dressers.
The up-to-the-moment young man is a sort of a lexicon of clothes style, and correctness. He knows what's what and gets it.
But good fit, the newest colours, patterns, etc. aren't enough; for unless that snappy, jaunty appearance characteristic of our excellent Tailor Made Clothing is there, it is not what the young man wants. Our success in pleasing young men is not just "luck". It's due to our knowledge of what the young man wants and our ability to provide it for him.
Our spring stock is now complete and prices always reasonable. Did you ever notice how many young men come here for their clothes? There's a reason for it.

CORRECT NEWS OF THE WAR

Difficult to Obtain Owing to Gen. Linevitch's Brevity—Japs March into Mongolia—Gen. Linevitch Records Only Flanking Movements East of the Russian Position in Manchuria--Renewal of Fighting is Expected Soon---Russian Hopes, However, Centre in Admiral Rojestvensky.

London, April 4.—The correspondent of The Times at St. Petersburg cables: The brevity of Gen. Linevitch's telegrams and the contradictory reports of Russian correspondents render it difficult to obtain a correct version of what is occurring in Manchuria. Some of the correspondents telegraph that the army is retreating to Sungari, others that it intends accepting an engagement near Sipinghai.

Marching Through Mongolia.

The representative of The Novoe Vremya telegraph that there are rumors that the Japanese are marching through Mongolia. Gen. Linevitch's records flanking movements only on the east, and mentions a skirmish between Madrileff's scouts and Japanese cavalry south of Kirin.

Temporary Check to Peace.

The belief is gaining ground that the prospects of peace have suffered a temporary check, although in the opinion of leading diplomats here a certain interval was bound to follow the first exchange of proposals, and it would be premature to say the negotiations had failed. The Foreign Office yesterday declared with special emphasis that the war will continue. This is the first time we have heard bellicose languages from this ministry, though such assurances would naturally be given by the Foreign Office during the preliminary stages of negotiations.

Wives of Reservists Starving.

According to The Rassvet, the wives of reservists who have been drawing relief from the Zemstro of Nijni Novgorod are now starving the Zemstro's funds being exhausted.

Expect Renewal of Fighting.

Gunshu Pass (168 miles north of Tie Pass), Manchuria, April 4.—A renewal of fighting is expected shortly. The concentration of the Russian army is complete, with its advance lines south of the station of Sipinghai (74 miles north of Tie Pass). The Japanese are screening their movements well by means of cavalry, and it is difficult to locate the bulk of their army. A heavy movement seems to be in progress on the Russian flanks. The railroad station at Changtufu (40 or 50 miles above Tie Pass), is occupied by Japanese artillery, but so far as ascertainable it does not cover large body of troops.

Japs Capture Heights.

Tokio, April 4.—A part of the Kalyuan force drove the Russians from Mienhuachieh and occupied the village and northern heights March 31. The situation in other directions is unchanged.

100,000 Chinese Homeless.

Gen. Oku's headquarters in the field, April 4.—There is much suffering among the Chinese in the vicinity of Mukden.

Scores of villages were destroyed in the recent fighting and 100,000 persons are homeless and destitute.

The Chinese Government is now feeding and housing 60,000 refugees at Mukden and also furnishing seed grain.

There is little prospect for good crops this season, owing to a lack of farm animals and implements.

The Japanese are employing thousands of Chinese and paying them liberally.

On to Vladivostock.

St. Petersburg, April 4.—A letter from Vice Admiral Rojestvensky to his wife, just received here, indicates that the departure of the second Pacific squadron from Madagascar waters is final and that now it is on the way to Vladivostock.

Russia Leans on Rojestvensky.

St. Petersburg, April 4.—The statements concerning the prospect of peace sent from St. Petersburg should be regarded with the utmost suspicion. The truth is Russia has the fullest confidence in the ability of Vice Admiral Rojestvensky to inflict defeat upon the enemy, thus completely turning the tide of events.

Temporarily Repealed.

St. Petersburg, April 4.—An Imperial manifesto was published in The Finland Gazette yesterday, directing that, in compliance with the request of the Finnish estates, the military service law for Finland, issued July, 1901, be temporarily repealed pending legislative settlement of the question.

Bomb Thrower Dead.

Loda, Russian Poland, April 4.—The would-be assassin of Police Commissioner Ssabalovics of the second district, who was seriously injured Saturday afternoon by a bomb which was thrown at him in the street, is dead. He never regained consciousness after being shot down by the policeman who arrested him.

Considerable excitement was caused at midnight by two Cossacks, who attacked four pedestrians, killing two and wounding the others.

The Governor-General has prohibited the sale of revolvers. The gun dealers have been ordered to enclose all the revolvers in sealed cases and to hand them over to the police.

Russians Driven From Village.

Tokio, April 4.—A part of the Kalyuan force drove the Russians from Mienhuachieh and occupied the village and northern heights March 31. The situation in other directions is unchanged.

Kaiser Almost Reaches Limit.

Paris, April 4.—The Temps last night says the authoritative version of Emperor William's remarks at Tangier makes it useless to deny the disobliging character of such words, which "constitute almost the maximum short of openly quarreling with France, that William II. could attempt in order to be disagreeable."

THIRTY MINERS MEET DEATH

Terrific Explosion of Accumulated Gas in Illinois Mine.

FIFTY MEN WERE BURIED

Benton, 12 Miles North-East of Zeigler, Where the Leiter Mine is Situated, Felt Explosion — As Main Shaft Was Demolished Only a Few Bodies Have Yet Been Recovered.

Benton, Ill., April 4.—Some 50 miners were entombed yesterday in Joseph Leiter's mine at Zeigler by a terrific explosion of gas, and it is probable that 30 or more of the buried men are dead.

Thus far four bodies have been found.

The explosion, it is said, was due to the fact that the Leiter mines are not worked on Sunday, thus allowing gas to accumulate in the lower workings.

When between 35 and 45 miners had descended into the mine yesterday to resume work a terrific explosion blew the mouth of the mine high into the air. One of the steel cages was blown to the surface from the bottom of a 500-foot shaft. The shock of the explosion was felt at Benton 12 miles northeast of Zeigler.

Main Shaft Demolished.

One miner was killed and four were severely injured at the mouth of the shaft in which the explosion occurred. The main shaft was demolished so that rescue work has to be carried on through the airshaft. This has hindered the work of aiding the entombed men to such an extent that when darkness fell last night only three bodies and one injured man had been brought to the surface. These bodies were found 40 feet from the bottom of the shaft and this is as far as the rescuers had been able to penetrate the shaft.

Dead Unrecognizable.

A committee of the union miners from Duquoeri and other mining towns came to Zeigler soon after the explosion occurred, and offered their aid. The bodies of the dead are so burned that they are unrecognizable.

There was much excitement among miners because there had been a strike of long duration and many conflicts occurred between strikers and non-union miners.

An all day investigation tends to show that the catastrophe was due to the accidental explosion of accumulated gas.

Caught in Wheel Shaft.

Kingston, April 4.—Yesterday morning, Edward Randall, of Gananoque, was brought to the General Hospital in a badly smashed condition. He is an employe in the hinge factory of Cowan & Britton, and was caught in a wheel shaft. His injuries consist of a broken right leg, broken left arm and several broken ribs, besides cuts and bruises. The young man has no relatives in this country.

Woman's Injuries May Be Fatal.

London, April 4.—Yesterday, Miss Ward, whose brother-in-law is J. F. Prettie, bridge foreman of a constructing gang near Paris, was returning home after driving Prettie to the depot. The horse became frightened at a street car and ran away. Miss Ward was thrown against a telegraph pole. She was rendered unconscious for several hours, and now lies in a very critical condition at the Victoria Hospital.

Dies From Sprained Spine.

Walkerville, April 4.—Nine-year-old Alfred Robinson died yesterday as the result of a peculiar accident. A month ago, while trying to keep a loaded wheelbarrow from tipping he sprained his spine so severely that his brain became affected. Nothing that could be done could save his life.

Lineman Electrocuted.

Ottawa, April 4.—Philip Forcault, aged 43 years, for many years a lineman, was electrocuted at Aylmer yesterday by touching a live wire. He was an employe of the Hull Electric Co., and was an experienced man.

Proper Care Lacking.

Toronto, April 4.—"We find that Lillian Mulvaney came to her death by having been run down by a street car at Soho and Queen streets, on March 23, and we find that the proper care had not been taken by the railroad company." This was the verdict brought in by the coroner's jury last night. Coroner Wilson conducted the inquest.

DEATH OF JOHN R. MARTIN.

Former County Crown Attorney of Haldimand Dies in Windsor.

Windsor, April 4.—John R. Martin, for the past ten years a resident of this city, is dead. He was a prominent member of the Ontario bar, and for 16 years was Crown Attorney for Haldimand County. Mr. Martin was born in Ireland 83 years ago. He was a grandson of the celebrated Col. Richard Martin of Connemara, who represented Galway before the union of the Irish and English Parliaments.

Operated on Prince of Wales.

London, April 4.—The Prince of Wales underwent an operation yesterday morning at Marlborough House, the nature of which was not divulged in the official statement subsequently issued, as follows:—"Owing to a slight operation this morning the Prince of Wales will be confined to his room for a few days. As his condition gives rise to no uneasiness, no bulletins will be issued."

Castro is Satisfied.

Caracas, April 4.—President Castro yesterday said that he is well satisfied with the turn of American-Venezuelan affairs and feels sure that there will be no difficulty between the two nations.

Style for Sunny Days and Protection for Rainy Ones

The Semi-ready rain coat is a revelation to those who follow style. The style and fabric are those that would be used in any good light overcoat.

To looks and feeling that is all it is.

By a special process, this stylish fabric has been made absolutely impervious to the rain.

It's a coat for rain or shine.

There is only one way of knowing how good these coats are, and that is to see them and try them on. You can do that any day without being pressed to buy.

BANK CLERK TRIES SUICIDE

Mr. Bert Bowman a Molson's Bank Clerk Shot Himself.

Special to The Examiner

Frankford, April 4. — Mr. Bert Bowman, a Molsons Bank clerk, in this village, between eight and ten this morning, while yet in bed, and while Mr. Collins, the manager, was out, shot himself twice over the heart and twice in the head. He still lives but cannot recover. He says he does not know why he shot himself.

THE PRECIS DELAYED.

Manitoba Government Documents Not Quite Ready for Publication.

Winnipeg, April 4.—The precis of the Manitoba Government's documents relating to the Provincial claims for extension of boundaries was not in a sufficiently forward state for publication yesterday, and the public which was on the tiptoe of expectancy, will have to wait till this afternoon, when, according to official assurances, the document will be given out.

ST. ANTOINE PROTEST.

Election of Mr. H. B. Ames, M. P., Contested at Montreal.

Montreal, April 4.—The petition to annul the election of Ald. Ames, M. P. for the St. Antoine division of Montreal, came up before Judge Curran in the Superior Court yesterday, when a number of witnesses were examined. Mr. Prefontaine, Minister of Marine, who was examined, admitted that the Liberal party had furnished the deposit money for the petitions. The case was enlarged.

SCHOLARSHIP REPORT.

To the chairman and members of the Board of Education:

At the examinations last July, Miss L. Smithson obtained the highest marks in Junior Leaving and Stanley Fife in Pass Matriculation, and hence are entitled to $15 each from Mrs. Nicholls' bequest.

The scholarship of $50 awarded on the results of the Senior Leaving and the Honour Matriculation, lies between two candidates. One wrote on both parts of Senior Leaving, passing in Part I, and failing in Part II. The other wrote for Honour Matriculation, taking honours in all subjects on which he wrote. The first obtained more marks altogether than the second, but the second obtained more marks than the first obtained in that part of the Senior Leaving in which he passed. Your obedient servant,

C. Fessenden.

The matter was on motion referred to the principal to consult with the Department, and report to the Board.

BUILDING COMMITTEE.

The report of the Building Committee was received as follows, and, on motion, adopted:

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:—

Gentlemen.—Your committee begs leave to report as follows:—

The plans and specifications for a new Collegiate Institute which we had prepared, were submitted for tenders in the early part of February, local contractors only being asked for tenders.

These were opened at our meeting on March 3rd, and of the four submitted, the lowest was for $69,700.

As this sum was very considerably in excess of the appropriation at the disposal of the Board we deemed it advisable before making any report to take every step possible to secure lower tenders. The time for receiving tenders was therefore extended to March 31st and the Secretary was directed to advertise in the Toronto papers as well as in the local papers that we might have the benefit of the widest competition.

On Friday, March 31st the tenders received were opened, but it was found that no material change from the figures of former tenders had been secured. (Copies of all tenders are herewith attached).

In submitting this report your Committee desire to say that they have put forth every effort to secure the best possible plans for a Collegiate Institute that would be worthy in every respect of so prosperous and growing a City as Peterborough.

We have submitted the plans for criticism and suggestions to our Collegiate Institute staff and to the Provincial Authorities, and have had our architect carry out as far as practicable all valuable suggestions received.

We have had, moreover, the most expert advice on heating, ventilating and sanitation, so that we feel the plans now submitted are in keeping with, not only present needs, but the needs of a future city such as all progressive citizens of Peterborough hope to see, a city second to none in Eastern Ontario, with a population very much greater than we now have, and a population that will not care to be saddled with a school that was built with no thought for the future.

The plans here submitted, we feel, are in harmony with progressive educational ideals of school architecture, and school accommodation. To recommend plans of which this could not be said would be a retrograde step and altogether out of harmony with every other progressive movement in our progressive city.

We, believing, therefore, that while the lowest tender is considerably above the appropriation of $50,000, a building suitable in every respect and worthy of its surroundings can hardly be erected at any very material reduction of cost, without such an alteration of plans, as would sacrifice much of the beauty, convenience and efficiency of the building, and render changes and alterations a very possible necessity in the not very distant future.

It is well for our citizens to understand that a very excellent feature of these plans is the provision for a large auditorium, for the holding of public addition to the large and well-equipped gymnasium. These are features now found in all up-to-date High Schools and Collegiate Institutes.

In submitting this report, your committee unanimously recommend that this Board take, at the earliest date possible, such steps as are necessary, for the securing of sufficient additional funds for the carrying out of these plans.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

H. P. KENNEDY,
Chairman of Building Committee

The board will confer with the council at the earliest date possible with reference to future action in the matter.

Considerable discussion arose in connection with the adoption of the report. Mr. V. Eastwood thought it advisable that the purchase of the Separate School property be completed, and that Mr. Belcher be paid for work done. He didn't think it best to go to the council this year, owing to the other large expenditures which that body would shortly submit to the electors.

Mr. H. Morgan believed a good substantial building could be erected for $50,000.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy expressed his opinion that the plans could not be satisfactorily re-modelled.

Mr. L. M. Hayes favoured the proposition to confer with the town council.

Dr. M. A. Morrison, as a new member of the board, thought that a mistake had been made in the beginning in figuring on $50,000, points to the large expenditures for site, plumbing, heating, furnishing, inspection and architect's fees, which approximated $33,500, leaving a balance of only $16,000 to be devoted to the building. He favoured submitting the matter to the people, as a building which would be satisfactory could not be erected for the amount of money estimated. He did not think the public would be satisfied with a cheap building.

Mr. Eastwood thought it imperative that action with reference to the South Ward School should be taken by the board.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Mabel B. Harding, tendering her resignation as second assistant of the South Central Kindergarten, to take effect 25th of March, 1905. The resignation of Miss Harding was accepted and Miss Bell recommended for the position.

From Jessie Lightfoot, of the Toronto Normal School, applying for a situation on the public school teaching staff. Received.

From Alfred B. Owen, General Superintendent of Dr. Barnardo Home Association, asking the co-operation of the board in reference to having the town construct a sewer 450 feet in length on Barnardo ave. Referred to the Property Committee.

From the Provincial Association of School Trustees of Ontario, enclosing copies of the proceedings of the above named association at its 18th Annual Convention and asking the board to send a delegation to the Convention at the University of Toronto, April 25th, 1905. The following gentlemen were on motion appointed as a delegation to attend the convention,—W. G. Ferguson, Inspector Walker, W. H. Hill, R. Fair and H. P. Kennedy.

Mr. Davidson was heard requesting that the members of the board attend the meeting of the Philomathean Society, to be held at the Y. M. C. A. on April 19th. Moved by Mr. W. H. Hill, seconded by Mr. Hartley, that the invitation be accepted, and that the board attend.

DESTRUCTION OF THE FINNY TRIBE

"Common-sense" Protests Against Emptying Canal in the Fall.

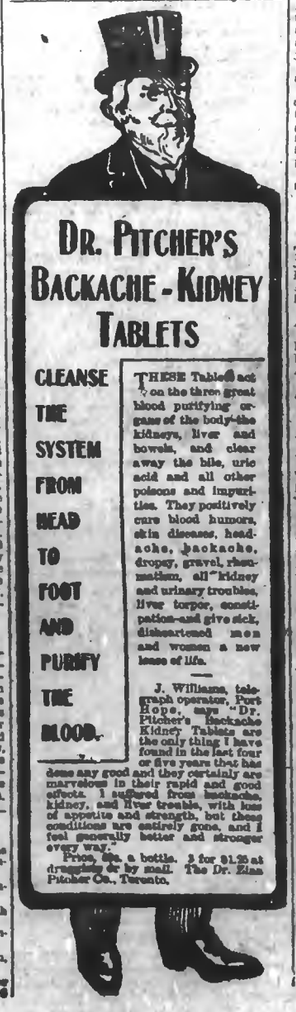
To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir,—I wish, through your valuable paper, to call the attention of the proper authorities of the wanton distruction of fish in that portion of the Trent Valley Canal between Smith street and Nassau and more especially in that part above the "Puddle Dam" and in Thompson's Bay. The cause of this shameful waste is due to the emptying of the canal, or very nearly so, in the fall, so that what water is left is frozen to the bottom thus destroying the fish.

I personally viewed this portion of the canal, and was somewhat disgusted to see thousands of dead fish rising to the surface along the edge of the canal, the odor of which is anything but pleasant, and the numerous gulls were having a gorgeous repast.

It seems to me that this could be avoided by raising the gates on the canal at Smith street and at the high level bridge and thus allow the water to remain and save the lives of thousands of the finny tribe.

COMMON SENSE.



DR. PITCHER'S
BACKACHE-KIDNEY TABLETS
CLEANSE THE SYSTEM FROM HEAD TO FOOT AND PURIFY THE BLOOD.
THESE Tablets act on the three great blood purifying organs of the body—the kidneys, liver and bowels, and clear away the bile, uric acid and all other poisons and impurities. They positively cure blood humors, skin diseases, headache, backache, dropsy, gravel, rheumatism, all kidney and urinary troubles, liver torpor, constipation—and give sick, disheartened men and women a new lease of life.
J. Williams, telegraph operator, Port Hope, says "Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are the only thing I have found in the last four or five years that has done any good and they certainly are marvelous in their rapid and good effects. I suffered from backache, kidney, and liver trouble, with loss of appetite and strength, but these conditions are entirely gone, and I feel generally better and stronger every way."
Price, 50c. a bottle. 3 for $1.25 at druggists or by mail. The Dr. Elias Pitcher Co., Toronto.

"POP" WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Interesting Evening's Entertainment at Y.M.C.A.

Mr. Kenner's Lecture on "City of the Seven Hill's"—A Good Programme.

All previous records were again broken at the Pop on Saturday night at the Y. M. C. A., when the hall and adjoining rooms were filled with a deeply interested audience. Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M. P. P., presided in a most capable and happy manner and expressed his appreciation of the work of the Association of which he has already been a strong supporter.

Miss M. Robertson and Miss Gladys Crane showed marked musical ability at the piano.

The Coleman Brothers sang several comic selections and were warmly applauded.

Prof. Milner gave a piano selection and also played accompaniments.

The lecture by Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, B. A., on "The City of the Seven Hills" was indeed a treat and Mr. Kenner handled it in a most masterly style. During the hour and a half occupied in giving it the audience listened with rapt attention.

The stereoptican views were works of art, this part of the programme being operated by Mr. Jas. A. Fife, B. A., Science Master of the Collegiate.

At the 7th Pop on Saturday night Mr. P. K. Holmes will give a lecture on "Physical Culture" and there will be a good musical programme as well.

Pain Across the Kidneys For Three Years.

Suffered Great Agony. Could Not Stoop or Bend.

"No disease is so quiet and stealthy in its approach as kidney disease. That is why it is so dangerous. It may become deep-seated before you realize the danger.

It is therefore of great importance to recognize the early warning symptoms, because in its early stage kidney disease is easily curable. Pain or dull ache in the back is one of the first signs. So are bladder pains, bearing-down pains, smarting sensation when urinating, frequent or suppressed urination, and gravel or sediment in the urine, etc. You cannot be well if your kidneys are not performing their functions properly. In all ordinary cases of any derangement of the kidneys, a few doses of will put the patient right; in old or chronic cases, the treatment should be persisted in.

Mr. Michael A. McInnis, Woodbine, Marion Bridge, N.S., tells of his experience: "For the last three years I suffered great agony with pain across my kidneys, and was so bad that I could not stoop or bend. I consulted and had several doctors treat me, but I got none the better. On the advice of a friend I procured a box of that valuable life-giving remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, and to my surprise and benefit I immediately became better. In my opinion Doan's Kidney Pills have an equal as a cure for any form of Kidney disease.

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25. All dealers, or direct by mail.

THEFT CHARGE WAS WITHDRAWN

Charge Against Boy Arrested Saturday Settled by Payment of Costs.

The charge of theft of $52 against the 13 year old boy who was arrested in Saturday evening was withdrawn this morning at Police Court. The complainant, who is prisoner's brother, did not wish to proceed with case. The Magistrate consented to this arrangement on payment of costs, which amounted to $16.12. On account of the prisoner's minority, Mr. R. M. Dennistoun appeared for the Children's Aid Society, who are looking after the case.

The Magistrate administered some sound advice to prisoner, pointing to the leniency with which so serious an offence had been treated in the desire to give him a chance to reform, and spoke of the serious consequences which would follow a second offence.

Mr. Dennistoun also added a few remarks as to the policy of the society in sending out incorrigables for a period of hard labour at farm work.

Gordon Long was fined $2 for riding on the sidewalk.

An information was laid by a local shoe-maker regarding the theft of a pair of boots on Saturday by an Ennismore man. The offender will be allowed a chance to return the stolen property before further action is taken.

GUILD MEETING HELD LAST NIGHT

Much Business Transacted at St. Andrew's Guild Meeting Last Night.

The semi-annual meeting of the St. Andrew's Young People's Guild was held last night. At the request of the retiring president, Mr. J. S. Ferguson, the pastor occupied the chair. After devotional exercises the election of officers was proceeded with, when Miss L. Curry, who has been an interested member of the society was, unanimously, elected President for the ensuing six months. A Nominating Committee was then appointed for the nominating of Vice-Presidents, who shall have charge of the various departments of the Young People's work and for the selection of members of the various committees. The committee will report on April 18th which completed its labours last night.

Miss Bryce's singing was much appreciated by the large congregation which gathered at the church Sunday.

ST. JOHN'S Y. P. S. MET LAST NIGHT

Many Interesting Papers Read by Members

An exceptionally large attendance was present at the regular meeting of St. John's Young People's Society held in the school room last night, President, J. Pattie, occupied the chair.

The programme which was pleasingly interspersed with musical selections, was largely composed of papers upon the different aspects of congregational worship. Excellent papers were read on "The Value of Congregational Worship", by J. Bell; "How to Improve It", by J. Pattie; "Reverence" by Miss C. Morris, and "Fellowship", by Miss L. Pratt. Rev. Mr. Tandy also gave a short talk and was given a most cordial and hearty welcome by the Young People. Two pleasing solos were also rendered by Miss D. Sawers. The meeting proved to be one of the most enjoyable in the history of the society since its inception. The next meeting will be held on April 17th, when an address will be delivered by Mr. F. D. Kerr.

RED AND BLUE NIGHT AT Y.M.C.A

Victorious Blues Entertained at Dinner

Fitting Close to Successful Contest—New Members Have Been Added

The Y.M.C.A. membership contest had an auspicious close last night, when those who had been successful in bringing in one or more members, were entertained at dinner at the building.

The score left the Blues the victors by a lead of 40 points. The total being, Blues 1551-2; Reds 1161-2. Altogether 96 new memberships and renewals came in through the contest, the Reds bringing in 54 and the Blues 41, so that while the Blues won because their's included more senior men, yet the Reds, after all, had a moral victory in the number brought in.

The part the boys played in the contest is worthy of note, Donald Shook securing over 20 points for his side. Others stood well in the total.

The men and boys sat down to the tables at 7.15, which were very prettily decorated with Red and Blue and flowers. The bill-of-fare was lastly good of a high order and was appreciated by all—not only by action but by word as well.

After the feast short speeches were made by Messrs. Dorrier, W. D. Campbell, W. McLaren, Fred. Hall, for the Blues and Messrs. Art. Hall and Rob. Dutton for the Reds.

An amusing feature of the evening was the passing around of the "Red Herring".

The gathering concluded with a vote of thanks to the officers and the National Anthem.

DEATH OCCURRED AT UNTIMELY AGE

Gertrude V. King Passed Away Last Night at Home in Douro Township.

The death occurred at six o'clock Sunday night, at the family residence, Douro township, of Gertrude Victoria King, second daughter of the late William King.

The deceased, who was nineteen years of age, has been confined to the house for about a month from nervous prostration, which was responsible for her demise. Surviving her, besides her mother, are three sisters, Jennie, Violet and Frances, and two brothers, William and Samuel, all of whom reside at home.

The late Miss King was a Presbyterian in religion and was a member of St. Paul's church.

The funeral will leave the family residence, Douro township, a short distance from Auburn, on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery for interment.

DEATH OCCURRED IN ENNISMORE

Mrs. Daniel Shanahan Passes Away, After a Lingering Illness.

After about a year's illness from tubercular trouble, the death occurred at her home in Ennismore, of Mrs. Daniel Shanahan, one of the most respected residents of that township.

The deceased was 36 years of age, and leaves many friends and relatives who will be deeply pained to learn of her demise. Her mother, who resides in Ennismore, survives her. Her husband, one brother, William, and three sisters, are also left to mourn her loss. The sisters are Millie and Annie Cavanagh, and Mrs. Jos. Kearney. Mrs. Jeffries, Mrs. Wood, and Miss Shanahan are sisters-in-law, and Jos. Shanahan of Pittsburg, and John Shanahan of Ennismore, are brothers-in-law.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock from the family residence to the Lower Lake cemetery.

THE RESULTS OF SOMEBODY'S CARELESSNESS
What Consequences Thoughtlessness can Bring.
The numerous friends of Mrs. Thomas Duncan, 11 St. Joseph st. will be pained to learn of the serious results of an apparently trifling accident. A day or two ago she had occasion to be in the back yard of her residence. She stepped with her whole weight upon an upturned nail which pierced the leather of her boot and penetrated the ball of of her foot. As a result serious inflammation was set up and Mrs. Duncan has to move, when she can move, on crutches.
This incident points a moral. When we remember the serious results that have come from nails in boards being left pointed upwards so that they can be stepped upon and lame wounds painful in themselves and capable of producing serious results, it would be thought that more care would be exercised. Who has not seen men in ripping up old walks, leave the planks with the sharp points of nails projecting upwards? The passing of even many easily and without being careless, step upon one of these nails and receive a wound which will result in serious trouble, if not, as has not infrequently happened, loss of life from such mishaps.

Child Had Eczema.
'My daughter, 13 years old, suffered from eczema for three years. She was treated by our family physician and used other ointments without benefit. FORMER PASTOR ADDRESSED MEETING

Special Service at Park Street Baptist Church Last Night.

In the revival services at the Park Street Baptist Church, last night, the Rev. O. C. Elliott's first sermon for the week was well received, as was revealed in the fruitfulness of the after-meeting. His theme was Heb. 12.25, "See that ye refuse not Him that speaketh for if they escaped not who refused Him that spake on earth, much more shall not we escape if we turn away from Him that speaketh from Heaven".

God speaks in three ways,—first, in discouragement of sin and sinful practices; secondly, He speaks encouragement to the seeking sinner,—"Come now, let us reason together, though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow." thirdly, He speaks in warning to the impenitent sinner, "He that hath been reproved and hardeneth his neck shall suddenly be destroyed and that without remedy."

These truths were enforced and applied with great tenderness.

Miss Mamie V. Clark sang two numbers in good voice and with much effect.

Services continued every night this week, conducted by Mr. Elliott and Miss Clark.—Com.

CARNEGIE LIBRARY WILL BE DISCUSSED

At To-night's Board of Trade Meeting.

To-night the Board of Trade will hold a meeting, when the proposal to establish a Carnegie Library here will be discussed.

The meeting will be a public one, and all citizens are invited to be present and give their views on the question under discussion. This is a question upon which there appears to be a difference of opinion in town, and those who favour the project will doubtless have some opposition at to-night's meeting.

A despatch from Galt says that the Football team of that town will take a trip this spring, visiting Bowmanville, Peterborough, Kingston and Montreal. This is the team which won the World's Championship at the St. Louis fair, and their visit here should create great interest.

A Problem Solved
Ozone is ozone and in buying it the problem is to get the purest form. "Solution of Ozone (the coupon kind)" is the purest form in which Ozone is put up. In addition each bottle contains a coupon entitling you to a package of "Celery King" free, and it is well known that you should take "Celery King" along with Ozone.
We put "Celery King" coupons in our Ozone bottles because no other firm can give "Celery King" with Ozone. By buying "Solution of Ozone (the coupon kind)" you get the purest and most concentrated form of Ozone, and in addition, you save the expense of buying "Celery King" to use with it.
No other kind of Ozone offers this advantage. Ask your druggist for it, and if he hasn't it, write to the Public Drug Company, Bridgeburg, Ont. Sold by W. B. WARNE, Druggist.

REASON No 24
WHY YOU SHOULD USE
Red Rose Tea
Because it is full weight.
You get a full pound of tea inside the package. The lead wrapping is not included in the weight.
It is weighed by automatic electric machines—machines that never make mistakes (clerks sometimes do), and the tea is poured into the packages after being weighed.
Put a pound package of Red Rose Tea on a scale and it will weigh 19 to 20 ounces, according to the thickness of the lead wrapper; or the tea, poured out, will weigh 16 ounces.
Everything about Red Rose Tea is always full measure—weight, quality, purity, and cleanliness—and your satisfaction will be full and complete when you use it.

THE HARVEST OF WAR.

The horrors of war, as demonstrated by the frightful carnage in the East, can hardly be appreciated at this distance. In Peterborough, if a citizen meets death by violence, or accident, the entire community is stirred to its innermost part, the calamity forms the subject of general conversation, and words cannot be found to express the feelings the circumstances arouse. But we read in the despatches of thousands of soldiers wiped out by shot and shell, or miserably dying from neglected wounds, exposure or starvation; the despatch is read, and there is an end of the matter — cruel suffering is regarded as a matter of course; it is what is to be expected from war. It is impossible to conceive of any person in this community so neglected as to be denied treatment for wounds. If there were the slightest neglect on the part of the friends, or even neighbours of such a person, public indignation would be sternly aroused. It is estimated that in the series of battles which raged around Mukden in the East, there were placed hors de combat over 200,000 men. This number represents the wiping out of the City of Toronto, without leaving enough living to bury the dead. This number is greater than the population of British Columbia; almost equal to the population of Manitoba at the last census, and equal to the average population of ten Ontario counties. Yet, in this twentieth century of grace, the civilized nations of the world not only stand by and see this ruthless slaughter continue, without lifting a finger to prevent, or put a stop to it, but they are busy spending millions upon millions of money to prepare for like slaughter, and withdrawing, in the form of soldiers, millions of men from the ranks of industry, commerce and productive occupations. It is quite evident that civilisation is only skin deep, and can more be said of Christianity?

ELECTION EXPENSES.

In last night's Review is printed, in displayed form, the items of the respective election expenses of Messrs W. Anderson and H. A. Moore, of East Peterborough. By these statements it is made to appear that the election expenses of Mr. Anderson were $656.81, and of Mr. Moore, $26.45. The remark who made that Mr. Anderson's majority was costly, an insinuation that it was the result of undue expenditure. All the items in the statement of Mr. Anderson's expenses are legitimate. For instance, his printing bill was $241, while the printing bill of Mr. Moore was only $2.80. It is apparent that Mr. Moore's expenses have been minimised. He held, it is true, only two meetings, one at Havelock, and one at Keene. Now, the rent of the Havelock hall is not less than $10, and that of the Keene hall $4 or $5. These meetings would require two sets of bills, which would cost more than his entire printing bill, as returned. Yet we have his entire election expenses, outside his personal expenses, only $2.80. If the items mentioned were left out, why not others? Mr. Moore's address was printed in the Review, and this added to his expenses. So that it comes to this, that either Mr. Moore's expenses were unduly minimised, or he practised the dead-head system to an extent unprecedented in the annals of "graft." Mr. Moore's personal expenses are placed at $26.45. This is possible only on the assumption that he sponged on his fellow farmers for his meals and horse keep during his several months of canvass. If he did not do this he must have lived very sparingly when away from home. Mr Anderson's personal expenses were $125, not an unusually large figure, if he paid his way like a man in his canvass of one of the largest ridings in the province. The Review contends that the plea that an election contest cannot be run for less than $500, is knocked out by the fact that Mr. Moore's election expenses amounted to only $26.45. But Mr. Moore was not elected. There's a happy medium between meanness and lavishness in even legitimate election expenditure. A candidate must use reasonable effort to make his personality and his platform known to the electors. If he puts $25 in his pocket and runs his campaign on that basis, he must expect defeat. However well disposed an elector may be to the cause the candidate represents he has some little prejudice against voting for a man he does not know. The Review's mountain in labour brought forth a very weakly mouse.

FOWLER'S CORNERS.

From our own Correspondent)

Fowler's Corners, April 3. — The sleighing is done around the village.

Some of the farmers in this neighbourhood are already ploughing.

Mr. Thos. Tindle's sawing machine is in great demand at present.

Mr. Thos. Johnston and Mr. John Lintick have returned from the woods.

We hear that the young people of the Gilmour Memorial church have enjoyed a series of very pleasant social evenings at the homes of their friends during the past winter.

Mr. Memorie] reports very tough sleighing on Wednesday last. He says he had great difficulty in reaching Matthews Packing House, with a load of hogs.

Mr. John Wright has bought a house and lot in Omemee.

Mr. Jas. Gallagher of Bobcaygeon passed through the village on Thursday.

Rev. Mr. Whitelaw, of Omemee, succeeded in reaching our church on Sunday, but was disappointed at seeing such a small congregation.

PROGRESSIVE RURAL QUEBEC

The Sister Province Probably Leads in Production of Cheese and Butter

Ontario is somewhat inclined to put on superior airs in reference to Quebec, the general opinion being that in progressive activities the province of Quebec is primitive in its methods and generally behind the times. However the following from the Montreal Witness puts a different face on the matter, especially as regards dairy products:—

Before the Select Committee of Agriculture and Colonization, Mr. J. A. Ruddick, dairy commissioner, paid the province of Quebec a very high compliment. He said that the Province of Quebec probably leads in the production of cheese and butter. Not only has Quebec been for many years a larger producer of creamery butter than any other province, but, says the commissioner, "it must be conceded that parts of the province have a reputation of supplying the finest creamery butter in Canada." This is a very proud position to hold among the provinces and one that by every exertion we must strive to keep. Ontario, we know, and that young giant, the west, are apt to regard our province as a sort of what among men is sometimes called a "hayseed." In the primitive methods of some of our agriculturalists, their rude and out-of-date implements and their tolerance of mustard, chicory, mullet and other pestiferous weeds, there may be some justification for the sneer, but, to quote from an American humourist, "there are no flies on our butter." Our cheese, on the other hand is not up to the quality of the Ottawa Valley cheese, and that of the Brockville centre, which always fetches about a cent more a pound than ours. It should be our ambition to strive for the premier position in cheese as well as in butter. In the Maritime Provinces, Prince Edward Island, at present, takes first pace, but the other Maritime Provinces are beginning to take more interest in the manufacture of dairy products, as there is a profitable and growing trade in them with the West Indies. Northern Alberta, Mr. Ruddick considered a very promising district; indeed, he says there are indications that it will be one of the great dairying centres of Canada in the future. There is plenty of room for expansion in butter-making, as, while we supply Great Britain with about three-fifths, or sixty per cent, of all the cheese she buys, our sales of butter to her are a very small fraction of her total purchases.

Strangers' Fellowship Meeting.

—The Strangers' Fellowship Club of the Y. M. C. A., held their monthly gathering of strangers at the close of the Men's Meeting. The testimony of a young Englishman voiced pretty well the good effect of the club's work. He said "In all my travels I have not met with such hospitality as that shown by the Y. M. C. A. of Peterborough. I purpose becoming one of you." Other strangers from different parts gave similar expressions.

A REVIVAL IN PETERBORO'

Evidences that it has Reached This Town

Great Meeting at S. A. Barracks Last Night—25 Converts.

Last night there were evidences that the revival which had its origin in Wales during the past winter, had spread to this town, as there have also been evidences in other towns, that revivals were in progress there.

On Sunday in a number of Toronto churches there were signs of a revival, and the indications are that it has spread to Peterborough.

In the Salvation Army barracks last night there was a more than usually interesting time, even for that proverbially demonstrative organization. Brigadier Turner, the Provincial Officer, was present, and in addition a number of other officers, who each addressed the meeting. During the meeting a number of musical numbers were rendered by the band and Captain McMillan.

The prayer meeting which followed, was a lengthy one, continuing until nearly midnight, and the result was that twenty-five persons came forward as evidence of the fact that they were seekers after salvation and holiness.

This marks an epoch in the local corps, and the officers in charge, as well as those officers here visiting, were delighted with the result of the meeting.

ANOTHER CHEQUE COMES TO Y.W.C.A.

Mr. Robert Stuart, of American Cereal Company Gives $2,000.

Opening of New Building Will be Announced in Short Time—Yesterday's Board Meeting.

In addition to the handsome cheque sent by Mr. Nicholls on Saturday, the treasurer of the Building Fund has received one for $2000 from Mr. Stuart, secretary of the American Cereal Company, for which the ladies take this opportunity of publicly expressing their thanks.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board, yesterday afternoon, there was an unusually large attendance, and a great deal of business relating to the new building was transacted. It was decided to have a dedicatory service on a Sunday afternoon at 4 15, and the formal opening on the Tuesday evening following, the exact dates to be given shortly. Throughout the meeting the feeling of the ladies was that it should be a season of thankfulness for the wonderful way in which they have been prospered in their undertaking.

The House Committee report a very generous response from the public towards the building; but still more is needed, and will be very gratefully received.

The telephone has already been installed in the new building, and the office will be ready in a few days. The office has been removed from the Bank of Commerce Building, and anyone wishing to interview the secretary should go to the new building. Miss Lough, the former general secretary, has returned, and will be glad to meet any young women desiring rooms. It is suggested that they make their selection as soon as possible in order to have the better choice.

WILL BUILD A NEW CHURCH THIS SUMMER

Plans for New Church for All Saints' Congregation are in Course of Formation--New Structure will be a Handsome Building--Mr. Belcher Has Charge of Plans for the Church--Present Church Building Will Be Used as Chancel.

The congregation of All Saints' church, having decided to erect a new church building, placed the matter in the hands of Mr. J. E. Belcher, C. E., who has been at work preparing the plans, which at present are in course of formation, and the Examiner saw the draft of the plan this morning.

It is seen by them that the church will be a very handsome structure, and will be a credit to the congregation and to the town.

The present church building will be utilized as a part of the new structure, which will extend along Rubidge, the present building forming the chancel.

The entrance will be at the lower end of the building on Rubidge, and it is only necessary to see the plans even in their present incomplete stage, to learn that the building, when it is finished, will be a decided acquisition to the already numerous and beautiful church edifices.

Work will be commenced on the building as soon as possible, and it is expected that it will be completed this summer..

This is but one of many large buildings which Mr. Belcher is preparing plans for this season. He is working on a number of new residences as well as factory buildings.

HOW NEW FIRE HALL WILL AFFECT RATES

Ald. Johnson, Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee Gives Some Interesting Facts Concerning the Necessity of Improved Fire Fighting Appliances and Shows the Benefit which will Accrue to the Town by Providing These Improvements--The Present Key Rate and How it is Arrived At--The Standard Building the Basis of the Calculation of Rates.

The proposal to erect a new fire hall and provide extra equipment for it in the way of new engines, etc., is one which is arousing considerable interest among the ratepayers of the town, and the present prospects are that when the vote is taken on the bylaw on May 4th, the ratepayers will give their endorsation to the scheme to provide better fire protection for the town.

Ald. Johnston, who as chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, introduced the matter into the council and has since been active in supporting it, was interviewed by the Examiner this morning with reference to the necessity of the new hall. In the other improvements contemplated, Ald. Johnston said:—

"This has been a matter that has engaged the attention of councils in former years, especially last year, when Alderman Edgcumbe was chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee. He took a deep interest in trying to promote the plan of securing a site and a new fire hall. The matter has been taken up at an early stage this year with greater enthusiasm, and with the present council unanimous in presenting the great necessity to the people of having better equipment for the preservation of our property. The present state of stabling for the horses is anything but good, the room for stalls too small, ventilation and the sanitary conditions are very poor."

"It is hoped that the people will give the matter their careful consideration and look upon it as one of the right moves in the direction of getting better rates of insurance, which rates we all feel at the present time are exhorbitant for a town of this size, and the whole thing is blamed on our fire appliances by the underwriters."

"The water commissioners are installing new mains, which will give increased flow of water and consequently make the new fire equipment more effective."

"The present fire hall can be used for purposes which will bring in to the town a good revenue, for $300 or $400 per year can be obtained from it for stores, with a small initial expenditure for fitting it up."

"The direct benefit to the town by having a new hall and the equipment proposed, will be the reduction of the rate of insurance in force in town, and it is believed that this benefit will be considerable. The present key rate for Peterborough is sixty cents, which is the rate for a standard building. This rate is directly influenced by the efficiency or otherwise of the fire-fighting appliances, and in Peterborough is arrived at as follows:—

Basis, .25, to which is added the undermentioned amounts representing deficiencies and representing in the view of the Underwriters' Association, a justification for adding to the rates.

Bylaw for storage of coal oil, etc. does not limit benzine, adds, .01.

Electric trolley lines throughout the business centres. The system at present not used. 01.

Waterworks system is direct pressure, without reservoir or standpipe, water power in duplicate. 02.

Pumps are 2,250,000 each per 24 hours or 4,500,000 total; the standard requires 3,500,000 in duplicate or 7,000,000 gallons total, 02.

Supply main is single for about 9,400 feet, about 4,400 feet of it only 12 inches in diameter and too small, 02.

Mains—A single 8 inch main is laid through the river bed into Ashburnham, 01.

Hydrants 200 to 500 feet apart in business section instead of not exceeding 250 feet, six in other parts have only one 2 1-2 inch port, 01.

Hose—Only 2900 feet of first-class hose. The standard requires 4,000 feet, 02.

Ladders—The longest ladder, only 45 feet, is too short to enable the firemen to get immediately and easily on top of four storey buildings. 02

Chemical engine, none. 03.

Salvage equipment, none, 03.

Runners, none for engine, 01.

Fire station, one only—the standard requires another, 01.

Brigade—Steamer engineer and 2 drivers are fully paid men. Standard requires 5 in addition to steam engineer. 03.

Brigade—It can only be called a volunteer brigade, one of the two drivers on street duty by day, 04.

Chief, not fully paid, 01.

Horses not always in readiness in fire hall, two there by day, 4 at night, 01.

Alarm—No fire alarm, telegraph, no automatic general alarm, 8 magneto alarm boxes on streets, no approved system, 04.

These figures bring the key rate rate of Peterborough up to 60 cents while the rate in Ashburnham is 75 cents.

"It will be seen by consulting this table that to carry out the improvements contemplated, will result in the key rate being materially reduced though it will be impossible to tell just what that reduction will be until the Fire Underwriters have been communicated with.

"It may be interesting to know just what, in the estimation of the Underwriters constitutes a standard building, and the following paragraph from the pamphlet issued by the Association will enlighten those who do not understand the meaning of the term:

A standard building is one having walls of brick or stone, (brick preferred) not less than 12 inches thick at top story. (16 inches if stone) extending through and 36 inches above roof, in parapet, and coped, and increasing four inches in thickness for each story below to the ground — the increased thickness of each story to be utilized for beam ledges. Ground floor area not over 2500 square feet, (say 25 x 100), height not over three stories, or forty feet, floors of two inch plank, (three inches better) covered by seven-eighth or one inch flooring, crossing diagonally, with waterproof paper or approved fire resisting material between (if tin or sheet iron between see deductions,) wooden beams, girders and wooden story posts and pillars, 12 inches thick or protected iron columns; elevators, stairways, etc., cut off by brick walls or by plaster on metallic studs or lathing; communication at each floor, protected with approved tin covered doors, and fire proof sills; windows and doors on exposed sides protected by approved tin covered doors and shutters; walls of flues not less than eight inches in thickness, to be lined with fire brick, well-burned clay or cast iron, and throat capacity not less than 96 square inches, if steam boilers are used; all floor timbers to be trimmed at least four inches from outside of flue; heated by steam, lighted by gas; cornices of incombustible materials; roof of slate, metal or tile; if partitions are hollow or walls are furred off there must be fire stops at each floor.

"It need scarcely be said that no buildings in town comply in every respect with the requirements of this standard building specification, consequently in no building is the rate as low as 60 cents. The other items which go to increase the cost of insurance above the key rate, however, are largely, if not altogether, in the hands of the owners and tenants to remedy, and the only responsibility the town has is with reference to the key rate, which can be reduced if the equipment for fire protection is increased in efficiency.

"It is to be hoped in view of the great importance to the town, that the ratepayers will recognize the necessity for providing better protection and vote for the bylaw on May 4th."

THREE TEAMS FOR THE CITY LEAGUE

Peterborough II. T. A. S. and Auburns Ready to Enter.

It looks now as if the proposed City Baseball League would be a "go". Three teams have already organized and are prepared to enter, viz.—T. A. S., Peterborough II., and Auburns. The proposal is to form a four-team league and another nine is needed to complete it. With four good teams in the league it should prove a success, and there should be no difficulty in picking up enough players to form another team and make it an assured success. The T. A. S. and Auburns are not very highly satisfied with their treatment in the Kawartha League last year, and are anxious to form the City League, while Manager McEwan, of the Midland League team will have a good bunch of players left after he has chosen his first team, and will place them in the City League.

In the past City Baseball Leagues have proven to be successful and the prospects look bright for a successful season in 1905.

It is probable that a meeting will be held in the near future to discuss the formation of the league, when it is expected that the different teams desiring to enter the league will be represented.

BOWLING-ON-THE-GREEN.

This evening the annual meeting of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club will be held in the Ontario Bank chambers, when the election of officers will take place. All bowlers are asked to be present.

BASEBALL.

The Port Hope Guide says:—"Bowmanville have not yet decided to enter the Midland League. They are thinking of playing independent ball, but chances are that Eddie Weeks and Pethick will both be on hand on Good Friday to apply for admission.

• • • •

Ottawa will be in the game hot this season, but Cobourg is still worrying over that fact that the executive handed them out last year, and President Crawford may be called upon to administer a little taffy to the easterners as kind of an inducement.

• • •

The Port Hope umpires will ask for $4 and hotel expenses for games in the frontier towns and $3 and hotel expenses for games in Peterborough and Lindsay.

• • • •

The Lindsay Post says:—"Reddy" Lamont, who last year played shortstop for the Peterborough team, has signed with the St. Mary's team, of Toronto, and will be found on their line-up for the season.

• • • •

The Lindsay team are evidently a hard lot to get along with, even their manager has trouble with them, as is evidenced by the following from the Lindsay Post:—

The Lindsay seniors will do business again this season—that much was definitely settled at a meeting of baseball lovers held in the Y.M.C.A. last Friday night. About 35 were present, but many who should have made it a point to be on hand were absent.

Dr. White was voted to the chair and in his introductory remarks he alluded to the successful career of Lindsay's crack team last season, which culminated in the capture of the district pennant. He saw no good reason why the same feat might not be repeated this season. All had got been plain sailing last year, as a number of players had given no little trouble by refusing to turn out to practise at times and he hoped this would not occur again. It was the duty of players to be courteous to the management at all times and under all circumstances.

Mr. W. H. Simpson, last year's manager, expressed surprise at the absence of a number of last year's team and added, "That's the way they play ball." He would like to see a good team take the field again for Lindsay, but the "kicking" indulged in last year by some of the players would have to be cut out entirely. Players must be on hand and the games begin on time.

43 HORSES MEET DEATH.

Toronto City Dairy Company's Loss is Over $10,000.

Toronto, April 4.—Probably the most destructive fire in the history of Toronto, in so far as the loss of horses is concerned, was that which visited the City Dairy Co.'s stables in the rear of 5 Russell street, last night. No less than 41 animals succumbed either to flames or pungent smoke, while of the four rescued, two had to be afterwards despatched, making a loss of 43, all told. The value of the animals is estimated to have been about $8,000. There will be a further property loss of over $2,000.

Nova Scotia's Estimates.

Halifax, N. S., April 4.—Premier Murray, in the Legislature yesterday brought down the estimates. The revenue is placed at $1,299,477, and the expenditures at $1,298,033, making an estimated surplus of $5.33, as against an actual surplus last year amounting to more than $33,000. The revenue from mines is estimated at $600,000, which together with the Dominion subsidy of $320,000, makes up the bulk of the revenue. The chief items of expenditure are education $275,000, and debenture interest $272,598. The next largest item is public charities $166,000. The capital expenditure is placed at $113,400; $103,000 of that amount is put down to highway bridges.

Aged Woman Cremates Herself.

Portland, Que., April 4.—After building a bonfire of magazines and papers in a cabbage patch near her home, Mrs. Charles Hemmers saturated her clothing with kerosene, and igniting them from the fire, deliberately burned herself to death. Mrs. Hemmers was the aged wife of a farmer living at Orient, a small place a few miles east of this city. Mrs. Hemmers made a previous attempt to kill herself a few years ago in the Sutro Baths at San Francisco, after having been deserted by a former husband. Ever since that event she is said to have been a sufferer from melancholia.

New Panama Commission.

Washington, April 4.—The personnel of the new Isthmian Canal Commission is as follows: Theodore P. Shonts, chairman; Charles E. Magoon, Governor of canal zone; John F. Wallace, chief engineer; Rear Admiral M. T. Endicott, U. S. N.; Brigadier General Peter C. Hains, U. S. A., retired; Col. Oswald H. Ernst, corps engineers, U. S. A.; Benjamin M. Harrod. The president has made an order allowing a salary of $7,500, with travelling expenses, to each, and to the chairman the additional compensation of $12,500; to the chief engineer, $10,000.

Death of Capt. Chartrand.

Kingston, April 4.—Capt. Chartrand, professor of French in Royal Military College, and whose anti-Japanese letters last year caused much discussion died early yesterday morning in the Hotel Dieu, where he had been ill with Bright's disease. He was born at St. Vincent de Paul in 1858. He was in the Red River expedition in the seventies. He was a newspaper writer, and in 1877 joined the French army, serving 18 years. He was the only French-Canadian to attain rank of officer in the French army. He has been on the R. M. C. staff for years.

Calls N a Farce.

London, April 4.—In an article in The Daily Chronicle on "Canada and Chamberlainism" Prof. Adam Shortt of Kingston, discussing the attitude of Canadian manufacturers, calls it all a huge solemn farce enacted in the midst of a fairly intelligent people. What Chamberlain really expects to get from Canada as a result of his bribe of a duty in food passes comprehension. It will not enable Canada more loyal.

Insane Woman Hangs Herself.

Hamilton, April 4.—Mrs. Sarah Campbell, a patient at the Hamilton Asylum, committed suicide yesterday morning. While the attendant was absent, the woman tore a strip off the bottom of her skirt and swung herself from a steam pipe. She was dead when cut down. An inquest will be held. She had only been in the institution two days.

Four Years for Clarke.

Toronto, April 4.—John Clarke, who had a number of convictions for housebreaking and stealing, was sent to the penitentiary for four years by Magistrate Denison. His pal, Edward Wardhough, got off with six months in the Central.

That G. T. P. Pietatiqs.

London, April 4.—(C. A. P.)—The Daily Mail's financial correspondent says the underwriters of the Grand Trunk Pacific guaranteed loan have apparently been lulled with 75 per cent of the amount underwritten.

MAIDEN TRIP OF VICTORIAN.

Arrived Halifax Saturday Having Averaged 13.23 Knots Under Stress.

Halifax, April 3.—The new turbine steamer Victorian, which has been awaited with so much interest, arrived Saturday morning, docking at 11.30 o'clock. As she came up the harbor the wharves were thronged with thousands of spectators. She was boarded immediately by officials and newspaper men, and, after a hurried inspection trip, Capt. McNicol called them into the salon and told the story of the trip. He said the ship had encountered bad weather, and had left Moville in the teeth of a strong westerly gale. Approaching the Newfoundland coast, ice was encountered, in about latitude 47, and the ship was compelled to take a southerly route, going south as far as latitude 42, the track of the steamers bound to New York. She logged 2508 between Moville and Halifax, and was 7 days 22 hours and 50 minutes on the voyage. The average speed was 13.23 knots per hour, and the best hour's run was 16 1-2 knots.

Wonders of the Wireless.

The Marconi system worked well, and through it the ship was kept constantly supplied with the news of the world. The system worked directly for about 130 miles, and by using the steamer Campania as a medium to reach the Lucania, a distance of over 300 miles was had. They were in conversation with the Celtic and St. Paul for two days, and it was from the former that all details of the Parisian accident were heard, and this was later verified from the Tunisian. When they picked up the Tunisian that steamer was about 19 miles south of them, and they kept in touch for a distance of 167 miles.

The steamer brought 1,478 passengers, of which 98 were first and 470 were second cabin passengers, the remainder being third-class.

Kept Home From School

WITH COUGHS AND COLDS, AND PARENTS ARE PROVING THE WONDERFUL CURATIVE POWER OF

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

When grown people neglect their ailments and allow them to develop into serious diseases they have no one to blame but themselves.

With children it is different, because they do not realize the seriousness of a neglected cold nor the means of obtaining a cure, and many a child as he grows older and finds himself a victim of pneumonia, consumption, bronchitis, asthma or throat trouble, cannot but see that his parents were responsible for neglecting treatment when his ailment began in the form of a cold.

To-day the schools have many a vacant seat on account of coughs and colds, and many children who are there should be at home. What treatment are these children getting? Do their parents realize the seriousness of neglecting to cure a cold? Have they proved the merits of Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for coughs and colds, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, and all kindred ills?

Very many have, for there is no preparation for throat and lung diseases that has anything like the sale of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

Mrs. Wm. Ball, Bracebridge, Ont., writes: "I can heartily recommend Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for all forms of colds, and I think that if every family would use it for their little ones it would save lots of worry and expense, as I find it prompt and lasting in its effects.

"My three youngest boys had whooping cough this winter and we could get nothing to help them until I sent for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It arrested the coughs at once and they kept on improving until they were cured, at a cost of one dollar. That was not a large bill for so dangerous and distressing an ailment."

Be careful when you buy to see that the portrait and signature of Dr. Chase is on the wrapper. If you send the children to the store warn them not to accept any imitation or substitute. Children like to take Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and there is no remedy so prompt and effective; 25 cents a bottle; family size, three times as much, 60 cents; at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co, Toronto.

DECIDE ON MERITS OF CASE

Decision Arrived At By Dominion On Manitoba's Boundaries.

NO OUTSIDE INFLUENCES

The Order in Council Submitted to Parliament—Report Recommends the Extension Northward — Running Rights for the Intercolonial Over the C. A. R.—Three Speeches in Autonomy Bill Debate.

Ottawa, April 4.—It is quite evident from the documents which were submitted to Parliament yesterday that the Dominion Government reached a conclusion in the matter of Manitoba's boundaries irrespective of any outside influences, and solely upon the merits of the case. The papers in question consist of a copy of the memorial of the Manitoba Government and the reply of Sir Wilfrid and his colleagues thereto. The Manitoba Executive asked for an extension of the boundaries of the Province, so as to comprise a portion of the territory to the west of Manitoba and northwest to Hudson's Bay. To this the reply of the Dominion Government and there reasons therefore are embodied in an order-in-council, dated 21st March, 1905.

The People Against It.

The committee of the Privy Council observe that the ministry of the day declared themselves unable to assent to this proposal. Their reasons are embodied in a minute of the Privy Council, dated 1st April, 1884, and the committee further submit that all the information in their hands or available indicates that the people occupying the strip of territory in question may be said to be unanimously and determinedly opposed to being united with the Province of Manitoba. But the committee proposes a conference at a later date re extending the boundaries of Manitoba northward, to which the objections of a westerly extension do not seem to apply, and the committee recommends such extension northward.

I. C. R. and C. A. R.

By way of preface to the autonomy debate, Sir Wilfrid Laurier informed the House yesterday that the Government would this session introduce legislation to give the Intercolonial running rights over the Canada Atlantic Railway, which extends from Cotbau to the Georgian Bay. The Government's intention to make it the subject of a general act rather suggests that running rights will not be confined to one railway.

The Autonomy Debate.

The debate on the Alberta bill was participated in by three members, Dr. Roche of Marquette and Mr. Georges H. Perley of Argenteuil, for the Opposition, and Mr. D. D. McKenzie of Cape Breton for the Government. The great of the day's discussion was Mr. Perley's approval of the present Northwest schools and his declaration that the present educational clause is fair and equitable. He tempered this defection, however, with the statement that the bill should be held over a year, until the Dominion's powers were defined. Mr. McKenzie, who is one of the excellent new members from the east, made a constitutional argument in favor of the Government's proposal. Dr. Roche opposed the bill from the Opposition standing.

Other Bills in Committee.

A lengthy discussion took place in committee on the bill to incorporate the Title Guarantee & Trust Co., Mr. Foster and Mr. Borden criticising it and offering several suggestions. A number of minor amendments were made and progress reported.

The bill giving an extension of time to the Richmond & Drummond Fire Insurance Co. was carried after Hon. Mr. Fielding had uttered a warning against too liberal treatment for companies that had not capital at hand when they were granted charters.

The bill to incorporate the Crown Casualty Co. of Canada was passed through the final stages.

Pepper is Adulterated.

Ottawa, April 4.—The Inland Revenue Department has been inspecting some flour samples and found no adulteration. A report just issued by the Department shows great adulteration of black and white pepper. The adulteration of black pepper is greater than white pepper. Out of 60 samples of black pepper, 21 were adulterated, 7 doubtful and 32 genuine. Of 26 samples of white pepper, 10 were adulterated, 13 genuine, and three doubtful.

Kidney Disease for Twenty Years.

Mrs. Caswell Reid, Orrville, Muskoka, Ont., writes:—"For nearly 20 years I was troubled with kidney disease, and have recently been completely cured by using three boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I have tried a great many remedies, but never seemed to get anything to do me so much good until I used these pills."

St. Petersburg, April 3.—M. De Martens, recently a member of the International Conference on the status of hospital ships, has been appointed to examine claims for compensation growing out of the sinking of the British ship Ripening.

Favors Canada's Proposals.

London, April 4.—(C. A. P.)—Hon. Mr. Deakin, late Premier of Australia, asking to give his views on a preference, in replying to the question whether he was prepared to advocate a preference to the United Kingdom without waiting for any return, said he favored action similar to that of Canada. He also said he did not favor any general reduction of duties upon British goods unless they occur on the Canadian plan.

Three Out of Four Unopposed.

Montreal, April 4.—The Gouin ministry got a pretty good send-off yesterday three out of the four ministers having been returned by acclamation. Hon. Messrs. Tessier in Rimouski, Roy in Kamouraska and Tourgeon in Bellechasse were returned unopposed. Premier Gouin in St. James has Albert St. Martin, a court stenographer, as his opponent.

J. W. Baumann Dead.

Hamilton, Ont., April 4.—Prof. J. W. Baumann, the well-known violinist and instructor, died of paralysis at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday morning. He had been ill for some time. He was 56 years of age and unmarried. Deceased was a native of Germany but had lived in Canada many years.

NOT JUST AS GOOD

Did you ever inquire at a store for certain articles and get for a reply "We have something just as good"? Did it ever occur to you that "Something just as good" is something the dealer has been able to buy much cheaper than the articles you inquire for? This is true in drugs, fabrics, groceries, hardware, and in fact every line, including silver-plated ware. If you inquire for 1847 Rogers Bros.' Knives, Forks or Spoons, don't accept any bogus Rogers' stamp because your dealer tells you it's just as good.

CHAPTER XI.

I HAVE seen many beautiful things in my life, as happens to every one living in a world which hath little fault as to its appearance, if one can outlook the shadow which his own selfishness of sorrow and disappointment may cast before him, but it seemed that evening, when I saw Mary Cavendish dressed for the governor's ball, that she was the crown of all.

I verily believe that never since the world was made, not even that beautiful first woman who comprehended in herself all those witcheries of her sex which have been ever since to our rapture and undoing, set even Eve when Adam first saw her in paradise, nor Helen, nor Cleopatra, nor any of those women whose faces have made powers of them and given them niches in history, were as beautiful as Mary Cavendish that night. And I doubt if it were because she was beheld by the eyes of a lover.

I verily believe that I saw aright and gave her beauty no glamour because of my fondness for her, for not one whit more did I love her in that splendor than in her plainest gown. But, oh, when she stood before her grandmother and me and a concourse of slaves all in a ferment of awe and admiration, with flashings of white teeth and upheavals of eyes and flingings aloft of hands in half savage gesticulation, and courtesied and turned herself about in innocent delight at her own loveliness, and yet with the sweetest modesty and apology that she was knowing to it! That stuff which had been sent to my Lady Culpeper and which had been intercepted ere it reached her was of a most rich and wonderful kind.

The blue of it was like the sky, and through it ran the gleam of silver in a flower pattern, and a great string of pearls gleamed on her bosom, and never was anything like that mixture of triumph in and abashedness before her own exceeding beauty and her perception of it in our eyes in her dear and lovely face. She looked at us and actually shrank a little, as if our admiration were something of an affront to her maiden modesty, and blushed, and then she laughed to cover it and swept a courtesy in her circling shimmer of blue and tossed her head and flirted a little fan, which looked like the wing of a butterfly, before her face.

Mary flirting a fan

"Well, how do you like me, madam?" said she to her grandmother. "And am I fine enough for the governor's ball?"

Madam Cavendish gazed at her with that rapture of admiration in a beloved object which can almost glorify age to youth. She called Mary to her and stroked the rich folds of her gown; she straightened a flutter of ribbon. "'Tis a fine stuff of the gown," she said, "and blue was always my color. I was married in it. 'Tis fine enough for the governor's wife, or the queen, for that matter."

She pulled out a fold so that a long trail of silver flowers caught the light and gleamed like frost. No misgivings and no suspicions she had, and none by that time had Mary, believing as she did that her sister had bought all that bravery for her and that it was hers by right, and only troubled by the necessity of secrecy with her grandmother lest she discover for what purpose her own money had been spent. But Catherine eyed her with such exceedingly worshipful love, admiration and yet distress that even I pitied her.

Catherine herself that night did no discredit to her beauty, her dress being, though it was an old one, as rich as Mary's, of her favorite green with arabesque pattern broidered on the front of it, and a twist of green gauze in her fair hair, and that same necklace of green stones which she had shown me in the morning around her long throat, and her long, milky white arms hanging at her sides in the green folds of her gown, and that pale radiance of perfection in her every feature that made many call her the pearl of Virginia, though, as I have said before, she had no lovers. She and Mary were going to the ball, and a company of black servants with them. As for me, balls were out of the question for a convict tutor, and I knew it, and so did they. But suddenly, to my great amazement, Madam Cavendish turned to me: "And wherefore are you not dressed for the ball, Master Wingfield?" she said.

I stared at her, as did also Catherine and Mary, almost as if they suspected she had gone demented. "Madam," I stammered, scarce thinking I had understood her rightly.

"Why are you not dressed for the ball?" she repeated.

"Madam," I said, "pardon me, but you are well acquainted with the fact that I am not a welcome guest at the governor's ball."

"And wherefore?" cried she imperiously.

"Wherefore, madam?"

Mary and Catherine both looked palely at their grandmother, not knowing what had come to her.

"Madam," I said, "do you forget?"

"I forget not that you are the oldest son and heir of one of the best families in England and as good a gentleman as the best of them," she cried out. "That I do not forget, and I would have you go to the ball with my granddaughters. Put on thy plum colored velvet suit, Harry, and order thy horse saddled."

For the first time I seemed to understand that Madam Judith Cavendish had, in spite of her wonderful powers of body and mind, somewhat of the childishness of age, for as she looked at me the tears were in her stern eyes, and a flush was on the ivory white of her face, and her tone had that querulousness in it which we associate with childhood which cannot have its own will.

"Madam," I said gently, "you know that it is not possible for me to do as you wish, and also that my days of gayeties are past, though not to my regret, and that I am looking forward to an evening with my books, which, when a man gets beyond his youth, yield him often more pleasure than the society of his kind."

"But, Harry," she said piteously and still like a child, "you are young, and I would not have"— Then imperiously again, "Get into thy plum colored velvet suit, Master Wingfield, and accompany my granddaughters."

But then I affected not to hear her, under pretense of seeing that the sedan chairs were ready, and hallooed to the slaves with such zeal that Madam Cavendish's voice was drowned, though with no seeming rudeness, and Mary and Catherine came forth in their rustling spreads of blue and green, and the black bearers stood grinning whitely out of the darkness, for the moon was not up yet, and I aided them both into the chairs, and they were off. I stood a few moments watching the retreating flare of flambeaux, for runners carrying them were necessary on those rough roads when dark, and the breath of the dewy spring night fanned my face like a wing of peace, and I regretted nothing very much which had happened in this world, so that I could come between that beloved girl and the troubles starting up like poisonous weeds on her path.

But when I entered the hall Madam Cavendish, having sent away the slaves, even to the little wench who had been fanning her, with verily, I believe, no more of consciousness as to what was going on about her than a fleecon weed by the highway, called me to her in a voice so tremulous that I scarce knew it for hers.

"Harry, Harry," she said. "I pray thee, come here." Then, when I approached, hesitating, for I had a shrinking before some outburst of feminine earnestness, which has always intimidated me by its fire of helplessness and futility playing against some resolve of mine which I could not, on account of my masculine understanding of the requirements of circumstances, allow to melt, she reached up one hand like a little nervous claw of ivory and caught me by the sleeve and pulled me down to a stool by her side.

Then she looked at me, and such love and even adoration were in her face as I never saw surpassed in it, even when she regarded her granddaughter Mary, yet withal a cruel distress and self upbraiding and wrath at herself and me. "Harry, Harry," she said, "I can bear no more of this." Then, to my consternation, up went her silken apron with a fling to her old face, and she was weeping under it as unrestrainedly as any child.

I did not know what to do or say. "Madam," I ventured firmly, "if you distress yourself in such wise for my sake, 'tis needless, I assure, 'tis needless, and with as much truth as were you my own mother."

"Oh, Harry, Harry," she sobbed out, "know you not that is why I cannot bear it longer, because you yourself bear it with no complaint?" Then she sobbed and even wailed with that piteousness of the grief of age exceeding that of infancy, inasmuch as the weight of all past griefs of a lifetime go to swell it and it is enchanced by memory as well as by the present and an unknown future. I knew not what to do, but laid a hand somewhat timidly on one of her thin silken arms and strove to draw it gently from her face. "Madam Cavendish," I said, "indeed you mistake if you weep for me. At this moment I would change places with no man in Virginia."

"But I would have—I would have you!" she cried out, with the ardor of a girl, and down went her apron, and her face, like an aged mask of tragedy, not discolored by her tears, as would have happened with the tender skin of a maid, confronted me. "I would have you the governor himself, Harry. I would have you—I would have"— Then she stopped and looked at me with a red showing through the yellow whiteness of her cheeks. "You know what I would have, and I know what you would have, and all the rest of my old life would I give could it be so, Harry," she said, and I saw that she knew of my love for her granddaughter Mary.

Then suddenly she cried out vehemently: "Not one word have I said to you about it since that dreadful time, Harry Wingfield, for shame and that pride as to my name, which is a fetter on the tongue, hath kept me still, but at last I will speak, for I can bear it no longer. Harry, Harry, I know that you are what you are, a convict and an exile, to shield Catherine, to shield a granddaughter of mine, who should be in your place. Harry Wingfield, I know that Catherine Cavendish is guilty of the crime for which you are in punishment, and, woe is me, such is my pride, such is my wicked pride, that I have let you suffer and said never one word."

I put her hand to my lips. "Madam," I said, "you mistake; I do not suffer. That which you think of as my suffering and my disgrace is my glory and happiness."

"Yea, and why, and why? Oh, Harry, 'tis that which is breaking my heart. 'Tis because you love Mary, 'tis because, I verily believe, you have loved her from the first minute you set eyes on her, though she was but a baby in arms. At first I thought it was Catherine, in spite of her fault, but now I know it was for the sake of Mary that you sacrificed yourself—for her sister, Harry, I know, I know, and I would that I could give you your heart's desire, for 'tis mine also!"

Harry kissing Madam Cavendish's hand

Then, so saying, this old woman, who had in her such a majesty of character and pride that it held folk aloof at a farther distance than loud swaggerings of importance of men high in office, drew down my head to her withered shoulder and touched my cheek with a hand of compassionate pity and blessing, as if I had been in truth her son, and caught her breath again and again with a sobbing sigh.

All that I could say to comfort her I said, assuring her, as was indeed the truth, that no woman could justly estimate the view which a man might take of such a condition as mine, and how the power of service to love might be enough to content one, and he stand in no need of pity, but she was not much consoled.

(To be Continued.)

"A CLEAN MAN."

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues and fibers in every organ of the body. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh. It doesn't make the flabby fat of corpulency, but the firm flesh of health. It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol to inebriate or create craving for injurious stimulants.

Mr. John L. Coughenour, of Glen Savage, Somerset Co., Pa., writes: "My appetite was unusually poor, and I was as weak and nervous as though I had been starved for months. My heart kept thumping continually and I was short of breath. Finally I wrote to you for advice and you informed me that I had indigestion and a torpid liver. I did not think your diagnosis was right, but I ordered six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' from you and began its use. After using three bottles I began to improve slowly and soon went to work, and I have been working ever since."

Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe.

ST. JOHN'S RECTORY SITE QUESTION

The Claims and Advantages of the Two Proposed Sites Presented in Brief---Sketch Plan of the "Original" and the "Alternative" Sites and their Relations to the Church Grounds---The Matter to be Considered at the Adjourned Vestry Meeting on Wednesday Night.

The matter of the building of a rectory for St. John's has been in mind, more or less vitally, for a quarter of a century, but within the past three or four years it has taken more definite form — funds have been collected to an amount that would justify the beginning of construction, and for a long time the question of a site has been under consideration, and also in the hands of a committee.

For a long time the site on the corner of Brock street and Sheridan Terrace has been regarded as the proper place, but the fact that it would cost—including the expense of the removal of the existing house to a vacant lot on Sheridan Terrace, $1500, led to the suggestion of an alternative site, facing on Brock street, and taken partly out of the church grounds. This alternative site would cost nothing, but those who stand for the corner lot argue that the erection of a good building on this site, will enhance the value of the property facing on Sheridan Terrace, and that altogether the advantages would far outweigh the disadvantages.

THE BROCK STREET, OR ALTERNATIVE SITE.

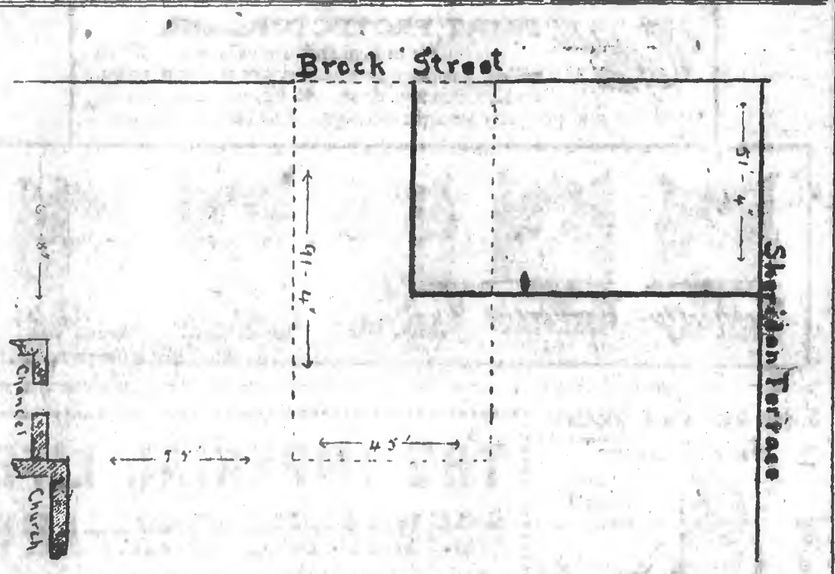
This site is free to the congregation for building purposes; it has, or can be given, a frontage of 45 or 50 feet, on Brock street, by a depth of 91.4, which will bring its south boundary on a line with the rear corner of the church. This site is recommended by the committee, in preference to the corner site. They claim that the advantages of the latter are not sufficient to justify the expense involved in its acquirement. They also point out that the rectory building will be 40 or 50 feet distant from the church, which is a greater distance than the rectories or parsonages of St. Luke's, St. Andrew's or the George street Methodist from their respective churches. It is also claimed that the house will be on the crest of the hill, which will improve the church yard, and remove the present unsightly row of sheds which form the present eastern boundary of the grounds.

If this site is adopted, the windows of the rectory on the north will command, from a lofty viewpoint, one of the most beautiful outlooks in town — Victoria Park. There will also be a fine view from the rectory to the south and west, and if the plan is so arranged, there can be provided two entrances, and if the carriage drive from the western entrance of the church grounds were extended in rear of the church, the drive could be brought to the western entrance and return in a circle. The enclosed circular space might have a central flower plot or fountain, which would add greatly to the beauty of the grounds. If this site is used, the rectory building will be situated altogether north of the north wall of the church proper, and will only occupy 25 or 30 feet in width of the present church grounds.

Reference to the sketch plan given above will give an intelligible idea of the relation of the two sites to each other, to the church grounds and to the church.

The house on the corner of Brock and Sheridan streets will be left standing for the present. It is an old house, and will be replaced in time by a new building. This proposition leaves the whole of the Sheridan street frontage for future building operations, and does not encroach upon the rector's ground rents. Both these sites are good, and apart from the cost, it is only a matter of opinion as to which is the more desirable. As soon as the site is selected the plans will be prepared, and tenders asked for. If they fall within the estimates it is expected that the building will be erected during the summer and will be ready for occupation in the autumn.

A special adjourned meeting of the vestry will be held in the school house at the close of the mid-week Lenten service on Wednesday evening.



Plan Showing Situation and Relations of Proposed Rectory Sites.

The above sketch plan is intended to show the relative situation of the proposed sites for the new Rectory for St. John's. In the upper right-hand corner the heavy enclosing lines show the lot at first proposed, and whose acquisition will cost $1500. The dotted lines show the proposed alternative. It is to be formed by taking 20 feet off the rear of the Sheridan Terrace range of lots for a distance of 91 feet 4 inches, which is the depth of the lot from Brock street. Adding 25 or 30 feet (as may be decided) on the west, and taken from the church grounds will give the lot an area of 45 or 50 ft x 91 feet 4 inches. The south boundary of the lot will be in line with the rear end of the church, and the west boundary will be a distance of 50 or 55 feet from the church. The figures and lines of the plan are self-explanatory.

MIDNIGHT BURGLARY ON AYLMER STREET

Mr. Stephen R. Percy's Grocery Visited by Daring Marauders--Gained Entrance by Breaking Glass in Front Door--Store Thoroughly Ransacked -- Much Booty Secured Including Entire Contents of One Show Case--No Clue to Perpetrators has Yet Been Discovered--Matter Now Being Investigated by Police--Believed to be the Work of Organized Gang.

Another of a series of burglaries committed in different parts of the town during the past few weeks occurred last night, when Mr. Stephen R. Percy's grocery at the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer streets, was broken into and goods to the value of $25.00 extracted.

From the succession of burglaries which have been reported from different parts of the town of late, there can be but little doubt that an organized gang is conducting the operations, and it has given rise to no little apprehension amongst citizens as to the safety of their property.

No clue has yet been discovered as to the perpetrators of the affair of last night.

The marauders gained admittance by breaking one of the large panes of glass in the front door and crawling through the aperture. The premises were thoroughly ransacked, the entire contents of one show case having been taken. Amongst other goods taken were cigars, cigarettes, canned salmon, sardines, catsup, cakes and cheese. The evidences left, point to the fact that the perpetrators were disturbed during their operations, as a large box of tobacco which they evidently intended to take, was dropped, apparently as if in course of flight. Left inside the broken door, on the floor, were several large stones. Mr. Percy estimates the total value of the property stolen at $25.00.

The fact that a burglary had been committed was not discovered till this morning, when Mr. Percy paid his first visit to his store at six o'clock. He closed at about 10.30 last night, and left everything in its usual condition. The store was the scene of similar operations about three years ago.

The matter is now in the hands of the police.

SMART DRESSERS
Young men are as a general thing the smartest dressers.
The up-to-the-moment young man is a sort of a lexicon of clothes style, and correctness. He knows what's what and gets it.
But good fit, the newest colours, patterns, etc. aren't enough; for unless that snappy, jaunty appearance characteristic of our excellent Tailor Made Clothing is there, it is not what the young man wants. Our success in pleasing young men is not just "luck". It's due to our knowledge of what the young man wants and our ability to provide it for him.
Our spring stock is now complete and prices always reasonable. Did you ever notice how many young men come here for their clothes? There's a reason for it.

PREMIER ROBLIN MAKES STATEMENT

Did Sbarretti Meddle With the Boundary Issue?

--Asks for School Changes--Rogers Seeks to Involve Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the Dispute--The Premier, However, is Expected to State on Floor of House That Papal Delegate Had No Rights.

Ottawa, April 5.—Hon. Robert Rogers made a statement yesterday, charging in effect that on the day before the introduction of the autonomy bills by Sir Wilfrid Laurier at Ottawa Monseigneur Sbarretti had asked for a conference with Messrs. Rogers and Campbell, and at the conference had submitted a memorandum, the effect of which, if adopted, would be to greatly improve the position of the Catholic minority in Manitoba in respect to educational privileges.

A Bribe or a Threat?

The Papal Delegate, Mr. Rogers asserts, said that if the proposed amendments were placed on the Manitoba statute books "It would greatly facilitate an early settlement of our mission, the fixing of our boundaries, which would be extended to the coast of Hudson's Bay.

Mr. Rogers argued that Sir Wilfrid Laurier must have been aware that the delegate had made this extraordinary statement.

Government Not Involved.

The charge that Sir Wilfrid Laurier or any of his colleagues had any communication whatever with Monseigneur Sbarretti respecting the boundaries of Manitoba is entirely without foundation. The Prime Minister himself will doubtless make that denial on the floor of the House of Commons.

MR. ROGERS' STATEMENT.

Charges That Mgr. Sbarretti Meddled With the Boundary Issue of Manitoba Improperly.

Winnipeg, April 5.—The following is a synopsis of the charges given out by Hon. Robert Rogers yesterday morning:—

"On February 13 we received a formal invitation by telegram from Sir Wilfrid Laurier to come to Ottawa as soon as convenient. We left on February 14 and arrived on the afternoon of the 16th, when we received a letter from Sir Wilfrid at the Russell House, saying he would be pleased to meet us in his office at midday on Friday, the 17th. During that interview we presented the claims of the Province as urgently and as strongly as possible. In reply, Sir Wilfrid said that if we would be good enough to remain in Ottawa for three or four days he would again send for us, and would then be in a position to give us an answer.

Sbarretti Intervenes.

"In three days' time, on February 20, a letter was received from His Excellency Mgr. Sbarretti, asking for a conference. This invitation was accepted and His Excellency then presented the following memorandum, remarking that if we would place this on the statute book of our Province it would greatly facilitate an early settlement of our mission—the fixing of our boundaries, which would be extended to the shores of Hudson Bay. His Excellency further added that our failure to act in the past had prejudiced our claim for extension westward."

The following is a copy of His Excellency's memorandum, containing the proposed amendments to the Manitoba Schools Act:

"Add to section 25 (B), 'And when in any city or town there shall be 30 or more Roman Catholic children, and also 30 or more non-Roman Catholic children, or in any village more than 15 of each of such classes, the trustees shall, if requested by a petition of parent or guardians of such number of either of such classes, provide separate accommodation for each of such classes and employ for them, respectively, Roman Catholic or non-Roman Catholic teachers.'

"Add to section 48 (B), 'And when in any district there shall be 15 or more Roman Catholic children, and 15 or more non-Roman Catholic children, the trustees shall, if required by a petition of parents or guardians of such number of either of such classes provide separate accommodation for each of such classes and employ for them, respectively, Roman Catholic and non-Roman Catholic teachers.'

"The memorandum speaks for itself."

"Not having heard further from Sir Wilfrid on February 23, we addressed to him the following letter:

"Sir,—As we find it necessary to leave Ottawa to-morrow, we desire to refer to our interview of February 17 respecting Manitoba's claim for extension of her boundaries westward and northward, when you were good enough to suggest that if we would remain here for three or four days you would then be in position to give us an answer respecting same. Up to the present time, however, we have heard nothing further from you excepting your statement in Parliament on Tuesday last when introducing your autonomy bill, which, we presume, represents your fixed and final decision as to our western boundary.

"In view of Manitoba's very strong claims as presented to you in the memorial unanimously passed by our Legislature and supported and supplemented in our interview, we must enter on behalf of the Province our firm protest against your decision in refusing to grant the prayer of our request for extension of our boundaries westward, and exceedingly regret that apparently local considerations have deprived Manitoba of what she rightfully regards as a most just claim.

"Respecting the extension northward, we most respectfully urge upon you that this should engage your consideration and attention during the present session. We, of course, most emphatically deny the right of Quebec and Ontario having anything to say in respect to the extension of our boundaries northward in the Keewatin district, to the shores of Hudson Bay. This district has been so long attached to Manitoba that it is impossible to conceive how Quebec and Ontario, who already have their boundaries north to James Bay, could advance any claim worthy of consideration that would necessitate delay in attaching this territory immediately to our Province. We regard this as exclusively matter for settlement between your Government and Manitoba.

"We sincerely trust upon further consideration you may see your way clear to grant the request we make on behalf of the united Province. Yours respectfully, R. Rogers, C. H. Campbell.

Mr. Rogers went on: "Notwithstanding Sir Wilfrid's invitation and our interview followed by his promise, of which he was reminded by our letter, strange to say that up to this very hour we have no reply to our letter of February 23. What more natural conclusion can be arrived at than that Sir Wilfrid is simply killing time and making pretexts in order that the polite invitation of His Excellency, Mgr. Sbarretti, could be acted upon by Manitoba?

"In this way, of course, Sir Wilfrid thinks he can secure some political advantage for his friends in this Province. This is a palpable political trick which he is quite capable of undertaking, with the view to force the local Government to do something which would be resented by the people and by this means he hopes to reinstate his Liberal friends in power here.

"I for one, promise to take no chances in allowing Sir Wilfrid or any person else to take advantage of us by any underhand scheme of this sort. All I ask is that every citizen of the Province should have an opportunity of expressing his opinion by his vote against the delay.

"I deny the right of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mgr. Sbarretti to undertake to mix up the matter of separate schools with that of extension of our boundaries. I am sure in so doing they do not reflect the wishes of either the Roman Catholics or Protestants in the Province. It ill becomes The Globe to make this charge against the Government of Manitoba, when the only persons affected are Sir Wilfrid and His Excellency Mgr. Sbarretti.

"We have no desire in Manitoba for any double-dealing about this or any other question. This, however, appears to be a favorite course with Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Relations With the Vatican.

Mr. Rogers then went on to discuss at considerable length the relations and negotiations had by Sir Wilfrid Laurier with the Vatican over the settlement of the Manitoba school question, which were conducted through the Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick and Charles Russell, showing that Sir Wilfrid had assured the Vatican at that time that the question was by no means settled—Mr. Russell, the Canadian legal representative, using the following words to Cardinal Rampolla:

"We do not solicit His Holiness to sanction as perfect the concessions obtained, but that in his wisdom he will be pleased to regard them as a beginning of justice."

Mr. Rogers continued as follows: "Now this, to my mind, is conclusive that Sir Wilfrid, in combination with Mgr. Sbarretti had hoped by their present course to carry out a promise given through their accredited representative, Charles Russell, in this underhand way.

"In view of the foregoing I am sure that Sr Wilfrid Laurier owes it to the people of this Province to give at once the same reason why we are not entitled to immediate consideration and action, other than the flimsy excuse which he has himself already created in his invitation to Premier Whitney to advance a claim to some portion of Keewatin, which did not form part of old Canada.

Laurier Had Full Knowledge.

"It is certainly idle for any person to assume that Mgr. Sbarretti, occupying the position he does, would presume to suggest the terms and conditions which he did without the full knowledge and consent of Sir Wilfrid and his colleagues. And, on the other hand, Sir Wilfrid's attitude carries with it evidence of their full knowledge of the arrangement as is evident by his creation of excuses for delay, as well as by his failure to give any reason or cause for same, and, further, by his unfairness in bringing down one side of the case only and attempting to secure the prejudgment of the people without their having Manitoba's reply to his minute of council of March 21, which was received by this Government on March 28 and replied to on March 31."

"Can you give us your reply for publication?" Mr. Rogers was asked.

"No, because it can only be made public through the usual channel, that of being laid upon the table of the House. Sir Wilfrid is at perfect liberty to do this and should do it at once."

35 MAY HAVE DIED.

Powder Explosion in Leiter Mine at Zeigler Intentional.

Benton, Ill., April 5.—The death list at Zeigler is expected to reach 35.

Last night State Mine Inspector Atkinson and Zeigler Inspector Graham went down into the mine and were brought out dead. Former State Mine Inspector Evan Johns has given out the statement that the explosion was a powder explosion.

This gives rise to rumor that the mine was intentionally destroyed by the enemies of Joseph Leiter.

Explosion Kills Three Men.

Bridgeport, Conn., April 5.—Three men were killed instantly yesterday in an explosion that blew to pieces one of the brick buildings of the Union Metallic Cartridge Co. in Barnum avenue. The 1,900 employes of the company who were working in the plant at the time of the accident, believing that the loss of life was large, became panic stricken, while thousands of their relatives gathered outside the factory and attempted to enter.

Rate War Was Ruinous.

London, April 5.—A report of the Cunard Steamship Co., Limited, shows that no dividend will be paid this year. The gross profits total $401,065. To this $375,000 is added from the reserve. A balance of $37,145 is carried forward. The report explains that the shrinkage is due to the rate war initiated by other lines, and the fact that the general trade was not good.

Belgians Not Satisfied.

New York, April 5.—An Antwerp despatch to The Times says: The Belgian committee of holders of Santa Domingian bonds refuses to have anything to do with the proposed arrangement between Santa Domingo and the United States and will protest against the plan.

McNab Street Presbyterian Church Wants Him.

Has Been Chosen Pastor of a Large Hamilton Church

A Hamilton despatch to the Toronto World says:

"For the second time within a few months the Presbyterians of this city will extend a call to a Peterborough minister. Rev. J. A. Wilson was called by the congregation of St. Andrew's church, and now the committee appointed by the Macnab Presbyterian church has chosen Rev. H. Beverly Ketchem, who succeeded Rev. Mr. Wilson as Dr. Torrance's assistant at Peterborough. He is about 30 years of age, unmarried, and has a reputation for modesty."

Cure For The Blues

ONE MEDICINE THAT HAS NEVER FAILED

Health Fully Restored and the Joy of Life Regained

When a cheerful, brave, light-hearted woman is suddenly plunged into that perfection of misery, the BLUES, it is a sad picture. It is usually this way: She has been feeling "out of sorts"

Mme Josephine Rinville

for some time; head has ached and back also; has slept poorly, been quite nervous, and nearly fainted once or twice; head dizzy, and heart-beats very fast; then that bearing-down feeling, and during her menstrual period she is exceedingly despondent. Nothing pleases her. Her doctor says: "Cheer up: you have dyspepsia; you will be all right soon."

But she doesn't get "all right," and hope vanishes; then come the brooding, morbid, melancholy, everlasting BLUES.

Don't wait until your sufferings have driven you to despair, with your nerves all shattered and your courage gone, but take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. See what it did for Madame Josephine Rinville, Mastai, Que. She writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I suffered for four years with female troubles—inflammation of the stomach and fallopian tubes which caused me violent pain and often torture, so much so that I could not walk at times and attend to my daily duties. Life was misery to me. I was so blue and despondent I did not know which way to turn for relief. I had tried the doctors but they did not help me. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I bought a bottle. I am glad that I did so, for I am well and strong to-day and the world looks bright, for I have perfect health, thanks to your medicine."

If you have some derangement of the female organism write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice.

YOUNG'S POINT READY FOR SPRING

Late News of Interst From That Village

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Young's Point, April 3rd. — Capt. Scollard is home after measuring logs for A. McDonald, Peterborough.

Mr. Jerry Young of the steamer Stony Lake, who has been in the employ of the Rathbun Company during the past winter, has returned home hale and hearty.

We are pleased to hear that Mrs. Robert Pimmett, sr., is improving after a dangerous illness.

The snow is going fast and the wheels are out once more. If our pathmasters would do a portion of our road work in the month of January and February it would be a great benefit to the community, as the road between here and Lakefield has been in a terrible condition during the past two months.

The water is rising gradually but we do not expect it will be as high as last year.

A number of our young men are going on the back streams and lakes next week to drive logs.

Taking Desparate Chances.

It is true that many contract colds and recover from them without taking any precaution or tratment, and a knowledge of this fact leads others to take their chances instead of giving their colds the needed attention. It should be borne in mind that every cold weakens the lungs, lowers the vitality, makes the system less able to withstand each succeeding cold and paves the way for more serious diseases. Can you afford to take such dsprate chances when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds can be had for a trifle? For sale by all druggists.

THE MEETINGS AT PARK STREET

Rev. O.C. Elliot Addressed the Meeting Last Night.

The special revival services in Park Street Baptist Church are being continued and are most successful. Miss Mamie Clark sang two selections last night with good effect and the address was given by Rev. O. C. Elliott, the former pastor, and was along evangelistic lines. Large numbers are taking part in the services which are full of inspiration.

CARNEGIE MONEY WAS NOT WANTED

Board of Trade Decides not to Ask Council to Apply to Andrew Carnegie for Money to Build a Public Library—Some Warm Discussion on the Subject of Making Money—Mr. D. Hughes Charles is of the Opinion that Mr. Carnegie Could not Have Made His Pile Honestly—Characterized as "Unclean"—Council Comes in For Some Pretty Severe Criticism--One Member Says They Acted With "Arrogant Impertinence"--A. Legal Debate Last Night.

Last night's Board of Trade meeting was practically a debate of the legal lights of the town on the advisability, or otherwise, of accepting a gift from Mr. Andrew Carnegie, to the extent of say $20,000, to build a library, and "Andy" was turned down hard. They won't even look at the money, which Mr. Hughes-Charles says could not have been made honestly, or at any rate honourably. No man, he said, could not make themoney, which Andrew Carnegie made, in the short space of fifty years, and make it without resorting to dishonourable methods. This of course sounds the death knell to all the hopes of the ambitious youngsters that they can make a heap of money by honourable methods.

To simply give a list of the names of the speakers would be sufficient evidence of the fact that the subjects discussed were ably handled.

In concrete form, the result of the meeting was that a resolution asking the council to seriously consider the proposal to ask Mr. Carnegie for a sum of money with which to erect a library, was defeated, the general opinion being that it was not desirable for the town to accept the money from the former steel king. The impression seems to be general that a free library would be a good thing for the town, and that it could be secured more easily than by erecting a new building at the present time, and by incurring a perpetual expenditure of ten per cent of the total cost of the the building for maintenance.

Mr. Dumble introduced a resolution condemning the action of the town council with reference to the proposal to pay for sidewalks by general tax, but the resolution was not voted on, the mover withdrawing it.

Those present last night were:—D. Hughes-Charles, President, in the Chair, and Messrs. K. Eardley-Wilmot, R. E. Wood, E. G. Patterson, Rev. Father McColl, F. D. Kerr, W. H. Moore, E. B. Edwards, G. M. Rogers, R. J. Winch, J. B. McWilliams, Jas. Bogue, Wm. Thompson, W. F. Green, T. A. S. Hay, T. W. Anderson, Robt. Fair, A. P. Poussette, Ald. Adams, Mayor Best, John Nugent, W. H. Bradburn, G. B. VanBlaricom, J. S. Knapman, F. W. Dolan, Chief Rogers, L. M. Hayes, D. W. Dumble, J. H. Burnham, A. H. Stratton, P. Campbell, J. H. Learmonth.

The secretary of the board read the minutes of the last special meeting, which were adopted, as were also minutes of executive meetings held in the interval. A number of communications were read, some with reference to the proposed action of the board on the Cereal Co's freight rates.

The president explained in reference to a letter from Mr. Ball, the Canadian Government Agent at Birmingham, England, that the Mayor had ordered Mr. R. M. Roy to prepare fifty photographs of the business places of town, to use as slides for stereopticon lectures in England, which Mr. Ball is delivering throughout the country.

TAX ON TRAVELLERS.

One of the letters was dealing with the action of the British Columbia Legislature in imposing a tax on the commercial travellers from other provinces trading in that province and this was condemned as unjust, and with this view the following motion was passed: Moved by Mr. E. G. Patterson, seconded by Mr. Robt. Fair, that the provinces of the Dominion being supplementary, one to the other, in productions, manufactures and commerce, there should be no hampering restrictions on inter-provincial trade, but on the contrary, such freedom and facility for trade as will preserve the spirit of unity and good will.

This would therefore submit that the act of the province of British Columbia entitled "an act for licensing commercial travellers in the province of British Columbia" will hamper trade and be an annoyance in the nature of an unfriendly act should be disallowed. That a verified copy of this resolution be sent to the Honourable, the Minister of Trade and Commerce.

After the consideration of the munications, general business was taken up.

THE COUNCIL SCORED.

The town council came in for some pretty severe criticism from Mr. D. W. Dumble, the specified matter complained of being the action which the council had taken upon the proposal to pay for sidewalks by the general tax system. Mr. Dumble reviewed the circumstances of the case, pointing out that the people had voted upon the question and had endorsed the proposal to adopt the system of general tax, but in view of this fact the council had refused to even ask the legislature to allow them to change to that method, should it be deemed expedient. He characterized the action of the council as utterly unwarranted, and introduced the following motion:

Moved by D. W. Dumble, seconded by R. E. Wood, "That the town council of Peterborough, having submitted to the vote of the electors the question as to whether the cost of granolithic walks should be paid by a general tax or as under the local improvement system, and the people having affirmed by their vote the principle of paying by a general tax, it is the duty of the council representing the people to give effect to the expressed opinion of the people."

Mr. Wood supported the resolution in a short address, saying that since the council had disregarded the expressed wish of the electors, (their masters) those members of the council who had voted for this disregard of the people's will, should be thrown out of office. He compared the action of the council to that of the manager of an industrial establishment disregarding and acting opposite to the wishes of his employers, and said that in his opinion the council should be made to understand that they were elected to carry out the wishes of the people.

MR. ROGER EXPLAINS.

Mr. G. M. Roger, who was present, and Mayor of the town last year, spoke briefly, explaining the position of the council of last year on the question, and said that this year's council was in duty bound to carry out the proposal to ask the Legislature to grant the power to change the system to a general tax.

Mr. A. P. Poussette characterized the act of the council as "arrogant impertinence," in refusing to pass the legislation asked for by the people in this particular matter.

Mr. F. D. Kerr said that it was hardly fitting that the Board of Trade as a body, which should work in harmony with the council, should take the position of taking a slap at the council. He thought that it was not politic to criticise the action of the council in this manner.

Mr. A. H. Stratton asked the chair what the meeting was called for, and if it would not be well to postpone discussion on this minor matter until after the main business had been concluded.

At the request of the president, Mr. Dumble withdrew his motion.

He asked, however, if the people of this town were to be treated as children, and said that the matter was one of principle, and the result of the vote on the question should be treated with respect by the council, and not utterly disregarded, as it was.

THE LIBRARY PROPOSAL.

The main business of the meeting, that of the discussion of the question of a proposal to ask Andrew Carnegie for a public library, was taken up, and the secretary read a number of letters which he had received from officials of the different towns and cities in which there were Carnegie Libraries at present. These letters gave information as to how the money had been secured in the first place, and the amount received. They gave some details as to the management of the libraries, and, as a general rule, reported that the experiment had proven satisfactory.

Places from which replies to this effect were received, were Chatham, Galt, Brantford, and Lindsay.

Ottawa's letter stated that the building was not yet completed, so that results were not yet known.

Mr. R. E. Wood was the first speaker, and explained that he had mooted the question, and had not then expressed any opinion upon it, but he had thought that it was a matter which the citizens might be interested in, and that it might be discussed by the Board.

His first idea was that the library might be erected at the Central Park but he had since learned that this would be impracticable, and he had later thought that the Nicholls estate might grant the town the lot south of the Y.M.C.A. building, which would be an admirable site.

The object in securing this library was to encourage reading, especially among the young people, and is an an admirable one in his estimation. He stated that one of the arguments which would be raised against it was a sentimental one, which he thought would disappear, after the building had been erected.

THE AVAILABLE INCOME.

He thought that it might be possible to amalgamate with the present public library, and thus secure the income at present enjoyed by that library. The present income of the library is $1100 or thereabouts, about $400 of which is raised from the sale of membership tickets, which the new library would not have, since one of the conditions of Mr. Carnegie's grant is that it should be free to all. His idea was that, say, $20,000, could be got from Mr. Carnegie, which would leave $2,000 to be raised each year by the town for maintenance, if the usual conditions were imposed. But if an amalgamation were effected, the income, outside of that derived from the sale of tickets, and amounting to $700, would be available for the use of the new library, which would mean that only $1300 would have to be raised by the town, since at present the town council does not pay any of the cost of library maintenance. He was strongly in favour of the proposal to accept Mr. Carnegie's offer.

Mr. Edwards following, said he wanted to speak on this question, not so much as an advocate of the present proposal, as to point out that there is need of a public free library, but he would not support the proposal unless the town council would agree to the suggestion.

NO SACRIFICE OF DIGNITY.

There is considerable opposition on the part of some people to accepting a gift from anyone, but there did not seem to be any probability of securing the library by asking the people to vote the money necessary. One of the arguments used against Mr. Carnegie was that he had spoken unfavourably of Canada, and that he was a stranger, and it was also suggested that he had not made his money by honourable means, but he thought that since this sum of money had been set aside for this purpose, there was no more harm in accepting a portion of the money than there was in the Y.W.C.A. in accepting the gifts from Mr. Stuart and Mr. Nicholls. Mr. Edwards said that he had learned from a former employee of the Carnegie Steel Company that that gentleman's treatment of his employees had been of the very best and that he had spent a great deal of money in benefitting them. In view of these facts he thought that Mr. Carnegie was such a man that they could accept his money without any question. The library was a necessity, and he could see no lack of dignity in accepting a gift from Mr. Carnegie for this purpose. He thought that the Board of Trade should recommend to the town council the acceptance of Mr. Carnegie's offer.

Pain Across the Kidneys For Three Years.

Suffered Great Agony. Could Not Stoop or Bend.

No disease is so quiet and stealthy in its approach as kidney disease. That is why it is so dangerous. It may become deep-seated before you realize the danger.

It is therefore of great importance to recognize the early warning symptoms, because in its early stage kidney disease is easily curable. Pain or dull ache in the back is one of the first signs. So are bladder pains, bearing-down pains, smarting sensation when urinating, frequent or suppressed urination, and gravel or sediment in the urine, etc. You cannot be well if your kidneys are not performing their functions properly. In all ordinary cases of any derangement of the kidneys, a few doses of will put the patient right; in old or chronic cases, the treatment should be persisted in.

Mr. Michael A. McInnis, Woodbine, Marion Bridge, N.S., tells of his experience: "For the last three years I suffered great agony with pain across my kidneys, and was so bad that I could not stoop or bend. I consulted and had several doctors treat me, but I got none the better. On the advice of a friend I procured a box of that valuable life-giving remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, and to my surprise and benefit I immediately became better. In my opinion Doan's Kidney Pills have no equal as a cure for any form of Kidney disease.

MURPHY JAILED FOR OLD OFFENCE

Neglected his Children and Stole $34. From Brickmakers' Union.

Your friends may forget your good turns, but the police will not forget bad conduct of a criminal kind until the offender is punished. When Daniel Murphy came in from Peterborough yesterday he was possibly not thinking of an old warrant which charged him with neglecting his children, but as the police had that document in mind and saw Murphy he was arrested. He was charged with neglecting his children and also with stealing $34 from Brickmakers' Union No. 118. He is said to have collected the money and not turned it in to the union. Murphy was, at his own request, remanded for a week.—Star.

A SPRING NEED

The Indoor Life of Winter is Hard on the Health.

Not exactly sick—but not feeling quite well. That's the spring feeling. The reason—close confinement indoors during the winter months breathing the impure air of badly ventilated houses, offices and workshops. The trouble may manifest itself in a variable appetite, little pimples or eruptions of the skin, a feeling of weariness, and perhaps an occasional headache, or a twinge of neuralgia or rheumatism. Perhaps you think the trouble will pass away—but it won't unless you drive it out of the system by putting the blood right with a health-giving tonic. And there is only one absolutely certain, blood-renewing nerve-restoring tonic—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Thousands of grateful people have testified that these pills are the best of all spring medicines. They actually make new blood; they brace the nerves and strengthen every organ of the body. They make tired, depressed ailing men, women and children bright, active and strong. Mrs. N. Ferguson, Ashfield, N.S., says: "For the benefit it may be to others I take much pleasure in saying that I have found wonderful benefit from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When I began taking them I was so badly run down that I could scarcely go about the house. I was also troubled with palpitation of the heart and weak spells, but the pills have fully restored me and I am now enjoying better health than I ever expected to have again."

If you want to be healthy in spring don't take a purgative—they only weaken—they don't cure. Don't experiment with other so-called tonics. Take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once and see how quickly they will banish all spring ailments, and make you active and strong. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SPRING OPENS AT HALL'S GLEN

Shingle Mill Will Commence Operations —Other News.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Hall's Glen, March 28th, 1905.—Miss Edwards, of Warsaw, spent a few days with friends in this neighborhood last week.

Spring is not only welcomed back again by the villagers but by the surrounding inhabitants.

The roads in this part of the township are in a bad condition at present.

Mr. R. Little, of Pine Grove, who has been sawing and splitting wood with a gang of men, finished work last week.

Some of the people around here were very fortunate in getting their ice packed away for the summer before the roads broke up.

Messrs. W. and D. Crowe are making necessary preparations for the erection of their new brick residence. The carpenters are expected to commence at once.

The report of the hardy stage driver concerning the bad roads that he is obliged to travel over three times a week, is not very encouraging.

We are pleased to learn that so many are recovering from la grippe. This as been a general complaint this winter.

The re-opening of the shingle mill is awaited with interest. This will afford employment for a number of hands and at the same time add considerably to the stir and general business trade of this place.

On the evening of Thursday, March 16th, the young people of the neighbourhood gathered at the town hall for the regular meeting of the Hall's Glen Literary Society. After the opening exercises, the Hall's Glen News, containing the announcement of the funeral of the "Black Maria" and many other items of interest to the audience, were read by the secretary. A debate, "Resolved that single life is preferable to married life," had been decided upon as the programme for the evening. Messrs. H. Payne, E. Lynn and A. C. Carveth presented the affirmative, while Mrs. Wm. Carveth, Messrs. A. Darling and D. Madill took up the cudgel in favour of married life. Messrs. W. Payne, Wm. Carveth and H. Berry being chosen in the capacity of judges, the fun began. The debaters waxed warm over their subject, and in no stinted terms set forth their ideas thereon. Mr. Madill, for the negative, concluding his speech with a glowing article, in which he compared single life to a one horse waggon whose shafts gall our sides and whose whole weight on the collar blisters the shoulders, while married life is like a double vehicle drawn by a beautifully matched team acting in concert, and rendering light the work. In a spirited reply, Mr. H. Payne of the affirmative, set forth the condition of a hen-pecked husband, who would hardly agree with the beautiful simile of Mr. Madill's. The judges brought in a decision in favour of married life. After arranging for a taffy pull in the near future, the meeting was adjourned.

CARNEGIE MONEY WAS NOT WANTED

Mr. A. P. Poussette, who followed, said that the former speakers had apparently been unaware of the fact that all that was necessary to make the present library a free one, was for the council to pass a bylaw to that effect, which action would only cost the town $400 or $500 for maintenance, instead of $1,300 as would be the cost of the proposed Carnegie library. He would like to see a free library but not under the conditions suggested. The present library is an excellent one, better, in fact than those in the majority of cities, except those of the very large cities, and at any rate, is much better than could be secured by erecting a new library.

Mr. Carnegie's attitude towards Canada was referred to by Mr. Lount-ere who quoted from his work "Triumphant Democracy." The speaker said that we would be demeaning ourselves in the first place by asking for the gift, and in the second place by accepting it from such a man as Mr. Carnegie.

MR. DUMBLE'S POSITION

Mr. Dumble thought that these discussions were very interesting, but he did not agree with the last speaker. The community, he said, spent considerable money for educational purposes, and it should also provide books for the benefit of the people as they grew up. He submitted that a free library would be creditable to the town, and he would like to see one erected on the Central park.

He could not see how it would be demeaning to accept the money offered by Carnegie. If he received a cheque for $1,000 to-morrow from him he would accept it, and he thought that since part of the money made by Carnegie had been made out of Canada, it would be all right to have him spend some of his money here.

THE PRESENT LIBRARY.

Mr. J. H. Burnham referring to the present library, said that it was the "rottenest he had ever seen." The fault, he said, was not with the management, but he contended nevertheless that the the library was not at all equal to the necessities of the town.

Mr. Burnham's reference to the present library was warmly resented by Mr. J. S. Knapman, a member of the Library Board.

Rev. Father McColl was the next speaker and said that as far as he had been able to judge, he would not be in favour of accepting the gift from Mr. Carnegie.

In addition to the public library there are a number of semi-public libraries in town owned by the different societies, and these provide reading best adapted to the tastes of their members. He regretted the fact that as a general rule, it was the books of fiction and light reading which were read in preference to those which were calculated to educate.

He was not in favour of accepting the gift, since he was influenced by sentiment to a certain extent and thought that to take money from a man like Mr. Carnegie would not be creditable.

Rev. Father McColl's remarks remarks were warmly applauded.

MR. PATTERSON WANTS LIBRARY

Mr. E. G. Patterson said that he wished to say a few words on this question. He was strongly in favour of applying to Mr. Carnegie for the money to erect the proposed library. In these days hard-headed business methods took precedence over sentiment, and since this age was one of scientific research, it was desirable to provide the young people with every means of obtaining knowledge, and he thought that the library proposed would have this effect. He introduced the following motion:

Moved by E. G. Patterson, seconded by E. B. Edwards, "That it is the opinion of this board that the council should seriously consider the advisability of applying to Mr. A. Carnegie for the necessary funds to build a public library, and further, this board approves of steps being taken to accomplish the establishment of such a library building."

Before the motion was voted on Mr. J. P. Marty spoke briefly, stating that in his opinion the money was not "clean," and the organization to which he belonged was opposed to accepting anything from Mr. Carnegie.

Mr. Wood said that it had yet to be pointed out to him and proven that Mr. Carnegie had amassed his fortunes by illegitimate means. Mr. Carnegie had said some things which were indiscreet, and some people were crying out about the way his money was made. If he had not said these things no word would be heard of the way in which he amassed his fortunes.

APPEALED ON BUSINESS GROUNDS.

Mr. F. D. Kerr said that he would oppose the resolution on purely business grounds, because he thought that at the present time there was not sufficient information in the possession of the board to make any recommendation to the council with reference to incurring expenditure, especially in view of the fact that in the near future a considerable additional sum would have to be voted to build a Collegiate Institute, and he thought that in the city hall, would would have to be erected provision would probably be made for a library.

Mr. Poussette moved in amendment, seconded by Rev. Dr. McColl, that in the opinion of this board it is inexpedient for the town council to apply for the money from Mr. Carnegie."

Mr. Hughes Charles referred to the question under discussion, and said that the Dominion of Canada was prosperous enough for the people to build their own libraries. He was strongly of the opinion that Mr. Carnegie, nor any other man, could make $800,000,000 or $900,000,000 in the length of time that Mr. Carnegie had, by legitimate methods. Mr. Hughes Charles suggested that while he might not have done anything directly contrary to law, it would be interesting to know just how much money had been spent by Mr. Carnegie to induce the state legislators and Congress to pass laws which enable him to pursue his business at such enormous profits to himself.

On being submitted to the meeting the amendment to the motion was carried, consequently the council will not be asked to take any action in the matter.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

THE OLD FOLKS AT HOME

Are Never Without Peruna in the House for Catarrhal Diseases.

W. D. WATSON, Clovis, Fresno County, Cal., writes:

"God bless you for what you have done for me. The rheumatism has all disappeared, and to-day all exclaim, 'How well you look!' I tell them yes, and I owe it all to Dr. Hartman for his good advice to me. To-day finds me as free from pain as I ever was. The rainy season has set in here, but the change hasn't affected me as it used to. I am very thankful that I have found out that you can and will help the suffering ones that will follow your advice. Several have asked me what cured me, and I tell them. They get the medicine then. We keep Peruna in the house. My daughter has two sons, and they keep well and go to school, and they take the medicine every day.

"My wife was troubled with a pain in her side for years. Now she is taking your medicine and is real smart. I will do all I can for you and for those who need your advice."

Mr. Jno. O. Atkinson, Independence, Mo., Box 872, writes:

"Your remedies do all that you claim for them, and even more. Catarrh cannot exist where Peruna is taken according to directions. Peruna completely cured my wife and I of catarrhal troubles of twenty-five years standing. In my rounds as a traveling man I am a walking advertisement of Peruna."

Mrs. Alla Schwandt, Sanborn, Minn., writes:

"I have been troubled with rheumatism and catarrh for twenty-five years. Could not sleep day or night. After having used Peruna I can sleep and nothing bothers me now. If I ever am affected with any kind of sickness Peruna will be the medicine I shall use. My son was cured of catarrh of the larynx by Peruna."—Mrs. Alla Schwandt.

Why Old People are Especially Liable to Systemic Catarrh.

When old age comes on, catarrhal diseases come also. Systemic catarrh is almost universal in old people.

This explains why Peruna has become so indispensable to old people. Peruna is their safeguard. Peruna is the only remedy yet devised that meets these cases exactly.

Such cases cannot be treated locally; nothing but an effective systemic remedy could cure them. This is exactly what Peruna is.

If you do not receive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

SALARIES OF THE POLICE.

To-night the Committee of the Whole will deal with the recommendation of the Supervision Committee to increase the salaries of the police, and in order that they may intelligently deal with the recommendation, it may not be out of place to refer to the position of the members of the local force as compared with those of other places. The present pay of the constables is $660; and the Chief gets $1000. It may be mentioned that in this connection that in Toronto, the pay of a third class constable on the force is $725, or $125 more than the local police, the majority of whom have served a number of years, receive, and in comparison the Chief receives even less. Compared with, not the Toronto Chief or Deputy Chief, or even the Inspector, but simply with a Sergeant, the Chief here receives $125 per year less than that member of the Toronto force. It may also be pointed out that while in Toronto, outside of all the officers of the force, there is one policeman for every 1000 of the population, in Peterborough, not including the Chief, in Peterborough there is only one policeman for every 5000 of the population.

The members of the force feel that their request is a reasonable one, and the members of the Supervision Committee hold the same view. In view of the comparisons made above, it would seem that they are warranted in asking for the increased pay.

There can be little room for doubt that Peterborough is well looked after as far as police protection is concerned, and if the members of the force are doing their duty, they should be paid what their services are worth.

WITHOUT POLITICS.

Mr. Whitney has been generous in his appointment of License Commissioners for the License District of Toronto, in the matter of religious faith — Col. J. I. Davidson, Presbyterian; J. W. Flavelle, Methodist; and J. A. Murray, Roman Catholic. It seems that it requires a combination of three religious qualities to make a good License Board; but only one brand of political virtue is necessary; all are good Conservatives. There is in this no objection to the political faith of the appointees, but as this appointment of Conservatives exclusively to positions involving the administration of the license law is the general rule, it is a little difficult to see by what means Mr. Whitney is aiming at a fulfilment of his promise to remove the political element from license law administration. In fact, it seems that the plan pursued is designed to infuse the largest possible partizanship into the constitution of license boards, including inspectors. These appointments are made upon the nomination of the local Conservative "patronage" committees. This means that not fitness for the positions filled, but the claims of appointees upon the spoils of office, is the primary consideration. If these appointments are offered by the "patronage" committees as rewards for party services, where does the diminished political influence element come in in Mr. Whitney's constitution of License Boards? It is therefore not surprising that in nearly every instance the Whitney license boards are not accepted with enthusiasm by either temperance people or others interested in fair enforcement of the law. If Mr. Whitney were sincere in his boasts that he would cast out the element of political influence in the administration of the license law, he might try the experiment of making appointments upon other grounds than political allegiance. In the Provincial Secretary's office, in Toronto a guillotine has been set up, and the heads of License Commissioners and inspectors, appointed by a Liberal Government, are dropping into the basket with a speed and regularity that would delight the heart of a model Madam Dufarge. This is to give place for non-political appointees recommended by local "patronage" committees. Greater men than Premier Whitney have found a big difference between preaching and practising.

THE BOARD OF TRADE.

In the Court of Commerce last night, the great "Carnegie Library" case was tried. Mr. D. Hughes Charles in the capacity of judge, presided, and there was an eminent array of legal talent engaged. For the prosecution, Messrs. Kerr and Poussette appeared. The defence was represented by Messrs. Dumble, Wood and Edwards. After listening with more or less patience to the addresses of the learned counsel, the jury, without leaving their seats, returned a verdict for the prosecution, with costs to the defence. A spectator, on leaving the court, was heard to say, that it seemed a little peculiar to him that lawyers, eminently reputable, and hard working members of society, as they are, should be made to bear almost the whole brunt of initiative and discussion in the deliberations of a body which exists, primarily, for the promotion of comparatively common-place commercial interests. The serious part of the affair is that business men do not take as active an interest in Board of Trade matters as it is to their interests, and the town's interests, that they should take.

While the Conservatives — some of them — are ripping the sky loose because the West is to be dragooned into having its own way about its schools, they have not, says the Toronto Star, time to express an opinion on the fact that it will also be compelled to carry out the bargain which the Conservatives fastened on it, about not taxing C. P. R. lands.

Mr. Whitney's "independent" administration of the license law, attained by wholesale decapitation of commissioners and inspectors — the latter of many years standing—without reference to their qualifications, and replacing them with Conservative politicians, nominated by Conservative "patronage" committees, is on all fours with the "independence" of the Toronto News, the Toronto Telegram, and other Conservative journals of that class.

A WORKINGMAN'S VIEWS.

To the Editor of the Examiner.—

Dear Sir.—Don't touch it—it's blood money. I refer to the proposed application to a certain millionaire for $25,000 for a library for Peterborough. Every dollar of this man's money was created by honest labour. Honest labour sweated and toiled and got for its reward the cents or fractions of cents, while this philanthrophist, by proxy, got the dollars, to the tune of millions. Honest labour got just enough to keep soul and body together, sometimes not enough, but that didn't matter—when one man (and his family) starved or overworked himself, there was another victim ready. Flesh and blood is cheap, especially in the sight of millionaires. This man made millions by the toil of men, who must have received an unfair share or there would have been less for the millionaire. No single man can make millions in a few years except at the expense of somebody else, and in that sense it is blood money, and no self-respecting community — certainly no self-respecting working man—can accept money accumulated this way, at the expense of the class to which he belongs. I do not mention this man's name, for I believe, though I may be mistaken, that he cares more for notoriety than for the good he thinks he is doing, with other people's money, money which justly belongs, in a very large part, to the class which made it, the class to which belongs.

Yours truly,
WORKINGMAN.

AN INQUIRY

To the Editor of the Examiner.—

Dear Sir,—Now that the new Y.W.C.A. building is nearing completion and readiness for occupancy, as a member of the public, who by their contributions, have invested in the building, I should like to have it made clear. (1) What is the class of young women for whose benefit the building is erected and to be maintained—by the public? (2) What conditions are attached to admission to the building and its benefits?

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR LOVERS OF MUSIC

The "Home Treasury of Song" to be Introduced to our Citizens.

The "Home Treasury of Song for Canadians," published by Bradley-Garretson Co., of Brantford, is now being introduced in Peterborough by Mr. J. W. Lent, of Bowmanville. It is just from the press. This charming volume contains the richest and most delightful gems of music, sacred and secular, from many lands. It is the result of personal and laborious research through the music centres of Europe and America. Those compositions have been sought which have made the fame of the authors and immortalized their names. It is superbly embellished with the phototype engravings of the leading musicians of all countries. A short biographical sketch accompanies each. It receives the unqualified endorsement of the leading musicians wherever introduced. Lovers of music will wish to see this beautiful volume when Mr. Lent calls.

Mr. J. W. Lent, who is introducing this fine work will call upon our citizens, to whose attention he is warmly recommended. He has undoubted testimonials as to his integrity and character, and the beautiful publication he is introducing speaks for itself

—Two carloads of unleavened bread for use in the celebration of the Feast of the Passover were imported at Toronto yesterday. The bread was valued at $2,000 per car, but there is no duty on it. There are 6000 Jews in the city and much of the bread is given away to those unable to buy. The feast begins on the night of the 19th inst. and continues for ten days.

—The following, taken from the New York Clipper, will be read with interest by many in Peterborough: "Danny Simons, comedian, was accorded a reception on the stage of the Stone Theatre, Binghampton, N. Y., March 17. Mr. Simons' birthday occurred on the same day that is celbrated in honour of the patron saint of Ireland, and a number of the male members of the company planned a surprise for the versatile comedian. The surprise was in the shape of a handsome Elk charm, and was handed over the footlights to him just as he was returning to acknowledge an encore after his specialty. Although taken entirely unawares, Mr. Simons, in an impromptu speech, cleverly thanked the donors for the remembrance."

PARKS WILL BE VERY ATTRACTIVE

Mr. Cobb the Municipal Florist Again This Year.

As will be seen by reference to another column, our well known and enterprising florist, Mr. Jos. H. Cobb, has again been awarded the contract for supplying our parks with flowers and ornamental plants during the season. As Mr. Cobb has been the municipal florist for the past seven years, it is safe to say that the parks will be attractive beauty spots this summer. The competition for this work was very close.

BILL BOARDS TAKE ON SPRING DRESS

Mr. W. Stocker Puts up 200-000 Square Feet of Bills.

American Cereal Company one of the Largest Canadian Users of Bill Board Space.

The "Left-Handed" cow which played such a conspicuous, if unimportant, part in the last Dominion election campaign, will soon have been blotted out of existence.

Mr. Walter Stocker has started on his spring rounds and is now engaged in putting up 2,000 sheets of posters, aggregating 200,000 square feet of space, and the boards in town will soon be covered with the new spring paper, many of the illustrations on which are genuine works of art. The American Cereal Company is one of the largest users of bill-board space in Canada, and last week 700 pounds of bills were received through the customs here, addressed to the local company, upon which $130 in duty was paid. This has been sent out to all the bill-posters in the Association, and to-day is being posted throughout the country, and will serve, no doubt, to make Quaker Oats, the promotors of the "Smile that won't come off", still better known among the consumers of breakfast foods in Canada.

The bill-board advertising business has assumed large proportions in this continent and every year many thousands of dollars are spent in this form of publicity.

RECORD TURN-OUT FOR FIRST NIGHT

Prospects are Bright for a Successful Season for the 57th Regiment, the First Drill of Which Was Held Last Night—A Large Number of New Men Sworn in—Great Interest Being Taken by the Officers and Men.

Last night the first drill of the season of the 57th Regiment was held at the drill hall, and the turn-out of men was the largest there has been for a first night in the history of the regiment.

A large number of new men were sworn in, and from present prospects, the Examiner's prophecy that the regiment this year would be more popular than ever before, will be verified.

During the past winter, the officers of the different companies have been doing some missionary work, and the result is that the strength of a number of them has been materially increased.

Great interest is being evidenced by the men in this season's work, and there seems to be a determination on the part of the men to become proficient in their work.

Last night was taken up largely by preliminary work and swearing in new men and fitting them up so that they will be ready to start right in with the drill next week.

Some of the companies even went through with some light drilling last night. The officers are most enthusiastic over the prospects and are looking forward to a most successful season.

The trip to Ottawa this year will provide a pleasant outing for the men and will be made on July 1st.

MR. W. E. WASSON WAS MARRIED

Wedding of Popular Young Peterborough Man in Toronto

Miss Minnie B. Jones was the Bride—Married in Broadway Tabernacle.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Toronto, April 5th.—This afternoon at three o'clock, in Broadway Methodist Tabernacle and by Rev. E. N. Baker, pastor of that church, the wedding of Mr. W. Ernest Wasson, of Peterborough, and Miss Minnie Berthield Jones was solemnized.

The bride, who was unattended, was becomingly attired. The wedding was a quiet one, but a large number of the friends of the contracting parties were present at the church.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Wasson left town on the International Limited for a trip to Detroit and other western cities, and upon their return will live in Peterborough, where Mr. Wasson is the manager of W. A. Sanderson & Co's Jewelery store.

The groom is very well and most favourably known here, having lived here for a number of years, and has been very popular with those with whom he has been in any way associated.

He took an active interest in all kinds of sport, and has been a member of a number of winning sporting aggregations in town. He was identified actively with hockey and lacrosse, in both of which games he showed splendid skill, and his services to the teams were highly valued. He was a member of the Peterborough hockey team the year it won the Intermediate O. H. A. Championship.

Mr. Wasson was also interested in football and always gave his assistance to any pure sport.

In business affairs, too, he has been successful, and is at present the head of the firm of W. A. Sanderson & Co., Jewelers.

He has many friends here, all of whom will join in best wishes for his future success and happiness.

GUILD MEETING HELD LAST NIGHT

A Brisk Discussion on "Government Ownership" at St. Andrew's.

There was a good attendance at the meeting last night of St. Andrew's Guild The evening's programme took the form of a discussion on the question of Government Ownership of the Grand Trunk Pacific." Mr. R. H. Elliott contributed an interesting paper from a negative standpoint and Messrs. W. S. Campbell and H. H. Edmison briefly presented a strong case for the affirmative. The discussion was brisk throughout and was much enjoyed. Mr. Charles Anderson occupied the chair.

Several matters of business in connection with the Guild were also transacted.

MR. COBB WAS GIVEN CONTRACT

For Supply of Flowers for Public Parks.

Last night a meeting of the Directors of the Horticultural Society was held in the office of the President, Mr. D. W. Dumble, when the tender of Mr. J. H. Cobb, to supply the flowers and fill the urns in the parks was accepted.

Those present were, Mr. D. E. Dumble, President; Dr. Burnham, Messrs. P. Campbell, W. H. Hill, Jas. English, J. Giles, H. Beal, and Saunders.

Mr. Benj. Cooney was appointed caretaker of the parks for the season.

A committee composed of Messrs. Dumble, Hill and Burnham, was appointed to interview the council with reference to securing the usual grant to help pay for the maintenance of the parks.

ST. PAUL'S GUILD MET LAST NIGHT

Address Delivered by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt on "Life in the German Army".

There was an exceptionally large attendance at the meeting of St. Paul's Guild last night. A pleasing programme was presented, which was much enjoyed by all. President A. P. McLean occupied the chair.

The meeting opened with devotional exercises. During the course of the evening two pleasing solos were rendered with splendid effect, by Mr. Jas. Dawson and A. Lumley.

Before the lecture the question of running an excursion to Stony Lake, was discussed, and it was decided to hold this event on June 15. Arrangements were made to secure the steamer Stony Lake for the occasion.

Baseball prospects were also discussed. From the bright prospects at present, it may safely be predicted that a strong team will be placed in the Guild League.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt then delivered a lecture on "Life in the German Army," which was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone, and was spoken of as one of the most interesting and instructive addresses ever delivered before the Guild. The speaker has added much new and valuable information to his lecture since it was first delivered, and his treatment of the subject last night was most masterly in its scope and comprehensiveness.

MR. GEO. McBURNEY WAS INJURED

Former Peterborough Man was Hurt at Toronto.

Word was received in town to-day of the serious accident which Mr. George McBurney had met with yesterday in Toronto, by falling from a building.

Mr. McBurney sustained injuries which necessitated his removal to Grace Hospital, where he is at present.

It will be remembered that Mr. McBurney was formerly a resident of Peterborough, and was actively identified with the movement to establish the Peterborough Old Boys' Association.

THE BISHOP WILL APPOINT INCUMBENT

For Parish of Hastings and Roseneath—Church Meeting Yesterday.

On Monday an important church meeting was held in Hastings, at which the congregations of Hastings and Roseneath parish which is now without a priest in charge, were represented. The meeting was presided over by Rev. J. C. Davidson, M. A., Rural Dean, and an announcement was made that the Bishop of Toronto would in a short time announce an appointment to the Parish. The Church prospects were discussed at the meeting and there was a general feeling of relief at the prospect that in a short time there would be a resident minister for the parish.

In the evening Rev. Mr. Davidson presided at a church meeting in Norwood when the affairs of the church there were discussed with the leading members of the church.

BOWLER'S MAKE PREPARATIONS

Annual Meeting of the Club Held Last Night

Many new Features for Coming Season —Much Enthusiasm Manifested.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club, held last night at the Ontario Bank Chambers, was attended by a large number of members, and from the enthusiasm displayed, a most successful season may safely be predicted.

The opening of the present season finds the interest manifested in this popular pastime more general and widespread than ever before and it is probable that the club's membership, which last year was ninety-two, will this season exceed the century mark.

The improvements under contemplation to the grounds will accomodate a much larger number of players than heretofore, and will greatly facilitate the play upon their "half-acre" which the bowlers claim has "furnished more good clean, healthful sport than any similar area within the limits of the town."

President, D. H. Moore, occupied the chair. The report of the Secretary-Treasurer was read and adopted.

The report of President D. H. Moore was next presented. It showed that although the season had commenced under somewhat unfavourable conditions when the many improvements which had been made to the grounds in the way of sodding, etc., were considered, the season had terminated very satisfactorily. Play commenced on the 20th of June, 196 games being reported as played between that date and the 22nd of September, when the schedule was exhausted. This shows an average of three games per night, besides the many played during the day time and on Saturdays lights and those after September 22nd, which will probably increase the number by 100 more.

The season started with an inter-rink match between the President and Vice-President, on June 20th, followed by many other games, including three with Millbrook and home and home games with Port Hope.

The club has the reputation of furnishing more fun and pleasure for $3.00 than any other organization in town.

The report also gave a statement of improvements such as top dressing, etc., to the lawn.

Mr. Hall has intimated that he will put a fence around the grounds this summer and in this case the report recommended that it would be well to remove the sidewalk on the south side and place it on the west side, close up the present entrance, build a more respectable house and have the entrance to the grounds only through this building. Many improvements which would result from this scheme were pointed out.

It was also suggested that there be a committee of five skips, one for each night in the week appointed whose duties shall be to act as rink directors or managers on the nights designated for each member of that committee.

The report was adopted after discussion of the recommendations proposed.

It was on motion decided to fix the membership fee at $4.00 for the coming season. It was also decided to have the sidewalk on south side removed to the west and the matter of erection of the building suggested was left in the hands of the executive committee to deal with and report at a later meeting.

A communication was read from Mr. A. B. Loughlin, secretary of the Port Hope Bowling Club, desiring a list of members and ladies of the Peterborough Club to whom invitations to their first annual ball, to be held on Easter Monday, would be sent. This was received, acknowledged and left in the hands of the executive to deal with.

The election of officers then took place resulting as follows:—

Patrons and Patronesses—Hon. J. R. and Mrs. Stratton; Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Bell, M. P.; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Kendry; T. E. Bradburn, M. P. P.

Hon. President—Dr. Boucher.

President—D. H. Moore.

Vice-President—Dr. Greer.

Secretary-Treasurer—Ed. Runnels.

Executive and Rink Committee—G. H. Giroux, F. H. Dixon, D. Bellegham, C. B. Whitan, J. McClung.

Schedule Committee—R. M. Waddell, Ed. Runnels, G. H. Giroux.

The following skips were elected for the season:—

Kerr, Giroux, Stratten, Lesh, Dixon, McClung, Runnels, Cox, Medd, D. H. Moore, Waddell, McIntyre, Dr. Greer, T. F. Matthews, Whiten, Johnston, Talbot, Ferguson, Sturgeon, Thompson.

Membership Committee—F. H. Dixon, R. M. Waddell and E. W. Cox.

On motion it was decided that boys seventeen and under should be admitted to membership at $2.

Provision for minor improvements were made, after which the meeting adjourned.

ORGANIZATION OF FIELD HOCKEY

Important Meeting to be Held at Y.M.C.A. on Thursday.

Organization for Many Summer Sports Including Field Hockey, Baseball, Cup Out-Door Basketball, Track Athletics and Cross-country Running.

Field Hockey.—There has been a great deal of interest manifested in the introduction of the popular English game of Field Hockey. It is a game that the expert athlete may get a great deal of sport from, and a game from which the novice may receive a lot of pleasure and benefit also. It is played on an ordinary field or football gridiron, which requires very little time to keep marked and in shape.

Out-of-door basketball.—The Association management is planning to do away with the tennis court on the vacant lot by the south side of the building and convert it into an out-of-door gymnasium, suitable for playing basketball on,—for high jumping, broad jumping, pole vaulting and shot putting.

The chief feature will be basketball. When the game is played out-of-doors where there is plenty of scope to run and get in combination work, and the fresh clear air, and warm sun, it becomes a new pleasure. Teams will be formed and a schedule of games drawn up.

This game is extensively played by the college and universities and is very popular.

Baseball—The Association expects to fire at least two strong baseball teams this summer. Baseball is the representative summer game, and the interest manifested should be strong.

Track Athletics—As the spring opens upon us with all its unfolding of nature, one longs to don the scanty attire of the athlete. A thrill of pleasure spreads over him when he thinks of again digging the spikes of shoes into the cinder path. The fascination of sailing 5 or 10 feet high into the air over the bar with the vaulting pole, comes back to him. Running high-jumping, running broad-jumping, shot putting, and hammer throwing delight him once more.

Track and field athletics are very interesting, and productive of health, strength and agility.

The aim of the Association Physical Department is not to show all interest in those who are proficient, but to develop and promote efficiency among those who know nothing about such work.

Track teams will be formed with competitive athletic meets in view later in the season.

Cross Country Running Clubs—Those who have Saturday afternoons to themselves will enjoy taking a jaunt into the country. Hare and Hound Hunts are always a source of interest and pleasure.

It is the part of every member of the Y.M.C.A. physical department to help promote a clean and healthy interest in all sports. Every man interested in these various sports is requested by the physical director to meet at the Y. M.C.A. building on Thursday night at 8 o'clock for organization and discussion.

P. B. C. ORGANIZE FOOTBALL CLUB

Strong Team Will Represent Business College This Season.

Last night the members of the P. B. C. held a meeting with a view to organizing an association foot-ball team for 1905. The boys did things up pretty briskly and in such a manner as to convince their friends that their business capabilities are not by any means in the back-ground. The members assembled at four o'clock to discuss the prospects for football and at five they were having a nice little practice-match, having purchased the ball and secured their grounds. They hope that their gallant opponents the P. C. I. will decide to enter the game too, and wish them all success if they do so, but from present indications they will have to hustle to turn down the P. B. C. this year.

The following are the officers chosen to act:—

Patronesses—Misses Houston, Smith, Stacey.

Hon. President—Mr. Pringle.

Hon. Vice-President—Mr. Marnett.

President—Mr. W. D. Morrow.

Vice-President—Mr. W. Thornton.

Secretary-Treasurer — Mr. J. D. O'Brien.

Captain—Mr. H. McIlmoyle.

Managing Committee—Messrs. Lowry, Graham and Morrow.

BASEBALL.

All members of the Baseball Club of Court Chemong No. 539 I. O. F. are requested to be at the Y.M.C.A. hall on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, sharp, and any member of the Court wishing to become a member of the Club are requested to be present.

• • • •

The meeting to arrange for a City Baseball League announced for tomorrow night in E. W. Argue' office, has been postponed until Friday and will be held in the T. A. S. hall.

• • • •

The annual meeting of the George Street Guild Baseball Club will be held to-morrow night at the Y.M.C.A. at 7.30. A full attendance is requested.

His Injuries Not Serious.

Windsor, April 5.—George M. Hendrie, the well-known turfman, who was injured in an automobile accident at Nashville, while in company with Maurice McMillan, of Detroit, is not dangerously hurt, and with Mr. McMillan, who received a broken arm, will return to Detroit on Thursday. The accident was caused in an attempt to avoid a pack of hounds which was in the middle of the road.

WHAT IT INDICATES.

President Roosevelt's Holiday Convinces St. Petersburg That Peace Negotiations Are Now Off.

St. Petersburg, April 5.—The announcement that President Roosevelt has left Washington on a vacation trip is accepted here as evidence that the efforts to draw Russia and Japan into peace negotiations have come to grief for the moment. No definite explanation of exactly what happened is forthcoming, but the general impression that Japan either decline to treat upon the Russian basis or demanded a direct avowal that there was a pacific disposition.

Japs Return 160 Russians.

Tokio, April 5.—The following has been received from the Manchurian army headquarters:

"On Sunday a portion of the force occupying Kaiyuan drove north the enemy holding Aishenkao, 16 miles northeast of Kaiyuan. There was no change at other positions up to 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

"One hundred Russian sanitary corps men have been delivered to the Russian army. They highly appreciate our kindness."

Shoots Hated Policeman.

Warsaw, April 5.—While everyone was asleep last night in the hospital in which are the three policemen who were injured by the bomb thrown into the police station at Prague on March 26, an unknown man entered the ward and went to the bedside of Policeman Sarap, at whom he fired his revolver three times. One shot took effect in the back. The assailant escaped before the patients and attendants had time to recover from the shock and surprise.

Sarap has been especially hated on account of his brutality in the recent riots.

Thomas Dixon Craig, ex-M. P., Dies.

Port Hope, April 5.—The death of Thomas Dixon Craig, ex-M. P. for East Durham, occurred here yesterday afternoon, from heart failure. Born in England in 1842, he came to Canada with his parents a year later. He was educated at the Port Hope high school and Toronto University, where he won a scholarship and graduated B. A. He entered the firm of William Craig & Son, tanners, Port Hope. For some time he was engaged in the wholesale leather business in Toronto. In 1886 he was returned to the Ontario Legislature for East Durham, in the Conservative interest. He remained a member until 1891, when he was returned for the House of Commons and remained until 1900.

New Professor For Knox.

Toronto, April 5.—The Presbytery of Toronto met yesterday in Knox Church and nominated Principal R. A. Falconer, LL.D., of Halifax, professor of New Testament, exegises and literature in Knox College. Rev. Prof. Falconer is a native of Nova Scotia. He was ordained to the ministry in 1891. In the same year he was appointed lecturer on New Testament exegises in the Presbyterian College, Halifax, and in 1895 professor of New Testament, Greek and exegetics.

Clerical Bank Swindle.

Kingston, April 5.—Two banks here were done up for $25 each by a clerical fakir, of whose movements the bank managers were made aware by a wire from Montreal, but not until after he had got his cash and fled. The alleged clergyman called on the bank managers and told of his association with bankers in other towns and of his location in a Kingston diocese parish. Then he produced a cheque on a synod blank and the cheques were cashed.

Child Had Eczema.

'My daughter, 13 years old, suffered from eczema for three years. She was treated by our family physician and used other ointments without benefit. By using Dr. Chase's Ointment she has been completely cured. This is the only Ointment I feel like recommending."—Mr. Jas. H. Patriquin, 176 Rockdale Avenue, Sydney, C. B.

MR. COCHRANE'S DISMISSAL.

Mr. Whitney Tells Legislature He Was an Active Partizan.

Toronto, April 4.—The session of the Legislature yesterday afternoon lasted less than fifteen minutes. Bills by Mr. Torrance (North Perth) and Dr. Jessop (Lincoln) were read a first time. The former, an act to amend the consolidated municipal act of 1903, seeks to equalise assessments in smaller cities and towns in regard to local improvements affecting front and back streets. The latter deals with minor amendments to the act respecting the conveyance to trustees of burial grounds.

He Was an Active Partisan.

Premier Whitney, replying to Mr. Munro, said that James Cochrane, late Bailiff of the First Division Court of the County of Grey, had been dismissed from his position for having been an active partisan at election time.

Premier Whitney in answer to Mr. Preston (Durham), said the report of the Railway Taxation Committee had not been received by the Government, but would be laid on the table immediately on its receipt.

Hon. Mr. Hanna laid on the table correspondence between Sheriff Dawson of Lincoln and the Government with regard to the appointment of a jailer to succeed the late T. P. Blain.

The report of J. W. Mallon, inspector of legal offices, for the past year, was laid on the table.

Strathcona's Successor.

Montreal, April 4.—A gentleman well informed and conversant with Canadian politics, said yesterday:

"Lord Strathcona's successor as Canadian High Commissioner in London may be Lord Mount Stephen and his appointment would be acceptable to everyone in Canada and in England."

HAD TO HIDE IT

A MOTHER wrote us recently that she had to keep Scott's Emulsion under lock and key—her children used to drink it whenever her back was turned. Strange that children should like something that is so good for them. It's usually the other way.

Scott's Emulsion

makes children comfortable, makes them fat and rosy-cheeked. Perhaps that's why they like it so much—they know it makes them feel good.

Older people, too, who are thin or delicate will find Scott's Emulsion a wonderful strength-giver and flesh-builder.

This picture, in the form of a trade-mark label, is on the wrapper of every bottle of the genuine Scott's Emulsion.

MARY E. WILKINS

Copyrighted, 1905, by DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.

"Harry," she said, "Harry, thou art like a knight of olden times about whom a song was written which I heard sung in my girlhood and which used to bring the tears, though I was never too ready with them. Woe be to me that I, knowing what I know, have yet not the courage to sacrifice my pride and my unworthy granddaughter and see you free. Oh, Harry, that thou shouldst sit at home when thou art fitted by birth and breeding to go with the best of them! Harry, I pray thee, put on thy plum colored suit and go to the ball."

"Dear Madam Cavendish," I said, half laughing, for she seemed more and more like a child, "you know that it cannot be, and that I have no desire for balls."

"But I would have thee go, Harry."

"But I am not asked," I said.

"What matters that? 'Tis almost with open doors, since it is a farewell of my Lord Culpeper before sailing for England. Harry, go, and—a—and—I swear if any exception be taken to it, I—I will tell the truth."

"Dear madam, it cannot be," I said, "and the truth is to be concealed not only for your sake, but for that of others."

Then she broke out in another paroxysm of childish wailing that never was such a wretched state of affairs, such a wretched old woman handicapped from serving one by her love for another. "Harry, I cannot clear thee unless I convict my own granddaughter Catherine," she said piteously, "and if I spared her not, neither her nor my pride, what of Mary? Catherine hath been like a mother to the child, and she loves her better than she loves me. 'Twould kill her, Harry. And, Harry, how can I give Mary to thee, and thou under this ban? Mary Cavendish cannot wed a convict."

"That she cannot and shall not," I said. "She shall wed a much worthier man and be happy, and sure 'tis her happiness that is the question."

But Madam Cavendish stared at me with unreasoning anger, not understanding, since she was a woman, and unreasoning as a woman will be in such matters. "If you love not my granddaughter, Harry Wingfield," she cried out, "'tis not her grandmother will fling her at your head. I will let you know, sir, that she could have her pick in the colony if she so chose, and it may be that she might not choose you, Master Harry Wingfield."

I laughed. "Madam Cavendish," I said, rising and bowing, "were I a king instead of a convict, then would I lay my crown at Mary Cavendish's feet; as it is, I can but pave, if I may, her way to happiness with my heart."

"Then you love her as I thought, Harry?"

"Madam," I said, "I love her to my honor and glory and never to my discontent, and I pray you to believe with a love that makes no account of selfish end, and that I am happier at home with my books than many a cavalier who shall dance with her at the ball."

"But, Harry," she said piteously, "I pray thee to go."

I laughed and shook my head and went away to my own quarters and sat down to my books, but at something past midnight Madam Cavendish sent for me in all haste. I went up to her and, laying a gentle hand upon her head, laid it back upon the pillow and touched her poor forehead, wrinkled with the cares and troubles of so many years, and felt all the pity in me uppermost. "'Tis near midnight and you have not slept, madam," I said. "I pray you not to fret any longer about that which we can none of us mend and which is but to be borne as the will of the Lord."

"Nay, nay, Harry," she cried out, with a pitiful strength of anger. "I doubt if it be the will of the Lord. I doubt if it be not the devil—Catherine, Catherine! Tarry, my brain reels when I think that she should have done it—a paltry ring, and to let you"—

"It may be that she had not her wits," I said. "Such things have been, I have heard, and especially in the case of a woman with jewels. It may be that she knew not what she did, and in any case I pray you to think no more of it, dear madam." And all the time I spoke I was smoothing her old forehead under the flapping frills of her cap.

One black woman was there in the room sitting in the shadow of the bed curtains fast asleep and making a strange purring noise like a cat as she slept.

Suddenly Madam Cavendish clutched hard at my hand. "Harry," she said, "I sent for you because I have lain here fretting lest Mary and Catherine get not home in safety with only the black people to guard them. I fear lest the Indians may be lurking about."

"Dear Madam Cavendish," I said, "you know that we stand in no more danger from the Indians."

"Nay," she persisted, "we can never tell what plans may be brewing in such savage brains. I pray thee, Harry, ride to meet them, and see if they be safe."

I laughed, for the danger from Indians was long since past, but said readily enough that I would do as she wished, being in fact glad enough of a gallop in the moonlight, with the prospect of meeting Mary. So in a few minutes I was in the saddle and riding toward Jamestown. The night was very bright with the moon, and there was a great mist rising from the marshy lands, and such strangely pale and luminous developments in the distances of the meadows, marshaling and advancing and retreating like companies of specters and lingering as if for consultation on the borders of the woods, with floating draperies caught in the boughs thereof, that one might have considered danger from others than Indians.

And indeed I often caught the note of an owl, and once one flitted past my face, and my horse shied at the evil bird, which is thought by the ignorant to be but a feathered cat and of ill omen, and indeed is considered by many who are wise to have presaged ill oftentimes, as in the cases of the deaths of the Emperors Valentinian and Commodus.

Be that as it may, I, having a pistol with me, shot at the bird and, though I was as good a shot as any thereabout, missed, and away it flew, with a great hoot as of laughter, which I am ready to swear I heard multiplied in a trice as if the bird were joined by a whole company, and my horse shied again and would have bolted had I not held him tightly.

Now, this which I am about to relate I am ready to swear did truly happen, though it may well be doubted. I had come within a short distance of Jamestown when I reached two houses of a small size, not far apart, not much removed from the fashion of the negro cabins, but inhabited by English folk. In the one dwelt a man who had been transported for a grievous crime, whether justly or not I cannot say, but his visage was such as to condemn him, and he was often in his cups and had spent many days in the stocks and had made frequent acquaintance with the whipping post, and with him dwelt his wife, an old dame with a tongue which had once earned her the ducking stool in England.

As I passed this house I saw over the door a great bunch of dill and vervain and white thorn, which is held to keep away witches from the threshold if gathered upon a May day. And I knew well the reason, for not many rods distant was the hut where dwelt one Margery Key, an ancient woman, who had been verily tied crosswise and thrown in a pond for witchcraft and been weighed against the church Bible, and had her body searched for witch marks and the thatch of her house burned. I know not why she had not come to the stake withal, but instead she had fled to Virginia, where witches, being not so common, were treated with more leniency. It may have been that she had escaped the usual fate of those of her kind by being considered by some a white witch and one who worked good instead of ill if approached rightly, though many considered that they who approached a white witch for the purpose of profiting by her advice or warning were of equal guilt and that it all led in the end to mischief.

Be that as it may, this old dame Margery Key dwelt there alone in her little hut so overthatched and grown by vines and scarce showing the shaggy slant of its roof above the bushes that it resembled more the hole of some timid and wary animal than a human habitation. And if any visited her for consultation it was by night and secrecy, and no one ever caught sight of her except now and then the nodding white frill of her cap in the green gloom of a window or the painful bend of her old back as she gathered sticks for her fire in the woods about. How she lived none knew.

A little garden patch she had, and a hive or two of bees, and a red cow, which many affirmed to have the eye of a demon, and there were those who said that her familiars stole bread for her from the plantation larders, and that often a prime ham was missed and a cut of venison, with no explanation; but who can say? Without doubt there are strange things in the earth, but we are all so in the midst of them and even a part of their workings that we can have no outside foothold to take fair sight thereof. Verily a man might as well strive to lift himself by his boot straps over a stile.

But this much I will say, that, as I was riding along, cogitating something deeply in my mind as to the best disposal of the powder and the shot which Mary Cavendish had ordered from England, I, coming abreast of Margery Key's house, saw of a sudden a white cat, which many affirmed to be her familiar, spring from her door like a white arrow of speed and off down a woodpath, and my horse reared and plunged, and then, with my holding him of no avail, though I had a strong hand on the bridle, was after her with such a mad flight that I had hard work to keep the saddle.

Pellmell through the wood we went, I ducking my head before the mad lash of the branches and feeling the dew therefrom in my face like a drive of rain, until we came to a cleared space, then a great spread of tobacco fields, overlapping silver white in the moonlight, and hamlet of negro cabins, and then Major Robert Beverly's house, standing a mass of shadow except for one moonlit wall, for all the family were gone to the governor's ball.

Then as I live that white cat of Margery Key's led me in that mad chase around Beverly's house, and when I came to the north side of it I saw a candle gleam in a window and heard a baby's wail, and knew 'twas where his infant daughter was tended, and as we swept past out thrust a black head from the window, and a screech as savage as any wild cat's rent the peace of the night, and I believe that the child's black nurse took us, no doubt, for the devil himself. Then all the dogs howled and bayed, though not one approached us, and a great bat came fanning past, like a winged shadow, and again I heard the owl's hoot, and ever before us, like a white arrow, fled that white cat, and my horse followed in spite of me.

Then—verily I speak the truth, though it may well be questioned—did that white cat lead us straight to the tomb which Major Beverly had made upon his plantation at the death of his first wife and in which she lay, and 'twas on a rising above the creek, and then the cat, with a wail which was like nothing I ever heard in this world, was away in a straight line toward the silver gleam of the creek, though every one knows well how cats hate water, and had disappeared. But, though to this I will not swear, I thought I saw a white gleam aloft, and heard a wail of a cat skyward along with the owl hoots.

And then my horse stood and trembled in such wise that I thought he would fall under me, and I dismounted and stroked his head and tried as best I could to soothe him, and we were all the time before the tomb, which was a large one. Then of a sudden it came to me that here was the hiding place for the powder and shot, for what safer hiding place can there be than the tomb of the first wife, when the second hath reigned but a short time, and is fair, and hath but just given her lord that little darling whose cries of appealing helplessness I could hear even there? So I gave the tomb door a pull, knowing that I should not by so doing disturb the slumbers of the poor lady within, and decided with myself that it would be easy enough to force it, and mounted and rode back as best I might to the road.

And when I came to the little dwelling of Margery Key a thought struck me, and I rode close, though my horse shuddered as if with some strange fright of something which I could not see. I bent in my saddle and looked in the door, but naught could I see. Then I dismounted and tied my horse to a tree near by and entered the house and looked about the sorry place as well as I could in the pale sift of moonlight, and—the old woman was not there. But one room there was, with a poor pallet in a corner and a chest against the wall and a stool and a kettle in the fireplace, with a little pile of sticks and a great scattering of ashes, but no one there, and also, if I may be believed, no broom.

All this I tell for what it may be worth to the credulity of them who hear; the facts be such as I have said. But whether believing it myself or not, yet knowing that that white cat, though it had been Margery Key in such guise or her familiar imp on his way to join her at some revel whither she had ridden her broom, had done me good service, and, seeing the piteous smallness of the pile of sticks on the hearth and reflecting upon the distressful bend of the old soul's back, whether she had sold herself to Satan or not, I lingered a minute to break down a goodly armful of brush in the wood outside and carry inside for the replenishment of her store.

The two white faces peering from the door

And as I came forth, having done so, I heard the door of the nearby house open and saw two white faces peering out at me and heard a woman's voice shriek shrilly that here was the devil seeking the witch, and though I called out to reassure them the door clapped to with a bang like a pistol shot and my horse danced about so that I could scarcely mount. Then I rode away, something wondering within myself, since I had been taken for the devil, how many others might have been and whether men made their own devils and their own witches, instead of the prince of evil having a hand in it, and yet that happened which I have related, and I have told the truth.

ANGEL CHILDREN.

Is there any happier woman in this world than that mother whose each successive little one seems to her but one more darling angel to continually lift her thoughts toward the sunshine of perfect happiness? But sorry is the lot of that poor mother to whom motherhood has ceased to be a cause of rejoicing, but has become instead a burden to be dreaded and looked forward to with melancholy and apprehension.

"About three months before our last baby was born (which is our fourth), writes Mrs. Nellie Carl, of Myrtlepoint, Coos Co., Oregon, "my health was very poor. I had been troubled for about eight years with female disease. I doctored with good physicians but obtained no relief, so I wrote to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, and was advised to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I did so, and am happy to say my health began to improve and I did my work up to the last, and felt splendid.

"I got along finely during confinement, and have the healthiest baby I ever saw. When he was three months old he weighed eighteen pounds; he is now seven months old and weighs twenty-four pounds. I can say I have had no return of my old troubles. I thank you very much for the good you have done me."

Any woman may write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., a statement of her case, which will be considered in absolute confidence by this physician who stands among the foremost specialists of the century in the treatment of women's diseases. He will send her (in a plain, sealed envelope) sound, sensible, valuable advice free of all charge.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page, illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only, or cloth-bound for 50 stamps.

THE CARNEGIE LIBRARY IN THE TOWNS AND CITIES

Summary of the Results of Questions Asked by Secretary Quartermaine of the Board of Trade—The Different Amounts Received and the Annual Expenditures Necessary for the Library.

Mr. T. Q. Quartermaine, secretary of the Board of Trade, sent letters to a number of towns and cities, asking for information with reference to Carnegie Libraries, in preparation for the meeting last night. The questions asked were as follows:

1.—How did your town (or city) obtain grant for library?
2.—What was the amount of grant?
3.—How was amount arrived at?
4.—What are the terms and conditions of grant?
5.—What is the general result? Other information, etc.

The replies have been prepared in tabular form by Mr. Quartermaine, and are as follows:

1.—Ottawa, Applicant Mayor; total grant, $100,000; yearly levy, $7,500.

2.—Galt, applicants, members of Library Board, first grant $17,500; second grant, $5,500; total, $23,000; yearly levy, $2300. This may include Government grant of $250.

3.—Brantford, applicant, Judge Hardy; first grant, $30,000; second, $5,000; total, $35,000; yearly levy, $3500.

4.—Chatham, Applicants, members Library Board; first grant, $15,000; second, $3,000; third, $1,000 total $19,000; yearly levy, $1900.

5.—Lindsay, applicant, secretary Library Board, first grant, $10,000; second, $3,500; total, $13,500; yearly levy, $1350.

SEVERAL CASES AT POLICE COURT

Drunk and Disorderly Cases Disposed of—Matrimonial Difficulty Ventilated.

Two cases of drunk and disorderly were dealt with at Police Court this morning. The first case that of a young man from Lakefield evoked a remark of surprise from the Magistrate, who observed that the usual conditions were reversed in this case, as the northern village is, under normal conditions, the objective point of the local men of Bacchanalian proclivities. This, together with a second case, added "fill.hy flurre" to the extent of $4.00 to the coffers of the Town Clerk.

William Revoy was charged with harbouring a vicious dog, which later, however, proved to be the property of a gentleman boarding at Revoy's house. Several witnesses testified to the unangelic character of the canine, which had attacked passers-by on several occasions, and its destruction was ordered by the Magistrate.

The case against a local hotel-keeper for having, contrary to the provisions of the Liquor License Act, received a watch in pawn, was enlarged till Friday.

A woman called at court who wished to take legal action of some kind, though as to its precise nature, she was somewhat indefinite, against her husband, who appears to be a very much married gentleman. She was the object of his devotions at the time of his first quest for matrimonial felicity. After several years of domestic bliss, during which several children were ushered into this sphere of unlimited trouble, he wavered in his affections, taking to his bosom another of the fair sex, with whom he now resides. The Magistrate, however, was of the opinion that the matrimonial tangle could not be improved by recourse to legal action.

WONDERFUL CURE OF SORE HANDS

After Most Awful Suffering Ever Experienced—Eight Doctors and Many Remedies Failed to Do a Cent's Worth of Good.

THANKS TO CUTICURA IT IS ALL OVER NOW

"I was troubled with sore hands, so sore that when I would put them in water the pain would nearly set me crazy, the skin would peel off and the flesh get hard and break, with blood flowing from at least fifty places on each hand. Words could never tell the suffering I endured for three years. I tried eight different doctors, but none did me any good, as my hands were as bad as when I began. I also tried many remedies, but none of them ever did me one cent's worth of good. I was discouraged and heartsore. I would feel so bad mornings, to think I had to go to work and stand the pain for ten hours, I often felt like giving up my position. I would have to wrap every finger up separately, so as to try and keep them soft, and then wear gloves over the rags to keep the grease from getting on my work. I had to wear gloves at night; in fact, all the time. But thanks to Cuticura, that is all over now. After doctoring for three years, and spending much money, a single box of Cuticura Ointment ended all my sufferings. It's been two years since I have known what sore hands are, and have never lost a day's work while using Cuticura.—Thomas A. Clancy, 310 N. Montgomery St., Trenton, N. J."

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the City Market were 73 carloads, consisting of 1097 cattle, 1200 hogs, 294 sheep and lambs, 149 calves and 13 horses.

Few straight loads of exporters were offered, but there were several lots picked out of mixed loads of butchers' and exporters. Prices ranged from $4.60 to $5.25 per cwt., the bulk being bought around $5 per cwt. Export bulls sold at $3.50 to $4 per cwt.

Picked butchers' sold at $4.40 to $4.70; loads of good at $4.15 to $4.35; medium, $3.90 to $4.10; common mixed lots, $3.50 to $3.75; medium to good butchers' cows, $3.50 to $4; common cows, $3 to $3.40; inferior, $2.50 to $3 per cwt.

The demand was greater than the supply. Short-keep, 1100 to 1200 lbs each, sold at $4.40 to $4.70; feeders, 900 to 1000 lbs each, at $4 to $4.25 per cwt; feeders, 800 to 900 lbs each, sold at $3.50 to $3.85 per cwt.

About 25 cows, milkers and springers, sold at $25 to $57 each, the bulk going at $35 to $45 each.

The season has again arrived when the market is flooded with calves, not veal calves, but "bobs," that ought not to be allowed on any market for killing purposes. This class was selling at lower rates, about $3.50 per cwt.; medium to good at $4 to $5.75 per cwt., but choice new milk-fed calves are as dear as ever, selling at $5 to $6.50 per cwt.

The run was light, with prices still firmer. Export cows, $4.75 to $5.50 per cwt; export bucks, $3.75 to $4.35 cwt; mixed sheep, $4 to $5 cwt; choice yearling lambs, $7 to $7.60 per cwt; common yearlings at $5 to $6.50 per cwt; spring lambs, $4 to $7 each.

About 1200 hogs were delivered on the market, all of which were bought by Mr. Harris at unchanged prices. Selects, $5.25; lights and fats, $5 per cwt, fed and watered.

SMART DRESSERS

Young men are as a general thing the smartest dressers.

The up-to-the-moment young man is a sort of a lexicon of clothes style, and correctness. He knows what's what and gets it.

But good fit, the newest colours, patterns, etc. aren't enough; for unless that snappy, jaunty appearance characteristic of our excellent Tailor Made Clothing is there, it is not what the young man wants. Our success in pleasing young men is not just "luck". It's due to our knowledge of what the young man wants and our ability to provide it for him.

Our spring stock is now complete and prices always reasonable. Did you ever notice how many young men come here for their clothes? There's a reason for it.

NOT A SHADOW NOR A TITTLE OF TRUTH IN IT

Premier Denies Any Understanding With Sbarretti--Analysis of Rogers' Story--The Negotiations With Manitoba's Representatives--Any Dealings With the Papal Ablegate Were Without the Knowledge of Sir Wilfrid--Sir William Mulock Fought for Ontario's Rights.

Ottawa, April 6.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier rose to the expectations of his friends yesterday, and promptly, emphatically and convincingly denied all responsibility for the interview and negotiations which were alleged to have taken place between Mgr. Sbarretti and the representatives of Manitoba respecting the boundary dispute. The Premier's statement was made voluntarily at the opening of the House, and was received with the greatest satisfaction by his followers. He gave the inference that he inspired the interview or had any connection with or responsibility for it the most absolute and categorical denial. He then reviewed Mr. Rogers statement, and to each paragraph which could reflect upon him gave contradiction in turn.

New Light on Meetings.

He was able to throw new light on the meetings with the Manitoba Ministers, and showed that their interviews with the Dominion Government on the boundary matter was sought by themselves. He also showed that Mr. Rogers knew the Government's view on the boundary question when the Northwest bills were introduced on February 21, and circumstances showed that the Government's conclusion had been reached by their own will and determination.

Had Nothing to Do With It.

As to the actual matter of the alleged interview with Mgr. Sbarretti, Sir Wilfrid had nothing to do with it, and, as Mr. Borden subsequently said, the Papal Delegate was not responsible to this House.

Mr. Borden's observations were very brief, but he at once admitted the Premier had made a strong case for himself, and regretted he had not been so frank as to the position of Mr. Sifton and Mr. Fielding in regard to the autonomy bills.

Sir William Mulock showed important testimony when he showed that he, as a Minister from Ontario, had been the first to make objection to Manitoba's request for an eastern extension of the boundary, resulting in the application being hung up. The discussion was taken up by Messrs. Maclean, Sam Hughes, Bourassa and Peter White, and continued during the rest of the afternoon.

Sir Wilfrid's Statement.

Before the orders of the day were called Sir Wilfrid Laurier arose after the House met, and on a motion to suspend the rules so as to have further correspondence on the Manitoba boundary negotiations presented forthwith, made his statement in reply to the charges of clerical interference in Canadian politics. Sir Wilfrid read in its entirety the interview with Mr. Rogers, as it appeared in the special despatch from Winnipeg, and then said:

Not a Shadow of Truth in It.

"Referring to the whole tenor of this document, in so far as there is a charge in it, that there was an understanding between Mgr. Sbarretti and myself to have the school question considered in connection with the extension of the boundary of Manitoba, there is not a shadow nor a tittle of truth in it."

He went on to say that when the correspondence was brought down on April 3, he had not then received Manitoba's further rejoinder, in fact, it only arrived yesterday. There was nothing in it to conceal. Referring to the interview of Messrs. Campbell and Rogers, with Mgr. Sbarretti, Sir Wilfrid said:

Were Not Intermediaries.

"There has been a rumor about the corridors of this house that this conference had been brought about by one of my colleagues. I have to say to the house, and I have the authority of my colleague for this, that there never was any conference brought about by him, between the delegates and Mgr. Sbarretti, and I have to make the further statement that neither myself nor any of my colleagues were the intermediaries between Mgr. Sbarretti and the delegates of Manitoba. If there has been such a conference, how it came about I cannot say. Perhaps Mgr. Sbarretti may have had previous communication with these gentlemen. I do not know."

No Request from Manitoba.

Sir Wilfrid next read the statement that Mgr. Sbarretti had promised if certain amendments to the school laws were made the boundaries of Manitoba would be extended to Hudson Bay, also Mgr. Sbarretti's further statement that Manitoba's failure to act in the past had prejudiced her claim for extension westward. Sir Wilfrid declared he could not conceive how the papal ablegate, or anyone else, could have made such a statement, because from July, 1896, until January, 1905, the government had never received any request from Manitoba for the extension of her boundaries.

That Invitation to Wait.

Dealing with Mr. Rogers' statement as to the mission of the delegates to Ottawa, Sir Wilfrid read the correspondence which, he said, went to show that the initiative came not from the Dominion government, but from the government of Manitoba. Then, as to what took place at the interview, Sir Wilfrid said he differed from Mr. Rogers as to the latter's statement that the delegates were asked to remain three or four days longer in Ottawa to receive the government's answer. Sir Wilfrid said that when it came to a discussion as to the extension of Manitoba's boundaries towards Hudson Bay, Sir William Mulock strongly objected, stating that in his opinion it would not be fair to the Province of Ontario that that claim should be considered unless the Province of Ontario had an opportunity to discuss it. Sir Wilfrid did not remember having asked the delegates to remain a few days in Ottawa, his recollection being that he told them their representations would be brought to the attention of council, and that probably they would get an answer at an early date. He added that next day the bills were introduced in the house, and as Mr. Rogers and Mr. Campbell were present on that occasion, they received their answer then. Since then a minute-in-council had been communicated to the government of Manitoba, in which the federal government declared its readiness to consider the proposition of extending Manitoba's boundary to Hudson Bay, at a conference, in which the Provinces of Saskatchewan, Ontario and Manitoba would be represented. Sir Wilfrid next referred to Mr. Rogers' letter of Feb. 23, to which Mr. Borden had called his attention. The prime minister read the letter as published in the newspapers.

Never Received the Letter.

Sir Wilfrid declared that he had never received the letter, nor had his private secretary; but, in view of what Mr. Rogers had stated in his interview in The Citizen on Feb. 20, he did not consider it was a matter of importance. In that interview, Mr. Rogers stated he expected to learn the government's decision upon Manitoba's claims when the autonomy bills were introduced.

Proceeding to quote from Mr. Rogers' Winnipeg interview, which, he said, appeared in The Citizen under the heading, "Laurier's Double-Dealing," Sir Wilfrid said that the Canadian government had never brought down any correspondence with Cardinal Rampolla, as there was no correspondence to bring down. The truth was that in 1896 he (Sir Wilfrid) and several of his co-religionists, having some difficulty in their own church, appealed to the authorities of their church to settle them. This they did, not as a government, but simply as men belonging to the Roman Catholic Church.

"We had trouble," said the prime minister, "over matters of ecclesiastical policy, and we appealed to the supreme arbitrator in our church to determine these matters. There was nothing more nor less than this."

Sir William Mulock.

Sir William Mulock rose at this point and said that at the request of Sir Wilfrid Laurier he had attended the meeting between members of the government and the Manitoba delegates on Feb. 17. So far as he recollected, the minister of justice was not present. When Mr. Rogers urged that the boundaries of Manitoba be extended to Hudson Bay, he (Sir William) opposed the proposition on the ground that Ontario had the right to be heard. Further, he told Mr. Rogers he thought it a waste of time to continue the discussion of the matter, as he was firm in his claim that Ontario must be heard, and with that he withdrew from the conference. "So far as the papal ablegate is concerned," said the postmaster-general, "the statement made in this newspaper is the first intimation I have had that he took any part in the adjustment of the boundaries of Manitoba."

Mr. Borden.

The leader of the opposition followed. Mr. Borden congratulated the prime minister upon the fact that, while he had ignored Mr. Sifton and Mr. Fielding in respect to the autonomy bill, the postmaster-general had been so strenuous in his advocacy of the rights of Ontario. As to the letter of Feb. 23, all he knew was that he had just received a telegram from the attorney-general of Manitoba, asking him to see that it was brought down, as it had been omitted from the documents produced in the house. That letter, he said, bore out very strongly the view that Mr. Rogers had expressed in his interview, viz., that Sir Wilfrid had asked them to remain two or three days in Ottawa to get the government's answer.

They departed without receiving that answer, but they did receive an intimation from His Excellency Mgr. Sbarretti. As to that interview, he would say nothing further at present, except that Sir Wilfrid might have given his explanation at an earlier date. As long ago as February last, there appeared in The Northwest Review a statement that "The only obstacle to the territorial expansion of our Province of Manitoba is its iniquitous and cruel school system. Not even the wildest corner of any unorganized territory will consent to saddle itself with such a tyranny. Manitoba must be content to remain small and mean so long as it maintains its small and mean school politics."

When this statement had been brought to the prime minister's attention, he made no suggestion that it was unfounded. And then, again, there appeared in an organ of the Liberal party in Quebec the declaration that Manitoba would have to remain content with her present small territory because of her pretentious school law. In view of these declarations of Liberal newspapers, Mr. Borden submitted that the prime minister's statements should have been made before to-day.

"I have nothing to say with regard to the position which is said to have been assumed by His Excellency Mgr. Sbarretti," continued Mr. Borden. "He is not in any sense responsible to this parliament; he is responsible only to his ecclesiastical superiors in authority. The only persons who are in any way responsible to this parliament are the government of this country —(cheers)—and I thought that my right hon. friend to-day might have gone a little farther than he did go. He knows as well as any of us that it has been stated in the public press that there were negotiations with Mgr. Sbarretti with regard to education in the Northwest, if not in Manitoba. My right hon. friend did not see fit to touch that question to-day."

The debate was continued by Messrs. Staples (Macdonald), W. F. Maclean, Henri Bourassa, Peter White and Sam Hughes, and was somewhat heated at times.

The Autonomy Debate.

The speakers in the autonomy debate yesterday were Mr. Wilson (Lennox-Addington), Dr. Barr (Dufferin), and Dr. Beland (Beauce).

Some Fighting is Reported.

Tokio, April 6.—Imperial army headquarters reporting yesterday says: "A part of our Changtu force drove the Russians out of Tsuiushu, two miles north of Changtu, and also out of Sumiencheng, nine miles west of Tsuiushu, and occupied both places on April 3.

"After driving the enemy from the neighborhood of Sountactsu, six miles southeast of Tsuiushu, our force reached the vicinity of Santaukou on April 4 at noon, when they were fired upon fiercely by about 500 Russian cavalry,

BERT BOWMAN FATALLY SHOT.

Bank Clerk of Frankford Died by his own Hand.

Was Only Married a Few Months Ago—22 Years of Age.

Special to the Examiner.

Frankford, April 6. — Bert Bowman, the Molsons Bank clerk, who shot himself four times on Tuesday morning as he lay in bed, died last night about nine o'clock. The body will be taken to Oshawa to-day for burial. Bowman was 22 years of age, and was formerly employed in the London Branch of the Molsons Bank. He married a lady in London several months ago. His father is a traveller for the German-Eckhardt Co., London.

MR. C. J. WHITEN OPENS BUSINESS

Will Start a Jewellery Business at Keewatin Ont.

It will be learned with great pleasure by his many friends in Peterborough, to learn that Mr. Chas. J. Whiten, son of Mr. George E. Whiten, of town is opening up a jewelry business for himself in Keewatin, Ont., for which town he left this morning.

Mr. Whiten has for the past two years been employed on the staff of Messrs. P. W. Ellis & Co., wholesale jewelers, Toronto, and previous to that he worked for five years in Peterborough with the late W. A. Sanderson where he learned the business.

He is a young man of sterling integrity and will no doubt meet with the success which he deserves.

It is a matter for congratulation that Mr. Ellis, for whom Mr. Whiten has worked for the past two years, gave the first chance to him to open the business at Keewatin, where it is expected he will do an excellent business.

"FAMOUS ENGLISH OPERA SINGERS"

A Splendid Programme Splendidly Presented

Large and Delighted Audience Listens to and Enjoys a Uniquely Rare Musical Treat.

The concert given in the opera house last night by, as they are called, "Dale's Famous English Opera Singers," was in every respect a delightful and satisfying entertainment, and the company very fully justified the title assumed. The programme was a long one, and was excellently presented. While the quality of the music was not of classical character, it was high class light opera music, interspersed with songs of large merit; yet it was presented in a thoroughly artistic and refined manner. The musical quality of the work, the faultless ensemble, the admirable blending of the voices in quartettes, trios and duets, gave great pleasure to the large audience present. Almost every number was subject to demand for repetition. It is not practicable to deal in detail with the generous programme of about twenty numbers which was practically about duplicated. The quartettes were splendidly given. They were nearly all of a dramatic character, and the dramatic, as well as the musical demands, were admirably met. The stage setting was Japanese in style, and the costume of the singers was the costume of the conquering children of the Rising Sun. The Ensemble of Sullivan was a delightful number. It was "altogether," both in character and execution. Sullivan's trio, "Rice and Rue," a beautiful composition, received a treatment corresponding with the quality of its melody and harmony. The blending of the voices was exquisite, as was also the delicate nuances imparted. The quartette, Sullivan's "Joy and Sorrow," was another perfect number, and an encore, a companion piece of artistic singing, "Flirtation," was given. The duet of Miss Gwendoline Phillips and Mr. Frederick Dale, was splendidly sung, and the duet, "The Rivals," by Mr. Claude Anderson and Mr. Dale, was a fine presentation, and had to be repeated. Miss Gwendoline Phillips, the contralto, had perhaps the best voice of the company, a rich, round, full, liquid contralto, remarkably flexible, and subject to splendid control. Her two solos, "Japanese Love Song," and "Dewy Roses," where charmingly sung, their musicianly treatment as well as rendition, were artistic and satisfying to a degree. Mr. Claude Anderson, tenor, sang Adams' "Nirvana," in fine voice and with good artistic effect, and had to give an extra number, but his best work as a soloist was perhaps given in the second solo, "My Kingdom," which was not so honoured by the audience. Mr. Frederic Dale is the musical humourist of the company, and was artistically and irresistibly laughable. Mr. H. Collman, the pianist and the accompanist, gave a fine performance of Kowalski's "Marche Hongroise," and for an encore the "Turkish Patrol" — with fine finish. In the beginning his accompaniments were almost powerful enough for the "Hallelujah Chorus," but after he caught the acoustics of our beautiful opera house, he toned himself down to the excellent work he did in the latter part of the programme. Miss Serpell, soprano, was suffering from bronchitis, and did not appear in solo. Taken altogether the concert of the English Opera Singers was delightfully enjoyable. The music presented was for the most part sprightly, and mainly humorous, but it was "most excellent fooling," — dainty, refined, and always musicianly in character and presentation.

Mr. Walter Stocker, the energetic impresario, in bringing the company here, laid the public under a deep debt of gratitude.

TWELVE HUNDRED CARNEGIE LIBRARIES

Former Steel Financier has Given 1290 Public Libraries.

The Metropolitan Magazine of this month contains some interesting information with reference to Andrew Carnegie's library schemes, which, in view of the proposal to establish one here will be read with special interest. The article says:—

"It is interesting to note that, according to figures recently made public by Mr. Carnegie's secretary, the millionaire ironmaster has up to the present time given for libraries alone, nearly forty million dollars of his private fortune. This vast amount has been expended for the founding of 1,290 public libraries, of which 779 are in the United States. Three-fourths of the entire amount, of nearly thirty million dollars, has gone to these American institutions, while England, with 276 libraries, and less than six million dollars, ranks second, and Mr. Carnegie's native Scotland, with 71 libraries and less than two million dollars, comes third. A little figuring has adduced the fact that eighteen per cent. of the entire English-speaking population of the globe has been given immediate and unrestricted access to the best that the world of books can offer.

ANXIOUS FOR INFORMATION.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In the course of a few days we are likely to hear a great deal about Dante, the eminent Italian poet. In the meantime, I should like to find out the correct pronunciation of his name. Is it Don-tay, according to the Italian method, or Dant, according to the English method, or Dan-ty, according to no method? Again, if in all earnestness and sincerity I ask my friend about the pronunciation of this name, and he replies:—"Call it Dan-ty or you will be called pe-dan-tic", what should he be called? Is not such an evasive trick a sign of the moral degeneracy of the age? Further, if I request my friend to pronounce for me the difficult name Sbarelli, and he replies:—"Roblin et al. pronounce it an easy name to secure a new lease of power with", what does he mean anyway?

CANON BEAMISH AT ST. JOHN'S.

Mid-week Lenten Service Addressed by him.

A Discourse of an Appropriate Nature—Words of Advice to Christians.

The regular Wednesday evening Lenten service at St. John's, last night, was attended by a large congregation. A forceful and eloquent address was delivered by Rev. Canon Beamish, of Belleville, the theme of the discourse having an appropriate Lenten significance.

When we become Christians we are signed with the sign of the Cross, upon our foreheads, that we should continue to be Christ's soldiers to our life's end, and to fight against the three enemies that threaten us,—the World, the Flesh and the Devil. The Devil is a very real enemy. It is common in these days, in which the spirit of materialism prevails to such a large extent, to deny the existence of a personal devil, but when we see about us the sickness, suffering and death, we cannot deny the existence of a sprit of evil. God did not make evil,—such a thought would be blasphemous. Just as we say darkness is a negative force, being the absence of light, so is evil the absence of good. Much mention is made in the Book of Revelation of the existence of a personal devil. The temptations to which our Saviour was subjected were cited. Our Lord triumphed in his three-fold nature, — body, mind and spirit. All the Saints of God realize that there was a spirit of evil working against their spiritual character and life. There is also the experience of all who have tried to follow God's will, the existence of a power alien to their highest character, drawing them away from their highest wishes and desires, is that there is a personal enemy of the human soul. In the press we read daily of strange unaccountable phases which pass over human nature from time to time. It can only be explained by the fact that there is an energetic foe busy plotting and planning for the destruction of human well-being.

Let us remember to keep in our right hand the Holy Word of God, and in the left the book of prayer, and in this way meet every assault of the Evil One, being always prepared to meet every attack, whether it comes to body, mind or spirit.

The preacher then passed on to our other enemy—the World. The Divine order which ordereth things on earth is not taken into account or recognized by the worldly world. There are three witnesses to this Divine order,—the Spirit, the Water and the Blood. The Spirit beareth witness "because the Spirit is true" and will speak to our consciences, and show us that there is a Divine order directing the affairs of things here below. Humanity has, through Christ's death, received a fresh start,—a new birth. This is, however, only a beginning, and just as a natural human life is begun feebly, necessitating great care to produce development, so does this new life. The powers imparted by Baptism and Conversion must be cultivated. Is it, the preacher asked, being carefully nurtured and guarded, and is your spiritual nature being cultivated? In summing up, the three witnesses which we have were pointed out,—the Spirit, to our consciences; the Water, to our cleansing and purifying and our fresh start; and the Blood, to the strengthening and growth of our spiritual nature.

What do we mean by "the flesh"? St. Paul spoke of bringing the body into subjection. The flesh is not the body, but the excessive use of selfish passions and desires of the body. The body has to be ever regulated and controlled. If not, we will be guilty of having desecrated that temple which is the Temple of the Holy Ghost. We are to have recourse to the right ordering and development of our wills. The will is placed supreme. We should not allow our foe, the flesh, to become master where it should act as servant.

The Lenten season is intended to be a season of self-knowledge and self-control. Self control is the normal condition of life. The answer to those who object to a penitential season is that the principle of self-denial is necessary to test and try the reality of our self discipline. It is by such means that we learn how our flesh is being controlled by the Spirit. By certain acts of self-denial, we may be able to raise ourselves to a higher level, or bring ourselves back to a state formerly attained.

By these means we will be able to cause the Devil, who is a real and personal foe, to retire humiliated and vanquished.

The preacher closed by strongly impressing the necessity of the use of the weapons which we have, to overcome our foes, and which will strengthen and empower us with a new element to the end and consummation of life.

SEPARATE SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

C. P. R. COLONISTS RATES

Special Low Rates to the Pacific Coast.

The Canadian Pacific Railway from now, and daily until May 15th, are offering special colonist rates to Vancouver, Victoria, Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, Oregon, and all Pacific Coast points. The rates being named are exceptionally low — the fare from Peterborough for instance being but $43.80, with corresponding reductions from other points in Ontario. Economy and solid comfort are combined in the celebrated tourist sleepers operated by this company, leaving Toronto at 1.45 p.m., on Tuesdays and Saturdays for Vancouver, without change, and from North Bay connecting with train leaving Toronto at 1.45 p.m. on Sundays and Thursdays. By paying an almost nominal berth rate, passengers holding colonist tickets can avail themselves of the excellent accommodation thus afforded. British Columbia, Canada's most westerly province, possesses vast resources and offers new fields and extensive opportunities particularly for the miner, the farmer, the lumberman, the fruit grower and the rancher. "British Columbia," a pamphlet brimfull of trustworthy information bearing on the province, folders, descriptive of the tourist sleepers, and other interesting and valuable information, may be had for the asking on application to C. B. Foster, D.P.A., C. P. Railway, Toronto, or any Canadian Pacific agent, who will also gladly furnish all details to persons contemplating such a trip.

Rev. R. Hyde to Leave for North West —Other Interesting News

Special to the Examiner.

Warsaw, April 4th.—Rev. Mr. Battersby, of Young's Point, was in the village on Monday.

Mr. O. S. Earle, of Toronto, spent Sunday and Monday the guest of Mr. A. W. Kidd.

Mr. Wm. Mason has commenced operations at the saw-mills. Judging from the number of logs in the yard, a busy season may be expected.

Many are the expressions of regret because of the illness of Mr. Geo. McFee. He has been moved to the Western Hospital, Toronto, where he will undergo an operation.

Considerable excitement was aroused in the business section on Thursday evening last. The lake-on-the-mountain raised beyond the usual level with the result that Patterson's Falls, situated upon the outlet were badly crowded and also the drain at the whirlpool. The over-flow found a level along the Cement Works which had to be drilled in order to allow the water to reach the river.

Rev. R. Hyde, formerly pastor of the Presbyterian Church, accompanied by his family, will leave Peterborough on Tuesday next for Griswald, Man., where he will assume charge of a pastorate.

The departure of Rev. Mr. Hyde will be learned with feelings of deep regret by the large circle of friends made during his pastorate here, by whose best wishes he will be followin his entrance upon his new and more responsible post of duty. A new manse it is understood is in course of erection and will be occupied by Mr. Hyde and family when completed.

The Examiner's recent enlargement and the accompanying new and progressive features which have been added, are meeting with much popular favour by the people of Warsaw and the surrounding country. This is especially the case with the carefully prepared weekly live stock and grain markets columns, which are read with much interest and contain the latest and most authentic reports with regard to these matters

The preliminary work in connection with the construction of the new telephone line to McCracken's Landing is being prosecuted energetically.

More improvements, it is understood, will be made to the Morgan House in the near future, which will add still further to the popularity of this hostelry with the travelling public.

The many friends here of Mr. Ernie Wasson heard with feelings of pleasure of his marriage to Miss Minnie Jones, which was solemnized in Toronto on Wednesday.

—James Bradley, of DesMoines, Iowa, aged 78 years, was presented recently with a bouncing pair of twins by his wife, aged 36. Take can the Osterian theory survive in the face of this?

LATE HAPPENINGS AT LASSWADE

Interesting Budget of News From that Village.

From our Own Correspondent.

Lasswade, April 3rd. — The crows and robins are here again.

We are all glad to see the snow disappearing, but the roads are in an unpleasant condition.

The mail carrier failed to make his appearance on Saturday last, consequently a great many went home as lightly as they came.

One of our young men was injured somewhat at Mr. Cameron's the other day. He is able to be out again, so we conclude he has recovered.

Mr. John Snelgrove and family are soon to leave for Manitoba. They will be greatly missed in this vicinity. We however wish them success in their new home.

The latest style—
If you're afraid of tanning,
When hanging out the clothes,
Put a veil upon your face,
And spectacles on your nose.

Mr. W. Bullied returned home on Saturday last.

Our mill yard is fast filling with logs in spite of the poor sleighing.

We would judge from appearances that the two barbers of Lasswade have lately come to each other's rescue. We would admire going into partnership.

Child Had Eczema.

'My daughter, 13 years old, suffered from eczema for three years. She was treated by our family physician and used other ointments without benefit. By using Dr. Chase's Ointment she has been completely cured. This is the only Ointment I feel like recommending."—Mr. Jas. H. Patriquin, 176 Rockdale Avenue, Sydney, C. B.

INDIAN RIVER INTELLEGENCE

The Latest News from the Enterprising Village.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Indian River, April 3rd. — Mr. D. O'Leary has returned from Buffalo, where he was for some time among the bridge companies learning the best method for erecting bridges over the Indian River. Mr. O'Leary says the work will soon begin.

Mr. Jos Darling of the Darling Hotel, is preparing to board the bridge hands during the construction.

We are pleased to learn that Mr. P. Burke has recovered from what might have been a serious accident.

Mr. P. L. Devlin is busy drawing stone. Mr. Devlin intends to build a house during the summer.

We were sorry to hear of the death of Mr. Wm. Fitzgerald.

Messrs Hall and Duff are preparing for the egg season, and they think the yield will be greater this year than ever.

While getting off the east bound train the other nigh Mr. Simon Moffatt missed his footing and fell on the platform. The accident might have been serious had it not been for his brother.

Mr. G. Rancier has returned home.

Have You One of Those Can't Taste, Can't-Smell Colds?

If you have you had better get rid of it immediately. If you don't, that terrible and disgusting malady, Catarrh, is sure to take hold of you and make you miserable, and an object of repugnance to your friends. The best and quickest cure for your cold is

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP.

It contains all the virtues of the Norway Pine Tree, combined with Wild Cherry Bark and the soothing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks.

Mr. Harry Mosher, Mosher's Island, N.S., writes:—"We have used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup in our family for the past six years, and have always found it a reliable remedy for the cure of coughs and colds."

Many cases of substitution have been brought to our notice. Do not be humbugged into taking any other pine syrup which unscrupulous dealers say is just as good.

Dr. Wood's is the original, put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark, and the price 25 cents.

A BOWER OF BEAUTY.

What a Visit to Jordan Bros' Greenhouses Discloses.

An Interesting Story of Ten Year's Success—Growing Business.

This is a great age for those who stick right to business and who understand that business, and there are almost daily evidences of the success which attends the efforts of those who are dead in earnest about business, and who take it seriously.

These successes differ only in degree, and one of the most striking examples of the success which comes to a strict application to one's business, coupled with a thorough knowledge of that business in its details, is that furnished by the florist firm of Jordan Brothers. a visit to whose extensive greenhouses on Argyle street, was recently made by an Examiner representative.

Ten years ago this firm started business in a small way with one sash hot-house on the premises where their large business is now located.

The success with which they have met, is one which could only have been attained by hard work, and does not come by chance or luck. It was the result in this case, as indeed business success in almost every case, of an intense interest in the business and indomnitable energy. Starting in this small way, the business has grown steadily and surely until it has at present reached its present large proportions, and is the largest between Ottawa and Toronto, with 15,000 square feet of glass space, and plans under way for the erection of a fifth large hot house, 100 x 20 feet, the size of four others, which have been erected at intervals during the last ten years as the expanding business has demanded.

The scope of the florists' business in Peterborough has enlarged considerably during the last ten years, and is now quite extensive, more so in fact than the uninitiated would imagine, and it was a revelation to the Examiner representative to find that such an extensive business was done by this firm, the members of which are all practical men in their business, which doubtless accounts to a considerable extent for their success.

Just at the present time preparations are under way for the summer trade, and an evidence of the extent of this is found in the fact that in the geranium house there are 5,000 plants, the majority of which will be ready to put outside by May 24th. In this house there are also 1,000 Easter lilies, a large number of them in full bloom at present, but a great many are being held back until Easter, when they will be allowed to flower.

A "general house" also 100 x 20 feet, contains 4,000 to 5,000 seedlings in boxes, including a great many garden vegetables, such as tomatoes, cabbage, etc., in which, in addition to the trade in flowers, a big business is done. 10,000 celery plants are also in this house. There are besides 6,000 vines which will be used for putting in urns, orders to fill two hundred of which are at present held by the firm.

A visit to the carnation house is of great interest. In this house there are 5,000 carnation plants, and from these during the last winter, 200 hundred flowers per day have been cut, which, however has not been enough to supply the demand which is growing rapidly.

A very pretty sight in this house is a bed of double white stocks in full bloom. This bed is 50 x 5 feet.

Running across the end of the other houses is another structure 100 x 20 feet, which is completely filled with carnations, from which the flowers now on sale at the store are taken.

The trade in this most popular flower is growing so rapidly that a new house will be erected this summer, which will be devoted to its culture.

Those not familiar with the details of this business, have little or no idea of the great amount of work required to produce the flowers which all so much appreciate. A florist has to look and plan many many months ahead, and the carnations which are now in bloom were started to grow away last summer, about July 1st. The present beds will be emptied, for the soil is never used twice, and new soil will be placed in them. Into this the slender slips will be planted and watered and tended with great care, until they have grown to a fair size. As they begin to bud, these buds are pulled off, the process being known as disbudding, and the effect is that it induces larger flowers to grow.

The business is one of continual experimenting. A flower which promises to be something extra, is secured, and from it others are grown. Sometimes this experiment proves satisfactory, but often it is the opposite, and the species has to be discarded, either because it is not a heavy cropper, or the colour is not right, or for equally good reasons.

To maintain an even temperature of about 50 to 55 degrees, six large Gurney Oxford boilers are used, and these burn three carloads of coal each winter.

The new house which the firm will erect will be used for the cultivation of carnations and violets. The grounds used by the firm are two acres in extent, and at the present rate of expansion it will be only a matter of a short time before the whole area will be covered woth hot-houses.

Outside the houses there is a bed of 5,000 pansies, which are now in bud, and which will be soon ready for transplanting to gardens.

A house 20 x35 feet which completes the series of buildings, is used for the growing of foliage, and in it are to be found some very beautiful foliage plants of different kinds.

The firm which employs the services of four men, makes its own boxes in which seedlings are sold, and every member of the firm, with those employed, find plenty to do in attending to the multitudinous duties which are incidental to work in a hot-house.

The members of this firm are to to be congratulated upon the great success which they have attined, and from present prospects this success will continue.

THE DENIAL OF ST. PETER.

Rev. Dr. Crothers Gave the Address at St. Luke's.

Lenten Service Held Last Night—The Address.

In St. Luke's Church last evening there was a great attendance at the regular Wednesday evening Lenten service. Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, rector, conducted the service, and the address was given by Rev. Dr. Crothers, who based his remarks on St. Mark 14, 72: "And when he thought thereon he wept."

The speaker said when we saw a strong man overcome with grief, we were led to believe that he was passing through a crisis of his life or trouble had come upon him; and that owing to what he had in his mind it caused him to give way to tears. The transparency of God's word was shown in the text. There was no concealment, and the writer had not left out any reference to humiliation or defeat, but gave the situation exactly as it was. He furnished the details of Peter's sin and thus afforded a beacon light to guard and keep us from danger and to encourage us. Peter was in the depths of despair after committing the deed of denying Christ, and so strong was his emotion that he wept. We cannot well estimate his action in denying Christ. Peter was sinning against kindness. Christ had made a man of Peter and all good had come to him through his companionship with the Saviour. He was one of the favoured three of the Apostles. All we have comes to us through Christ, and every one who denies Him in any way sins against the greatest kindness. Then there was Peter's ingratitude. We manifest that if we turn away from Christ. The sin in this case was intensified by the circumstances. It is very easy to profess friendship, but its true test—its real test—is when we are in difficulties, trials or trouble, and just at this time Peter failed the Master, and just at this time He was approaching the bitter hour. We fail to appreciate often the true depths of that bitterness. Christ was approaching the greatest crisis of all in His life—the crucifixion, and there was not one on whom he could lean. Peter failed at that time. We often find a lack of sympathy and support in the time of trial. Peter was not a coward. His was a strong, impetuous personality. Yet he failed when needed the most to stand. Other great men and women have also failed and have denied Christ. One cause of this was lack of watchfulness, and lack of prayer, private and family, the neglect of the study of God's word, and absence from the means of grace. If we confessed our sins Christ was faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. We should come back as Peter did, and consecrate ourselves anew to Christ, let Him reign in our hearts and be our guide, protector and friend.

OBJECTS OF THE LOCAL Y. W. C. A.

An Official Statement in Answer to Inquirer's Letter.

Young Women are Admitted From all Denominations—Details of the Work.

In reference to the letter signed "Inquirer" in last night's Examiner, in which certain information was asked concerning the Y. W. C. A., the following statement has been handed in by the general secretary:—

Any young woman of good moral character, irrespective of religion may be admitted to the membership and consequent privileges of a Young Women's Christian Association, by payment of the annual fee of $1.00. Members of Evangelical churches constitute the active, and non-members the associate membership.

The reading room is open daily to all young women, whether members of the association or not, between the hours of 9 a. m. to 9.30 p. m. The use of the parlours is reserved for members.

The aim of the Young Women's Christian Association is the spiritual, social, mental and physical development of young women. In every association there are four departments, religious, social, educational and business.

The boarding home is a branch of the business department, and as these are days when young women as well as young men are obliged to leave home for business purposes, it affords a comfortable Christian home in which young women may live and in which they may have safe companionship.

HAMILTON FIRE CHIEF KILLED.

Alexander W. Atchison of the Hamilton Brigade.

THROWN FROM HIS BUGGY

Collided With Chemical Combination Wagon When Going to a Fire—Never Regained Consciousness and Died In An Hour — Father and His Two Daughters Perish in a Fire at Dundas.

Hamilton, April 6.—A collision occurred between Chief Alex. Atchison's buggy and a fire reel at Sir John Macdonald's monument, John and King streets, yesterday forenoon while the firemen were responding to an alarm of fire. The chief was thrown up in the air and alighted on his head on the base of the monument. His skull was crushed, and he was taken in an unconscious condition to the city hospital, where he died at noon, about an hour after the accident, without regaining consciousness. The driver of the chief's rig, Fireman Britton, was thrown out and badly injured, but it is thought he may live. The chief leaves a grown-up family.

THREE LOSE LIVES.

Father and Two Daughters Suffocated in Fire at Dundas.

Dundas, April 6.—Yesterday morning Godfrey Walker and his two daughters, Annie, 20 years of age, and Margaret, 16 years old, were suffocated. It is supposed that the two girls, who slept downstairs, were overcome by gas that had escaped from the coal stove and ignited. The father, who slept upstairs, made a brave effort to rescue his daughters, but fell overcome on their bed.

Two Terribly Burned.

When the neighborn broke in they found the father and the elder daughter dead, and the younger daughter died a few minutes after she was carried out. The father and one of the girls were terribly burned. Walker was 55 years of age and had been employed for years at John Fisher's paper mills.

TWO BROKEN SPINES.

Sad Accident at a Barn Raising Near Stratford.

Stratford, April 6.—A shocking accident occurred at the farm of Adam Leinweber, second concession, South Easthope, seven miles from Stratford, about 1.30 p. m., on Monday, through the falling of the framework of a barn, which Leinweber was having taken down.

Two men, Hy. Meyer, Jr., and John Wittig, sustained broken spines, and a number of others were more or less injured.

Small hopes are entertained for Meyer's recovery.

Took Hydrochloric Acid.

Hamilton, April 6.—Tuesday morning, Patrick Costello, Queen and Hunter streets, a well-known baker, took hydrochloric acid, mistaking it for medicine, and died yesterday morning.

SIGNIFICANT MEETING.

King Edward Sees Loubet and Paris is Interested—Was the Conference About Morocco?

Paris, April 6.—King Edward's meeting with President Loubet is attracting notable attention. The officials here do not wish the meeting to assume political significance in connection with the Morocco incident, nevertheless a large section of the press and public will attach significance to the exchange of Anglo-French amenities immediately following Germany's announcement that she does not accept the Anglo-French agreement to Morocco.

Kaiser For Open Door.

Washington, April 6.—Germany yesterday clearly outlined to the United States her Moroccan policy. The German Ambassador called at the War Department and left a memorandum to this effect:

"Germany stands for the open door in Morocco as in the Far East, and for the preservation of the status quo, and for the safe-guarding of the commercial and trade interests not only of Germany, but of all trading nations of the world."

Propose Foreign Conference.

Berlin, April. 6.—The German Government would be pleased to see the Morocco question settled by an international conference. The Foreign Office has not proposed this to the Powers, but it is enquiring at other capitals whether such a plan would be received favorably.

Dead From Accault.

Quebec, April 6.—Albert Marchand, horse dealer, and connected with the mills at St. Prime Lake, St. John, is dead of congestion of the brain, said to have been brought on by bruises received from Robert Girard, a woodman of Roberval. It is claimed that Girard attacked Marchand at Roberval on Friday last and assaulted him badly.

Arrested For Forgery.

Woodstock, April 6.—A man who endorsed a cheque at the Crown Bank for $20, purporting to have been signed by Bishop Sweatman, of Toronto, "C. F. Brooks," was arrested here yesterday on the charge of forgery. He also tried to cash an identical cheque at the Traders' Bank. He will appear before the magistrate to-day.

Russians Lost 197,000.

Harbin, April 6.—The complete returns received at headquarters show the total Russian losses in killed, wounded and prisoners at the battle of Mukden do 197,000.

Guilty of Manslaughter.

Ottawa, April 6.—Adelard Auger, on trial at Hull assizes for manslaughter, in killing Henry Prineau at Le Rapid de L'Original, was found guilty yesterday.

Funeral of the Late Mrs. Hunter Largely Attended—G. T. R. Station Moved.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Omemee, April 6th.—There is every hope and prospect of farmers getting at their spring work at once.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Hunter, of Millbrook, daughter of the late Christopher Knowlson, one of the oldest citizens, took place to the Emily and Omemee Cemetery from Millbrook and was largely attended. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Teaney.

Richard Birrell, of Peterborough, attended the funeral of Mrs. Hunter, and was busy renewing old acquaintances, and wonderfully well for his age and could tell of events that occurred here 50 and 60 years ago with great precision and good Irish humour.

CHANGING MINDS.

Change of mind is proverbially characteristic of the gentler sex, and, according to that standard, our town council is composed of ladies. We have one or two shining examples of the vacillating and uncertain quality of the aldermanic mind. Not long ago, the town council, with all the solemnity that attends the passing of a world-shaking law in the Imperial Parliament, passed a plumbing bylaw, and appointed a plumbing inspector. These were, in the abstract, commendable acts, but at the next meeting of the council the aldermen, as if ashamed of what they had done, tore up the bylaw, and "fired" the inspector. Last January the people voted upon a bylaw authorizing the paying for sidewalks by a general tax. Whether or not the people did right in thus voting, is their own affair. They perhaps had the advantage of the council — they knew their own minds. It would be thought that the people's servants would give the people's wishes effect, but when the bill of the town to be passed by the Local Legislature was drafted, the council directed that the matter of legalizing the form of pavement payment the people asked for, should not be submitted for confirmation, a clear case of the tail wagging the dog, of the creatures defying their creators. At the Board of Trade meeting on Tuesday night, there was some severe comment upon the alleged high-handed action of the council in this regard. There are others also who are very severe on the council — not necessarily because the general tax system of payment is the best, but because of the council's lack of knowing their own minds, as shown by their double-shuffle with the plumbing bylaw, and their disregard of the wishes of the people in the pavement matter. There are some who even venture the opinion that the people's judgment is not to be trusted, gauged by their action in electing representatives, at the same time they voted for payment for pavements.

HOLD THE OFFICE-SEEKER IN CHECK.

The Weekly Sun, strongly Conservative in its leanings, has the following:

Mr. Whitney's chief danger at the present time is from his own followers, at least from that section who are clamouring for office. What he sees about the Parliament buildings, and the reports which come from outside, make it clear that the new Premier is being subjected to tremendous pressure to make a clean sweep of present office-holders, in order that Conservative applicants may have a chance to fill the vacancies.

Mr. Whitney has no warrant in the late election for taking any such course. The forty thousand independent voters who turned the scale in the contest which ended in January did not vote for Conservative candidates in order to bring about a general displacement of officials. They voted as they did in order to remove a government under which the voice of the people had been stifled in the polling booths, and railway and other corporations unduly favoured at the expense of the common people. These same forty thousand voters stand ready to-day to turn against the new Government, if the latter, instead of improving upon the public record of the previous Administration, becomes a mere bureau for the distribution of offices among greedy hangers-on. Office-holders, who have acted the part of election bosses, instead of public servants, should be made to walk the plank; but to remove an efficient official simply to make room for someone who wants the job, will call down the condemnation of the great mass of independent voters, and make active enemies of those who must necessarily be disappointed when a score of men start on a scramble for every office opened up. The success of the Whitney Administration will depend almost as much on its power of resistance to the office-seeker as it will on its general record.

When the friends of Premier Whitney and his Government, feel compelled to administer pointed reproof, like the above, there is reason to revise the opinion apparently held by many during the past election campaign — that they were angels of purity, seeking office only for the sake of lifting politics to a higher plane. Upon trial they seem to be plain, every-day political opportunists with the angelic gloss worn off with the first hour of using. This process of prostituting power to apply the odious spoils system, is, however, quite consistent with Conservative practice. The Conservative managers imported the forty thieves — the Buffalo toughs — to operate in a general election contest. A Yankee "financial expert" has, it is said, been employed by the Conservative Government to report upon our finances — as if we hadn't any financial experts in Ontario good enough for the job. Possibly there may be a scarcity of Conservative financial experts, and the Government evidently would prefer to employ a Yankee doing time in Sing Sing to giving the position to a "Grit." Suppose the Laurier Government should catch the spoils fever from Premier Whitney, some Conservatives might lose jobs, with spoils in the shape of salaries, far more important than the princely emoluments associated with the important offices of license inspectors, or fishery inspectors. But there's no danger of this. Sir Wilfrid may commit the outrage of forcing upon the Northwest Territories the school system they created, and which satisfies them, but he will not descend to peanut politics, like "sacking" a "Tory" lock-tender to give the spoil to a "Grit."

A DIRECT ISSUE.

Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown, agent of the Methodist church in the promotion of social reform, has raised, in a manner so pointed, that it cannot be evaded, the personal fitness and the mode of appointment of license commissioners and license inspectors by the Whitney Government. Taking the Premier at his word, when he says that the license laws will be thoroughly enforced, Dr. Chown points out that already improper appointments have been made, and calls on all temperance electors "to rally to the support of their own cause, and oppose the doings of all patronage committees, commissioners, and inspectors, who do not stand for the limitation of the liquor traffic and the strict enforcement of the law."

Dr. Chown has the courage and fairness to inform the public that Mr. Stratton, before his retirement from office, had intimated to certain license commissioners that on account of their attitude toward the temperance movement their resignations would be accepted. It is well known that within a few months of his own resignation he had suspended three license inspectors who were not doing their work satisfactorily to his department. Mr. Hanna is dismissing inspectors very freely, and for this he will be called sharply to account if he has not as good reasons as Mr. Stratton had in the cases above referred to.

Having taken their stand so far as the liquor traffic is concerned, on the Provincial license law, the present Ministers cannot complain if they are held to the strictest account for its administration and enforcement. They will have a difficult task at the best, but if they make it more difficult by entrusting these duties to party hacks who are out of touch and out of sympathy with moderate temperance workers, their punishment will be both sure and swift. — Globe.

In the heading of a despatch printed in last night's issue, the resourceful compositor, ingeniously converted the manuscript "Mgr." before the name of Monsignor Sbaretti into the word "Manager." The error, regrettable and disgusting as it is in itself, is made more so by the fact that it will be regarded, as it already has been, by bomb-throwing bigots as describing—even if inadvertently — the character which their creed hatred and malice ascribe to the reverend ecclesiastic in question.

THE SANDFIELD MACDONALD SURPLUS.

With the advent of the Conservative party to power comes a revival of the story that the Liberals dissipated a surplus of some $3,800,000 left by the John Sandfield Macdonald Government. The facts respecting this much-vexed question would seem, according to the Brantford Expositor, to be as follows:

1. Sandfield Macdonald appropriated out of the surplus on hand $1,500,000 in aid of railways. This is charge No. 1 against the surplus.

2. Confederation only having started, the Dominion Government had continued to pay certain provincial expenses, notably, among others, those in connection with the administration of justice in the counties. Five hundred thousand dollars were thus paid out by the Dominion Government, during Sandfield's term, which the Liberal Government was called upon to pay. Of this sum, Sandfield's Government paid nothing. This is charge No. 2 against the surplus.

3. During Sandfield's period $500,000 had been collected on account of the Upper Canada school fund, two-fifths of this belonging to Quebec, or $200,000. Of this amount due Quebec Sandfield paid nothing. It has since been paid by the Liberal Government. This is charge No. 3 against the surplus.

4. Sandfield's Government purchased Rockwood asylum from the Dominion Government for $100,000, but paid nothing on this account. The Mowat Government paid this sum. This is charge No. 4 against the surplus.

These various sums reduce Sandfield's alleged surplus from $3,800,000 to $1,500,000.

Further, when Mr. Blake came into power, he found Sandfield Macdonald in addition to the $1,500,000 to railways, had pledged $410,000 more for the same purpose, thus further reducing the surplus to $1,090,000 which would come into the hands of Mr. Blake unencumbered.

In addition to the above amounts the Blake Government appropriated $2,000,000 more in aid of railways. Thus we see that Sandfield's surplus between the expenditures made by him, the charges he left upon the surplus and the appropriations made by the Blake government, overlapped and over-ran itself by $901,000, so that it can be said with entire accuracy, that not a dollar of the Sandfield Macdonald surplus was unappropriated when Sir Oliver Mowat's Government came into power, but that there has been charged against the surplus and appropriated $910,000 more than the entire sum which, it is claimed, John Sandfield Macdonald left.

CURIOSITY

Leads to Investigation and Truth.

What shall we do to be saved? was the title of one of Robt. Ingersoll's lectures. People of faith and people of no faith flocked to hear it. Thousands are asking, "What shall I do to get rid of dandruff?" The answer is, "Kill the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair and finally baldness; and the only thing that will do it is Newbro's Herpicide. That is the very latest discovery of the laboratory, and it is the only preparation that claims to, or that will, kill the pestiferous dandruff germ. It also is a delightful hair-dressing, free from oil or grease or sticky substances. Try it and be convinced of its actual merit. Sold by leading druggists. MOHAIR THE FABRIC FOR 1905

Mohair is decidedly the fabric for 1905—It is a fabric distinct in itself—as individual as silk—or velvet.

It is possessed of qualities known possibly to no other fabric—it is light, strong—brilliant as silk—most durable, and above all extremely fashionable.

Its crispness defies dust and damp; and as for wear it is well, nigh indestructible.

The variety of colourings and designs we have collected for this 4 days offering is the most extensive that will be shown this season.

LUSTRE-DE-CHENE

CITY OF PETERBOROUGH TO CELEBRATE ELEVATION

On July 1st the Town Will Rise into the Dignity of a City and the Event will be Fittingly Celebrated—Committee Was Appointed Last Night by Council to Work With Citizens' Committee—Policemen's Salaries—An Increase Will Probably be Given—Committee of the Whole Decided Many Business Matters of Importance.

Last night the committee of the whole council decided at a meeting held and attended by all the aldermen except Alderman Leary, that it would be a good move to have a celebration on July 1st, the day upon which Peterborough is to be created a city, and as a result of this decision, a committee was appointed consisting of His Worship Mayor Best and Aldermen Mason, Hicks, Tovey and Begley, to arrange for the event.

The matter has been mentioned at different intervals in the council, but nothing definite was done in reference to it until last night, when the movement was given a start which will probably result in the celebration being carried through to a successful issue.

It was felt that since the honour which will be placed on Peterborough on July 1st, next, will never be repeated in its history, it should be fittingly recognized.

To-night this special celebration committee will meet to formulate plans, and later will act in conjunction with a citizens' committee. It was decided that the funds in connection with the celebration shall be handled by the committee representing the council.

POLICE WILL GET RAISE.

The matter of giving the members of the police force a "raise" in salary was discussed, and it was decided to adopt the system of a sliding scale, paying the men according to their length of service. It was also thought that the duties of the police force should be clearly defined and these duties incorporated in the bylaw appointing them. It was also suggested by Alderman Hicks that the salaries should be fixed so that a man entering the force would know just what his salary would be and when it would be increased. In reply Ald. Hall, chairman of the supervision committee said that the duties of the police as outlined in the bylaw is to see that the town bylaws are carried out.

His Worship questioned this, and agreed with Ald. Hicks that it was necessary that the duties of our police force should be clearly outlined in black and white so that there should be a satisfactory understanding in this respect between the town and the police.

It was finally decided that the Supervision Committee, acting in conjunction with the Chief, should prepare a set of regulations, in which the duties of the force should be clearly defined, and to report at the next meeting. The understanding arrived at was that there should be an increase in salary for the guardians of the town's peace.

Ald. Hall, chairman of the Supervision Committee, during the discussion on this question, stated that the salaries of the local police are not as high as those of other places, and quoted some figures to substantiate this statement.

It will be remembered that at the last council meeting the Supervision Committee recommended that the salaries of the police be increased $100 a year and the Chief's $150.

STREEET NAMING.

Ald. Begley moved, seconded by Ald. Tovey, that the Property Committee be authorized to estimate the cost of naming the streets within the fire limits with alluminum signs.—Carried.

The question of the liability of the town in the event of an accident to the opera house, by which personal injuries might be inflicted or lives lost, was brought up by Ald. Crowe, who moved that the town solicitor be instructed to report in the market.

LOWER INSURANCE RATES.

The clerk was authorized to write the Fire Underwriters' Association, enquiring what reduction in the insurance rates will be given in the event of a new fire hall being erected, and the other proposed improvements in our fire protection system made. It was felt that the ratepayers should know exactly what saving will be assured them by carrying the bylaw for a new fire hall, engine ilcitor be instructed to report on the matter.

Ald. Adams, chairman of the Board of Works, announced that the Board would begin its annual tour of inspection this afternoon, and the Mayor promised that the programme of work decided upon by the Board would be carried out this year.

REMEMBERING FATHER O'BRIEN

Ladies of the Sacred Heart League Present Him with An Address.

Accompanied by a Purse of Gold—On the Eve of of his Departure for Sturgeon Falls.

In view of Rev. Father J. J. O'Brien's departure this morning for his new parish at Sturgeon Falls, last night at St. Peter's Cathedral, after the service of Benediction, the ladies of the Sacred Heart League waited upon him in the vestry, and Miss May Kelly, the secretary, read the following address:

To Rev. John Joseph O'Brien,
Peterborough, Ont.

Reverend and Dear Father,—We have learned that you are about to sever your connections with the Diocese of Peterborough, in obedience to a call which you have received to enter upon a fresh field of labour in the newly erected Diocese of Sault Ste. Marie. Your departure will, we know, be deeply regretted by all the Catholics of Peterborough. A double tie has hitherto bound you to this town, and it is the severance of this tie which now causes general regret. You have been known to the Catholics of Peterborough in a two-fold capacity. You are a child of the parish, and for some years past you have been ministering to our spiritual needs as a Priest in God's Church. Nearly all in the parish have been acquainted with you from your boyhood days. You have grown to manhood in our midst and we, therefore, grieve to see you depart. But the strongest tie which has bound you to the Catholics of this town has resulted from the exercise of your functions as a priest. We have all benefitted by your spiritual advice, and we have all been sharers in the blessings which you obtained from God by means of the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass which you daily offered up in this church.

Among those who are thus indebted to you in the spiritual order we the members of the League of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, must certainly rank first, we are your greatest debtors.

Under your guidance the league has been most prosperous. The membership is very large and the six hundred monthly communicants of the league furnish strong evidence of the fervent devotion which exists amongst us towards the Sacred Heart of Our Divine Lord. You have instilled this sublime fervor into our souls; you have fostered it with the greatest care, and we, therefore, know that we owe you a deep debt of gratitude. Every one of us may not, at all times, have been as ardent in this devotion as your zeal would wish, but we feel that the success which has crowned your efforts is such as merits for you the highest praise. We cannot repay you for what you have done for us. We wish, nevertheless, to show you that we fully appreciate your labours in our behalf. As a token of the high regard in which we hold you, and of our appreciation of your labour, we offer you, Reverend Father, this small present, which we kindly beg you to accept. We trust and pray that the Sacred Heart of Jesus will ever bless and protect you, and that your labours in the new diocese may produce abundant fruits.

We now bid you "farewell", but with that word we wish to couple a request, which the remembrance of your kindness prompts us to make. Be mindful of us, we beg of you, when you celebrate the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, and offer up for us during your daily devotions, a fervent prayer to the Sacred Heart of Jesus.

Once again, then, we say "farewell" and we again extend to you the wish that you may enjoy a long and happy life in the new portion of God's vineyard to which you have been called.

Signed on behalf of St. Peter's branch of the League of the Sacred Heart,
AGNES VINNETTE, Pres.
MARY M. KELLY, Sec.
April 6th, 1905.

The address was accompanied by a well-filled purse of gold, presented on behalf of the League by Miss Agnes Vinette, president.

Rev. Father O'Brien made a suitable reply, in grateful recognition both of the kindness of the ladies, and of the valuable services rendered by the League in the interests of the church.

NEW OPERA HOUSE IN PROSPECT

Plan to Elicit an Expression of Public Feeling Towards New Opera House

A Guaranteed List to be Circulated Among Citizens—One Thousand Guaranteed Seats for Opening Performance in New Opera House, will Warrant the Promoters in Proceeding With the Work.

Mr. Walter Stocker starts out tomorrow with a guarantee subscription list, pre-empting seats for the opening performance in the new opera house proposed to be built in Peterborough this coming summer, in readiness for next season's attractions.

If the people respond to the appeal in a manner to show their sympathy with the new enterprise, the work will certainly go on. Those behind the undertaking find that if the people show the encouragement represented by subscribing for 1,000 seats for the opening performance, they will be warranted in going forward with the work. It goes without saying that the first performance will be of the highest possible character, because it will go far to establish the claims of the new opera house to future patronage.

PRETTY WEDDING ON RINK STREET

Miss Florence Kimble Married to Mr. Robert Hamilton.

A very pretty wedding took place last night at the home of Mr. H. Meehan, 203 Rink street, when Miss Florence C. Kimble was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Robt. Hamilton, both of Bobcaygeon. Rev. A. H. Brace, of the Park street Baptist church, was the officiating minister.

Mr. Herbert Meehan attended the groom, and Miss Blanche Smith acted as bridesmaid. The bride wore a tweed suit trimmed with brown, and the bridesmaid was becomingly attired. Only the immediate friends were invited. The wedding march was played by Miss Anderson, and after the ceremony a sumptuous wedding feast was spread. The young couple were the recipients of a number of handsome presents. After their wedding tour they will make their home in Bobcaygeon.

PAPAL ABLEGATE SPEAKS.

Exonerates the Government and Says Proposal to Manitoba Delegates Was Purely Personal.

Ottawa, April 5.—(Special.)—Monsignor Sbarretti has handed out for publication the following statement:

"I think it my duty to declare that the press report of a conference with the Manitoba delegates is not altogether exact, and that it is given in such a way as to make a false impression on the minds of the people.

"These are the facts: Taking occasion of the presence in Ottawa of the Hon. Mr. Campbell, the attorney-general of Manitoba, whom I had met in a friendly way more than a year ago, I invited him to come to see me. I never met Hon. Mr. Rogers, nor did I have any communication with him.

"On the evening before his departure for the west (Feb. 23), Mr. Campbell came. I asked him if something could not be done to improve the condition of the Catholics of his province with respect to education. I pointed out that, in the cities of Winnipeg and Brandon, for instance, the Catholics were paying double taxes.

"I urged my request on the ground of fairness and justice, and referring to his mission to Ottawa, I remarked that, from the view of the Manitoba government, some action on these lines would be politically expedient, and tend to facilitate the accomplishment of his object, inasmuch as the Catholics in any territory which might be annexed to Manitoba would naturally object to losing the right they had to separate schools, and to be subjected to the educational conditions which existed in Manitoba.

"Mr. Campbell then asked me what would be my desire in this respect.

"I then gave him the memorandum which has already appeared in the press.

"This is the sum and substance of my interview with Mr. Campbell. THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT HAD ABSOLUTELY NO KNOWLEDGE OF IT. IT WAS A PRIVATE CONVERSATION, AND SIMPLY INTENDED TO EXPRESS A SUGGESTION AND A DESIRE THAT THE CONDITION OF THE CATHOLICS IN THE RESPECT I HAVE MENTIONED WOULD BE IMPROVED.

"Any other assumption or interpretation is altogether unfounded. I think my right of speaking to Mr. Campbell in a private way and on my own responsibility cannot be disputed."

TELEPHONES AT PORT ARTHUR.

Efforts of the Bell Company to Crush Local System.

THE TELEPHONE COMMITTEE

Ex-Mayor Dyke's Statement Concerning the Working of the 'Phone in the Towns of Port Arthur and Fort William — Local System is a Success — The Bell Company.

Ottawa, April 5.—Sir William Mulock's special telephone committee, yesterday morning heard the evidence of ex-Mayor Joshua Dyke, of Fort William, on the working of the municipal telephone system in the twin towns of Fort William and Port Arthur. The system was established in 1902, and now there are 500 telephones in Fort William and 515 in Fort Arthur, with free exchange for all subscribers between the two towns, and no charge for casual customers. The capital outlay in Fort William was said to be $21,500, and $31,000 in Port Arthur, the difference being largely due to the fire which destroyed the former station. In 1903 there was a deficit of $576 on the Fort William system, but last year this was wiped out, and there was a surplus of $469. The rental to subscribers was $12 a year for private and $24 for business 'phones. This rental, as was shown, covered all expenses and interest, sinking fund, etc., giving the surplus indicated.

Shut Out from Q. P. R.

One of the interesting statements of Mr. Dyke was that the C. P. R., to whom Fort William has now given about two million dollars for its terminals, etc., refused the local 'phone system access to any of its property, station or elevators, owing to a contract with the Bell Co., which has become a matter of history, but on application to the Canadian Northern Railway they readily consented to an entrance to their station. In this connection Mr. Dyke produced affidavits from business men, declaring that they suffered great inconvenience through lack of connection with the C. P. R., and believed it a restriction on trade.

Serious Charges Made.

Mr. Dyke made serious charges against the Bell Telephone Co, that they had in several ways tried to frustrate the local system, in addition to making a monopoly agreement with the C. P. R. after the town undertook to establish its system. He charged that the Bell Co. tried to injure the credit of the towns by publication in eastern papers, and were a party to the publication in The Ottawa Free Press of an article presumably friendly but really in antagonism to the town's interests. He also charged that the Bell Co. now give one hundred free 'phones in Fort William and fifty in Port Arthur to try to crush out the local system. He arrived at this by producing figures of their rental per subscriber and of their gross revenue, as sworn to for assessment purposes, which showed a great disparity. Another of Mr. Dyke's charges was that a representative of the Bell Co., in the person of Capt. Holmes, had connived with W. H. Byran, a local labor man, to circulate a petition to have a special audit made of the town's finances, and thus to cast discredit upon it. Twelve of those who signed the petition had since declared that they signed it under false representations, and the audit has never been made.

Mr. Alex. Johnston pressed Mr. Dyke to say if he knew this of his own knowledge, and he produced an official document printed by the Council making the statements, saying he believed that the statements had been made by a member of Council when the pamphlet was printed.

Local System Satisfactory.

"Are you," asked Mr. W. F. Maclean, "as a citizen, satisfied with the experiment you have made in the municipalization of your telephone?"

"Most certainly so," Mr. Dyke answered, "in efficiency, service, in satisfaction to the general public, and financial results."

The committee will hear more from Mr. Dyke to-day.

The Autonomy Debate.

Ottawa, April 5.—The debate on the autonomy bills was resumed in the House yesterday by Mr. Lavergne, and he was followed by Col. Sam Hughes and Mr. Turriff of East Assiniboia wound up the debate for the day. Mr. Wilson (Chemnox and Addington) moved the adjournment at 11.30.

Railway Bill Reported.

Ottawa, April 5.—The Railway Committee considered and reported the first of the Mackenzie & Mann bills yesterday morning. This was an act respecting the Canadian Northern Railway.

The Edmonton, Yukon and Pacific Railway Co.'s bill was reported. The line is to be completed in five years.

THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Premier Whitney is Questioned About a Despatch.

MANUFACTURE OF STORIES

Paragraphs in the Despatch Would Arouse Amusement Rather Than Any Other Condition of Mind—Private Bills Read—The Estimates to Be Brought Down on Friday—Assembly Proceedings.

Toronto, April 5.—Before the orders of the day were called in the Legislature yesterday, Mr. Graham called attention to a despatch in a Detroit paper, headed "Clergue Again on Top—Things Coming His Way in All Matters—Warren and His Crowd Have Been Turned Out by Ontario." The article was dated Toronto, April 1, and follows:—

"A great thorn in the side of F. H. Clergue in the reorganization of the Canadian Soo Co. after the collapse of the Consolidated Lake Superior was Manager Warren of the Traders' Bank of Toronto and the others who formed the Canadian Improvement Co., and who under the Ontario Government took control to secure the loan made to pay the pressing debts of the concern. Mr. Warren was opposed to Mr. Clergue, and it is stated that notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Clergue's holdings in the new company were heavier than in the collapsed concern, the situation was made unpleasant for the founder of the greatest industry Canada has ever seen. The twist of the political wheel of fortune which turned the Liberals out, and placed in power the Conservatives placed Mr. Clergue in a position where he could cheerfully smile, as it is positively stated that the resignations of Warren and his associates have been asked for, and men who are more congenial to Mr. Clergue will be placed in control of the Canadian Improvement Co., or in other words of the Government interests."

The Premier's Reply.

The Premier said he was glad the article had been brought to his attention, but he would say that for the past year and a half he had made a practice of not believing anything he saw in the newspapers with regard to this company. He was distinctly surprised to hear that Mr. Clergue sympathized with the present Government, and he thought the member for Algoma (Mr. Smyth), if he were present, would also be surprised. It was news to him that some of the directors had been asked to resign, but it would not surprise him if some of them were asked to resign. By the fearful and wonderful agreement made between the late Government and the company it was provided that the Government should approve of three directors on the board. It might be in the future, however, at the request of the companies up there, but not of the Government's own volition, that the Government might disapprove or disapprove of some of the directors, but it would not be according to Mr. Clergue's likes or dislikes. Mr. Whitney had been talking with Mr. Warren during the day and he (Mr. Whitney) thought he would be surprised to hear that he had been dismissed. The Government proposed to watch the interests of the Province with regard to the industries. He was in possession of information which he would not give to the House just yet, involving more than one condition that the House would take considerable interest in, but the time had not arrived to develop it. Such articles, he said, were deliberately manufactured and sent to the newspapers, and he thought other paragraphs in the article quoted would arouse amusement rather than any other condition of mind.

A number of private bills were read a first time.

Estimates on Friday.

Col. Matheson announced that he hoped to present the estimates on Friday.

New Fishery Overseers.

The fisheries branch of the Public Works Department is making many changes among the fisheries inspectors. It is understood there will be no district overseers, but that the local overseers will report directly to the Department. A large number of dismissals are being made.

Gilphie's New Captain.

Capt. Thomas Hill, Collingwood, will succeed Capt. McCauley as commander of the fisheries cruiser Gilphie, which protects the fishing grounds of Georgian Bay.

Col. Hamilton Resigns.

Hon. W. J. Hanna announced yesterday that Col. R. E. Hamilton, inspector of vital statistics for the Province, had resigned. Col. Hamilton has been in the Government employ fourteen years. The Provincial Secretary said the office would not be filled, but that Dr. Hodgetts, head of the public health department, would be asked to take over the duties at an increased salary.

Rev. Dr. S. G. Stone Dead.

Parry Sound, April 5.—Rev. Dr. S. G. Stone, of Sault Ste. Marie, died suddenly of heart failure Saturday morning at the residence of his son, H. E. Stone, Parry Sound. Rev. Dr. Stone entered the ministry in the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1861. Later he was elected editor of The Christian Advocate, the organ of the M. E. Church. He was one of the two representatives of his church at the ecumenical conference in London, Eng. After the union of the four branches of the Methodist Church he became associate editor of The Christian Guardian. In 1897 he was elected president of Toronto conference. Two years ago he asked for superannuation and has since resided in Sault Ste. Marie. A widow, six sons and three daughters survive him.

E. D. O'Flynn Dies.

Belleville, April 3.—E. D. O'Flynn, of Madoc, died Saturday afternoon. He was many years one of the leading figures in the County of Hastings, having been a member of the County Council and Warden of the county. The deceased was a Liberal and was twice a candidate for election to the Dominion House of Commons against Sir Mackenzie Bowell, and once for the Ontario Legislature against the late Dr. Boulter. On each occasion he was defeated. He was 74 years of age and was born in Lennox County.

Street Car Strikes Old Man.

Toronto, April 5.—Thomas Armstrong, a customs official, who is in his 90th year, was struck by a southbound car at the intersection of Yonge and Belmont streets yesterday morning, and received injuries from which he is not likely to recover. A northbound car had stopped at Baxter lane and Mr. Armstrong did not see the car from the south, which was traveling at a rapid rate and did not pull up. He was caught by the southbound car and carried 20 yards on the fender. He was then thrown to one side. He recovered partial consciousness during the afternoon and it is thought his most serious injuries are internal.

Shock Kills After a Year.

Windsor, April 5.—Mrs. Caroline Hurst, aged 76 years, died yesterday. She had been a resident of this country over 50 years. About a year ago Mrs. Hurst was badly burned by her clothing taking fire from a stove. She spent nine months in Hotel Dieu. The burns had healed, but the shock to her system proved fatal.

New South Wales Wheat Yield.

Sydney, N. S. W., April 5.—The season's wheat yield for New South Wales totals 16,463,636 bushels, an average of 9.3 bushels per acre. About eight million bushels are available for export, of which 4,352,636 have already been shipped.

Caracas, April 5.—The French Cable Co. yesterday appealed from the decision of the president of the highest court to the entire court.

TOOK A SEVERE COLD.

It Settled in The Kidneys.

Pain in The Back The Result.

Catching cold and having it settle in the back is often the cause of Backache—the primary cause of kidney trouble. When the back aches it is a warning that the kidneys are liable to become affected.

Heed the warning: check the Backache, and dispose of any chance of further trouble.

If you don't, serious complications are very apt to arise. Mrs. E. Williams, Hamilton, Ont., caught cold, and it settled in her kidneys. She used and is thankful for the immediate relief they gave her. She writes us as follows:

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS,

"It is with pleasure that I add my testimony in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills. Some time ago I took a severe cold, which settled in my kidneys. The soreness and pain in the small of my back bothered me greatly. After suffering for some months, and finding numerous remedies fail, I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, and received immediate relief from my sufferings.

CHAPTER XII.

SUCH a blaze of light as was the governor's mansion house that night I never saw, and I heard the music of violins and hautboys and viola da gambas coming from within, and a silvery babble of women's tongues, with a deeper undertone of men's, and the tread of dancing feet and the stamping of horses outside, with the whoas of the negro boys in attendance, and through the broad gleam of the moonlight came the flare and smoke of the torches. It seemed as if the whole colony was either dancing at the governor's ball or standing outside on tiptoe with interest.

I sat waiting for some time holding my restive horse as best I might, but there coming no cessation in the music, I dismounted, and seeing one of Madam Cavendish's black men, gave him the bridle to hold and went up to the house and entered, though not in my plum colored velvet, and indeed being not only in my ordinary clothes, but somewhat splashed with mire from my mad gallop through the woods. But I judged rightly that in so much of a crowd I should pass unnoticed both as to myself and my apparel. I stood in the great room near the door and watched the dance, and 'twas as brilliant a scene as ever I had seen anywhere even in England. The musicians in the gallery were sawing away for their lives on violins and working breathlessly at the hautboys and all that gay company of Virginia's best spinning about in a country dance of old England. Such a brave show of velvet coats and breeches and flowered brocade waistcoats and powdered wigs and feathers and laces and ribbons and rich flaunts of petticoats revealing in the whirl of the dance clocked hose on slender ankles and high heeled satin shoes would have done no discredit to the court.

But of them all Mistress Mary Cavendish was the belle and the star. She was dancing with my Lord Estes when I entered, and such a goodly couple they were that I heard many an exclamation of delight from the spectators who stood thickly about the walls, the windows even being filled with faces of black and white servants. My Lord Estes was a handsome, dark man, handsomer and older than Sir Humphrey Hyde, who, though dancing with the governor's daughter Cate, had, I could see, a rueful eye of watchfulness toward Mary Cavendish.

As he and Cate Culpeper swung past me, Sir Humphrey's eyes fell on my face and he gave a start and blush, and presently, when the dance was over and his partner seated, came up to me with hand extended as if I had been the noblest guest there. "Harry, Harry," he whispered eagerly, "she hath danced with me three times tonight and hath promised again; and, Harry, saw you ever any one so beautiful as she in that blue dress?"

I answered truthfully that I never had. Sir Humphrey, in his blue velvet suit with the silver buttons, with his rosy face and powdered wig, was one to look at twice and yet again, and I regarded him, as always, with that liking for him and that fury of jealousy.

I looked at him and loved him as I might have loved my son, with such a sweet and brave honesty of simplicity he eyed me and for the sake of Mary Cavendish, who might find his love for her precious, and I wished with all my heart that I might fling him to the floor where he stood. Every nerve and muscle in me tingled with the restraint of the desire, for such an enhancement of a woman's beauty as was Mary Cavendish's that night will do away with the best instincts of men whether they will or not.

The next dance was the minuet, and Mary Cavendish danced it with my Lord Culpeper, the governor of Virginia. The governor, though I liked him not, was a most personable man with much grace of manner which had additional value from a certain harshness of feature which led one not to expect such suavity, and he was clad most richly in such a dazzle of gold broidery and fling of yellow laces and glitter of buttons as could not be surpassed.

My lord was in fact clad much more richly than his wife and daughter, whose attire, though fair enough, was not of the freshest. It was my good luck to overhear my Lady Culpeper telling in no very honeyed tones a gossip of hers, the lady of one of the burgesses, that her goods for which she had sent to England had miscarried, and were it not for the fact that there was a whisper of fever on the ship she would have had the captain herself for a good rating, and had my Lord Culpeper not been for him, saying that the man was of an honest record, she would have had him set in the stocks for his remissness that he had not seen to it that her goods were on board when the ship sailed.

"And there goes poor Cate in her old murrey colored satin petticoat," said my lady, with a bitter lengthening of her face, "and there is Mary Cavendish in a blue flowered satin with silver, which is the very twin of the one I ordered for Cate, and which came in on the Cavendish ship."

"Well," said the other woman, who was long and lean and had wedded late in life a man she would have scorned in her girlhood, and could not forgive the wrong she had done herself, and was filled with an inconsistency of spleen toward all younger and fairer than she, and who, moreover, was a born toad eater for all in high places, "'tis fine feathers make fine birds, and were thy Cate arrayed in that same gown in Mistress Cavendish's stead"—

"As I believe, she would not have had the dress had not Cate told Cicely Hyde, who is so intimate with Mary Cavendish," said my Lady Culpeper. "I had it from my lord's sister that 'twas the newest fashion in London. How else would the chit have heard of it, I pray?"

"How else, indeed?" asked the burgess' wife.

"And here my poor Cate must go in her old murrey colored petticoat," said my lady.

"But even thus, to one who looks at her and not at her attire, she outshines Mary Cavendish," said the other. That was, to my thinking, as flagrant hypocrisy as was ever heard, for if those two maids had been clad alike as beggars Mary Cavendish would have carried off the palm, with no dissenting voice, though Cate Culpeper was fair enough to see, with her father's grace of manner and his harshness of feature softened by her rose bloom of youth.

Mary and Lord Culpeper dancing the minuet

Catherine Cavendish was dancing as the others, but seemingly with no heart in it, whereas her sister was all glowing with delight in the merriment of it and her sense of her own beauty and the admiration of all about her, and smiling with the innocent radiance of a child.

As I stood watching her I felt a touch on my arm and looked, and there stood Mistress Cicely Hyde, and her brown face was so puckered with wrath and jealousy that I scarcely knew her.

"Did not Mary's grandmother send you to escort her home, Master Wingfield?" said she in a sharp whisper, and I stared at her in amazement.

"When the ball is over, Mistress Hyde," I said.

"'Tis time the ball was over now" for the enhancing of the joy of life and defiance of its miseries; but the Barrys and Captain Jaynes and the parson were nothing particular as to the time of day.

When the heroes were something quieted, I, desiring not to unfold my errand in the tavern, got hold of Parson Downs by his mighty arm and elbowed Dick Barry, who cursed at me for it, and cut short Captain Jaynes' last string of oaths, and hallooed to Nick Barry and asked if I could have a word with them. Captain Jaynes, though, as I have said, being in the main curiously well disposed toward me, swore at first that he would be hanged if he would stop better business to parley with a convict tutor; but the end of it was that he and the Barry brothers and Parson Downs and I stood together under that mighty humming locust tree, and I unfolded my scheme of moving the powder and shot from Laurel Creek to Major Robert Beverly's tomb.

Noel Jaynes stared at me a second, with his hard red face agape, and then he clapped me upon the shoulder and shouted with laughter and swore that it should be done, and that it was a burning shame that the goods had been put where they were to the risk of a maid of beauty like Mary Cavendish, and that he and the Barrys would be with me that very night before moonrise to move them.

Then the parson, who had a poetical turn, especially when in his cups, added quite gravely that no safer place could there be for powder than the tomb of love whose last sparks had died out in ashes, and Dick Barry cried, with an oath, that it would serve Robert Beverly rightly for his action against them in the Bacon rising, for though he was to the front with the oppressed people in this his past foul treachery against them was not forgot, and well he remembered that when he was in hiding for his life—

But then his brother hushed him and said, with a shout of dry laughter, that the past was past, and no use indwelling upon it, but that when it came to a safe hiding place for goods which were to set the kingdom in a blaze and maybe hang the ringleaders he knew of none better than the tomb of a first wife, which, when the second was in full power, was verily back of the farthest back door of a man's memory.

So it was arranged that the four were to meet me that very night after sunset and before moonrise and move the goods, and I mounted and rode away, with Parson Downs shouting after me his proposition to trade horses and even offering £10 to boot when he saw the splendid long pace of my thoroughbred flinging out his legs with that freest motion of anything in the world unless it be the swift upward cleave of a bird when the fluttering of wing wherewith he hath gained his impetus hath ceased and nothing except that invincible rising is seen.

CHAPTER XIV.

THE first man my eyes fell upon was Parson Downs, lolling in a chair by the fireless hearth, for there was no call for fire that May night. His bulk of body swept in a vast curve from his triple chin to the floor, and his great rosy face was so exaggerated with merriment and good cheer that it looked like one seen in the shining swell of a silver tankard.

When Nick Barry finished a roaring song, he stamped and clapped and shouted applause till it set off the others with applause of it, and the place was a pandemonium. Then that same colored woman who had parleyed with me the other day and was that night glowing like a savage princess—as in truth she may have been, for she had a high look as of an unquenched spirit, in spite of her degradation of body and estate—went about with a free swinging motion of hips, bearing a tray filled with pewter mugs of strong spirits.

Around this woman's neck glittered row on row of beads, and she wore a great flame colored turban, and long gold eardrops dangled to her shoulders against the glossy blackness of her cheeks, and bracelets tinkled on her polished arms, which were mighty shapely, though black. In faith, the wench, had she but possessed roses and lilies for her painting instead of that dunkiness as of the cheek of midnight, had been a beauty such as was seldom seen. Her dark face was instinct with mirth and jollity, and, withal, a fierce spark in the whitening roll of her eyes under her flame colored turban made one think of a tiger cat and roused that knowledge of danger which adds a tingle to interest. A man could scarce take his eyes from her, though there were other women there, and not uncomely ones.

Another black wench there was, clad as gayly, but sunk in a languorous calm like a great cat, with Nick Barry, now his song was done, lolling against her, and two white women, one young and well favored and the other harshly handsome, both with their husbands present, and I doubt not decent women enough, though something violent of temper. As I entered, Mistress Allgood, one of them, began a harangue at the top of her shrill voice, with her husband plucking vainly at her sleeve to temper her vehemence. Mistress Allgood was long and lean and gaunt, with red fires in the hollows of her cheeks and a compelling flash of black eyes under straight frowning brows.

"Gentlemen"— said she. "Be quiet, John Allgood. My speech I will have, since thou, being a man, hath not the tongue of one. I pray ye, gentlemen, listen to my cause of complaint. Here my good man and me did come to this oppressed colony of Virginia seven years since, having together laid by fifty pound from the earnings of an inn called the Jolly Yeoman in Norfolkshire, in which for many years we had run long scores with little re-

The Great Hair Tonic is a Positive and Thorough Antiseptic

and will quickly eradicate all traces of scalp bacteria, which is the cause of hair falling, dandruff, etc. NO BALD-HEADED PERSON NEED STAND IN FRONT OF A LOOKING GLASS AND SAY THAT HE OR SHE WITH THIS DISEASE HAS BEEN CREATED. The germs undermine the hair and destroy all the nutriment or life-sap of the scalp, without which the scalp dries up and scales off, forming dandruff, and the hair falls. SEVEN SUTHERLAND SISTERS WILL GROW HAIR AND SCALP DISEASES CURE ALL. SEVEN REMEDIES IN THE WORLD THAT WILL DO THESE THINGS. They penetrate the scalp thoroughly, carrying with them all the necessary properties to quickly regenerate all the impoverished parts. They rebuild the lost tissues of the scalp and renew the growth of the hair in every case. A few applications will make the hair fairly sparkle with new life and vigor. They cause healthy hair to grow twice to three times as fast as it does normally.

Scalp Microbe magnified 3,000 diameters.

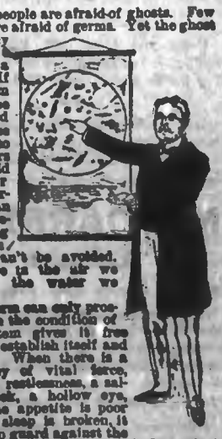
Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon.



Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a sallow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or other intoxicant.

"Your 'Golden Medical Discovery' is a sick man's friend," writes Geo. H. Turner, Esq., Ch. Financial Secretary International Brotherhood of Tramways, 2325 California Street, Denver, Colo. "For the past seven years my health gradually failed. I lost my appetite, became nervous and debilitated, very despondent and unable to sleep. No medicine helped me until I tried Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It put new life in me, and I could once more enjoy life and attend to my business. Eight bottles effected a complete cure and gladly do I recommend it."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets—only one or two a day will regulate and cleanse and invigorate a foul, bad Stomach, torpid Liver, or sluggish Bowels.

SMART DRESSERS

Young men are as a general thing the smartest dressers.

The up-to-the-moment young man is a sort of a lexicon of clothes style, and correctness. He knows what's what and gets it.

But good fit, the newest colours, patterns, etc. aren't enough; for unless that snappy, jaunty appearance characteristic of our excellent Tailor Made Clothing is there, it is not what the young man wants. Our success in pleasing young men is not just "luck". It's due to our knowledge of what the young man wants and our ability to provide it for him.

Our spring stock is now complete and prices always reasonable. Did you ever notice how many young men come here for their clothes? There's a reason for it.

ACCOMMODATION IS INADAQUATE

New Public School Will Have to be Provided For The South End of The Town—Trustee Eastwood's Statement That There Will be Trouble if a New School is Not Built at Once.

Mr. V. Eastwood is authority for the statement that the school accommodation in the south end of the town is detrimentally inadequate to the needs of that part of the town, and is strongly of the opinion that some further accommodation should be provided without delay. He states that the rooms in the south ward school are uncomfortably crowded, in some rooms as many as 65 and 66 pupils are in attendance, and he is afraid if a new school is not provided forthwith there will be trouble with the parents in that part of the town. He believes that a new school should be proceeded with at once, so that it could be ready for occupancy by September 1st.

That part of the town is growing rapidly, and in his opinion there should be immediate steps taken to give more accommodation to the school children.

THE HIBERNIANS HONOUR CHAPLAIN

Rev. Father O'Brien Given Purse of Gold Last Night.

Departing Priest was Given Address by Division No. 1, A. O. H.

Rev. Father John O'Brien, who left this morning for Sturgeon Falls, where he will enter upon his duties as parish priest, under His Lordship Bishop Scollard, was last night made the recipient of two purses, from the members of the Sacred Heart Sodality, and also from the members of the local Division A. O. H., of which this popular priest was, until his departure from town the chaplain.

After the Sacred Heart presentation, which took place at the Cathedral, Rev. Father John O'Brien, and a number of the other priests, including Rev. Father McColl, Rev. Dr. O'Brien, and Rev. Father Phelan, of Young's Point, and Rev. Fathers Galvin and Kelly, of the Cathedral staff, repaired to the hall of the A. O. H., where a special meeting of about 75 members had been convened, arriving about 8.30.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mr. J. J. Hickey, who explained the purpose of the meeting, which was to bid farewell to Rev Father O'Brien, who, since its formation, has been its chaplain.

After a short speech by the president, Mr. Jos. Maher was called upon to read the following address:

To the Reverend John Joseph O'Brien,

Chaplain Division No. 1, A. O. H.

Reverend and Dear Father,—As duty summons from our midst our first spiritual Guide, it is but fit that the Ancient Order of Hibernians express in some slight manner its sincere appreciation of your zealous labours for the advancement of the Society.

Like Our Divine Master your teaching your work and your example have ever tended to decorate and honour the elevated sphere in which you move. Whether your sacred eyes are opened to preach God's Holy Doctrine, pronounce the ineffable words of consecration, or cheer on his path the recovering sinner; whether you anointed hand was raised in absolution or extended in warm heartfelt friendship; in your visits to the ragged poor, or to the weary pallet of the dying sinner, you have proved worthy of your exalted dignity as priest of God.

Our continued association with you has increased our esteem, not only of that sacerdotal dignity which commands our respect, but also of your amiability of character, which makes of everyone a friend. In losing you, Father, we have lost a faithful friend and director. But our loss is another's gain.

In your new home, its trials, triumphs and troubles, you bear with you the best wishes of this Society, which has known you only to esteem and honour you. In leaving us we would fain make adequate return for your zealous labours in our behalf, but as this is impossible the Peterborough Division of the Ancient Order of Hibernians beg of you to accept this purse as a humble mark of our esteem.

Signed on behalf of the Society,

M. J. MAHER, C. P.
JAS. J. HICKEY, Pres.
J. E. HAYES, Sec.

The presentation to the retiring president of a well-filled purse of gold, was made to him on behalf of the members of the division.

In his reply Rev. Father O'Brien said that he found it difficult to find words to express his deep appreciation of the generosity and evidences of good wishes shown by the members in this way. He spoke at some length upon the pleasant relations which had always existed between the members of the Division and himself, as the first chaplain. It had always given him great pleasure to be present at the meetings of the Division, and had taken an interest in the welfare of the Order.

The reverend gentleman gave a short outline of the history of the Order, and eulogised it for the good work it had done.

Speaking of his relations with the people of St. Peter's, he said that they had been most pleasant to him and he would leave here with considerable personal regret.

It was a pleasure to him to be sent to work under His Lordship Bishop Scollard. He had only the best words to say of his relations with the local clergy, and he would never forget the kindness shown him by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor. He had been in the locality to which he was now going before, so that the work would not be altogether new.

Rev. Father McColl was the next speaker, and was deeply moved by the events of the evening. Rev. Father O'Brien had always been ready and willing to assist the clergy in every branch of the work here, and he was pleased to see that the members of the A.O.H. appreciated his services in their behalf.

A short but appreciative address was also given by Rev. Dr. O'Brien. He expressed his deep regret at the departure of Rev. Father O'Brien. They had been boys together, and had attended the same school and grown up together. They were now brothers in the priesthood, and their relations had been most cordial. He paid a high tribute to his obedience to those in authority over him as a priest. It would be extremely difficult for him to leave the scene of his home life and commended his self-sacrifice in severing the ties which bind him to his family to answer the call of duty. The speaker referred to Father O'Brien's peculiar fitness for his new position, the duties of which required a knowledge of the French language, which he possessed.

The next speaker was Rev. Father Phelan of Young's Point, who spoke for the outside priests, and expressed regret that Rev. Father O'Brien was leaving this diocese. He was delighted to be present and pay this tribute to the departing priest. He had found him ever ready to assist his brother priests either at home or outside, and while he would be missed by the local clergy, he would also be missed by those outside the cathedral.

Rev. Father Galvin, who followed, spoke also in feeling terms of the loss which the local division would sustain. He would be greatly missed in his capacity of spiritual adviser. Those whom he thought would miss him most would be his brother priests, with whom he had such pleasant relations.

Rev. Father Kelly also addressed his remarks to Father O'Brien and echoed the sentiments expressed by the former speakers.

Rev. Father O'Brien was again called to speak in reply to the kind words of his brother priests.

In addition to the addresses by the priests, Messrs. Jos. Begley, Dr. Coughlin, W. Crowley, C. Murty and J. Maher spoke, and each referred to the pleasant relations which had existed between the members of the division and their chaplain.

The address presented to Rev. Father O'Brien was written by Mr. J. E. Sullivan, and is a work of art. He was the recipient of many complimentary references upon the ability displayed in its production.

During the evening Rev. Father O'Brien announced that his successor in the office of chaplain, would be Rev. Father Kelly, for whom he bespoke the same generous treatment which had been accorded to him.

The balance of the evening was spent in bidding farewell to the departing chaplain and wishing him success in his new field.

The Cost of Raising Steamer Sovereign

She will be Converted Into a First-class Tug—Grain Barges Will be Built.

The steamer Sovereign, which is owned by Messrs. Ferguson and Medram has been raised and pumped out, and it has been found that she is not injured in the slightest. The whole cost of the operation was $16.50. The raising of the boat was accomplished by simply removing the ice which formed around her during the winter as she lay at her moorings. She immediately rose buoyantly to the surface of the water, which had risen around her, above the ice in the spring freshets.

It is unnecessary to state that the Government had nothing to do with the raising of the boat, as was alleged by the Review a few evenings ago. A sample of the many exaggerated statements made by that journal may be seen in its reference to the sinking of the Sovereign, in which it stated that it would take $1,000 to raise the boat and that this expense would be borne by the Government. The facts of the case are that the cost as above stated, was only $16.50 to raise the boat, and the Government had nothing whatever to do with even this expense.

It is the intention of the owners of the Sovereign to have her upper works cut down, and have her transformed into a first class tug, with two barges built to be towed by her to carry grain for the Peterborough Cereal Company's mills.

SITE WAS NOT DECIDED UPON

St. John's Vestry Meeting Did Not Agree on Rectory Site.

An Alternative Site Will be Chosen—A Meeting to be Held Later.

Last night, the adjourned vestry meeting of St. John's was held, when the question of the erection of the rectory was further discussed, but no definite decision was arrived at.

There was a difference of opinion as to which of the two sites proposed should be accepted and a vote on the question resulted in a tie, and the result was that it was decided to adjourn the meeting again and choose an alternative site which could be agreed upon by the congregation.

A further meeting will be held in the near future when the matter will be further discussed.

REV. MR. KETCHEN TO GET $1800

This is the Stipend Attached to His New Church

A Free Manse Also Provided for his Use—Call Extended.

A despatch to the Toronto Globe confirms the report that the MacNab street Presbyterian church invites Rev. H. B. A. Ketchen. It says:

"MacNab street Presbyterian congregation to-night decided unanimously to extend a call to Rev. H. B. A. Ketchen, who has been assisting Rev. Dr. Torrance, of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, Peterborough. Four members of the special pulpit supply committee heard Mr. Ketchen preach at Shelburne a week ago last Sunday and they were so pleased with him the entire committee approved of their choice, and in turn the whole congregation did likewise. Mr. Ketchen who has been heard in MacNab street church pulpit, is 30 years of age, a graduate of Toronto University and Knox College and is engaged to be married. The stipend is placed at $1800 with a free manse. The usual two Sunday announcements will be made and the moderation will be proceeded with on Wednesday, April 19."

HEATED DEBATE IN THE COMMONS

Mgr. Sbarretti Had No Government Authority --Mr. Borden Raises Question--Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in a Speech Remarkable for Vigor and Effectiveness, Denies the Charge--Indignantly Repudiates Suggestion that Government had been Actuated by Sinister Motives.

Ottawa, April 7.—The statement by Mgr. Sbarretti confirming Sir Wilfrid Laurier's repudiation of any knowledge of the negotiations between the Papal Ablegate and the representatives of Manitoba, and denying that an interview had taken place between Mr. Rogers and himself, formed the subject of a heated debate in the House yesterday, which did not conclude until an early hour this morning. The question was introduced by Mr. R. L. Borden, who questioned the probability of Mgr. Sbarretti having made any suggestion to the Manitoba representatives unless he believed he had authority of some kind. If there had been any suggestion of the kind alleged by any member of the Government, Mr. Borden demanded the dismissal or retirement of the Minister who had conferred upon Mgr. Sbarretti any authority to enter into the negotiations.

The Premier's Reply.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in a speech which was remarkable for its vigor and effectiveness, accepted the statement of Mgr. Sbarretti as vindication of himself and his colleagues. He emphasized the fact that many things in the interview published by Mr. Rogers were not borne out by the facts, and that the interview with Mr. Campbell was not official, but was private. With indignation, Sir Wilfrid repudiated the suggestion of Mr. Borden that the Government had been actuated by sinister motives, or that there had been a conspiracy to punish Manitoba for the refusal to restore separate schools. He pointed out that the chronology of facts exonerated the Government from the charge, and assured the leader of the Opposition he could not make any political capital out of the incident, in view of Mgr. Sbarretti's positive statement that the Government had nothing to do with his suggestion to Mr. Campbell that it would expedient politically for the Manitoba Government to restore the rights of the minority.

Foster's Bitter Tongue.

Mr. George E. Foster gave a decidedly acrimonious tone to the debate, which characterised it to the end. Hon. Mr. Fisher, Hon. Mr. Paterson, Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick, Messrs. Macdonald and Leighton McCarthy were the speakers on the Government side, and Messrs. Bennett, Maclean, Sproule, Galet and Bergeron were among the speakers on the Opposition side of the House.

Railway Bills Reported.

Ottawa, April 7.—An act respecting the St. Catharines and Toronto Railway Co. was reported yesterday morning by the railway committee. The time for the completion of the extension of the line by way of Hamilton was extended for three years, and the extension to a point on the Niagara River at or near Fort Erie was extended for two years for commencement and five years for completion.

An amendment, which has been under consideration of the Minister for some time and which was agreed upon by parties concerned, will interfere that the company may construct its railway upon or along Burlington Beach, in the Counties of Wentworth and Halton, provided always that the Toronto and Hamilton Railway Co. and the Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Railway Co. shall have one right of way only upon or along the beach, to be used by the said companies in common upon terms to be determined by the board.

The Toronto and Hamilton Railway bill was reported after a similar clause was inserted in it.

THE SUDBURY LINE.

Supreme Court Delivers Judgment re. Branch Railway.

Ottawa, April 7.—In the Supreme Court yesterday judgment was delivered in the reference from the Board of Railway Commissioners in the matter of the Sudbury branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the first question "Has the C. P. R. now power to construct the branch line or has the time expired?" was answered yes, Justice Idington dissenting; the second question, "Do such legislation, schedules and charter possessed authorise construction, it being altogether situated in Ontario?" answered yes, Justice Idington dissenting on the ground that time had expired; third question, "Is it open to the James Bay Railway Co. or to the Board of Railway Commissioners to take the objection to the time within which the said company may build branch lines under its charter?" answered yes.

Poison in Mistake.

Strathroy, April 7.—Mrs. Hamilton, wife of John Hamilton, blacksmith, of this place, died from the effects of taking a dose of liniment yesterday morning containing belladonna, in mistake for a tonic she had been taking. The fatal dose was administered by her daughter, who picked up the wrong bottle, which was marked "poison."

LINEVITCH MAY WITHDRAW

Russ and Jap Face Each Other Again in First Fight Since Mukden—Japs Successful in Occupying Village of Kuyuaha With Small Loss —Russians Repulse Another Force.

London, April 7.—The correspondent at St. Petersburg of The Times telegraphs:

The latest official information leads to the belief that the Japanese are advancing in crescent formation—Oku on the left, Nodsu in the centre, and Kuroki and Kamamura on the right, and with a total strength of 475,000. It is feared that Linevitch will be compelled to withdraw.

Japs Occupy a Village.

Tokio, April 7.—Imperial army headquarters, reporting yesterday, says: "Part of our Kaiyuan force engaged in driving the enemy, occupied Kuyuaha, three miles northeast of Mienhuachieh on the afternoon of April 4.

"On the afternoon of April 3 the enemy with mounted artillery and machine guns advanced south from the direction of Tawo, on the Fenghua road, and on the morning of April 4 opened a bombardment on Chincheatun.

"Simultaneously a large force of infantry advanced from the vicinity of the main road, two other columns detouring to cover both our flanks.

"They approached within 400 metres of our position, but at 6 o'clock in the evening we entirely repulsed them.

"Our casualities were 27 men wounded. The enemy's loss is uncertain, but it is estimated at over 200 killed and wounded."

Dispersed by Cossacks.

St. Petersburg, April 7.—A despatch to the War Office from Chief of Staff Karkevitch, dated yesterday, says that a Russian and Corean detachment attacked a force of Japanese infantry five miles from Kiltohjiou (Kiju), and that the Japanese were dislodged from two positions and dispersed by the Russian fire and Cossacks attacks.

The despatch adds that Japanese detachments have appeared on the Mandarin road between Changtufu and Maimaikaiia, on the Russian front.

Where Togo Is.

Chicago, April 7.—A special to The Daily News, from Batavia, Java, says: "Togo's fleet was sighted yesterday morning south of the Island of Mindanao, the southernmost of the Philippine group."

PEACE LIKELY.

All Foreign Ambassadors to France Say It Will Come Soon.

Paris, April 7.—Unless all the foreign ambassadors in Paris are very much astray, the peace negotiations which were begun two weeks ago have now reached a point where general publicity, must take the place of the secrecy so far observed. There is hardly any doubt that an understanding has been arrived at between Japan and Russia in respect of the general terms of the peace treaty, and it would not be surprising to learn within a week that the two powers have appointed commissioners. For diplomatic reasons denials are made at every point, but it is nevertheless true that men who have been called into council have leaked sufficiently to make clear the fact that the two warring nations practically have agreed upon the general points at issue.

MR. WHITNEY OF MONTREAL.

Gives $100,000 as Wedding Gift to Telephone Girl.

New York, April 7.—Miss Anna Bennett, employed on the telephone switchboard of the Grand Union hotel, and whose engagement to Mr. Whitney, of Montreal was announced Wednesday, has had a unique experience. Mr. Whitney gave $100,000 to his fiancee, telling her to be generous with the sum in the purchase and preparation of her trousseau. Mr. Whitney's home is in Montreal, where he is engaged in the asphalt business, and he has been a widower for two years.

Another telephone girl, Miss Ida Schwindt, who is employed in the Park Avenue hotel, has shared in the good fortune of her life-long friend, Miss Bennett. To her Mr. Whitney presented a check for $500 for the purchase of a gown to be worn as bridesmaid at the wedding, and a diamond cluster ring. Mr. Whitney's son will be the best man.

SMELTER MAN CRUSHED.

Frederick Hargraves of Copper Cliff Instantly Killed Thursday.

Copper Cliff, April 7.—Yesterday afternoon a fatal accident befell Mr. Fred Hargraves, one of the smelter men in the employ of the Canadian Copper Co. here. While engaged with three other workmen in scaling and repairing one of the furnaces, a large mass of ore, weighing over five hundred pounds, fell fully seven feet from the top of the furnace, striking him on the head, instantly crushing him to death.

Three of the men escaped, as by a miracle, with only slight bruises. The deceased is a son of Rev. Charles Hargraves, Lake of the Woods, Mich. A young widow and son, with sisters and brothers, all resident here, mourn his sudden death. An inquest is being held.

Col. Morris Seized With Paralysis.

Prince Albert, N. W. T., April 3.—Col. Morris, commanding the N. W. M. P. here, was paralyzed Saturday and is still unconscious. He was carried over a small fire occurring at the barracks, and was seized shortly afterwards.

EARTHQUAKE SHAKES INDIA.

Many Victims at Dharmsala — Several Europeans Killed—Towers of Golden Mosque, Lahore, Fall.

Lahore, Punjab, India, April 6.—The Hill station of Dharmsala was practically razed to the ground by the earthquakes. The native quarter was entirely obliterated, many of the inhabitants were buried in the ruins, most of the houses in the European quarters were wrecked and nine persons were killed. The people are sleeping in the open air food is not procurable and the great distress prevailing is accentuated by keen frost. The entire population is encamped on the adjoining hillsides, without protection and without medical aid. A relief party was despatched from here to Dharmsala yesterday.

Several Europeans Killed.

The Europeans killed at Dharmsala were Mrs. Robinson, wife of the colonel commanding the troops there, and her two daughters, Mrs. Holderness, Capt. Muscroft and four members of the Indian civil service.

The Damage Extensive.

The sharpest earthquake shocks within the memory of the living inhabitants were felt here. The damage was extensive. It is feared that there was considerable loss of life in the city. The towers of the Golden Mosque are reported to have fallen, and Wazier Khan's Mosque was badly cracked. Heavy shocks were felt at Simla, Delhi, Agra and other places, and much damage was done. At Agra hookers on the river turned turtle. At Mysore eleven shocks were distinctly felt. One woman was killed and many natives seriously injured.

Reports from the Dehra Dun and Rajpur districts show that extensive damage has been done.

Tried to Lynch Negroes.

Fulton, Ky., April 5.—A mob twice attempted to force the jail here Monday night in an effort to lynch three negroes, who are charged with shooting Officer Baker. Mayor Wall, members of the City Council and prominent citizens defended the prisoners and defeated the mob.

PAINFUL PERIODS

Suggestions How to Find Relief from Such Suffering.

While no woman is entirely free from periodical suffering, it does not seem to be the plan of nature that women should suffer so severely. Menstruation is a severe strain on a woman's vitality. If it is painful or irregular something is wrong which should be set right or it will lead to a serious derangement of the whole female organism.

More than fifty thousand women have testified in grateful letters to Mrs. Pinkham that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound overcomes painful and irregular menstruation.

It provides a safe and sure way of escape from distressing and dangerous weaknesses and diseases.

The two following letters tell so convincingly what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will do for women, they cannot fail to bring hope to thousands of sufferers.

Miss Matilda Richardson of 177 Wellington Street, Kingston, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Some four years ago my usually good health began to fail. I had severe pains in my back, my head ached, I would have dizzy spells, and during my monthly periods I would suffer intense pain. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so glad that I did, for it brought new life and health to me. My monthly periods were natural and painless, and my general health improved. I have not had an ache or a pain since, and I feel it a duty as well as a pleasure to tell you what your medicine has done for me."

Mme. Louise McKenzie of Mount Carmel, Montreal, Canada, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I had heard so much good about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before I started to take it for painful menstruation so that when it cured me I was not surprised. I had suffered with blinding headaches and pain until it seemed that I must scream. These pains lasted from five to ten days every month, and you can understand how glad I was to get relief. I am in the best of health, and am pleased to give you this testimonial for what your medicine has done for me."

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands without a peer as a remedy for all the distressing ills of women.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound rests upon the well-earned gratitude of Canadian women.

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, bloating, (or flatulency), general debility, indigestion and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.

Don't hesitate to write to Mrs. Pinkham if there is anything about your sickness you do not understand. She will treat you with kindness and her advice is free. No woman ever regretted writing her and she has helped thousands. Address Lynn, Mass.

Ask Mrs. Pinkham's Advice—A Woman Best Understands a Woman's Ills.

MAY MEAN MUCH FOR PETERBOROUGH

Canada Foundry Company Negotiating for Purchase of Barton Engine Works—If Acquired will be Used to Provide Castings for the Peterborough Works of the Canadian General Electric Company--Great Expansion of Business is Responsible for the Contemplated Enlargement --Local Works Will Probably Follow With Enlargement Plans.

An announcement has been made which may have more far-reaching effects in Peterborough than would appear at first sight. It is contained in last night's Toronto Star, and is to the effect that the Canada Foundry Co. would in all probability soon acquire the plant of the Bertram Engine Works, of which company the late John Bertram was the president. If this report is true, and no one has been found to deny it, it will probably mean that the works will be acquired to provide more castings for the Peterborough works of the Canadian General Electric Co., an allied company, and the general impression is that this will also necessitate an enlargement of the works here, a project which has been under contemplation for some time on account of the great increase in business.

The Star in its article says:—

"The acquirement of the Bertram Engine and Shipyards Company, the greatest ship-building enterprise in Canada, is the latest proposition to engage the attention of the Canada Foundry Co. Negotiations are in progress. If consummated it will greatly strengthen the Canada Foundry Co.

The matter will be definitely settled on the part of the directors of the Bertram Company at their next meeting in three weeks' time.

Rumors in the financial district have it that the deal has been practically completed, and that the exports of the Canada Foundry Company are now looking over the plant and the business of the Bertram Co.

THE PRESIDENT RETICIENT.

"Upon what terms did the Canada Foundry Company acquire the Bertram Engine and Shipyards Company?" Mr. W. D. Matthews, the president of the Canada Foundry Company, was asked this morning.

"I did not know that the Canada Foundry Company had purchased the Bertram Company," was the reply.

"I understood that the purchase had been completed?"

"No it has not."

"In what state are the negotiations, then?"

"This matter is one of private commercialism, and the public has no right to know anything of its details until we make the announcement," was the reply. Mr. Matthews discouraged further questions upon the subject.

Mr. Frederic Nicholls, the general manager of the Canada Foundry Co., is out of the city.

The Bertram Engine Works officials replied that the negotiations were still open.

STOCK ISSUED.

A significant fact is that yesterday the Canada Foundry Company directors authorized the issue of $4,000,000 worth of stock, $900,000 of which was to be placed upon the market immediately. This $900,000, which goes upon the market at 125, was, it was announced, to cover a heavy bank overdraft.

The Bertram Engine Works were established in 1892, when the late Mr. George Bertram secured control of the Doty Engine Company. Two years later the shipyards were established, and in 1899, when Mr. G. Bertram died, the late Mr. John Bertram took control. The enterprise is a very large one. The shipyards employ 175 hands and the engine works over 325. The company built the palace steamers, Toronto and Kingston, the Chippewa and Corona, and a dozen or more large freight, ore and grain carriers for the upper lakes, in addition to many smaller steamers and ferry boats.

Best Cough Medicine for Children.

When you buy a cough medicine for small children you want one in which you can place implicit confidence. You want one that not only relieves but cures. You want one that is unquestionably harmless. You want one that is pleasant to take. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy meets all of these conditions. There is nothing so good for the coughs and colds incident to childhood. It is also a certain preventive and cure for croup, and there is no danger whatever from whooping cough when it is given. It has been used in many epidemics of that disease with perfect success. SHOVELSFUL BY THE MILLIONS

Magnitude of the Work to be Done on Water Mains

Water Commissioner Will Lay Many Thousand Feet of Main This Summer.

It will take six or seven tons of lead to seal up the joints in the two miles of mains to be laid by the Water Commissioners department this year. This amount may seem astounding at first, but it must be remembered that great care has to be taken to make all secure. Lead is not bought for nothing, and the cost of this material alone will be over six hundred dollars. Roughly speaking, there will be about ten thousand feet of main laid, and a lot of the pipe is now on the ground. The pipe will be laid five feet underground. It is thought that the trench will average six feet in depth.

The width will be about two feet. This means that one hundred and twenty thousand cubic feet of earth will have to be shovelled out in order to lay the pipe. Reckoning a cubic foot contains about five shovelfuls, this means that six hundred thousand shovelfuls of earth will have to be excavated. By the time the earth is replaced, the men will have handled over one million shovelsful.

STOLEN GOODS WERE RECOVERED

Booty Secured in Robbery of Percy's Grocery Discovered in Vacant House.

Considerable of the booty secured in the burglary of Mr. R. Percy's grocery, corner of Charlotte and Aylmer streets the other night, has been discovered in a vacant house on Sherbrooke street, where it had been secreted. The stolen property was discovered by some boys. The police are making diligent efforts to secure the aprehension of the culprits and interesting developments are expected in the near future.

RUBIDGE STREET SEWER COMPLETION

Mr. John Robson Finishing up his Work.

Mr. John Robson, the contractor for the sewer on Rubidge street, is completing his work, which had to be abandoned last fall, on account of winter coming on, and the connection with the Charlotte street sewer will be made in a few days. The work this spring was done from a point between Charlotte and King street and the workmen find the excavation easy, the frost having practically left the ground.

LENTEN SERVICES AT ALL SAINTS'

Large Congregation Attended Last Night's Meeting.

Rev. Mr. Major Continues Series of Addresses on "God's Call to His People".

At All Saints last night Rev. Mr. Major continued his series of Lenten addresses on "God's call to His People" taking for his text Exodus IV.-2—"The Lord said unto him, what is that in thy hand and he said a rod".

The most common complaint made by those who are asked to take up some class of work is that they lack the necessary qualifications, but when tested by the standard of God's word they do not avail, 1 Corinthians, 1, 26 to 28. Both with reference to character and qualifications for (work; God's thoughts are not as our thoughts. The call to work is, of course, the necessary condition, considering that work has been given us to do. This is most important. Do not undertake work before the call has been given. Moses tried it and failed ignominiously. The call to Moses was most distinct after his failure. "I will send thee unto Pharoah that thou mayest bring forth my people, the Children of Israel, out of Egypt. The call is no sooner given, than he raises objections. In his estimation he has not the proper qualifications, and judging from the objections he raises which were quite honest, we would suppose that he was not qualified, and yet God sends him and he is the very man that God calls for this work. All he had with which to carry out the work was the rod, which teaches us that what man has is enough for God to carry out his purposes. The feeble and more worthless the instrument is the greater glory there is to God in the deliverance wrought.

We should, therefore, take courage, and however small a talent we have when the call comes we should obey without question. Examples were given from the Old Testament in support of this. Ehud with his dagger, Shamgar with his ox-goad, Gideon with his pitchers and lamps, Sampson with the jawbone of an ass, were all used by God for the deliverance of His people. David fought with Goliath was also referred to as an illustration of the point. His sling and one stone were sufficient to feel the Giant and deliver the armies of the living God. The case of Elijah and the widow and Elisha and the prophet's widow were also adduced. We find also that God's servants were poorly provided from a human standpoint, and Isiah, Jeremiah and Amos were mentioned as illustrations of this. In the New Testament it is related that certain men turned the world upside down with their preaching and teaching of Christ, but they were all ignorant, unlearned men, and yet God accomplished his purposes through their instrumentality. All this should be very encouraging to us, however weak and apparently unqualified we may be. There are three practical conclusions to be arrived at from this. First, the emptiness of human power and the poverty of human resources; second, "My Glory will I not give to another; and lastly when the call comes to take up work for God we should raise no objections whatever, but render a submissive trustful obedience.

BURGLARY CASE IN POLICE COURT

Perpetrators of Series of Robberies Have Been Secured

Arrest Accomplished by Local Police—Other Cases.

There was an unusually large docket at Police Court yesterday morning. The first case called was that of M. Pappas, of the Greek shoe-shine parlour, who was convicted of selling cigarettes to a minor and a fine of $20.00, and costs, amounting to $3.40, imposed. The evidence of the youth, who a few days ago, was convicted of the theft of $52, was the first taken. Witness stated that he had purchased cigarettes on Friday morning and also on Saturday, when he dropped in to the store in question while on his way to the station to depart for Toronto. This was corroborated by the evidence of another boy. The evidence of the proprietor and an employee conflicted with this, this being to the effect that between 10.30 and 11.30 on Saturday morning when it was alleged that the cigarettes had been purchased, prisoner was away from the premises. The Magistrate, however held that the charge had been established and imposed the penalty mentioned above, which Mr. O'Connell, counsel for the defence, took strong exception to on account of its severity.

David Smith and George Hayes, each had to donate coin of the realm to the extent of $2.00 to the town's strong-box for riding bicycles on the sidewalk.

The sensational case of the morning was then proceeded with. This was that of three boys ranging in age from 11 to 14, who pleaded guilty on four distinct charges of burglary. The apprehension of the young criminals, who have been conducting their operations in different parts of the town, was accomplished by the most searching and painstaking detective work by the local police force, who are to be congratulated upon the results obtained. The frequency of the offences and their bold character, has for some time given rise to no little apprehension in the minds of house-holders in the town as to the safety of their property. The houses entered by the trio of youthful marauders, were those occupied by Mrs. Hazlitt, on Dickson's Hill, Mr. J. H. Burnham, Mr. P. Simons, Jr., and Mr. Wm. Morgan. Among the articles stolen were spoons, forks, knives, coins, jewellery, pipes, tobacco and other miscellaneous articles. The location of the guilty parties was accomplished through the tracing of some rare coins stolen from the collection of Mr. P. Simons, Jr., the police displaying keen detective acumen in the search. A full confession was made by all three prisoners. The mothers of two of the boys appealed in Court, both of whom are widows.

Mr. D. O'Connel and Mr. A. E. Dixon appeared on behalf of the prisoners, making a strong plea as to their youth and referred in feeling terms to their respectable family connections. The Magistrate in his summary of the case, took this into account, also stating that there was no doubt that the boys did not realise the enormity of their offense. He decided to allow them to go, sentence being suspended for six months. They will again appear on October 5th, when their conduct in the meantime, will be considered.

Crown Attorney Wood was present for the prosecution.

Murder Affair Was "Arranged."

Berlin, April 3.—A despatch from Tangier received here yesterday announces that the affair of the murder of a German subject named Genthe has been arranged. The two Moors who were implicated have been condemned to imprisonment for life, and the Government of Morocco has undertaken to erect a monument over Genthe's grave and compensate his family.

Francis Genthe, a newspaper correspondent and well known as a writer of hunting and military stories, was murdered in March, 1904, while traveling in Morocco.

Coal Strike is Averted.

Philadelphia, April 3.—By the action of the soft coal operators of Central Pennsylvania, who met here Saturday, the threatened strike of the bituminous miners has been averted. The operators in secret session decided to grant the demands of the men by renewing the wage scale in effect last year, the basis of which is 62 cents a ton for pick mining.

SHARP DECLINE IN PRICE OF HOGS

Beef Takes Corresponding Advance—Local Market Conditions.

The sharp decline in the price of hogs was the feature of the live-stock market this week, though a corresponding advance is noted in beef quotations.

The local supply of hogs has been extremely heavy, the Matthew's Co. having every available car and all and their present supply will total over 1000 hogs. The local prices show a decline of about 75c from those of last week. The Montreal and Toronto prices which reached a sensational attitude during the past few weeks, $7.40 having been the figure at one point—are to-day $6.90. This does not, however, equal the decline in Toronto prices, which are 65c below those of last week. A still further heavy slump was predicted to-day by a local live-stock buyer.

Beef has advanced steadily and a buyer to-day offered 5c per lb. live weight. The same gentleman stated that he had to-day offered $100 for a single three-year-old steer, which, however, was a large one, and in good condition. A report comes from Toronto to the effect that some of the dealers slept on the market, watching for the first chance to buy cattle. 300 hogs passed over the scales at the market to-day of which one hundred went to independent buyers. The receipts at the Toronto City Market yesterday 73 carloads consisting of 1,697 cattle, 1,200 hogs, 236 sheep and lambs, 150 calves and 13 horses.

The quantity of fat cattle was not as good as might be expected at this season of the year, showing that farmers consider grain too good a price to feed much of it to their cattle, although there were several lots of good offered, both butchers' and exporters.

Trade was brisk for cattle, the demand being greater than the supply in nearly all classes, but more especially for exporters and choice short-keep feeders. There were many dealers from outside points, which helped to make a stronger market.

There are quite a few live-stock dealers, together with many farmers, wondering whether the present prices for hogs will be maintained. The first quarter of this year has not brought an oversupply of hogs to market. The "coaxing price" of $5.00 per cwt. has been considerably exceeded since the beginning of March, still the hogs did not come in large numbers. The low price of last fall caused many farmers to lessen the number of their breed sows, and the good prices for barley and oats caused many farmers to sell their feeding hogs of lighter weights than usual. The large Canadian porkpackers will have a large home demand for their products, as the population of the Dominion is steadily increasing. Healthy competition among the Canadian pork-packing concerns will keep up the prices for good live hogs. The pork-packers may not be able to obtain the big slice on every hog slaughtered that they received in the past decade, and it is only fair that the hog raisers and feeders should have a fair share of the profits. The Ontario farmer has succeeded in raising the best all round hogs on the continent, and he is now receiving the highest price for his live hogs.

QUICK DAM WORK AT FENELON FALLS

Concrete Dam Constructed for Mr. W. H. Meldrum's Mill in Record Time—A Description of the Reinforcement of a Dam Which Might be Suggestive to Water Commissioners—Illustrations of the Work in Progress—How a Dam was Strengthened and Made Practically Indestructible.

The current number of the Canadian Engineer contains an illustrated article, descriptive of the newly re-constructed dam at Fenelon Falls which is used to furnish power for Mr. W. H. Meldrum's mill.

The article, with the illustrations is published here, as a suggestion to the water commissioners, who it is expected, will be called up in the not distant future to take some action with reference to reinforcing the present water-works dam, or build a new structure.

STATE OF THE WORK ON OCTOBER 18TH.

The article follows:—

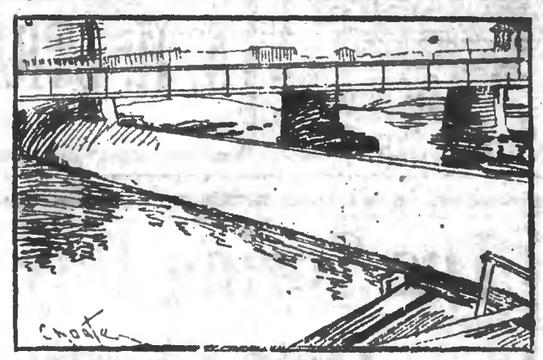
The dam here illustrated is interesting not only as an example of the advanced method of construction in reinforced concrete, but as probably establishing the record for quick work.

It forms one wing of a horse-shoe dam in the Fenelon river at the village of Fenelon Falls, Ont., adjoining a Government crib dam, which is a part of the navigation system.

It replaces a wooden dam and creates a forebay delivering to the new power house of the Municipal Lighting Plant, and also serves the flour and grist mill of W. H. Meldrum & Co.

The dam stands on a smooth limestone ledge the total length being 194 feet. The line of the dam takes in a pier of the highway bridge at about two-thirds of its length. Above the pier the average height is 9 1-2 feet, this portion forming a spillway which also contains a sluice closed with stop logs (seen just above the bridge,) for releasing any floating trash. Below the bridge the crest is one foot higher, acting as a bulkhead and flood spillway.

The dam consists of triangular buttresses 12 inches thick, 10 feet C to C, dowelled to the ledge with steel pins and supporting an inclined deck increasing from 7 inches thick at the top to ten inches at the bottom, where it enlarges to a cut-off wall. The deck is reinforced with steel Thatcher bars 3-4 in. and 7-8 in. in diameter, spaced from 6.3 to 7 inches C to C. Secondary reinforcing for hair cracks is provided for by fence wire. The deck shows a factor of safety of five under a 5 ft. flood calculated by Thatcher's formula. The buttresses nowhere sustain a load greater than 4.5 tons per sq. foot.



THE COMPLETED DAM.

The main current of the river falling over the Government dam runs parallel to the face of the new dam. It was, therefore, necessary to defend the buttresses against a jam of ice or logs which might otherwise pile up against them. This was done by means of a skirting of reinforced concrete 5 ft. high along the face of the buttresses. The skirting is open underneath, so that the water rises equally on both sides thereby equalizing the pressure.

Owing to the lighting requirements of the village, it was necessary that power be restored without the needless loss of a day. The contract was closed on September 18th, 1904, under a time penalty for non-completion, taking effect Nov. 1st. The village undertook to supply crushed stone, sand and cement to the contractors. Work was commenced on October 4th. The 1st cut shows the state of the work October 18th, at the end of the second week. The second cut represents the completed structure. This view is from the upstream side or back of the dam, and shows the buttress forms filled, the cut-off wall started, and shows a part of the deck forms in place. On October 25th, at the end of the 3rd week, about half the deck had been laid. October 28th was lost through failure of the quarrymen to supply stone.

On November 1st at 4 p. m., the last concrete was laid, thus completing the dam without forfeiture. Water to the depth of three feet was at once admitted, the green concrete in the closing bay being protected from wash. The concrete was allowed to harden until November 19th, when it was found to be "bottle tight," and full head was admitted.

No night or Sunday work was done, and allowing for one day lost by non-delivery of stone, the actual time of building a dam 194 feet long and substantially 10 feet high was 22 ordinary working days. By working a night crew this time could doubtless have been reduced to two weeks, but this was not considered practicable.

Commenting on this dam, the Engineering News remarks: "To build a permanent concrete dam nearly 200 feet in length and 10 feet in height in 22 working days is a feat hitherto unrecorded to say the least. We need hardly point out that such rapidity of construction enabling a dam to be built entire during a low water period and reducing the risk of flood damage during construction must form a strong recommendation of this type of construction."

The dam was designed and built by the Amburgen Hydraulic Construction Company, of Boston, for the Board of Water, Light and Power Commissioners of Fenelon Falls. Earnshaw Bradley, C. E., 3 Place D'Armes Hill, Montreal, is the Canadian representative.

GOOD WORDS FOR MR. CARNEGIE

Mr. John Bell is of the Opinion That He is a Good Man.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Editor,—I think it is very uncharitable to speak of Mr. Andrew Carnegie in the way some are speaking. Few of us would have known there was such a great man in this world if it had not been for the great good that he is aiming at, in his old age, and if we all cannot appreciate at present, his good work, I am sure there will be a time when posterity will thank the day that this great and wise man was born.

Why should we judge this great man in this surmising way? Why all this circumstantial evidence? There is none good. What about the thief on the Cross, who said, "Jesus Lord, remember me when thou comest into Thy kingdom"? Also read the fifteenth chapter of St. Luke, the parable of the lost sheep, also the pieces of silver, the prodigal son. Even if Mr. Carnegie had been a bad man like the thief on the cross, let me say that what he is doing now, will redound to the wisdom of his old age and be a lasting benefit to the poor of this world.

JOHN BELL.

April 6th, 1905.

IS THIS GOOD MANAGEMENT?

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—About noon Wednesday, I had occasion to call Police Station on the phone and after waiting some minutes was informed by central that "We cannot raise them". I requested operator to try again and was told that "We could not get them just now, is ring in a fire alarm."

Should our police force be so hard to reach when needed?

" Hubert E. Labelle, of Larkin & Sangster, Hydraulic Contractors.

PROPERTY.

The Company has a clear title to the whole of Burleigh Falls water power, located at the Narrows between Lovesick and Stony Lakes, 18 miles north of Peterboro' on the route of the Trent Valley Canals. There is an existing Dam and an effective head of 27 feet, and flow of water which will be diverted through a natural race-way and which will yield 3,000 electric horse power during the dry season (August and September).

ENGINEERS' REPORTS—STRONG ENDORSEMENTS.

Surveys and reports with estimates have been made by Messrs. Ross & Holgate, Consulting Hydraulic and Electrical Engineers, Montreal,—supplemented by a report and estimate by Roderick J. Parke, Consulting Electrical Engineer, Toronto,—these firms being well-known and of the highest standing in Canada.

Their reports show that owing to the low cost of the hydraulic development the Company is in a position to deliver electric power to lake-front towns at a cost much lower than the lowest possible cost of steam power.

COMPARATIVE COST OF DEVELOPMENT.

Engineers' reports show that the cost of the Hydraulic development of Burleigh Falls per horse-power in comparison with that of Niagara Falls, is as one to six in favor of Burleigh Falls. The advantage of low initial hydraulic cost of development is exemplified by the Shawinigan Falls power plant which while 84 miles distant from Montreal, delivers electric power to that city at a lower cost per horse-power than the cost of power developed at Montreal. The reports must indicate that the Burleigh Falls power is the cheapest developable power in Canada.

MARKET FOR POWER.

Within easy and economical transmission distance to Burleigh Falls is a town population of 50 000. Peterboro', Bowmanville and Oshawa alone afford an immediate market for power and lighting sufficient for the entire output of this plant as understated. Lakefield, Millbrook and Orono are on the line and Newcastle is just off the line. Whitby is also only 5 miles west of Oshawa. Port Hope and Cobourg can be reached by short branch line. The distance from Burleigh Falls to Oshawa, via Peterboro' and Bowmanville is about 50 miles.

The Company holds written applications for electric power from all the larger manufacturers at Oshawa, Bowmanville, Whitby, Port Hope and Cobourg, as a substitute for their steam power.

REVENUE AND PROFITS—PER ENGINEER'S REPORT.

A reference to the Engineering Report of Mr. R. J. Parke, shows that the hydraulic works, electrical machinery, transmission line, and local distribution lines for delivering at Peterboro' 700 h.p., at Bowmanville 600 h.p., and at Oshawa 1,900 h.p., providing for a complete and first-class plant and equipment can be installed for $373,000. He says in conclusion: "From my personal knowledge of the extent of the steam power used and the cost of the same in these localities, I fully believe that the output of your plant can be readily sold at satisfactory prices."

"The final analysis indicates a

"Net Annual Revenue Available for Dividends on Common Stock - $81,300

"over and above all expenses, sinking fund, and interest on Bonds and Preferred Stock."

"In conclusion I feel justified in expressing the opinion that the results shown above fully justify an investment in "the enterprise. The small capital investment required for the development of the hydraulic power at Burleigh Falls "enables the electrical energy to be transmitted and sold at a much lower cost than in the case in the "ordinary average hydraulic-electrical power development and transmission system. Furthermore, your enterprise seems to have the peculiar advantage of being in a position to secure other markets for power "than Peterborough, Bowmanville and Oshawa, due to the likelihood of a demand arising in the near future for "electric railroads, and the proximity of Port Hope and Cobourg, and Whitby and other towns within economical transmission distances."

The Western Bank of Canada, its Head Office, Oshawa, will receive payments for subscriptions for Preferred Stock. Cheques or Money Orders must be made payable to the order of the Bank.

BIRKBECK LOAN CO. AMALGAMATION

May Sell out to the Standard Company.

The many local shareholders in the Birbeck Loan Company of London, will read with interest the following despatch from that city:

"The Birbeck Loan Company, of this city, having agencies at Ottawa, Toronto, and other places, and with 2,000 shareholders in the province, may sell out to the Standard Loan Company, of Toronto. A meeting of the shareholders recently held was largely in favour of making the sale, but took no action, pending a report from the auditors, to be presented in three weeks. It is said that except for those holding permanent stock, of which there is $80,000, the losses will be small.

THE BOMB THROWER'S BOOMERANG.

The Manitoba boundary extension incident, shows that the fire-eating politicians of the press are bound to destroy the harmony of the country in the pursuance of political ends. When it is found that the character of the Northwest Territories schools—practically public schools — it was intended to continue by the passing of the Autonomy Bill, left the bomb-throwers without a grievance, a new one was concocted to stir up race and religious rancour. The question of the Manitoba boundary was forced to the front, a question which has no more to do with the Northwest school matters, than the doctrines of Malthus. But the ingenuity of these evil doers is large. It was boldly alleged that the refusal to extend the boundaries of Manitoba — to enlarge that province at the expense of Saskatchewan — was made because of the attitude of Manitoba in the past in regard to separate schools; and, without the slightest foundation, except impudent assumption, the public was led to believe that Mgr. Sbarretti, the Papal Ablegate, had told the Manitoba Government that Sir Wilfrid Laurier would listen to Manitoba's claim for extension of their boundaries if Manitoba made certain school concessions. This was asserted without an iota of proof, and as events have shown, there was not a word of truth in it. It was simply a move in the political game. The Manitoba people were led to believe that there had been an outrageous clerical interference with their rights, the Legislature was to be dissolved, and an appeal was to be made to the people on the question of a Liberal premier bargaining away the rights of Manitoba at the behest of a foreign ecclesiastic, and the result of the election was looked forward to as a vindication of the Conservative Government of Manitoba, whose vigilance would have saved the province from "chains and slavery," a Government of the same Conservative party which tried to force separate schools on Manitoba in 1896. The unfortunate part of the plot, for the plotters, was that there was not a word of truth in the matter which was the basis of their action. Sir Wilfrid Laurier refused the modest demand of Manitoba for a slice of the domain of the Northwest Territories, before Mgr. Sbarretti came upon the scene. Sir Wilfrid asserted that there is not a shadow or tittle of truth in the statement that he had any understanding with the Papal Ablegate, and the latter states the same thing. As the facts have been revealed, the bomb-throwers, in their hunt for hierarchical influence in politics, might well turn their attacks upon the Conservative Government—the Roblin Administration — of Manitoba, which has been negotiating with the Papal Ablegate for the past year or so. The hypocrisy and disingenuousness of the attitude assumed by Hon. Mr. Rogers, a member of the Roblin Government, as special emissary, are tersely and forcibly set forth by the Globe, in these words:

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier's statement in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon places Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of Public Works in the Government of Manitoba, in an unenviable position. His dishonest attempt to implicate the Federal Premier in the negotiations with Mgr. Sbarretti is recoiling on his own head. The word 'dishonest' is not used in any loose sense, for it is only necessary to read Mr. Rogers' account of what brought him to Ottawa, to see that he falsified the record in order to strengthen the inference that he wanted the public to draw, namely, that Sir Wilfrid Laurier brought him to Ottawa to throw him into the hands of the Papal Ablegate. In view, indeed, of the documents now adduced, and the known facts of the case, and taking into consideration the Ablegate's statement that he discussed Manitoba's school question with Hon. Colin Campbell only, and never met Mr. Rogers, it must be said of Mr. Rogers' interview that it is the most infamously mendacious public paper that ever issued from a man holding a reputable public position. He set out to concoct a story to suit his own purposes, and to make it look at all reasonable he has found it necessary to resort to those evasions, suppressions and half truths that are the familiar weapons of the falsifier. Whatever Mr. Roblin's foes may say about him, his friends can at least assert that he was not capable of the task that his henchman appears to have assumed so cheerfully."

We are told that Hon. Mr. Rogers sticks to his story, that Mgr. Sbarretti was speaking with the sanction of Sir Wilfrid Laurier when he intimated that the boundaries would be extended, if Manitoba granted the school concessions demanded by the Papal Ablegate. We should expect him to stick to his story if he followed the motto of the easy moralist who advised the wisdom of sticking to a false story, when once told. What will be the next move of the political incendiaries? They seem decided, by hook or by crook, to obscure the merits of public questions in the smoke of the fires of passion and prejudice, they are fanning so industriously for the base purpose of gaining some petty political advantage.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Judged by its cartoons, the Toronto News is the most picturesque —prevaricator in the country.

In Chatham, there has, it seems, been as proportionally big a battle among local Conservatives over license commissioners, as over the possession of Mukden.

For three-quarters of the United States fiscal year the deficit in the national finances is pretty close to $25,000,000, says the Philadelphia Record. For nine months the increase of revenue has been less than two millions, while the increased expenses have been more than $34,000,000, or nearly four millions a month.

One by one our cherished ideals and beliefs that we have embraced with unquestioning trust, are scienced out of existence. According to Mr. Gray, chemist of the Ogilvie flour mills, digestive experiments prove that the human system obtains more protein, carbohydrates and energy from patent white flour than from graham flour, the tests showing the values 90.1 to 80.7. Is this a serious chemical discovery, or simply a drive at the breakfast food products, ranging from scorched saw-dust to baked bran?

THE LAND OF PROMISE

Montreal Witness.

Several leading journals in the United States have expressed astonishment that three hundred thousand famers from the border states and the Mississippi Valley should have abandoned their homes, moved over into Canada, settled on government lands, and become subjects of the British crown. As the Washington Post sadly admits, these immigrants are "the cream of American citizenship, tillers of the soil, who cannot live without law and order, churches and schools—men and women who make homes." Why people of this class should resign their citizenship in the Republic to become British subjects in the Dominion is a question to which the the journals referred to are unable to find a satisfactory answer. They have so long been accustomed to regard Canada as a country inferior to their own that their astonishment at the exodus northward is quite natural. They point out that the Southern States, with millions of acres of unoccupied land, no long, hard winters and enjoying the blessings of republican institutions, offer a field for immigration much more inviting than Canada. They also point out that the South grows many different kinds of crops and fruits, while in the Dominion there are few. Altogether, the contrast drawn between the two regions is much to the disadvantage of the Canadian territories. Yet in spite of all this the farmers of the Western States prefer to go north and become Canadians, rather than go south and retain their citizenship, with all the alleged advantages of soil, climate and institutions. It has to be admitted that they are intelligent and practical and would not make choice of the Canadian west as their future home were they not fully convinced of its superiority. It is only left to enquire for those reasons. In the first place Alberta and Saskatchewan have really a better climate than the States these people have the choice of going to, one free alike from the cyclones and blizzards which afflict the west, and from the malaria, drought and vexatious labour conditions of the South. The Canadian territories are, in fact, an extension of such conditions as the states of the middle west.

MACHINE 'PHONES' GREAT FUTURE

Mr. N. D. Neill Gives Some Interesting Facts.

Refers to the Canadian Machine Telephone Company's Operations at Peterborough.

Ottawa, April 7.—Nathaniel D. Neill, acting president and manager of the American Machine Telephone Co., was under examination before the House of Commons' special committee yesterday. He said he had been interested in developing an automatic telephone exchange for about twelve years. The Canadian Machine Telephone Co. of Toronto was a subsidiary concern. The system he was more particularly acquainted with was one put in about three years ago in the Town of Piqua, Ohio. The stock was taken up locally, starting with about 300 subscribers, in competition with the Central Union, or Bell Telephone Co. To-day they had 1,100 subscribers connected with the rural districts. The charge for a business 'phone was $25, and for a residence 'phone $18.

The independent company with which he is connected had been trying for two years to establish a syster in Peterboro, but representatives of the Bell Co. opposing a long-distance line had frightened capital, and they had to go to Chicago to get it. They have it now, and the system will be installed in a few weeks.

To Sir William Mulock the witness said he favored putting long-distance lines under the control of the Government.

"That is the key to the situation, and that would develop the telephone system throughout Canada," he said.

To Mr. Maclean he said that in the United States railway companies were only too glad to give independent 'phone companies access to their stations.

His company will charge $18 and $20 for 'phones in Peterboro, and the Bell Co. are charging $35 and $35.

WAS THE WATCH PAWNED OR SOLD?

Lindsay Says the Former, but Herbert Thinks not

Interesting Case Against James Allen, This Morning.

There was only one case at Police Court this morning, but it took up nearly two hours and a half of the Magistrate's time.

The case was against James Allen, proprietor of the C. P. R. Hotel, and the charge was that he had accepted a watch in pawn, from Allen Lindsay, in payment for liquor contrary to the provisions of the Ontario License Act. Allen Lindsay, the complainant, was the first witness. He testified that on Friday he came to town from Nassau where he boards, got drunk and spent the night at the police station. In the morning, after appearing at Police Court, he went to the C. P. R. Hotel and had several drinks there, as well as at other places in town. In the afternoon his money had disappeared and he asked Sewton Herbert who was behind the bar at the C. P. R. Hotel to lend him two dollars. On his refusing, witness, drawing out his watch, asked if he would advance the money until Monday, taking the watch as security. Herbert had agreed, On Monday, when Lindsay asked for his watch back, Herbert said he had sold it. Witness complained to the police and soon afterwards the watch was returned to him. An employee of Mr. Alex. Elliott's testified to having bought the watch from Herbert for $3 on Saturday. On Monday Herbert bought it back from him paying him $5 for it. Other witnesses were called by the prosecution, who threw a little more light upon the somewhat complicated case. One of them, Campbell Hodson, refused to answer a question put by Magistrate Dumble and on being pressed walked out of the box, whereupon he was consigned to one of the most comfortable cells. The defence had several witnesses including Herbert, Jas. Allen, George Rickerby, and M. Kearns. Their evidence was that the plaintiff had sold the watch to Herbert for $2.00 and the latter had not accepted it in pawn as had been alleged by Lindsay.

The Magistrate reserved judgment until Monday.

RETURNS AFTER 43 YEARS' ABSENCE

Mr. S. Edwin Taylor, Son of Late Rev. R. J. C. Taylor, of New Zealand, Returns to Peterborough.

Describes in an Interesting Interview His Experiences and Characteristics of His Country.

New Zealand is a Progressive Commonwealth--Country is Prosperous and Advanced in Thought.

Among late arrivals at the Snowden House, was Mr. Edwin Taylor, of New Zealand, an old Peterborough boy, now resident in that island.

Mr. Taylor, who is renewing acquaintances among his many old friends around town, this morning, gave the Examiner much interesting information with regard to the conditions prevailing at present in the Antipodes, together with many reminiscences of early days in Peterborough.

Mr. Taylor started from New Zealand last summer, arriving in San Francisco in August last, his purpose being to visit with members of his family whom he has not seen since the year 1868.

Since his arrival in America, Mr. Taylor has been sojourning in various points in the western states, and also visited the St. Louis Exposition.

Mr. Taylor is a son of Rev. R. J. C. Taylor, for many years rector of St. John's, who died here in 1852. He left here 42 years ago, going almost immediately to the country where he now resides. He speaks in glowing terms of the wonderful industrial advances which have been made in Peterborough since his departure. He states that New Zealand is one of the most beautiful countries in the world, its scenery being fully as picturesque as Switzerland. The lakes and sounds running inland from the sea are especially beautiful. Like Ireland, the island is always green, there being no extremes in climate, 86 degrees is the highest point which the mercury has reached in his recollection, while he has only seen snow twice during the past twenty years. In area, the island is about the same as England.

PRODUCTS OF COUNTRY.

Mr. Taylor had many interesting pictures of the wonderful geysers which abound in certain sections of his country. These far exceed in size those of both Iceland and the Yellowstone Park, U. S. Of these the Waimanon is the largest. It shoots up intermittently, frequantly reaching the phenomenal height of 1300 feet. The Thermal District where the geysers abound, is extremely rocky and of a volcanic character.

Mr. Taylor also gave some interesting facts concerning the Maoris, who now number about 43,000 and are gradually becoming extinct.

The population of the island is principally composed of English, Irish and Scotch. The west coast is principally devoted to mining and the east to agricultural pursuits, in which Mr. Taylor has been engaged during the past ten years, though previous to this he resided at the gold fields. His present place of residence is Rootton. Gold mining is one of the principal occupations upon the island, this product being the third largest export. One mine situated near his home paid $15,000 per month in wages. It is the greatest sheep country for its size in the world, the total number of these animals upon the island being estimated at twenty-two millions. The largest export is wool, the second, frozen mutton, and the third, as mentioned before, gold. The land is excellent for agricultural purposes, the average yield of grain per acre being extremely high. Wheat averages 37 bushels, rye, 40 and oats, 45.

Another peculiar export is known as Kouri gum. This is a hard, brittle substance resembling amber. Four thousand men are kept constantly engaged in digging it from the ground. It is the remains of the ancient Kouri forests, and is exported principally to New York and used in the manufacture of varnishes.

PRACTICAL SOCIALISM.

Mr Taylor states that he has found that much popular misconception exists in America with reference to the government of the colony which is socialistic in its nature.

All the public utilities, including railways, telegraphs, besides coal mines, savings banks, and life and fire insurance business, are operated by the Government, and giving highly satisfactory results. The railway fare is less than one penny per mile, the freight rates also being out to allow of the smallest possible margin of profit, as the end striven for is not to make a profit, but rather to work for the benefit of the people.

Direct railway communication will be established at an early date between all sections of the islands, which consist of two principal and one smaller island.

STRIKES ARE UNKNOWN.

The industrial conditions which prevail are particularly noteworthy. Mr Taylor states that strikes and millionaries are unknown. All labour difficulties are dealt with by specially appointed judicial bodies, and is what is known as the Conciliation Board, to which the labour element may appeal if dissatisfied, and if a satisfactory understanding cannot be arrived at by this means, the difficulty is then referred to the Arbitration Court, which is presided over by a Supreme Court Judge, whose decision is final. Compromises for a specified period are frequently arranged by this means. Female suffrage, which is in operation at present is working most beneficially—more prohibition members being elected under this system than formerly.

OLD AGE PENSIONS.

The system of old age pensions, which was put into operation a short time ago is also most satisfactory in its results. By this system anyone who has reached the age of 65 years, who has been a resident of the island for 25 years, and is not worth 50 pounds, and whose moral character is satisfactory, is entitled to a pension of 25 cents a day, or about 18 pounds per year. Every hospital has also an annex for the reception of the aged and infirm.

The system of government is practically the same as that in Canada.

The Maories are represented in both houses. Many of this race possess excellent oratorical powers. As a whole the race, Mr. Taylor thinks, will compare favourably with the best North American Indians.

The class of emigrants who settle in New Zealand are much above those who locate in America, owing to the heavy outlay necessary to reach the country.

A CANADIAN'S SUCCESS.

In carrying matters Mr. Taylor states that New Zealand has made rapid strides. He remarked upon the work which had been accomplished by a fellow Canadian — Professor Ruddick, who is the Government dairy inspector. Professor Ruddick, he states, occupies a high place in the opinion of the New Zealanders, and his work is highly appreciated. He also referred to the injustice done frequently to New Zealand by referring to her products as Australian.

Regarding the tourist traffic of the island Mr. Taylor was most enthusiastic, stating that this had grown in the past few years to huge proportions and the present prospects pointed to a much further expansion.

Mr. Taylor has been welcomed back to town by his many old friends with expressions of delight. He will remain for some days after which he will go to Rice Lake, for a short visit with Mr. Frank Birdsall.

SUDDEN DEATH IN REGINA, N.W.T.

Mrs. Wilmot G. Haultain Died There Yesterday.

Deceased Lady was Daughter of Mrs. J. F. Dennistoun—A Sad Message.

A brief telegraphic message was received in town last night from Regina, N. W. T., telling of the sudden death in that city yesterday of Mrs. Wilmot G. Haultain, who, before her marriage to Mr. Haultain, was Miss Annie Dennistoun, and is a daughter of Mrs. J. F. Dennistoun, of town.

The telegram did not give any details beyond the bare mention of Mrs. Haultain's death, and her illness must have been very brief, since it was not even known here that she had been ill.

This intelligence will be received with the deepest regret by her many friends here, since she was a general favourite, and the circumstances connected with her death are particularly sad, since it is less than a year ago that the deceased young lady was married to her now bereaved husband and she had apparently many years of happiness before her.

The funeral will take place in Peterborough but the date has not yet been decided upon.

BIG DELEGATION FROM PETERBORO'

Will Attend Annual Meeting of Midland League

Prospects for Good Baseball Team Here—Meeting of Officers Last Night.

A meeting of the Peterborough Baseball Club was held last evening. There were present Messrs. Layfield, Kelly, Graham, Connors, MacEwan and Glover. President Layfield occupied the chair and important business was transacted.

It was decided to send a strong delegation to Port Hope on Good Friday to the annual meeting of the Midland League. The following will represent Peterborough:—Messrs. Layfield, Ollis, Kelly, MacEwan, Connors, and Glover.

Messrs. McEwan and Glover were appointed to attend the meeting of the City League in the T. A. S. rooms tonight.

Messrs. H. Morgan and McIlroy were elected Directors of the Club.

Manager MacEwan is not making any rash statements about the team's prospects, but this much is assured, it will be a winning bunch. He is very much pleased with the success which he is meeting with in signing players.

All that is required now is to have the support of the public and Peterborough will have a baseball team which should bring credit upon the town.

This assistance may be shown by attending the concert, which the club will conduct on April 26th, in the Opera House, when Mr. Bert Harvey, of Toronto, will be assisted by Miss Helen Davies and the Harmony Male Quartette in rendering a good programme. The first practise of the team will be held to-morrow afternoon at the Driving Park.

OUT-OF-DOOR SPORTS ARRANGED

An Enthusiastic Meeting was Held in Y. M. C. A. Last Night.

Field Hockey and Track Athletics—Tennis Court Converted Into Open-air Gymnastics.

A very interesting meeting for the organization of Field Hockey, Out-of-Door Basketball and Track Athletics, was held last evening in the Y. M. C. A. parlours in connection with the Association physical department.

The subject of field hockey was first taken up. A good interest was manifested among the men. Plans and dimensions of the field were discussed. Rules were interpreted and many questions asked by the men themselves.

A team of eleven men was organized consisting of the following names, John Sproule, (temporary captain), Fred Roy, Louis Mendel, Jas. Downing, Reg Green, Jos Collins, G. H. Armstrong, A. Hodgson, G. L. Johnson, Ross Dobbin, Oscar Ephick.

Mr. Fred. Roy was elected president with Mr. G. L. Johnson as secretary of the team. Mr. Sproule was appointed to purchase sticks, balls and all necessary equipment for playing. The team will have their first practice on Saturday, April 15th.

One, if not two, more teams will be organized the first of next week.

This start is very encouraging and no doubt there will be a good interest manifested in field hockey this year.

The next matter taken up was that of track athletics. A team was organized consisting of A. Hodgson, (temporary Captain) Oscar Ephick, Fred. L. Roy, Louis Mendel, Jas. Downing, Reg. Green, Jos. Collins, Geo. Armstrong, Frank Veals, Wm. Richardson, Ross Dobbin. Mr. Frank Voelz was elected president and Mr. Geo. Armstrong secretary.

Mr. Wm. Richardson was appointed to look after the erection and purchase of jumping standards.

The work of the track team will consist of sprinting, long-distance running, pole vaulting, running high-jumping, running broad-jumping, shot-putting, hammer throwing and discus throwing.

This bids fair to be one of the most interesting and most popular forms of summer sport. Other teams will be formed and as many men as possible will be interested.

The question of out-of-door basketball was next discussed and laid before the men. It was proposed to convert the tennis court into an out-of-door gymnasium, then erect basketball posts and goals; also standards for high jumping and pole vaulting and shot putting.

Many of the indoor basketball players will take to the sunshine and open air game this year.

A meeting for baseball organization will be held next week. Watch for date.

ANOTHER TEAM IN GUILD LEAGUE

St. John's Organized Baseball Club Last Night

A fair-sized and enthusiastic meeting of the Y. M. C., of St. John's church, was held last night to organize a baseball club for the coming season and to enter the Guild League. The work of the coming season was discussed in all points, and there were no dissenting voices as to putting a team in the League. All were of the opinion that the Guild could put a strong team in the League, and one that would be able to give the other teams a hot argument.

The first business that was transacted was the election of a secretary-treasurer for the Guild, which office will soon be made vacant by the removal from town of Mr. Hagerman. Mr. Charles Reid was elected to fill this position. Mr. J. Patte was elected manager of the baseball team for the season. The prospects for the team are said to be very bright, as a large number of good players have already signified their intention of playing with the team. Next Monday night the regular meeting of the Guild will be held, when the plans for the season will be further discussed. All interested are asked to be on hand at 8.15 o'clock sharp.

TO ORGANIZE A CITY LEAGUE

Meeting Will be Held in the T. A. S. Hall To-night.

To-night in the T. A. S. Hall, an important meeting will be held for the purpose of forming a City Baseball League. It is hoped that there will be a very large turnout at this meeting, and that it will be possible to organize a league.

At present there are three teams prepared to enter the league and it is expected that a fourth can be secured, and the intention is that the game will be played on Saturday afternoon, and that each week there will be a double header. A largely attended meeting is hoped for.

FOOTBALL.

On Wednesday night, April 12th, next the Quakers will hold a meeting at the Y.M.C.A. At this meeting the question of entering a Jr. team in the league will be discussed. Anyone wishing to join the club is invited.

• • •

To-morrow afternoon at three o'clock the Quakers will practise. All who expect to play this season are asked to turn out as there is a probability of a Junior team entering the league.

LACROSSE.

The Young Peterborough Lacrosse Club, Joe. Devlin, Captain, wishes all the members of the club to turn out Saturday afternoon to get in shape to play the Strathconas on Good Friday.

VANCOUVER IS PROGRESSIVE

Booklet Describing its Advantages is Published.

Many Canadians have the erroneous idea that it is necessary to travel out of their own country to enjoy a vacation, and as a result of this many hundreds of citizens of this Dominion each year take trips to foreign countries at an expense of time and money, which, if they knew more of their own country, might be saved to a large extent and an equal amount of pleasure gained. The great trouble is that they are not sufficiently well acquainted with their own country.

The Vancouver Tourist Association, Ltd., is doing some good educational work in calling attention to the many advantages which British Columbia in general and Vancouver in particular, offers to the tourist.

The Association has issued a handsomely illustrated booklet, entitled, "The Sunset Doorway of the Dominion, Vancouver, B. C.", of which a copy has been received here. Writing of that enterprising city, the booklet says:—

A quarter of a century ago rugged bears and timid deer peacefully roamed and had their habitat, where now merchants and traders congregate, ponderous electric machinery vibrates and the whir of strenuous civilization is in the air.

Although the gentle zephyrs from a sapphire sea come in with the opening of the year, and find the tender blushing rose blooming in radiant sunshine, nevertheless this is not the land of the lotus eaters because Vancouver's purposeful sons are like busy bees in the hive of industry, intent of great projects.

Visitors coming down to the sea from countries with a humid cold atmosphere, are amazed at the equable climate, soft blue air and sublimely glorious scenery, that greet them as they alight at the tide-water of British Columbia's commercial capital.

THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Signifies That Junction Pool Room Will Be Dealt With.

TEMISKAMING R. R. POLICY

Government Has Not Decided What It Will Do — Report of Parliamentary Librarian—Railway Taxation Committee's Report—Hon. Mr. Hanna's Letter to License Commissioners and Inspectors.

Toronto, April 6.—During a brief sitting of the Legislature yesterday the existence of a poolroom at Toronto Junction was called to the attention of the Premier by Dr. Lewis (Dufferin).

Mr. Whitney replied that he was aware that such a place existed, but he intimated that it would not be advisable to make further comments at this time. To say anything more, he said, would be to defeat the object of those interested.

License Instructions.

Hon. Mr. Hanna was not in the House during the sitting, but he received the newspaper men in his inner sanctuary and handed them a copy of a typewritten letter he had sent to those responsible for the enforcement of the liquor act, as follows:

"The various boards of liquor license commissioners throughout the Province and the liquor license inspectors are reminded that in considering applications which may come before them for licenses, in no case must they allow political considerations to influence their decisions.

"It has been reported to me that in certain districts patronage committees are assuming to direct the boards as to what licenses shall be issued and to whom. This practice cannot be permitted. Licenses obtained in this way will in every case be discontinued at the earliest opportunity.

Must Be Non-Partisan.

"The Government is sincerely anxious that the license laws shall be strictly administered and on a non-partisan basis, and expect your best assistance to this end. Default in these particulars would not only destroy the usefulness of the board responsible therefor, but would in some degree reflect upon the whole system.

"It is confidently hoped that in a majority of cases this warning is unnecessary, and that in no case will it be unheeded.

"Where the number of applicants exceeds the number of licenses to be granted, these applicants who are personally the most desirable and whose hotels are the best appointed and the most suitable for the public accommodation should always be preferred.

Must Keep Hotel.

"It is the duty of inspectors to make a fair and impartial report in every instance, so that boards may have the best and most reliable information before them.

"In many counties there are places called hotels which are merely drinking places, the bar being made the first consideration and accommodation for man and beast but secondary. Make the licenses of such places live up to the requirements, or refuse their licenses • • • • • Make them keep hotel!

"Trusting that your occupancy of the position will be agreeable and pleasant to you, and that you may be able to say that the promise made by the Government as to the rigid enforcement of the law will be faithfully carried out in your district."

Stationary Engines.

Dr. Smellie (Fort William) introduced a bill to regulate stationary engines. The object of the measure is to protect stationary engines by making it compulsory for any person in charge of a stationary engine to pass an examination and hold a certificate showing him to be competent, thereby lessening the danger of accidents and incidentally making the calling a more lucrative one for those who are competent.

No Reply.

Mr. Macdairmid asked if any reply had been received by the Government or their predecessors in office from the Dominion Government regarding the memorial which passed the Legislature on March 8, 1904, relating to a grant by way of subsidy towards the building and equipment of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway.

Mr. Whitney stated that no reply had been received by the present Government, nor were they aware of any having been received by the previous Government.

The Speaker presented the annual report of Librarian Avern Pardee. There was a net increase during the year of 2,391 volumes, making a grand total of 74,300.

Temiskaming Policy.

Hon. Dr. Reaume was unable to inform an anxious Opposition what the policy of the Government would be in regard to the Temiskaming Railway, whether it would be operated by the Government or leased.

Mr. Harcourt asked if the report of the Railway Taxation Committee was ready; to which Mr. Whitney replied that he expected it would be laid on the table on the morrow.

Proposed Amendments.

Major Craig proposes an amendment to the assessment act requiring municipalities to pay all taxes over to the county treasurer by December 31 of each year.

Mr. Downey will have an amendment to the municipal act, amending the Conmee sections. He also proposes an amendment to the assessment act giving municipalities the option of exempting wood lots on condition that they be not used for grazing purposes and that provision be made for representation. This applies to Old Ontario.

Consumptive Sanitarium.

The Government has been asked for a grant of $25,000 towards the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives. Yesterday Premier Whitney received a large deputation in this behalf.

Mr. Whitney after welcoming the deputation, said that in his opinion $100,000 was not too much, the sole question being whether the money was available. The deputation were assured that everything possible would be done to grant them at least part of their request, if not all.

Temiskaming Railway.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway management has advised Mr. Cecil B. Smith, of the Temiskaming Railway Commission, that a choice of the three proposed routes past Lake Abittibi will be made by August next. The work of locating the line south of the lake has been in progress for some time, but it has been recently discovered that the nature of the ground here would make construction extremely difficult. It is now proposed to run the line some 40 miles further north, past the head of the lake, or else across "The Narrows," about half that distance north.

The Temiskaming and Northern Ontario road has been located, and contracts for construction awarded to the most southerly of the proposed routes only, but Mr. Smith gives assurance that, regardless of where the Transcontinental line is run, the Ontario Government will make the necessary extension to form a junction.

Taking Desperate Chances.

It is true that many contract colds and recover from them without taking any precaution or tratment, and a knowledge of this fact leads others to take their chances instead of giving their colds the needed attention. It should be borne in mind that every cold weakens the lungs, lowers the vitality, makes the system less able to withstand each succeeding cold and paves the way for more serious diseases. Can you afford to take such deprate chances when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds can be had for a trifle? For sale by all druggists.

Scots Condemn Embargo.

London, April 7.—The convention of Royal Burghs, which met at Glasgow, passed a resolution that the restriction upon the importation of Canadian store cattle should be removed as a hindrance to the free development of trade and as the source of the increased cost of meat to the British consumer. The convention is composed of two delegates from each of the Royal and Police Burghs of Scotland, and is a reliable indication of Scottish urban feeling on the Canadian cattle embargo.

"Persons Unknown" Responsible.

Zeigler, Ill., April 7.—After damp, due to an explosion of blasting powder, set off by persons as yet unknown, caused the death of forty-three miners at Jos. Leiter's coal mine on Monday, April 3, according to the coroner's jury.

One Came Out After The Other.

Suffered with Boils for Six Months.

Mr. Elie Braizeau, Meadowside Station, Ont., tells of his experience with Boils and Burdock Blood Bitters.

He says:—"In the Spring of 1899 I was continually troubled with boils—one coming after another for about six months. I suffered terribly, and was in a very bad condition. In August I got a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and began to feel better after taking it. I kept on until I had used five bottles, and can truthfully say that I was cured, and have remained so ever since. I have not had the least sign of a boil."

There is nothing like Burdock Blood Bitters for bad blood, boils, pimples, dyspepsia, indigestion, or any trouble arising from the Stomach, Liver, Bowels or Blood.

MARY E. WILKINS

Copyright, 1900, by DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.

"Then came the terror of the Indians, and Governor Berkeley, always in wait for the word of the king and doing nothing, and once was our house burned, and we escaped barely with our lives, and then came Nat Bacon, and blessings upon him, for he made the beginning of a good work. And then did the soldiers, riding to meet him, so trample down our tobacco fields with horse hoofs that the leaves lay in a green pumice and that crop lost. And then this navigation act, which I understand but little of except that it be to fill the king's pockets and empty ours, has made our crops of no avail, since we but sent the tobacco as a gift to the king, so little we have got in return. And look, look!" she shrieked. "I pray ye look, and sure this is the best I have, and me always going as well attired as any of my station in England. I pray ye look! Sure 'tis past mending, and the stitches and the cloth go together, as will the colony, unless somewhat be done in season to mend its state." So saying, up she flung her arm, and all the under side of the body of her gown was in rags, and up she flung the other, and that was in like case.

Then the other woman, who was a strapping lass and had been a barmaid ere she came to Virginia in search of a husband, where she had found one Richard Longman afraid not to do her bidding and wed her, since he was as small and mild a man as ever was, joined in. "I say with Mistress Allgood!" she shrieked out and flung her own buxom arms aloft with such disclosures that a roar of laughter spread through the hall, and her husband blushed purple, and a protest gurgled in his throat. But at that his wife, who verily was a shrew, seized upon him by both of his little shoulders and shook him until his face wagged like a rag baby, with an utter limpness of helplessness, and shouted out, amid peals of laughter that seemed to shake the roof, that here was a pretty man; here, forsooth, was a pretty man.

Here was her own husband, who let his own lawful wife go clad in such wise and lifted not a finger! Yes, lifted not a finger, and had to be dragged into the present doings by the very hair of his head by his wife, and that was not all. Yes, that was not all. Then, with that, up she flung one stout foot, and, lo, a great hole was in the heel of her stocking, and the other, and then she flirted the hem of her petticoat into sight, and that was all of a fringe with rags. "Look, look!" she shrieked out. "I tell ye, Richard Longman, I will have them look, and see to what a pass that cursed navigation act and the selling of the tobacco for naught hath brought a decent woman. How long is it since I had a new petticoat? How long, I pray? Oh, Lord, had the men of this colony but the spirit of the women! Had but brave Nat Bacon lived!"

With that this woman, who had been perchance drinking too much beer for her head, though she was well used to it, burst into a storm of tears and sprang to her feet and cried out in a wild voice like a furious cat's: "Up with ye, I say! And why do ye stop and parley? And why do ye wait for my Lord Culpeper to sail? I trow the women be not afraid of the governor, if the men be! Up with ye, and this very night cut down the young tobacco plants and cheat the king of England, who reigns but to rob his subjects. Who cares for the governor of Virginia? Who cares for the king? Up with ye, I say!"

With that she snatched a sword from a peg on the wall and swung it in a circle of flame around her head, and what with her glowing eyes and streaming black locks and burning beauty of cheeks and catlike shriek of voice, she was enough to have made the governor and even the king himself quail had he been there, and all the time that mild husband of hers was plucking vainly at her gown. But the men only shouted with laughter, and presently the woman, with a savage glare at them, sank into her chair again and Mistress Allgood went up to her and the two whispered with handsome, fiercely wagging heads. Then entered another woman, after a clatter of horse's hoofs in the drive, and she had a presence that compelled all the men except one to their feet, though there was about her that foolishness which, in my mind, doth always hamper the extreme of enthusiasm.

This woman, Madam Tabitha Story, was a widow of considerable property, owning a plantation and slaves, and is mightier even than that to which he owes his own existence, and hath the power of putting that which he loves before his own desire of it.

But for the time, knowing well that I could at any time take up the reins to the bridling of myself, I let them hang loose, and over and over I whispered what Mary Cavendish had said, and over and over I felt that touch of delicate tenderness on my arm, and I built up such great castles that they touched the farthest skies of my fancy, and all the time braving the knowledge that I should myself dash them into ruins.

But when I looked out of my window that May morning and saw that wonderful fair world and that heaven of blue light with rosy and golden and green boughs blowing athwart it and heard the whir of looms, the calls and laughs of human life, the coo of dove, the hum of bees, the trill of mock birds, outreaching all other heights of joy, the clangor of the sea birds and the tender rustle of the new leaved branches in the wind, that love for me which I had seen in the heart of the woman I had loved since I could remember seemed my own keynote of the meaning of life sounding in my ears above all other sounds of bane or blessing.

But the strength I had to act in discord with it and thrust my joy from me, and I went to planning how I could best turn the child's fancy from myself to some one who would be for her best good. And yet I was not satisfied with Sir Humphrey Hyde, and wished that his wits were quicker, and wondered if years might improve them, and if perchance a man as honest might be found who had the keenness of ability to be the worst knave in the country.

But the boy was brave, and I loved his love for Mary Cavendish, and I could think of no one to whom I would so readily trust her, and it seemed to me that perchance I might by some praising of him and swerving her thoughts to his track lead her to think favorably of his suit. But a man makes many a mistake as to women, and one of the most frequent is that the hearts of them are like wax, to be molded into this and that shape.

That morning, when I met Mistress Mary at the breakfast table, she was pale and distraught, and not only did not speak to me nor look at me, but when I ventured to speak in praise of Sir Humphrey's gallant looks at the ball she turned upon me so fiercely with encomiums of my Lord Estes, whom I knew to be not worthy of her, that I held my tongue. But when Sir Humphrey came riding up a little later she greeted him with such warmth as at once put me to torture and aroused that spirit of defense of her against myself which hath been the noblest thing in my poor life.

So I left them, Mistress Catherine at the flax wheel and Mary out in the garden with Sir Humphrey, gathering roses for the potpourri jars and the distilling into rose water, for little idleness was permitted at Drake Hill even after a ball. I got my horse, but as I started forth Madam Cavendish called—a stiffly resolute old figure standing in the great doorway—and I dismounted and went to her, leading my horse, which I had great ado to keep from nibbling the blossoms of a rose tree which grew over the porch. "Harry," she said in a whisper, "where is Mary?"

"In the garden with Sir Humphrey Hyde," I answered.

Then Madam Cavendish frowned. "And why is she not at her lessons?" she asked sternly.

"The lessons are set for the afternoon, and this morning she is gathering rose leaves, madam," I answered. But that Madam Cavendish knew as well as I, having in truth so ordered the hours of the lessons.

"But"— she said, hesitating. Then she stopped and looked at me with an angry indecision, and then at the garden, where the top of Mary's golden head was just visible above the pink mist of the roses, and Sir Humphrey's fair one bending over it. "Harry," she said, frowning, and yet with a piteous sort of appeal, "why do you not go out into the garden and help to gather the rose leaves?"

Then, before I could answer, as if angry with herself at her own folly, she called out to Mary's little black maid, Sukey, to bid her mistress come in from the garden and spin. But before the maid started I said low in Madam Cavendish's ear, "Madam, think you not that the sweet air of the garden is better for her after the ball than the hot ball and the labor at the wheel?" And she gave one look at me, and called out to Sukey that she need not speak to her mistress, and went inside to her own work and left me to go my way.

I was relieved in my mind that she did not ask me whither, since if she had I should have been driven to one of those broadsides of falsehood in a good cause for which I regret the necessity, but admit it, and if it be to my soul's hurt I care not so long as I save the other party by it.

I was bound for Barry Upper Branch and rode thither as fast as I could, for I contemplated asking the Barry brothers to aid me in the removal of Mistress Mary's contraband goods and was anxious to lose no more time about that than I could avoid.

I was set upon Major Robert Beverly's tomb as a most desirable hiding place for them, and knowing that there was a meeting of the assembly that evening at the governor's to discuss some matters in private before he sailed for England, Major Beverly being clerk, I thought that before the moon was up would be a favorable time for the removal, but I could not move the goods alone, remembering how those sturdy sailors tugged at them, and not deeming it well to get any aid from the slaves.

The Barry brothers and Captain Jaynes

So I rode straight to Barry Upper Branch, and a handsome black woman in a flaunting gown, with a great display of beads and an orange silk scarf twisted about her head, came to parley with me and told me that both the brothers were away, and added that she thought I should find them at the tavern.

The tavern was a brick building abounding in sharp slants of roof and dimmed in outline by a spreading cloud of new leaved branches, and there was one great honey locust which was a marvel to be seen, and hummed with bees with a mighty drone as of all the spinning wheels in the country, and the sweetness of it blew down upon one passing under, like a wind of breath. And before the tavern were tied, stamping and shaking their heads for the early flies, many fine horses, and among them Parson Downs' and the Barry brothers', and from within the tavern came the sound of laughter in discordant shouts and now and then a snatch of a song. Then a great hoarse rumble of voice would cap the rest, telling some loose story, then the laughter would follow—enough, it seemed, to make the roof shake—and all the time the hum of the bees in the honey locust outside went on.

Before I entered the tavern out burst Parson Downs and caught hold of me with a great shout of welcome. Half drunk he was and yet with a marvelous steadiness on his legs and a command of his voice which would have done him credit in the pulpit. It was said that this great parson could drink more fiery liquor and not betray it than any other man in the colony, and Nick Barry, who was something of a wag, said that the parson's wrestlings with spirits of another sort had rendered him powerful in his encounters with these also. Be that as it may, though I doubt not Parson Downs had drunk more than any man there, no sign of it was in his appearance except that his boisterousness was something enhanced and his hand on my shoulder fevered.

"Good day, good day, Master Harry Wingfield," he shouted. "How goes the time with ye, sir? And, I say, Master Wingfield, what will you take for thy horse there? One I have which can beat him on any course you will pick, with all the creeks in the country to jump, and the devil himself to have a shy at, and even will I trade and give thee twenty pounds of tobacco to boot. 'Tis a higher horse than thine, Harry, and can take two strides to one of his; and mine hath four white feet, and thine but one, which, as every one knoweth well, is not enough. What say you, Harry?"

"Your reverence," I said, laughing, "the horse is not mine, as you know."

"Nay, Harry," he burst forth, "that we all know, and you know that we all know, is but a fable. Doth not Madam Cavendish treat you as a son, and are you not a convict in name only, so far as she is concerned? I say, Harry, you can ride my horse to the winning on Royal Oak day at the races. What think you, Harry?"

"Your reverence," I said, "I pray you to give me time," for well I knew there was no use in reasoning with the persistency to which frequent potations had given rise.

(To be Continued.)

Who would exchange the merry noise of children at play, with the childless home where the clock tick can be heard hour after hour in the dull silence? But there are a great many who would like to people the silent house with the children that fate has refused them. Fate is often in this case only another word for ignorance. Many a glad mother dates her happiness from the day she first began the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It often happens that with the cure of female weakness and the establishing of the delicate womanly organs in sound health, the way is opened for the joy of motherhood. "Favorite Prescription" is a specific for the chronic ailments peculiar to women. It cures them perfectly and permanently.

No other medicine can do for women so much as "Favorite Prescription." Do not therefore let any other medicine be palmed off on you as "just as good."

"Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, opium, cocaine or other narcotic. It is strictly a temperance medicine.

"I can truly say your medicine is a friend of mine," writes Mrs. Arthur Bratt, of Amherstburg, Ontario, Canada. "I am mother of four children and suffered greatly at times of birth of first three. When three months alone with the last one I began to think of trying some medicine to ease those terrible pains, and asked our doctor whether there was anything he could give me to lessen labor pains. He said there was nothing that would help me. I then thought I would write to Dr. Pierce. He advised me to take his 'Favorite Prescription.' I started to take it at fourth month. I was very weak, had heart trouble and would faint away two or three times a day. Our doctor could not help me and his was a drug. I would often say, oh, if I could only die in case of these spells; but I took five bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and felt better every way. Got along well at the time of delivery. I had heard of pains in childbirth, and I thought it must be a good medicine that would help those pains, but I know now for myself, and can not tell it plain enough. Your 'Favorite Prescription' is the best medicine as we mothers know. I advise my friends to try it. Baby here is now months old and is a strong healthy boy."

Appetite Was Poor.

Dizzey Most of The Time.

Could Not Sleep at Night.

Many people are unaware of having anything wrong with their heart or nerves till some little excitement or overwork makes them feel faint and dizzy, or perhaps simply going up or down stairs causes dizziness and specks to float before the eyes. People troubled in this way should heed the warning, and not fail to take treatment before something more serious occurs.

For all heart and nerve troubles there is nothing to equal

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

We do not claim that they will cure chronic heart disease, but we do claim that they will strengthen the weak heart, and build up the shaky nerve system.

Here is what Mrs. Sidney Hoffman, Hillside, Ont., says:—

"I was troubled greatly with my heart, and was so very nervous that the least little thing startled me.

"My appetite was very poor; I could not sleep at nights, and was dizzy most of the time. I took three boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and I am very pleased to say that they did me a wonderful lot of good."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25. All druggists, or mailed direct.

REGIMENT ASKED TO POSTPONE TRIP

In Order to Help the Dominion Day Celebration Here—Matter Will Be Decided at a Meeting to be Held on Tuesday Night—Plan in Formative Stage for the Big Celebration—A School-Children's Parade in the Morning—Sports in Afternoon and Probably a Concert at Night--A Big Day in the History of Peterborough.

Last night the Special Committee appointed by the Council to consider the question of arranging a celebration for Domion Day, when Peterborough is to be made a city, held a meeting, when it was decided to call a public meeting, probably about the last of next week, when a citizens' committee will be appointed to work with that appointed by the Town Council.

An effort will be made to have the 57th Regiment postpone its proposed visit to Ottawa, arranged for July 1st, and Colonel Miller was seen regarding this. He stated to the committee that it would of course be impossible for him to decide, but that he would bring the matter to the attention of the officers and men at the drill on Tuesday night, and their decision would have to be final. It was pointed out that the Regiment had accepted the invitation of the Governor-General's Foot Guards to return the visit paid by them to Peterborough last year, on July 1st, and arrangements had been made accordingly, contracts for transportation had been signed with the C. P. R., and the men were looking forward with a great deal of expectation to the visit.

However, the Colonel will submit the proposal to the members of the Regiment on Tuesday.

The committee would be varyy glad, of course, if the Regiment should decide to remain at home on July 1st, but if it should be found impossible or impracticable to do this, the celebration will have to proceed, though with the Regiment away it will necessarily lose some of its attractiveness. In that case it will be necessary for the committee to engage a band from out of town, and in all probability a Toronto regimental band will be procured. It is also likely that the T. A. S. Band will be engaged for the day.

As to what form the celebration will take, of course it has not been decided yet, but one of the member of the committee stated that his idea was that in the morning a monster parade of all the school children should be held, and in the afternoon a big carnival of sports at the driving park, in which all the local sporting organizations should participate. This would be carried out in a systematic manner and on a big scale.

It is probable that there will be some prominent public men invited to attend the celebration, but as to who they will be has not as yet been decided, of course. It is not the intention, however, to have any public speaking, since only a limited number of persons could hear and enjoy this exercise, and as the idea is to have a day of genuine enjoyment, all exercises which do not conduce to this will be eliminated.

In the evening there will probably be fireworks, and a grand concert in Brock street rink is also a probability.

It is estimated that the town will be spending from $1200 to $1500 on this celebration, and it is proposed to make it a red letter day in the history of Peterborough.

All classes of the community will be asked to join in this celebration which will be the greatest day's sport ever held in Peterborough.

IMPROVED SERVICE WILL BE INAUGURATED SOON

From Semi-Official Sources it is Learned that New C. P. R. Train Service will be Commenced in the Near Future in all Probability--Trainmaster Has Recommended its Adoption to the Superintendent—Morning Train from Toronto Will Arrive here at 10:30—Summary of the Changes Proposed—Will Probably be Incorporated in Summer Time Table.

It has been learned from semi-official, and what is considered a thoroughly reliable source, that it is the intention of the C. P. R. to inaugurate the new time-table in the course of a few weeks at the outside, and the improved service announced by the Examiner some months ago, will be inaugurated.

The trainmaster at Toronto has had the matter under consideration for some time, and it is learned that last week he sent a recommendation to the Superintendent that the new service be established, and since in matters of this kind, the official is largely influenced by the recommendation of his trainmaster, it is probable that an order with reference to the new service will be issued in the very near future.

It will be remembered that the changes as outlined by the Examiner at the time the matter was referred to before, were the putting on of another local train from Toronto to Havelock, and a change in the time of the local running at present.

The new train will leave Toronto at 8 a. m. and will arrive here at 10.30, an hour ahead of the noon express and will carry the morning papers. Returning it will leave here about 1 p. m., and will arrive in Toronto about 3.30 The present local will be put back an hour and will not leave here in the morning until about 6.25, and returning will arrive here at 8.30 p. m., thus giving the passengers an hour later in Toronto.

The speed for the through express trains will be increased and they will make the trip from Toronto to Peterborough with only one stop, in about two hours, thus cutting nearly thirty minutes off the present time.

This change is one which will give a decidedly improved service, and perhaps that which will be most appreciated is the morning train from Toronto which will enable the morning papers to reach here an hour earlier than at present.

—It is quite probable that when the summer time-table is issued, which is expected to be in the course of a few days, the change noted here will be announced.

—The many friends in Peterborough of Mr. G. N. Brown, High Court Organizer for the I. O. F., for Eastern Ontario, will learn with regret of an accident which befel him recently at Bancroft, as a result of which he dislocated his shoulder.

"THE DAYLIGHT STORE"

SMART DRESSERS

Young men are as a general thing the smartest dressers.

The up-to-the-moment young man is a sort of a lexicon of clothes style, and correctness. He knows what's what and gets it.

But good fit, the newest colours, patterns, etc. aren't enough; for unless that snappy, jaunty appearance characteristic of our excellent Tailor Made Clothing is there, it is not what the young man wants. Our success in pleasing young men is not just "luck". It's due to our knowledge of what the young man wants and our ability to provide it for him.

Our spring stock is now complete and prices always reasonable. Did you ever notice how many young men come here for their clothes? There's a reason for it.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, April 6.—Butter—Firm; receipts, 2116; creamery, held, common to extra, 20c to 27½c. Cheese—Steady, unchanged; receipts, 6468. Eggs—Firm, unchanged; receipts, 35,085. Hogs—Receipts, 2597; market strong; state pigs, $6.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Unchanged—Hogs 10s to 12s Higher on the Buffalo Market.

London, April 6.—Live cattle are quoted at 11c to 12c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 8½c to 8¾c per lb.; sheep, 12c to 13c per lb.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the City Market, as reported by the two railways, amounted to 86 car loads, all told, composed of 1150 cattle, 3254 hogs, 245 sheep and lambs, and 200 calves, with 4 loads of Chicago cattle in transit for export by W. H. Dean.

There was a good demand for shipping cattle, but few were offered. Prices were not any higher in this class and ranged from $4.75 to $5.25 per cwt., the bulk going at $5 per cwt. Export bulls sold at $3.50 to $4.12½ per cwt.

Prices for choice picked lots of butchers sold at $4.90 to $5.00 and a little more was reported for a couple of lots that were good enough for export; loads of good, $4.25 to $4.50; medium, at $3.80 to $4.15; common, at $3.25 to $3.60; rough, at $3 per cwt.

As usual the demand was far greater than the supply and many customers went home without being able to get a supply. Good quality short-keep feeders, 1100 to 1200 lbs. each, sold at $4.50 to $4.60; steers, 1000 to 1100 lbs. each, sold at $4 to $4.50; steers, 900 to 1000 lbs. each, at $3.75 to $4; steers, 700 to 800 lbs. each, at $3.25 to $3.60; stockers, 450 to 650 lbs. each, $3 to $3.25 per cwt.; stock calves of good breeding qualities, $3.50 per cwt.

Trade was fair, about 20 milch cows and springers selling all the way from $35 for scrubs to $50 for common and $55 to $65 for medium to good, and $60.50 each for the best offered, and they were not what could be called choice quality.

About 600 of the calf kind were offered, but half of them and more should have been left on the farm until they were fit for use as veal. Prices ranged all the way from $2 to $6 per cwt. for the inferior to $4 to $5 per cwt. for common to medium, and $5 to $6.50 for good to choice, of which there were few.

A light run, not enough to supply half of the demand, cutched a brisk trade, with as high prices as ever and in fact higher, when quality is considered. Export ewes at $4.75 to $5.50; bucks, at $3.75 to $4.25; mixed lots at $4 to $5 per cwt. Yearling ewes and wethers of choice quality sold at $7 to $7.50 per cwt. and one lot of extra choice quality were bought at $7.60 per cwt. Spring lambs sold all the way from $5.50 to $7 each, and it is a shame to see some of the little creatures that are being brought in to slaughter that are unfit.

Liberal deliveries came on the market. Since Tuesday Mr. Harris received 2254, as reported by the railways. He reports prices steady at $6.25 per cwt. for selects, and $6 for lights and fats. But there are far too many of the light thin hogs being marketed, that are not wanted and which would pay the farmer to keep until properly prepared for the best class of bacon. A large number were being culled out, and drovers are warned against bringing this class.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, April 6.—Cattle—Receipts light; prime steers, $5.75 to $6.20; shipping, $5.35 to $5.65; butchers', $4.65 to $5.15; heifers, $4.25 to $5.25; cows, $3.50 to $4.25; bulls, $3.50 to $4.40; stockers and feeders, $3 to $4.30.

Veals—Receipts, 400 head; active, $4.50 to $7.00, a few $7.75.

Hogs—Receipts, 2100 head; active, 10c to 15c higher; heavy, $5.90 to $6.05, a few $6; mixed, $5.90 to $6.05; Yorkers, $5.80 to $5.85; pigs, $5.25; roughs, $4.90 to $5.10; stags, $3.50 to $4.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 6400 head; slow, unchanged.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, April 6.—Beeves—Receipts, 904, all for slaughterers and exporters; nothing doing; feeling firm; exports, 780 cattle; to-morrow, 600 cattle and 6812 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 347; opened steady to firm; closed quiet; veals, $5 to $7.50; throwouts, $4; little calves $2.75; few fancy, $8.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 3384; slow, but about steady; sheep nominal; unshorn lambs, fair to prime, $6 to $6.50; no sales of clipped stock reported.

DESTROY THE CAUSE

You Cannot Cure Dandruff Without Destroying the Cause of it.

Many people wash their scalps Saturday night or Sunday to try to keep the dandruff down for the week, but on Monday night the scalp has begun to itch, and Tuesday morning will find a good supply of dandruff when the hair is brushed. There is but one real scientific way of curing dandruff; and that is to kill the germ that causes it, and falling hair, and finally baldness. There is only one preparation that will destroy the germ, and that is Newbro's Herpicide. It is an entirely new discovery, and the only hair preparation that is based on the new scientific principle. In addition Herpicide is a very refreshing hair dressing for regular toilet use. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond and Walsh, special agents.

Constipation

Fruit is nature's laxative. Plenty of fruit will prevent Constipation, but won't cure it. Why? Because the laxative principles of fruit are held in peculiar combination and are very mild.

After years of labor, an Ottawa physician accidently discovered the secret process by which

Fruit-a-tives

or Fruit Liver Tablets

are made. He used fruit juices, but by combining them in a peculiar way, their action on the liver, kidneys, stomach and skin is increased many times.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" TABLETS contain all the medical properties of fruit—are a mild and gentle laxative—and the only permanent cure for Constipation, Torpid Liver, Sick Headaches, Bad Stomach and Kidney Troubles.

All druggists have them.

Carnegie Library at Chatham, Ont.

The building pictured above is the first Public Library in Canada to be erected with money supplied by Mr. Andrew Carnegie, and was opened in Chatham, Ont., on Monday, September 14th, 1903, with great ceremony, the then Minister of Education, Hon. Rich. Harcourt, being present and delivering an address. As will be seen by the cut, the building is a handsome structure, and is a credit to the Architects, Messrs. Jas. L. Wilson & Son, of Chatham.

The Daily Planet of Tuesday, September 15th, in describing the opening of the library, said:—

Chatham first; others will follow. The first of the many libraries being built in Canada through the munificence of Andrew Carnegie, was formally opened in the Maple City yesterday afternoon by the Hon. Richard Harcourt upon the occasion of his first visit in the capacity of Minister of Education.

Old Sol smiled down with pleasing countenance upon the opening of the edifice. The weather was great.

The affair was perfectly managed throughout and not a hitch occurred in the proceedings. On arrival at the building a reception was given to the Hon. Richard Harcourt in the auditorium on the first floor, and that gentleman mixed and talked freely with the speakers and many guests of the afternoon. The members of the local Library Board were very attentive to their guests and the same marked courtesy was shown to all. In the auditorium were representatives of the different school boards of the city, besides a number of ladies, several ministers and a few doctors and lawyers.

Long ere the addresses had opened the afternoon's programme the Reception Hall was comfortably filled with a select crowd of citizens, delighted with, and interested in Chatham's latest addition of architectural splendor.

FISH-STORY FROM THE ANTIPODES

Interesting Story Told by Mr. S. Edwin Taylor.

The first fish story of the season, was yesterday narrated to the Examiner by Mr. S. Edwin Taylor, of New Zealand, who is at present a guest at the Snowden House. This, however, is a true story, and is vouched for by Mr. Taylor, who says that in Pelorus Sound, New Zealand, is a fish known as "Pelorus Jack," which swims out to meet every vessel as it approaches the Sound.

It is believed to be the only fish of its kind in existence and is protected by the Government of the Island. It resembles a whale in size and shape.

OIL PAINTING BY LOCAL ARTIST

Beautiful Work to be Disposed of in Aid of Deep Sea Mission.

The picture (Give us back our Dead) now on view in Mr. Madill's window, was painted by a local artist and will be disposed of in aid of The Deep Sea Mission.

The subject of the picture is particularly appropriate to this mission —an old woman with hand outstretched in angry appeal to the sea, while to her clings, half in fear, half in bewilderment, her grandson.

The painting is in oils and the conception is strong and vigorous is most admirably carried out. The treatment of the sea stretching beyond the two figures on the beach, in the foreground, and of the admosphere are most realistic and masterly.

For further particulars enquire at Mr. Madill's or the Secretary-Treasurer, D. S. M., Mrs. D. Hughes Charles.

SERVICES CONTINUE ANOTHER WEEK

Good Results From Special Services at Park Street.

The revival in the Park Street Baptist Church has been going on for two weeks and will continue into next week. The preacher for to-morrow and the following nights will be the pastor's eldest son, Rev. A. Philip Brace, B.D., graduate of McGill University, Montreal.

Miss Mamie V. Clark, of Sarnia, will assist the preacher every service. The people wait anxiously for every number and she never disappoints them. Her engagement will close on Wednesday and will come all too soon. A rich harvest will be reaped and the church will receive a large increase in membership. Workers are especially invited for to-morrow and the closing days of the mission.—Com.

PRESIDENT COMMERCIAL CLUB, OF LOUISIANA, SAYS:

"THERE IS NO FINER MEDICINE THAN PE-RU-NA."

Suffered With Kidney and Liver Trouble for Twelve Years—Pe-ru-na Cured Him—Feels Better Than for Twenty Years.

Hon. William Watson Washburn, President of the Louisiana Commercial Club, and a very well known man of New Orleans, La., writes from 637 Canal street:

"I am satisfied that there is not a finer medicine placed before the public to-day than Peruna. I have been troubled for nearly twelve years with kidney and liver trouble, and at times I have been a pretty sick man, unable to attend to my duties. I had about made up my mind that no medicine could help me, when one of your booklets was brought to my office which I read in a leisure hour. I then decided to give Peruna a trial and found that I had at last secured the right medicine for me. For two months I used it faithfully and then felt so well I was like a young man once more. This was over a year ago and I have not had any trouble since. Although I am in the seventies I feel better and more active than I did thirty years ago."—W. W. Washburn.

Most derangements of the kidneys are due to catarrh of the kidneys. Peruna is a catarrh remedy. This explains why it is that Peruna cures a great number of kidney diseases in which the usual remedies fail.

If you do not receive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

SIEGE WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Salvation Army Has Experienced a Revival.

Over One Hundred Conversions — Meetings to be Continued.

The revival services held in the Army Barracks during February and March have been so successful that the Officer in Charge has decided to continue them through April; each week the interest has increased the last one being the best. Over one hundred came forward for Salvation and Holiness. The attendance was large the average being nearly one thousand a week. Twenty-seven have come forward since the first of this month. Some substantial increases were made in the Junior Work, and Sunday School, during the above period. The Quarterly Ballance Sheet, which was read at the business meeting on Wednesday night was a very satisfactory one. The meetings this coming week-end will be conducted by Adjutant Jennings and Lieut. Salter, Officers in Charge.

The siege, which ended last Friday night was a great success, forty-five conversions were aimed at, and sixty-two were secured, during the nine weeks, but this number has been materially increased since. $40 a week in collections was aimed at and this has been more than reached.

The siege, as a whole, was most successful.

MR. G. E. REVELL'S REMEMBRANCE

Presents Peterborough Club With Handsome Mounted Deer's Head.

Mr. Geo. E. Revell, formerly of town and now engaged in engineering work at Main Centre, New Ontario, has presented to the Peterborough Club a very handsome mounted deer's head, which was laid low in that district, by the deadly aim of Mr. Revell. It is a beautiful mounting and will do much to decorate the interior of the handsome quarters of the Peterborough Club, the members of which appreciate very much the kindness of Mr. Revell's remembrance.

ALL IT NEEDED

There is more real oxygen in a liquified form in the "solution of Ozone (the coupon kind)" than in any other preparation of a similar nature. As a prompt cure in the killing of all inside germs of thirst, lungs, stomach or bowels, it has no equal when coupled with "Celery King" the famous laxative. That the stringent Ozone needed a tonic of this nature to procure the best results was so apparent that the Public Drug Co., of Bridgeburg, Ont., offer through your druggist a free package of "Celery King" with every fifty cent or one dollar bottle of "solution of Ozone (the coupon kind." Sold by W. B. WARNE, druggist.

ANOTHER FINE CONCERT SUCCESS

Last Night's Fifty-Seventh Popular in the Opera House.

A Good Audience and a Popular Programme Splendidly Presented.

Last night the 57th Band gave another of their successful popular concerts in the opera house. There was a good audience, which was delighted with the excellent musical entertainment presented. It is true, the programme was not entirely new ; if it were, with concerts coming so closely together, there would be unsatisfactory music. The ordinary hearer does not perhaps appreciate the work necessary to bring a selection to the Gliddon standard of efficiency. If the band gave a new programme every performance, they would soon lose the popularity they now enjoy. In passing, it may be remarked that the fault — one almost is led to say curse — of modern music, is its sloppy quality of execution. Soloists, duets, trios, quartettes, choruses and choirs, in this age of rush and hurry, have caught its spirit. They come before the public with half-learned selections — at the stage of practice when they are about ready to begin to practice in earnest to give the best results. We want to get on too fast. Music above everything, involves hard work, and plenty of it, to bring out the best of it. A coon song well sung, sounds better than a work of old masters, with slovenly execution.

The programme last night was popular and pleasing, both in character and execution, and gave good satisfaction to the audience, since, of the nine numbers, seven or eight were called for a second time, and, in one case, three times. Suppe's "Pique Dame" overture was beautifully played. "Down South" was greeted with a hearty recall, as was "Timbuctoo." A new selection, an Oriental scene, was a weird, creepy sort of selection, quite in contrast with the jilty lightness of African music of the cis-Atlantic brand. The worthily entitled "Tone Picture, a Midnight Fire Alarm," was given a most realistic presentation and an enthusiastic reception. A new feature introduced into these popular concerts, was the mandolin duet of Messrs. Mendel — Mendel's son, but not Mendelssohn — and Hiderman, which was encored, and "ten minutes" by Messrs. Richards and Peters, "musical artists." Their contributions were very heartily received and repeat orders placed, especially the latter, which had the honour of a double recall. The programme concluded with the ever beautiful and stirring "Soldier's Chorus," from Faust.

Taken altogether, the concert, both from a musical and popular point of view, was successful, and added one more to the many claims upon public appreciation established by our splendid band.

SOLDIERS ARE BECOMING SCARCE

Great Difficulty in Securing Men for Permanent Corps.

Prosperity of the Country is Responsible for It.

Posters asking for recruits for the Canadian Permanent Corps are displayed prominently around town, but are apparently not having the desired effect. It is said that Sergeants from Stanley Barracks who are scouring the Province with the object of enlisting men for Permanent corps are meeting with little success. The reports received at Headquarters are very discouraging to those who expected to see Ontario contribute a large contingent of men for the several corps required to take over the fortifications at Halifax and Esquimalt. Sergeant-Instructor Thompson, of "C" Company, Royal Canadian Regiment, who is considered one of the best recruiting sergeants in the service, has sent in only three men, after scouring the country for two weeks. Some of the recruiting sergeants have not obtained a single recruit.

It is evident that the Government's offer of $15 per month, improved rations, a soldier's suit and an easy life in barracks, is not sufficient to lure the urban or rural youth of Ontario into the permanent corps, however willing and anxious he may be to serve in the militia and go on active service when occasion requires.

"We can never raise enough men in Canada to garrison Halifax and Esquimalt, while the country is so prosperous," said an officer in the permanent corps to a representative of The News yesterday. "We may be able to enlist a few men at Niagara camp, but only enough to bring the existing permanent corps to full peace strength."

LECTURE ON DEEP SEA MISSIONS

Dr. Wilfrid T. Grenfell Will Speak here on May 5th.

Dr. Wilfrid T. Grenfell, of the Labrador Medical Mission, in connection with the Deep Sea Mission, will lecture in the Y.M.C.A. Hall on the evening of May 5th.

This work was instituted in 1892. It is a branch of the interdenominational work carried on by by the Royal National Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen, with headquarters in London.

The Field—The population of the Labrador Coasts and Northern peninsula, of Newfoundland, together with the summer fishermen from southern ports; a total of some 50,000, most of whom are of English descent.

The Object—1. To carry the tidings of God's love in our Lord Jesus Christ to the fishermen of these coasts, and in every possible way to promote and minister to their spiritual welfare. 2. To mitigate and improve their condition physically and mentally by all practicable means, and to meet many urgent needs for which heretofore there has been no provision, especially in affording them the benefits of modern surgery and medicine.

ANNOUNCEMENT

WE have the honor to announce to the public that we have made arrangements with LUCIOS of Toronto for the exhibition and sale of Lucios' Semi-precious gems.

THE OPENING SALE
WILL BEGIN
MONDAY, APRIL 10th

The entire stock which we shall exhibit has been brought intact from World's Fair, St. Louis, U. S. A., where it was awarded

A GOLD MEDAL

For being "The most perfect imitation of a genuine diamond ever discovered"

These goods were manufactured especially for the Exhibition by our own artisans and represent the very latest and best creations from the jewel and art centers of Europe.

Lucios is absolutely the most perfect imitation of the genuine diamond known, they are a substance of recent discovery made possible by the newly acquired knowledge of radium and are universally used in the scientific manufacture of Diamonds, Rubies, Emeralds and Sapphires. They are a pure, brilliant crystal refined, clarified, cut and polished by expert diamond cutters. They have never before been offered for sale in this city.

LUCIOS is the sole owner and importer of these gems and absolutely controls the world's supply of these crystals and by the application of modern and scientific methods in cutting, mounting and setting, are able to offer a semi-precious stone set in substantial mountings at prices no higher than are asked for cheap and worthless imitations.

This will be the most magnificent display of semi-precious jewels ever shown. In design, arrangement and style, they are in every way the equal of the most expensive jewellery manufactured, and are replicas of the later and most popular London and Parisian fancies.

We extend to the public a most cordial invitation to call and see our magnificent display and to examine these rare, artistic and beautiful jewels.

FISH AND FLESH.

What's the difference? There is one. It seems to make a great difference whose ox is gored. Here we have the hysterical destroyers of harmony tearing their hair and splitting their throats over the alleged outrage of Monsignor Sbarretti, the Papal Attegate, interfering in politics to the extent of yielding to the wish of the Conservative Government of Manitoba to confer, as they have been doing, for a year, with the "foreign" priest, in order that they might smooth their own political pathway. But not a word is said of the fact that for months the Protestant clergy of the country have been roosting, (as Daniel of recent local epistolatory fame would say), remonstrating, roaring and prancing and going fairly wild in their hysterical interference in politics, and yet not a word of reproof has been administered. The firebrand journals have not been demanding their exile, and calling for their immurement in the deepest dungeon available. Yet when an ecclesiastic commits the heinous crime of being called his "Excellency" and of holding a conference with a member of the Conservative Government of Manitoba, who seemed to be as "wildin'" as Barkis, a horrible howl is raised. Why make fish of one and flesh of another? It seems, if these journalistic and other bomb throwers cannot bring themselves to the point of consistency of denouncing these ministers for interference in politics, they might spare a little timely indignation for the Manitoba Minister of the Crown—Hon. Robert Rogers—who built up a story, out of whole cloth—with the help of a stray patch or two of facts, to deceive the Canadian public, who led the Canadian public to believe that he had an interview with Mgr. Sbarretti, when as a matter of fact the two had never met.

THE ROOT OF THE EVIL.

Four lads were recently dealt with by the authorities for petty burglary. Though the criminal instinct may have had some resting place in their characters, it is probable that their wrong-doing was not altogether due to a greed for the goods of others, but rather to a morbid desire to figure as desperadoes. The young culprits admitted to the Chief of Police that they had been influenced to take to the course they did, by the reading of trashy and vicious fiction, the sensational stuff of which Jesse James rubbish is a type. The evils of such reading have often been pointed out in press and pulpit, but the evil remains. How to destroy it is the problem. We owe the presence of such pernicious literature as that referred to, as we do many other evil things that are sapping the foundation principles of our morals and our manners, our public, commercial and home life, to our proximity to the United States. Our town is flooded with dime novels, yellow journals and other publications of a like vicious type. These are solely produced in the United States, and it is an unfortunate fact that they find a too ready sale in Peterborough, for they are as cheap as the[illegible] Falling into the hands of [illegible] have perhaps undesirable home influences and training they are devoured by them and the sensational matter, the literary sewage, they contain inflames, excites and poisons the immature and impressionable minds of youth. The desire is created to emulate the impossible deeds of the impossible desperadoes, blackguards and drabs who figure as heroes and heroines in these foul books, and the first step to crime is taken, as in the case of the four boys referred to. The evil exists, but how to deal with it, is the question. The process will be slow, for the causes that tend to demoralisation are more insidious and widespread than trashy and vicious literature. In the United States originate all the bizarre, blasphemous, society-sapping religious fakes that speedily take root in Canada. The tendency of our neighbours to corruption in speech, in spelling, in commercial matters, etc., soon affects us in Canada. Many of the best of us say "deepo" for station, and even people of culture talk of "up-to-date" methods, and the infection of slang, looseness of speech, and general distaste for water from the well of "English undefiled," does not escape even some members of the pulpit and teaching profession. If a school child hears a teacher talk the slang of the street in the class room, the work of deterioration begins. The child is quick to learn the lesson that laxity of speech and disregard of high ideals, have the sanction in practice, of his teacher, the next step is easy, and the evil influences thus set up continue with gathering force till we have boys reading with avidity the rubbishy books which started the four lads in question upon the road to crime. This may seem a forced conclusion, but any person who chooses to quietly think over the subject, will not fail to see the underlying root of evil which exists in the apparently trifling disregard of right principles and true and high ideals. If we yield to the disregard of right principles in small things, the process is easy to the point where our moral sense accepts, without question, the same disregard of right principles in greater things. Facili descensus Averni.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

If Hon. Mr. Whitney complains that his entry into office doesn't attract the attention it should do, it is because his modest star is dimmed by the glow of the fires of sectarian prejudice his Conservative confreres are kindling and stoking at Ottawa and Winnipeg.

The Examiner owes an apology to the Review, and herewith pays it. Our contemporary's insinuation that Mr. H. A. Moore, the Conservative candidate, did not publish his address to the electors in the Review, rather conflicts with the Examiner's assumption that he did so. If he didn't he should have done so, and then he would not have been able to present an election bill of some $25 to show how virtuous a candidate he was, and what a poor one, too.

The new Provincial Secretary has acted wisely, says the Globe, in following closely the example set by his predecessor in office. Mr. Hanna's instructions to commissioners and inspectors in the matter of liquor law enforcement are in strict harmony with those issued by Mr. Stratton, and are just as peremptory in tone. Mr. Stratton, on the testimony of Dr. Chown, and other social reformers, made an honest and fairly successful effort to secure strict enforcement; and there will be general satisfaction if Mr. Hanna succeeds as well. The administration of the license system should not be a matter of interest to people of only one side in politics.

A MAN OF IDEAS.

Nearly a dozen different men claimed the credit of originating the National Policy of 1878. The claimants of this honour were in every county town, as familiar figures as the survivors of the charge of the Light Brigade. Perhaps all these men saw the idea at the same time.

Before too many pretenders arise, claiming the honour of origination in two other important matters, we beg to record our belief that the late Mr. John Bertram, of Toronto, originated two strokes of policy that stand fast more conspicuously than any others since 1878, the Ontario law requiring saw logs to be manufactured into lumber in Canada, and the Dominion law giving a preference to British goods at Canadian ports. As we believe it was the late John Bertram who drew up the first rough draft of the idea for a preference to British goods in the Canadian market, and that his idea was improved upon in detail at Ottawa. It was the late Mr. Bertram who waited upon the late Hon. A. S. Hardy and proposed that in the sale of further timber limits the condition should be imposed that the logs should not be sent out of the country for manufacture. He stood by the proposal, backed it up, and saw it put into effect.

The late John Bertram was a man of unusual ability who exerted a large influence while avoiding public attention. To him is in large measure due credit for the fact that the lumbermen of Ontario are working in full sympathy with the Forestry Department of Ontario, instead of working against it, as has been the case in various States similarly situated across the border.—Toronto Star.

THE TWO SCHOOL SYSTEMS

The Difference Between Tweedledum and Tweedledee.

Montreal Witness.

The difference between the school system of the Territories, which it is being sought to perpetuate, and that of Manitoba as it now exists, is, so far as we can learn, tweedledum and tweedledee. In the Territories it is permitted, where the conditions of population demand, that a majority may set up a school of its own. It must, however, up till half-past three teach the standard curriculum prescribed by Government, and this must be done by teachers holding certificates approved by the Government. After half-past three religion may be taught to those who wish. In Manitoba there are no separate schools in name; and all schools must be conducted under like supervision, but according as conditions of population bring it about the schools are managed by Protestants or by Roman Catholics, and after a certain hour, we think it is half-past three, arrangements are made whereby the clergy or their representatives can teach religion. This arrangement was made by Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself. The whole country accepted the settlement, and it would be the most improbable thing in the world for him to raise over such hair-splitting the most wearing of all questions, a question indeed better calculated than any other to break a ruler's heart and to shorten his days. As for his being at the beck of the clergy in the matter, that would most injure him with his followers of his own race. Protestants have little idea how much the French Canadians resent the interference of their clergy in politics. The clergy interfered in the case of Manitoba, and did what they could to keep Sir Wilfrid out of power, because he did not fall in with remedial legislation, while the Conservative party did. The result was that Sir Wilfrid Laurier was triumphant, and owed his great majority to the Province of Quebec. Since the question was raised this time we have heard a great deal from the Protestant clergy, but note a careful reserve, at least as far as public utterances are concerned, on the part of those of the Roman Catholic Church.

"THE OLD SCRATCH."

How the Evil One Came to be Popularly Known as "The Old Scratch."

One of the many familiar names of his Satanic Majesty is "the Old Scratch." It is undoubtedly due to the fact that scratching is so disagreeable that people thought it no worse than the evil one. A scalp full of dandruff keeps one scratching all the time; not only disagreeable, but considered very incelegant in polite society — as it should be — because we ought to keep the scalp so clean that it would not itch. To cure the scalp of dandruff effectively use Newbro's Herpicide. It kills the germ that creates the dandruff, which is preliminary to falling hair, and, finally, baldness. No other hair preparation kills the dandruff germ. Herpicide also is a very delightful and effective hair dressing. Sold by leading druggists. Send ten cents in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Michigan. Ormond and Walsh, special agents.

LARGE MARKET THIS MORNING

Maple Syrup Scarce—Sold at $1.50 Gallon.

The market was crowded this morning, and the supply of farm produce offered unusually large. The roads which are now in good condition in almost every direction allow of the transportation of heavy loads and as a result the quantity of hay offered was much larger than usual. The price ruling was $9.00. The maple syrup offered was of a good quality, though the supply was not large. The price ranged around $1.50 per gallon. It is thought, however, that this is about the highest price which it will reach this season, and the prospects are that it will be offered next week in larger quantities and at a lower price. That it will be very scarce, however, as compared with other seasons is certain. The manufacturers in town to-day state that the season is likely to be a very short one.

Pork sold to-day at 9c. and 10c., considerable being offered. Potatoes were also much in evidence at 75c. bag. Apples were 60c. On the inside market there was a great profusion of butter and eggs, the former selling at 23c. and 24c., and the latter 14c. and 15c. Chickens were also plentiful at 60c. and 75c. Honey was 10c. lb.

BUILD GRANOLITHIC WALKS AND SEWERS

Board of Works Met Last Night and Decided to Recommend to Council Streets Upon Which Local Improvements Will be Constructed--Street Watering Contracts Were Let--The Prices Paid--Other Business Transacted by Board of Works Last Night.

Last night the Board of Works decided to recommend to the Council the construction of granolithic walks and sewers during the present summer, and no doubt the recommendations made will be acted upon by the council at its next meeting. All of the sidewalks included in the list below have been petitioned for as local improvements and will be paid for in the usual way.

There were present at the meeting last night, Ald. Adams, chairman of the Board of Works, Mayor Best, and Ald. Batten, Hall, Johnston and Hicks.

The tenders for street watering were opened and let to the following tenderers, whose figures were the lowest:

Northern District — Zimri Blodgett, $379.

Southern District — Thos. Williamson, $350.

Western District — Geo. McLennan, $324.

Eastern District — Albert Valois, $300.

On motion of Ald. Hall and Batten, it was decided to recommend to the council that sewers be constructed as local improvements on:

Park street, from King to Sherbrooke streets; west on Sherbrooke street and south on Park to Rink street.

On Reid street, from Charlotte to King.

On Aylmer street, from Rink to Lake street.

On Lake street, from Aylmer to Crescent street.

On Barnardo avenue, from George to Church street.

The Board will also recommend to the council at its next meeting that granolithic sidewalks be constructed as local improvements on the usual terms on the following streets, viz.,

Hunter street, both sides, Bethune to Rubidge.

Simcoe street, both sides, Bethune to Rubidge.

London street, north side, Aylmer to Reid.

Antrim street, north side, George street to G.T.R. track.

Reid street, east side, McDonnel to Hall street.

Brock street, south side, George to Water.

Brock street, north side, Rubidge to Reid.

Queen street, west side, Hunter to Simcoe.

Murray street, north side, College to Dickson.

Bethune street, east side, McDonnel to London.

Simcoe street, north side, Water to Queen.

Water street, west side, Simcoe street to Market Square.

McDonnel street, north side, Dowrie to Park.

Argyle street, south side, Water to Sunnyside street.

Hunter street, south side, present end to the bridge on Otonabee River.

Hunter street east, south side, Mark to Rogers street.

Rogers street, west side, Hunter to Robinson.

Rogers street, west side, Lot 5, plan 17, to Hazlett street.

Aylmer street, east side, London to culvert.

Smith street, north side, Water to Harvey.

Moved by Ald. Hall, seconded by Ald. Batten, that the chairman be authorized to engage Alex. Fitzgerald to superintend work on the streets when needed, at $2 a day, and that he be paid on the certificate of the Town Engineer.

This was practically all the business transacted at the meeting last night.

G. W. FITZGERALD IS GAME WARDEN

For The District of Eastern Ontario.

Has Jurisdiction Over Twenty-One Counties.

The announcement is made that Mr. G. W. Fitzgerald, of Peterborough has been appointed—or recommended for the position of game warden for Eastern Ontario.

This suggests a reminiscence of Mr. Fitzgerald's relation to incoming Conservative administrations. Shortly after Sir John MacDonald came to power on the retirement of Hon. Alex. MacKenzie, Mr. George Cochrane fishery overseer, was replaced by Mr. G. W. Fitzgerald, who held the position till the fisheries were transferred from the Dominion to the Province, when naturally his services were no longer required.

Another Conservative Government came to power, another Liberal walks the plank. Mr. Smith, of Belleville, resigns and Mr. Fitzgerald's recognition comes again. Mr. Fitzgerald's new inspectorate will extend over 21 counties—from Ontario County to the Ottawa River. If the doctrine of the spoils belonging to the victors is to be adopted, the Examiner has no objection to Mr. Fitzgerald, as the favoured official, but he will more fully justify his choice if he improves upon the manner of the discharge of his duties under another Conservative regime — if he will not conveniently wink with the other eye when a Conservative shoots out of season, or otherwise transgresses the fishing laws and regulations, and not have an eye open only for "Grits" offending in like manner. The Examiner, and the public, will expect from him a fair and impartial discharge of his official duties, otherwise he may expect to be reminded of his duty. The Examiner believes in the spirit of the resolution of the Legislature, that Government officials should attend to their duties, if not they should be called to account, whether for offensive partizanship in an election contest, or in the course of administration of the laws they are expected to watch over.

We hope that Mr. Fitzgerald may make a faithful and efficient official —if he makes as good an official as he is a private citizen, and business man, he will amply justify his appointment. He made a good warden for one county and he should make a game warden for twenty-one counties. So long as he acts fairly in the discharge of his duties there will be no room for blame, but he must be good, and the Examiner will have no fault to find.

WAS WEDDED IN TORONTO

Mr. F. W. Kennedy Married to Miss Laura Robinson.

On Wednesday afternoon Mr. F. W. Kennedy of Peterborough, was married to Miss Laura Robinson, of Toronto. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's mother, Bolton avenue, and was attended by only the relatives. The wedding march was played by Mr. Geo. Rutherford of Lavrerl, Man., cousin of the bride. The ceremony was performed by the bride's brother, Rev. T. Robinson, pastor of St. Mark's Presbyterian Church, Toronto. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Harry Robinson. A dainty dejouner was served in the dining-room, where the tables were tastefully decorated with roses and carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy took the 5 o'clock C. P. R. train for the west. Mrs. Kennedy is already well known in Peterborough circles, where she will reside.—Globe.

New Meat Market.

Messrs. Charles Westlake and William Fleetwood started their new meat market to-day in the central premises on the corner of George and Brock streets, formerly occupied by Tuck's grocery. Both members of the firm are well known in town and should make a strong team, Mr. Fleetwood, who has been so well known for so many years while in the employ of Mr. J. J. Gowden, will manage the practical part of the business. Mr. Westlake, who has many well-wishers in town, will look after the other details. They did a very successful business to-day and a good start goes a long way.

LARGE MARKET THIS MORNING

Maple Syrup Scarce—Sold at $1.50 Gallon.

The market was crowded this morning, and the supply of farm produce offered unusually large. The roads which are now in good condition in almost every direction allow of the transportation of heavy loads and as a result the quantity of hay offered was much larger than usual. The price ruling was $9.00. The maple syrup offered was of a good quality, though the supply was not large. The price ranged around $1.50 per gallon. It is thought, however, that this is about the highest price which it will reach this season, and the prospects are that it will be offered next week in larger quantities and at a lower price. That it will be very scarce, however, as compared with other seasons is certain. The manufacturers in town to-day state that the season is likely to be a very short one.

Pork sold to-day at 9c. and 10c., considerable being offered. Potatoes were also much in evidence at 75c. bag. Apples were 60c. On the inside market there was a great profusion of butter and eggs, the former selling at 22c. and 24c., and the latter 14c. and 15c. Chickens were also plentiful at 60c. and 75c. Honey was 10c. lb.

BUILD GRANOLITHIC WALKS AND SEWERS

Board of Works Met Last Night and Decided to Recommend to Council Streets Upon Which Local Improvements Will be Constructed--Street Watering Contracts Were Let--The Prices Paid--Other Business Transacted by Board of Works Last Night.

Last night the Board of Works decided to recommend to the Council the construction of granolithic walks and sewers during the present summer, and no doubt the recommendations made will be acted upon by the council at its next meeting. All of the sidewalks included in the list below have been petitioned for as local improvements and will be paid for in the usual way.

There were present at the meeting last night, Ald. Adams, chairman of the Board of Works, Mayor Best, and Ald. Batten, Hall, Johnston and Hicks.

The tenders for street watering were opened and let to the following tenderers, whose figures were the lowest:

Northern District — Zimri Blodgett, $379.

Southern District — Thos. Williamson, $350.

Western District — Geo. McLennan, $324.

Eastern District — Albert Valois, $300.

On motion of Ald. Hall and Batten, it was decided to recommend to the council that sewers be constructed as local improvements on:

Park street, from King to Sherbrooke streets; west on Sherbrooke street and south on Park to Rink street.

On Reid street, from Charlotte to King.

On Aylmer street, from Rink to Lake street.

On Lake street, from Aylmer to Crescent street.

On Barnardo avenue, from George to Church street.

The Board will also recommend to the council at its next meeting that granolithic sidewalks be constructed as local improvements on the usual terms on the following streets, viz.,

Hunter street, both sides, Bethune to Rubidge.

Simcoe street, both sides, Bethune to Rubidge.

London street, north side, Aylmer to Reid.

Antrim street, north side, George street to G.T.R. track.

Reid street, east side, McDonnel to Hall street.

Brock street, south side, George to Water.

Brock street, north side, Rubidge to Reid.

Queen street, west side, Hunter to Simcoe.

Murray street, north side, College to Dickson.

Bethune street, east side, McDonnel to London.

Simcoe street, north side, Water to Queen.

Water street, west side, Simcoe street to Market Square.

McDonnel street, north side, Dowale to Park.

Argyle street, south side, Water to Sunnyside street.

Hunter street, south side, present end to the bridge on Otonabee River.

Hunter street east, south side, Mark to Rogers street.

Rogers street, west side, Hunter to Robinson.

Rogers street, west side, Lot 5, plan 17, to Hazlett street.

Aylmer street, east side, London to culvert.

Smith street, north side, Water to Harvey.

Moved by Ald. Hall, seconded by Ald. Batten, that the chairman be authorized to engage Alex. Fitzgerald to superintend work on the streets when needed, at $2 a day, and that he be paid on the certificate of the Town Engineer.

This was practically all the business transacted at the meeting last night.

G. W. FITZGERALD IS GAME WARDEN

For The District of Eastern Ontario.

Has Jurisdiction Over Twenty-One Counties.

The announcement is made that Mr. G. W. Fitzgerald, of Peterborough has been appointed—or recommended for the position of game warden for Eastern Ontario.

This suggests a reminiscence of Mr. Fitzgerald's relation to incoming Conservative administrations. Shortly after Sir John MacDonald came to power on the retirement of Hon. Alex. MacKenzie, Mr. George Cochrane fishery overseer, was replaced by Mr. G. W. Fitzgerald, who held the position till the fisheries were transferred from the Dominion to the Province, when naturally his services were no longer required.

Another Conservative Government came to power, another Liberal walks the plank. Mr. Smith, of Belleville, resigns and Mr. Fitzgerald's recognition comes again. Mr. Fitzgerald's new inspectorate will extend over 21 counties—from Ontario County to the Ottawa River. If the doctrine of the spoils belonging to the victors is to be adopted, the Examiner has no objection to Mr. Fitzgerald, as the favoured official, but he will more fully justify his choice if he improves upon the manner of the discharge of his duties under another Conservative regime — if he will not conveniently wink with the other eye when a Conservative shoots out of season, or otherwise transgresses the fishing laws and regulations, and not have an eye open only for "Grits" offending in like manner. The Examiner, and the public, will expect from him a fair and impartial discharge of his official duties, otherwise he may expect to be reminded of his duty. The Examiner believes in the spirit of the resolution of the Legislature, that Government officials should attend to their duties, if not they should be called to account, whether for offensive partisanship in an election contest, or in the course of administration of the laws they are expected to watch over.

We hope that Mr. Fitzgerald may make a faithful and efficient official—if he makes as good an official as he is a private citizen, and business man, he will amply justify his appointment. He made a good warden for one county and he should make a game warden for twenty-one counties. So long as he acts fairly in the discharge of his duties there will be no room for blame, but he must be good, and the Examiner will have no fault to find.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS

COUNTRY CLUB WILL BE FORMED

In Connection with the Peterborough Golf Club.

The Ladies and Gentlemen's Clubs Will be Amalgamated.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Golf Club was held in the Ontario Bank rooms on April 3rd. The Secretary's report showed a satisfactory year.

A new set of rules and regulations were adopted, and it was decided to change the name to The Peterborough Golf and Country Club, and to merge the Ladies' Club and the Gentlemen's Club into one organization.

It was also decided to enlarge the sphere of the club in order to have more attractions for the members. It is the intention of the Directors to push the work on the Tennis Courts which was commenced last autumn to completion as soon as possible, and it is hoped to have them in playing condition in the early summer.

There is every prospect for a most successful season. The following officers were elected for the current year:

Hon. President—Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P.
President—Mr. Hasen Ritchie.
Captain—Mr. Peter Campbell.
Secretary-Treasurer—Mr. C. Dickinson.
Directors—Messrs. R. M. Hamilton, T. Mulholland and H. D. Barnet.

CITY LEAGUE ALMOST ASSURED

Enthusiastic Baseball Meeting at T. A. S. Rooms Last Night.

Delegates Present From T. A. S. Peterborough and Auburn Teams—Officers Elected.

The meeting held last night at the T. A. S. rooms, for the purpose of organizing the City Baseball League was most enthusiastic in its character, and that a league comprised of at least four fast teams will be formed is now an almost assured fact.

Representatives from the Peterboroughs, T. A. S., and Auburn teams were present at the meeting and all were most enthusiastic with regard to the prospects. Much preliminary organization work was accomplished but the final work of arranging a schedule and electing executive officers was left over till a later date, when the other teams who are likely to enter, will be represented.

The Peterboroughs were represented by Mr. R. MacEwan, and M. Connors, the Auburns, by H. Clegg, and E. Belleghem and T. A. S. by E. W. Argus and W. Grady. Others present were: Messrs. G. Coughlin, R. O'Brien and Jos. Maher.

The chair was occupied by Mr. G. Coughlin. Considerable discussion took place with regard to various matters of business after which the following officers were elected:—

President—H. Clegg.
Vice-President—Wm. Grady.
Secretary-Treasurer—G. Coughlin.

W. Grady and E. Belleghem were appointed as a committee to secure the entry of additional teams. It may be said that only first-class teams will be allowed to enter, as it is the intention of the league officials to keep the standard of ball played in the league as high as possible, and good games may be guaranteed during the season. A deposit of $5.00 to be paid before the first game, is required of each team entering, as a guarantee that it will finish the season. Mr. Martin Connors was appointed to represent the league to arrange for the securing of grounds from the Turf Club. A committee consisting of Messrs. MacEwan, Grady, Argus, and Coughlin was also appointed to wait upon the manager of the Street Railway Co., to arrange for free transportation to and from the grounds. Mr. O'Brien added a few words of encouragement and expressed his pleasure at the promising prospects.

It is to be hoped that the Quakers will at an early date signify their intention of entering as in this event the success of the league will be absolutely assured.

The printers have also had the matter under consideration for some time. It is understood, and in case they decide to enter, should be able to organize a strong team which would be "in the running" to the end.

MARMORA GETS INTO LACROSSE

After Many Years the Lacrosse Club Organized.

Marmora, April 7th.—Marmora is to have some life this season in the way of sports. News was received from Madoc and Tweed that those villages would have lacrosse clubs and it was decided to organize for lacrosse and try to form a local league.

There was the greatest enthusiasm among the old and tried veterans as well as those too who are aching to win their spurs.

The following officers were elected:—
Hon. Presidents—J. W. Pearce, M. P. P. Reese, J. A. McDonnell.
President—H. M. Jones, M. D.
1st Vice President—P. M. Gordon.
Manager—John McWilliams.
Captain—C. Shannon.
Executive Committee—President, Manager and Captain.
Membership fee was placed at 25 cents.

BOWMANVILLE IS AFTER THE CUP

Football Team Entering the Midland League.

Bowmanville, April 5.—(Special).—The annual meeting of the Bowmanville Football Club was held last evening, when the following officers were elected:—Honourary Presidents, Mr. D. B. Simpson, K. C., Mr. F. H. Frost, B. A.; President, Rev. H. Munroe, B.A.; First Vice-President, Norman Heattie; second Vice-President, Arthur Baker; Secretary, F. C. Vanstone; Treasurer, Chas. H. Haddy; Manager, F. R. Kerslake; Captain, Dr. J. C. Devitt; Managing Committee, T. Hunter, C. W. Slemin, Geo. W. S. James, A. McCready, F. R. Foley; Ground Committee, A. Legge, E. Andrew, B. Farr; Press Correspondent, Geo. W. S. James.

It was decided to enter a team in the Midland League. The boys are hopeful of landing the cup in Bowmanville this season. The grounds are in fair condition, and they intend starting practice at once.

BASEBALL.

A meeting of the Auburn Baseball Club will be held in the Y.M.C.A. on Monday night at 8 o'clock. The prospects for the Auburns this season are very bright, and they expect to land pretty near the top in the City League race. McCoy is pitching a great ball this year.

• • • •

The Central School Baseball team had their first game with the Separate School team and defeated them by the score of 14-8.

The Central School line-up:—
Pitcher—H. Bellegham.
Catcher—S. Laing.
1st base—R. Heaslip.
2nd base—H. Kirn.
3rd base—G. Long.
Short Stop—P. Grange.
Right Field—J. Patterson.
Left Field—J. Fitzpatrick.
Centre Field—L. Bourghdale.

GALT PEOPLE ARE "SICK OF AFFAIR"

Their Costly Experience With the Carnegie Library.

Letter From a Prominent Public Man of Galt—Would not Again Give Free Site.

In order to be in a position to discuss the Carnegie Library proposal intelligently, the Examiner wrote to a number of the towns and cities in which such libraries were, and today a part of the Chatham Free Public Library, donated to that city by Mr. Andrew Carnegie, is published.

In Galt there is under construction, a building, which, when it is completed will be a free library, and the money to erect it was also donated to that town by the same gentleman.

In writing to the Examiner with reference to this library, in reply to a letter from this paper, a prominent public man of Galt wrote in the following terms:—

"Replying to yours of recent date. Yes, we have a Carnegie Library in embryo here. It has been in process of construction now for three years, and there is a prospect that it may be opened by the year 1910. There is no one here who would vote again for a site for a Carnegie Library. The whole thing has been a delusion and a snare from the start and we are heartily sick of the whole affair."

The letter continues and says that those who were responsible for the library first asked Mr. Carnegie for $18,000. Their plans, however, were somewhat ambitious, and $18,000 did not complete the building. From time to time an additional $1,000 has been asked for and the amount they have now received from Mr. Carnegie is $22,000. This will require, according to Mr. Carnegie's terms in the deed of gift, an expenditure of $2,200 a year to support the library.

In Galt, the letter says, the matter of securing the Carnegie library originated entirely with the Public Library Committee, who took it upon themselves to ask Mr. Carnegie for the money.

The writer, as in all other towns, resented very much the acceptance of the money. It would seem from the letter quoted above, that Galt's experience with the library has not been a very satisfactory one, and, as it recites, "the people are heartily sick of the whole affair."

The information given above is not intended to prejudice the case, but is simply the result of the desire to give the people as much light as possible on the matter, and it is felt that the best way to judge whether or not the Carnegie Library proposal would work satisfactorily here, is to recite the experiences of places where they have been tried.

Should any information from another place, where the people were satisfied, be forthcoming, the Examiner will gladly publish it.

A PROMOTION FOR MR. TILLY

Made Manager of the Lindsay Office of Bell Telephone Company.

The many friends in town of Mr. T. J. Tilly will learn with pleasure of the promotion which he has received at the hands of the Bell Telephone Company, for which Company he has been employed during the last five years as foreman of the construction work. He has now been appointed to the position of manager of the Company's business at Lindsay, and will leave in a short time for that town to take up his duties, which will commence on May 1st. Mr. Tilly is a veteran in the telephone business, having been connected with the construction department for about eighteen years. During his stay here he has had considerable to do with the important changes and improvements which have been brought about in the system here, and a great part of the practical work fell to his department. Some credit is due him for the efficiency of the local service. Prior to coming to Peterborough Mr. Tilly was located in Port Hope. Mr. and Mrs. Tilly will take up their residence in Lindsay. Friends will learn with regret of their approaching departure.

RESULT OF INTERFERENCE.

James Powell Nearly Murdered By an Italian at Galt.

Galt, April 4.—There was a serious row Tuesday night among the foreigners employed in the sewerage construction, as a result of which Lewis Lavita, an Italian, was charged at court yesterday with inflicting grievous bodily harm on James Powell, an employe of the Goldie McCulloch Co. The latter is laid up at the hospital, charged with assaulting the Italian, who beat Powell over the head with a crowbar and the wonder is he did not kill his victim.

Powell interfered in a fight in progress between the Italian's brother, Antonio, and an Englishman named George Rogers.

Assaults by Girl Strikers.

Walkerville, April 7.—Last week about thirty girls, employed in the match factory here, struck. The company filled most of their places.

Yesterday morning several of the older girls among the strikers waylaid a number of the non-strikers, and but for the assistance given the latter by a male escort, the new girls would have fared badly.

In the afternoon the strikers appealed to Mayor Dobie to assist them in keeping non-residents from coming in to take their places. They also claim the alien labor law is being violated.

Accused of Bigamy.

Leamington, April 6.—Bruce Thompson, of Wheatley, who disappeared about four weeks ago with the daughter of Chief of Police Hartford, of this town, was found yesterday near his old home by Hartford, who arrested him. Thompson was married to a Leamington girl several years ago. He deserted her, going to the Canadian Northwest. A few months ago he returned to Wheatley with a woman, whom, it is alleged, he introduced as his wife.

THE MEETING WAS AT PARIS

King of England and President of France Converse.

THE ANGLO-FRENCH ENTENTE

Notable Manifestation of Cordiality—Meeting Looked Upon as a Response to Germany's Attitude Towards France — "The Open Door" Already a Part of France's Policy in Morocco.

Paris, April 8.—The arrival of King Edward in Paris yesterday was the occasion for a notable manifestation of Anglo-French cordiality, which is being interpreted as a conspicuous response to Germany's attitude regarding Morocco, although the King remained but a short time. He was met outside the city by President Loubet, who held a private conversation with His Majesty, lasting nearly an hour. A semi-official outgiving recites that this meeting had far less reserve than that as between King and President, and that it was marked by the freedom of confidences exchanged. Beyond this private conversation King Edward confined himself to the usual public expressions of good will. He spoke at the station of the pleasure a visit to France always gave him.

Rulers Exchange Greetings.

President Loubet joined the Royal train at Pierrefitte station, where, surrounded by distinguished officials of both Governments, the two rulers exchanged greetings. The King conducted President Loubet to his car, where conversation continued until the Lyons railway station was reached. Outside the station the crowd was held back by cordons of police. During the half hour at the station King Edward continued to talk with President Loubet and held an extended conference with the British Ambassador to France, Sir Francis Levison Bertie. King Edward left Paris at 7.10 o'clock for Marseilles, where he will join Queen Alexandria on board the Royal yacht Victoria and Albert.

Talked Freely.

The semi-official communication relative to the meeting of King Edward and President Loubet says:

"It is natural to suppose the conversation between the King and President led to an exchange of views on diplomatic questions of the day, but as neither has divulged the confidences it is necessary to receive with reserve the more or less ingenuous versions which will be placed in circulation. Judging, however, from external appearances one cannot but remark that the meeting yesterday was marked not only by less reserve than that of last year, but notably by the greater freedom of confidence exchanged."

French Press Views.

The public and press, however, herald the meeting as significant. The Journal Des Debats says: "It is a new affirmation of the Anglo-French entente, which will be followed by naval demonstrations by British and French squadrons."

This, says The Debats, is the response to the attitude Germany has taken towards France, and the paper adds: "It will be imprudent if statesmen at Berlin fail to observe this particularly conspicuous reaffirmation of the Anglo-French entente."

The Temps also says that the interview emphasizes the endurance of the Anglo-French entente.

The effect of the visit appears to be to strengthen the determination to proceed with France's policy in Morocco in accordance with the terms of the Anglo-French agreement as the visit is construed as a timely expression from the signatories of that agreement.

THE OPEN DOOR.

French Ambassador Says That is His Nation's Moroccan Policy.

Washington, April 7.—The French Ambassador, M. Jusserand, called on Secretary Taft yesterday to make inquiries relative to the visit of the German Ambassador Wednesday, and the representations the latter made relative to Morocco. He was informed that Baron Von Speck-Sternburg's note had been forwarded to the President.

M. Jusserand assured Secretary Taft that the "open door" was the policy in Morocco now, and there were no intentions on the part of the French Government to alter that policy.

Germany's New Minister.

Berlin, April 7.—The report of the appointment of Privy Councillor Dr. Rosen, who until recently was special envoy of Germany at the court of King Menelik of Abyssinia, as German minister in Morocco, in succession to the deceased Baron Von Mentzingen, has been confirmed. There is every indication that Germany designs to hold on tenaciously to her policy towards Morocco.

Treaties and Preferences.

London, April 7.—Earl Percy, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, informed questioners in the House of Commons yesterday that the Anglo-French agreement of April 8, 1904, was never officially communicated to Germany, nor had any communications on the subject passed between Great Britain and Germany except in reference to the Khedivial decree dealing with the Egyptian part of the agreement. The Sultan of Morocco, Earl Percy said, was not a party to the Anglo-French declaration, which was an independent arrangement between Great Britain and France for dealing with their respective interests in Morocco.

Asked if Germany's treaty with Morocco secured for her special commercial rights and privileges, Earl Percy said the German-Moroccan treaties of 1856 were analogous to the Anglo-Moroccan treaties of 1856.

Morocco-German Loan.

The correspondent at Tangier of The Times says the Sultan of Morocco has been given to understand that he will have no difficulty in obtaining a loan in Berlin.

JAMES BAY RAILWAY.

Motions for Papers and Answers to Questions Only Business in House on Thursday.

Toronto, April 7.—The proposed diversion of the James Bay Railway, from the course first outlined through the Townships of Scott, Mara and Rama to the westerly side of Lake Couchiching, touching the Town of Orillia, was brought to the attention of the Legislature yesterday by W. H. Hoyle, the member for North Ontario. Mr. Hoyle was laying his views and the objections of his constituents before the House, when the leader of the Opposition asked him to defer his motion till Mr. Tudhope was in his seat. He will renew the motion on Tuesday.

A number of private bills were introduced and read a first time.

Grassy Point, Lake St. Clair.

Mr. Foy, in answer to a question by Mr. McCoig (West Kent), said that Grassy Point, in Lake St. Clair, was not leased under Provincial authority, but from the Department of Indian Affairs at Ottawa; to whom it was leased he could not say, nor did he know the terms of the lease. A Crown Lands Department engineer had made a report, but the Government was undecided as to whether the property would be thrown open to the public and the lease cancelled.

Women Students.

In answer to a question by Mr. Harcourt, Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, said that provision for twenty women students had been made in a residence opened at No. 7 Queen's Park. The Government had not considered making provisions so far for further residences to accommodate all the women students.

Mr. Fraser secured an order for a return of correspondence between the late Government and G. P. Wilson and Col. Cohoe respecting the appointment of Col. Cohoe to the position of high court registrar.

Production of Minerals.

A report issued by the bureau of mines on the production of minerals, was presented. The total value of metallic ores produced in 1904 was $5,321,677. The number of men employed was 2,807, and the wages $1,234,767. The total production of non-metallic ores was valued at $6,665,970, the number of employes 7,474, and the wages paid $2,503,816.

Lumbermen See Premier.

A deputation, representing all the large lumber companies of the Province, waited upon the Premier and Hon. Messrs. Foy and Hanna yesterday morning, being introduced by Mr. Dunlop, the member for North Renfrew. They asked that steps be taken to remedy the difficulties they claim to have labored under for some time in regard to the location of settlers under the free grants and homesteads act on lands under timber license. They suggested that there should be no locations on lands sold under the timber sale of 1902 until the time for taking off the timber has expired; that twelve months' notice should be given of intention to open up lands for settlement, and that greater attention should be paid to the prevention of fires and to the exploration of the northern country. It was further urged that the Government should appoint inspectors to examine various districts under timber licenses, and unless 40 per cent. of them were fit for agricultural purposes they should not be open for settlement under the free grants act. The fear was expressed that the locations made under the volunteer land grant act would increase the difficulties of the timber license holders. The usual consideration was promised.

Premier and Deputations.

The Premier announces that he will receive deputations on Wednesdays only during the remainder of the session, except those that have already secured appointments.

New Deputy Engineer.

George A. McCarthy has been appointed deputy engineer on the Temiskaming Railway.

C. B. Smith thinks the possibilities of the line are greater than anticipated.

There will be eight stations between New Liskeard and North Bay, about 15 miles apart. The contracts have all been let, and four buildings have already been completed.

Those Worrying Piles.

Dr. Agnew's Ointment cures Eczema and all Itching and Burning skin diseases. It acts like magic. 35 cents.

"Dead Within An Hour."

Sault Ste. Marie, April 8.—Search is being made for John McHugh, who was a life insurance agent here. He became involved in business matters and went to the Michigan Soo. He wrote to a friend here that he would be dead within an hour. He has not been seen since. McHugh was 30 years of age and come of a good family. He has a wife and child.

Two Die in the Wreck.

Cleveland, April 8.—The Pittsburg flyer, east bound on the Cleveland and Pittsburg road, collided with a westbound freight at Costonia, Ohio, yesterday, killing two men and injuring three others. The accident was caused by the freight train overrunning a siding and going on to the main track.

Shoots Himself Four Times.

Frankford, April 8.—Bert Bowman, a Molsons Bank clerk in this village, between 9 and 10 o'clock yesterday morning, while yet in bed, shot himself twice over the heart and twice in the head. He still lives, but cannot recover. He says he does not know why he shot himself.

Dropped Dead.

Merrickville, April 7.—A retired farmer, John Gillan, aged 72, while conversing with a neighbor, dropped dead yesterday afternoon. He leaves a wife and family.

Another Turbine Sails.

London, April 7.—(C. A. P.)—The Trubine Laser Virginian, sister ship to the Victorian, left the Mersey yesterday for St. John with 1,150 passengers.

QUICK CRAZY.

His Counsel Forwarding Doctor's Certificate to Attorney-General.

London, April 6.—It is understood that ohn Folinsbee, the counsel for Robert Quick, who is accused of murdering his brother, Alfred Quick, of Caradoc, is making an effort to have the prisoner declared insane and sent to the asylum, without the formality of a trial.

He has procured certificates of insanity from two medical men, and these together with the testimony adduced at the examination, will be forwarded to the Attorney-General's Department.

Mr. Folinsbee is also taking steps to have a committee formed to manage the estate of the prisoner in the event of being officially declared insane.

Bedf st for Three Years With Inflammatory Rheumatism

Helpless as an Infant—Now Walks Without Crutches

Wonderful Recovery of Mr. John McCullough, of Oxbridge, Ont.

The Claflin Chemical Co., Windsor:

Gentlemen—It is with much pleasure that I send you this testimonial regarding the wonderful benefit I have derived from the use of "Bu-Ju" Kidney Pills. Have been an invalid for nearly three years with inflammatory rheumatism, and was bedfast until about six months ago, when an old friend of the family called to see me, and left me some of your pills. I began to feel the benefit of them after taking one box. I have continued using them, and am now able to get out of bed, and dress myself, and can go out without crutches. Before taking the pills I was as helpless as an infant, and had to be taken care of like one.

I honestly believe that your pills have been the cause of my getting better. I have tried about everything that could be thought of as a cure for my trouble, but feel this remedy of yours has done me more good than any of them, and I feel if I were a younger man, that by taking them for another few months I would be well and strong again; but of course I am an old man now, and have not the constitution to work on, but I hope this simple story of the way your pills have helped me will be of value to others. I remain yours truly.

SAMARE'S 7,000,000.

So Terribly Excited That Terrible Catastrophe May Yet Result.

Samare, Government of Samare, southeast Russia, April 7.—The exchange here representing commercial connections over a region inhabited by 7,000,000 people, has telegraphed to M. Bouligan, Minister of the Interior, that the whole area is in a condition of extreme excitement, and that a terrible catastrophe is only avoidable by immediate summoning representatives of the people in accordance with the terms of the Imperial rescript.

The exchange also demands a representation upon the commission which is considering the subject. The peasants are greatly aroused over the reports that the "Intellectuals" are seeking to return them to a condition of slavery.

Want Order Revoked.

St. Petersburg, April 7.—The zemstvos of the Government of Orloff have telegraphed to Minister of Interior Bouligan, demanding that the Government be directed to revoke the order prohibiting petitions on the subject of the Imperial rescript.

Revise Education System.

Moscow, April 7.—A general meeting of representatives of the highest schools of Russia here yesterday adopted a series of strong resolutions, not only demanding a revision of the whole educational system of the Empire, including freeing the schools and universities from Government control, but declaring for a constitutional regime.

The last act of the congress of doctors from all parts of Russia was to despatch a telegram of sympathy to Maxim Gorky, addressed to him as "A valiant defender of the rights of man."

Peasants on the Rampage.

St. Petersburg, April 7.—Official advices report continued disorders in the Caucasus. Within the past week peasants have looted and burned public offices in the Gore district, ransacked schools and private estates, cutting down trees and threatening to kill the police if they interfered, and forcing priests to go with them and take an oath of solidarity with their cause. Similar but less serious disorders are reported in the Tiflis district.

At Elshineff Wednesday night, an unsuccessful attempt was made to assassinate Assistant Police Commissary Kirilghi. The daughter of Gen. Leontieff has been arrested at St. Petersburg. Her rooms were searched and two bombs were found under her bed.

Trial by Martial Law.

Warsaw, April 7.—All persons participating in disorders will hereafter be tried by martial law. The new regime commenced yesterday when two workmen were thus tried and condemned to death.

For Immediate Municipalization.

Chicago, April 5.—Judge Dunne, who stood for immediate public ownership of all public utility franchises, was elected Mayor of this city yesterday by a plurality of 22,000 to 25,000 votes over Mr. Harlan, who stood for settlement or giving franchises for 20 years in exchange of traction company's agreement to abrogate their doubtful rights under the 99-year-act.

30 Days in Jail.

Berlin, April 5.—E. Leahy, of Toronto, was tried by Judge Chisholm yesterday charged with stealing a watch and chain, belonging to Phoebe Weiss, from a farm house near Doon. He was taking orders for photos and took the watch. He was sentenced to 30 days in jail.

Get Glasgow's Advice.

Glasgow, April 7.—Manager Dalyrmple of the city's street railroad system has been granted a month's vacation to proceed to Chicago and confer with Mayor-elect Dunne on the municipalisation of street railroads.

All Free Ports.

Madrid, April 7.—The Council of State has decided in favor of the creation of free ports in the Canary Islands.

THE YOUNG MEN WALKED HOME

What Happened Some Havelock Gentlemen.

The Latest News From the Railway Town—Personal Items

Havelock, April 4th. — Mr. C. McKeown of Stirling has returned to Havelock, where he will work at the tailoring business for his father, Mr. Jas. McKeown.

Mr. M. Schultz has returned from Peterborough, after undergoing a course of treatment at the hospital. He is still very weak but expects to resume work in the near future.

Mr. William Dozzes is the happy father of a daughter.

Mrs. Thomas Lloyd, who has been ill for some time is now able to be out.

Mrs. J. Dorricott spent a few days in Toronto last week.

Another change in the bank took place on Friday last when Mr. Jos. Black, of the Sovereign Bank, Tweed, was moved to this point to take up up a similar position. He takes the position made vacant by the removal of Mr. C. B. King, who goes to Rockdyn, Ont.

Miss Laura Easton returned on Thursday from an extended trip to Toronto, Detroit and other points west.

Mr. W. L. Scammell is suffering from a severe attack of la grippe.

Miss Daisy Shipman of Toronto Jct who has been the guest of Miss Edna Rose for the past week, returned to her home on Tuesday.

Miss B. Spears and Miss M. Swinton of Peterborough, are the guests of Miss Ethel McBurney, of town.

Mr. A. Gabriel, who for the past year has been in the employ of Phillips Bros., hardware, has left to take a position with a large firm in Toronto Junction.

Mr. George Mathison, who has been attending the Belleville Business College for the past year, is spending a few days at his home here before going to the West, where he has accepted a position.

Mr. Matthew Mahorn of Campbellford, has accepted the position of locomotive foreman's clerk, for the C. P. R. at this point, succeeding J. W. Rose, who resigned to take a position as resident electrician for the Havelock Electric Light and Power Co.

Mr. R. A. Williams of Stirling spent Sunday in town.

Owing to one of the electric light transformers in the west end of the town, which controls that section of the arc lamps, having been burnt out, that end is now in darkness. It is supposed to have been caused by a foreign wire crossing their heavy voltage wires, and not allowing the current free passage. The company is getting this repaired with all possible despatch so that the inconvenience will not be for long.

Miss Edith McDonald of Belleville, who has been the guest of Miss A. McGuire, returned to her home on Tuesday.

Miss Garrison and Miss Dennison, spent Tuesday in town.

A very amusing incident took place on Monday evening when a number of the young fellows of town took a "special" to Norwood, where they intended to have a good time, expecting to return the same way. But fate was against them. They had the time all right, but at a small hour in the morning, when they went to board their special for home, they found out that it was not to be had. A number of other young fellows, it happened, walked up, and claimed the special as theirs and came to Havelock. Those who chartered it found that as they had had such a good time, turned their pockets inside out, and and managed to be able to buy a tie ticket, which, although a very safe way to travel, was not as convenient as some others.

Mr. Harry Lindley, the only and ever, has struck town with his opera troupe, and has engaged the house for the whole week. On Monday evening he plays "The Fatal Wedding." The play and the moving pictures put on by Prof. Green, were excellent. The hall was not crowded, and those who stayed away do not know what they missed. The train robbery put on by Mr. Green was marvellous, and the scenes in the illustrated songs were beautiful. On Tuesday evening they played "Dora Thorn," which was exceptionally well put on. Mr. Lindley in this showed himself to be as good an actor as he was 25 years ago. He was the hit of the evening. On Wednesday evening he will put on "Rodenoke," and a different one each evening. Mr. Lindley came out on Tuesday and addressed the audience for a few minutes, and said that in no place in Canada is there a town of this size with such a complete set of scenery as Havelock.

Are You Strong?

Do You Eat and Sleep Well? —Or Are You Pale, Weak and Miserable?

Has your nerve given out? Have you lost confidence in yourself? Has work become such an awful burden that you hate even to think of it with horror?

There is just one thing left to do, and that is to take Ferrozone and get your system into good shape again.

It is quite impossible for anyone to be weak or nervous that uses Ferrozone. It contains so many strength-giving properties that health is bound to result from its use.

Ferrozone possesses the power to kindle new vitality and restore where almost a dying condition of weakness exists.

It is an extraordinary and magical tonic, containing more actual nourishment and strengthening elements than you can get in any other way. As a blood purifier, nerve strengthener and appetizing tonic there is simply no equal to Ferrozone. Of this we are positively sure.

It is crowned with the success of splendid cures; will restore anyone to health who uses it. The following letters from people who have actually experienced what Ferrozone can do will clearly show you just how beneficially it acts:—

No Medicine Ever Did So Much Nothing Good as Ferrozone.

"It would be difficult to express my thanks for the benefit I have received from Ferrozone," writes Miss Eva Wight, of Morrisonville. "I was so ill and miserable that I could scarcely go around the house. My head ached, there was a lingering weakness in my limbs, and I felt as if every spark of life had left me. Ferrozone built up my appetite, toned up my blood, and soon made me well. Nothing I ever used did me half the good I got from Ferrozone."

The Great Tonic, Ferrozone, Brought Back Life.

"I am anxious to speak a good word for such a magnificent tonic as Ferrozone," says E. P. Genow, of Yorktown. "I was wretchedly worn out. I was apprehensive, and lacked confidence. It was simply due to my very weak state. The only remedy that really did me lasting good was Ferrozone. It rebuilt my strength, has made me as vigorous and happy as a man could be. In the whole range of medicines I never used anything with half the merit I found in Ferrozone."

Though you spend a thousand dollars on doctors, you can't get a more vitalizing, strengthening tonic than Ferrozone. It is the best that money, combined with scientific research, can produce. If anything in this world will make you strong it must be Ferrozone. Others have proved its worth. You can easily do so for yourself. It will send new vital energy and renewed youth singing through your veins. It's nature's own remedy—a true food tonic.

VOICES IMPERIAL HOPE.

Earl Grey in His Reply to Citizens of Kingston's Address.

Kingston, April 7.—The citizens of Kingston turned out in thousands to greet the Governor-General on his first visit here yesterday afternoon.

Proceeding to the City Hall, an address of welcome was read by the Mayor, to which His Excellency replied. After expressing the hope for the closer consolidation of the various portions of the British Empire, he went on:

"I confidently anticipate that if we do not hurry unduly the processes of nature we shall at the appointed hour see with eyes of exultation the realization of all our Imperial hopes in the fruition of a system under which every separte part of the world embracing the British Empire will share with every other the attributes and privileges of a full and equal citizenship."

After the reception, Earl Grey was driven over to the R. M. C. by Col. Reade, whose guest he is. Last night a dinner was given in his honor, followed by an assault-at-arms by cadets. This afternoon the honorary degree will be conferred by Queen's. Lord Strathcona arrives to-day at noon by special train.

VALUABLE TO MOTHERS.

Baby's Own Tablets are for children of all ages—they are equally good for the new born babe or the well grown child. They will promptly cure colic, indigestion, constipation, teething troubles, diarrhoea, and simple fever. The Tablets break up colds, prevent croup, and promote healthy sleep. They are guaranteed not to contain a particle of opiate or any of the poisons found in so-called "soothing" medicines. Every mother who has used these tablets speaks of them in the highest praise. Mrs. T. Timlick, Pittston, Ont., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets with the most satisfactory results. I can recommend them to all mothers as a remedy for teething and other troubles of childhood." You can get the Tablets from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 25 cents a box, by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, of Brockville, Ont.

GRAIN PROSPECTS ARE EXCELLENT

Wheat and Oats Will be high in Price This Fall

Winter Wheat Came Through Cold Weather Well.

The present prospects for grain in Ontario, and in this county in particular, seem to be very bright at the present time. This applies both to the prices of the grain and the crop.

It is reported from the different districts, that the fall wheat, which looked weakly last fall, is in splendid condition at the present time, and unless some frosty weather strikes it during this month, it should be a splendid crop. Very little has been winter-killed.

The prices, too, will likely be good, since last year's yield has been pretty well taken up by millers.

As far as oats are concerned, they promise to bring a good price in this district next fall.

At the present time the American Cereal Company are importing thousands of bushels of oats every day, and this will likely continue all summer until the new crop here makes it possible for them to supply the demand of the mill.

The fact that the mills are likely to run for some time at the present rate will result in a good demand for oats for many months.

The prices of all classes of grain are practically unchanged.

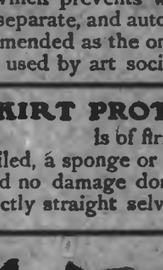
THE OLD FOGY DOCTOR



FAMILY Doctors are all right as general practitioners, but they are not specialists. The sexual organs comprise the most intricate and important system in the human body and require the most skilful treatment. You might as well expect a blacksmith to shoe a horse which, as a family physician to cure sexual complaints. We have made a specialty of these diseases for over 25 years, have invested tens of thousands of dollars and have every facility known to medical science to cure them. Every case is taken when a positive guarantee will be given—No Cure—No Pay.

BLOOD POISON—Whether inherited or acquired, is positively cured forever. The virus is eliminated from the system at no danger of rot—Mercury—if used cured by us 25 years ago and no scars; best evidence of a cure.

NERVOUS DEBILITY—and other complications such as nervousness, dizziness in the head, backache, general weakness, etc., are cured by our New Method Treatment under a positive guarantee—NO CURE—NO PAY.

Superfluous Hair

Removed by the New Principle,

De Miracle

It is better than electricity, because it does not scar or produce a new growth. Better than X-ray, because it does not burn, scar or paralyze the tissues under the skin. Better than depilatories, because it is not poisonous; therefore it will not cause blood poisoning, or produce eczema, which is so common with depilatories, nor does it break off the hair, thereby increasing its growth.

Electrolysis, X-ray or depilatories are offered you on the bare word of the operators and manufacturers. De MIRACLE is not. It is the only method which is indorsed by physicians, surgeons, dermatologists, medical journals and prominent magazines.

The Heart's Highway

By MARY E. WILKINS

Copyright, 1900, by DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.

Up to my horse he went with that overstatedness of the man in his cups, who moves with the stiffness of a tree walking, as if every lift of a heavy foot was the uplifting of a root fast in the ground, and went stroking his head, when straightway my horse, either not liking his touch or the smell of his liquored breath, and judging, as was his wont, that the fault must by some means lie with his own race, straightway lashed out a vicious hind leg like a hammer and came within an ace of the parson's own valuable horse—not the one which he proposed trading for mine—and the wind of the lash frightened the parson's horse, and he in his turn lashed out, and another horse at his side sprang aside.

Straightway there was such a commotion in the tavern yard as never was, and slaves and white servants shouting and forcing rearing horses to their regular standing, and I stroking my beast and striving as best I could to bring his pure horse wits to comprehend the strong pressure and responsibility of humanity for the situation, and the Barry brothers and Captain Jaynes came running forth, Captain Jaynes swearing in such wise that it was beyond the understanding of any man unversed in that language of the high seas; and Nick Barry, laughing wildly, and Dick, glooming, as was the difference with the two brothers when in liquor.

And the landlord, one John Halpin, stood in his tavern doorway with his eyebrows raised, but no other sign of consternation, knowing well enough that all this could not affect his custom and being one of the most toughly leather dried little men whom I have ever seen, and his face so hardened into its final lines of experience that it had no power of changing under new ones. And behind him stood peering, some with wide eyes of terror and some with ready laughs at nothing, the few other roisterers in the tavern at that hour. 'Twas not the best time of day for the meeting of those choice spirits for the discussion of the other spirits which he raised, willy nilly from the grape and the grain said she. "'Tis folly to keep it up so late as this, and Mary hath not had a word for me since we came."

"But why do you not dance yourself, Mistress Hyde?"

"I care not to dance," she said pettishly and with a glance of mingled wrath and admiration at Mary Cavendish that might have matched mine or her brother's, and I marveled deeply at the waywardness of a maid's heart. But then came Ralph Drake, who had not drunken very deeply, being only flushed and somewhat lost to discrimination and disposed to dance with another since he could not have his cousin Mary, and he and Cicely went away together, and presently, when the minuet was over and another dance on, I saw them dancing in time, but always Cicely had that eye of watchful injury upon Mary.

It was late when the ball was done, but Mary would have stayed it out had it not been for Catherine, who almost swooned in the middle of a dance and had to be revived with aromatic vinegar and lie for awhile

Margery Key sending forth a blessing in my Lady Culpeper's bedchamber, with a black woman fanning her, until she was sufficiently recovered to go home. Mary did not espy me until, returning from her sister's side to order the sedan chairs, she jostled against me. Then such a blush of delight and relief came over her face as made my heart stand still with rapture and something like fear. "You here, you here, Harry?" she cried and stammered and blushed again, and Sir Humphrey and Cicely, who were pressing up, looked at me jealously.

"I am here at your grandmother's request, Mary," I said.

Then my Lord Estes came elbowing me aside and made no more of me than if I were a black slave, and hoarsely shouting for the sedan chairs and the bearers, and after him Ralph Drake and half a score of others, and all cursing at me for a convict tutor and thrusting at me.

All the road was white with moonlight, and when we came alongside Margery Key's house, as I live, that white cat shot through the door, and immediately after I, looking back, saw the old dame herself standing therein, though it was near morning, and she quavered forth a blessing after me. "God bless thee, Master Wingfield, in life and death, and may the fish of the sea come to thy line, may the birds of the air minister to thee, and all that hath breath of life, whether it be noxious or guileless, do thy bidding. May even he who is nameless stand from the path of thy desire and hold back from thy face the boughs of prevention whither thou wouldst go." This said old Margery Key in a strange, chanting-like tone and withdrew, and a light flashed out in the next house, and the woman who dwelt therein screamed, and Mistress Mary, thrusting forth her head from the chair, called me to come close.

As for Catherine, she was borne along as silently as though she slept, being, I doubt not, still exhausted with her swoon. When I came close to Mistress Mary's chair, forth came her little hand, shining with that preciousness of fairness beyond that of a pearl, and "Master Wingfield," said she in a whisper, lest she disturb Catherine, "what, what, I pray thee, was it the witch woman said?"

I laughed. "She was calling down a blessing upon my head, madam," I said.

"A blessing and not a curse?"

"As I understood it, though I know not why she should have blessed me."

"They say she is a white witch and worketh good instead of harm, and yet"— said Mistress Mary, and her voice trembled, showing her fear, and I could see the negroes rolling eyes of wide alarm at me, for they were much affected by all hints of deviltry.

"I pray you, madam, to have no fear," I said, and thought within myself that never should she know of what had happened on my way thither.

"They say that her good deeds work in the end to mischief," said Mary, "and, and—'tis sure no good whatever can come from unlawful dealing with the powers of evil even in a good cause. I wish the witch woman had neither cursed thee nor blessed thee, Harry."

I strove again to reassure her and said, as verily I begun to believe, that the old dame's words, whether of cursing or blessing, were of no moment, but presently Mistress Mary declared herself afraid of riding alone, shut within her sedan chair, and would alight and have one of the slaves lead my horse and walk with me, taking my arm the remainder of the way.

I had never known Mistress Mary Cavendish to honor me so before, and knew not to what to attribute it, whether to alarm, as she said, or not. And I knew not whether to be enraptured or angered at my own rapture, or whether I should use or not that authority which I had over her and which she could not, strive as best she could, gainsay, and bid her remain in her chair.

But, being so sorely bewildered, I did nothing, but let her have her way, and on toward Drake Hill we walked, she clinging to my arm and seemingly holding me to a slow pace, and the slaves, with the chairs, and my horse forging ahead with ill concealed zeal on account of that chanting proclamation of Margery Key which, I will venture to say, was considered by every one of the poor fellows as a special curse directed toward him instead of a blessing for me.

As we followed on that moonlight night, she and I alone, of a sudden I felt my youth and love arise to such an assailing of the joy of life that I knew myself dragged, as it were, by it and had no more choosing as to what I should not do. Verily it would be easier to lead an army of malcontents than one's own self. And something there was about the moonlight on that fair Virginia night, and the heaviness of the honey scents, and the pressure of love and life on every side, in bush and vine and tree and nest, which seemed to overbear me and sweep me along as on the crest of some green tide of spring. Verily there are forces of this world which are beyond the overcoming of mortal man so long as he is incumbered by his mortality.

Mary Cavendish gathered up her fine and silver petticoats about her as closely as a blue flower bell at nightfall and stepped along daintily at my side, and the feel of her little hand on my arm seemed verily the only touch of material things which held me to this world. We came to a great pool of wet in our way, and suddenly I thought of her feet in her little satin shoes. "Madam, you will wet your feet if you walk through that pool in your satin shoes," I said, and my voice was so hoarse with tenderness that I would not have known it for my own, and I felt her arm tremble. "No," she said faintly. But, without waiting for any permission, around her waist I put an arm and had her raised in a twinkling from the ground and bore her across the pool, she not struggling, but only whispering faintly when I set her down after it was well passed, "You—you should not have done that, Harry."

Then of a sudden close she pressed her soft cheek against my shoulder as we walked and whispered, as though she could keep silent no longer, and yet as if she swooned for shame in breaking silence, "Harry, Harry, I liked the way you thrust them aside when they were rude with you to do me a service, and, Harry, you are stronger, and—and—than them all."

Then I knew, with such a shock of joy that I wonder I lived, that the child loved me, but I knew at the same time as never I had known it before my love for her.

"Mistress Mary," I said, "I but did my duty and my service, which you can always count upon, and I did no more than others would have done. Sir Humphrey Hyde"—

But she flung away from me at that with a sudden movement of amazement and indignation and hurt, which cut me to the quick. "Yes," she said, "yes, Master Wingfield, truly I believe that Sir Humphrey Hyde would do me any service that came in his way, and truly he is a brave lad. I have a great esteem for Humphrey—I have a greater esteem for Humphrey than for all the rest—and I care not if you know it, Master Wingfield."

So saying, she called to the bearers of her chair and would have a slave assist her to it instead of me, and rode in silence the rest of the way, I following, walking my horse, who pulled hard at his

GOT NO HELP FROM DOCTORS

Afflicted for Years With Neuralgia Backache and Insomnia—Though Mrs. Hamilton's Case Was Serious She Was Cured by

DR. PITCHER'S BACKACHE-KIDNEY TABLETS.

As another striking evidence of the power of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets to cure diseases where other remedies, and even doctors' treatment has failed, we cite the cure of Mrs. Andrew Hamilton, Port Robinson, Ont., who gives the story of her case as follows:

"Words fail to express the high opinion I have of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. For some years I suffered from a distressing backache which would usually begin in the fall of the year, and continue until, for weeks at a time, I was completely prostrated. I frequently had headache and neuralgia, pains accompanying it and a poor appetite.

"My whole system seemed to become affected, and my nerves so unstrung that I could not sleep. I was certainly very miserable. I tried doctors' treatment, but gave it up, as it did not help me. The various patent medicines I used, likewise proved ineffectual.

"I happened to get hold of one of Dr. Pitcher's pamphlets, and after reading it, decided to try his Backache Kidney Tablets. I am glad I did so for they helped me from the start. After taking a few boxes I had complete immunity from pain, and the serious symptoms passed away, and living was once more a comfort. I can heartily recommend Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets as an ideal restorative."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are chocolate coated, small and easily taken. 50 Tablets in a vial. Price 50 cents, at druggists, or by mail. The Dr. Zina Pitcher Co., Toronto, Ont.

FOR several weeks we have been using large space in this paper to tell you about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, how they act on the system and why they are so successful in the cure of disease. To-day we produce the proof in the form of some letters which have just reached us from Prince Edward County, Ontario.

These letters appeal more especially to persons who have passed the prime of life and who find it difficult to keep the vitality up to the high-water mark, and so avoid pains and aches and derangements of the bodily organs.

Mr. Lawson's health became entirely shattered and broken up about a year ago, and eminent physicians, with whom he doctored for six months at great expense, declared they could do nothing for him. How thoroughly he has been restored by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is best told in the following letter :—

Had Resigned Himself to Death

MR. GEO. W. LAWSON, a farmer living near Consecon, and well and favourably known throughout Prince Edward County, Ont., writes :—

"About one year ago I was taken sick and felt myself failing every day. I consulted and doctored with several eminent physicians, but received no permanent benefit. In fact they told me they could do nothing for me except to afford temporary relief, as it was a general breaking up of old age. My nerves were exhausted, and my whole system completely broken up.

"I was just at death's door, and, thinking my time to die had come, I gave up hope and resigned myself to fate. At this time my wife read in the papers about some of the wonderful cures being brought about by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I began using it.

"This treatment helped me from the first, and I continued to keep it up for six months, when I was fully restored to health. To-day I am a well man, and made so by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food at a trifling cost. All this in spite of the fact that I spent a large sum of money with physicians only to be pronounced incurable. Though in my seventy-fifth year, I feel as well as I did at twenty, and can walk as smartly as any of the boys."

Mrs. Lawson's ailments were of a different nature and required different treatment. For years she had suffered greatly from rheumatism, resulting from habitual constipation and kidney disease. Her complete cure was effected by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Suffered From Rheumatism

MRS. GEO. W. LAWSON, Consecon, Ont., writes :—"It is a pleasure for me to state that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills made a well woman of me, completely curing me of constipation, rheumatism, stomach troubles and a very severe Kidney trouble after years of suffering. I am now sixty-eight years of age and very grateful for what Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have done for me and for the remarkable cure of my husband by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

We have been told by a resident of Consecon that these are the most remarkable cures that have been brought about in that vicinity for many years, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawson are most enthusiastic over the remarkable results they have obtained by the use of Dr. Chase's medicines.

Endorsed by the Justice of Peace

MR. P. O. BEECH, Justice of the Peace and ex-Warden of Prince Edward County, Consecon, Ont., certifies :—"Mr. Geo. W. Lawson is a well-to-do farmer, well known and influential in this and adjoining counties. Both he and Mrs. Lawson are members of the Methodist Church here. I have read over their statements of cures by the use of Dr. Chase's medicines and believe them to be truthful and correct."

We have on file in these offices thousands of such letters as these from sincere, grateful people, who feel that they owe health and happiness and in many cases life itself to the use of Dr. Chase's medicines.

This is the evidence we offer you, and we believe there can be no stronger proof of the exceptional merit of these great discoveries of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous Receipt Book author.

These medicines are for sale by all dealers, and will be sent postpaid on receipt of price by Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, 25 cents a box, 5 boxes for $1.00.

$1,000 WILL BE DONATED TO CHARITY IF THE ABOVE TESTIMONIALS ARE NOT GENUINE AND CORRECT AND ON FILE IN THESE OFFICES.

MAHOGANY FURNITURE.

Proper Method by Which to Beautify and Preserve It.

Here is the way to clean mahogany as it was cleaned in the beginning and is cleaned now by the dealers who make a life study of the art of preserving this wood.

Don't be afraid of water.

Get a bucket filled with warm, clear water, and take a sponge and wash down the piece as though it were a horse. Wipe the water off with a perfectly dry piece of cheesecloth. Take a clean scrubbing brush, a cheap five cent one, and go in all the cracks of the carving and get out every particle of dust. If your scrubbing brush has been soaked in water and is soft it is that much better. When you have thoroughly wiped off every bit of the water and left the wood dry get your tin can of turpentine and linseed oil, two-thirds turpentine to one-third oil. Mix it slowly and well. Dip into it with a large, round, soft paint brush and go over every piece of the wood in and out of the carving as though you were painting.

Then take a clean piece of chamois and rub gently, persistently and continuously.

It is quite easy to wash and simply paint the wood with the oil and turpentine, but the art of the thing comes in the gentle, steady, watchful polishing.

One streak of the oil left in beads on the grain of the wood catches enough dust to produce a cloudy surface at once.

Don't think hard, vigorous rubbing is needed. Don't put out your strength in violent strokes. Keep it for patiently administered rubbing.

When this is all finished, your mahogany will look like new.

If this is done once a month by yourself or a well trained servant you can go [illegible] way rejoicing, knowing [illegible] are keeping your mahogany in good enough shape to become heirlooms.

LOCAL COMPANY IS PROSPEROUS

Peterborough Cement Roofing Company Doing Big Business.

The Peterborough Cement Roofing Company is one of those concerns enjoying a large measure of prosperity. This enterprise was launched one year ago, and last season alone they sold ten squares to every one of any other kind, and the prospects for this summer indicates that the material manufactured by this firm is regarded as ranking among the best. Last week the company shipped a car load, containing 50 barrels, to Winnipeg, and quite a large order was received recently from Fenelon Falls, Brantford, Midland and other towns and cities have called for large quantities. In Peterborough alone, last season fifteen hundred squares were applied. The roofing is exceedingly well adapted to all kinds of buildings, as is evident from the fact that much of the work was done upon business blocks, residences and large barns. The outlook is exceedingly bright, and it is expected that this year's output will be three times as large as that of last year. The material is entirely fireproof and possesses all the qualities of superior roofing.

The company's plant is situated in the 5th ward, and the office is in the Bank of Commerce building. Mr. Geo. Maitland is the sole agent for Peterborough.

THE POSTMASTER TELLS HIS SECRET

His Health Mainly Due to the Use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Postmaster Lee Looks Ten Years Younger Than His Seventy-Six Years and He Gives the Credit to the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Tabusintac, Cumberland Co., N. B., April 7. — (Special.) — Horatio J. Lee, postmaster here, is now in his seventy-sixth year, but so bright and healthy does he look and so energetic is he in his movements that no would easily pass for ten years younger.

"How do I keep young looking," the postmaster says. "Well, I attribute it largely to my good health, and my health is mainly due to the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I first learned the value of this Kidney Remedy some years ago. I was then suffering from Kidney Disease. My feet and legs swelled and I had to rise eight or ten times in the night because of urinary troubles. Six boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills restored my health at that time and I have used them at intervals since.

"To anyone afflicted with Kidney Trouble, I say 'Dodd's Kidney Pills are all right.' Try them and you will be sure to find a benefit."

LARGE AUDIENCE HEARD ESSAY

Miss Vivian Donoghue's Paper on Father Isaac Jogues.

A Delightful Evening at St. Peter's Literary Association Meeting.

The regular fortnightly meeting of the Ladies' Literary Association of St. Peter's T. A. S., was held last evening, when Miss Vivian Donoghue delighted a large audience by her excellent essay on "Father Isaac Jogues, the Jesuit Maryr of the Mohawk Mission."

Miss Donoghue handled her lecture in a very clever manner, and held the attention of her audience throughout. Her paper was well worthy of the many congratulatory expressions that she received after her reading.

The essayist introduced her subject by a few remarks on the Jesuit missionaries, who, armed with naught but the breviary and the cross, pierced the virgin forest of that land and planted therein the seeds of divine faith. The first explorers were missionaries, who, fired with the double purpose of exploration and religion, traced the course of our great lakes and rivers, bearing to the benighted children upon their shores and banks the Gospel of Christ. Canada from shore to shore received its first impulse of Christianity, its first impulse of civilization, its first impulse of national life, from missionary priests of the Catholic Church. The Christianizing and civilizing torch of truth was borne into the darkest recesses of the forest by the hand of hero, saint, martyr, who never faltered nor hesitated to purchase the triumph of the cross at the cost of their own sufferings and lives.

Father Isaac Jogues was portrayed as a type of these heroic Jesuit martyrs. His life was cleverly dealt with from his boyhood in sunny France, his education at the Jesuit Colleges of Orleans and Paris, his ordination to the priesthood, and his coming to the wilds of the New World. The hardships he endured in a voyage in a frail bark canoe from Quebec to the Huron missions, the treatment meted to him by the people he was trying to benefit, the sufferings of one so sensitive and so refined, in the dreadful abominations of the savage camp, were graphically described.

The essayist followed the life work of the noble man of God back again to Quebec, to be captured by the fierce Iroquois, taken prisoner to a Mohawk village, cruelly tortured by the frenzied Indians, rescued by the Dutch, and finally his most cruel martyrdom. Reference was made to the beautiful shrine at Auriesville, N. Y., overlooking the spot where our Christian hero suffered martyrdom.

On the whole Miss Donoghue's paper was carefully prepared and showed considerable literary skill.

Miss O'Connell presided at last night's meeting and a splendid programme added to the enjoyment of the evening. Misses Mamie and Edith Connor played a well rendered duet, "La Chasse aux Gazelles." Little Miss Alma Levasseur delighted the audience by her recitation, and had to respond to an encore. Master M. Clementi recited in splendid voice two delightful selections.

The next meeting will be held on Friday, April 28th.

ST. Luke's Men's Guild Minstrels. Larger, better, grander than ever. 5th Ward Town Hall, April 27th, '05 Admission 25 cents. Hold the date.

"THE DAYLIGHT STORE"

SMART DRESSERS

Young men are as a general thing the smartest dressers.

The up-to-the-moment young man is a sort of a lexicon of clothes style, and correctness. He knows what's what and gets it.

But good fit, the newest colours, patterns, etc. aren't enough; for unless that snappy, jaunty appearance characteristic of our excellent Tailor Made Clothing is there, it is not what the young man wants. Our success in pleasing young men is not just "luck". It's due to our knowledge of what the young man wants and our ability to provide it for him.

Our spring stock is now complete and prices always reasonable. Did you ever notice how many young men come here for their clothes? There's a reason for it.

Boston

It's the inside of the Boston Shoes you should know about. And that's what we are always glad to show you. Only superior oak-tanned soles are used in Bostons. We can show you honest stitching, smooth linings, solid sole leather insoles and heel stiffenings and toe boxes.

In the purchase of Boston Shoes the price is the almost insignificant.

A new Spring Shoe that duplicates the latest London style. The "BOSTON" is a particularly fine example of the painstaking Boston way of reproducing every line and curve of a high-cost custom shoe.
